"Parents are so busy making a living, they are losing something in the family unit. They are spending less quality time with their children," he said.

Celia Steinhauer, 19 a fashion retailing student, said, "My mother's career has made me independent. If she didn't work, I don't think I would be as agressive. Most parents who stay at home don't let kids grow. My mother went back to school. THa let me see just how important school really is. Most people do a job, and that's it. They don't want to hear about working overtime. Like my mother, I give 100 percent to my job. My work is not going to suddenly become secondary," she said.

According to Turner, women who do what they are happiest doing have a positive effect on their children. Women who are doing something that they are unhappy doing in the work place or in the home, affect their children in a negative manner, she said.

NASA proposes peek at Halley's Comet

By WARREN E. LEARY
AP Science

WASHINGTON — The United States is proposing an international space mission that would send a spacecraft to Halley's Comet and then chase another one across the sky.

The National Aeronautics and Space Administration said yesterdaythe four-year mission to the comets Halley and Tempel Two would return the first closeup pictures of these dazzling bodies and significantly increase man's knowledge of the phenomena.

Although the project has not yet been approved by Congress, the space agency asked scientists to propose experiments so more detailed planning could begin.

The spacecraft would be launched by the space shuttle in July 1985 to coincide with the long-anticipated return of Halley's Comet, last seen by observers on Earth in 1910.

Halley's is the most famous comet, a cold collection of ice, gases and dust which goes around the sun about once every 75 years. As it approaches the sun, it heats up and trails a tail of dust and gas millions of miles long.

The mission calls for the craft to fly by Halley in November 1985 and launch an instrument-carrying probe to the head of the comet. This vehicle would sample comet material and make closeup pictures as it passed within 930 miles of the dense nucleus in the head.

After passing within 81,000 miles of Halley, the main craft would swing off to rendezvous with Tempel Two, a smaller comet that orbits the sun every 5.2 years.

The spacecraft would close in on Tempel Two a couple of years later and could be brought to within 30 miles of its nucleus.

The campus is reflected in the windows of the empty library. (Photo by Bill Lewis)

Inside Arcticwear is the magic that keeps you warm outside.

Thanks to Arcticwear, you don't have to resemble a blimp to stay warm. The styles and colors are as exciting and diverse as the fashions you see in summer.

Look for the Arctic Cat Head emblem. It's your assurance that you're getting the quality, warmth, durability and style available only from Arcticwear.

the Cat
It's Black Magic

Jp to 50% reductions on last year's ArcticWear

Pioneer
HARLEY-DAVIDSON/SUZUKI
Rtes 5 & 10, Bernardston, Mass.
(413) 648 9302 01337

PRECISION HAIRCUTS

Includes:
FIRST—a professional consultation
SECOND—a precision style cut selected individually just for you
THIRD—our stylists will show you how to take care of your hair

All for $5.50
with this coupon only

With personal style cut, shampoo and blow dry $8.00, long hair slightly more.
With this coupon only, limited to new customers only

Try our special deluxe FACIAL TREATMENT now $8. reg.$12

Styles by Deborah I & II

65 University Dr. Amherst, MA 549-5610
Surmack
62 Main St. Easthampton, MA 527-2411

Watch the sun go down at the T.O.C. Happy Hour

A career in law—without law school.

After just three months of study at The Institute for Paralegal Training in exciting Philadelphia, you can have a stimulating and rewarding career in law or business — without law school.

As a lawyer's assistant you will be performing many of the duties traditionally handled only by attorneys. And at The Institute for Paralegal Training, you can pick one of seven different areas of law to study. Upon completion of your training, The Institute's unique Placement Service will find you a responsible and challenging job in a law firm, bank or corporation in the city of your choice.

The Institute for Paralegal Training is the nation's first and most respected school for paralegal training. Since 1970, we've placed over 2,500 graduates in over 85 cities nationwide.

If you're a senior of high academic standing and looking for an above average career, contact your Placement Office for an interview with our representative.

We will visit your campus on:

WEDNESDAY, NOVEMBER 28

The Institute for Paralegal Training
operated by Paralegal, Inc.
235 South 17th Street
Philadelphia, PA 19103
(215) 732-6600

Approved by the American Bar Association.

Thanksgiving Stock - Up Sale
We Have Everthing For Your Holiday Dinner

ARMOUR VERIBEST PORK
EXTRA LEAN NO BLADE BONE

4-6 LBS AVG RIB ROAST LB $1.17
4-6 LBS AVG LOIN ROAST LB $1.29
CENTER CUT ROAST LB $1.49
CENTER CUT CHOPS LB $1.49
CUT YOUR WAY WHOLE LOINS LB $1.29

IMPORTED KRAKUS CANNED HAM 3 LB CAN $6.99

WE ARE TAKING ORDERS FOR FRESH NATIVE GLEN SHAW TURKEYS
THESE ARE THE FINEST TURKEYS- RAISED IN PELHAM
GLEN SHAW TURKEYS ARE SO GOOD THAT THEY ARE THE ONLY TURKEYS WE HAVE CARRIED FOR OVER 30 YEARS

ALSO ORDER YOUR CAPONS, ROASTING CHICKENS, GEESE & DUCKS.

USDA CHOICE PORTERHOUSE STEAK LB $2.49
SWIFT PREMIUM SKINLESS FRANKS LB PKG 99¢
USDA CHOICE T-BONE STEAK LB $2.49
USDA CHOICE CUBE STEAK CUT FROM ROUND LB $2.29

COUPONS

WITH COUPON & $7.50 PURCHASE OR MORE EXCLUDING CIGARETTES LU90
PURE VEGETABLE WESSON OIL 24 OZ 89¢
VALID THRU NOV 17 LIMIT ONE AT LOUIS FOODS

WITH COUPON & $7.50 PURCHASE OR MORE EXCLUDING CIGARETTES LU91
KRAFT ITALIAN DRESSING 8 OZ 39¢
VALID THRU NOV 17 LIMIT ONE AT LOUIS FOODS

WITH COUPON & $7.50 PURCHASE OR MORE EXCLUDING CIGARETTES LU92
DOMINO 10X - DARK & LIGHT BROWN BAKING SUGARS 16 OZ FREE
VALID THRU NOV 17 LIMIT ONE AT LOUIS FOODS

WITH COUPON & $7.50 PURCHASE OR MORE EXCLUDING CIGARETTES LU93
NABISCO SNACK CRACKERS WHEAT THINS OR TRISCUITS 8 OZ PKG 49¢
VALID THRU NOV 17 LIMIT ONE AT LOUIS FOODS

WITH COUPON & $7.50 PURCHASE OR MORE EXCLUDING CIGARETTES LU94
PILLSBURY PIE CRUST MIX 11 OZ FREE
VALID THRU NOV 17 LIMIT ONE AT LOUIS FOODS

NABISCO CHIPS AHOY COOKIES 13 OZ 99¢
KEEBLER SNACK CRACKERS WHEAT-RYE SESAME TOAST 9 OZ 79¢

HOOD EGG NOG ½ GAL $1.69
MRS SMITHS PUMPKIN PIE 26 OZ 99¢
BREYERS ALL NAT. ICE CREAM ½ GAL $1.89

ALL NATURAL CAINS MAYONNAISE 32 OZ $1.19

CHEER 50¢ OFF LABEL LAUNDRY DETERGENT 171 OZ $4.99

ROYAL ALL FLAVORS GELATIN DESSERTS 6 OZ 39¢

OXFORD KOSHER DILL SPEARS 24 OZ 79¢

FRESH CIDER
½ GAL $1.09 GAL $1.99

EXCELLENT FOR DRESSING OR ROASTING
ITALIAN CHESTNUTS LB 89¢

Crown Point by ANCHOR HOCKING

This Week's Special 39¢ Iced Tea

SPECIAL SAVINGS EACH WEEK ON FEATURED ITEMS

SPECIALS EFFECTIVE: NOV 12 THRU 17, 1979

Louis FINE FOODS
N. PLEASANT ST., AMHERST, MASS

Around campus

Final exam schedules to be printed tomorrow

The Collegian will publish the final exam schedule in tomorrow's paper. The exam period begins Tuesday, Dec. 18 and ends Saturday, Dec. 22. According to a statement from the Scheduling Office, students with conflicting scheduling of more than two exams in one day should report to the Scheduling Office in the Whitmore Administration Building. The memo also said instructors will not know where the exams will take place until after Nov. 27.

In other administrative matters, a supplement to the Course Description Guide, published last spring, will be available on the Campus Center Concourse today.

Nukes and women subject of forum

"Nuke Technology and the Oppression of Women," an evening of discussion, will be held tonight at 8 at the Common Womon Club, 68 Masonic Street, Northampton.

★ SWAT

CONT. FROM PAGE 1

in the bathrooms and lounges, then they have no right to be there and can't claim an exemption under the plain view doctrine."

There were no arrests by the "SWAT" teams last weekend but they did confiscate some illegal items.

The other exception, DiMare said, is "hot pursuit," which allows an officer to chase an individual into a building or room.

He also said the first and fourth amendments apply only to the federal government, but the fourteenth amendment would make them applicable to individual states.

He said students may pick up affadavits from the Student Government Association offices in the Student Union, and said he would encourage a lawsuit if the University fails to take further action to prevent patrols. He said the case would take a year or two to resolve, and would be tried before a jury in the federal courts. Students would be entitled to seek an injunction prohibiting future patrols, he said, as well as monetary compensation for damages.

University officials said last week patrols into the buildings would be discontinued unless police are called.

★ CATE

CONT. FROM PAGE 1

Egan accused several departments of mishandling the evaluations, saying, "Some evaluations are lost, misplaced, and not done in time."

Sleigh, Egan and Murphy all agreed that having students sign their evaluations is not a good solution. "Student input can't simply be a matter of signed evaluations," Sleigh said, since it would put an "unreasonable burden" on the students.

"If students are forced to sign evaluations, you're going to get biased evaluations," Egan said. He added that the possibility of taking another course with the same teacher could influence evaluations, stifling criticisms or promoting "brownnosing."

Student evaluations are currently used by the administration to decide personnel actions; by faculty as feedback to helo them find their weaknesses and improve their teaching; and by students, to help in making course selections. The faculty, administration and students agree that using the same evaluation for three different purposes can lead to problems.

Sleigh said the aims of the three groups don't always fit together.

Inner Space

FREE PACK of PAPERS with this ad! Lowest Prices on headgear in the valley

57 E. Pleasant St. Inside Paul's Old Time Furniture

BETA WORD PROCESSING CENTER

584-4247

We are a Typing Service

thornes marketplace 150 main st. (3rd floor) northampton ma 01060

WHERE THE PRINTED WORD COMES ALIVE AND GROWS

We Specialize in:

ROUGH DRAFTS

only 50¢ per page

Sale
Going Out of Business

X-C Skis & Ski Equipment all ½ price
(Skis now $20.63 & up)

Bikes 10% off regular price on all new bikes
Selected Specials on Pro Bike equipment & clothing

HURRY! We are running out of everything.

Amherst Cycle Shop
253 Triangle Street

Behind Commonwealth Federal Bank. Use REAR ENTRANCE, due to construction in front of building

10-5:30 Tues-Sat 549-3729

SPECIAL
California Wine Sale

The Following Wines Have All Won High Awards At This Year's Prestigio Los Angeles County Fair

1978 Parducci Chardonnay $5.69 Silver Medal

1977 Estrella River Cabernet Sauvignon $7.75 Gold Medal

1978 Pedroncelli Zinfandel Rose $2.75 Gold Medal

1978 Parducci French Colombard $3.35 Gold Medal

1978 Dry Creek Sauvignon Blanc $6.29 Gold Medal

All Prices Effective Thru Thanksgiving
Come In and Look at the Complete List of Award Winners

C & C Liquor
61 Main St.
Amherst
253-3091

ALL IT TAKES IS ONE VISIT TO JAN'S AT LESNOWS

Discover an authentic factory outlet for designer and nationally advertised brands of better ladies' and mens' coats and outerwear, ladies' sportswear, suits, dresses and designer jeans.

ALL AT LOW, LOW FACTORY PRICES THAT ARE 30% to 50% BELOW NORMAL RETAIL PRICES.

Shop and compare our great selections and prices and you will be convinced that JAN'S offers you the best and newest for less.

JAN'S AT LESNOWS

Phone for Easy Directions (413) 547-0782

148 PLEASANT ST., EASTHAMPTON, MASS.

OPEN: Wed., Thurs., Fri. 11 am to 9 pm
Sun. 11 am to 6 pm

Join Us for Breakfast at the TOC Restaurant

7:00 A.M.-9:00 A.M.
Monday-Friday

Fall means back to friends... back together

This fall make a great impression with a precision haircut shaped especially for you . . . then step stylishly into fall fashion and be a winner.

GREAT EXPECTATIONS® PRECISION HAIRCUTTERS

$10. COMPLETE
Shampoo, precision cut, blow dry styling
HAMPSHIRE MALL

Ted's campaign follows in fraternal footsteps

By JIM MORAN
Collegian Staff

In announcing his presidential candidacy last week, Sen. Edward M. Kennedy made a departure from the campaigns launched by his brothers, John and Robert, for the nation's highest office by choosing Boston as the site for the "media event." His fraternal predecessors had begun their White House ambitions from speeches given in the Senate Caucus Room of the Capitol.

But the methods and philosophies in this most recent extension of the Camelot legacy remain the same — commitment to in-person, handshaking politics and a faith in government as a "problem solver" for the ills of society.

On the issues, Kennedy makes his ties with the past well known. When he spoke of the devalued American dollar and an economy where our nation is held "hostage to their products," Kennedy reiterated the pursuit of the Great American Dream of wealth and prestige over other nations. When the senator said, "Let us make clear that we stand always ready to be a partner, but that we shall never be a victim," he was echoing the speech given by President John Kennedy in 1961: "We shall never negotiate out of fear, but we shall never fear to negotiate." Rational, but sounding like Cold War rhetoric.

From the standpoint of domestic politics, Kennedy retains his brother Bobby's passion for helping the disadvantaged. "I have a different view of the highest office in the land — a view of a forceful, effective Presidency, in the thick of the action, at the center of all the great concerns our people share," Kennedy said. He then proceeded to talk of workers "forced" to obtain additional employment for supplemental income, of families unable to pay education costs, and he cited statistics indicating the poorest 10 percent of the population pays 119 percent of their income for necessities.

Kennedy again made a pitch for his national health insurance program, a program which he says will "guarantee that the desperation of serious illness shall not be aggravated by the fear of financial ruin."

While President Carter holds a view more consistent with the classical liberalist, "laissez faire" school of thought — with its oil decontrol measures and zero-based budgeting programs speaking for it — Kennedy opts for a New Deal philosophy. "We must develop more effective answers in such areas as education and jobs, especially for the young now entering the world of work," Kennedy said.

On civil rights, Kennedy's remarks contained a veiled reference to conservative backlash over affirmative action — i.e. the Bakke case: "Government must take active responsibility to guarantee that opportunity is neither diminished nor denied for any Americans because they are women, or because they are black, or because they were born to the Spanish tongue."

Though the crowd attending Kennedy's kickoff was predominantly supportive, there was some discontent with the candidate's voting record, indicating the emphasis on "single issue" politics today. Pro-lifers held signs denouncing the senator as a "babykiller." Anti-busing people protested, one sign reading "We Can't Afford Kennedy." Anti-nukers also gathered to protest the senator's sponsorship of Senate Bill 1722, a reworking of the old S-1, which would recodify the nation's criminal justice procedures. Such legislation, the demonstrators claim, would make illegal such actions as anti-nuke demonstrations, by broadening "the category of what constitutes a conspiracy," according to Glen Rosselli of the Boston Clamshell Alliance.

After Kennedy's speech, the candidate and his entourage moved outside to shake hands with the crowd. In his company was Chicago Mayor Jane Byrne, who had endorsed him the previous week. What seemed to be the prevailing attitude of the bystanders was that they were attending an historical event.

When Kennedy had gone, one young girl said to her friend: "Did you see him? He touched me, he touched me!"

Number of college women rising

By RANDOLPH E. SCHMID
Assciated Press

WASHINGTON — Women are significantly narrowing the enrollment gap with men at the nation's colleges, according to a new Census Bureau report.

The study, released yesterday, reports that in 1970 men attending college outnumbered women by 1.4 million, but by 1978 that lead had shrunk to an estimated 410,000.

Two-year colleges have been a significant factor in this increase, the report said, with many people choosing to attend these schools on a part-time basis.

"Apparently, the growth of enrollment in two-year colleges, especially among older female students, is a result of their locations, scheduling, and orientation of courses toward the students who had other full-time or part-time responsibilities such as a job or family," the bureau reported.

The bureau said the number of men enrolled in these schools remained about the same between 1970 and 1978, while the number of women enrolled full time grew 48 percent and female part-time students increased 144 percent.

Women also made sharp gains in graduate school attendance with enrollment doubling between 1970 and 1978, while male attendance grew 21 percent in the same time.

STADIUM

U. Mass. Amherst

LIQUORS

KEGS-BEER-WINE-LIQUORS

10 A.M.-11 P.M. 253-5595

University Drive, Amherst, Mass.
Just past UMass Stadium, from SW dorms

SPECIALS

MILLER 12 os. cans or bottles. . . . . 7.49 case 2.10 six
BUD 12 oz. cans or bottles. . . . . 7.49 case 2.10 six
MOLSON. . . . . 9.90 case 2.50 six
OLD MILWAKEE 12 pack cans. $2.89
TUBORG GOLD 12 oz. bottles. . . . . $6.99 case $2.00 six
O'KEEFE CANADIAN ALE. . . . $9.75 case $2.50 six
SS PIERCE VODKA 1.75 l. $7.95
GILBEY'S GIN. . . . . 1.75 l $10.39
JIM BEAM. . . . . 1.75 l $11.59
MATEUS ROSE 750 ml. 3.29
BLUE NUN LIEBFRAUMILCH 750 ml. 3.59
ALMADEN Chablis, Rose, Burgandy 3 liter. 5.59
CARLO ROSSI WINE Chablis, Rose, Burgandy 3 liter 4.95
GALLO WINE. . . . . $2.49 fifth
FRENCH COLUMBARD Rose, Chenin Blanc. . . . . 1.75 liter $3.95 carafe
Mr. Boston PEPPERMINT SCHNAPPS $5.19 qt.

The Holyoke Police Department
Needs Minority Candidates to Fill 14 projected openings in the Holyoke Police Department

To qualify for employment with the Police Department, you must sign up now to take the Police Civil Service Test of December 1, 1979.
Last date for applications is November 13.

Special training classes on how to take the Police Civil Service Test will start November 19-30, 1979 at local sites.

To sign up for the classes and the test contact:

Office of Compliance
Room 402
City Hall Annex
Holyoke, Mass.
536-8222
536-8223
Ext. 36

Holyoke Police Dept.
City Hall Annex
536-6431

South Holyoke Development Corp.
344 Main St.
Holyoke, Mass.
532-1406

Iran:

UMass professor urges students 'to think in terms of human life'

The last eight days, since 60 Americans were taken hostage in Tehran, have been a nerve-wracking ordeal for the American people, the Iranian people and many people all over the world. In addition to the news about the tense situation in Iran, we have been watching on television and hearing on the radio of incidents that reflect unhealthy ultranationalistic sentiments. To my distress, I see that these sentiments find expression on many university campuses.

Fortunately, on our campus at UMass this polarization between American and Iranian students is not as acute as it is on some other campuses. I hope that some of the regrettable incidents occurring on other campuses will not "inspire" students on this campus.

I share the deep concern of the American people, the American administration, the Holy Pope, the leadership of the Palestine Liberation Organization and the different governments in this world for the lives of the 60 Americans held hostage in Iran. In addition, I would like to voice firmly a deep concern that, to the best of my knowledge, has not been voiced by the American administration, the American people, the Pope the leadership of the Palestine Liberation Organization, or the various member states of the United Nations: this concern is for the lives of the thousands of Iranian people who surround the American Embassy in Tehran, and for the lives of the 200 to 300 other Americans who presently live in Iran and who have not been taken as hostages.

The remotest possibility of an American military solution as "a last resort" scares me. Such a solution will not only result in the certain death of the 60 American people taken hostage, but it wil also result in the certain death of many of the other Americans living in Iran, and in the certain death of thousands, if not tens of thousands, of Iranian people who surround the embassy.

Even if the American military were able to save some of the Americans held hostage, no conscientious human being would want to see such a "Heroic Rescue" at the expense of so many human lives.

I call upon the American and Iranian students on this campus and other campuses to think in terms of human life and to stop thinking in terms of "we" and "they" or "us" and "them". I plead with you, every student at UMass, to refrain from any ultranationalistic chauvanistic confrontation. Such confrontations should be replaced by constructive dialogue, the goal of which is the sparing of human life: Iranian human life as well as American human life.

Dr. George N. Saad
Professor of Arabic
Near Eastern Studies

To raise my ice-cream

Eric Janszen

I haven't been to Just Deserts in a long time. It's not that the ice-cream is bad, actually it's pretty good, though badly overpriced. The problem is that the last time I was there someone tried to raise my consciousness.

It all started after I'd sat down with my ice-cream and grumbled aloud that in the Valley Advocate I was reading, as in previous editions I'd read, most of the articles implied that my food, clothing and shelter are available only as a result of various corporations' failure to starve, expose, and dislocate me.

"I think you're operating at a low level of consciousness," the man offered, jabbing his mocha almond with a tiny, plastic spoon. I might have ignored this but since I had, in effect, chosen his company by sitting with him at one of the pitifully small, round, tables, I felt obliged to respond.

"What?" I asked (True, it wasn't a very pointed response). "You aren't very aware...saying that about the Advocate. You have a low level of consciousness, you know?" he explained.

I smiled.

The guy brought back memories of last summer when I'd sit along Pacific Avenue in Santa Cruz, in the midst of the California, chic politicos.

"Not really," I said, stuffing a bite of chocolate chip ice-cream into my mouth, "You mean I'm only partially conscious?"

"Well, sort of," my deponent said, "You aren't conscious of things happening on a certain level..."

"Wait a second," I interrupted, "Let's get this consciousness thing straight. Either you're conscious or you're not, right? If you're unconscious then you are probably asleep or in a wrecked car, or lying in an alley or a hospital. But if you're conscious then, hell, you could be anywhere. You could be in a library or on a basketball court or an airplane, but definitely not in a journalism class. So if you're conscious, you are conscious somewhere and where you are conscious has everything to do with what you are conscious of; so just because I'm not conscious of the same things you are doesn't mean I have less or a lower level of consciousness. Right?" I asked, pointing to his nose with my own tiny, plastic spoon.

He stared at me and said, "But like you said, we're conscious of different things and I just think you're unaware...of some important things." I winced a bit. My spoon had stuck to my ice-cream in a serious way. When I pulled on it, it bowed like spaghetti.

"Look," I said, "The things I'm conscious of are important to me, and maybe they're not important to you, like that you've been jabbing me with your knees under this pitifully small table constantly for the last five minutes, for instance. But if you want me to think that what is important is what you happen to think is important, well, that's your problem."

The guy looked hurt but I didn't apologize. I left instead, tossing my half-empty, paper dish into the trash on the way out. I might go back some day...for the ice-cream, if I'm feeling affluent. But when I sit down I'll be careful not to say anything about the Advocate or anything about politics or nuclear power. I won't attempt to discuss them there, not with such a low level of guilty consciousness.

Eric Janszen is a Collegian commentator

Editorial/Opinion

Silkwood: 5 years later

Gina Gemmato

Today marks the fifth anniversary of the death of Karen Silkwood. Killed while on her way to deliver evidence of safety violations to a union investigator and a New York Times reporter, she is the first American to die while trying to raise alarm about the dangers of nuclear power.

Karen Silkwood trusted Kerr-McGee, the country's largest uranium producer and pioneer in the plutonium field, when she was hired by the corporation as a lab technician in 1972. Her feelings changed when leaky gaskets and faulty equipment caused the 150 workers at the plant to inhale plutonium dust.

By late September, 1974, after a series of other accidents at the plant, Silkwood agreed to become a spy for the Oil, Chemical, and Atomic Workers International (OCAW). She conducted investigations on three incidents: safety violations, falsifying of quality control records, and a discovery that 40-60 pounds of plutonium (enough for 5 Nagasaki bombs, commanding $10 million or more on the international black market) were missing from Kerr-McGee's inventory.

Plutonium was discovered in Silkwood's apartment on November 7 after she reported for work with unexplained radioactivity on her hands and face. Radiation inspectors surveyed her home and found most of the contamination on the contents of the refrigerator including bologna and cheese, and in the bedroom and bathroom. Silkwood, her boyfriend, and her roomate were briefly hospitalized for radiation poisoning.

On Nov. 13, 1974, on her way to deliver her findings about the Kerr-McGee Corporation her car veered off Highway 74 and hit a concrete culvert. She was pronounced dead on arrival at a nearby hospital.

Oklahoma police said that the death was due to an "asleep at the wheel" accident. But a private investigator hired by the OCAW found fresh dents in the rear of her car which he attributed to a wheeled assailent. The findings included in a folder and notebook in her car disappeared.

Two years later (November, 1976), Silkwood's parents filed a lawsuit against Kerr-McGee. The trial opened on March 6, 1979 with 4 Silkwood lawyers, and 6 Kerr-McGee lawyers. The case centered on whether the level of plutonium Karen Silkwood was exposed to both at work and at her home was indeed dangerous. Kerr-McGee leaned heavily on the government standards as a basis for defining how much a person can absorb without harm. The judge instructed the jury to consider the governmental standards as only one version of what might be safe.

After 10 weeks of testimony, and eight hours of closing arguments the jury of six private citizens decided to award the "Silkwood survivors" (Karen Silkwood's three children and parents) $10.5 million for the plutonium contamination. The appeal of this decision could last a year.

The Oklahoma State and City police, Kerr-McGee, and the F.B.I. also face suits claiming that Karen Silkwood was deprived of her civil rights because of their surveillance of her. The case was first appealed because a judge originally ruled that only minorities can sue under the civil rights act, and will come up again at the end of this year.

The Silkwood incident is very important because it shows the lengths that large corporations will go to make money, and the Silkwood trial has set a chain reaction of lawsuits. Residents near the Three Mile Island plant have filed 12 lawsuits, and Silkwood attorneys are already interviewing residents near the Rocky Flats Weapon Plant in Denver, Colorado, where cancer rates have been statistically confirmed as between 10 and 24 percent higher than the national average.

Gina Gemmato is a Collegian guest columnist

Terrorism not quite justified

In an article in last Thursday's New York Times Sean Patrick Walsh refers to: "...the dormant gaggle of critics whose sole interest in Irish politics is denigrating the Provisional Irish Republican Army."

Elved Owens

Critics who, he thinks, so easily forget that "one man's terrorist is another man's patriot." "Those who prattle about I.R.A. violence in English-occupied Ireland today, without calling for a just and legitimate resolution of the right of Irishmen to political independence," he continues, with grand scorn, "are either moral relativists or worse, obscurantists." Really getting into the swing of it he adds a side-swipe at "those who carp about the sectarian nature of the problem in Ireland."

'Dormant gaggle' (?), 'prattle', 'carp'; evidently nobody sleeps once Mr. Walsh gets into his stride. Having laid his eyes on the undoubted truth that the English have treated the Irish disgracefully throughout history he will not countenance any criticism of the I.R.A. The I.R.A. has reacted the only way left to it, he says, and it has done so in the shadow of a brutal English legacy. And that's that.

Mr. Walsh thinks it is "legitimate" to abhor violence but "...there are occasions when violence is justified," and as far as his view of the I.R.A. is concerned, "The motivation of the terrorist, not his methodology, is the distinguishing criterion." And he lists those past terrorists, like Menachem Begin, Sam Adams and George Washington whose causes, he believes, have been vindicated by posterity.

All good, meaty rhetoric I don't doubt, but if the English ever abandon Ireland I hope Mr. Walsh isn't given the job of smoothing the tempers of the Northern Ireland Protestants. Constituting two thirds of the population, this majority, which has shown its capacity to paralyze the province at the slightest whiff of policies it doesn't like, has voted consistently against unification with the South. I dearly wish the majority would change its mind -- it would simplify things enormously -- but ten years of violence have only stiffened its resolve.

As the London Observer noted recently: "The root cause of all the political violence in Ireland is the pressure from Irish Catholics towards a united Ireland, meeting with the refusal of Ulster Protestants to be incorporated as a minority in a Catholic-majority state. The friction of that pressure against that refusal generates the hatred and the cycle of violence."

Those Protestants who are fiercely pro-British are not simply going to melt away. And whilst I recognise the injustices which have been done to the Catholic minority in the North, I have yet to be told how the Protestants (in the event of a British withdrawal) are to have the rejection of their balloted views explained to them. There is no evidence on the ground, people say, for a belief that in such a situation the Protestants will turn to violence. I'm sure that in 1968 the same complacent argument was used against suggestions that the Catholics or the I.R.A. were getting ready to erupt. The argument probably hastened the eruption. And surely the troubles have shown that it takes relatively few, bitterly determined men to commit appalling acts with appalling cruelty.

If the British withdraw, someone -- Mr. Walsh? -- is going to have to respond to angry Protestant claims that 'one man's terrorist is another man's patriot'; that 'the motivation of the terrorist, not his methodology, is the distinguishing criterion.' If the Irish problem is ever solved it will not be by the man who merely recognises the grievances -- great as they are -- of the Northern Ireland Catholics; it will be by the man who also finds a way of convincing the Northern Ireland Protestants that the rejection of their electoral wish is not a grievance worth fighting for.

I don't believe that such a man exists, and confronted with the ranting of Sean Patrick Walsh, my hopes that one ever will, continue to fade.

Elved Owens is a Collegian columnist

The general rule

Both sides have what they've been looking for; a common enemy to unite behind and solidify their own lagging feelings of nationalism.

The United States economy has been slipping. Strange things happen when temperatures rise and the stomachs growl.

People hate.

Now for the time being the "collective hate" is geared towards the Iranian people. Last week the torrid anger was directed at the Jews, at the blacks, go back a little further and it was directed at the communists.

To dispel any beliefs that there is one "Iranian people" or one "American people" one only has to observe the situation on it's factual merits. At this university there are at least two groups of Iranians. The Iranian Moslem Students Association who do support the Ayotollah and the Sparticus Youth League who do not and are socialist oriented.

The Americans also seem diversified as to their stance. The American Nazi Party supports the Iranian students who are holding the 60 Americans hostage. Meanwhile, other Americans don't.

So let's all generalize. O.K.

It's really quite simple to do. Just pick an entire group of people. Now pick an isolated incident without taking into consideration any contextual framework and narrow-mindedly hate them.

Stephen Klein is the executive editor.

Letters

Southwest RA's speak

To the Editor:

As a result of the recent onslaught of police activity throughout the University community, and especially in the Southwest Residential Area, the function and goals of the Southwest Area Residential Staff have been increasingly undermined. As Resident Assistants we are paid to work cooperatively with other members of the Southwest Staff and the University Police to ensure a productive living environment for all students, without fear of racial, sexual, or any other form of oppression which would negatively influence student rights.

It has always been our understanding that the University Police would strive to perpetuate these same goals by providing support and assistance when the Residential Staff faced a problem which could not be rectified without police intervention. This belief is predicated upon the understanding that the police would not interfere in matters which could be easily and effectively handled by the Residential Staff.

Finally, please allow no member of your department to violate student rights by entering rooms without the proper legal documents or legitimate probable cause that a crime is taking place. By fulfilling these basic requests, the University Police may be able to restore its long held image of credibility and distinguished service, and effectively address the more dangerous problems which exist in Southwest and throughout the University. No student should have to live in fear of their physical safety or amidst residential vandalism; conversely, no student should have to live in fear of an overreactive Police Department.

Concerned Resident Assistants
Southwest Residential Area

[ED. NOTE — The preceding letter has been signed by the majority of resident assistants in the Southwest Residential Area. Copies are being sent to President Knapp, Chancellor Koffler, Vice-chancellor Madson, Director of Security O'Neil, chief of Police Joyce, Master Director of Southwest Miller, SGA co-Presidents Burke and LaVoice and the Collegian.

This is an edited version of the original letter.]

Spitting's in...

To the Editor:

A new sport has emerged on the scene. Actually, it's not new, but its participants have reached a feverish number. The sport- spitting. The new wave of participants appear quite expert in their field.

As a freshman, I remember the few competitors who shyly spit at their sport. The "closer spitters." Well, they are shy no more. Everyone is an expert, even the younger players (probably early training).

But, as with every sport, expertise means constant practice. And practice they do; in bathrooms, hallways, baskets (good for extra points), but my favorite place to watch performances is walking to classes. This also seems to be the best area for competition. Here the players can be seen competing in various categories: who can spit the most times, who can do it the farthest, the biggest, and of course, there are bonus points if a competitor can send one flying through the air with just enough speed and accuracy to hit a moving target.

Joanne L. Prosser
JQA

Lot's of hot air

To the Editor:

As to the rather harsh diagnosis John Masse has given his adversaries in the controversy over the cartoons in the Collegian, I feel an adjustment ought to be made. After examining the letter by Kathleen Baum and Denise Catellier, I have determined that the diagnosis is not dementia, as John Masse has found. Dementia is an irreversable deterioration of intellectual facilities with concommitant emotional disturbance resulting from organic brain disorder. For shame, John!

It is my opinion as a certified S.R.C. (Specialist in Reading Cartoons), that the correct diagnosis of the Baum-Catellier syndrome is not dementia, but wind-bag-itis. This disorder appears primarily among college students, and has symptoms ranging from writing protests to the Collegian about one's pedantic views, to (in the terminal stages) writing defenses of one's own misled protests for increased publicity. I find also that wind-bag-itis is a favorable disorder when it comes to the Collegian, for I understand the wind-bag page is a close second in entertainment value to the cartoons.

So my prescription to the Collegian-afflicted public is this: if you don't like the cartoons, read the wind-bag page. If you don't like the wind-bag page, write a letter and improve on its quality!

Steve Masse

Packies immune

To the Editor:

As a part time package store owner and close friend to the owner, I would like to correct James Gorman and his article in the Nov. 5th issue on "Fake I.D.'s scare packies."

The new law which went into effect on April 16, 1977, states that the liquor store is only liable for getting a valid Mass. state drivers license or liquor I.D. If the clerk can be fairly certain that the holder of the I.D. is the same as the person in the picture, then that holder is now responsible and the store no longer is. If that holder is caught with a fake I.D. by police, he can face a minimum $300 fine. Therefore the stores only required options are selling or refusing. If the manager chooses to call the police, it is his own decision.

Selling to minors purposely is an offense of the law, but accepting a fake I.D. (as long as it is one of the required I.D.'s) is no danger to the store owner. James Gorman's article was a total exaggeration of the facts, and misleading to the public.

Colin P. Young

Letters Policy

Due to space limitations, letters to the editor should be written as brief as is humanly possible. They should be TYPED at 67 characters across and triple spaced.

All the information contained on the editorial pages is the personal viewpoint of the author, and all unsigned editorials represent the viewpoint of the majority of the Board of Directors. Thank you—S.K.

Collegian

BOARD OF DIRECTORS

CAROL ROSENBERG, Editor-in-Chief; CHRISTOPHER H. SCHMITT, Managing Editor; LAURA P. BASSETT, Business Manager; FRAN T. BASCHE, News Editor; STEPHEN B. KLEIN, Executive Editor; LISA M.CAPONE, Women's Editor; MARCIA HOSPEDALES, Black Affairs Editor; AMIRA I. RAHMAN, Photo Editor; DEBRA ROTH, Arts Editor; MARK A. MARCHAND and STEVEN S. ZACK, Sports Editor, MARY B. KINNEAVY, Graphics Manager.

ASSOCIATE EDITORS

Julie Eagle, Pamela Lindmark, Carolyn Mooney, Beth Segers, Gayle Young, Associate Managing Editors; Sean Harvey, Robert E. Stein, Associate News Editors; Jack Gallagher, Associate Executive Editor; Debbie Wallace, Associate Women's Editor; Karen Thomas, Associate Black Affairs Editor; Paul Price, Associate Photo Editor; Ken Sands, Associate Arts Editor; Linda Reyer, Associate Sports Editor; Suzette Courtmanche, Associate Graphics Manager.

BUSINESS DEPARTMENT

Ken GrandPre, Advertising Manager; Joan Daly, Frederic Kellior, Assistant Advertising Managers; Dan Peterson, Circulation Manager; Howard Bass, Finance Manager.

The Collegian is the student newspaper of the University of Massachusetts. The staff is responsible for its content and no faculty member or administrators read it for accuracy or approval prior to publication.

Unsigned editorials represent the view of this paper. They do not necessarily reflect the views of the faculty, administration, or student body as a whole. Unsigned editorials, columns, reviews, cartoons, and letters represent the personal view of the authors.

The Collegian is a member of the Associated Press. Publication of their material does not constitute endorsement.

The Collegian strives to print only advertising which is truthful and complete, but final responsibility for all advertisers lie with the individual advertisers.

USPS 333-220

After eight hours of hard studying, 'Krumps' the Hamster rewards himself by crawling into a cold brew.
(Staff photo by J. Ferrarone)

Learn to Drive a Bus

Five College Transportation will sponsor a 3 Week Training Program during January Interterm for those interested in getting a Class II Bus Drivers License.
For more information and an interview appointment - call the Transportation Office (586-4262)
Deadline for applications is November 27, 1979

ON SALE!
LEOTARDS & TIGHTS
DANSKIN
Special price on any leotard or tight in stock! - Sale from Nov. 5 - Nov. 21
$1.00 OFF our already discounted price, for example, style no. 68 tights have a suggested retail price of $4.95 our regular price is only $3.95 with $1.00 off you pay only $2.95 comparable savings on other tights and leotards!
Hurry while the selection is good.
in the sportswear shop
campus center/umass
the UNIVERSITY STORE

whole wheat
PIZZA FACTORY
Introduces:
THE WORKS
Pepperoni, Onions, Mushrooms, GreenPeppers and Sausage
Regularly $8.00
From 5:00 - 10:00 only
7 days
$2.00 off
363 Main St. 256-8587

WIN A FREE SERVING OF COKE!
PLAY TRIVIA QUIZ!
Every card can win!
CAMPUS CENTER FOOD SERVICE
Coffee Shop, Bluewall Cafeteria
Hatch Cafeteria
TRIVIA QUIZ
EVERY CARD CAN WIN!
Correctly answer the Trivia Quiz Question on this card by scratching off one of the dots below. If "Right" appears, you win a free medium serving of Coca-Cola with your next purchase of any menu item.
Offer expires 11/21/79
Perry Mason's sidekick was:
Right
Next card one may win or lose
CAMPUS CENTER
Food Services
Coffee Shop, Hatch Cafeteria
Bluewall Cafeteria
Correctly answer the Trivia Quiz Question on the card by scratching off one of the dots.
If "Right" appears, you win a medium serving of Coca-Cola with your next purchase.
Game Ends 11/21/79
Coca-Cola and Coke are registered trade-marks which identify the same product of The Coca-Cola Company

CLASSICS HAND PAINTED Stoneware Dinnerware in 3 patterns
THIS WEEKS FEATURE: Coffee Cup 49¢ ea.
With ea. $3 food purchase
FREE FILM! all year long!
We'll give you a free roll of "Our Own" 110 or 126 color print film every time you bring in any brand of color print film for processing. Offer good through Saturday, January 12, 1980.

Stop & Shop Coupon M-28
With this coupon and a $7.50 purchase.
Save 50¢ Any three DURKEE SPICES OR EXTRACTS
Good Mon., Nov. 12 - Nov. 17. Limit one per customer.
Grocery 241

Stop & Shop Coupon M-27
With this coupon and a $7.50 purchase.
39¢ Super Moist. 18½oz. Pkg. BETTY CROCKER CAKE MIX Assorted Varieties
Good Mon., Nov. 12 - Nov. 17. Limit one per customer.
Grocery 240

Stop & Shop Coupon M-26
With this coupon and a $7.50 purchase.
FREE! STOP & SHOP CRANBERRY SAUCE
Good Mon., Nov. 12 - Nov. 17. Limit one per customer.
Grocery 239

Stop & Shop
Your good old New England Thanksgiving Headquarters.
Get your Stop & Shopsworth.

self service deli Help yourself to savings!
1 Pound Pkg. Colonial Bacon 99¢ Reg., Maple or Sugarless
Armour Hot Dogs Meat 1lb pkg $1.29
Colonial Bologna Meat Sliced 1lb pkg $1.19
Italian Sausage Pork Brand 1 lb pkg Hot or Sweet $1.59
First Prize Kielbasi Smokin Sausage $1.89 lb corner deli Pick up a complete meal

Available at stores with service deli.
Domestic Cooked Ham $2.29 lb Sectioned & Formed
Swiss Cheese Imported $2.79 lb
Genoa Salami Cacciatore, A/C $2.99 lb
Butter Cookies Bahlsen Brand Danish 1 lb. Tin $2.19
Corned Beef Brisket Stop & Shop Cooked Extra Lean Flat Cut $3.99 lb

our kitchen Try the newest entree from our cooks!
Countryfine Cooked Chicken $1.09 lb Herbs 'n Butter or Home Style
Potato Salad Stop & Shop 1 pound package 59¢
Gelatines Stop & Shop 14 ounce package 65¢

seafood Change of pace dinners!
Fresh Cod Steaks $1.59 lb
Fresh Flounder Fillets $2.99 lb
Cooked Shrimp Stop & Shop Frozen Salad size 1 lb. pkg. $3.29
Fish & Chips Stop & Shop Batter Dipped 16oz. pkg. Frozen $1.29

health & beauty aids
6.4oz. Tube Aqua-fresh Toothpaste 99¢
Listerine Antiseptic 32 Ounce Bottle $1.49
2-two Packs Ampex Light Bulbs 60-75-100 Watt inside frost 4 bulbs just 99¢ 99¢

Center Cut Pork Chops $1.39 lb
The lean portion of the pork loin is called the "eye". The bigger the eye, the meatier the chops. That's where Stop & Shop Pork gets its name!
Thin Sliced $1.49 lb
Assorted Pork Chops ½ Center ½ Blade, ½ Sirloin $1.09 lb
Boneless Pork Sirloin Cutlet $1.89 lb
Countrystyle Pork Ribs $1.09 lb
Pork Loin Roast Rib Half $1.29 lb
Pork Loin Roast Sirloin Half $1.39 lb

USDA CHOICE Beef Chuck Roast Boneless USDA Choice $1.69 lb
Boneless Chuck Steak USDA Choice Beef $1.89 lb
Chuck Stew Beef USDA Choice Great Beef $1.79 lb
Beef Chuck Cube Steak USDA Choice Great Beef $1.99 lb
Boneless Beef Blade Steak USDA Choice Great Beef $1.99 lb

26%* Ground Beef Sold in approx. 3 Pound Chub $1.39 lb
*Not more than 26% fat.
Beef Patty Mix Sold in approx. 3 Pound Chub $1.19 lb
20%* Lean Ground Beef *not more than 20% fat Any Size Pkg. $1.89 lb

Smoked Pork Shoulder Stop & Shop Picnic Water Added 79¢ lb
Smoked Pork Shoulder Roll
Water Added $1.49 lb

produce
Red or Golden Delicious Extra Fancy 138 Size Apples 2 lbs 89¢
"Washington State" Fresh California Broccoli bunch 69¢
Anjou Extra Fancy Pears 2 lbs 89¢
Cranberries Fresh 1 lb. Package pkg. 59¢
Grapes Red Emperor 69¢ lb.
Yellow Onions 5 lbs 79¢
Fresh Carrots 2 lb. bag 39¢
Squash Butternut or Acorn 19¢ lb
Walnuts Meats Diamond 10 oz. pkg. $1.79

Ocean Spray Cranberry Juice Cocktail 48oz. Bottle 99¢
Cranberry, Date or Banana Pillsbury Bread Mix 16 ounce package 89¢
Ocean Spray One Pie Cranapple Dress 48 ounce bottle 99¢
Pumpkin or Squash 15 Ounce Can 2 for 79¢
Pie Crust Mix Betty Crocker or Pillsbury Graham Cracker Johnson's Wax pkg 3 large sizes $1
Pie Crust Shell 59¢
Stop & Shop In Syrup Fruit Cocktail 2 17oz. cans 89¢
Sweet Mixed Vlasic Pickles 32 oz. Jar 79¢
Maraschino Orchard Queen Cherries 10 ounce jar 69¢
Heinz Gravy Mixes Brown Chicken Onion Mushroom or Turkey 2 1oz pkt. 89¢
Vlasic Spears Pickle or Kosher Dill 16 ounce jar 69¢
Large Olives Extra California Black Pitted Can 59¢
Stop & Shop Whole Kernel Corn 16 oz. Can 4 for $1
Stop & Shop Medium Peas 16 oz. can 3 for $1
Royal Prince Yams Your can 69¢
Sliced Carrots Sliced Bleed Stop & Shop 4 1lb pkg $1
Cut Green Beans Stop & Shop 4 16 oz. cans $1
Boiled Onions Stop & Shop 16 oz. jar 59¢
3 pound can Stop & Shop Shortening Why pay more? $1.49
Nestles Morsels Jumbo Semi-Sweet 12 ounce pkg $1.59
Bells Stuffing Mix Herb pkg 97¢
Trico Manzanella Stuffed Olives 5 oz. Jar 2 for $1
Seven Up Soda Reg. or Diet 64 oz. no return jar 99¢
HiHO Crackers Sunshine 12 ounce pkg 89¢

frozen foods Energy-saver values!
Pumpkin, Minced or Apple Mrs. Smith's Pies 26oz. pkg. 99¢
Stop & Shop Half Gallon All Natural Ice Cream Assorted Flavors $1.79 tub
Sara Lee Pound Cake 10 oz. pkg 89¢
Pie Shell Crust Mrs. Smiths pkg of 2 17oz 79¢
Vegetables Stop & Shop 24oz bag 69¢
Sherbert Stop & Shop 3 Flavors Half Gallon Container 99¢
Whip Topping Stop & Shop 13 fl oz aerosol container 69¢
Melon Balls Stop & Shop 16 ounce container 89¢

dairy Save on many of the top brands!
Whole Milk Calabro Ricotta 2 pound container $1.99
Gallon Stop & Shop Orange Juice 128oz Cont. From Concentrate $1.79
Colombo Yogurt Assorted Flavors 3 8oz. cups $1
Cream Cheese Kraft Philadelphia 8 oz. pkg 59¢
Light n Lively Cottage Cheese 16 ounce container 79¢
All Purpose Cream Stop & Shop 16 ounce container 89¢
Sour Cream Stop & Shop 16 ounce container 65¢
Stop & Shop Rolls Butterball or Hamburger 6 pkgs $1 bakery Treats from our own ovens!

Stop & Shop Sliced White Big Daisy Bread 3 20oz. loaves $1
Stop & Shop Choc. Eclair or Custard Pie 22oz pkg. $1.09
Daisy Donuts Plain or Assorted 12 ct pkg 69¢
Variety Bread Sale 2 Your choice $1
Spice Cake Stop & Shop 17 ounce pkg $1.09
Date Nut Bread Stop & Shop 17 ounce pkg 89¢

HADLEY-AMHERST Route 9 at the Hadley-Amherst Line.
8a.m.-10p.m., Mon.-Sat. We redeem your Federal Food Stamps.

ENTERTAINMENT IN THE Valley

HOT-L WARREN
S. DEERFIELD, MASS.
665-8757

Tues. Nov. 13	Al Fuller MCing at open mike, Folk Singers, Acoustic Musicians Welcome
Wed. Nov. 14	Julia Burrough Hot Original Singer
Thurs. Nov. 15	O'Connor & Lees Irish, Original, Traditional
Fri. Nov. 16	Andy May & Friends Good Time, Music
Sat. Nov. 17	Billings Gap Bluegrass
Mon. Nov. 19	Western Mass Dart Assn Open Tournament Football 25c drafts
Tues. Nov. 20	Al Fuller MCing at open mike, Folk Singers invited

Our Restaurant is Open
Italian Style Pizzas &
Hot Oven Grinders

Happy Hour Every Day 4-6 P.M.
Domestic Beer & Bar Liquor 50c

Daily Luncheon Specials
Sunday Brunches Coming Soon

University of Massachusetts / Amherst
FINE ARTS CENTER PRESENTS

JIMMY OWENS PLUS ...

and

THE UNIVERSITY OF MASSACHUSETTS JAZZ WORKSHOP

In a benefit concert for the Music Scholarship Fund

Monday, November 19 8 p.m.

FINE ARTS CENTER CNCERT HALL

Tickets now on sale. General Public - '3.00. Students '2.00.

Fine Arts Center Box Office M-F 12-5, 545-2511

Free Parking is available for FAC events.

BAGEL DELI

Best in the Valley for:

- whole wheat pastries
- lox & eggs
- blintzes & potato pancakes
- fresh bagels
- omlettes
- frozen yogurt

28 Pleasant St. Northampton

adventura travel
549-1256
Airline Tickets
Amherst Carriage Shops

WANT TO ATTRACT ATTENTION ?

DO IT IN THE COLLEGIAN CLASSIFIEDS !!!

Superior Pizzaria

Small & Large (16") Pizzas
Hot Oven Grinders—Spaghetti
Steak Grinders Dinners

17 Montague Rd.
Next to N. Amherst Post Office
549-0626
We deliver every day starting at 5 and Sunday's starting at 2

Coupon 25c off on all pizzas

Calvin Ice Cream

Home of the 35c Ice Cream Cone
Milkshakes Sundaes
Half-Gallons
Hours: Mon-Wed 12-5 Thurs-Sat 12-10

Calvin Ice Cream Shop
233 N. Pleasant St.
Carriage Shops
549-6938

CINEMA 1 - 8
HOLYOKE MALL AT INGLESIDE

Mass. Pike Exit 4 to Int. Exit 15
24 Hr. Movie-Phone 538-7510

PRESENT AD AT BOX OFFICE FOR $1.00 OFF REG ADULT PRICE

Held Over — The MUPPET MOVIE (G) — Today 1:10-3:15-5:30-7:25 & 9:30

A True Story — THE ONION FIELD (R)

Held Over — WHEN A STRANGER CALLS (R) — Today 1:10-3:15-5:30-7:25 & 9:30

Today 1:00-3:00-5:05-7:10 & 9:15 — ABBA — FRONTS/AGE, BACKSTAGE & ON THE ROAD. TAKE THE TOUR — No Matinees Sat-Sun-Mon

EXTRAORDINARY! You've never seen anything like it! — "KING OF HEARTS" — Ends Tuesday

Recorded in Dolby Sound — MORE AMERICAN GRAFFITI

FRENCH POSTCARDS (PG)

Held Over — DENNIS CHRISTOPHER — BREAKING AWAY (PG) — Today 2:45-4:55-7:05 & 9:15

"TOMMY" DAILY 4:15 LATE SHOW FRI & SAT 11:30

"The Christmas That Almost Wasn't" Sat-Sun-Mon

AMERICAN MULTI CINEMA

ADULTS $2.75 STUDENTS & SR. CITIZENS with AMC CARD $2.25 TWI-LITE SHOW $1.50 - Special Engagements Excluded Twi-Lite Show - Limited to Seating

TIMES SHOWN FOR TODAY ONLY

HAMPSHIRE 4

584-7550 HAMP. MALL ON CAFE SQ.—RT. 9, HADLEY, MASS.

Apocalypse Now (R) — Today at (5:30 @ $1.50)-8:30

JOSEPH WAMBAUGH'S A True Story — THE ONION FIELD (R) — Today at (6:00 @ $1.50)-8:30

Movie and Dinner $5. see one of the great movies listed here and have dinner at the Pewter Pot Rest. on Cafe Square in the Hampshire Mall for only $5. Call for details.

French Postcards (6:30 @ $1.50)-8:45 PG

Breaking Away (6:15 @ $1.50)-8:45 PG

MOUNTAIN FARMS 4

584-9153 MOUNTAIN FARMS MALL ROUTE 9—HADLEY, MASS.

A temptingly tasteful comedy — "10" (R) — Today at (6:00 @ $1.50)-8:30

AL PACINO AND JUSTICE FOR ALL (R) — Today at (6:00 @ $1.50)-8:30

Honk if you love Brian. MONTY PYTHON'S LIFE OF BRIAN (R) — Today at (6:15 @ $1.50)-8:45

Marcello Mastroianni — Wife mistress (R) — Today at (6:15 @ $1.50)-8:45

"TRES BON!"

Paul Provost, Springfield-Hartford Magazine

". . . a highly favored French restaurant . . ."
Jan Walz, The New York Times

"A serious Kitchen . . . much demonstrated attention and expertise . . ."
Anthony Spinazzola, The Boston Globe

". . . one of the most attractive restaurants I have visited in the area . . ."
Catherine Smith, Springfield Daily News

"Beardsley's, the area's standard bearer of traditional French cuisine . . ."
Perry Courtnickel, Yankee Magazine - Guide to New England

Dinner reservations recommended

BEARDSLEY'S CAFE-RESTAURANT
140 Main St. Northampton/586-2699

Lunch Mon.-Sat. 11:30-2:30
Sun. Brunch 10:30-2:30
Dinner Mon.-Sat. 5:30-10:00
Dinner on Sun. 5:30-8:30
Bistro Menu 2:30-10 P.M. daily

★ Gridders lose

CONT. FROM PAGE 20

At approximately the 10-minute mark of the period, a play which overshadowed the lead, and eventually the loss, occurred. Minuteman Kevin Sullivan dropped back to receive a Holy Cross punt and after returning the kick three yards and being downed, was apparently caught with a late hit resulting in a fractured and dislocated right leg. The loss of Sullivan appeared to greatly affect the UMass defense as it was from this point on that Holy Cross asserted itself offensively.

At 13:08, Larry Ewald carried for a gain of five yards and a Crusader touchdown to cut the score to UM 18, HC 12. The extra point made it 18-13.

With 49 seconds remaining in the game, Holy Cross gained possession of the ball, and 45 seconds and 71 yards later, Solomon's pass to Johnson gave Holy Cross the win, 20-18.

MINUTEMAN MUMBLINGS: The Anderson Award given to the outstanding player of the UMass-Holy Cross game by the attending sportswriters was originally given to Sandro Vitiello. But when Solomon completed the game winning pass to Johnson, the award was "re-given" to Solomon....Hidden in the defeat were the outstanding performances of UMass' Dan Dawson and Scott Crowell; Dawson rushed for 77 yards and caught passes for 40 more. Crowell had six tackles, three assists and two quarterback sacks.

AIRLINE ATTENDANTS EARN TO $25,000 YR! TRAVEL! AIRWORLD shows how to pass the INTERVIEWS! For FREE INFO. write Airworld 161 Box 60129 Sacto. CA 95860

GREAT
Blouses - Skirts
Gifts Cards Prices
Daily 10 am-6 pm Sunday 12-5 pm
THE MERCANTILE
AMHERST CARRIAGE SHOPS

THE WOK
Chinese Home Style Cooking
AMPLE PARKING
LUNCHEON & DINNER SPECIALS
COMPLETE TAKE-OUT MENU
COCKTAIL LOUNGE
MON. - THURS. 11:30 AM - 10 PM • FRI. & SAT. 11:30 AM TO 12:00 PM
SUN. & HOLIDAYS 1 PM TO 10 PM • LUNCHEONS 11:30 AM - 3 PM
EXCEPT HOLIDAYS
48 RUSSELL ST. HADLEY
Call 586-1202

1st Anniversry at the New Location

Dinner Special on every Monday, Tuesday, and Wednesday at 3:00 p.m. to 10:00 p.m. 15 choices of Beef, Chicken, Seafood & Fried Rice & a bottle of beer.

For Only $3.99

T-SHIRTS
SPECIAL OFFER
10% Commission Available to anyone for a new order
Valley Silkscreen
Haydenville 268-7800

•Navy
•Burgundy
•Brown
•Beige

the SHOE BIN
187 n. pleasant st., amherst

Interested in Law School?

The School of Law at Western New England College, Springfield, Massachusetts, will be represented by Dianne Youn, Director of Admissions, Professor William Metzger, and Faith Arkin, third year law student, on Wednesday, November 14, 1979 at 1:30 and 2:30 P.M. in the Campus Center, Rooms 911-915.

THE GREAT SKI SNATCH

Starts Tommorrow

$500,000 of BARGAINS
For NON-SKIERS & SKIERS

UMASS SKI CLUB

For info call 545-3437

ALSO - a raffle with over
$1200 of prizes ranging from
*5 Day ski week at Sugarbush
*10 speed bike
*X-Country skis
and much, much more!

Over 10,000 pieces of equipment

Winter Clothing	DOWNHILL & X-COUNTRY	Ski Equipment
*Parkas		*Boots
*Vests		*Bindings
*Ski Suits		*Skis
*Gloves		*Poles
*Hats

Wed. Nov. 14, 12 P.M. - 10 P.M.
Thurs. Nov. 15, 10 A.M. - 10 P.M.
Fri. Nov. 16, 10 A.M. - 10 P.M.
Sat. Nov. 17, 10 A.M. - 5 P.M.

IN THE S.U.B.

tickets 1/50c 3/$1.00

Last Day to Turn-In Used Ski Equip. in Suffolk room, S.U.

Spikes take Division One Mass. State title

By MAUREEN SULLIVAN
Collegian Staff

The Umass women's volleyball team won the Mass. State Tournament at Clark University in Worcester Saturday night in three straight games. The women downed Northeastern University 15-11, 15-13, 15-5 to take the state Division One title.

According to assistant coach Al Morel, the Minutewomen played some of their best volleyball of the year. "Northeastern isn't the type of team you could walk all over," said Morel. "And for the first two games, UMass and Northeastern played really close. In the second game, we were behind, but we came back to win; the team played a great game, especially Brenda Simmons who was fantastic on defense."

"We really got together in the third game. It wasn't that UMass did well in the first two games, but it was just that UMass fell behind a few times this season in the third games, such as Yale last Tuesday (a match the Minutewomen lost in five games), and they didn't want that to happen again. UMass didn't let down; they got together and routed Northeastern to win match and title."

UMass captain Joyce Gresl received the Tourney MVP honors for her overall play in the Tournament.

The Minutewomen closed the 1979 season with 20 wins and seven losses. Under the first-year leadership of Elaine Marasco, UMass defeated Regional-bound Providence College, last year's Mass. State champion Boston College, UConn (twice), Bridgeport, Keene State, and Northeastern (twice) over the course of the season. Losses included Springfield, Central Conn., Souther Conn., Williams, and Yale.

Live entertainment with STEVE SPELMAN

the Hungry U

Tuesday
Nov. 13 9-12

NO COVER
50c DRAFT BEERS

549-5713
55 University Drive

The Legal Services Office located at Room 922 Campus center has 8 openings for paralegal internships for the Spring, 1980 semester.

General Statement of Paralegal Intern Duties: Paralegals assist the attorney at the Legal Services Office with initial client interview, investigations, legal research, negotiations, giving legal advice and referral whenever necessary, preparation of court forms and attendance at hearings in the District, Superior and Probate courts of Hampshire and Franklin counties, and participation in administrative hearings and federal litigation. Other duties include the drafting of various legal documents, the writing of letters and making of phone calls on the client's behalf; the maintainance of a continuing-client case load; meeting regularly with supervising attorneys to discuss cases; the attendance at staff meetings for teachins and case strategy; and the assistance in reception duties.

Qualifications for Paralegal Intern Applicants:

1. Applicants must be full time UMass students eligiable for full-time academic credit through an academic department. Legal studies and social science majors are especially encouraged to apply.
2. Prior experience is helpful but not required.
3. A desire to learn and study the field of law.
4. An ability to work and relate well with staff and clients of the Legal services Office which serves a diversified student population.
5. The ability to work with creativity, diligence, and occasionally under high pressure.

If interseted in applying for a paralegal internship position for Spring Semester, 1980, please contact the Office of Internships at the University of Massachusetts, Curry Hicks Bldg, and inquire further at Legal Services Office, 922 Campus Center, ninth floor. Applications are due Tuesday, November 16, 1979. Interviews will begin November 20. Writing sample required.

All Third World students and women are encouraged to apply!

Collegian Classifieds

To place a Collegian Classified Ad
•Come to Collegian Office (CC 113)
•8:45 to 3:45, Mon. thru Fri.
•Classified deadline is 3:45 two days prior to publication day
•We missed your beardless face

Collegian Classified Rates
•15c per word
•Student rate 10c per word
•Cash in advance
•5 consecutive days, 5% discount
•Phone number FREE

AUDIO

Turntable $90 549-1520

AUTO FOR SALE

1973 Gremlin Excellent condition, 62000 miles, good gas mileage, $1350 or BO 253-5966

68 Buick Skylark dependale and loves gas, great school car 253-9557 $450 or BO

69 Chevelle needs some work, B.O. 256-0613

70 Capri Body good condition, 64000 AM-FM, snows, tuneup. $600 253-3194

FOR RENT

Cliffside 1 bedroom apartment available Call 665-3902 evenings.

FOR SALE

Portrait Drawing Dennis Delap, 256-8732

K2-5 Skis-190 cm $30.00, Hanson Exhibition Boots-size 9-11 $50.00 call Paul 253-2754

New "Nordic Prostep" X-ctry skis (won in raffle) $45. Don, 546-7114

Half fare airline coupon call 256-0680

Ski-Jacket New men's small/women's 14, Karen 546-1159

Men's Nordica Mod Competition Ski Boots used once, size 10½M, $175. Fischer Super step X-Country Skis 210 cm, Dynafit Boot size 10 mens and poles, whole thing $150 Call 256-6844 or 545-0082 ask for Suzanne

2 G78-14 Steel/glass belted uniroyal radials. Driven only 1,500 miles. Pioneer TP200 FM/8-track car stereo w/slide mount. Ant reasonable offers considered. Call Bill 253-7332

Acoustic Bass Amp 200 watts, best offer 546-9081

FOUND

Belchertown sketchbook Person: Found license but no sketchbook and lost address on Park Street. I am at 358 Meadow St. in Agawam or leave it with anyone who works at Student Union Craftshop or please feel free to call 786-6932 (413) collect so we can work out some arrangement. Thank you. Alden L. Miller

Found 11/5/79 Glasses in blue case with yellow insignia on grass between C.C. Circle and Draper. Call Phil 546-6277

Watch found near Graduate Research Center, call 5-3668

Calculator in Cape Cod Lounge (SUB), Nov. 5 Call Dale 546-9782

FREE HYPNOSIS INTRODUCTION

Free Introductions Tues. Nov. 6 at 7:00 & 8:30 p.m. UMass Campus Center Rm. 809 Greatly improve all reading skills, memory concentration. Learn self-hypnosis for self improvement. Hypnosis Reading Institute. 532-5703

HELP WANTED

The Collegian is looking for a work-study student to typeset 3 nights a week—Sun., Wed., and Thurs., 4 hours nightly 7-11, minimum wage. Experience helpful. 60 wpm minimum. Contact Mary in the Graphics dept. 545-3500

Overseas Jobs—Summer/year round. Europe, S. America, Australia, Asia, etc. All fields, $500-$1,200 monthly, expenses paid. Sightseeing, free information write: IJC, Box 52-MC, Corona Del Mar, CA. 92625

Airline Attendants earn to $25,000 yr! Airworld shows how to pass the interviews! For free info. send 15c stamp to Airworld 161 Box 60129 Sacramento, CA 95860

Cruiseships! Sailing expeditions! No experience. Good pay! Europe! South Pacific, Bahamas, World! For free information send 15c stamp to Cruiseworld 161 Box 60129, Sacramento, CA 95860

LEGAL SERVICES

Attorney Jason R. Rosenthal General Practice Legal Representation for the Amherst, Mass community by apt. only days 584-4285 evenings 253-7617

LOST

Lost Dog Black Lab. Wed. 31, New Bedford tags, Call 253-9239

Gold Watch sentimental value, gift from my parents, lost somewhere on Phillips St. or No. Pleasant. If found, call 6-7022 keep trying, reward

PERSONALS

HB—Happy 3rd Anniversary! Love, YCB

Are you knowledgeable in Food Science and have a few extra hours to spare? Call Debbie at 546-4340 for negotiations

Sugarbush Hotel needs chambermaids Jan.-March includes lodging call Ski Club 545-3437 or Ken 549-6060

Charismatic Bible Study and Prayer Campus Center 901 Tuesday November 13 at 8 P.M. All Students Welcome

Gavin Sullivan or Stuart Saltzman I'm the woman who sat with you until ambulance came Sat, morn. My glasses got lost in the confusion. I you or riders have them please call 253-2844 in p.m.

To everyone thanx for the bday. It was a rorer!* Love yah Susie

16TH FLOOR WASHINGTON - We did it! Love ya all, Debi

Tony—The Voodoo frog got hung Thursday Night. Cherry

LauraLee—Can I move your bed again tonight? Admiral Wang

We're Psyched! Are you? CUSP meeting for all students in Psychology. Tuesday 11/13 4:00 917 C.C.

PRACTICUM: Intersession - 3 credits Spring semester 3-6 credits. Work in afterschool Day Care on Campus. For more info call Nancy Ross 549-6170

Adah and Leah Happy 21st Birthday!

ARL and LSL 'Gotcha' your brother

Congratulations Barrie!

ATTN BUSINESS MAJORS

On Thursday November 15 from 10:00-4:00 P.M. The Undergraduate Business Club will present "CAREER DAY '79" in the School of Business. There will be a luncheon held from 12:00 to 2:00 P.M. Tickets are available in the SBA Lobby until Novemebr 14. All invited!

ROOMMATE WANTED

Female housemate wanted for a semi-coop, non-smoking hse near Amherst Center 253-2842

Female roommate wanted apartment, own room, bus rt. $127.50+ 253-3246

Male Roommate wanted to share room in 2 bedroom apt. $90 Brittany Manor Apts. 253-3967

ROOM WANTED

Looking for a 2 or 3 bedroom apt. to sublease starting Jan, call Tom at 546-7822 or Sean 546-7821

Wanted 3 bedroom apartment to sublease starting January. Please call 546-5223 546-8003

I need a place to live pref. own bedroom w/reasonable rates 253-5201 ask for Barry

Looking to take over lease for apt in complex on bus route, begin Jan. Call Janet 546-6206

Wanted 2 or 3 bedroom apt in Jan. Call John 546-5616 Keep Trying

Veggie seeks bdrm in house or apt for Nov. 1 Call 549-6070 OK? Keep calling

We need 2/3 bedroom apt starting Jan. Call 546-5226 or 546-5221

SERVICES

"Attention Car Owners" Protect you auto with an alarm system. Up to 15% off insurance. One year guarantee 549-4041

WANTED

Fast Immediate Cash for gold-school rings-diamonds-silver Jeff anytime 527-7078 586-0180

Women Performers Needed! For the Northeast Women's Center Coffeehouse Nov. 18 Contact Mindy 6-4830 or Beth 6-4839 by Wed. Nov. 14

WANTED TO RENT

Wanted 3 bedroom apt or house 546-9767 or 546-1087

Need 2 bedroom apt. to sublease for Spring, Call 546-7625 546-7624

Two bedroom apt needed Two women for Jan. 1 near campus or on bus route Call 546-5777

Wanted to Sublet 2 or 3 bedroom apartment for Spring Semester Call John or Pete 546-7477

Aluminum Foil by Steve Lafler

Beasts by Rob Ranney

This space is available to interested student cartoonists. Cartoonists desiring to fill this space should submit 15-20 strips to the Managing Editor, 113 Campus Center, for consideration. Call ahead before submitting strips, at 545-3500.

Norma B. by M.J. Galper

Doonesbury by Garry Trudeau

TODAY'S CROSSWORD PUZZLE

ACROSS
1 Likewise
5 Container
9 Wise ones
14 Frolic
15 Gael
16 Rough
17 Nipa palm
18 Palmer's game
19 Concur
20 Sharpen
22 Marsh: 2 words
24 Fast car: 2 words
26 Mules
27 Gait
29 City off.
30 Owns
33 Watch feature: 2 words
37 Shove
38 Kilns
39 Color
40 Craze
41 — -Colburg
42 Negligently
44 Trotyl
45 Roman way
46 Eminence
47 Vegetables
49 "— — and Have Not"
53 "Certainly!": 2 words
57 Cut
58 Antelope
59 Indian Ocean island
61 Nursemaid
62 Dance
63 O.T. book
64 Bongo
65 — Stevens
66 Feat
67 Witnesses

DOWN
1 Break out in — —
2 Bingo's kin
3 Sting
4 Well timed
5 Dowel
6 Lined up
7 Wight and Man
8 Portsider
9 Frightened
10 Athens' rival
11 Hindu leader
12 Paradise
13 Ovule
21 Halifax and Houston
23 Bullion
25 Deer
28 Menaced
30 Search
31 Shrub
32 Tarry
33 Greatest
34 Russian name
35 Nearest to 36 Gas: Prefix
37 Tennis strokes
40 Cretan king
42 Expired
43 Width: Abbr.
45 Salesman
47 Spree
48 Grab
50 Conscious
51 Locale
52 Cheeses
53 Abominable snowman
54 Oash
55 Vocalized
56 Venture
60 Doleful

UNITED Feature Syndicate
Friday's Puzzle Solved

S	L	I	D		A	B	U	S	E		C	L	A	P
L	O	D	E		R	A	N	T	S		L	A	N	A
A	G	E	S		A	R	T	I	S	T	I	C	A	L
P	O	A	C	H	E	R	I	B	E	S	T	S
			R	E	V	E	L		R	U	N
R	E	G	I	M	E	N		S	E	C	T	I	O	N
A	L	I	B	I	S		A	I	D	E		R	U	E
D	I	V	E		T	R	E	N	D		M	A	T	E
A	T	E		G	U	Y	S		E	L	A	T	E	D
R	E	S	T	O	R	E		D	E	A	L	E	R	S
			H	O	E		S	E	R	G	E
G	A	I	E	S		A	T	T	O	N	E	E	R
A	R	A	B	L	E		Q	U	E	R	K	I	T	E
N	I	L	E		O	U	N	C	E		O	R	A	N
G	A	L	S		B	A	S	T	E		V	E	S	T

DC menu

Lunch
BBQ Beef/Bun
Eggs Foo Yung/Duck Sauce

Basics Lunch

Soybean Croquettes
Eggs Foo Yung/Duck Sauce

Dinner
Pennsylvania Dutch Night
Roast Chicken/Chesnut Dressing
Gravy, Whole Cranberry Sauce
Snitz & Gripp

Basics Dinner
Pennsylvania Dutch Night
Roast Chicken/Chesnut Dressing
Gravy, Whole Cranberry Sauce
Tomato Torte

EARTHFOODS

Mushroom Quiche
Spnach Salad
Mushroom Barley Soup
Carrot bread

JANUARY GRADUATES

Don't miss your only chance to appear in the 1980 yearbook.

Beginning Wed. Nov. 14 we will begin taking appointments for senior portraits, call 545-2874 or stop by room 102 Campus Center

MOVIE LISTINGS

Academy Of Music
Bread & Chocolate
7:00 9:00

Hampshire 4
Apocalypse Now
5:30 8:30
Onion Field
6:00 8:30
Breaking Away
5:30 8:45
French Postcards
6:30 8:45

Mt. Farms 4
Life of Brian
6:15 8:45
And Justice For All
6:00 8:30
"10"
6:00 8:30
Wifemistress
6:15 8:45

Holyoke 1-8
Muppet Movie
1:10 3:15 5:30 7:25 9:30
Stranger Calls
1:10 3:15 5:30 7:25 9:30
Breaking Away
2:45 4:55 7:05 9:15
Abba
1:00 3:00 5:05 7:10 9:15

Pleasant St. Cinema
El Super
6:00 8:00 10:00

Showcase 1-8
Time After Time
2:00 7:30 9:45
Fiddler on the Roof
2:00 7:45 10:15
Fish. . .Pittsburg
2:00 7:30 10:00
"10"
2:00 7:20 10:40
ABC
1:30 7:10 10:10
Brian
2:00 7:10 10:10
Justice For All
2:00 7:15 9:46

Losses illtimed for booters

By MAUREEN SULLIVAN
Collegian Staff

Four losses over two years doesn't sound so bad, especially when the win column runs well into double digits, and the wins are against some of the best teams in the East.

But for UMass' women's soccer team, those losses count so heavily, for all those losses happened after a near-perfect first season; two losses occured in the one place where a fantastic season record doesn't count, and everyone begins at square one – Brown University, site of the first women's soccer tournament held anywhere in the U.S. on a collegiate level.

UMass was seeded first; they finished fourth. It wasn't because of poor playing style or the poor field conditions. UMass faced some tough teams, teams good enough to take on the top seed and win.

Harvard played UMass twice over the past two years; both games were won by UMass, the margin being one goal . The Crimson not only downed UMass in the tourney, but handed UMass its first scoreless loss since UMass became a varsity team.

St. John-Fisher gave UMass a hard time while winning 5-4. Fisher played aggressive soccer while the Minutewomen figured out what their first-time opponents would do next, while Fisher erupted to a 5-0 halftime lead. UMass, now knowing who was the most dangerous on the Fisher team, rallied to come within one. It wasn't enough.

Finishing fourth when a team was top-seeded doesn't mean the tourney was tough. UMass knew before they left for Providence that the EAIAW Tournament was going to be tough. Finishing fourth means that the tourney was even tougher than everyone expected – the tourny directors, the other team coaches and players, and especially UMass.

Boston University fullback Sean Weeks plows for yardage during BU's 16-12 victory over UConn. The win clinched at least a tie for the Yankee Conference title for BU. (AP Laserphoto).

Best deal in Town? Bluewall Happy Hour

Botany E-Core Courses

100A Intro Botany
100B Intro Botany - especially for students with prior biological experience
101 General Botany - for non-science majors
225 Survey of the Plant Kingdom
226 New England Flora

SUGARBUSH VERMONT presents
A WARREN MILLER FILM
WINTER FEVER

90-minutes of exciting ski action and adventure. The Bushnell Memorial Hall, Hartford, Ct.;8:00 p.m.November 19,1979.

Tickets available at the Bushnell box office and all ticketron outlets.

Taste the pride of Canada. Molson.

You'll get a taste of nearly 200 years of brewing heritage every time you open a cool, green bottle of MOLSON GOLDEN.™ North America's oldest brewery got its start back in 1786. John Molson, our founder, wouldn't recognize our modern breweries, but he'd be proud of the good, smooth taste of GOLDEN.™

A taste that says Canada in every refreshing sip.

Brewed and bottled in Canada: imported by Martlet Importing Co., Inc., Great Neck, N.Y.

Gymnast Debbie Smith displays her talent on the pommel horse during Saturday's intrasquad scrimmage held at the Boyden Auxiliary Gym. (Staff photo by Fadi Shawish).

Harriers fail to qualify for national tourney

By JANE WOLFSON
Collegian Staff

The UMass men's cross country team ended its season Saturday afternoon when they failed to qualify for the Nationals in a meet held at Boston's Franklin Park. Placing seventh out of a field of fourteen, the Minutemen needed to finish in one of the top three spots to qualify.

Providence College, Boston University, and Harvard are the qualifying teams and will travel this weekend to Lehigh University to compete in the Nationals. Providence's All-American Ray Traecy won the 6.2 mile event with a time of 29:58, 27 seconds ahead of Northeastern's Bruce Bickford.

Seniors Paul Kirksey and Steve MacDougall finished first for the Minutemen in the 18 and 19 spots.

"I was disappointed overall," said harrier coach Ken O'Brien. "Paul (Kirksey) and Steve (MacDougall) ran their best races of the season. But this race was just a lost opportunity for us."

Sophomore Paul Beaulieu, junior Kevin Molteni, and senior captain Rick Walls also placed for the Minutemen, finishing in the 29, 51 and 54 spots respectively.

"I was disgusted with the race," said Walls. "We didn't run to our potential; this was just the icing on the cake."

A look back on the season will show that the harriers as a whole were marred by inconsistency.

"Overall if you look at UMass as a team it was a poor season," said O'Brien. "But if you look at the individuals and there accomplishments I thought we showed some good progress."

In the opening meet of the season, UMass ran all over Boston College, 21-40. Molteni and Walls led the way for the harriers in their lone home meet of the season. Next came the dual loss to Providence and Harvard with the scores PC 21, Harvard 39, and UMass 69. The Minutemen had not expected to beat Providence but had hoped to be close with Harvard. Beaulieu and Molteni led UMass.

In the Eastern Eight meet at Villanova, the harriers finished fourth overall. "It was one of our best races," said Walls. "We ran aggressively and we ran as a team."

The Minutemen then returned to Franklin Park to take on Norteastern and URI, only to split defeating URI 42-61, but losing to the Huskies 27-42.

Taveling to URI to defend their title as Yankee Conference champions, a position they had held the past nine years, the Minutemen found themselves routed by UConn and UNH and managed only third place out of seven teams.

"I think the Yankee Conference championships were the low point of the season," said Molteni. "And running at Penn State was the high point. We ran against some darned good teams and we ran well."

The Penn State invitational, in which they finished third out of four teams, was indeed the Minutemen's most dazzling display of running this season. An outstanding race by Beaulieu led the way.

Saturday's race represented the final meet of the season for the harriers. Excellent races by Kirksey and MacDougall, usually the team's fourth and fifth runners, were the only highlights of an otherwise frustrating end to the season.

This is the famous Budweiser beer. We know of no brand produced by any other brewer which costs so much to brew and age. Our exclusive Beechwood Aging produces a taste, a smoothness and a drinkability you will find in no other beer at any price.

THE WORLD RENOWNED — BUDWEISER LAGER BEER — AMERICA

Budweiser®
KING OF BEERS®
ATHLETE OF THE WEEK

GENUINE GENUINE

UMass placekicker Sandro Vitiello has been elected as the athlete for the week by the Collegian sports staff. Vitiello set a single game mark of four field goals during Saturday's game against Holy Cross. (Staff photo by Rich Newman).

this Buds for you!

IT PAYS TO MIDASIZE

If you need a brake job, try to stop at Midas.

At Midas we do brake jobs with the same expertise that we bring to muffler jobs.

Our brake men are thoroughly trained to do brakes before they start on the job.

Come in; and we'll give you an intelligent free appraisal of what's wrong with your brakes and what it will cost to make them right.

If anything should be done right, it's a brake job.

MIDAS
MIDAS GUARANTEES FOREIGN CAR MUFFLERS
Honored in every state for as long as you own your car.

FROM ONLY $19.95

Can a muffler for a '76 Caddy find happiness on a '71 Chevy?

If you wouldn't put a Ford door on a Plymouth, why put a Chevy muffler on a Caddy? Your car was engineered with a specific muffler. That's why at Midas we stock 539 different mufflers. Now, more than ever, you need Midas.

143 King St. Northampton
Mon.-Fri. 8-5:30
MIDAS®
586-4840
Sat. 8-2:00

Four seconds separate gridders from victory; Crusaders win, 20-18

By STEVE ZACK
LINDA REYER
and GEORGE O'BRIEN
Collegian Staff

Holy Cross' Neil Solomon completed an 11-yard pass to wide receiver Phil Johnson with just four seconds remaining in the game on Saturday to lift the Crusaders to a 20-18 win over a stunned Minutemen football team.

The UMass loss also overshadowed the record performance of placekicker Sandro Vitiello who set a UMass single game field goal record by connecting of four three-pointers during the contest.

"Guys, I don't know what to say," UMass coach Bob Pickett told reporters after the game, "sometimes these things happen."

Holy Cross took a 6-0 lead at 11:38 of the opening quarter when halfback Larry Ewald ran 24 yards for the score. The extra point try by Jim Cobb was no good.

At the nine second mark of the second quarter, Minutemen quarterback Mike McEvilly connected with split end Mike Newell for 11 yards and a UMass touchdown to even the score at six. Like Holy Cross' Cobb, the extra point try by Sandro Vitiello was no good.

On the ensuing kickoff by UMass Vitiello attempted an onside kick by chipping the ball into the air. The play was successful as Minuteman Bob Manning caught the kickoff on the Holy Cross 42-yard line and the Minutemen were once again in possession of the football.

Faced with a fourth down and 16 yards to go situation, UMass' punter, Tim Fontaine, trotted out onto the field to punt the ball away, or so it seemed. Fontaine took the snap from center and instead of punting, passed the ball to linebacker Pete DiTomasso, an eligible receiver on the play, for 21 yards and a first down.

The trick play proved important as Vitiello made good on an 18-yard field goal attempt at 3:33 of the period to put UMass in front 9-6. It was the first of four field goals for Vitiello.

Concerning the trick plays used by the Minutemen, Coach Pickett remarked, "We had been practicing these things all week and we didn't consider it a risk."

Minutemen defensive back Kevin Sullivan is attended to by team officials after suffering a fractured and dislocated right leg during Saturday's 20-18 loss to Holy Cross. (Staff photo by Peter Berry).

At 14:03 of the quarter, Vitiello connected on his second field goal of the day from 37 yards out to increase the UMass lead to 12-6. The key play in the offensive drive was a 30-yard run by Mike McEvilly on the first play of the drive.

A Bob Manning interception early in the third quarter led to anoter UMass score, as five plays later, Vitiello kicked field goal number three, this one for 32 yards to up the score to 15-6 in favor of the Minutemen.

In the fourth quarter, UMass once again added to its lead on field goal number four by Vitiello, the kick good for 36 yards and three points to put UMass up by 12 points, 18-6.

TURN TO PAGE 15

Collegian Sports

Teresa Ryan moves the ball upfield for the JV stickwomen during their 1-0 triumph over Yale last Saturday afternoon. (Staff photo by Peter Berry).

Top-seeded UMass finishes 4th in Easterns

By MAUREEN SULLIVAN
Collegian Staff

Providence, RI — The UMass women's soccer team won just one of three games, as the top-seeded team finished fourth at the EAIAW Championships held at Brown University this past weekend.

The Minutewomen had started the weekend well, as they downed UConn Huskies 4-1 in the opening round Friday afternoon. Natalie Prosser opened things up for UMass by scoring her first of two goals for the game at 4:26 of the first half. Margie Anderson followed with a goal 13 minutes later.

As the UMass midfield kept the eight-seeded Huskies at bay, Nina Holstrom made it 3-0 with three minutes left in the half. Prosser began the second stanza of the game the same way she started the first, with a goal at 11:54. UConn spoiled the shutout late in the game, as Huskie Karen Hall scored with about three minutes left in the game.

With the opening round done, the Minutewomen faced Harvard University as a semi-final opponent on Saturday morning. Not only was UMass about to play a tougher opponent, but both teams were to play on a tougher field. Rain from the night before turned Stephenson Field from an already well-trod and bumpy field to a muddy nightmare; both teams slipped and slid frequently in the soaking sod and mud as they played.

The Minutewomen and the Crimson fought it out defensively, making it difficult for each other to generate much of anything offensively. Slide tackling, stealing passes, and preventing that one key breakaway became the pattern throughout the first half.

The scoreless battle continued into much the second half, but both Harvard and UMass saw scoring opportunities go away with an ill-placed kick or a goalie save. With seconds left, UMass' Margie Anderson nearly won the game for the Minutewomen, but Harvard netminder Wendy Carle managed to save the game for the Crimson. Regulation ended with the score at zero.

Harvard finally broke away at 2:23 of the first ten-minute overtime period, scoring on a Sue St. Louis' shot that Umass goalie Kelly Tuller barely missed catching as it bounced through her fingers. Despite many tries, the Minutewomen couldn't penetrate the Crimson defense; the first and the second overtime periods passed with Harvard winning, 1-0.

Despite the loss, UMass coach Arnie Morse said that "it was a good game, with Umass playing very well. This should've been the championship game; that's the way this game was played."

Instead of advancing to the finals, Umass played a consolation round against St. John-Fisher Sunday afternoon; the game-winner would take third place.

The field conditions continued to be a problem, as rain created a muddier, swampier turf than the semi-final match. Fisher took advantage of several UMass slips to break the game open; Fisher breakaways made the score 5-0 by half's end.

However, the Minutewomen stopped the Fisher scoring spree with an ever-tightening defense led by Karen Keough and Pat Matton. As the defense kept the ball away from Fisher, the Minutewomen offense broke their one-game scoring drought with a Natalie Prosser head shot at 5:01 of the second half. Patty mattoon booted Umass's second goal over everything except the top of the net. Prosser continued the rally with a shot up the middle at 25:37.

Margie Anderson got UMass to within one at 34:56 with a shot just getting by Fisher goalie Dorothy Kelly, as it squeaked through the left post. The pesky Fisher midfield allowed very few chances for UMass to tie; they let the clock run out by taking their time whenever they had a throw-in or a penalty shot.

UMass left Brown University and the first Regional Tournament for women's soccer in fourth place, behind co-champions Cortland State and Harvard (in a final that lasted through regulation, both overtime periods, and sudden death, before being called on account of darkness), and Fisher; UMass finished ahead of Brown, Vermont, UConn, and Penn State.

NUMMO NEWS

Nummo News is editorially independent of the Massachusetts Daily Collegian. It exists due to the prior struggles of Black students to obtain consistent coverage of Third World News.

volume 8 issue 9 13 november 1979

BLACK HOMECOMING WEEK

Photo By Ed Cohen

Mark Hickson, Pevell Shepp, Tony Parham, Marvin Jones and Rick Scott Gordon of New Earth Ensemble jam for the crowd Friday at Hampden

Photo By Ed Cohen

Semaj pleased the crowd with his talents during homecoming.

written by Barron Roland and Karen Thomas

Black Homecoming Week, sponsored by the Afrikan-American Students Organization (Afrik-Am) of the University of Massachusetts-Amherst, scheduled a number of events that began November 5, and concluded November 9.

On November 5, students from the UMass community participated in a demonstration for Human Rights, at the United Nations in New York City.

The protest was in honor of Black Solidarity Day which is recognized on the first Monday in November. Traditionally the day is an attempt to unite Black People nationwide. Black Homecoming was trying to form the same unity, here on the UMass campus amongst the Black Students through its week of events.

Cuban activist, historian and scholar, Pedro Serviat Rodriquez, spoke at the Campus Center Aud., Tuesday November 6, concerning racism discrimination and the present political and social situation in Cuba. The lecture was sponsored by several organizations including Afrik-Am. (Distinguished Visitor Program, Ahora, Office of Third World Affairs, Commuter Collective and the Venceremos Brigade).

Thursday, November 8, CCEBS male staff played against the students' team in a basketball game at 7:30 in the Boyden Gym. The old men could not keep up with the devastating youthful squad who beat CCEBS Staff by a marginal Score of 55-54.

A bus trip to a Chicopee roller skating rink was attended by 50 or 60 Students.

Black Homecoming Week concluded on Friday, November 9 with a variety show "Comprehend This" Afrik-Am's president Semaj Lycurgus sang some contemporary ballards. Dusk, a dance duet of Patti O'Neal and Jose Lyon, along with guest dancer Olivia Ilaro performed with admirable finese. The Voices of New Africa House performed and participated in sing alongs with the New Earth Ensemble. In all Black Homecoming week proved to be a series of successful events that provided both culture and social activists for the Black community.

Slander Of Three Black Women

On Thursday, November 1, 1979. the Amherst Student reported article by Rossanne Haggerty that William Russell, part owner of Russells' Liquor Store, told a story of three black women, one Amherst College librarian, one Amherst College librarian, one Amherst College student, one Hampshire College student, who threatened and attacked verbally the employee in Russells' Store, Rusell himself, and the police, and tried to overtly steal one bottle of wine and a six pack of beer.

The facts of the incident are thus documented.

1. The incident happened Saturday, September 29, 1979
2. According to Rossanne Haggerty, William Russell refused to say anything about the incident after repeated attempts by various reporters.
3. A support demonstration for the three black women was held Saturday, October 27, on the Amherst Commons accross the street from Russells Liquor Store; over 200 persons present.
4. William Russell finally talks to Rossanne Haggerty October 31, Monday. October 31, Monday, was also the day Nummo News published the photograph by Janet Kinnae with Rusell and two Police Forcing 95lb. Ada Griffin out of the store. The three black women are Shelia Johnson, Amherst College librarian, Ada Griffin, Hampshire College student and Gina Stevens, Amherst College student.

INCONSTANCY OF TESTIMONY

According to Russells tesimony, quoting the Amherst student, he was standing at the door trying to lock it.

1. The clerk did ask for the ID, but it was not flung back at Johnson. "The clerk was moving to the cash register while handing it back to her and simply dropped it."
2. "Right off the back she jumped on him for that; pointed at him and shouted that he threw it." (Shelia Johnson is 24 years old, barely 90lbs, and pursuing a professional career at Amherst College as a librarian. She has absolutely no prior record of involvement with police or courts in any fashion.
3. "She kept shouting louder and louder and pretty soon had attracted everyone's attention."
4. "The clerk had been apologizing all the while, at least three times."
5. He explained that he was in a rush to take care of the customers quickly before it was time to close and had dropped it accidentally, but she refused to accept his apology."
6. "Johnson then refused to pay for the liquor and consequently the clerk took the bag containing the liquor and put it on the floor behind the counter."
7. "As he turned to wait on another customer, one of the women ran behind the counter, took the bag and started to leave the store. The Clerk shouted that the women had not paid for the liquor, and Russell attempted to take the bag from her."
8. The woman, according to Russell, "had the look of evil in her eyes, and said the nastiest thing I've ever heard."
9. "He released his hold on the bag, and the woman ran out of the store with the "stolen" goods. Quoting Russell directly "maybe she thought we owed it to her or something, but I had to consider it stolen."
10. "He then instructed one of the clerks to lock the door, and went to the front of the store to ask the two remaining women to pay for the purchase. When they refused, he phoned the police."
11. "Following the call, the two women all but pleaded to pay for the merchandise. They could have left any time if they had paid. All I was interested in was avoiding a scene. The women then paid the $6.50 charge for the liquor, and Russell promised that he would speak to the clerk who had upset Johnson."
12. "When Russell unlocked the door to allow them to leave, however, the women who had taken the package ran back empty-handed, grabbed a bottle, and threatened to "break every bottle in this place if her friends were detained any longer."
13. Russell reports that the women "verbally abused" the three police officers, and refused to heed their repeated requests to leave the store. "They physically fought you name it, they did it. The only thing the police did was try to get them out of the store." End of Russells testimony.

The testimony of tho three women states the following.

1. Only one person dealt directly with the clerk, and this was Shelia Johnson.
2. Shelia was asked to show ID which she did which was then thrown on the floor.
3. In disbelief, Shelia waited, pondered her reaction, then proceeded with plan to approach the situation. She ordered one bottle of wine and one six pack of beer, which she paid for immediately.
4. She refused to pick up her ID and asked the clerk to see the manager.
5. The clerk ignored her, asked her to leave the store, them went back to call the police.
6. Shelia then gave the beer and wine to Gina Stevens who then proceeded out the store.
7. The police came into the store as Gina started out. The clerk yelled that Gina had not paid for the Liquor. Gina stopped at the door and replied that the liquor was paid for.
8. One of the police officers grabbed Gina, twisted her arm around her back, and shoved her up against the shelves of Liquor. Gina was then handcuffed and dragged across the street to the police station, the officer banging her against the curb in the process. According to Janet Kinnae "I thought it was a man the way they were handeling her." Janet Kinnae happened along the street and saw Gina Stevens being dragged across the street. She also saw the crowd around Russells entrance.
9. There upon Ada Griffin responded verbally. Verbally rehetoric is said to have happened about this time. Two other police grabbed Ada Griffin, threw her onto the floor, pinned her down and handcuffed her. Janet Kinnae went throught the crowd, saw Ada on the floor with the two police on her, and proceeded to photograph it. The police captain came through the crowd at this point and Janet's photo of Ada on the floor was spoiled. Janet then stepped back and took a picture of Ada being forced threw the door by two police men.
10. Shelia Johnson was then handcuffed by a fourth police man and taken into the police station.
11. Ada Griffin and Gina Stevens were both dragged to the police station. All three were handcuffed. Shelia Johnson did walk into the police station.

The questions to be considered are:

1. If the women were stealing, why would they do so overtly:
2. Why were they charged with disorderly conduct if they were stealing:
3. Why would two highly educated adult women weighing less than 200lbs. collectively threaten and attack a store of male employees and police, both parties out numbered them:
4. Why would Russell refuse to give any public statement about the incident until October 31, one month and two days after the incident, and after the demonstration; and after the photograph showed Russell himself with two police forcing 95lbs. handcuffed Ada Griffin out the door:

Some facts to be considered about the three black women, or the society in general.

1. Shelia Johnson is a responsible librarian. Librarians are skilled in manner and character as quiet and intelligent people.
2. Amherst does have a history of racism of which all non-white peoples are certainly conscience. Jose Pontes committed suicide or was killed in a Southwest dormitory. Black women especially have a history of violence. Black women constantly report harrassment and verbal abuse, threats, and outright physical violence in Amherst. Seta Rampersad died in the company of three white people and no one is guilty of her death. One black woman, a graduate student is paralized for life; she was found near death and physically marred. This year Black women have reported threats and dangerous situations in Southwest residential area at night and across the street from the New Africa House at Wheeler dorm.

The article by Megan Marshall is true to some extent. Blacks and women especially try to avoid travelling at night. When walking by the road, especially, whites ride by threatening verbally.

These women were not of the type nor character to attack a liquor store or the police. In the past, the legal system has not allowed blacks and women any real justice for those guilty of the crimes. Why would these black women then throw away their clean goals and clean record by attacking the Amherst police.

EWART GUINIER: Father Of Black Studies

(Nov. 5) Professor Ewart Guinier of Harvard University, considered the father of black studies, spoke at Smith's Afr0-American studies department presentation of the major, about the importance of African history in black studies' programs in colleges and universities.

Guinier began by discussing the nature of black studies: Black studies is the examination of the black experience - that is, the black experience as perceived through a black perspective; and by black experience we mean whatever happened in black life. We must be aware of the violence of our history. It was a history of force-hood and enslavement: you saw just a little bit of the brutality of slavery in Roots, if you watched Roots. Survival of an economically profitable insult- i.e., the American slavery system - is a measure of the stamina and the will of black people. The black experience is not what whites want to believe is the black experience. The point of view of black people must be recognized as the only valid perspective; therefore, black words should be used for black studies. How can anyone study the black experience, unless they use black people's words?"

When a Smith student asked whether whites should teach black studies, Guinier said that they could, but "first they must study the history of black people; for the history of a people is vital in the understanding of that people's culture, and thus, they will be more able to sympathize with their present situation. How that white teacher sees the black community will effect his ability to approach black studies with an open mind. But there are few and far between whites who can consider themselves competent to teach the black experience; for one must have an experience of the black experience, not simply the literary knowledge of black people. Black studies goes beyond the literary and historical nuances available to those interested in the subject - it must have been felt, in some way, by the person who attempts to convey an awareness of the black experience."

In expressing his views on the growth of black mythology within the white community - that is, their ideas were of the black experience as they choose to perceive them - Guinier addressed the Negro Question as the "deceit of Reconstruction." The Reconstruction Era was, according to Guinier, "a denial of both the Civil War and of slavery. The Negro Questoin was in fact an attempt to validate the myth of black inferiority."

Guinier also noted the role of W.E.B. DuBois, writer, philosopher and civil rights activist, on the formation of black studies programs in colleges and universities. According to Guinier, DuBois emphasized three motiffs: "the import of searching for truth; pride in race - that is, finding out the truth of ones people and their history ; and the ability to serve all humanity, not just blacks." Guinier went on to say, "Black studies searches for truth; it promotes pride in ones race; and is a service to all mankind." •

BLACK MASS COMMUNICATIONS PROJECT

BMCP

BROADCASTING SCHEDULE

- Sunday 6–11 am "Glory Road Gospel" with Rev Pearson
- Sunday 6pm–2am "Jublation Jazz"
- Monday 10am–2pm Black Classical Music with Sam Gilford
- Monday 6–7pm "News Magazine" Public Affairs show with Ujamaa and Gary Lee

Monday 7–10pm " Concept Latino" with Carlos Gonzalez

Tuesday 10am–2pm "Black Spectrums" with Valerie Hamilton

Tuesday 10pm–2am "Spirits Past and Present" with Khalil Reed

Tuesday 2am–6am "Ladies Nite" with Lezlie Harrison and Nancy Brooks

Wednesday 6–10am "Black Classical Music for a Wednesday Morning Wakeup" wth Rick Grant

Thursday 10am– 2pm Your hostess is Kindall Hudgins

Friday 10am–2pm "Talk of the Town" with Merritt Crawford

Saturday 2–6pm "Pan Afrique" with Kari Njiiri

6–10pm "Variation" with K–Rock

10pm–2am "Family and Friends" with Ujamaa

2–6am "Giant Steps" with EDCohen

- The first four listing are not designated BMCP air Time.

AFRO-AMERICAN SOLIDARITY WITH CUBA

By Johnetta B. Cole. (PART I) A reprint from the Black Scholar

Especially let the colored American realize that wherever battle is made against despotism and oppression, wherever humanity struggles for National existence and recognition, there his sympathies should be felt, and his word and succor inspiring, encouraging and supporting.[1]

THE 19th CENTURY: AFRO-AMERICANS IN SUPPORT OF CUBAN INDEPENDENCE

When the Cuban people waged their first major battles against despotism and oppression in 1868, progressive Afro-American people in the U.S. honored their responsibility to support the struggle for Cuban independence. This 19th-century expression of Afro-American internationalism was a prologue to later events, and most importantly, a guide to the future.[2] The bases of black American support for the Cuban independence struggles of the 1870s are relevant to a consideration of our responsibility to stand in solidarity with the Cuban revolution now, in the era of the 1970s. Moreover, as we struggle for meaningful transformation of U.S. society, there is much that we can learn from Cuba.

In their support of Cuban independence, such Afro-American leaders as Frederick Douglass and Henry Highland Garnet shared the position of the Cuban patriots Carlos Manuel De Cespedes and Antonio Maceo: genuine Cuban independence required the abolition of slavery and the incorporation of black people into the liberation struggle. The forces that bound those 19th-century figures are repeated, a hundred years later, in the words and actions of leaders of the Cuban and Angolan revolutions:

> . . . this is what comrade Neto means when he affirms that what unites us is not geography but ideology. But history also unites us; our tradition of struggle against slavery, against colonialism, against imperialism unites us. . . .
>
> Angolan brothers and sisters:
> We are not only united in ideology, but also in the blood that has been shed, in the common struggle against imperialism and for the victory of the peoples! (Fidel Castro)[3]

We turn now to a brief summary of the views of Cuban and black American leaders on Cuba's first war for independence.

"THE CRY OF YARA" AND "THE PROTEST OF BARAGUA"

Carlos Manuel De Cespedes, in what has come to be called "The Cry of Yara," launched the Cuban war of independence against Spain, freed his own slaves and incorporated them into his small army. Among the announced objectives of the revolutionary junta was the creation of equality among all Cubans. The revolts of Cuban slaves and the demands of Cuban patriots over half a century found expression in that section of the manifesto which stated: "We only want to be free and to see all men with us equally free, as the Creator intended all mankind to be. Our earnest belief is that all men are brethren." Thus a war was begun that held the Spanish army in check for more than a decade. More importantly, the armed struggle initiated by De Cespedes broke the back of annexationism, reformism, and slavery, while making pro-independence the dominant political ideology of Cuba.

Although De Cespedes' act of freeing his own slaves did not lead to the immediate emancipation of all slaves in Cuba, the cause of abolition was heightened by the Cry of Yara.[4] Given the odds against the "Independistas," the leaders of the Ten Year War (1868-1878) concluded that victory could not be achieved without involving the black masses in the struggle. When military necessity compelled this decision, "the Cuban masses succeeded in transforming the character of the revolution, imbuing it with a democratic and abolitionist purpose" (Foner 1963:172-173).

Two days after the Yara Declaration, Antonio Maceo, the Bronze Titan of Cuba, together with his father and brothers, joined the struggle for Cuban independence. Maceo so distinguished himself that he rapidly rose to the rank of brigadier general. While others were prepared to accept a treaty with Spain (the Pact of Zanjón) in order to end the Ten Year War, Maceo, more than any other Cuban patriot, insisted on the abolition of slavery as a precondition to ending the war and establishing Cuban independence.

Maceo called for an assembly of the rebels of Oriente Province. The decision of the assembly was at one with Maceo's position, and on March 15, 1878, a small group of black and white Cuban officers took their decision to a meeting, in Baraguá, with the representatives of Spain. The terms of the pact were read.

> At this point, Maceo began talking. With measured words, putting into each phrase "dignified and expressive revolutionary firmness of a leader of a slave people," he told the representative of the Spanish monarch that neither he nor his companions from Oriente were ready to accept the Pact of Zanjón which had been signed without consulting them. They still hoped that the island of Cuba and its people would achieve peace and happiness. But this would be impossible without liberty. He could not believe in the sincerity of the reforms that Martinez Campos [a Spanish General] had promised because these must be preceded by the immediate abolition of slavery. (Foner 1963:268)

THE VOICE OF CITIZENS OF AFRICAN DESCENT

From the very outbreak of the First Cuban War for Independence, the voice of black America was among those of progressive peoples in the United States who joined in the world opinion proclaiming sympathy with the Cuban insurgents and demanding the recognition of Cuban belligerency. In the words of Frederick Douglass, "The first gleam of the sword of freedom and independence in Cuba secured my sympathy with the revolutionary cause, and it did seem to me that our government ought to have made haste to accord the insurgents belligerent rights" (Foner 1963:200). Douglass, in his editorials, implored Afro-American youth to surrender their citizenship "to join their fortunes with those of their suffering brethren" in Cuba. He argued for the convening of a National Colored Convention for the cause of Cuba and urged that monies be raised to publish the constitution of the Republic of Cuba–a constitution which declared the abolishment of slavery.

In December 1872, when it was clear that President Grant would not move in the direction progressive U.S. peoples demanded, black Americans sent out a call in New York City for a meeting at Cooper Institute on behalf of the Cuban freedom fighters. In the major addresses by Henry Highland Garnet and Samuel R. Scottron, chairman and secretary respectively of the Cuban Anti-Slavery Committee, the essential relationship between Cuban independence and the abolishment of slavery was underlined.

> Let the colored people of America avail themselves of the sacred right of petition to assist the struggling patriots of Cuba, and disenthrall from the most tyrannical slavery five thousand of our brethren now held as chattel slaves by the government of Spain. (Foner 1963:242)

The Afro-American leadership also stressed that black and white Cubans were fighting side by side, with black officers in some cases commanding white troops.

The black Americans gathered at Cooper Institute unanimously declared their allegiance to the side of the Cuban patriots, whom they said had "already decreed and put in practice the doctrine of the equality and freedom of all men." They argued further that Spanish rule continuing in Cuba would, by contrast, "rivet more firmly the chains of slavery on our brethren, reestablishing slavery where it does not now exist and restoring the horrors of the African slave trade and the Coolie traffic," while the "success of the Cuban Patriots will give to the whole inhabitants of the island, freedom and equality before the law" (Foner 1963:242).

An article in the December 15, 1872 New York Herald urged Grant to act in the interest of the Cuban patriots, and argued, "The voice of this Cooper Institute meeting is the voice of all our citizens of African descent, including especially those four millions lately released from the shackles of slavery" (Foner 1963: 243). The Cuban Anti-Slavery Committee collected 5,000 signatures on a petition in support of Cuban Independence and a delegation headed by Garnet presented the cause of Cuba before President Grant, Secretary of State Fish and other U.S. government officials. The failure of U.S. officials ever to stand in support of the Cuban patriots does not dim this sterling expression of Afro-American internationalism.

The Protest of Baraguá in 1878 did not go unnoticed by progressive black Americans. Samuel Scottron, secretary of the American and Foreign Anti-Slavery Society and also chairman of the Cuban Anti-Slavery Committee, sent a message to Antonio Maceo on the events at Baraguá:

> My society has read with infinite pleasure your honorable and just demands in the recent conference with General Martinez Campos. You have demanded the immediate abolition of slavery as a price for your allegiance. Few men in the history of the world have had the good fortune of finding themselves in such an honorable position as that which you now occupy. And none have occupied one more noble. . . . The friends of liberty in America as in Europe have their eyes anxiously fixed on you, hoping that perhaps you will save that noble Cuban army which successfully sustains the flag of liberty. (Foner 1963:270)

The shared hopes of Cuban and Afro-American leaders for the total abolition of slavery and the independence of Cuba in the 1870s did not reach fruition; but in the ultimate course of our hemisphere's future, the efforts of those patriots of the Americas were not in vain.

THE 20th CENTURY: IF IT COULD HAPPEN IN CUBA, THEN WHY NOT HERE?

In the 100 years that have passed since Afro-American peoples in the U.S. expressed and acted upon their support for Cuban independence, radical changes have taken place in the constellation of world forces. The consolidation of socialism in many countries, and the mounting successes of national liberation movements in Africa, Asia, and Latin America, have created world conditions that contrast starkly to the days of Douglass and Maceo. But while the descendants of Maceo have gained the liberation he stood for, the struggle continues for the heirs of Frederick Douglass.

Just as Afro-Americans were drawn to the Cuban Ten Year's War in large measure because of the abolitionist principles of the Cuban patriots, increasing numbers of black Americans are attracted to the Cuban Revolution today largely because of Cuba's efforts to eliminate institutionalized racism. Thus to black Americans in the 1970s, as in the 1870s, the "race question" is of major importance in viewing events in Cuba. Indeed, Cuba's success in combatting racism in its institutionalized forms is of significance in a worldwide context: it is symptomatic of the advances of that socialist revolution; it is one of the major threats which the Cuban revolution poses to the U.S. government; and it is clearly a symbol of hope and inspiration to all people of color.

One can find in Cuba today those who continue to hold attitudes based on the assumption of the superiority of whites over blacks: a search for such attitudes in Cuba is not easily rewarded, but one's chances of finding racist views are best among the old, among those whose most important life experiences occurred before rather than after the triumph of the revolution of 1959. However, in Cuba, the death toll has sounded for institutionalized racism. The revolutionary government is explicitly anti-racist, the masses of Cuban people are incorporated into the revolutionary process, and the political education of Cuban adults as well as youths contributes to the creation of a society where people's actions are consistent with the anti-racist laws of Cuban society. And all of this has happened in the brief lifetime of the Cuban revolution.

There is considerable evidence that before the intervention of U.S. imperialism, racism in Cuba never reached the intensity and blatantness of the U.S. variety. Part of the explanation lies in the fact that each era of Cuban revolutionary leadership consciously combined the issues of national independence and attacks on racism. However, the coming of the "Yankees" meant not only economic exploitation by U.S. business interests, but also the transporting of U.S.-style Jim Crow to Cuba. A description of Cuba during the era of U.S. imperialism makes the point:

> In flagrant contradiction to Cuban laws the hotels owned by or frequented by U.S. citizens do not admit either Negroes or mulattos; likewise, the North American enterprises impose their own regulation in this respect and establish a sort of industrial extra-territoriality. The big sugar mills of the United Fruit Company have built whole villages on their own grounds to lodge their personnel. . . . There are special streets on which only "Americans" live, in others, the Cubans, and in still others, the "colored people." No Negro, be it man, woman or child, is permitted to walk along the streets on which white Cubans live and, of course, it is entirely out of the question where the Americans live.[5]

But revolution came. The Cuban people, in 1959, finally ended domination by foreign capital and the Cuban bourgeoisie and thus opened the possibility of finally ridding their society of racism.

Only two months after the revolution triumphed, Fidel Castro delivered a major speech on the question of racism in Cuba. In his speech, called "Proclamation Against Discrimination," Castro exposed the discrimination that existed in Cuba in both work centers and places of recreation, and proclaimed the right of every Cuban to employment, schools, and recreational areas.

In the years that followed the triumph of the revolution, Cubans consistently pursued policies and built institutions that make racial equality a reality. Through the process of socialist transformation, inequalities in Cuba are being eliminated. Since, in any society, moves toward equality will provide the most gains for those who have suffered the greatest deprivation, it follows that blacks in Cuba are among the most prominent beneficiaries of the revolution. Observable improvements in the conditions of black people in Cuba stem from concrete efforts by the revolution to eliminate artificial differences between men and women, to equalize advantages for those who live in the countryside and in the cities, and to honor and reward those who work with their hands as well as those who work with their heads.

With the creation of free education and free health care, the elimination of unemployment, and progress toward providing low-cost decent housing for all, black Cubans, again, have experienced the

Contd on page 4

THE UNITED FARM WORKERS AND THE 1979 LETTUCE STRIKE-BOYCOTT

The 1979 Lettuce Strike

Farmworkers leader Cesar Chavez

Summary of Marshall Ganz' report to the National Farm Worker Ministry Board in Salimas, CA. 5-15-79 (Marshall Ganz is a member of the UFW Board member.)

In order to explain the issues in this strike, it's necessary to go back to the beginning. The contracts were due to expire at the end of the year so last August (1978) the union held a series of meetings with the workers in the industry. We found out that everyone wanted a lot more money-a lot more. So we did a study to see where things stood.

The first Sun Harvest (InterHarvest at that time) contract contained a base rate of $2 per hour (1970). The last base rate was 3.70 per hour (1978). When we applied cost of living figures, using 1967 dollars, we found out that the $2 in 1970 was worth $1.71 and the $3.70 in 1978 was worth $1.84. This means that after 8 years the base rate per hour had increased 13 cents. You can see that we have a double burden-low wages to start with and a cost of living problem, too. For example, the 1970 agreement called for 40 and a half cents per box for lettuce cutters, which equals 32 cents in 1967 dollars. In 1978 the rate was 57 cents per box, which equals 28 cents in 1967 dollars. This means that there had been a loss of 4 cents after 8 years.

You see the same picture when you look at benefits. In 1970, the contribution to the medical plan was 10 cents per hour for each employee, which was actually worth 8.9 cents. In 1978 the contribution was 16 and a half cents, which was worth 8.5 cents.

Then we studied the industry. Salinas is like any other industrial town. You go down along Abbot and Merril Streets and there are the coolers and packing houses. The only difference is that there are also labor camps right in the middle of these industrial facilities. Labor is seen as just another commodity. You go to pick up the people where you get the other equipment that you need.

Thirty-five companies dominate the whole industry. Ninety percent of the lettuce in the winter months comes from the Imperial Valley. Eight-seven percent of all U.S. lettuce comes from the Salinas Valley in the summer months. There are three dominant companies. First is Sun Harvest, which ships about 10 million cartons a year, with a sales value of $50-70 million. Second is Bud Antle. Both of these are subsidiaries of food conglomerates, United Brand and Castle and Cookie. The third major company is Bruce Church. The companies which make up the lettuce industry got organized during the days of the Bracero program. They have remained organizated and are more unified by far than any other segment of California agriculture.

We needed to find out if the industry had been making money. We looked at the figures and found out that in 1970 the Salinas lettuces crop had been worth $69 million. In 1978 the lettuce crop was worth $210 million. The per acre yeild increased from 540 to 620 cartons. Profits in 1970 had been $6.6 million. In 1978 the profits for Salinas lettuce growers (in Salinas Valley alone and on lettuce alone) was $71 million.

It is very revealing to see when increases came in the base rate. From 1970 to 1975 the base rate increased only 43 cents from $2.00 to $2.43. And then in the summer of 1975 the base rate jumped from $2.43 to $2.95. It had taken 5 years to get a 43 cent increase and then all at once there was an increase of 52 cents. And the reason was that ALRB election were to begin in the fall of 1975. The same thing happen in 1976, Just before elections were to resume, there was another increase of 45 cents to $3.40. The growers were trying to win the loyality of the workers with these increase. So we know if the industry can come up with these increases for political reasons, they can also afford them when economic situation of the workers require it.

We also looked at the wages of the other employees in the industry. We wanted to know if everyone was in the same situation as the farm workers. The cooler workers, members of the Meatcutters Union, made 3.50 per hour in 1970. In 1978 the hourly rate was $8.28 which is an increase of $4.78. The drivers, who are members of the Teamsters Union, were making $4.30 in 1975 and $7.10 an hour in 1978. The UFW pension plan calls for a contribution of 15 cents per hour. Three years ago, the average contribution in California was 81 cents. The cooler workers get 5 times more than the farm workers in their medical plan, 6 times more for their pension, and 3 times more in wages.

On January 5th the union presented its economic proposal to the industry. The proposal included a percentage formula for the medical plan rather than an hourly formula-as a way to deal with the fewer hours worked per day in the lettuce fields. The proposals also included cost of living language (like the UAW agreements) and paid union reps (also like the UAW). Having union representatives who travel with each crew is the only way we can administer the contracts. Since the crews move from place to place, there just is not any other way to do it. Our proposal also included an increase in the pension plan, has expenses, per diem for travel and guarantees of earnings for the first week of the harvest.

The way it has always been and the way it is now is that farm workers pay out of their pockets their travel expenses. What other industry operated like this• If a company asks you to move, isn't it common sense that the company is going to cover those travel costs• And if the company asks you to report for work in Arizona and you live in Calexico and have to drive 3 hours round trip, why should this be free time•

So often you hear that the pay and benefits we have gotten is "good...for farm workers." But why should farm workers be judged on a different scale than anyone else• Our easlier struggles were for recognition. Now the workers are seeking just the beginnings of equality. It is not so much to expect.

On January 18, 1979, the growers responded to our economic proposal. These companies, who had supported Nixon, Ford, Reagan, etc. told us it was their patriotic duty to uphold Carter's wage guidelines. They said they could not offer anything beyond 7 percent. In addition to offering only 2 cents for the medical plan, they wanted to gut language we already had in the contract covering the good standing of union members and maintenance of standards. The growers also wanted to take away the hiring hall.

We estimate that by the end of April, the industry had lost $50 million as a result of the strike. This does not count the thousands of dollars the growers have put up for their public relations campaign. This is money that could have been used to settle the strike. Instead, it is either lost or has been used to try to break the strike.

Contd from page 3

AFRO-AMERICAN...

greatest gains from the revolutionary process. And finally, with the revitalization of African cultural heritage and widespread acknowledgement of the contribution of black people to the revolutionary process in Cuba—a point to which this volume speaks—all Cubans are able to understand and endorse Fidel Castro's statement to U.S. imperialists:

> Now Angola is the source of friction. The imperialists seek to prevent us from aiding our Angolan brothers. But we must tell the Yankees to bear in mind that we are a Latin-American nation and a Latin-African nation as well.
>
> African blood flows freely through our veins. Many of our ancestors came as slaves from Africa to this land. As slaves they struggled quite a great deal. They fought as members of the Liberating Army of Cuba. We're brothers and sisters of the people of Africa and we're ready to fight on their behalf. (Castro 1976:8)

The U.S. Reaction:
Military and Economic Aggressions

TO BE CONTINUED NEXT WEEK

SPECIAL REPORT:

U.S. MOROCCAN POLICY: How Much Of A Change ?

"We fully intend to find other, less controversial ways to get these items to the Moroccans," a State Department official said with surprising candor last year, after the administration bowed to Congressional opposition and deferred its proposed sale of counter-insurgency airplanes and helicopters to King Hassan II.

Twenty months later, the administration has now agreed to the King's request for OV-10 Broncos and Cobra helicopters armed with TOW anti-tank missiles. More importantly, the U.S. has sanctioned use of American arms in the contested territory of Western Sahara, where POLISARIO guerrillas say they will intensify their independence battle.

"This decision indicates an increased willingness to sell Morocco arms that are well-suited for anti-guerrilla operations in the southern desert region—both the Western Sahara and the southern parts of Morocco proper," one official explained. "Under our previous policy, we would normally not have sold Morocco that kind of arms."

"It now appears," he added, "particularly since the POLISARRIO is coming from and across the Western Sahara territory to attack military and other targets inside Morocco's historical borders, that what we have been doing in effect is denying Morocco arms it needs to defend itself."

President Jimmy Carter's decision comes after lengthy discussion within the government and intense lobbying by Morocco's friends and paid agents (see AFRICA NEWS, October 19 and 26).

Before any of the proposed sales can be completed, the administration must submit to Congress detailed documentation outlining its reasons for approving the transactions and the implications the deal will have for U.S. foreign relations.

According to the established procedure, the Congress has a 20-day 'pre-notification' period plus 30 days after formal notification in which to overturn an administration decision. Both Houses must vote in favor of nullifying a sale to block it.

In the House of Representatives, the Africa subcommittee is solidly opposed to President Carter's decision. Chairman Stephen Solarz has warned that the arms sales "will prolong the war rather than shorten it." The Senate Africa subcommittee chair, George McGovern, has published a statement in the Congressional Record also opposing the move.

Opponents of the sale face an uphill battle, however, to win a majority vote in both chambers, especially since some influential members, including Senators Richard Stone (D-Fla) and Jacob Javits (R-NY), have spoken out in favor of selling additional arms to Hassan.

Even so, the administration also anticipates problems. The already crowded Congressional calendar may make consideration of the proposal difficult before holiday adjournment. Yet, there is uneasiness that Congress will protest any attempt to make the sales without discussion on Capitol Hill. And several members who had agreed to support additional aid for Moroccan defense may balk at the OV-10s, since the reconnaissance aircraft is so clearly designed for the kind of conflict Morocco faces in the Western Sahara.

Administration sources say they are presenting the proposal to sell OV-10s first, while other recommendations are being finalized.

In agreeing to the king's request, President Carter has opted for a policy which all his predecessors have followed since Moroccan independence in 1956.

President Eisenhower twice met Hassan's father, King Mohamed V, and in 1960 approved a major bilateral security agreement. As is usual in such pacts, the accord prohibits the use of U.S.-supplied arms outside the recipient's territory. In the case of Morocco, however, that clause has not been enforced, and Hassan II has repeatedly sent F-5 bombers and other American-made equipment into the Saharan fray. The administration now says it accepts Morocco's right to employ American arms in the desert war but that it still does not recognize the claim to legal sovereignty over the territory.

Although close ties are longstanding, the testing time for U.S./Moroccan relations came in the mid-1970s. Fearing that Spain would decolonize Spanish Sahara rather than hand it over to Morocco, Hassan appealed to Washington. A flurry of U.S. diplomatic activity preceeded the signing of the Madrid Accord on November 14, 1975 (see box).

After Morocco entered the Saharan war, the Ford administration responded with stepped up assistance. Arms sales, which had been running at less than $10 million per year, jumped to $296 million in fiscal year 1975 and $104 million in 1976. Foreign Military Sales credits were also raised in 1975 from $3.6 million to $14.9 million. They were increased to $30.9 million in 1976 and 1977, and to $45 million in 1978. U.S. support for Hassan has been evident in other ways as well:

1976: During the twelve months following the Madrid Accord, the U.S. approved the transfer of a large number of American-made airplanes and artillery from Iran and Jordan, according to data compiled by British journalist Tony Hodges, who says some 16 F-5A jet fighters were apparently transferred from Iran to Jordan and then to Morocco.

1977: In October, Westinghouse announced it had signed with Morocco a $200 million contract to build a nationwide tactical air defense system. A company official told AFRICA NEWS that the area of installation would include Western Sahara.

January 1978: The administration informed Congress of its intention to sell Morocco 24 OV-10s and more than two dozen Cobra helicopter gunships valued at more than $100 million. The U.S. government was to finance $45 million with Foreign Military Sales credits.

February 1978: Already besieged by heavy criticism of a major Middle East arms package, the administration decided to defer action on the Moroccan request. A strong letter of opposition from then-Senate Africa subcommittee chair Dick Clark was an important factor in the decision.

November 1978: King Hassan visited the U.S., pleading for more arms but publicly rejecting any U.S. prohibition on using American military aid in Western Sahara.

February 1979: The State Department approved the sale of 6 Chinook CH 47 helicopters, for which the manufacturer had signed a sales contract one year earlier without obtaining the required U.S. license (see AFRICA NEWS, Feb. 16). Arms experts say the aircraft can be used to position in battle the mobile FAAR (forward area alerting radar) system, shipped earlier in the year to Morocco in what was reported as the first transfer to a foreign country.

March 1979: The administration shipped nearly $3 million in spare parts for F-5s and C-130 transport planes. The deal was described as part of a continuing supply for Morocco's U.S.-made arsenal.

May 1979: The State Department approved a proposal by a subsidiary of the Northrop Corporation to design an electronic surveillance system for Morocco after modifications in the company's original proposal, made seven months earlier.

Heated disagreement persists about the psychological effect on Morocco of President Carter's decision. BBC reports from Rabat say the king not only believes the arms will help him win the war but interprets the gesture as an indication of political support for his Saharan takeover. On the other hand, a State Department official insists that "we have a pretty firm idea of where we are going, and we're determined to make this policy [of promoting negotiations] work."

TURN TO PAGE 6

Did Kissinger and his CIA emissary arrange for the Moroccan takeover of Western Sahara?

KISSINGER'S WAR?

While Generalissimo Francisco Franco lay dying in Madrid, Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger dispatched Lt. Gen. Vernon Walters—then the second ranking official of the CIA—on a secret mission to the Mediterranean. As Spanish officials told it later, the intelligence agency's deputy director was part of a U.S. effort to pressure Spain into meeting Moroccan demands for a transfer of power in Western Sahara, a Spanish colony Morocco claimed.

Gen. Walters has confirmed in an interview with AFRICA NEWS that he played a role in the negotiations leading to the Madrid Accord, but he refuses to discuss details of the talks, saying, "It would look like the King of Morocco and the King of Spain are pawns of the United States, and that wouldn't be in anybody's interest."

Walters' memoirs of his years in the military and in intelligence (Silent Missions, Doubleday, 1978) detail his handling of delicate assignments, including setting up the Paris peace talks with the Vietnamese and arranging Kissinger's clandestine forays into China in 1971. Privately, though, Walters says his Western Sahara mission is still too sensitive to discuss.

Without Walters' story, it is difficult to evaluate the claims of certain Spanish military officials that the U.S. used Spain's desire for American arms as a lever to aid the Moroccan cause. But it is possible to set the context in which the negotiations between Spain and Morocco were carried out.

In May of 1975 President Gerald Ford visited Franco and tried to win renewals of leases for U.S. air and naval bases on Spanish soil. Spain countered in July with a request for $1.5 million in new American weapons. Although a treaty was drafted by fall, no agreement had been reached when the old one expired in October.

Early the next month, King Hassan launched the "Green March" of 350,000 peasants to plant the Moroccan flag in Western Sahara. The Spanish weekly newsmagazine posible voiced widespread rumors in Spain when it accused the U.S. secretary of state of helping to orchestrate the march, citing visits by "Kissinger confidants employed by the CIA" to both Madrid and Rabat in the days preceeding it.

Despite opposition from its own military, including the governor of Western Sahara, Spain offered no resistance to the advancing Moroccans and a week later signed the Madrid Accord, ceding administration of the Sahara to Morocco and Mauritania.

In January the United States and Spain signed a five-year treaty extending U.S. base rights in Spain and promising Spain $1.3 million in U.S. military aid. ■

Photo By Ed Cohen

Photo By Barron Roland

Photo By Ed Cohen

PHOTOS OF THE WEEK

CONT. FROM PAGE 5

What there is no quarrel over is the belief that the arms will not enable Hassan to win the war. Still, in the words of one official who opposed the arms sales from within the administration, "These things can sure help him do a lot more damage while he isn't winning. And in the Sahara desert, the only things to damage are the people." ■

THE 1,000-YEAR STRUGGLE FOR WESTERN SAHARA

1050 to 1150 A confederation of western Saharan tribes formed the Almoravid dynasty, which conquered all of Morocco and much of Spain during its century-long rule. One group of Almoravid clans laid the basis of the present Moroccan state, while a second group returned to the nomadic life of the desert.

1448 to 1884 European nations vied with each other and with local rulers for control of the forbidding coastline. In 1884, Spain claimed much of the current Western Sahara as a protectorate, citing documents signed by the independent tribes . . . who have on various occasions asked for and obtained the protection of the Spanish. This attempt at legitimacy proved embarrassing nearly a century later, when Spain argued before the World Court that the territory was uninhabited (terra nullius) at the time that the 1884 Berlin Conference of colonial powers recognized Spanish rule.

1890 to 1958 From central Saharan town of Smara, the charismatic religious leader Ma el-Aïnin fought French incursions into Mauritania to the south, as well as attempts by the Moroccan sultan to extend control from the north. A succession of courageous sons carried on the fight after the patriarch's death in 1910, also warring against the Spanish, who began trying to penetrate the interior from their capital, El Aaiun. Moroccan independence in 1956 fanned anti-colonial sentiments, and Spain withdrew to its coastal outposts.

1958 A combined campaign by the French army and the Spanish Foreign Legion at last conquered Western Sahara for Spain, after 78 years of nominal Spanish rule. In return for Moroccan recognition of Spanish presence in the Mediterranean enclaves of Ceuta and Melilla, Spain ceded to Morocco a northern slice of territory, extending to just south of Tarfaya, and the following year it relinquished the enclave of Ifni.

1973 After years of mounting nationalist agitation, several independence movements merged on May 10 to form the POLISARIO Front, which made its first armed attack ten days later, temporarily occupying a Spanish fort and capturing its weapons store. The group had few international contacts and little support, but Mauritania allowed it to open an office in Nouakchott.

1975 A visiting United Nations team concluded that the Saharan majority was "manifestly in favor of independence" and that POLISARIO had "considerable support among all sections of the population, and especially among women who, together with the young people and workers, are among its most active adherents." Journalists estimated that POLISARIO controlled some 60% of the area.

After the UN report was published, Algeria began to back the guerrillas, apparently with logistical as well as political support. Morocco persuaded Mauritania to join it in asserting claim to the territory.

In October the International Court of Justice considered briefs from Spain, Morocco and Mauritania, but advised that it found no legal or historic ties which should prevent the application of UN calls for self-determination.

Nevertheless, when Morocco sent 350,000 peasants on a march to claim the Sahara, Spain — under international pressure (see box) — yielded administration to Morocco and Mauritania through the Madrid Accord of November 14.

1976 to pres. With POLISARIO gaining both militarily and diplomatically, Spain's ruling coalition repudiated the Madrid Accord, saying Morocco had failed to consult the local population as required by the still-secret pact. Thirty-three countries have recognized the POLISARIO government, which was declared in 1976, and the Organization of African Unity repeatedly called for Saharan self-determination.

In 1979 Mauritania withdrew from the war, and Morocco annexed the entire Western Sahara. Charging that POLISARIO was a creation of neighboring Algeria, Morocco vowed to fight on. It intensified its search for military aid, particularly from the United States. ■

Photo By Barron Roland

asian affairs
平等團結
EQUALITY UNITY

A Look At The Woman Warrior

by EILEEN JAN WONG

When I was younger, all of my girlfriends read The Diary of Anne Frank. They were jewish and their mothers had told them to read the book as it deals with a DutchJewish girl's experiences during the Nazi period. My friends read it, hoping to understand better the meaning of theirJewish identities.

In many ways, The Woman Warrior is the Anne Frank diary for the Chinese American female. By reading it, one might understand more clearly the position of the Chinese in the American Society. The novel centers around Maxine Hong Kingston's childhood in the San Franciscan area in the 1950's and the 1960's. When East meets West, there is a clash. In a series of short stories, both humorous and sad, Ms. Kingston describes the conflict she has felt as a result of the mingling American and Chinese cultures.

Playing a dominant role in all of her vignettes are the ancient Chinese legends Ms. Kingston's mother told. Not desiring her daughter to forget the old ways nor to become westernized, the author's mother 'story-talked', giving vivid accounts on ghosts and Chinese warriors. AS a result, the author grew up slightly confused. If you will, imagine combining spirits and modern western ways. Then, try living in such an environment. A nearly impossible stance. What Ms. Kingston does in The Woman Warrior is to show how she, torn between two contrasting ways, has dealt in a trying situation.

When I began The Woman Warrior, I thought that I would have a great deal in common with the author. Afterall, I am a Chinese American female as she is. But I was wrong. I had never heard of her mother's 'story-talk' and in all my years, I have not felt the presence of ghosts. My parents expect all of their children ato attend college, the girls, too. When I wed, there will be no arranged marriage. And yet, I am confused.

Being a member of aminority group and being female are a tough combination. Each dictates a different role. I am not writing to verbalize my gripes but rather with the hope that my feelings are shared by others. Like the writer Maxine Hong Kingston, I am at crossroads. My skin is yellow and elsewhere I am White. Due to this, different things are expected of me. And which culture grasps the Chinese-American most strongly?

Prejudice is involved, not only by the skin color criteria. Even among the Chinese, it is. We look at fellow Chinese and test the bamboo shoots. Are you from the other side or are you American-born? Do you speak Chinese? Mandarin or Cantonese? The Chinese and American societies prefer boys. How many families mourn the birth if she is arose?

If people were to look at one another as individuals and not as stereotypes, living could be different. However, identities are saran wrapped by cultures and one must place one's background in its proper perspective. From within and from outside the plastic, the views are not easy.

Perhaps when I am a mother I will recommend The Woman Warrior to my children. I probabyl will Afterall, there is a view.

Haiko
by Jocelin Lee

Time
Will we be able
To succeed and overcome
Yes and time will tell

Friends
Chinese, Japanese,
Korean, Philipino,
AASA friends

China
China represents
Ancient Civilization,
Culture, and new growth.

Unity
Today is the day
All peoples bring unity
No fighting but peace

Symbols
Dragons and fishes
Symbols of our great cultures
Dragons and fishes

Who Am I ?

anonymous

Who am I?
I am the son of a restaurant worker.
I am the son of a garment worker.
My home is chinatown where
I live with the rats and the cockroaches.
I am the product of Chinese culture.
I am confused.
Confused because my parents and relatives
Tell me one thing.
Confused because my friends and school
Tell me another thing.
What shall I do
Who am I?

I went to the Asian American Students Association meetings
There, I felt I was not the only one with this problem.
A lot of people were asking the same question.

Asian·American Review

This magazine is a collection of poems and short stories written by Asian-Americans and others who wish to share their thoughts and creativity with everybody. The magazine is also an informative newsletter. If you wish to contribute any drawings, photos, essays or poems, then address your letters to: Asian-American Review, AASA Box 388 Student Union, Univeristy of Massachusetts. Copies will be limited and available in December (free).

Vietnamese Refugees Arrive In Israel

Editor's Note: This article was forwarded to Nummo News by Yitzak Santis. Mr. Santis left us the following article to show us that "Israel" is not all bad. We decided to print it to provide Mr. Santis a chance to prove his point. We will keep in touch with the plight of the Vietnamese boat people in "Israel." Hopefully they are fairing better there than in the United States. Thank you for your concern Mr. Santis.

By Michal Yudekman
Jerusalem Post Reporter

BEN GURION AIRPORT. One hundred and ninety-seven exhausted Vietnamese refugees descended the ramp of an El Al jet last week and took their first hesitant steps in their new home.

Comprised of refugees who had been in camps in Thailand, Singapore and Hongkong, and some 40 who were rescued at sea by the Israeli ship Zim Sydney, the group is the third to be settled by Israel.

Some 50 former Vietnamese refugees, now established in Israel, greeted the newcomers with Israeli flags and flags of the now defunct South Vietnam government. Posters in Vietnamese, English and Hebrew proclaimed: "Israel-the hope of the Vietnamese people," "Our deep gratitude to the government and people of Israel has saved our lives."

The refugees seemed confused and overcome by the enthusiastic welcome. As they moved towards the airport building they gazed with consternation at the cheerful faces of their Israeli compatriots. Some of them smiled hesitantly back and waved the little Vietnamese flags they had been given.

At a brief ceremony, held in the Absorption Ministry's reception hall in the terminial, ministry director-general Waldman welcomed the newcomers. He told them that they were refugees no longer.

Dr. Tran Quang Hua, head of the first group of Vietnamese refugees to be absorbed by Israel, almost three years ago, encouraged the newcomers, "Don't be afraid of comming to this new country. I came two years ago and am now proud of Israel," he said. Asked later if he found any friends among the new group, Hua replied: "Yes, 200 friends." Hua works at Sheba Medical Centre.

Amos Hannaya, head of the Sderot Local Council, welcomed the new arrivals, who will be spending the next three of four months in the absorption centre in the Negev town.

The great majority of refugees chosen by the Jewish Agency are young couples with no more than four children. They include locksmiths, motor technicians, seamstresses and one helicopter pilot.

After their stay in Sderot the refugees will be helped in finding permanent homes in various places in Israel according to available jobs and housing conditions, an Absorption Ministry spokesman told The Post.

Meanwhile Israeli peace activst Able Nathan returned from Thailand's border with Kampuchea last week and expressed the hope that Israel will send more than one team of doctors to the troubled region.

"One team of five doctors would be like a drop in the ocean," Nathan said.

Yehuda Avner, who heads the committee established by the Prime Minister's office to deal with aid for Kampuchea said that the team of five would be "the first of many which will follow as soon as the pioneer team reports on the situation."

Israel television last week announced plans for a special "telephone" benefit program to be broadcast on November 1. All the performers and technicians have volunteered their services, and plans have been made for a phone-in donation campaign for Kampuchean relief efforts.

Cambodian Aid Drive Begins At UMass

Students can donate their meal tickets starting today November 13th, 14th, and until noon the 15th. In return for not eating on the 15th, for each meal ticket, 98 cents will go to OXFAM-America. The organization is presently pullinga massive, international effort to aid the Cambodians, who are presently on the verge of extinction.

The UMass Hunger Task Force will Sponsor its annual Fast for Hunger day on Thursday, November 15, 1979. This year the money will go to aid the Cambodians who are dying by the thousands every day.

According to the United Nations, the minimal Food needed for Cambodia is estimated at 165,000 tons during the next six months. Right now 15 tons are being brought to Phnom Pehnon a daily flight. It was estimated that at least 600 tons a day would be needed to prevent the situation from becoming as bad as it was in Biafra.

Cambodia's population is estimated between four and five million. The news reports were false in saying that two million Cambodians will die this fall. The fact is, almost two million Cambodians have already died. Eighty-five percent of the population is experiencing starvation.

United Nation officials claim that OXFAM relief supplies are coming in (right now, two barges carrying 3,500 tons of rice) and the Soviet and Eastern European assistance is also being distributed.

The United States is responsible for the famine. Under Nixon's "Vietnamization" program, the US lauched bombing and chemical poisoning raids aimed at destroying vegetation in Vietnam as well as in Cambodia.

Cambodia remained neutral throughout the Vietnam War. Former President Nixon illegaly and secretly invaded Cambodia with the B-52 bombings and agent orange defoliation on March 18, 1970, as the United States was pulling its troops out of Indochina. The Vietnamization Program was Nixon's "withdrawal with honor" program. It was supposed to be a final attempt to win the war, or lose it without looking like losing it. The invasion into Cambodia was supposed to kill Vietnamese.

The annual fast day is to all UMass students a chance to donate their meals to be converted into money to be sent to Cambodia. Last year, at UMass only 900 students participated, which is miniscule considering the school has 24,000 students.

The more students who participate in this, the more Cambodian lives will be saved. This is the least we can do, considering we allowed our country to devastate that country.

READ NUMMO NEWS

NUMMO NEWS

If you or your organization has any announcements, send them to NUMMO NEWS 103 New Africa House UMASS Amherst, 01003. Deadline Fridays at 5 pm.

DRUM

We invite you to join us in the interpretations of the BLACK EXPERIENCE. Poetry, essays, short stories, art works, and photography are now being considered for the Fall 1979-80 edition of DRUM. All submissions should be addressed to DRUM 115 New Africa House, UMASS Amherst. Deadline for submissions is November 14, 1979.

Every Tuesday at 6 pm. in room 115 New Africa House there will be a meeting of the 1979-80 Drum staff. If you are interested JOIN US!

MAD HAT DISCO

The Asian-American Students Association presents
"MAD HAT DISCO" on Friday November 16 in the Hatch at Umass
Admission is 2.50 if you come bare-headed
1.50 if you cover your head
Two dance contests will start off the night at 9 pm
Music by Perry Fong J·C· the Mover and Peter Fong
Drinks and refreshments will be served so grab your hats and come early!

The Five-College Community is invited

RACISM COLLOQUIUM

There will be a one credit 16 hour weekend colloquium on racism conducted by the Southwest Center for Racial Studies on November 17 and 18. The Colloquium will be held at Hampden Commons and will offer a series of segmented workshop topics.

TOPICS Genesis of racism and comparative racial formations.

Educational and institutional racism: Racism in dorm life and the classroom.

Economics of racism: The political economy of race and class.

Racism folklore, science, and mental health: Race, biology sociology and society (the development of pseudo-science and the mythopoetic cultural tradition.

Colloquium speakers-coordinators
Ernie Allen
Darlene Beauchamin
Michael Blakely
Peter Bahmer
Robert Cole
Johnetta Cole
Alan Goodman
Michael Lewis
Sally Majewski
Morubung Mromo
Mary Ruth Warni
Marca Wexler

DEXTER GORDON QUARTET

sponsored by Straight Ahead
Tuesday, NOvember 27th at Amherst College, Buckley Recital at at 8:00
Tickets available at Faces of Earth, beginning November 5th

···BIRD OF MY LUCK···

The Southwest Center for Racial Studies presents a play "Bird of My Luck" written and performed by South African playwright Bheki Langa as a fund raising benefit. The play will take place Nov. 15 and 16, 8 p.m. at the Hampden Center for the Performing Arts. Donations will be $2 at the door.

The Peoples Market

Tried of high prices? Want fresh food? Well, the answer to high prices and stale food is here.

The Peoples Market, a non-profit student run food co-op has what you are looking for. Fresh bread, milk, bagels, whole grain foods, and juices among others. Come shop at the People's Market.

Food stamps are excepted. Support your student run co-ops.

"Perspectives: The Real Issues," a public affairs program, is aired Monday evenings 6 - 7 pm on WMUA (91.1 fm). The show probes issues such as human services, oppression, education, and various cultural phenomena. On the 19th and 26th of November parts II and III of a forum on dorm security at UMass will be aired. Your hosts are Ujamaa and Gary Lee.

OLIVER LAKE of the World Saxophone Quartet presents an afternoon of poetry and music, Wednesday November 14, 1979 at 4:00pm in the Hampden Theater Southwest Umass.

TALLER AUSUBO, COMMUTER COLLECTIVE and AHORA PRESENT:

JOSY LATORRE

PUERTO RICAN FOLKLORIC SINGER IN CONCERT

DE LEJOS VENGO CANTANDO

I COME SINGING FROM AFAR

GUEST ARTISTS

JOSE LYNN / PATTI O'NEAL

MUSICAL DIRECTOR: LUIS ANGEL NAVARRO

NOV. 16 BOWKER AUD

8.00 pm Admission $3.00

UMASS, AMHERST

Iranian leaders, militants divided

Associated Press

Iranian leaders yesterday dropped their demand that the shah be handed over to them immediately and set new conditions for freeing the U.S. Embassy hostages in Tehran. But the Moslem militants holding the hostages rejected any compromise.

Iran also accused the United States of stirring a "climate of war" in the world," called for a meeting of the U.N. Security Council, and hinted it might seek an OPEC oil embargo against America.

The apparent split in Tehran came after 11 days of public solidarity between the hundreds of students who seized the embassy and the 98 hostages Nov. 4 and the regime of Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini.

Iranian foreign affairs chief Abolhassan Bani Sadr, in what he called "simple and very practical" proposals, said the United States should agree to an international investigation of Shah Mohammad Reza Pahlavi's alleged crimes and turn his U.S. money and property over to Iran. He implied that after the investigation Washington could not help but return the deposed monarch.

The Carter administration had no immediate response to the evident softening of the position of Iranian authorities. But in one of the first reactions, Sen. Henry M. Jackson, D-Wash., said the proposals "will never be accepted."

Bani Sadr's conditions were set out in a letter to U.N. Secretary-General Kurt Waldheim.

"The American government should, at least, accept the investigation of the guilt of the former Shah of Iran and its consequences," Tehran Radio quoted him as telling Waldheim. "The American government should return to the Iranian government the wealth and property which the Shah, his family and the leaders of the former regime have transferred to the United States."

Bani Sadr went on to ask for a Security Council meeting, saying, "The American government is immersing the world in a climate of war and the government of the Islamic Republic of Iran sees its own peace and the peace of the region and the whole world endangered."

Iran's radio and television director, Sadeqh Gotbzadeh, like Bani Sadr a member of Khomeini's all-powerful Revolutionary Council, told a news conference in Tehran the Iranian regime is ready to end the embassy occupation "before the extradition of the shah for humanitarian reasons and the interests of the hostages." He said the proposals had the endorsement of the Council.

But the government-run radio later quoted spokesmen for the militants at the embassy as rejecting "any conciliatory proposal." They said they could not compromise — the shah must be returned to Iran for trial.

MASSACHUSETTS DAILY VOLUME CIX, ISSUE 49 Wednesday, November 14, 1979

Collegian

Student Newspaper of the University of Massachusetts/Amherst, Ma. 01003 (413)545-3500

1979, Massachusetts Daily Collegian

Bowles: Capitalism, democracy don't mix

By PETER SMERDON
Collegian Staff

"If I am correct, we stand at a fateful crossroads: either we must extend capitalism at the expense of democracy, or we must extend democracy at the expense of capitalism, but between these two extremes there is no viable course," declared UMass Professor Samuel Bowles in a Campus Center Auditorium lecture last night.

Photo by Paul Price

Professor Samuel Bowles

Bowles, from the Economics Department, attempted to answer the question, "Have Capitalism and Liberal Democracy Reached a Parting of the Ways?" for about 270 people, as a speaker in the Chancellor's Lecture Series.

Bowles began by stating there have always been economists who question the compatibility of capitalism with liberal democracy, but what is new, he said, is the "rather important sponsorship of these doubts by the major corporations and various government bodies.

"This change is exemplified in the Trilateral Commission under David Rockefeller, which concluded in 1975 that the advanced capitalist countries were characterised by too many people asking for too much of government"—an excess of democracy, Bowles stated.

The Tri-Lateral Commission, including the United States, Japan, and Western Europe, was formed in 1972 to chart the course of world capitalism.

Bowles said serving on the Trilateral Com-

TURN TO PAGE 3

Future resource center slated to open today

By NORM WHITEHURST
Collegian Staff

The newly-formed Future Resource Center, a future oriented research facility housed in the School of Education basement, opens tomorrow with a day-long open house, Future Studies Program Director Peter Wagschal has announced.

The major objectives of the FRC are to make future-oriented learning materials and educational technologies more accessible to the general public, and to provide a vehicle for doing research on the development of such materials and technologies. All of the educational technologies in the center are structured so that they can be used easily by people with no background in or familiarity with computer language, Wagschal said.

The center contains a variety of so-called hand held and terminal computers which are educationally programmed. The center also contains books and periodicals which deal with predicting the future, he said.

Among the computers available it the nationally centralized "Plato," which contains information for all levels, Wagschal said. "It's programmed for everything from simple reading and arithmetic to advanced chemistry and car repairs," he said.

Due to Plato's limited availability, the computer can only be shown from 1 p.m. to 1:30 p.m. on Thursday.

The center is operated by doctorate students and Professors Howard Peele and Wagschal of the UMass Future Studies Program.

Funded with $500 plus teaching assistantships, the center will seek additional grants, Wagschal said.

Included in the center will be an academic library furnished with couches, chairs, desks, and rugs, according to Wagschal.

Wagschal said, the library should include:

-a complete file of future-oriented and educational technology periodicals

-a "solid" library of books relating to the future.

-microfilms of dissertations relating to the future

-a complete computer-stored file of educational and futuristic material

-computer terminals, educational games, various softwares

The center will be open to the public Monday through Friday from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m.

Karen Bostok and Doug Kelly seem to be a mighty strong couple of laborers as they move a cement mixer around. Actually the mixer is being held by a crane, not shown, and they are just directing its path of travel. The site at which they are working is for an addition to Neilson Library at Smith College. (Staff photo by Cheryl Baye)

Final exam schedule inside today

Pages 8,9.

DIGEST

Iranians march and chant in Tehran yesterday to show support for the decision by the Revolutionary Council to ban the sale of oil to the United States. The marchers chanted, "We have broken America, we have turned off the oil taps." The ban on oil sales came after the U.S. announced it would not buy oil from Iran. (AP Laserphoto)

Universe theory disputed

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. (AP) — Astronomers say the discovery of a mistake in the way they measure distances in space means the universe is only about half as old and half as big as they previously thought.

The scientists who noticed the apparent error say the universe is only nine billion years old, not 15 billion to 18 billion years, the usually accepted age.

The discovery, made public yesterday, and which still must be double-checked by other scientists, could upset many theories about the age of stars and the evolution of the universe.

The new work was performed by one astronomer at Harvard and two in Arizona. They found a major error in Hubble's Constant, a yardstick that scientists use to figure out the distance between objects in space.

Legislators collect higher carfare

BOSTON (AP) — A number of legislators are taking advantage of a new law entitling them to commuting expenses on days when the Legislature is not even in session.

In addition, newly mandated bonus checks amounting to $600 have been available to state legislators since Friday, and many haven't wasted any time picking them up.

The lawmakers passed a bill providing themselves liberalized and more generous commuting expenses and doubling their monthly expense allowances at the end of the 1979 session a couple of weeks ago.

Gov. Edward J. King, whose own expense record has come under scrutiny in the media this past week, signed the legislators' bill Nov. 7 and made it an "emergency law," which allowed it to take effect immediately and forego the usual 90- day waiting period. He had previously signed another emergency law increasing legislative salaries.

Carter sends food to Cambodia

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Carter, acting at his wife's behest, ordered an immediate U.S. airlift of special food for children and other supplies yesterday to Indochinese refugee camps in Thailand.

Rosalynn Carter, who visited the camps last week, announced the presidential action when she detailed her recommendations for helping thousands of sick and starving refugees.

"We cannot lose time," she told a White House gathering of executives from international relief agencies. "The situation is urgent."

Construction delayed on second Seabrook reactor

By CHRISTOPHER LINDSAY
Associated Press

CONCORD, N.H. — The builder of the Seabrook nuclear power plant said yesterday it will have to defer construction of the plant's second reactor by four years because it was unable to reduce its ownership of the plant by 22 percent.

Robert Harrison, Public Service Co. of New Hampshire's vice president for finance, told the Public Utilities Commission that deferring the second reactor would ultimately cost the company an additional $740 million, bringing the plant's total cost to $3.3 billion.

Harrison added that delayed construction of the plant could result in New England-wide electricity shortages.

Demanding a rate increase and a statement of support for the Seabrook project from the state, Harrison said New England's electric reserve capacity in 1985 would be 15 percent with Seabrook's two reactors running, 10 percent with only one.

The lower figure, he repeated in an interview, would produce brownouts and voltage reductions.

Asked if the company was attempting to shock the PUC into granting the utility a rate increase, "You'd have to ask them," he said. "I think this is a very, very serious decision that the commission has to make."

"This assessment is based on an analysis of the facts at the present time as they relate to the company's ability, within the current regulatory and legislative restraints, to generate sufficient cash flow to support construction (of Seabrook)," he testified.

PSC wants a long-term rate increase of 8.5 percent for its 275,000 New Hampshire customers and an "unequivocal statement that this commission supports the Seabrook project," Harrison told the latest in a series of hearings on Public Service's attempts to reduce its investment in the project.

Harrison told the PUC that the company has been able only to reduce its ownership of Seabrook from 50 percent to 35 percent. Last March it said it would try to divest 22 percent of the plant, but since then has been unable to persuade other New England utilities to purchase more than 15 percent of the project.

The utility's oil-fired generating plants will burn an additional 1.2 million gallons of oil per day during the four-year deferment, at an additional cost of $1.5 billion, Harrison said.

He also said the utility was negotiating with an amalgam of banks to have a $25 million short-term loan "rolled over," or, extended, in January.

If the loan is not extended, "we would be in default," Harrison said. "We would not have sufficient cash to pay our bills and I think that's known as insolvency."

Under cross-examination by the Legislature's consumer advocate, William Shain, Harrison was asked if those banks would force Public Service into bankrupcty. He said the bankers might want to discuss the situation with the utility but he did not use the word bankrupcy.

In a later interview, Harrison said the company fully planned to proceed with construction of the first reactor, which, along with the support facilities the two reactors will share, is scheduled to be completed in late 1983.

Iranian students scarce at STCC

SPRINGFIELD, Mass. (AP) — Most of Springfield Technical Community College's 40 Iranian students stayed off campus yesterday, apparently fearful of threats made by American students during the Iranians' anti-shah demonstration Friday.

Instructors read a statement by college President Robert C. Geitz before morning classes, the first held since the demonstration.

Geitz said most students were well behaved on Friday, and he warned that violence directed at Iranians could endanger Americans being held captive at the United States Embassy in Tehran.

Springfield police stood by yesterday in case of trouble, and the college added 10 security officers, but no incidents were reported.

On Friday a crowd of several hundred Americans surrounded a procession of 30 anti-shah Iranian students in downtown Springfield, forcing police to detour the Iranians into an office building and take them away in a bus.

One of the Iranians told Springfield police that he was beaten with a tire iron after the demonstration and warned by his assailants not to attend classes for two weeks.

One professor, who asked not to be identified, said his morning class was without its five Iranian students. He said a group of about 30 Iranians who usually gather in a lobby between classes were not there yesterday morning.

In his statement, Geitz said Friday's demonstration "gave rise to ...some concern...that a very few (students) stepped over the line or are now threatening to step over the line into an area of behavior that is unwise and could lead to disastrous consequences.

"We cannot and will not tolerate the divisiveness which comes when a few people resort to counter-productive behavoir," Geitz said. "Violence in the United States, if directed at Iranians or Iran, might stiffen attitudes during negotiations and prove dangerous to Americans held captive."

"We wish to build an attitude that while none of us likes what is happening on the international scene, it will not be solved by negative behavior locally," Geitz said.

An unidentified female student from Iran told Walter Mayfield, an English professor at the community college, that Springfield had been indentified Friday in a Tehran newspaper as a place of trouble for Iranian students.

Pewter Pot
FAMILY RESTAURANT
Breakfast Special

Tomato or Orange Juice
Scrambled eggs
2 Strips of Bacon
All the Pancakes You Can Eat!
Only 2.25
Every Mon.-Fri., 9:00am to 11:00am
Offer good at:
Hampshire Mall
Hadley
Pewter Pot A FAMILY RESTAURANT

THE WOK
Chinese Home Style Cooking
AMPLE PARKING
LUNCHEON & DINNER SPECIALS
COMPLETE TAKE-OUT MENU
COCKTAIL LOUNGE
MON. - THURS. 11:30 AM - 10 PM • FRI. & SAT. 11:30 AM TO 12:00 PM
SUN. & HOLIDAYS 1 PM TO 10 PM • LUNCHEONS 11:30 AM - 3 PM
EXCEPT HOLIDAYS
48 RUSSELL ST. HADLEY
Call 586-1202
1st Anniversry at the New Location
Dinner Special on every Monday, Tuesday, and Wednesday at 3:00 p.m. to 10:00 p.m. 15 choices of Beef, Chicken, Seafood & Fried Rice & a bottle of beer.
For Only $3.99

Bud cans
$1.99 pk.
$6.99 case
Genesee Beer
$1.79 pk.
$6.49 case
Blue Nun
Liebfraumilch
$3.49 750 ml
All Natural
Vermont
Cheddar
$2.49 lb.

BENS
Route 116
Sunderland

'Great American Smokeout' here tomorrow

By JIM LENNOX
Collegian Staff

University Health Services will be staffing a "smokeout" table on the Campus Center concourse tomorrow, as part of the nationwide "Great American Smokeout" which calls for smokers to abstain from smoking for 24 hours. Sponsored by the American Cancer Society, the smokeout is designed to help people stop smoking.

Coordinating the effort on campus is Karen Larson of UHS. An audio visual program concerning the problems and techniques to quit smoking will be part of the presentation, and pledge cards will be available.

For the first time, people can not only pledge to stop smoking themselves for the day, but non-smokers can pledge to convince a friend to try. The emphasis is on group support and awareness.

The pledge reads: "I, , do solemnly swear to give up smoking or help a friend give up smoking for the Great American Smokeout Nov. 15, I promise not to smoke for 24 hours (and maybe longer) or to help a friend quit."

Larson reported that 3.5 million people took the day-long pledge last year, and follow-up statistics showed that 2.5 million people quit smoking for at least two weeks.

A follow-up program will be offered by the Valley Health Plan, with two smokers liberation sessions planned for Dec. 4 and 11. Students are welcome but they must pre-register with Karen Larson beforehand, at the Health Services.

The American Cancer Society says surveys show many smokers want to quit. The Great American Smokeout gives them the impetus and the support to try.

Besides attempting to persuade people to give up the habit for one day, the "smokeout" is an attempt to educate people about smoking. A Department of Health publication, "The Smoking Digest," emphasizes that the majority of

In fact, in figures surprising to many, only 39 percent of American men smoke, while 29 percent of American women are smokers. Those who do smoke have an increased awareness of the dangers associated with smoking and more encouragement than ever to quit.

"The Smoking Digest" states about 90 percent of lung cancer cases are related to smoking. Arteriosclerosis, bronchitis and emphysema are estimated to be 30 percent, 75 percent and 80 percent, smoking-related respectively. Major poisons found in cigarette smoke are carbon monoxide, hydrogen cyanide, and nitrogen oxide, and the well known tar and nicotine.

Want to know more? Stop by the Great American Smokeout table in front of the Hatch. Medical studies show that the benefits of quitting smoking begin as early as twelve hours after quitting, and the longer smokers stay off cigarettes, the more complete is body recovery.

Students watch as artist Ron "Art," himself a work of art, dips into his buckets of acrylic paints in the Student Union Lobby yesterday afternoon. He will be painting and selling his works all week long. (Staff photo by Wayne Rosenberg)

UMass Ski Club stages all-day equipment sale

By STEVE WHITE
Collegian Staff

The UMass Ski Club's annual winter sale begins today at noon in the Student Union Ballroom, and will feature downhill and cross country ski equipment and a variety of winter clothing, said Vernon Aisner, Ski Club vice-president.

The "great ski snatch" was described by club President Brad Cohen as the largest student-run business on campus. About a half million dollars worth of inventory obtained from manufacturers, wholesalers, and retailers plus used equipment will be up for sale, Aisner said. A raffle will be held giving away over $1200 worth of prizes, the grand prize being a ski week at Sugarbush, Aisner said.

The goal of the sale, Cohen said, is to raise money for the Ski Club, which does receive Recognized Students Organization funds. He said that this year's goal is $200,000. The club has about 800 members, and due to its size, members get discounts on lift tickets on club-sponsored trips, Aisner said. He said the club also provides free transportation.

The sale runs from noon until 10 p.m. today, from 10 a.m. to 10 p.m. tomorrow and Friday, and from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. on Saturday.

Graduate Senate urges increased campus security

By LAURA SMITH
Collegian Staff

The Graduate Student Senate last night approved a motion urging the administration and University police to cooperate with the Undergraduate Student Senate in supporting efforts to step up campus security.

The motion passed by a 17-6 vote, after much debate on the recent presence of armed police patrolling private areas of student residence halls. The senate said these police "Swat" teams are an inappropriate response to problems of violence and vandalism on campus.

"These responses have been overreactions, and what is needed is long term solutions to violence on campus," Senate President Monte Pearson said. He added that the long range problem and causes of violence on campus relate to the raising of the drinking age last spring, which has left many students with nothing to do.

"What is needed is increased programming, plans, coffeehouses, etc. to give students alternatives," he suggested.

Gary Cridler-Smith, a senator representing the Food and Resource Economics Department, said the senate should not become involved because the violence is largely a problem of the undergraduates, who make up the majority of dorm residents. Florence Estes, a senator representing the Labor Studies Department, disagreed saying, "Violence on campus affects everyone, not only dorm students."

In other business, Budget Coordinator Helen O'Donnell and Myra Henders, Coordinator of Direct Service and Training , for the Task Force on Violence Against Women, spoke to the senate about the Everywoman's Center. Because the center was budgeted money by the senate, it wanted to make the senate and graduate students aware of the progress the Center has made, the women said. The center is now expanding its counselor program and training more women to head support groups dealing with the problems of rape, battered women, women who were sexually assaulted as children, and sexual harassment.

Susan Nuremburg, a senator representing the English Department, also spoke to the senate about openings for teaching assistant positions in the Rhetoric Departmet. The deadline for applications is November 30, and should be brought to 305 Bartlett. Interested people should contact the English Department in Bartlett Hall.

Administration lays blame on inflation for fee hikes

By ERIC JANSZEN
Collegian Staff

The Rents and Fees Committee of the Undergraduate Student Senate met night with members of the administration for a hearing of proposed fiscal 1981 student fees. Increases in the athletic and dining hall fees, which are mandatory for most on-campus residents, and increases in fees for International Programs were presented by the administration. The fee increases will be voted on later by the senate.

Citing the soaring cost of foods as the major justification for a proposed $70 increase in dining hall fees, Art Warren, spokesman for University Food Services, described the 13 percent adjustment as "an underestimate."

Further expenses are anticipated in the administration's proposal due to a minimum wage hike and the necessity to meet cost-of-living increases for the 1,500 full and part-time student employees. These costs were estimated to be 45 percent greater than in 1978.

The point was raised by the committee that the Boarding Hall Trust Fund had surpluses in excess of $1 million in 1979. However, it was not clear how those surpluses affected the conditions of the administration's proposal.

Spokesmen for the Athletics Department discussed the recommendation to increase the athletics fee by $10. They explained that the increase is necessary to cover the fiscal year 1980 deficit, which totaled over $75,000. Similar deficits from previous years were paid off with reserve funds, which are now exhausted.

Another major factor contributing to the athletic fee increase is the added costs of administration, maintenance, and transportation due to inflation, according to the administrators.

Another contributing factor involves the greater costs of running between 9 and 11 athletic programs during intersession. The programs are expected to cost over $18,000 in 1981.

Other cost increases were associated with the expansion of women's athletic programs.

The administration also gave recommendations to increase fees of international programs. The increases were justified, again, by inflation, which has made it even more difficult for foreign students to participate in the programs offered, a spokeswoman from the International Programs Office said.

★ Bowles

CONT. FROM PAGE 1

mission, which questioned the very viability of liberal democracy, were the chief executives of nearly 20 major corporations, the secretary of state, the vice president and President Jimmy Carter.

"The idea that liberal democratic institutions and capitalism were compatible, the belief in the strength of liberalism and the durability of capitalism, derive from the fact that for a long time, (political philosopher) Jeremy Bentham's claim of compatibility made good—It brought both representation and material comfort," Bowles claimed.

Because the vast majority of capitalist countries in the world are not lbieral democracies, Bowles pointed out, therefore the apparent relationship between capitalism and liberal democracy is in fact too simplistic.

As the first of his three objections to the compatibility thesis, Bowles pointed out that capitalism does not reproduce capitalism; rather it produces large corporations and oligopolies. Therefore, Bowles said, any compatible relationship between the two systems does not now exist.

Bowles second objection was that there is a discrepancy between the "ideal citizen and the ideal worker...The liberal democratic citizen will not make a profitable work force if he transfers his political ideas into the workplace, and the worker will not be able to live in a liberal democratic system if he behaves in society as if he was in a corpora tion."

Bowles' last objection was that the political capitalist state has developed until no pluralism of interest groups exists. Instead, the only thing emphasized in the state is class division between the corporations and the consumers.

"When the public is enfranchised, when the trade union is legal, when civil liberties have been around for some time, then the state has to implement policies which are antithical to the economic interests...this is why Rockefeller looked at the problem of compatability," reasoned Bowles.

Bowles then attempted to show that the Trilateral Commission wanted greater government intervention in favor of big business. The only way to achieve this, he asserted, was to insulate decision making from the electorate in such institutions as the Federal Reserve Board.

"The other alternative is the 'New Right' solution which is to free the economy from government restraint...but the only drawback is that the electorate would have to take a temporary drop in living standard until profitability took off...and the only way that the New Right can get that strategy put into action is by insulating the decision processes from the electorate," he said.

Bowles concluded by stating that the wage-labor relationship brings about the conflict of capitalism with liberal democracy, and therefore, democracy must transcend the contractual wage-labor relationship to survive.

Black Affairs

PHOTOS BY BARRON ROLAND, GUY BILEY AND ED COHEN

Black Affairs

Univ. of Maine sued

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court refused Tuesday to revive a lawsuit that charged the University of Maine and a federal official with conspiring to deprive a person of his civil rights.

The justices, without comment, turned down the appeal of Mildred Francis-Sobel, who contended that she was subjected to impermissible racial and sexual discrimination.

Mrs. Francis-Sobel, who is 40 and black, is employed as an independent consultant in Santa Fe, N.M. She has worked as an educator, scientist and statistician, and holds a doctor of sciences degree from Johns Hopkins University.

In 1970, her husband, Eugene Sobel, was hired as a mathematics professor by the University of Maine. For the next four years, Mrs. Francis-Sobel attempted unsuccessfully to get a teaching job at the school.

According to her Supreme Court appeal, she "failed to be accepted for any position even though she possessed better credentials than the white males who were accepted."

After the Equal Employment Opportunity Commission failed to act on her complaint, Mrs. Francis-Sobel sued the university and the EEOC's regional director in Boston, Everett Ware. In essence, the suit charged that the school and Ware conspired to deny Mrs. Francis-Sobel of her rights.

Announcements

Lecture on Palestine

Sheila Ryan, National Chairperson of the Palestine Solidarity Committee will speak on the "The Camp David 'Peace' Treaty and its Implications for the Palestinian People." The lecture will take place on Monday, November 19, 8 p.m. at the Campus Center — Rm. 162. There will also be a slide show on the Palestinian Refugee Camps in Southern Lebanon.

Concert

Taller Ausubo presents "De Lejos Vengo Cantando"/I come singing from Afar" on Friday, Nov. 16 at 8 p.m. in Bowker Auditorium. The concert, sponsored by the Commuter Collective, Ahora, and Afrik-Am, will feature singing and reciting by Josy Latorre of works by Puerto Rican poets and songwriters. Guest artists, Patti O'Neal and Jose Lynn-Nieves will also perform.

Colloquium

There will be a one-credit 16-hour weekend colloquium on racism conducted by the Southwest Center for Racial Studies on Nov. 17 and 18. The colloquium will be held at Hampden Commons and will offer a series of segmented workshop.

Some of the topics will be: genesis of racism and comparative racial formations, economics of racism, educational and institutional racism and racism, folklore, science and mental health.

adventura travel
549-1256
Airline Tickets
Amherst
Carriage Shops

STUDENT
University of Massachusetts
Amherst, Massachusetts 01003
STUDENT SPECIALS
with
University of Massachusetts
I.D.
CARLSON'S CLOTHING, INC.
68 Main Street Phone 413-584-3175
Northampton, Mass. 01060

"Why Rejoice at the Decline of U.S. Power?"
(A Socialist View)
Economics Prof.
V. Holesovsky
TONIGHT
8:00 P.M. CC 163c

Botany E-Core Courses
100A Intro Botany
100B Intro Botany - especially for students with prior biological experience
101 General Botany - for non-science majors
225 Survey of the Plant Kingdom
226 New England Flora

CAREER DAY '79
Thursday, November 15
10 A.M. - 6 P.M.
in School of Business Administration
Luncheon: Newman Center Social Hall
12 P.M.-2 P.M.
Featuring: Keynote Speakers
Tickets: $4.00, Available in SBA Lobby
Social Hour: CC 1009 4 P.M. - 6 P.M.
Sponsored by Undergraduate Business Club

 THE GREAT SKI SNATCH *****
Starts Today
$500,000 of BARGAINS
For NON-SKIERS & SKIERS
UMASS SKI CLUB
For info call 545-3437
ALSO - a raffle with over
$1200 of prizes ranging from
*5 Day ski week at Sugarbush
*10 speed bike
*X-Country skis
and much, much more!
tickets 1/50c 3/$1.00
Over 10,000 pieces of equipment
Winter Clothing
*Parkas
*Vests
*Ski Suits
*Gloves
*Hats
DOWNHILL & X-COUNTRY
Ski Equipment
*Boots
*Bindings
*Skis
*Poles
Wed. Nov. 14, 12 P.M. - 10 P.M.
Thurs. Nov. 15, 10 A.M. - 10 P.M.
Fri. Nov. 16, 10 A.M. - 10 P.M.
Sat. Nov. 17, 10 A.M. - 5 P.M.
IN THE S.U.B.
Best Prices on Christmas Devices

Finast

Prices effective Wed., Nov. 14 thru Sat., Nov. 17, 1979 at Finast Supermarkets only!

We reserve the right to limit quantities. Not responsible for typographical errors. Illustrations are for design purposes only and do not necessarily depict products on sale.

SAVE Up To 26¢
Betty Crocker Cake Mixes
18½ oz. pkg. 59¢

SAVE Up To 34¢
Finast Butter
Quarters or Solid 1 lb. pkg. $1.39

SAVE Up To 38¢
Finast Whole Kernel or Cream Style Corn
4 16 oz. cans $1

U.S. Gov't Inspected
Grade A Turkeys
Frozen 18-24 lb. average 69¢ lb.
10 to 14 lbs. @ 79¢

Finast Grade A Turkeys
Frozen w/Pop Up Timer 18 to 24 lb. average 73¢ lb.
10 to 14 lbs. @ 83¢

Swift's Premium Butterball Turkeys
Frozen 18 to 24 lb. average 85¢ lb.
10 to 14 lbs. @ 89¢

Finast Grade A Fresh Turkeys
10 to 24 lb. average 89¢ lb.
with Pop-Up Timer

Borden "Elsie" Ice Cream
Popular Flavors half gallon carton $1.59

FINAST COUPON
20¢ OFF
one 20 oz. package Finast Pumpkin Pie (on Baker Street) with this coupon. Valid thru Sat., Nov. 17, 1979. Limit one coupon per family.
FN-743

SAVE Up To 95¢
Old Fashioned Pumpkin Pie
Mountain Top Frozen 35 oz. pkg. 99¢

SAVE Up To 34¢
Finast Regular or French Cut Green Beans
4 16 oz. cans $1

Center Cut Pork Chops
Thin Sliced lb. $1.39 $1.29 lb.

Pork Loin 5-Rib Sliced lb. 95¢ . . . . . 89¢ lb.
Pork Loin 3 lb. average Sliced lb. $1.05 Sirloin Portion . . 99¢ lb.
Boneless 7 Rib Pork Roast . . . . . $1.59 lb.

SAVE Up To 60¢
Assorted Pork Chops
3 Center, 3 Blade & 3 Sirloin Chops
99¢ lb.

Domino Sugar
Confectioners, Light or Dark Brown 1 lb. pkg. 39¢

Finast Sweet Peas
Medium Small 3 17 oz. cans $1

Freshly Ground Beef
3 lbs. or more Not over 28% Fat Content $1.29 lb.

DINNER BELL Boneless Ham
Fully Cooked 4 lb. avg. water added whole or end portion Halves lb. $1.79 $1.69 lb.

Dinner Bell Semi-Boneless 5 lb. avg. Whole or End Portion Water Added Halves lb. $1.59 Ham $1.49 lb.
Beef Chuck USDA Choice Cubed Steak . . . . $1.89 lb.
USDA Choice Beef Chuck Bone In Underblade Steak $1.59 lb.

Finast Shortening
3 lb. can $1.59

SAVE Up To 20¢
Finast Sour Cream
16 oz. cup 59¢

Imported Cooked Ham
Freshly Sliced $1.09 half pound
Available Only in Stores with Service Deli

SAVE Up To 26¢
Pillsbury Flour
5 lb. bag 79¢

Finast Fruit Cocktail
2 16 oz. cans 89¢

Underblade Roast
USDA Choice Beef Chuck Bone In $1.49 lb.

Salada Tea Bags
Bonus pkg. of 125 bags $1.59

Coronet Decorated Napkins
2 pkgs. of 180 $1

FREE
3 Piece Place Setting of DINNERWARE
Fine Porcelain China or your choice of 3 exquisite patterns of superbly crafted stoneware with each $99 worth of Finast Green Register tapes.

Fresh California Broccoli
Large Bunch 69¢

FIRST O' THE FRESH

Fresh From Our Produce Dept.
Fresh Pineapple
99¢ ea.

Beer and Wine Shoppe!
Miller Lite Beer case of 24 12 oz. can $6.95
Molson Ale case of 24 12 oz. N. R. bottles $9.49
Wine Cella Lambrusco 25.4 oz. bottle $1.99
Wine Folonari Suave. 33.8 oz. bottle $1.99
Finast of Hadley Only

Editorial/Opinion

Honesty best policy

Rob Stein

Richard Nixon must have been a student senator.

He must have learned early how to be nasty.

At first, he had good intentions. He probably came to college with all kinds of ideals.

He learned quickly that ideals like truly being a public servant didn't mean much of anything if you couldn't get elected. And you couldn't get elected by being a good public servant. He must have read Catch-22 and identified.

Honesty, he learned, was fine as far as it took you, but it didn't take you far.

He must have been unnerved when his friends became frustrated with the senate. He must have felt sad when he saw his friends' ideals being crushed and shattered. He must not have realized his own ideals were nearly dead.

He probably convinced himself that if he could only stick it out and move on, someday he could do some good. He surely never considered trying to change the senate or himself.

Richard Nixon probably did very well in his student senate. He quickly learned how to manipulate people and to hoard power. In the beginning he worked in the hope that some day, somewhere, he would be able to use his power for the good of the people.

Soon his ideals became overshadowed by his obsession with power. Power and the "respect" it brought him became what was important.

The student senate was a good training ground for Richard Nixon. On a small comprehendable scale it trained him in the art of deceit and educated him to the realities of the political world.

In the world of the student senate, Nixon learned, the individual is essentially ineffective against the bureaucracy of even a small college senate. Issues and ideals are placed second to politicking and self-gain.

After all, Nixon rationalized, isn't college the place where one learns how to cope with the real world? Isn't college the place where childish ideals are crushed by the weight of reality?

The senate was a good training ground for Richard Nixon. He learned what worked and he learned what was effective.

The student senate stripped Nixon of the "childish" ideals he came to college with and tailored him into the "perfect" politician.

The student senate on which Richard Nixon served must have been a lot like our own.

Rob Stein is a Collegian commentator.

'I SEE THE GOOD OLD FAA COMPUTERIZED RADAR IS OUT AGAIN!'

The wealthiest American alive

James Lewis

For the record, the wealthiest American alive is billionaire Daniel K. Ludwig. His estimated worth is well over three billion dollars. With wealth, is power as demonstrated by Mr. Ludwig.

Presently, his largest business investment is the Jari Forestry Ranching Company in Brazil. Mr. Ludwig bought 3.5 million acres of Amazon jungle, 5,000 square miles; cleared it, started agricultural projects, mining projects, and cattle ranching. The area is larger than Connecticut but smaller than Connecticut and Rhode Island combined. Mr. Ludwig's total investment in Brazil is more than $1 billion.

He converted 87,000 acres that was swampland three years ago, was expected to produce 30,000 tons of rice this year in two harvests in 1978. In 1977, 13,000 tons of rice was exported to Italy. It is estimated that rice production should reach 350,000 tons by 1981. He has thousands of buffalo and cattle, pasturing on the property, expected to surpass 25,000 each in a couple of years.

Ludwig built a cellulose factory and an electric plant over a two year period at a cost of $247 million. He achieved this by floating imported parts on barges. The factory began producing 260 tons of white kraft paste and it is expected to increase to 750 tons daily production by 1981.

Mr. Ludwig began an intensive forestation program at a cost of $100 million. More than 250,000 acres were cleared and replanted with some 81 million trees of Caribbean pine and Nigerian gmelina arborea. He has spent $15 million in compliance with pollution standards.

The old village of Monte Dourado is now the headquarters of Jari and is now a modern town of prefabricated houses built by Ludwig. There are 5,000 workers in Jari for Ludwig, and over 20,000 dependents on those workers.

He is considered the world's third largest ship builder. His fleet of ships is larger than Aristotle Onnasis' fleet. His deadweight tonnage of 5.6 million, the Ludwig fleet of 50-odd tankers and buld carriers, operating under the Univeise Tankships subsidiary, is believed to be the third largest in the world.

According to an article by Marylin Bender, New York Times, May 2, 1976, "Mr. Ludwig's primary interest is said to be a cure for cancer."

Mr. Ludwig owns banks, hotels, housing projects and office buildings, farms and mining interest in at least 21 countries around the world. His banks loan money and control housing. He invested in oil also.

His countries of investment are the United States, Canada, the Bahamas, Bermuda, Venezuela, United Kingdom, France, Germany, Switzerland, Taiwan, Korea, Japan, Australia, Indonesia, Singapore, Hong Kong, South Africa (mining and housing), Yugoslavia, Panama, Nicaragua and Mexico. There are few places in the world where Mr. Ludwig does not have some major interest in banking, shipping, agriculture, real estate or mining.

Richard M. Nixon was a guest of Mr. Ludwig and his wife, Ginger Ludwig, before he became President. Mr. Ludwig retained the Nixon law firm (now Mudge, Rose, Guthrie & Alexander) for a while after Mr. Nixon resigned from the Presidency.

Mr. Ludwig is in his eighties and born in Michigan and brought up in Texas. His power and influence is tremendous, to say the least. He became the richest American after the deaths of Howard Hughes and J. Paul Getty.

Post Script: Don't forget to turn in your meal tickets today.

James Lewis is a Collegian columnist.

—Letters—

Women being abused: An every-day affair

To the Editor:

Late one afternoon, six men in a convertible were cruising the Fearing Street area — stopping, jeering, making lewd comments, honking the horn, and displaying to women walking, as well as to at least one sorority, a sign stating "Show us your breasts." In responding to a complaint, and after talking to the men, an Amherst police officer said, "It's a hot night and they were just out to raise hell."

A woman can only interpret the officer's response as a sign that this type of torment will continue.

We say such acts of harrassment must stop. We recall last year's cross burnings. No one would question that those deeds were a racist threat of terror to blacks living among whites. Similarly, women living among men live in a state of fear. In a society controlled by men, a woman's right to safety is always threatened when men are allowed to turn them into sexual objects, when the attitude of "boys will be boys" prevails.

Incidents of this type go on all around us. Such acts of harassment must be stopped at a personal level. Social responsibility cannot be enforced by the police. We call on all men to question their part in perpetuating such acts of violence and terrorism against women.

Robert Kadar

Halloween's aftermath: A horse in blood

To the Editor

Recently, as we entered the lower main barn by Grinnell arena, for a Horse Management Lab, we were met by the grisley site of a veterinarian suturing what was left of Bunker's knee. We learned that this ghastley situation was the result of apparent vandalism occurring over the Halloween weekend.

Our attention was first drawn to the pools of blood upon the barn floor and the mare's glazed expression within her eyes which bespoke of her extreme pain. To add insult to injury we also noticed that this mare was carrying a foal. What effect this traumatic experience will have is uncertain but there is always the possibility of aborting and/or a malformed foal.

The cruelty inflicted upon this mare was totally uncalled for. We sincerely hope that the person(s) involved will suffer with guilt for their actions as much as this mare has suffered physically. Cruelty to any animal at any time is inexcusible behavior.

Halloween should be a time of fun, but not at the expense of damage to persons, animals and property.

Laura Cameron
Vicki Foye

Noise in Southwest: But during exams?

To the Editor

I'm writing to complain about the noise in SW last Wednesday night. At about midnight, hundreds of people started yelling out their windows at the top of their lungs. This lasted for about two hours. I can normally tolerate great volumes of noise but this was ridiculous, especially since it was a weeknight in the middle of examination period.

How anyone can actually enjoy shouting something like "JQA sucks" over and over until their voice is raw is beyond my comprehension. Certain conclusions can be drawn from the fact that many people like this do exist. First of all, the admission standards at UMass couldn't be too high if no-minds like this are accepted. These people have very extensive vocabularies that include the word "suck" and the names of the towers which they cleverly string together to form witty sentences like "Washington sucks." They will share this enlightening information with the rest of us about two or three hundred times at about 1:00 in the morning..

Oh pardon me, I'm not adequately expressing the scope of their mental powers. I forgot to add that they also know the word Ed King. The second conclusion I came to is that the great UMass social life is nothing but a myth. If it was really all it's cracked up to be, why do hundreds of students have to act like a pack of idiots in order to enjoy themselves?

Ken Marquis

Cambodia's starving: Give a meal ticket

To the Editor

If every student who eats in the Dining Commons missed the evening meal on Thursday, Nov. 15 for the Fast For A World Harvest, that would immediately translate into a contribution of $9,600 for OXFAM-AMERICA, the first and still most effective agency combating the disastrous famine in Cambodia.

Join the Fast For A World Harvest by signing up before November 15.

F. Peter Sabey
Campus Chaplain
for the Hunger Task Force

Final exam schedule — fall 1979

I. The two-hour examination periods are identified by code numbers according to the following chart:

	TUE DEC 18	WED DEC 19	THU DEC 20	FRI DEC 21	SAT DEC 22
8:00 a.m.	1	5	9	13	17
10:30 a.m.	2	6	10	14	18
1:30 p.m.	3	7	11	15	19
4:00 p.m.	4	8	12	16

COURSE	SECTION	PD.
C E
240	1-3	10 -----implies that sections 1, 2 and 3 of C E 240 will be examined THU, DEC 20 at 10:30 a.m.
ENGL
221	6	2 -----implies that ENGL 221, section 6, will be examined TUE, DEC 18 at 10:30 a.m.
	5	3 -----implies that ENGL 221, section 5, will be examined TUE, DEC 18 at 1:30 p.m.
ENGL
261	2	8 -----implies that only section 2 of ENGL 261 will have an exam, and it will be WED, DEC 19 at 4:00 p.m.

NOTE: WHEN SECTION NUMBERS WITHIN A COURSE ARE LISTED, ASSUME THAT ANY UNLISTED SECTION IS NOT SCHEDULED FOR AN EXAM.

II. See your instructor for information on the place of examination.

He or she will NOT have this information before November 27, 1979.

III. CONFLICTS or MORE THAN TWO EXAMINATIONS IN ONE DAY.

Students who have conflicts in their examination schedule (as published in this schedule) or who have more than two examinations scheduled for one calendar day, may report to the Schedule Office (168 Whitmore) for resolution of these problems.

THE SCHEDULE OFFICE WILL NOT ASSIST IN RESOLVING PROBLEMS UNLESS THEY ARE REPORTED ON OR BEFORE DEC 11, 1979. SO, PLEASE REVIEW THIS SCHEDULE CAREFULLY.

Pull out and save for future reference

COURSE	SECTION	PD.
ACCTG
221	1-2	19
	3,5	15
	6	19
	8,10	19
	9	17
	13-14	19
	15-16	15
	17	5
	18	4
221H	1	19
222	1-2	5
	3,8	18
	4,5	11
	7	15
311	1-2	12
321	1,3	10
	2,4	16
322	1	11
	2	17
331	1-2	3
	3	5
335	1-2	14
361	1	7
371	1	1
	2-3	1
	4	2
AERSTU
111	1	10
	2	18
	3	17
223	1	17
	2	3
335	1	19
	2	5
AFROAM
364	1	4
AN SCI
S01	1	17
S03	1	18
S11	1	7
S12	1	18
S14	1	14
S17	1	19
S19	1	10
101	1	17
311	1	12
354	1	17
359	1	15
371	1	5
412	1	18
421	1	8

COURSE	SECTION	PD.
AN SCI (cont.)
430	1	3
521	1	15
590A	1	16
ANTH
100	1	19
102	1	14
103	1	13
104B	1	10
105	1	3
204	1	16
233	1	15
262	1	10
281	1	16
297A	1	19
317	1	8
360	1	5
372	1	18
375	1	17
436	1	5
470	1	8
520	1	17
ARABIC
126	1	3
130	1	17
297A	1	10
ARTHIS
115	1	15
521	1	18
ASIANS
150	1	11
ASTRON
100	1-2	11
	3	5
	4-5	6
111	1	6
221	1	10
BA
210	1-2	3
497	1	5
	2-3	14
	4-5	11
	6	1
	7	6
BIOCHM
420	1-2	11
523	1	11

COURSE	SECTION	PD.
BOTANY
100	1A
	2B
101	1A
	2B	6
221	1	15
225	1	17
226	1,3-4	7
371	1	11
485	1-2	1
504	1	16
510	1	18
511A	1	6
511B	1	6
512	1	17
521	1	19
531	1	3
560	1	5
597A	1	10
C E
201	1	19
202	1	19
240	1-3	10
241	1-2	3
310	1-2	9
330	1-2	16
331	1	5
333	1	3
342	1-2	17
357	1	1
360	1-2	12
370	1	15
420	1-2	6
505	1	17
532	1	8
540	1	10
560	1	12
570	1	19
572	1	17
576	1	18
577	1	3
CH E
225	1-3	16
226	1	10
325	1-2	4
330	1-2	19
334	1	18
338	1	17
420	1	3
444	1	6
473	1	18
561	1	9

COURSE	SECTION	PD.
CHEM
101	1	11
107	1-2	11
111	1-7	11
112	1-2	11
113	1	12
250	1	14
261A	1	11
261B	1	5
262	1	15
263A	1-3	2
265	1	11
310	1	7
471	1	19
	2	10
475	1	2
	2	9
513	1	19
515	1	17
516	1	18
551	1	8
552	1	17
584	1	18
CHINSE
312	1	16
450	1	19
CLSICS
225	1	15
COINS
201	1	14
250	1	12
287	1	2
320	1	17
502	1	5
503	1	15
535	1	19
583	1	7
COMDIS
210	1	4
310	1	16
311	1	18
313	1	13
391A	1	10
415	1	12
416	1	13
590D	1	17
COMLIT
101C	1	17
102	1	5

COURSE	SECTION	PD.
COMLIT (cont.)
102	2	5
	3	16
104B	1	15
110	1	18
243	1	17
312	1	16
COMSTU
121	1	10
150	1	17
226	1	9
250	7	8
260	4	10
262	1	9
	2	10
266	1	19
340	1	16
546	1	17
DUTCH
110	1	17
ECE
211	1	12
	2	18
212	1	8
303	1	3
304	1	19
357	1	15
361	1	7
410	1	9
	2	2
512	1	5
544	1	17
549	1	10
566	1	8
580	1	18
584	1	5
ECON
100A	1	2
103A	1	12
103B	2	2
103C	3	12
103D	4	2
103F	6	2
104A	1	2
104B	2	2
104C	3	2
105	1	11
197A	1	10
203	1	7
	2	11

COURSE	SECTION	PD.
ECON (cont.)
203	3	5
	4	18
203H	1	18
204	1	10
	2	4
	3	19
	4	16
306	1	17
311	1	2
321	1	11
362	1	9
366	1	19
491A	1	18
491B	2	18
491C	3	10
505	1	18
	2	1
	3	17
532	1-2	13
542	1	5
551	1	13
581	1	5
EDUC P
551	5	8
ENGIN
103S	1	1
104	1-2	15
ENGL
115A	1	18
125	2	18
	3	3
125H	1	12
131	1	16
132H	1	5
133	1	16
140	1	16
	4	19
140H	1	9
164	1	17
171	2	16
171H	1	2
172	1	18
	2	18
	3-4	18
203	3	14
211	1	17
221	1	9
	5	3
	6	2
221H	1	9
	2	17

COURSE	SECTION	PD.
ENGL (cont.)
251	1	12
261	2	8
266	1	17
270B	1	18
272	2	2
	3	16
273	1	10
	2	10
274	1	13
275	1	19
281D	1	3
312	1	19
332	1	16
340	1	19
344	1	12
	2	3
351	1-4	14
591A	1	19
ENT
S05	1	18
526	1	2
590A	1	17
ENVDES
140	1	17
305	1	15
327	1	17
543	1	7
577	1	10
ENVSCI
503	1	18
515	1	12
EXCSCI
130	1	12
204	1	5
	2	10
205B	1	18
210	1	18
290G	1	17
378	1	17
390A	1	8
F&R EC
S01	1	10
S05	1	8
S15	1	8
S17	1	18
211	1	1
	2	13
	3	18

COURSE	SECTION	PD.
F&R EC (cont.)
241	1	15
323	1	11
390A	1	19
425	1	7
443	1	17
471	1	12
472	1	14
FD ENG
S01	1	19
S03	1	17
S09	1	17
S12	1	8
S13	1	8
281	1-2	1
565	1	18
575	1	17
FISH
565	1	15
571	1	18
FOREST
426	1	9
528	1	17
FRENCH
110	1-16	15
110A	1-3	15
113	1	1
120	1-13	6
123	1	15
126	1	5
130	1-3,5-13	1
131	1	1
132H	1	16
141	1	18
	4	13
	6	10
142H	1	5
144	1-2	3
	3	17
145	1	17
	2	1
146	1	18
147	1	15
150	1	1
171	1	9
172	1-2	13
181	1	18
181H	1	2
182	1	17
271	1-2	15

COURSE	SECTION	PD.
FRENCH (cont.)
281	1	11
324	1	5
331H	1	19
FS&N
101	1-2	7
102	1	15
130	1	5
210	1	16
230	1	17
	2	17
465	1	10
466	1	12
467	1	4
502	1	15
518	1	19
524	1	14
541	1	7
561	1	5
579	1	12
581	1	6
584	1	17
590B	1	10
GB FIN
260	2	7
	3,5	4
	6-7	4
	8	7
	9-10	1
	11	4
	12-13	10
301	1	7
	2-3	7
	4-5	15
	13-14	15
	15	17
	16,18	19
302	1	19
303	3	16
	4	13
304	1	15
310	1	1
320	1-2	17
330	1-2	9
331	1	12
340	1	10
345	1	16
361	1	13
362	1	8
370	1	1
	2	7

COURSE	SECTION	PD.
MKTG (cont.)
341	2	14
410	1-2	1
	3-4	18
412	1-3	10
421	1-2	13
422	4	19
423	1	17
425	1	3
437	1-2	8
MUSIC
100	1-2	6
110	1-2	13
	3	16
111	1	16
112	1-2	7
120A	1	18
	2	18
	4	12
120C	1	17
	2	17
212	1	15
301	1	8
503	1	8
522	1	18
532	1	19
NAREST
100	1	13
NEAST
100	1	11
NURSE
100	1	18
200	1-4	16
210	1	4
300	1	18
330	1	14
410	1	18
420	1	17
430	1	8
PEP
310	1	5
401	1	19
PHIL
100	1A-2B	14
	3C	13
	4	19
	5	19

COURSE	SECTION	PD.
PHIL (cont.)
110	1	12
	2	7
	3	7
	4	7
	5	18
160	3	3
160A	1	18
161	1	6
220	1	19
281	1	11
320	1	12
321	1	17
335	1	17
492A	1	19
500	1	18
513	1	19
560	1	12
561	1	5
582B	1	18
591D	1	8
PHYSIC
100	1-2	9
116	1	5
141	1-2	9
142	1-2	9
161	1	4
162	1-2	4
171	1	19
190E	1	5
263	1	4
273	1	5
300	1	17
343	1	5
354	1	3
421	1	14
422	1	9
531	1	1
562	1	8
564	1	17
PLPATH
504	1	14
500	1	4
PLSOIL
S01	1	18
S03	1	17
S05	1	17
S07	1	19
S09	1	5
S11	1	19
S16	1-2	17

COURSE	SECTION	PD.
PLSOIL (cont.)
S33	1	2
S37	1	15
S39	1	10
100	1	1
105	1	3
110	1	12
200	1	17
205	1	5
215	1	19
255	1	18
515	1	12
530	1	14
535	1	12
540	1	19
550	1	16
555	1	15
560	1	10
575	1	18
POLISH
101	1	10
201	1	18
250	1	2
POLSCI
101	1A	13
	2B	10
	3	14
	4	13
111	1	16
	2	17
121	1	17
121	2	18
151A	1	9
151B	1	12
161A	1	16
203	1	11
214	2	5
219	1	4
249	1	5
255	1	2
302	1	14
	2	19
305	1	3
317	1	7
320	1	13
326A	1	11
326B	1	1
337	1	18
340	1	10
354	2	18
354H	1	18
358	1	15

COURSE	SECTION	PD.
POLSCI (cont.)
360	1	3
	2	9
361	1	19
362	1	17
363	1	10
371	1	16
371	2A	8
374A	1	12
392H	1	17
524	1	7
PORT
120	1	5
130	1	18
PSYCH
100A	1	10
100C	1	19
105	1	17
110A	1	5
110B	1	13
110C	1	10
110D	1	6
110E	1	18
110H	1-2	19
150A	1	13
150C	1	10
150D	1	17
150E	1	6
150F	1	10
190X	1	9
207	1	8
208	1	15
208B	1	17
240A	1	18
240B	1	5
240C	1	10
240H	1	11
280A	1	2
280B	1	12
280H	1	17
310	1	16
315A	1	18
315B	1	1
320A	1	13
330A	1	17
335A	1	11
335H	1	5
350A	1	19
350B	1	3
350C	1	17
350H	1	17
355A	1	10

COURSE	SECTION	PD.
PSYCH (cont.)
360A	1	2
360H	1	8
370A	1	12
380	1	15
390A	1	9
404	1	17
486A	1	19
503	1	15
525	1	17
580A	1	19
581	1	18
590J	1	1
PUB HL
123	1	4
	2	16
301	1	17
330	1	3
360	1	5
361	1	17
540	1-3	1
561	1	7
RHET
100B	1	19
100E	20	10
100G	18	17
100L	5	5
RUSS
101	1-4	7
102	1	17
111	1	19
201	1	5
255	1	10
301	1	19
558	1	17
S BA
518	1	8
523	1-2	13
541	1-2	9
572	1	7
583	1	8
SOCIOL
103	1A	16
	2B	9
103H	1	9
109	1	17
109H	1	17
110	1	3
	2	16
	4	12

COURSE	SECTION	PD.
SOCIOL (cont.)
201	2	16
201H	1	16
211	1	18
220	1	12
222	1	12
224	1	3
240	1	7
241	1	12
	2	6
242	1	5
242H	1	5
261	1	10
261H	1	10
311	1	18
311H	1	18
321	1	3
325	1	14
327	1	7
383	1	17
460	1	11
488	1	7
542	1	7
591A	1	9
SPAN
110	1-2,5-6, 9,11-13, 16,18-20, 22,24-25	1
120	1-17	14
126	1-2	1
130	1-18	1
140	1-10	14
145	1	12
146	1	3
220	1-2	14
SPORST
150	1	5
150A	1	3
150B	1	9
150C	1	12
200	1	15
201	1-2	13
203	1	10
563	1	8
565	1	17
594A	1	17
595A	1	18
STATIS
121	1	19
150	1-18	9
415	1-2	16
	3	18

COURSE	SECTION	PD.
STATIS (cont.)
416	1	16
461	1	12
SWEDSH
126	1	18
THEATR
100	1	4
120	1	7
160	1	12
220	1	18
262	1	19
WDTECH
401	1	7
508	1	15

COURSE	SECTION	PD.
WILDLF
261A	1	10
261B	1	10
ZOOL
101	1	3
101S	1	3
102	1	3
190A	1	3
235	1	18
245	1	19
261	1	12
339	1	19
510	1	13
521	1	6
523	1	18
527	1	12
530	1	7

COURSE	SECTION	PD.
531	1	17
538	1	12
540	1	19
550	1	5
560	1	3
560A	1	3
566	1	10
572	1	14
591A	1	15
597A	1	7

COURSE	SECTION	PD.
GEOG
145	1	12
155	1	18
340	1	3
365	1-2	6
370	1-2	17
391A	1	18
GEOL
101	1	3
	2	16
	3	9
103	1	17
	2	5
105	1	19
310	1	19
320	1	17
330	1	10
340	1	12
445	1	18
487	1	5
488	1	8
511	1	18
513	1	8
539	1	19
550	1	8
562	1	19
570	1	17
575	1	5
580	1	17
584	1	5
GERMAN
110	1A-10J	1
120	1A-5E	1
126	1	5
230	1-4	1
232	1-2	16
234	1	17
238	1	17
240	1-2	15
261	1	14
270	1	18
290F	1	19
310	1	19
320	1	12
341	1	10
431	1	8
583	1	5
GREEK
110	1	3
220	1	8

COURSE	SECTION	PD.
HEBREW
101	1-2	15
	3	15
201	1-2	1
HIST
100	2B	7
	3C	18
101	1	14
110	1	13
115	1	16
120	1	9
121	1	18
130	1	11
140	1A	6
	2	18
141	1A	13
	3	18
	4	17
150	1A	16
	2B	18
	3	13
	5	16
	6	14
151	1A	16
	2B	6
	4	16
	6	16
282C	1	15
290B	1	16
302	1	5
304	1	7
307	1	19
315	1	9
322	1	8
327	1	3
334	1	13
337	1	10
344	1	12
345	1	18
350	1	17
353	1	5
360	1	16
361	1	6
363	1	19
364	1	4
366	1	12
367	1	17
369	1	3
372	1	3
374		15
378	1	1
380	1	10
387	1	15

COURSE	SECTION	PD.
HOM EC
265	1	12
270	1	17
282	1	16
355	1	9
590D	1	3
590E	1	19
591F	1	18
HRTA
100	1	15
156	1	18
202	1	7
	2	7
211	1-2	11
220	1	5
300	1	2
301	1	5
311	1	19
330	1-2	6
331	1	17
367	1	13
391A	1	16
391B	1	12
391C	1	3
391D	1	15
393A	1	12
491A	1	15
493A	1	4
HUMDEV
210	1	4
380	1	15
382	1	16
I E
251	1	9
454	1-2	1
460	1-2	3
471	1	19
478	1	12
479	1-2	18
541	1	5
556	1	19
590N	1	7
ITAL
110	1-3,5-6	18
126	1-2	1
130	2-3	1
146	1	7
281H	1	7
407H	1	18
JAPAN
243	1	17

COURSE	SECTION	PD.
JS
201	1	19
202	1	2
369	1	3
JUDAIC
101	1-2	16
290H	1	1
LATIN
110	2	1
110H	1	5
115	1-4,6-7, 9,11-13	15
125	1-2	15
135	1-4	1
140C	1-2	4
145	1	5
210	1	10
220	1	17
LD OPR
S01A	1	12
S01B	1	12
S01C	1	12
S01D	1	12
S03A	1	5
S03B	1	5
S03C	1	5
S07A	1	8
S07B	1	8
S07C	1	8
S07D	1	8
LING
101	1	5
201	2-3	10
LS&R
101	1	5
111	1	16
250	1	18
351	1	9
362	1	8
372	1	8
M E
102	1	12
201	1	16
210	1-3	2
211	1-2	10
213	1	9
230	1-3	12
310	1-3	5

COURSE	SECTION	PD.
M E (cont.)
311	1	4
314	1	19
318	1	17
320	1	13
330	1-3	15
341	1	12
560	1	18
570	1	10
573	1	7
575	1	3
576	1	18
581	1	17
586	1	8
MATH
S03	1-2	16
S04	1	9
011	1	9
104	1-3,5-9, 11-13, 16-17, 20-23	4
104A	1-3	4
104S	1	4
110S	1	8
113	1-2	15
120	2-3,5-9, 11-13,16, 21-22	9
121	3-6	8
121B	1-2	8
121B	3	8
127	1-24	8
128	1,4	4
	2-3	8
	6	8
	7,9	8
	10-11	8
131	1-26	7
131E	1	7
132	1-8, 10-13	8
229	2	8
233	1-2	8
	3	14
	4-5	8
	6-7	8
	8	17
	9-10	8
	11	12
	12	8
	13	8
233A	2	8

COURSE	SECTION	PD.
MATH (cont.)
235	1	11
	2	11
	3	11
	5	13
	6	17
236	1	12
	2	4
411	1	5
425	1	19
431	1	1
	2	18
	3-4	6
	5	1
	6	11
431C	1	17
441	1	12
451	1	8
532

Crackers, Cheese, and a Drink at the TOC Happy Hour

TONIGHT
10¢ Beers
PUB MUGS
9:00 'til 9:30
THE PUB
15 East Pleasant St.
AMHERST

CINEMA 1-8
HOLYOKE MALL AT INGLESIDE
Mass. Pike Exit 4 to Int. Exit 15
24 Hr. Movie-Phone 538-7510
PRESENT AD AT BOX OFFICE FOR $1.00 OFF REG ADULT PRICE
"TOMMY" DAILY 4:15 LATE SHOW FRI & SAT 11:30

Held Over — The MUPPET MOVIE (G) — Today 1:10-3:15-5:30-7:25 & 9:30
A True Story — THE ONION FIELD (R)
Held Over — WHEN A STRANGER CALLS (R) — Today 1:10-3:15-5:30-7:25 & 9:30
Today 1:00-3:00-5:05-7:10 & 9:15 — ABBA (FRONTS AGAINST BACKSTAGE & ON THE ROAD TAKE THE TOUR) — No Matinees Sat-Sun-Mon
EXTRAORDINARY! You've never seen anything like it! — "KING OF HEARTS" — Ends Tuesday
Recorded in Dolby Sound — MORE AMERICAN GRAFFITI
FRENCH POSTCARDS (PG)
Held Over — DENNIS CHRISTOPHER — BREAKING AWAY (PG) — Today 2:45-4:55-7:05 & 9:15
"The Christmas That Almost Wasn't" Sat-Sun-Mon

AMERICAN MULTI CINEMA
ADULTS $2.75 STUDENTS & SR. CITIZENS with AMC CARD $2.25 TWI-LITE SHOW $1.50 - Special Engagements Excluded Twi-Lite Show - Limited to Seating
TIMES SHOWN FOR TODAY ONLY

HAMPSHIRE 4 — 584-7550 HAMP. MALL ON CAFE SQ.—RT. 9, HADLEY, MASS.
Apocalypse Now (R) — Today at (5:30 @ $1.50)-8:30
JOSEPH WAMBAUGH'S The Onion Field — Today at (6:00 @ $1.50)-8:30
Movie and Dinner $5. see one of the great movies listed here and have dinner at the Pewter Pot Rest. on Cafe Square in the Hampshire Mall for only $5. Call for details.
French Postcards (6:30 @ $1.50)-8:45 PG
Breaking Away (6:15 @ $1.50)-8:45 PG

MOUNTAIN FARMS 4 — 584-9153 MOUNTAIN FARMS MALL ROUTE 9—HADLEY, MASS.
A temptingly tasteful comedy "10" (R) — Today at (6:00 @ $1.50)-8:30
AL PACINO AND JUSTICE FOR ALL (R) — Today at (6:00 @ $1.50)-8:30
Honk if you love Brian. MONTY PYTHON'S LIFE OF BRIAN (R) — Today at (6:15 @ $1.50)-8:45
Marcello Mastroianni Wife or mistress (R) — Today at (6:15 @ $1.50)-8:45

ACADEMY of MUSIC Northampton, Mass.
Now, Two Days Only, Ends this Thursday
On Screen at 7:00 and 9:20
FEDERICO FELLINI'S 8½ — MARCELLO MASTROIANNI, CLAUDIA CARDINALE
A motion picture that goes beyond what men think about—because no man ever thought about it quite this way.
Starts Friday For One Week Only
Days of Heaven
AT THE GATES OF SMITH COLLEGE

CINEMA 1·2·3·4·5·6·7·8
HOLYOKE MALL at INGLESIDE
MASS. PIKE Exit 4 To INT. 91-Exit 15
24 HOUR MOVIE PHONE 538-7510
EXCLUSIVE LIMITED SHOWING!!
DAILY AT 4:15
FRIDAY & SATURDAY AT 11:30 P.M.
Tommy — Your senses will never be the same. (PG)
SNIP IT or CLIP IT
This coupon entitles student with college ID to admission to one show of your choice at $1.00 per person before 5 P.M. or $1.50 per person after 5:00 P.M. each day One coupon per person only "regular" shows only
Not valid Sat. eve (except 11:30)
expires November 20, 1979
Tommy

The BLUEWALL Presents
DISCO
Wednesday, November 14, 1979
HAPPY HOUR ALL NIGHT LONG
Under 20's Welcome!
9:30 pm-12:30 am
This Week: J.C. The Mover
T.O.C. Sticker and Valid I.D. Required to Purchase Alcohol

Or Would You Rather Be Studying

DISCO ON DOWN TO...
Tues. 25c beers
Wed. 50c drinks
Thurs. Beat the Clock
8:00 - 9:00 50c
9:00 - 10:00 75c
10:00 - closing $1.00
ALL DRINKS
Fri. & Sat.
HAPPY HOUR 8-10 PM
Rt. 9 Amherst
Poor Richard's DISCOTHEQUE

NEW HOT FUN FROM ACROSS THE WAVES. IT'S THE SINCEROS IN "THE SOUND OF SUNBATHING."

THEY'RE THE SINCEROS! AND THEY WANNA MAKE MUSIC FOR YOU. "THE SOUND OF SUNBATHING." ON COLUMBIA RECORDS AND TAPES.
"Columbia," are trademarks of CBS Inc. © 1979 CBS Inc.
Available at FOR THE RECORD at FACES OF EARTH $4.99

Guess Who's Back?

NATIONAL LAMPOON'S
ANIMAL HOUSE
The Most Popular Movie Comedy Of All Time
THE MATTY SIMMONS - IVAN REITMAN PRODUCTION
"NATIONAL LAMPOON'S ANIMAL HOUSE" Starring JOHN BELUSHI TIM MATHESON JOHN VERNON VERNA BLOOM THOMAS HULCE and DONALD SUTHERLAND as ZEMECKIS
Produced by MATTY SIMMONS and IVAN REITMAN Music by ELMER BERNSTEIN
Written by HAROLD RAMIS DOUGLAS KENNEY & CHRIS MILLER Directed by JOHN LANDIS Song ANIMAL HOUSE Composed and Performed by STEPHEN BISHOP
A UNIVERSAL PICTURE TECHNICOLOR
Original sound track on MCA Records & Tapes
National Lampoon's Animal House Movie Book of Newsprint and Bookmaker
R RESTRICTED UNDER 17 REQUIRES ACCOMPANYING PARENT OR ADULT GUARDIAN
©1978 UNIVERSAL CITY STUDIOS INC. ALL RIGHTS RESERVED
STARTS NOV 16th AT A ZOO NEAR YOU!

Nuke reactors topic of Silkwood observance

By SHEPHERD OGDEN
Collegian Staff

Fuel rods scheduled to be loaded into an experimental nuclear reactor in Washington state next week do not meet quality standards, Kitty Tucker of the D.C. based Health and Energy Learning Project said last night in a Hasbrouck Hall lecture.

The talk by Tucker and two other women were the start of a week of anti-nuclear meetings and workshops in the Amherst area sponsored by Mass Public Interest Research group, the Amherst Alternative Energy Coalition, and Students Coalition Against Nukes Nationwide, in observance of the fifth anniversary of Karen Silkwood's death. The nuclear worker and union organizer died November 13th, 1974.

Tucker said the experimental Fast Flux Test Facility, a government pilot project for its breeder reactor program, is slated to be loaded with the fuel rods next week and started in January.

The fuel for the facility is in the form of pencil thin stainless steel rods packed with plutonium and uranium.

Tucker was a lobbyist for the National Organization for Women in Washington D.C. when she read a Government Accounting Office report on federal activity on the Silkwood case. She then became involved in the anti-nuclear movement.

Karen Silkwood was a worker in the Kerr-McGee Cimmaron plant in Oklahoma that produced the fuel rods Tucker said are to be loaded next week, despite a higher than normal percentage of defects. Silkwood died while enroute to deliver evidence of the company's alleged negligence in producing the fuel rods.

Tucker was a member of a NOW labor task force on the Silkwood issue that circulated a petition calling for congressional investigation of Silkwood's death.

The June before her death, Tucker said, "Workers were told (by Kerr McGee) to stop inspecting all sides of the fuel rods." Sworn testimony in the 1976 lawsuit brought by Silkwood's parents confirms this, Tucker said.

Sharon Tracy, a UMass graduate and anti-nuclear activist, opened the evening with a speech on occupational hazards in the nuclear industry.

Also speaking was Dr. Katherine Kohn, representing Physicians for Social Responsibility, a national organiation of physicians concerned with the health effects of radiation. Kohn is a doctor at UMass Medical Center.

"Safe Energy Week" will continue through Friday. Wednesday there will be workshops at UMass and a debate over nuclear power at Amherst College. Thursday, UMass will host a number of anti-nuclear films while two symposia on local energy planning will be held at Hampshire College. There will also be alternative energy workshops at Hampshire College Friday.

Amherst selectmen hire Mill St. bridge consultant

By SEAN HARVEY
Collegian Staff

The Amherst Board of Selectmen last night, upon the recommendation of the Town Manager and the Director of Public Works, voted to support the hiring of a consultant to study the Mill Street Bridge.

The vote came after much discussion on whether or not to have bridges with a clear span of 20 feet or more at their center line appraised to determine if they need rebuilding.

Federal aid is available for the reconstruction of bridges, according to Town Manager A. Louis Hayward, but the towns themselves must incur the cost of consulting engineering.

Selectwoman Diana Romer pointed out that bridges appraised and found to be sound would be an unneccesary expense to

TURN TO PAGE 12

The Holyoke Police Department
Needs Minority Candidates to Fill 14 projected openings in the Holyoke Police Department

To qualify for employment with the Police Department, you must sign up now to take the Police Civil Service Test of December 1, 1979.
Last date for applications is November 13.

Special training classes on how to take the Police Civil Service Test will start November 19-30, 1979 at local sites.

To sign up for the classes and the test contact:

Office of Compliance
Room 402
City Hall Annex
Holyoke, Mass.
536-8222
536-8223
Ext. 36

Holyoke Police Dept.
City Hall Annex
536-6431

South Holyoke Development Corp.
344 Main St.
Holyoke, Mass.
532-1406

AIRLINE ATTENDANTS EARN TO $25,000 YR! TRAVEL! AIRWORLD shows how to pass the INTERVIEWS! For FREE INFO. write Airworld 161 Box 60129 Sacto. CA 95860

Earn $500.00 weekly in your spare time. Addressing envelopes. For details, send self-addressed stamped envelope to F.I.S. P.O. Box 435-T, Danvers, MA. 01923

FRUSTRATED BY NOT KNOWING HOW HOUSEHOLD REPAIRS CAN GET DONE?

COME TO A WORKSHOP ON THE LEGAL RESPONSIBILITIES OF LANDLORDS AND TENANTS. 12:00 - 2:00 P.M. CC ROOM 174 THURSDAY, NOVEMBER 15

BRING YOUR LUNCH. COFFEE PROVIDED. LET THE STATE SANITARY CODE WORK FOR YOU. CALL OFF CAMOUS HOUSING 545-0865 FOR MORE INFO.

Honors Equals Self-Realization

–Discover University Honors
–Add challenge to your undergraduate education
–Through a contracted Honors Program of Study you can take a more personalized control over your work
–Find out if the Honors option is for you by preregistering for an Honors course NOW

For more information visit the Honors Office in Machmer E-25 or call us at 545-2483

★ Selectmen

CONT. FROM PAGE 11

the town. She did not think it was necessary to have all bridges appraised.

"We should consider the Mill Street, East Leverett Road and Station Road bridges initially," Hayward said.

"I still do recommend very strongly to have an engineer look at the Mill Street and East Leverett Road Bridges," Director of Public Works Stanley Ziomek said. "Those are not good bridges." It was not decided at this time whether to have any other bridges appraised.

The selectmen discussed a recommendation by the town's Conservation Commission for the institution of a 20 mph speed limit on a section of Pine Street where a bank is deteriorating. The primary objective would be to reduce the possibility of the slope being shaken apart by heavily loaded trucks, the Commission believes.

Police Chief Donald Maia warned the only way to enforce a 20 mph speed limit would be to assign a police officer to Pine Street constantly.

TO THE GUYS WHO TAKE MORE GRIEF THAN ANYONE ELSE IN THE BALL PARK, THE UMPIRES...

THIS BUD'S FOR YOU.

KING OF BEERS • • ANHEUSER-BUSCH, INC. • ST. LOUIS

Collegian Classifieds

To place a Collegian Classified Ad
•Come to Collegian Office (CC 113)
•8:45 to 3:45, Mon. thru Fri.
•Classified deadline is 3:45 two days prior to publication day

Collegian Classified Rates
•15c per word
•Student rate 10c per word
•Cash in advance
•5 consecutive days, 5% discount
•Phone number FREE

AUDIO

Turntable $90 549-1520

Theatrix Rents Mirror balls and other Disco supplies. Lights for sale, new and used 323-7160

AUTO FOR SALE

1973 Gremlin Excellent condition, 62000 miles, good gas mileage, $1350 or BO 253-5966

68 Buick Skylark dependale and loves gas, great school car 253-9557 $450 or BO

69 Chevelle needs some work, B.O. 256-0613

70 Capri Body good condition, 64000 AM-FM, snows, tuneup. $600 253-3194

Chevy Van 67 6 cyl., fridge, snows, $350 256-0732 Tom

73 VW Super Beetle Dependable transp., good gas mi., Call Eric 253-9233 BO

FOR RENT

Cliffside 1 bedroom apartment available Call 665-3902 evenings.

FOR SALE

Portrait Drawing Dennis Delap, 256-8732

New "Nordic Prostep" X-ctry skis (won in raffle) $45. Don, 546-7114

Ski-Jacket New men's small/women's 14, Karen 546-1159

2 G78-14 Steel/glass belted uniroyal radials. Driven only 1,500 miles. Pioneer TP200 FM/8-track car stereo w/slide mount. Ant reasonable offers considered. Call Bill 253-7332

2 Leather Jackets Walter Dyer Call 253-7103

1 American Airline ½-price coupon, $50 Call Dan 546-5530

FOUND

Belchertown sketchbook Person: Found license but no sketchbook and lost address on Park Street. I am at 358 Meadow St. in Agawam or leave it with anyone who works at Student Union Craftshop or please feel free to call 786-6932 (413) collect so we can work out some arrangement. Thank you. Alden L. Miller

Found Puppy approx. 2 mos., vic. Brandywine Apts. Call 549-6227 after 4 p.m.

HELP WANTED

Overseas Jobs—Summer/year round. Europe, S. America, Australia, Asia, etc. All fields, $500-$1,200 monthly, expenses paid. Sightseeing, free information write: IJC, Box 52-MC, Corona Del Mar, CA. 92625

Airline Attendants earn to $25,000 yr! Airworld shows how to pass the interviews! For free info. send 15c stamp to Airworld 161 Box 60129 Sacramento, CA 95860

Cruiseships! Sailing expeditions! No experience. Good pay! Europe! South Pacific, Bahamas, World! For vfree information send 15c stamp to Cruiseworld 161 Box 60129, Sacramento, CA 95860

LEGAL SERVICES

Attorney Jason R. Rosenthal General Practice Legal Representation for the Amherst, Mass community by apt. only days 584-4285 evenings 253-7617

LOST

Gold Watch sentimental value, gift from my parents, lost somewhere on Phillips St. or No. Pleasant. If found, call 6-7022 keep trying, reward

Lost Brown Leather Hat in Stud. Union. Reward for return. Lost on Thurs. Nov. 8 256-8075

PERSONALS

HB—Happy 3rd Anniversary! Love, YCB

Sugarbush Hotel needs chambermaids Jan.-March includes lodging call Ski Club 545-3437 or Ken 549-6060

Tony—The Voodoo frog got hung Thursday Night. Cherry

LauraLee—Can I move your bed again tonight? Admiral Wang

PRACTICUM: Intersession - 3 credits Spring semester 3-6 credits. Work in afterschool Day Care on Campus. For more info call Nancy Ross 549-6170

Congratulations Barri!

Free Black & White Cat 6 months, will deliver 1-527-5579

Today is a special day. It's your birthday. Happy Birthday David! I love you. Susan

Just Chofus and Friends. Thanks for the incredible laughter we've shared. I'll miss you all. Love and Hugs, The Green Skirt (Jaws) P.S. Dan Lives

I used to jog, but now I smoke pot and dance! JFK Zen Dancers of America

Schatzchen - Happy Birthday Love S

Have you been in an Orgasmatron lately. Have you Gotten High with an Orb? If not, or if you would like to agian come and see Woody Allen's Sleeper Thursday Nov. 15 in Thompson 104 at 7:00, 9:00 & 11:00. One dollar, cheap!

You took my brown tweed blazer sz. 9 Larry Levine at PICA party 11/8 and left your wine twd blazer. I have yours, you have mine-let's switch, please. No questions asked. Julie 549-2664 or 545-3500

ATTN BUSINESS MAJORS

On Thursday November 15 from 10:00-4:00 P.M. The Undergraduate Business Club will present "CAREER DAY '79" in the School of Business. There will be a luncheon held from 12:00 to 2:00 P.M. Tickets are available in the SBA Lobby until Novemebr 14. All invited!

ROOMMATE WANTED

Female housemate wanted for a semi-coop, non-smoking hse near Amherst Center 253-2842

Female roommate wanted apartment, own room, bus rt. $127.50+ 253-3246

Male Roommate wanted to share room in 2 bedroom apt. $90 Brittany Manor Apts. 253-3967

2 Women roommates wanted for house one block from campus. Call 549-4620

2-3 Females to share lg. furnished apt. Jan-Aug 253-7619

ROOM WANTED

Looking for a 2 or 3 bedroom apt. to sublease starting Jan, call Tom at 546-7822 or Sean 546-7821

Wanted 3 bedroom apartment to sublease starting January. Please call 546-5223 546-8003

I need a place to live pref. own bedroom w/reasonable rates 253-5201 ask for Barry

Wanted 2 or 3 bedroom apt in Jan. Call John 546-5616 Keep Trying

Veggie seeks bdrm in house or apt for Nov. 1 Call 549-6070 OK? Keep calling

We need 2/3 bedroom apt starting Jan. Call 546-5226 or 546-5221

Looking for a 2 bedroom apt. Starting Jan. 1st Call 546-7093 or 546-2371

SECURITY DEPOSIT PROBLEMS?

Have any questions about your security deposit? Do you think monies were unfairly deducted for repairs or cleaning? Did you get 5% interest? Do you know where your money is being held? Call the Security Deposit Task Force at UMass Legal Services 545-1995 or Off Campus Housing 545-0865

STURDY CAR

Study car 65 Buick, excellent condition, new battery, rebuilt carburator, 600 or BO 253-2772

SERVICES

"Attention Car Owners" Protect you auto with an alarm system. Up to 15% off insurance. One year guarantee 549-4041

WANTED

Fast Immediate Cash for gold-school rings-diamonds-silver Jeff anytime 527-7078 586-0180

WANTED TO RENT

Need 2 bedroom apt. to sublease for Spring, Call 546-7625 546-7624

Wanted to Subet 2 or 3 bedroom apartment for Spring Semester Call John or Pete 546-7477

3 Bedroom Apt. pref. split level for Spring semester Call 546-8544

Aluminum Foil by Steve Lafler

Beasts by Rob Ranney

This space is available to interested student cartoonists.

Cartoonists desiring to fill this space should submit 15-20 strips to the Managing Editor, 113 Campus Center, for consideration. Call ahead before submitting strips, at 545-3500.

Vorma B. by M.J. Galper

Doonesbury by Garry Trudeau

TODAY'S CROSSWORD PUZZLE

UNITED Feature Syndicate
Tuesday's Puzzle Solved

A	L	S	O		P	A	L		S	A	G	E	S
R	O	M	P		E	R	S	E		C	R	U	D	E
A	T	A	P		G	O	L	F		A	G	R	E	E
S	T	R	O	P		W	E	T	G	R	O	U	N	D
H	O	T	R	O	D		S	H	O	E	S
			T	R	O	J	A	L	O		H	A	S
M	I	N	U	T	E	H	A	N	D		D	U	N	T
O	V	E	N	S		R	E	D		M	A	N	I	A
S	A	K	E		D	E	R	E	L	I	C	T	L	Y
T	N	T		V	I	A		R	A	N	K
			B	E	E	T	S		T	O	H	A	V	E
Y	E	S	I	N	D	E	E	D		S	A	W	E	D
E	L	A	N	D		N	I	A	S		N	A	N	A
T	A	N	G	O		E	Z	R	A		D	R	U	M
I	N	G	E	R		D	E	E	D		B	E	E	S

ACROSS
1 Canines
5 Vanish
9 Curved
14 — Sevareid
15 Elegance
16 Course
17 Reside
18 College contest
20 Young one
21 Standard
22 Courage
23 American dramatist
25 Seethed
27 Snakes
29 Tin
30 Licks
34 Nevertheless
36 Caulking material
38 Fabulist
39 Pismire killer: 2 words
42 Inane
43 Remove
44 Place of: Suffix
45 Stalk
46 Finial
47 Swan genus
49 So. Amer. brandy
51 Select
54 Hindu incarnation
58 Amer. drug list
60 Mend
61 Storage area: 2 words
63 Debatable
64 Growing out
65 Scholar
66 "Judith" composer
67 Passe
68 Card
69 Close

DOWN
1 — wing
2 Bay window
3 Fight: 2 words
4 Sights
5 Toss
6 Crescent-shaped
7 Like school sports
8 Ever: Poet.
9 Fortified
10 Debacle
11 Brusque
12 Etc.'s kin
13 Remove
19 Verily
24 Kind of resin
26 — ray
28 Perched
30 Pasture
31 Pacific port: 2 words
32 Needy
33 Active
34 Fish
35 Piece
37 Retains
38 Anoint
40 Wahoo
41 Equal: Prefix
46 Ireland
48 Father time, e.g.
49 Stepped
50 Indian
52 Urao
53 Enroll
54 Impressed
55 Hindu guitar
56 Med. course
57 Head: Fr.
59 Victim
62 WW-II vessel: Abbr.

DC menu

LUNCH
Cheeseburgers
Liver & Onions

BASICS LUNCH
Vegetable Chow Mein/Noodles
Golden Burgers

DINNER
Roast Beef/Gravy
Seafood Newburg/Biscuit

BASICS DINNER
Seafood Newburg/Biscuit
Barley-Soybean Casserole

EARTHFOODS
Wokked veggies over bulghar
Potato salad
Miso-onion soup
Cranberry bread

This is the FINAL WEEK to start your plans for a SPRING 1980 INTERNSHIP
Come to the Office of Internships
16 Curry Hicks,
OR Call us at 545-0727
HURRY!
DON'T MISS A GREAT OPPORTUNITY!

MOVIE LISTINGS

Academy Of Music
Bread & Chocolate
7:00 9:00

Hampshire 4
Apocalypse Now
5:30 8:30
Onion Field
6:00 8:30
Breaking Away
5:30 8:45
French Postcards
6:30 8:45

Mt. Farms 4
Life of Brian
6:15 8:45
And Justice For All
6:00 8:30
"10"
6:00 8:30
Wifemistress
6:15 8:45

Holyoke 1-8
Muppet Movie
1:10 3:15 5:30 7:25 9:30
Stranger Calls
1:10 3:15 5:30 7:25 9:30
Breaking Away
2:45 4:55 7:05 9:15
Abba
1:00 3:00 5:05 7:10 9:15
Pleasant St. Cinema
El Super
6:00 8:00 10:00

Showcase 1-8
Time After Time
2:00 7:30 9:45
Fiddler on the Roof
2:00 7:45 10:15
Fish. . .Pittsburg
2:00 7:30 10:00
"10"
2:00 7:20 10:40
ABC
1:30 7:10 10:10
Brian
2:00 7:10 10:10
Justice For All
2:00 7:15 9:45

Swimmers down Vermont

By LAURA FRANK
Collegian Staff

If you were looking for excitement on Saturday afternoon, there was no need to go further than NOPE pool where the UMass women's swim team soundly defeated Vermont, 83-48.

UMass came out strong in the beginning with a record setting 400 yd. medley relay team of Nancee Shifflet, Theresa Totin, Leslie Johnson, and Caroline Benjamin. They cut five seconds off the previous school record with a winning time of 4:22:8. In the 1000 yd. freestyle, Vermont powerhouse, Patricia DeMarcken, placed first, with UMass' Judy Miller finishing second and UVM capturing third. In the 200 yd. freestyle, Jennifer Black captured first place with Lindy Buchan finishing third.

Theresa Totin swam her way to a first place finish and a new pool record of 1:13:5 in the 100 yd. breaststroke. UVM captured second and third in the event.

The 200 yd. butterfly is one of the toughest events in a long course meet. Again UVM's Patricia DeMarcken finished first, but UMass' Nancee Shiflet managed to capture second place with co-captain Cindy Piela finishing third.

TURN TO PAGE 15

The women's swim team had it all its way last Saturday as it soundly defeated the University of Vermont. (Staff photo by Paul Price).

★ GPE offers diversity

CONT. FROM PAGE 16

the number of gym facilities at the University.

The diversified program offers a lot more than exercise and academic credit to the student. Many of the aquatic courses offer Red Cross Certification. Students may also take the same GPE course for credit again, even if they have already passed the course, as long as it is not in the same semester.

The GPE department does support some of the university clubs. "We do everything we can to accomodate and support some of the club programs on campus," said Gladchuk. The Waterpolo II course is the waterpolo club and the Volleyball II course is the volleyball club.

The GPE department has run some bowling clinics, offers Nordic and Alpine ski packages, and operated a Project Deep scuba program.

Students might want to take advantage of all the programs and courses given by the GPE department.

"A GPE course is a great break from the classroom in a person's day. He can relax, get in some physical conditioning, receive credit and learn a skill," sums up Director Gladchuk.

JV gridders end season

By SCOTT SOLOMON
Collegian Staff

The UMass junior varsity football team has ended an extremely productive season on a rather disappointing note, with the announcement of the cancellation of its game with New Hampshire, scheduled for November 11.

The announcement came via phone message just before noon on Friday, as the New Hampshire coach called to say that there were too many injuries on the varsity squad, and that the junior varsity assembly would be unable to make the trip to Amherst.

UMass Coach Clarence Brooks says that he has requested, through varsity coach Bob Pickett, the cancellation of game with teams such as New Hampshire and Dartmouth (a game which was cancelled at the beginning of season, also for rather vague reasons), and the addition of games with the preparatory schools such as Bridgeton and Milford Academies.

Brooks, now in his third season as UMass junior varsity coach, enjoyed his winningest year in '79, as his crew finished with a 3-1 mark.

Inner Space

FREE PACK of PAPERS with this ad! Lowest Prices on headgear in the valley
57 E. Pleasant St. Inside Paul's Old Time Furniture

IDB TIPS
Information Data Bank — Taped Information Phone Service
Information for UMass

REMINDER:

All declared College of Arts & Sciences majors must pick up their pre-registration forms at their major departments' offices; undeclared CAS majors must pick up their forms in E-20 Machmer Hall.

Students in all other schools will receive their forms in the mail. All pre-registration forms are due on Wednesday, Nov. 21 in the Registrar's Office, Rm. 215 Whitmore.

The Information Data Bank
2nd floor Whitmore Call 545-1555
a service of the Dean of Students Office

The Hungry-U
HAPPY HOUR DAILY 3-6
FREE SNACKS
549-5713
55 University Dr.

call: 586-5158
You too can have GIANT PASTRAMI SANDWICHES (as well as chopped liver, hummus, brie, cannoli, baklava or Chinese almond cookies!) At...
THE GROCERY
235 Main St., Northampton

ONLY ON WEDNESDAY SPECIAL

ONE DAY ONLY
4.99
MEN'S ASTOR ONE DRESS SHIRTS
Reg. 10.-12. Long sleeved group of solid color polyesters or striped poly/cottons, 14½-17.
MEN'S, ALL STORES

DENBY'S
we can be your store
Hampshire Mall (Hadley) * Holyoke Mall (Ingleside)

Project DEEP is offering two courses during the month of January. For details, see the sports notices section in today's Collegian. (Photo courtesy of Bob Sparks).

Sports notices

HANG-GLIDING CLUB – Important meeting this Wednesday at 7:30 in CC 103. Fund-raiser to be arranged, other important topics as well. All members and newcomers urged to attend.

TABLE TENNIS – The UMass Table Tennis Club is sponsoring the second annual UMass Table Tennis Tournament to be held Sat., Nov. 17 at 10:00 in NOPE Gym. Anyone interested may fill out an entry blank at the Games Room, located across from the Hatch. Entry fee is $1.00 to be paid at the tournament site. All UMass students welcome!

INTRAMURALS – THANKSGIVING SCHEDULE:
Wed., Nov. 21: Boyden and NOPE close at 6:00 pm.
Thurs., Nov. 22: ALL facilities closed (Thanksgiving).
Fri. and Sat., Nov. 23-24: Boyden open 10-6:00 pm, NOPE closed.
Sun., Nov. 25: Boyden open 12-8:00 pm, NOPE closed.

INTRAMURALS ENTRIES DUE:
Three on three basketball due Mon., Nov. 19.
Basketball (Men, women, co-rec.) due Wed., Dec. 5.
Enter the above at the Intramural Office, 215 Boyden.

PROJECT DEEP – Project DEEP is now accepting applications for two diving trips during January. The first is to Key Largo, Florida, January 3-10, for $260. The second is to Bimini, Bahamas, January 12-19, for $475. Both trips are worth two credits from the GPE program. Both trips lead to NAUI certification in Sport Scuba Diving. A special program will be run in December for untrained divers so that they may go on either trip. The whole program is open to anyone. For more information contact Paula at the GPE Office, 224 Boyden, 545-2338, or call Bob Sparks at 586-3448.

Dan Guidera, Mark Marchand, Steve Zack, George O'Brien. Four good ways to keep abreast of campus and pro sports.

★ Merwomen

CONT. FROM PAGE 14

The 200 yd. butterfly is one of the toughest events in a long course meet. Again UVM's Patricia DeMarcken finished first, but UMass' Nancee Shifflet managed to capture second place with co-captain Cindy Piela finishing third.

No one could have asked for a better show of talent in diving than that given by Kathy Driscoll and Denise Tetro. In the required diving event, Driscoll placed first and Tetro third. The optional diving event proved to be a true exhibition of skill and finesse with Driscoll and Tetro combining for a one-two UMass finish. Driscoll also set a new School record of 225.45 in that event.

Judy Miller and Nancee Shifflet combined for yet another one-two finish in the 100 yd. freestyle. While in the 50 yd. freestyle, which is the shortest distance of the meet, Caroline Benjamin placed first. Another school record was set by Jennifer Black in the 200 yd. backstroke, with a winning time of 2:26:3. She also finished first in the 100 yd. butterfly with Cindy Piela placing third.

The 400 yd. individual medley is the toughest event of a long course meet. However, for freshman Leslie Johnson it proved to be an easy barrier to tumble. Johnson beat Patty DeMarcken by a large distance and in the process set a new pool record of 4:57:8 giving UMass another first place finish. Judy Goffi added to the score by finishing third in that event. Theresa Totin and Lindy Buchan swam to a one-three finish in the 100 yd. breastroke event.

By this time the meet score was outstandingly in favor of UMass so it did not matter that UVM won the 400 yd. freestyle relay, which is the last event of the meet.

THE ARK
(EPISCOPAL CHURCH AT UMASS)
Sundays at The Ark — 6:00 PM supper (potluck); 7:00 PM Bible Study, Prayer, Eucharist
Wednesdays 1:05 PM At Newman
Rev. Ian Montgomery 758 N. Pleasant 549-5929

University & Office Supplies
Hallmark Cards
A.J. Hastings Inc.
newsdealer & stationer
45 S. Pleasant St., Amherst

Featuring Shirts, Hats & Jackets with All Major Logos
SPORT SHACK
Red Sox Patriots Yankees Cowboys
Hampshire Mall, Hadley, Mass.

A career in law— without law school.

After just three months of study at The Institute for Paralegal Training in exciting Philadelphia, you can have a stimulating and rewarding career in law or business — without law school.

As a lawyer's assistant you will be performing many of the duties traditionally handled only by attorneys. And at The Institute for Paralegal Training, you can pick one of seven different areas of law to study. Upon completion of your training, The Institute's unique Placement Service will find you a responsible and challenging job in a law firm, bank or corporation in the city of your choice.

The Institute for Paralegal Training is the nation's first and most respected school for paralegal training. Since 1970, we've placed over 2,500 graduates in over 85 cities nationwide.

If you're a senior of high academic standing and looking for an above average career, contact your Placement Office for an interview with our representative.

We will visit your campus on:
WEDNESDAY, NOVEMBER 28

The Institute for Paralegal Training®
235 South 17th Street
Philadelphia, PA 19103
(215) 732-6600
operated by Paralegal, Inc.
Approved by the American Bar Association.

Club The Steak Out
Rt. 9 at University Dr.
Amherst
256-8557
PRIME RIB DINNER
$6.95
WITH POTATO AND UNLIMITED SALAD BAR
WEDNESDAY SPECIAL

Join Us for Breakfast at the TOC Restaurant
7:00 A.M.-9:00 A.M.
Monday-Friday

On the other hand V
A course & teacher evaluation guide

INTERSESSION JOBS!!
-WRITING
-TYPESETTING
-DESIGNING
CATE VI--A Course and Teacher Evaluation Guide

Full and part-time positions available for both WORK STUDY and NON-WORK-STUDY students.
Jobs start Jan. 2 1980 and last 4-5 weeks. Applicants with writing experience preferred.
Apply at 420 Student Union Building, between 8:30A.M.-4:00P.M. Deadline: Friday November 16
Women and Third World People urged to apply.

FOREIGN BOOK SALE
French*Spanish*German
Portuguese*Russian*Danish
Swedish*Italian and many more.
50 to 70% OFF
Foreign Publications Only
Sale only at the University Store's
TEXTBOOK ANNEX
in the physical plant bldg.
MON-FRIDAY 9 a.m.-4 p.m.
NOV 5 - NOV 16
hurry for the best selection all sales final
the UNIVERSITY STORE'S TEXTBOOK ANNEX @ physical plant bldg

Moran's goal lifts booters, 1-0

Minutemen Bret Simon (14) moves the ball upfield during yesterday's 1-0 triumph over Harvard. The lone goal was scored by Wayne Moran. (Staff photo by John Bunting).

By DAVE BRADLEY
Collegian Staff

UMass forward Wayne Moran's diving head shot off a feed from Denis Walsh with five minutes left to play gave the men's soccer team a 1-0 win over Harvard University yesterday in a make-up game on Boyden Field. The Minutemen end their season with a 7-5-2 record.

The goal came at a time when overtime seemed just around the corner. Both teams had had numerous opportunities to score throughout the contest but as time dwindled neither team looked like it would break the deadlock.

Then, with less than six minutes left, UMass got a corner kick (one of seven) from the right of Crimson goalie Bill Blood. Stopper-back Bret Simon served the ball to tri-captain Mike Saint Martin who headed it on the net. Blood made the save, punching the ball out to his left, but Walsh was right there to control it and send a low line drive back across the goal mouth. Moran drove quickly, headed the ball straight into the net, and it was celebration time for the Minutemen and about 150 cold spectators.

Coach Russ Kidd called the win "a good way to go out." He noted the difficulty UMass had scoring, "but at least we got one," he said.

The UMass defense, as it had done all season, played a major role in the win. Sophomore goalie Matt Esteves, starting his second game of the season, made 12 saves on 19 shots while defensemen Simon and Greg Omasta made key plays when Harvard threatened.

"Omasta really played a gutsy game all the way," Kidd said of the senior. Kidd also praised Moran, and tri-captains Mark Vassalotti and Mark Vasington for playing well despite having a touch of the flu.

Offensively, UMass tested Blood with 12 shots on goal, forcing him to make seven saves. In the first half senior forward Ed Eschmann fired a shot from about 10 yards out, only to have it deflected wide. Gregg Draudt had an opportunity from about the same distance a little later but his shot went wide.

Moran and Eschmann had more opportunities in the second half, and Tony Dias was also pressing to score, but it wasn't until 84:43 had expired before the winning goal was scored.

Reflecting on the year, Saint Martin felt it was a "disappointing season" as far as the record is concerned, but stressed he was pleased with the team's hustle. "We got guys trying out there all the time," he said, "and that's what's important."

For a change of pace try the GPE program

By LINDA REYER
Collegian Staff

Yes, it's that time of the year again. Everyone is starting to pull out their 1979/1980 Undergraduate Catalogue in efforts to figure out what courses to pre-register for next semester. So if you find yourself skimming through that book looking for that special course to break up the monotony of your schedule, get a little exercise, and receive a credit in the process, then turn tp the School of Physical Education and sign up for one of the 70 General Physical Education courses being offered next semester.

The GPE department offers 128 sections of a wide variety of courses ranging from Hatha Yoga to Ultimate Frisbee.

Unlike most colleges, the majority of UMass GPE courses are taught by undergraduates. These undergraduate instructors, who make up 90 per cent of the teaching staff, are supervised by faculty members.

"A lot of schools haven't accepted the fact that undergraduates are excellent instructors," said Chet Gladchuk, Director of the GPE Department.

The teaching undergraduates all have documented expertise in their fields. Some of them are members of athletic teams on this campus.

Surprisingly enough, physical education majors make up only a small percentage of the teaching staff.

Although no monetary payment is given to the undergrads, they do receive two credits for teaching a GPE course.

"The experience pays them big dividends in maturity and teaching expertise," said Gladchuk.

Professional people who are bonafide in their field are hired to teach some of the more unusual courses such as International Folkdancing.

Approximately 7000 students sign up for GPE courses each semester. More students are interested in taking GPE courses because 85 percent of the courses are oversubscribed.

"The success of the program can be measured by the number of students that want to be involved but they can't because of limited facilities," said Gladchuk. There are more people interested in teaching courses but there just is not enough space to put the classes in, Gladchuk reported.

"The ray of hope was the dome," said Gladchuk, referring to the possibility of putting a dome over Alumni Stadium to increase

TURN TO PAGE 14

Collegian Sports

Named co-MVP's

In an unusual occurence, St. Louis Cardinals first baseman Keith Hernandez and Pittsburgh Pirates slugger Willie Stargell were named co-winners of the National League's MVP award after the two were tied in the voting for the honor. Hernandez led the league in batting average (.342) while Stargell helped the Pirates win the World Series. (AP Laserphoto).

It's rough, it's hard hitting...it's rugby!

By FRANK PAPSADORE
Collegian Staff

Dr. Robert L. Laurence leaned back in the chair behind his desk, silhouetted by the wall of engineering and math books behind him and profiled by his framed, glass-protected degrees, one from M.I.T., another from U.R.I., and yet another from Northwestern University. In his hand was a tapping pencil as he reflected on the UMass Rugby Club of which he is its coach.

"Our record now is about the same as it was 11 years ago when the rugby program here started," Dr. Laurence said as the pencil stopped from tapping and started doodling on a white pad.

"We've got the toughest schedule of any college club in New England," continued Laurence, "And we're at that learning stage where even losing becomes important to our progress. But still, I would rather win any day."

Out of the 60 players on the UMass Rugby Club this season, only 21 had any prior experience with the game. It's a rough, hard hitting, and thoroughly interesting game played much in the same manner as American football.

"Actually, rugby is a combination of football, basketball, and soccer," Dr. Laurence sai. "It takes from football, the hitting, from basketball, the precise ball-handling, and from soccer, the running and kicking game."

Rugby is actually a simple game played with 15 members to a side. There are eight forwards and seven back that play positions sometimes, but are usually involved in just open play. The object of the game, as any other, is to score more points than your opponent. There are three ways to do this, the drop or penalty kick, three point, grounding the ball in your opponents end zone, called a try, (touchdown), four points, or a place kick (conversion), 2 points.

The team advances the ball upfield by kicking it, running with it or by passing it to a teamate either laterally or backwards. There is legally no blocking, no obstruction and no foul play. The best way to learn rugby is to see a game. And there are two opportunities to see rugby this week. The first chance is an exhibition match on Wednesday at 3:00 pitting the UMass Rugby Club against Amherst College at the JFK Junior High School in Northampton. The other chance to see live action is this Saturday down at the rugby fields between the sewerage plant and the tennis courts beyond the intramural fields, when UMass takes on Plymouth State. These matches should start around 12:30.

"The really important game for us is the one against Plymouth State," continued Laurence. "I feel that we will pull it out this Saturday. It's been a tough losing streak since we lost that incredible game to Army, 8-0. In my opinion, that was the hardest hitting rugby match that I have ever witnessed."

"We were this far from scoring near the end of the game when it was 4-0," as he held up his hands in the air about a foot apart, "but we went for broke, rather like pulling your goalie in hockey, and Army ended up scoring the clincher."

That Army game was a morale builder, however, as Army is one of the very few teams in the nation who are sponsored by its school as an intercollegiate team, and therefore present a formidable challenge.

"We have had a lot of nagging injuries after that game," said Laurence, "but the team learned a hell of a lot and I was impressed with them. When we get to our own level of play next spring, we will chew everyone up. We've done the teaching, now it's time for the winning."

The rugby team will begin training again at the end of February and welcome any new members who wish to join. They will on tour during spring break to open up the season, travelling down to Virginia or even Florida. But the season really starts after spring break at home. Among the teams UMass will host this spring is the University College of the University of London. UMass will host the New England College Championships which UMass came in third last year. It is a two-day affair during the last weekend in April.

"Rugby is a fantastic game and becomes extremely more popular during the springtime," Dr. Laurence continued. "In 1976, there were 120 players on our squad. There are no cuts on the club. Everyone gets to play a full game of their own. There have been as many as five or six games an afternoon."

UMass even has a woman on their team, Paula Cabot. There is no women's team at UMass as of yet, but it could come about in the future.

"There are 15 women's clubs in New England," said Laurence. "Some as close as Dartmouth, Smith, Springfield College, and UConn. Paula trains and plays with the men's team here at UMass, but is also a member of New England's women's representative (all-star) team."

"Rugby is a very unique sport," eluded Dr. Laurence. "It is a kind of brotherhood. In what other sport do the two teams get together after a game for a party? It's a time for a libation, learning about your mistakes during the game from other players, and actually finding out that the guy that was beating you into the ground all afternoon really isn't such a bad guy after all."

MASSACHUSETTS DAILY VOLUME CIX, ISSUE 50 Thursday, November 15, 1979

Collegian

Student Newspaper of the University of Massachusetts/Amherst, Ma. 01003 (413)545-3500

©1979, Massachusetts Daily Collegian

Barenberg plans to quit Senate post

By ED LEVINE
Collegian Staff

Undergraduate Student Senate Speaker David Barenberg last night announced he would resign from his position at the next Senate meeting.

In other action, LaVoice announced plans for a student rally to take place this afternoon. He said the rally would attempt to solicit action from the administration on several student demands.

The demands include increased lighting around campus, the removal of police patrols from the dormitories, more programming in residence hall areas and a rebate on fee bills for the library closing. In addition, he said, students would also be protesting a proposed increase in room and board fees scheduled for next fall.

Barenberg told the Senate he wanted a change. "I've been involved with Student government for a number of years in many different capacities. I want to do something different now," he said.

"This had been a very difficult decision," he said, "but I don't intend to be back in school next semester."

He said he wants to spend the semester either traveling or on an internship, and added he would probably return to UMass next fall.

Senate members and officers expressed surprise at Barenberg's announcement. Student Government Association co-President Rich LaVojce said Barenberg's leaving would be a "great loss" for the senate and thanked Barenberg. "We're going to miss him," LaVoice said.

Barenberg: "I want to do something different now."

Barenberg said an election would be held for speaker at the next Senate meeting in two weeks.

LaVoice said the rally would begin at 12:30 on the Whitmore side of the Student Union Building, in the field next to the library.

He said several speakers are scheduled to address the issues. Following the speeches, the rally is planned to proceed to Whitmore Administration Building, where students will express their concerns to administrators.

LaVoice said he urges all students to attend the rally, sponsored by the SGA and the Student Center for Educational Research and Advocacy.

Correction

A headline in yesterday's issue of the Collegian incorrectly reported that the Future Resource Center would open yesterday. The Center opens today with a day-long open house in the School of Education basement.

Puddle jumper

Puddle jumping was a fad at UMass last year, but it's a necessity with the current rainy spell. Senior Linda Love of North Amherst gives it a try at a puddle by the Campus Pond. (Staff photo by Richard Newman)

Carter halts Iranian fund withdrawal

[AP] While President Carter put an emergency check on Iranian funds following an attempt by Iranian officials to pull its billions of dollars out of American banks yesterday, a strong earthquake flattened at least 18 villages in northeast Iran.

Secretary of State Cyrus R. Vance flew to New York to confer with U.N. Secretary-General Kurt Waldheim, who has offered to mediate the 11-day-old Iran crisis.

Moslem students holding the embassy and 98 hostages showed no sign of easing their stand — they will not free their captives until Shah Mohammad Reza Pahlavi is returned to Iran to stand trial.

They declared that any attempt to compromise on their "great divine move" directed by Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini "is strongly denounced by us and would be deemed treason," Tehran Radio reported.

"Our position remains unchanged," Tehran radio reported.

This may have been aimed at official Iranian statements Tuesday indicating the hostages might be freed before the return of the shah, if certain conditions were met. The United States rebuffed the offer, saying there would be no negotiations while the hostages were held.

Iran's foreign affairs chief, Abolhassan Bani Sadr, was one of those who had sounded somewhat conciliatory Tuesday, as he sought U.N. intervention in the crisis. But he took a firmer stand yesterday, telling reporters in the Iranian capital, "Our position remains unchanged," Tehran radio reported.

The Iranian decision to withdraw funds from American banks was announced at a Tehran news conference by Bani Sadr.

He said the Khomeini regime had decided to pull what he said was $12 billion in Iranian government funds out of U.S. banks and re-deposit them in banks of nations "friendly" to Iran. U.S. officials later said the amount involved was less than $6 billion.

The Carter administration countered it quickly.

After an urgent meeting of U.S. Treasury officials and a 5:45 a.m. call by Treasury Secretary G. William Miller to Carter, the president signed an order blocking mobilization of Iranian government assets.

In northeast Iran, Scores were reported injured in the quake that Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini, the nation's revolutionary leader, called "tragic and frightening."

Sources in the holy city of Mashhad said bodies were still being dug out by troops rushed to the wide area of destruction. Hundreds of poor peasants were said to be homeless.

"It is possible the death toll will exceed 1,000," said Mohammed Ali Shirazi, reached by telephone from Nicosia, Cyprus.

Shirazi, son of Ayatollah Ali Shirazi, Mashhad's religious leader, said the quake struck before dawn local time, crumbling dwellings on top of thousands of sleeping villagers.

The tremor was felt in Mashhad, 500 miles east of Tehran, but none of the famous domed mosques, tall minarets or other buildings in the holy city suffered any damage, Shirazi said.

The quake measured 6.7 on the Richter scale, the U.S. Geological Survey in Denver reported, but Tehran Radio, monitored in London, placed the quake's magnitude at 5.6.

Tehran Radio said the quake shook a wide area of the province from Tabas, Ferdows and Gonabad and said 250 bodies had been recovered from debris in Qaen, 200 miles south of Mashhad.

DIGEST

Stevie Nicks of the Rock Group, Fleetwood Mac, hugs 9-year-old Jessica Borja yesterday during reception at the United Nations. The two met after Dr. E. Eldaba-Lim presented Fleetwood Mac with a special citation commemorating their donation of their song "Beautiful Child" to the Music for UNICEF copyright gift program. (AP Laserphoto)

State hiring system 'disaster'

BOSTON (AP) — State personnel practices are "a disaster," charged the Governor's Management Task Force, calling for sweeping reforms to improve the efficiency and performance of state government.

The task force report, made public yesterday, set as its first priority reorganization of the personnel system, with the elimination of the Civil Service Commission and its replacement by a special grievance panel.

King refuses to fire transit head

BOSTON (AP) — Gov. Edward J. King said yesterday that he will not fire the director of the Massachusetts Bay Transportation Authority, Robert L. Foster, as the budget committee of the agency's advisory board has demanded.

King said at a news conference, called on another subject, that he believes Foster is doing a good job. He said the director inherited the problems he is faced with in running an effective transportation system.

The budget committee voted 6-1 Tuesday to urge King to fire Foster, a former incinerator manager, and replace him with an "individual who has expertise in the transit business."

Israeli decision outrages Arabs

TEL AVIV, Israel (AP) — The Israeli government yesterday reaffirmed its decision to expel the Arab mayor of Nablus, who authorities claim is sympathetic to PLO terrorism.

The Cabinet decision brought a rash of resignations from Arab officials in the occupied West Bank and Gaza Strip.

By the end of the day, a spokesman for the West Bank military government said, all the elected officials of the West Bank's 25 towns had resigned, and the mayors and town councilmen of Gaza City and Khan Yunis in the Gaza Strip had followed suit to express solidarity with the jailed Bassam Shakaa.

The Massachusetts Daily Collegian (USPS 333-220) is published daily Monday through Friday excluding January, June, July, and August, for $15 at 113 Campus Center, University of Massachusetts, Amherst, MA 01003. Second class postage paid at Amherst, Mass. Postmaster: Send address changes to Massachusetts Daily Collegian, 113 Campus Center, University of Massachusetts, Amherst, MA 01003.

TONITE: The UMAC presents
Mel Brooks'
THE TWELVE CHAIRS
THOM 106 8 P.M. FREE

Relax!
at the TOC
Happy Hour 4-6

Earn $500.00 weekly in your spare time. Addressing envelopes. For details, send self-addressed stamped envelope to F.I.S. P.O. Box 435-T, Danvers, MA. 01923

Chinese Language and Cultural Studies
CLCS Offers:
Reasonable expenses * Travel
* Concentrated study in Taiwan
* Extensive course listing
* Full university credit
Accepting applications for all quarters
For Free Pamphlet and Counseling:
Chinese Language and Cultural Studies
P.O. Box 15563, Long Beach, CA 90815
Telephone: (213) 597-3361

Congresswomen issue their report on the situation with Cambodian refugees at a House press conference in Washington yesterday. From left are: Rep. Elizabeth Hotlzman, D-N.Y.; Rep. Margaret Heckler, R-Mass.; Rep. Corinne Boggs, D-La.; and Rep. Barbara Mikulski, D-Md. (AP Laserphoto)

King signs fuel aid bill; $25 million for state's poor

Associated Press

BOSTON — Gov. Edward J. King signed a bill yesterday providing $25 million in state money to supplement federal aid to help the poor pay their heating bills this winter.

King said at a news conference that the total fuel aid for Massachusetts this winter, including state and federal money, should come to about $106 million.

The state bill provides $10 million in "up-front" money, funds which will be reimbursed once the federal money becomes available.

The additional $15 million is for the working poor, people with incomes which exceed the federal poverty level by up to 50 percent. The federal funds are earmarked for those with incomes up to 25 percent over the poverty level.

King's action on the $25 million bill came hard on the heels of a briefing for reporters held by Lt. Gov. Thomas P. O'Neill 3rd on the federal funding.

O'Neill and King, both Democrats, have developed an adversary relationship, and O'Neill's office acknowledged that the lieutenant governor's briefing was intended to pressure King into signing the fuel bill.

A source close to O'Neill said King called the lieutenant governor after O'Neill scheduled his briefing, and was told by the lieutenant governor, "I'm putting the pressure on you to sign the state bill."

There had been rumors that King would veto the bill, but the governor reportedly told O'Neill over the telephone that he would sign it. King's news conference came half an hour after O'Neill's.

The governor told newsmen he had "just this morning found out" that the federal aid will be limited to those with incomes within 125 percent of the poverty level, and it was then that he decided to sign the bill.

"That's where it's incumbent on the state to step in," he said. "No one in this commonwealth will go without what they need."

Anti-Semitism to be discussed

The UMass Hillel will sponsor a brunch and discussion Sunday on "Responses to the Anti-Semitism of Our Times: a Black Person's Perspective," with guest speaker Julius Lester of the UMass Afro-American Studies department.

The brunch, which costs $1.25 will begin at 11 a.m.

Bud cans
$1.99 pk.
$6.99 case

Genesee Beer
$1.79 pk.
$6.49 case

Blue Nun
Liebfraumilch
$3.49 750 ml

All Natural
Vermont
Cheddar
$2.49 lb.

BEANS
Route 116
Sunderland

Learn to Drive a Bus

Five College Transportation will sponsor a 3 Week Training Program during January Interterm for those interested in getting a Class II Bus Drivers License.
For more information and an interview appointment - call the Transportation Office (586-4262)
Deadline for applications is November 27, 1979

University of Massachusetts / Amherst
FINE ARTS CENTER PRESENTS
JIMMY OWENS PLUS ...

and
THE UNIVERSITY OF MASSACHUSETTS JAZZ WORKSHOP
In a benefit concert for the Music Scholarship Fund
Monday, November 19 8 p.m.
FINE ARTS CENTER CONCERT HALL
Tickets now on sale. General Public - $3.00, Students $2.00.
Fine Arts Center Box Office M-F 12-5, 545-2511
Free Parking is available for FAC events.

Sale
Going Out of Business

X-C Skis & Ski Equipment all ½ price
(Skis now $20.63 & up)

Bikes 10% off regular price on all new bikes
Selected Specials on Pro Bike equipment & clothing

HURRY! We are running out of everything.

Amherst Cycle Shop
253 Triangle Street

Behind Commonwealth Federal Bank. Use REAR ENTRANCE, due to construction in front of building

10-5:30 Tues-Sat 549-3729

College life: a different war for veterans

By JULIE EAGLE
Collegian Staff

They sit in the back of their classrooms, close to an exit. They sleep with guns in their beds and jump at loud noises. They pace the floors at weekly student senate meetings because they are afraid to sit down.

They are proud, stalwart and 4,000 strong at UMass. They are Vietnam veterans suffering, they say, from "delayed stress reaction" or the "post-Vietnam syndrome."

With funding from the Veterans Administration Hospital in Leeds, these students now have an on-campus outlet to help them deal with such stress. Paul Withers, 34, a member of the Veterans Service Organization, contacted the Veteran's Association at the beginning of the semester to seek sponsorship of a University veterans' outreach program. The VA agreed to sponsor such a program and since September has been sending a clinical psychologist and social worker to UMass several times weekly.

The pair aim to help veterans deal with the stress of readjusting to civilian life after leaving the service, Withers said.

Veterans may seek support in the VSO office in the Student Union Building, where the VA staffers and trained veterans offer psychological, academic, drug and alchohol counseling.

The outreach program is the first such program at any university, Withers said. UMass veterans previously had to turn to a VA hospital for counseling, he said. "A lot of vets feel uncomfortable with hospitals. We wanted a neutral ground. The program is our neutral ground," he said.

Veterans last week participated in their first discussion session, held in the VSO office by the VA psychologist, Dr. Ken Lenschitz. The sessions, held Thursdays at 6 p.m., promise to be lengthy and "tense," Withers said. The last session lasted five hours, he said.

Sitting in the VSO office one afternoon this week, Withers and five other veterans talked about the need for the discussion sessions and revealed many of the problems student veterans face.

"Any vet that comes onto this campus is going to have problems—physical and emotional. There's stress walking aorund on this campus. A lot of times I'm trying to forget what I've done (in Vietnam) and someone will say, 'these god--m Americans.' I want to rip the person apart," said Withers, who served in Vietnam as a military advisor and Green Beret under President John F. Kennedy and later, on the front line.

"The clowns who protest all the time," "students in military jackets," "the Communists in front of the Student Union" – these are parts of UMass life the veterans said rub them the wrong way.

"Veterans are different," said Casey Campbell, a former Air Force food inspector. "You can spot them easily. They're proud, they're arrogant, they care. They fought for the people that don't care. Those that died over there gave their lives to those who fled to Canada."

"There's a tension that comes from working on the front line," Campbell said, adding later that about 1500 UMass veterans actually fought in Vietnam. "You watch who's coming from behind you. If some guy comes up and slaps you on the back to say hello, or just for fun, you want to knock him cold."

Withers agreed. "When I sit in a room talking to someone, first I target the escape route, then, I size the person up to see where the first striking blow will land if he comes at me."

Cambodian refugees crowd around Rep. Elizabeth Holtzman, D-N.Y., during her recent visit to a refugee camp. Rep. Holtzman and other members of Congress were on a fact-finding mission to the area. (AP Laserphoto)

Fast for world hunger planned

By ROB STEIN
Collegian Staff

Don't eat dinner tonight and you will help feed a starving mouth in Cambodia.

The UMass Hunger Task Force is sponsoring a fast for world hunger today. Through the donation by students of one dining commons dinner ticket, as much as $9000 can be raised to fight world hunger, according to Task Force members.

Students must sign up to donate a meal ticket by lunch today at any dining hall ticket taker. Food services will donate the contributions to OXFAM, an organization which fights hunger world wide.

In coordination with the fast, Earthfoods will be offering a special "poor man's" dinner today. Meals will be offered at a reduced price and students will be urged to donate the price difference to OXFAM.

The People's Market will be closed today and the market will have a table set up outside the Hatch offering information about OXFAM.

The Hunger Task Force will also have a table set up on the Campus Center Concourse to collect contributions.

An artist in the refugee camp, a young boy, displays his drawings of a bridge and a cartoon character. (AP Laserphoto)

Central Area
Craft Shop-Greenough
next to the snack bar

OPENS NOV. 17th - SAT.
mon - thur 7-10 sat - 12-4

Silver, wood, photography ceramics, leather

PRETERM
If you have an unwanted pregnancy...
talk with one of our counselors about your decision.
Abortion/Gynecological Care/Vasectomy/ Tubal Ligation
A licensed non-profit Reproductive Health Center
1842 BEACON ST., BROOKLINE, MASS 02146
(617) 738-6210
PRETERM

Check out those Prices at the Bluewall Happy Hour

NEED CREDIT? SEND FOR THE CREDIT GAME

- Too young to borrow?
- New in town/no references?
- Erase bad debt records
- Skip bills without ruining credit
- Receive loans within weeks of beginning this program
- Information on updated credit laws and legislation
- Your rights under the Federal Credit Acts

SOLVE ALL THESE CREDIT PROBLEMS with THE CREDIT GAME

"Tired of being without credit, or up to your neck in 'minimum payments'? With this book you will learn how to make the $300 billion credit industry jump at your command."

ONLY $5.95
(N.Y. residents add 8% Sales Tax)

Enclosed is $ _____ for _____ Books
Name _____
Address _____
City _____ State _____ Zip _____
Allow 3 weeks for delivery.

Send Check or Money Order to WALL STREET PUBLISHING CO. 303 5TH AVE. SUITE 1306 NEW YORK, NY 10016

Grey skies hang over deserted summer houses as winter comes to Moody Beach in Ogunquit, Maine. (Staff photo by Berr Marsden)

CAREER DAY '79

Thursday, November 15

10 A.M. - 6 P.M.

in School of Business Administration

Luncheon: Newman Center Social Hall

12 P.M.-2 P.M.

Featuring: Keynote Speakers

Tickets: $4.00, Available in SBA Lobby

Social Hour: CC 1009 4 P.M. - 6 P.M.

Sponsored by Undergraduate Business Club

BAGELS · LOX · KNISHES · DELI SALADS · CHEESE CAKE

THE AMHERST DELICATESSEN

WE DON'T MAKE SANDWICHES... WE BUILD THEM

OPEN TIL 2 A.M.

Amherst Carriage Shops 549-6314

SOUPS · DELI SANDWICHES · PASTRIES · CHEESE · PICKLES · ASSORTED BEVERAGES

Boston's highest form of entertainment costs less than a movie.

It's the Hancock Tower Observatory located 740 feet above the ground, atop the tallest building in New England. And from here you can see and feel the total Boston experience.

With 60 miles of breathtaking scenery, it's the most fantastic view of Boston there is. Especially at night.

Plus you'll see multi-media exhibits like an exciting light and sound show about the Revolution, featuring a 20-foot scale model of Boston in 1775.

The Observatory is open Monday through Saturday from 9am to 11pm and Sundays from noon till 11pm, every day except Thanksgiving and Christmas. Admission for students with a college I.D. is only $1.25. You'll find our ticket office on St. James Avenue opposite Copley Square.

So next time you spend a night on the town, visit Boston's highest spot. It's not only less expensive than a movie. It's live.

John Hancock Observatory
The Best Place to See Boston.

WORRIED ABOUT BALDING?

HAIR TRANSPLANTS END BALDNESS PERMANENTLY!

Medical Science knows only one way to regrow hair...a medical hair transplant. It really works! Your own natural hair grows in balding areas. Usually lasts a lifetime. Forget forever fussy hair piece coverups. Infection-prone implants and so-called cure-all nonsense. Discover how easily and well an economical medical hair transplant works at the nations largest organization devoted exclusively to the art of medical hair transplants. End Baldness Once & For All.

★ PERFORMED BY PHYSICIANS
★ USUALLY COMPLETE IN 2-3 OFFICE VISITS
★ FREE CONSULTATION
★ TAX DEDUCTIBLE

- NEW YORK (212) 832-0240 630 Fifth Ave. Suite 559 New York N.Y. 10020
- LONG ISLAND (516) 295-5224 530 Central Ave. (Lower Level) Cedarhurst, L.I. NY 11516
- NEW JERSEY (201) 664-1194 7401 Morris Ave., Union, N.J. 07083
- PHILADELPHIA (215) 337-3277 260 W. DeKalb Pike Rte. 202, King of Prussia Pa. 19406
- BOSTON (617) 890-5320 393 Totten Pond Rd. Waltham, Mass. 02154
- CHICAGO (312) 297-8207 10400 W. Higgins Rd., Suite 431, Rosemont, Ill. 60018
- CLEVELAND (216) 526-0733 8180 Brecksville Rd., Suite 109, Brecksville, Ohio 44141
- WASHINGTON D.C. (202) 363-8925 5010 Wisconsin Ave., N.W. Suite 95 Washington D.C. 20016
- HOUSTON (713) 629-0740 4635 Southwest Freeway, Suite 225W Houston, Texas 77027

America's Largest Medical Facility Devoted Exclusively To Medical Hair Transplants.

Cleveland Hair Clinics

DR. C.J. PUIG, MEDICAL DIRECTOR

Call Or Write Today For FREE Full Color Booklet!

NAME _____

ADDRESS _____

CITY _____ STATE _____ ZIP _____

UM graduate playwright presents comedy

Deborah Parker plays Charlotte and Wendy Hartstein is Sharon Rose in the University Ensemble Theater production of FOURTEEN BRILLIANT COLORS, a new comedy by UMass graduate student, Constance Congdon. At the Rand Theater of the UMass Fine Arts Center, November 15-17 at 8:00 p.m. Reservations 545-3511.

By ANNE MEHITABLE
Collegian Staff

Tonight UMass graduate student Constance Congdon will watch her written work come to life. "Fourteen Brilliant Colors," a comedy about a mother, her married daughter and impossible son-in-law premieres tonight in the Rand Theatre in the Fine Arts Center.

The playwright is a second year M.F.A. student in playwriting here and this is her second full length play to be produced.

Asked if there are any problems or successes in the play that she had not foreseen Congdon said "The best things are those reactions, feelings that are fresh emotionally. I think the more successful thing in the play is the relationships between the women. But, in the third revision, I changed the main male character into the antithesis of himself and he became more of a device than a person. I did that because the main female character was internal a great deal of the time and that is the main weakness of the play. The main character's emotions are all too internal. I didn't have her full focus."

When asked if she considered herself a feminist playwright, Congdon emphatically said, "No, absolutely not. Art shouldn't serve any set of ideas. I don't think my plays are didactic in any way. I'm not out to teach, but to explore.'

As part of the play's premiere, there will be a discussion after each performance. Although Congdon said she doesn't know how she will feel about the audience's criticism and comments on her work, she hopes people will communicate honestly: "I'll watch for the comments that reappear in different forms and that occasional articulate flash that someone will have. Frequently, if I hear things that support things that I feel are wrong, I can confirm strengths and weaknesses in the play."

Although it can be an advantage for the playwright to work with the director on a play as Congdon did, it can be a disadvantage at times. Yet, she said, she and the director worked well together. Harry Mahnken, a faculty director, allowed Connie

TURN TO PAGE 8

THURSDAYS

2 for 1 Night

9:00 'til 11:00

ALL LIQUOR DRINKS

WITH TWO WAY STREET

THE PUB

15 East Pleasant St. AMHERST

Information Data Bank · Taped Information Phone Service

IDB TIPS

Information for UMass

REMINDER:

All declared College of Arts & Sciences majors must pick up their pre-registration forms at their major departments' offices; undeclared CAS majors must pick up their forms in E-20 Machmer Hall.

Students in all other schools will receive their forms in the mail. All pre-registration forms are due on Wednesday, Nov. 21 in the Registrar's Office, Rm. 215 Whitmore.

The Information Data Bank

2nd floor Whitmore Call 545-1555

a service of the Dean of Students Office

Mary Watkins

Linda Tillery

Rashida Shah

U.P.C. Productions & M.I.A. Blues Project presents

An Evening Of Black Women's Music Jazz & Jazz Fusion

Featuring West Coast recording Artists

MARY WATKINS
LINDA TILLERY & BAND

and Introducing

RASHIDA SHAH

Popular Boston Area Jazz Vocalist

Friday, November 16th 8 P.M.
Fine Arts Center UMass

$5.00 General Admission

Tickets Sold At: TIX: Umass; For the Record at Faces of Earth: Amherst; Womonfrye Books: Northampton; Bookswap: Greenfield;

Special discount available with purchase of a ticket for ALIVE! performance the following night

$8.00 discount ticket for both performances

T.O.C. CABARET

Presents:

Phyllis Wall · Steve Yorra

CAROUSEL

11th floor Campus Center 8:00 P.M.

TOC Sticker and Valid ID Required to Purchase Alcohol

Thursday in T.O.C. Lounge
Friday and Saturday in T.O.C. Restaurant
Starting time. . . .9:30 P.M.

UM greets new wave with enthusiasm

By TOM ANDERSON
Collegian Staff

Although the most talked about event on campus this past weekend may have been the Talking Heads concert Sunday night, it was not the only new wave performance in the area. Friday night at the Blue Wall sold out to two up-and-coming young bands in their first local appearances--The Motels and the Sinceros.

The opening set by the Motels met with good response, but the crowd saved its greatest enthusiasm for the Sinceros. In a striking demonstration that new wave has arrived at UMass, the crowd greeted many of the songs from the group's debut album with cheers, and virtually demanded two encores.

After the concert, two members of the Sinceros discussed their music with the Collegian. When asked to describe the group's style, guitarist and vocalist Mark Kjeldsen declined to use categorizing terms and instead said their music has "melody and beat". Referring to critics' comparisons between The Sinceros and The Cars, Kjeldsen and keyboardist Don Snow said the Cars' debut album was well-produced, but their concerts fall short of their studio sound. The Sinceros, they said, sound better live. Their first album, The Sound of Sunbathing, might have sounded better with a different producer, they said.

Kjeldsen said the Who, the Rolling Stones, and Kinks and the Small Faces are the group's primary musical influences. When asked about current favorites, he mentioned the Cars, the Talking Heads and Blondie. He also said he was not impressed by many more popular American bands including Boston, Foreigner and the Eagles. Citing

TURN TO PAGE 8

Join Us for Breakfast
at the
TOC Restaurant
7:00 A.M.-9:00 A.M.
Monday-Friday

Campus Center
at UMass
BLUE WALL

November 15
Thursday
Martian Highway
$1.00 Cover

November 16
Friday
Loose Caboose
$1.00 Cover

November 17
Saturday
The Fools
$2.00 Cover

ALL AGES WELCOME
TOC sticker and valid ID
required to purchase alcohol
in association with UPC
Productions info: call 545-2892

Honors Equals
Self-Realization
-Discover University Honors
-Add challenge to your undergraduate education
-Through a contracted Honors Program of Study you can take a more personalized control over your work
-Find out if the Honors option is for you by preregistering for an Honors course NOW
For more information visit the Honors Office in Machmer E-25 or call us at 545-2483

FRUSTRATED BY NOT KNOWING HOW HOUSEHOLD REPAIRS CAN GET DONE?
COME TO A WORKSHOP ON THE LEGAL RESPONSIBILITIES OF LANDLORDS AND TENANTS. 12:00 - 2:00 P.M. CC ROOM 174 THURSDAY, NOVEMBER 15
BRING YOUR LUNCH. COFFEE PROVIDED. LET THE STATE SANITARY CODE WORK FOR YOU. CALL OFF CAMOUS HOUSING 545-0865 FOR MORE INFO.

Hardee's®
ROAD RUNNER Meet Road Runner. His sport is racing. His restaurant is Hardee's.
DID YOU GET ME A ROAST BEEF SANDWICH, TOO?
SURE DID.
GIVE IT TO ME. I JUST GOT TIME TO EAT IT.
NOPE.
WHAT DO YOU MEAN—NO?
YOU LOVE HARDEE'S ROAST BEEF, RIGHT? ALL HOT AND JUICY, PILED HIGH AND TENDER.
WELL, IF YOUR TIME ISN'T ONE OF THE TOP THREE, WHEN YOU GET BACK, YOU'RE GOING TO FIND AN EMPTY FOIL WRAPPER.
THAT'S BLACKMAIL!
THE BEST EATIN' SPECIAL:
TWO DELICIOUS BIG ROAST BEEF SANDWICHES FOR ONLY $1.89.
Good at all participating Hardee's. Please present this coupon before ordering. One coupon per customer, please. Customer must pay any sales tax due on the purchase price. This coupon not good in combination with any other offers.
HARDEE'S of HADLEY 430 RUSSELL STREET
or any other participating Hardee's Restaurants
Hardee's "BEST EATIN' ALL AROUND."
COUPON EXPIRES November 20, 1979
© Hardee's Food Systems, Inc. 1979

The man is starving

What's worse; his children are starving. So are millions of other people across this planet. It's no fault of their own, particularly in Cambodia and other devastated sections of the world. They just happen to live in an area where other people had a war.

There is a war being waged at UMass today to help these folks just a bit. Oxfam-American, the U.S. affiliate of Oxfam, an international non-profit agency, is aiming this program at all of us.

Oxfam is not a relief agency; it's purpose is to help local communities in poor countries to achieve food self-sufficiency on a permanent basis.

What we spend on our food in one day could enable people in Africa, Asia, Latin America and Cambodia to buy enough seed for one whole crop, raise their own animals, or irrigate their fields.

We can help the hungry to feed themselves without adding to our expenses.

If you are on the UMass meal plan, sign up to have the Dining Commons donate the dollars saved when you skip a meal tonight.

If you are not on the meal plan, then skip one meal or fast for the whole day and donate the money you save. All proceeds will be sent to Oxfam-America.

Donations will be accepted at the Hunger Task Force tables in the Campus Center Concourse, Earthfoods and People's Market.

Man is starving.

All unsigned editorials represent the viewpoint of the Collegian editorial board.

Editorial/Opinion

Letters

Goodell: not so good

To the Editor:

After spending the past afternoon in our illustrious "replacement library" and talking with others, I couldn't contain myself and felt I had to once more "kill a dead horse" and bitch about the library situation.

I would like to here say that I in no way hold the university or the library personnel at fault. If this matter had been brought out by the state before school started, I think parents and students would have demanded immediate action as I am now doing. The library staff has performed gallantly throughout this crisis situation.

The conditions in Goodell are not decent or adequate for a school with a population of 25 never mind 25,000 or more. Individual working space is far from satisfactory. God forbid we should have studious scholars! The lighting, even though more was added, stinks! The noise of ringing telephones and others talking permeates the air making concentration extremely difficult. And finally is the inaccessibility of all materials when needed.

Gary R. Zahorsky
Field

Letters Policy

All letters to the editor are welcome, however, due to space limitations it would be nice if they were as short as possible.

They must be typed at 67 characters across and triple spaced.

Although the name will be held upon request, a name and address is necessary for reference purposes only.

This page is the UMass community's page and the more input received, the more truthful the representation will be, for everyone. Thank you. S.K.

What's next?

What you can't see won't hurt

A lot of things are going wrong at UMass. We have a library you can't go into; a garage that threatens to fall on our cars; a relatively high incidence of rape; and a tense racial situation.

Now I'm not a librarian, an engineer, a woman or black, but, something tells me, maybe it's common sense, that this place is messed up. And the "authorities" are doing either nothing or the totally wrong thing, to try to improve UMass.

The tallest library in the world was built in 1973. In 1979 it's falling down. The specifications for the library indicated that the bolt that holds the shelves of bricks in place can only support 4200 lbs. Instead it is holding 6000 lbs. of pressure. It doesn't take a brick falling on your head to realize that someone got away with murder. The administration has known about this since 1973.

The garage is another recent addition to the campus. Besides parking spaces, it has cracks in the ceiling big enough to stick your arm in. Within the last month the cracks were repaired in the same manner as the place was originally built. Much of this repair work has already fallen to the ground.

Even if you can't use the buildings, the Administration at least plans to landscape around the buildings.

The interest in the beautification does not include the safety of women. Sylvan Lot 44 (as well as others) has been a part of the rape history of this campus, yet still there is no lighting to "beautify" that part of campus.

Then there is the smoldering racial tension on the campus. Black women are subject to everything from catcalls to beatings. Black students face institutional as well as social harrassment.

Some of these problems are complicated, some aren't. When you sit down and think about them though some of the answers are pretty clear cut. If you have an unlit area in Sylvan, where several rapes are committed, you light it up. There are things that can be done but aren't.-It all goes against common sense.

Dean Field has led a crusade to clean up student government misappropriation of funds. He has not written one open letter concerning the building scandals of the library or the C.C. garage. Aren't they big enough? Why isn't he concerned with these travesties, after all we can't even use the library.

Last spring SCERA did a lighting survey that pinpointed areas on campus that needed more lighting. It sits on the Administrations desk. And sits.

Last semester the Administration promised that in light of the troublesome situation of racial violence on campus, they would do everything in their power to help establish "human awareness" programs and positions. A semester later, promises is all they've given.

When the Administration does take action, it's usually the wrong action to take. For instance, sending SWAT teams in to the dorms to control rowdiness and violence. There was no decrease in violence but there was an increase in police disorder.

It seems that the Adminstration is unable to solve any of the problems on campus. Their response is either a profound lack of concern or gestapo tactics like the SWAT teams (no matter who sent them in). We're being taken for a ride at UMass and I'm afraid the vehicle is as faulty as everything else. And now they want us to pay for their fiascos without even bringing anyone to justice.

The Administration is leaving us with no choice but to fight for what we need. The lighting survey sits on their desk. Demand they implement it. The G-Core Human Awareness program has yet to be approved.

And as for the $120 residence hall fee increase, tell them to stick it in the cracks in the garage.

Charles Bagli is a Collegian columnist.

Dear Ms. Marshall

After reading your article, "UMass Horrors," in Boston Magazine, I felt necessary to reply. Not only was your article unfair and incriminating, but it was also untrue. Your accounts of vandalism, racism, suicides, and violence in general were highly exaggerated. The University of Massachusetts is by no means "an urban slum where violence is epidemic."

You reported that vandalism runs up a tab of $250,000 a year which is almost a double figure of the actual bill. Every school has a certain amount of vandalism; UMass is no different. We all have a few students who ruin it for all, but our dorms do not look like "bombed-out shells: doors torn off toilet stalls, seats ripped off toilets, sinks yanked off their fixtures." The dorm living I have experienced is of big, spacious rooms with clean and maintained corridors. As a matter of fact, personal friends visiting our campus from various other schools including Boston College, Barnard of Columbia, the University of Rhode Island, Clark College, and M.I.T. have been extremely impressed with the living conditions and their upkeep, the grounds, and general atmosphere on campus. They have actually felt envious of all the facilities offered to us and the variety of living situations available.

Is it fair of you to paint such an unrealistic picture?

Your account of Jose Pontes insinuates that he was in fact killed because of racist tension. After the police gathered all of the facts, they reported that Jose Pontes had committed suicide. I think it would be wise of you to gather the facts before you publish your theories.

The section of your article on the suicide of Karen Messner is what disturbed me the most. I happened to be one of Karen's friends at UMass who described her as "smart, well-adjusted, and happy to be at UMass." While writing about Karen's suicide, your opening sentence states that "White women have also been vulnerable to attack." Karen Messner was not attacked. Karen had bruises on her neck and a burst blood vessel in one eye because she had attempted suicide the night before her death.

Karen had been at UMass for five days; evidently, she had arrived severely depressed. She went to the infirmary because she could not sleep and "UMass bureaucracy" got her to the right place at the right time — the Mental Health Clinic. The clinic spent 45 minutes attempting to counsel Karen, but sometimes it is too late to help someone who is that depressed.

Karen is not dead because of UMass neglect.

In conclusion, I can see two major reasons for the stereotypical views held toward the University of Massachusetts at this time. First, it seems that upon the close examination that we have been subjected to, one could inevitably find some inadequacies; and it may be further noted that in scrutinizing any other school to such an extent, similar conclusions would have to be reached. Secondly, articles such as yours, Ms. Marshall, have served to further prejudice public opinion, thus creating a cyclical effect. There must be some reason behind the compulsion to tear down our public institutions. Perhaps it is an effort to promote the private ones.

In a state respected for its famous colleges and universities, I find that quite a shame.

Elizabeth A. Carrier
A proud UMass student

★ Playwright

CONT. FROM PAGE 5

an active part in the rehearsal process, taking suggestions and making changes.

"He even took some actor suggestions," she said, "If I would say, 'does he or she really have to do that ?' Harry would consider it and change those things sometimes. After auditions, for instance, we both made up a prospective cast list and then agreed on the final list. I could talk to cast members about lines and I took therir suggestions about wheat they thought their characters would say in a particular situation."

Fourteen Brilliant Colors premieres tonight, Friday and Saturday at 8 pm.

★ Sinceros

CONT. FROM PAGE 6

"rhyming book" lyrics and "pretentiousness," he said more people are now discovering new wave groups. Of the Sinceros, Kjeldsen said, "Our simplicity is the seductive appeal. Our songs are just simple observations."

Although they admitted sales of their debut album have not been god, both Kjeldsen and Snow said thge reception so far on their approximate two-month tour has been encouraging, and they both agreed, as they told their audience, UMass gave them the best reception they've received.

REAL ESTATE SALESPERSON
& BROKER TEST REVIEW
SATURDAY, NOVEMBER 17, 1979

This comprehensive 8-hour seminar will include short lectures on real estate topics and will cover over 300 typical exam questions. For further information about location & fees contact: Chris Marcoullier 549-4970, ext. 138

GRAND OPENING
Chalifoux's

Maternity Uniforms
Juniors Uniform Shoes
(Indian & Mexican Imports)

Register for Drawing
2 $50. Gift Certificates
3 $25. Gift Certificates

Refreshments
Thurs 11/15 Fri 11/16 Sat 11/17
Drawing to be held Mon. Nov. 19

Chalifoux's
11 Eagle St. North Adams, MA 663-5132
50 Main St. Northampton, MA 584-0910

MIKE'S Westview CAFE
Happy Hour
Mon. thru Fri. 4-6 P.M.

Thursday Night
Penny Night
Every 3rd drink 1¢

For the people who worked hard all week:
FREE smorgy
Every Friday 4-6 P.M.
Happy Hour prices in effect
(75c Bud, Miller, Miller Lite, $1.95 Pitcher-Old Milwaukee)

Trudy's back in the Kitchen!
Home Cooked Lunches
Monday-Friday

HAHJEE'S PLACE
"Affordably Unique"
Recommended by NY Times for the second year in a row. Try us. You'll see why.
Located between Northampton and Amherst on Rt. 9
Sun.-Thurs. 4:30-10:30 Fri.-Sat. 4:30-11:30

Come Join the 5 College Crowd!
Time Out
TWO TV's

A REAL FUN PLACE
Free Popcorn
Amherst's Biggest Little Bar
37 N. Pleasant St.

The Holyoke Police Department
Needs Minority Candidates to Fill 14 projected openings in
the Holyoke Police Department

To qualify for employment with the Police Department, you must sign up now to take the Police Civil Service Test of December 1, 1979.
Last date for applications is November 13.

Special training classes on how to take the Police Civil Service Test will start November 19-30, 1979 at local sites.

To sign up for the classes and the test contact:

Office of Compliance
Room 402
City Hall Annex
Holyoke, Mass.
536-8222
536-8223
Ext. 36

Holyoke Police Dept.
City Hall Annex
536-6431

South Holyoke
Development Corp.
344 Main St.
Holyoke, Mass.
532-1406

WE WON'T GET SCREWED AGAIN

Does it hurt?
Or are you getting used to it???

—Swat Teams on Campus
—No $ for Lighting, but $ for landscaping
—Residence Hall Fees Up $120
—Library Closed

RALLY
And March on Whitmore
Nov. 15 12:30
Student Union
(Whitmore Side)

Women's art featured at Southwest exhibit

By ANNE MERCIER
Collegian Staff

"A Woman's Art Festival" Tuesday night celebrated its opening in the Southwest Women's Center, featuring a variety of women's artwork contributed by students living in the Southwest Residential Area.

Caryn Siegal, contributing artist and planner of the show, said the purpose of "A Woman's Art Festival" was to "raise consciousness and help women realize their self-image."

"Art majors get a chance to show their work," she said, and other women who consider art their "hobby" will also get a chance to exhibit art work.

The art show, free and open to the public, will run until November 20, and is located in the Southwest Women's Center, which is adjacent to McKimmie dormitory. The exhibit includes drawings in pencils, conti crayon, graphite, and charcoal. Paintings and watercolors, works in weavings, embroidery, pottery, black and white photographs, silk-screen, paper-mache, and poetry will also be shown.

The informal atmosphere of the Women's Center lounge, where the exhibit is presented, allowed women to talk and meet with some of the artists Tuesday night, and exchange ideas about art.

Nancy Friedman, who was responsible for the show's advertising, said the Southwest Women's Center offers many other services for women, including efforts to combat sexism in the Southwest Residential Area.

Three credit courses on women's issues are offered each semester in conjunction with the Women's Studies program. Eight-week colloquia and workshops are also offered throughout the semester. The Women's Center provides referrals to other campus and community organizations as another service for Southwest women.

A library at the Center includes 200 major works relating to women, along with files of articles and clippings. The Center also offers special programs such as speaker series, theatre performances, and coffeehouses.

The Southwest Women's Center is open 9 a.m. to 5 p.m., Monday through Friday.

JANUARY GRADUATES
Don't miss your only chance to appear in the 1980 yearbook.
Beginning Wed. Nov. 14 we will begin taking appointments for senior portraits, call 545-2874 or stop by room 102 Campus Center

SAVE-ON-TIRES
ROUTE 9 HADLEY, MA.
2 MILES FROM NORTHAMPTON OR AMHERST
MICHELIN - GOODYEAR - LEE - SEIBERLING - B.F. GOODRICH - ARMSTRONG - CONTINENTAL - PLUS OTHER MAJOR BRANDS. SUPERSEDES ALL OTHER ADS.
Cash & Carry TIRE SALE Cash & Carry
COMPARE OUR PRICES BEFORE YOU PURCHASE ELSEWHERE
Wholesale to the Public.
We can arrange to have your tires mounted.

Consumer note
When comparing prices make sure you also compare quality grades. Effective April 1979 the N.H.T.S.A. graded regular bias-ply tires (Standard = 100) as follows:

B.F. Goodrich (HT) 110 Firestone (DLC) 80
Zenith (PE78) 80 Woolco (All American) 70
Sears (Guardsman) 60 K-Mart (KM-50) 50
The higher the No., the longer the tire will last.

BIAS PLY SNOWS
QUALITY GRADINGS 80 OR HIGHER

SIZE	TYPE	PRICE
600X12	Alliance Bk	25.95
A78x13	Goodyear Bk.	21.95
B78x13	Zenith Bk.	25.95
C78x14	B.F.G. Bk.	28.95
E78x14	Zenith Bk.	28.95
F78x14	Zenith Bk.	29.95
F78X14	Pen BFG Bk.	34.95
G78X14	BFG BK	35.95
G78x14	Zenith Bk.	31.95
H78x14	Zenith Bk.	32.95
560x15	Zenith Bk.	23.95
600X15	Alliance BK	27.95
G78x15	Zenith Bk.	31.95
H78x15	Zenith Bk.	32.95
L78x15	BFG Belt w/s	46.95

STEEL BELTED RADIAL SNOWS

SIZE	TYPE	PRICE
165/75X13	Global All Sea. Wht	38.00
175/80X13	BFGXTP wt	46.00
195/75X14	globalallsea	43.00
195/75X14	BFG XTPwt	53.00
205/75X14	Zenith wt	49.00
205/75X14	BFGXTP wt	49.00
215/75X14	BFGXTP wt	56.00
225/75X14	BFGXTP wt	59.00
215/75X15	Glob. All Sea. Wht.	49.00
GR78x15	Zenith Wht.	54.00
225/75X15	Zenith wht	56.00
235/75X15	Zenith wht	61.00
155X15	Phoenix Bk.	32.95
P165/75x13	Tiempo Bk.	39.00
CR78X15 (175X15)	Goodyr. RayBeltBk.	41.50

CONTI-CONTACT™
METRIC WINTER STEEL RADIAL
THERMOGOMMI RUBBER: CREATED BY GERMAN ENGINEERS, STAYS PLIABLE DOWN TO MINUS 100°F. WHICH MEANS IT STICKS TO THE ICE AND SNOW. GIVING YOU THE ULTIMATE TRACTION ON WINTER ROADS, EVEN AT HIGH SPEEDS. ALL AVAILABLE NOW AT WHOLESALE PRICES.

SIZE	PRICE
155x12	43.00
145x13	41.00
155x13	44.00
165x13	48.00
165x14	50.00
175x14	58.00

Continental
ContiContact
For German and other hard winters.

SIZE	PRICE
185x14	63.00
165x15	53.00
175/70x13	52.00
185/70x13	54.00
185/70x14	63.00
195/70x14	71.00

ALL PRICES PLUS F.E.T. TAX & SALES TAX
CASH AND CARRY
VISA
OR
MASTER CHARGE
OPEN
MON.-FRI. 9:30 A.M. TO 5:30 P.M.
SAT. 9:30 A.M. TO 3 P.M.
586-2544

"TRES BON!" Paul Provost, Springfield-Hartford Magazine

". . . a highly favored French restaurant . . ."
Jay Walz, The New York Times

"A serious Kitchen . . . much demonstrated attention and expertise . . ."
Anthony Spinazzola, The Boston Globe

". . . one of the most attractive restaurants I have visited in the area . . ."
Catherine Smith, Springfield Daily News

"Beardsley's, the area's standard bearer of traditional French cuisine . . ."
Perry Gartinkel, Yankee Magazine's Guide to New England

Dinner reservations recommended

BEARDSLEY'S CAFE-RESTAURANT
140 Main St. Northampton/586-2699
Lunch Mon.-Sat. 11:30-2:30
Sun. Brunch 10:30-2:30
Dinner Mon.-Sat. 5:30-10:00
Dinner on Sun. 5:30-8:30
Bistro Menu 2:30-10 P.M. daily

Fittingly called BEND OVER™
Levi's WOMENSWEAR

From Levi's® Womenswear, they're called "Bend Over™". Pants fittingly made of 100% Polyester stretch woven gabardine with the comfort and flex of a knit but without the sag. Fly-front straight leg with a concealed elastic waistband. Machine washable. Blue, natural, brown, green, grey, black, ruby and rust. Proportioned to fit regulars and petites. 8-18, $23.00
MODERATE SPORTSWEAR, ALL STORES

DENBY'S
we can be your store
Hampshire Mall (Hadley) * Holyoke Mall (Ingleside)

Notices

Thurs.

BETTER PARENTS=BETTER CHILDREN=BETTER PARENTS. Being a good parent is a full time job with many ups and downs. Every parent often wonders, "am I doing the 'right' thing for my children?" If you are interested in improving your parenting skills and building better communications with your children, you are welcome to attend the Community Discussion, "Better Parents=Better Children=Better Parents." These workshops are offered as a free community service in honor of the UN's International Year of the Child, by the Valley Health Plan. Date: Sunday, Nov. 18th. Time: 1:00-4:00 pm. Place: Amherst Junior High School. For more information and registration, please contact Paul Davis or Karen Larson, Health educators, at Amhert Medical Associates (256-8561) or University Health Services (549-2671).

Christian Science Organization meets Thursdays in November in Campus Center room 801 at 7:30 pm. Come to hear Bible readings; hear how prayer helps in daily activities; get spiritual-moral support for problems in our discussion group; all are warmly welcomed.

University Health Services is offering a "Learn to Live with Stress" workshop. The program will be held on Monday, Nov. 19th from 6:30-9:30 pm. Preregistration is required. For more infor gation contact the Health Education Office at 549-2671 x181.

The National Student Exchange Club will be having a short informational meeting today at 6:30 pm, in the Campus Center. Check the bulletin board at Transfer Affairs for exact location and room number. See you there!

SBA Career Day '79 will be held today from 10-4 pm. in the School of Business Administration. Distinguished speakers will speak on various topics related to the Business field. A luncheon will take place at the Newman Center from 12-2 pm. Tickets are $4.00 each. All Business majors are urged to attend this activity sponsored by the Undergraduate Business Club.

Film: SLEEPER, sponsored by Johnson House, $1.00 adm., 7, 8:45, 10:30 p.m., Thompson 104.

Annual Great Ski Snatch, sponsored by Ski Club, 10 a.m.-10 p.m. Student Union Ballroom.

There's no place like home, and we make it easy to get there. TRAILWAYS and PETER PAN offer convenient express service to Boston, New York, and many other points.

TRAILWAYS & PETER PAN BUS LINES

MAKE LIFE SIMPLER FOR YOU.

For Information, Schedules and Prices, contact: Springfield Bus Campus Center Bus Office - 545-2006, or 549-6000

Thursday Night in Bluewall at 9:30 P.M. $1.00 cover charge

TOC Sticker and valid ID required to purchase alcohol

AO American Optical
Soft contact lenses
$99 pr

- 1 hour service in most cases
- Highest quality FDA approved lenses
- Largest inventory of soft contact lenses anywhere

Designer eyewear 1/2 price

Buy any two pair & receive 50% discount on the lower priced pair when purchased together.

American Vision Centers
NEW YORK • CHICAGO • BALTIMORE
Hampshire Mall
Hadley, Mass.
(413) 584-7958

Women swimmers defeat Smith

By LAURA FRANK
Collegian Staff

Records were shattered as the UMass women's swim team plowed over Smith College to stack up its second home pool victory of the season. The first half of the meet was close enough to produce a tie score at one point. However, UMass came on strong in the second half to decisively defeat Smith, 81-50.

Kathy Jurcik, Theresa Totin, Leslie Johnson, and Judy Miller swam a record breaking first place time of 4:19:0 in the 400 yd. medley relay. Next up was Nancee Shifflett, who also set a record of 11:30:1 in the longest distance of the meet, the 1000 yd. freestyle.

Jennifer Black and Judy Miller combined for a second and third place finish in the 200 yd. freestyle, while Nancee Shifflett captured first in the 100 yd. breaststroke, and Gail Holland finished third in the 100 yd. backstroke.

Smith's Lisa Marlow set a pool record of 2:17:5 which gave them first place in the 200 yd. butterfly. Leslie Johnson and Cindy Piela gave UMass a second and third place finish in that event.

Undefeated UMass diver Kathy Driscoll added two more first place finishes in the required and optional diving events. Denise Tetro placed third in the optionals.

At this point UMass swimmers started to pull together and come on strong in the second half of the meet.

Judy Miller and Caroline Benjamin swam to a one-two finish in the 100 yd. freestyle. The score was now 44-35 in favor of UMass, and the 400 yd. individual medley was the next event. UMass proved to be more than victorious with another one-two finish from Jennifer Black and Nancee Shifflett.

Smith's Lisa Marlow again captured first place with a record setting time of 59.6 in the 100 yd. butterfly. Theresa Totin managed to squeeze in for a second place, with Smith finishing third. Totin came back to win the 200 yd. breaststroke.

UMass put together a powerful 400 yd. freestyle relay team of Jennifer Black, Nancee Shifflett, Caroline Benjamin, and Leslie Johnson, who finished first to clinch the meet for the Minutewomen.

UConn and Central Conn. will be the next opponents for the swimwomen who continue to train and perform at a record breaking pace.

Sports notices

TABLE TENNIS—The UMass Table Tennis Club is sponsoring the second annual UMass Table Tennis Tournament to be held Sat., Nov. 17 at 10:00 in NOPE Gym. Anyone interested may fill out an entry blank at the Games Room, located across from the Hatch. Entry fee is $1.00 to be paid at the tournament site. All UMass students welcome!

INTRAMURALS—THANKSGIVING SCHEDULE:
Wed., Nov. 21: Boyden and NOPE close at 6:00 pm.
Thurs., Nov. 22: ALL facilities closed (Thanksgiving).
Fri. and Sat., Nov. 23-24: Boyden open 10-6:00 pm, NOPE closed.
Sun., Nov. 25: Boyden open 12-8:00 pm, NOPE closed.

INTRAMURAL ENTRIES DUE:
Three on three basketball due Mon., Nov. 19
Basketball (Men, women, co-rec) due Wed., Nov. 5.

Enter the above at the Intramural Office, 215 Boyden. Basketball officials meetings are being held on Dec. 10, 11, and 12 at 7:00 pm in Boyden 249. Officials must attend at least one of these meetings.

Calvin Ice Cream
Home of the 35c Ice Cream Cone
Milkshakes Sundaes
Half-Gallons
Hours: Mon-Wed 12-5 Thurs-Sat 12-10
Calvin Ice Cream Shop
233 N. Pleasant St.
Carriage Shops
549-6938

AMC AMERICAN MULTI CINEMA
ADULTS $2.75 STUDENTS & SR. CITIZENS with AMC CARD $2.25 TWI-LITE SHOW $1.50 - Special Engagements Excluded Twi-Lite Show - Limited to Seating
TIMES SHOWN FOR TODAY ONLY

HAMPSHIRE 4 — 584-7550 HAMP. MALL ON CAFE SQ.—RT. 9, HADLEY, MASS.
Apocalypse Now — R — Today at (5:30 @ $1.50)-8:30
Joseph Wambaugh's The Onion Field — A True Story — R — Today at (6:00 @ $1.50)-8:30
Movie and Dinner $5. see one of the great movies listed here and have dinner at the Pewter Pot Rest. on Cafe Square in the Hampshire Mall for only $5. Call for details.
French Postcards (6:30 @ $1.50)-8:45 PG
Breaking Away (6:15 @ $1.50)-8:45 PG

MOUNTAIN FARMS 4 — 584-9153 MOUNTAIN FARMS MALL ROUTE 9-HADLEY, MASS.
A temptingly tasteful comedy "10" — R — Today at (6:00 @ $1.50)-8:30
Al Pacino And Justice For All — R — Today at (6:00 @ $1.50)-8:30
Honk if you love Brian. Monty Python's Life of Brian — R — Today at (6:15 @ $1.50)-8:45
Marcello Mastroianni Wife mistress — R — Today at (6:15 @ $1.50)-8:45

CINEMA 1·2·3·4·5·6·7·8 HOLYOKE MALL at INGLESIDE
MASS. PIKE EXIT 4 to INT. 91-EXIT 15 — 24 HOUR MOVIE PHONE 538-7510
EXCLUSIVE LIMITED SHOWING!!
DAILY AT 4:15
FRIDAY & SATURDAY AT 11:30 P.M.
Tommy — Your senses will never be the same. PG
SNIP IT or CLIP IT
This coupon entitles student with college ID to admission to one show of your choice at $1.00 per person before 5 P.M. or $1.50 per person after 5:00 P.M. each day One coupon per person only "regular" shows only
Not valid Sat. eve (except 11:30) • expires November 20, 1979

James H. McManus eating place
OPEN 24 HRS FRI. & SAT.
6:30 am to 3:00 am
SUNDAY-THURSDAY
Campus Plaza—Hadley

adventura travel 549-1256
Airline Tickets
Amherst
Carriage Shops

CINEMA 1-8 HOLYOKE MALL AT INGLESIDE
Mass. Pike Exit 4 to Int. Exit 15
24 Hr. Movie-Phone 538-7510
PRESENT AD AT BOX OFFICE FOR $1.00 OFF REG ADULT PRICE
"TOMMY" DAILY 4:15 LATE SHOW FRI & SAT 11:30
Held Over — The Muppet Movie — G — Today 1:10-3:15-5:30-7:25 & 9:30
A True Story — The Onion Field — R
Held Over — When a Stranger Calls — R — Today 1:10-3:15-5:30-7:25 & 9:30
Today 1:00-3:00-5:05-7:10 & 9:15 — ABBA — Fronts: Agn. Backstage & On the Road. Take the Tour — No Matinees Sat-Sun-Mon
Extraordinary! You've never seen anything like it! "King of Hearts" — Ends Tuesday
Recorded in Dolby Sound — More American Graffiti
French Postcards — PG
Held Over — Dennis Christopher — Breaking Away — PG — Today 2:45-4:55-7:05 & 9:15
"The Christmas That Almost Wasn't" Sat-Sun-Mon

Academy of Music Northampton
Only Area Showing Ends This Evening at 7:00 and 9:20
..who are so wickedly!
Federico Fellini's 8½
with Marcello Mastroianni, Claudia Cardinale, Anouk Aimee, Sandra Milo STARTS FRIDAY Days of Heaven
AT THE GATES OF SMITH COLLEGE

Showcase Cinemas
Bargain Matinee Daily
First Show $2.00 Tel. 733-5131
Rt. 5 Riverdale Rd. West Springfield
The most ingenious thriller of our time. Time After Time — PG
Apocalypse Now — R — United Artists
Starting Over — Burt Reynolds, Jill Clayburgh, Candice Bergen — R
Brian — R — Restricted
A temptingly tasteful comedy for adults who can count. Hilarious —N.Y. Times "10" — R
Fiddler on the Roof — A Tradition — G — United Artists
Serpico The Deadly Game — R
The Fish That Saved Pittsburgh — PG — United Artists

Around campus

Students must pick up pre-registration forms

The registrar's office has sent a directive stating all declared majors in the College of Arts and Sciences must go to their departments to pick up pre-registration material. All undeclared majors should go to Machmer Hall for their pre-registration material.

Students involved with the Bilingual Collegiate Program should report to Goodell Hall and students in the Committee for the Collegiate Education of Black Students Program should pick up their material at the New Africa House.

To Serve Studying Students the Campus Center will provide food service in THE HATCH CAFETERIA in the evenings Monday-Friday 5:00 pm-10:00 pm

Lesbian DISCO and Gay
Friday 9-1 $2.00
10th floor CC
Music-By Kurt Lights-B. Dwelli
Presented by the Lesbian Union & Peoples Gay Alliance

The Amherst Music House & Guitar Workshop
Amherst Carriage Shops 549-1728
SAVE 40%
OFF RETAIL PRICE ON NEW GIBSON, GUILD OVATION, YAMAHA, GUITARS with this coupon

GSEU general meeting
Friday
November 16
3 p.m.
CC 803

Live entertainment with JIM KIMBALL
the Hungry U
Thursday Nov. 15 9-12
NO COVER
50c DRAFT BEERS
549-5713
55 University Drive

Collegian Classifieds

To place a Collegian Classified Ad
- Come to Collegian Office (CC 113)
- 8:45 to 3:45, Mon. thru Fri.
- Classified deadline is 3:45 two days prior to publication day

Collegian Classified Rates
- 15c per word
- Student rate 10c per word
- Cash in advance
- 5 consecutive days, 5% discount
- Phone number FREE

AUDIO

Turntable $90 549-1520

Theatrix Rents Mirror balls and other Disco supplies. Lights for sale, new and used 323-7160

AUTO FOR SALE

1973 Gremlin Excellent condition, 62000 miles, good gas mileage, $1350 or BO 253-5966

69 Chevelle needs some work, B.O. 256-0613

70 Capri Body good condition, 64000 AM-FM, snows, tuneup. $600 253-3194

73 VW Super Beetle Dependable transp., good gas mi., Call Eric 253-9233 BO

70 Mav 66,000, std., 22 mpg, AM-FM, AC, body gd, $650 BO Mike 546-6498

72 Opel-Cadet exc-cond-30-mpg-auto Call Jim 549-3672

72 Mustang Grande: Very good cond., auto, stereo, reg, gas, $1800 Call Steve 253-3782

ENTERTAINMENT

Good Times—DJ's for hire, disco and/or Rock, Call 546-4726 or 546-4777

Soundsystem for Hire perfect for bands, discos, coffeehouses Rick 584-4105

FOR RENT

Cliffside 1 bedroom apartment available Call 665-3902 evenings.

FOR SALE

Portrait Drawing Dennis Delap, 256-8732

Ski-Jacket New men's small/women's 14, Karen 546-1159

2 G78-14 Steel/glass belted uniroyal radials. Driven only 1,500 miles. Pioneer TP200 FM/8-track car stereo w/slide mount. Ant reasonable offers considered. Call Bill 253-7332

2 Leather Jackets Walter Dyer Call 253-7103

1 American Airline ½-price coupon, $50 Call Dan 546-5530

For Sale Kitchen table, 2 x 3, four chairs, $30 584-6234 evenings

United half-fare coupon 253-3877 evenings

2 ½ price airline coupons call Debby 323-5262

Full size bed w/frame & headboard. Call evenings 584-5077

Half-fare United coupon 549-5031

Fleetwood Mac tickets (2), Boston 549-6088

FOUND

Found Puppy approx. 2 mos., vic. Brandywine Apts. Call 549-6227 after 4 p.m.

HELP WANTED

Overseas Jobs—Summer/year round. Europe, S. America, Australia, Asia, etc. All fields, $500-$1,200 monthly, expenses paid. Sightseeing, free information write: IJC, Box 52-MC, Corona Del Mar, CA. 92625

Workstudy help needed at the Collegian hours 9:30-12:30 also Wed. afternoon 2:30-4:30 Call Kathy 545-3500 or stop by

I need a tutor for Physics 162 immediately. One hour per week. Rate negotiable. Call Steve at 546-7133

LEGAL SERVICES

Attorney Jason R. Rosenthal General Practice Legal Representation for the Amherst, Mass community by apt. only days 584-4285 evenings 253-7617

LOST

Gold Watch sentimental value, gift from my parents, lost somewhere on Phillips St. or No. Pleasant. If found, call 6-7022 keep trying, reward

Lost Brown Leather Hat in Stud. Union. Reward for return. Lost on Thurs. Nov. 8 256-8075

Black and white female cat w/collar near Phillips and North Pleasant Call 549-4632

British Passport and UMass ID call 546-8809

RIDE WANTED

Desparate: Ride needed for two to LI on Wed. Nov. 21 - Mike 546-6088

ROOMMATE WANTED

Female roommate wanted apartment, own room, bus rt. $127.50+ 253-3246

Male Roommate wanted to share room in 2 bedroom apt. $90 Brittany Manor Apts. 253-3967

2 Women roommates wanted for house one block from campus. Call 549-4620

2-3 Females to share lg. furnished apt. Jan-Aug 253-7619

Responsible female to share 3 bedroom apt in Puffton, own room, $113 mos Jan-Aug Call 549-5938 Lori & Jody

ROOM WANTED

Wanted 3 bedroom apartment to sublease starting January. Please call 546-5223 546-8003

I need a place to live pref. own bedroom w/reasonable rates 253-5201 ask for Barry

Wanted 2 or 3 bedroom apt in Jan. Call John 546-5616 Keep Trying

We need 2/3 bedroom apt starting Jan. Call 546-5226 or 546-5221

Looking for a 2 bedroom apt. Starting Jan. 1st Call 546-7093 or 545-3271

PERSONALS

HB—Happy 3rd Anniversary! Love, YCB

Sugarbush Hotel needs chambermaids Jan.-March includes lodging call Ski Club 545-3437 or Ken 549-6060

PRACTICUM: Intersession - 3 credits Spring semester 3-6 credits. Work in afterschool Day Care on Campus. For more info call Nancy Ross 549-6170

Congratulations Barri!

Free Black & White Cat 6 months, will deliver 1-527-5579

Have you been in an Orgasmatron lately. Have you Gotten High with an Orb? If not, or if you would like to agian come and see Woody Allen's Sleeper Thursday Nov. 15 in Thompson 104 at 7:00, 9:00 & 11:00. One dollar, cheap!

You took my brown tweed blazer sz. 9 Larry Levine at PICA party 11/8 and left your wine twd blazer. I have yours, you have mine-let's switch, please. No questions asked. Julie 549-2664 or 545-3500

SB 22—A year ago today pinching in the pub. Now. . .? Hope you sort things out. Suzie Sorority

Prez Chris—Lots of luck today. You're sure to be a success. Love, Knee His

Special! Fashionable 14K gold jewelry—wholesale prices-ONE DAY ONLY! call 546-6454 by Friday

Dear Brian—Happy Birthday—Love Darin

Happy Bday—Yesterday Woman! You are one hell of a KKG pledge. Good pledges don't, do you?

To NSLM—Have you ever played cosmic wimpout in a bathtub full of orange jello? It's great - if you can keep the dice from falling down the drain! —LL

Female Musicians Wanted to form band. Into Stones. Devento, Circle Drive, Box 132, Monroe, NY 10950

Attention! Today is Fern Lee's Birthday! Happy 20th Fern! Everyone who sees her at Machmer please embarrass her! Signed, ???

Presenting UMass'es first Lesbian and Gay disco Fri nite 10th floor CC 9-1. Admission is$2 Sponsored by the PGA and the LU

Anyone interested in tryouts for the Basketball Twirling Squad: Tryouts will be at the end of Nov. Call Wendy at 6-6175 for more information

ATTN BUSINESS MAJORS

On Thursday November 15 from 10:00-4:00 P.M. The Undergraduate Business Club will present "CAREER DAY '79" in the School of Business. There will be a luncheon held from 12:00 to 2:00 P.M. Tickets are available in the SBA Lobby until Novemebr 14. All invited!

SECURITY DEPOSIT PROBLEMS?

Have any questions about your security deposit? Do you think monies were unfairly deducted for repairs or cleaning? Did you get 5% interest? Do you know where your money is being held? Call the Security Deposit Task Force at UMass Legal Services 545-1995 or Off Campus Housing 545-0865

SERVICES

"Attention Car Owners" Protect you auto with an alarm system. Up to 15% off insurance. One year guarantee 549-4041

STURDY CAR

Study car 65 Buick, excellent condition, new battery, rebuilt carburator, 600 or BO 253-2772

TO SUBLET

1 bedroom Cliffside apt bus route, tennis courts, pool, available Jan 1, call665-4448

WANTED

Fast Immediate Cash for gold-school rings-diamonds-silver Jeff anytime 527-7078 586-0180

WANTED TO RENT

Wanted to Sublet 2 or 3 bedroom apartment for Spring Semester Call John or Pete 546-7477

3 Bedroom Apt. pref. split level for Spring semester Call 546-8544

Aluminum Foil by Steve Lafler

Nuke the Whales by Danny Guidera

Beasts by Rob Ranney

Norma B. by M.J. Galper

Doonesbury by Garry Trudeau

TODAY'S CROSSWORD PUZZLE

ACROSS
1 Access
5 Refs' colleagues
9 Possessed
14 Bean
15 Heap
16 Ring up
17 Stated
19 Because
20 Sverige's neighbor
21 Implore
23 Abound
24 Scoffer
27 Uncommon
29 Farm crossings
31 Constitutions
35 R.R. stop
37 Vacant
39 Ultimate
40 Merit
42 Leaks
44 — Adams
45 Ram
47 Roman deities
49 Finale
50 Untie
52 Missive
54 N. Mex. town
56 Launched
59 Qualified
62 Had being
64 Somber
65 Rum drinks
67 — — sex
70 Grassland
71 Canada's "D.A.R."
72 Land: Abbr.
73 Example words
74 Requisite
75 Ostentatious

DOWN
1 Danish measures
2 Mason — Line
3 Promoter
4 Goal
5 Raises
6 Wrong:
7 Freshman
8 Passover feast
9 Ceres' mother
10 — — and tails
11 Not any
12 Quality: Suffix
13 Consider
18 Scary
22 Fuel
25 Trees
26 Spurn
28 Ump's kin
30 Pilfer
32 Mortician
33 Ache
34 Luge
35 Ratify
36 Edible rootstock
38 Flanders battle site
41 Savings: 2 words
43 Paving stone
46 Ocean
48 Platform
51 At once
53 Printing goofs
55 Fabric
57 Turn outward
58 Irish county: Info.
59 Kind of culture
60 Nail
61 Isolated
63 Brake part
66 Clique
68 Nigerian city
69 Espouse

UNITED Feature Syndicate
Wednesday's Puzzle Solved

DC menu

LUNCH
Fried Fish Square/Tartar Sauce
Hot Pastrami/Pumpernickle

BASICS LUNCH
Garden Medley Casserole
Fried Fish Square/Tartar Sauce

DINNER
Meatballs/Spaghetti
Franks/Rolls
Baked Beans/Pork

BASICS DINNER
Whole Wheat Spaghetti/Tomato Sauce
Garbanzo Cheese Loaf

EARTHFOODS
Tofu lasagne
Green salad
Miso-onion soup
Banana-raisin muffins

Dastardly Dan's
35 E. PLEASANT ST
AMHERST
$2.25 60 OZ. PITCHERS
Sandwich, Chips & Beer For Just $2.25
ROAST BEEF TURKEY HAM & CHEESE

MOVIE LISTINGS

Academy Of Music
Bread & Chocolate
7:00 9:00

Hampshire 4
Apocalypse Now
5:30 8:30
Onion Field
6:00 8:30
Breaking Away
5:30 8:45
French Postcards
6:30 8:45

Mt. Farms 4
Life of Brian
6:15 8:45
And Justice For All
6:00 8:30
"10"
6:00 8:30
Wifemistress
6:15 8:45

Holyoke 1-8
Muppet Movie
1:10 3:15 5:30 7:25 9:30
Stranger Calls
1:10 3:15 5:30 7:25 9:30
Breaking Away
2:45 4:55 7:05 9:15
Abba
1:00 3:00 5:05 7:10 9:15

Pleasant St. Cinema
El Super
6:00 8:00 10:00

Showcase 1-8
Time After Time
2:00 7:30 9:45
Fiddler on the Roof
2:00 7:45 10:15
Fish. . .Pittsburg
2:00 7:30 10:00
"10"
2:00 7:20 10:40
ABC
1:30 7:10 10:10
Brian
2:00 7:10 10:10
Justice For All
2:00 7:15 9:46

1/3 OFF

MISSES' BASIC PULL-ON SWEATERS

Reg. 15.00. Super styles that make a fashion impact! Fantastic selection of striped cowls, turtlenecks and collared v-necks. All in washable acrylics. S-M-L.

SPORTSWEAR, ALL STORES

6 good reasons for making denby's your store

THURSDAY • FRIDAY • SATURDAY

YOUR CHOICE

7.99

MEN'S FLANNEL SHIRTS TURTLENECKS DRESS SHIRTS

20%-1/3 OFF

Reg. 10.00 to 12.00. Great new collection of warm cotton flannel plaids, acrylic turtlenecks for that layered look and our own brand polyester/cotton long sleeve dress shirts. All fully washable in assorted fancies, S-M-L, 14½-17.

MEN'S, ALL STORES

20% OFF

ENTIRE STOCK LADIES' COATS

COATS, ALL STORES

25%-1/3 OFF

LADIES' GLOVES

Reg. 8.00 to 12.00. Greet the winter with these warm and fashionable selections. Choose suede with pile lining in navy, brown or tan, S-M-L, or knits with suede palms in assorted colors. One size fits all.

ACCESSORIES, ALL STORES

SPECIAL PURCHASE LADIES' MITTENS

1.99 pr. Reg. 3.00

ACCESSORIES, ALL STORES

25% OFF

ENTIRE STOCK GIRLS' OUTERWEAR

GIRLS', ALL STORES

DENBY'S we can be your store

Hampshire Mall (Hadley) * Holyoke Mall (Ingleside)

Norma Rae

7, 9, 11 p.m. $1.00
by C.C. Program Council

The rusty nail Inn

November 16 FAT
$2.00 at the door only

November 17 ZONKARAZ & FAT CHANCE
$3.00 at the door only

Open till 2

Rt. 47 Sunderland 665-4937

It began raining glass on the basketball court at Kansas City's Municipal Auditorium after Philadelphia 76'ers center Darryl Dawkins' dunk shot shattered the glass backboard in a game against the Kings. The Kings are billing Philly $295 for the damage. (AP Laserphoto).

Plumbley's off the common

30 Boltwood Walk
Amherst Center
253-9586

Featuring

Thursday Nov. 15 Paradise Rhythm Shoes in the pub

Sunday Nov. 18 Valley Partners

THE ARK
835 BEACON ST. BOSTON 247-9548

Live Rock-N-Roll
Four Nights a week

Tues.-College Night

$.50 Bottled Beer
$1.00 Bar Drinks

Wed. thru Sat.
Live Entertainment

Proper dress required

Visit the #4 CLUB
166 Canal Street North Station

Pewter Pot FAMILY RESTAURANT

Sunday Special

Tomato or Orange Juice
2 Eggs
2 Strips of Bacon
All the Pancakes You Can Eat!

Only 2.25

Every Sunday through November 18

Hampshire Mall
Hadley
Now Open Sundays
11 a.m. - 6 p.m.

Pewter Pot A FAMILY RESTAURANT

Ingleside Mall
Holyoke
Open Sundays
9 a.m. - 8 p.m.

Spikers' best season linked to team effort

By Maureen Sullivan
Collegian Staff

This season, the women's volleyball team posted a 20-7 record, its best performance since becoming a varsity team six years ago.

Its wins came along with a total effort on the part of all the team members, bench players as well as those on the court. Its losses were disappointing, but UMass never did lose by a wide or convincing margin. Even against Warsaw Academy last September 12, in which the score indicated a total blowout (Warsaw swept 15-2, 15-1, 15-2), the Minutewomen showed their ability to play volleyball. This ability showed itself throughout the season.

Serving, setting, passing, blocking, spiking, and positioning--- all this, and more, became a part of each player on the court. Each player in turn became part of a cohesive unit, adjusting to offense or defense with every serve, every bump,every attempted spike.

UMass proved to many teams their ability to play in a cohesive, team-oriented style; they also surprised teams by using a style based on a certain individual's best skill --- blocking, setting, spiking, etc.

This specialized style of volleyball was emphasized from day one by UMass' new coach, Elaine Marasco, who made Yale's women spikers among the best in the East in two years. From the first day of practice in early September, Marasco worked with the members on strong points, weak points, worked on the potential she saw when she came to Amherst from New Haven.

The 1979 season began with the URI Tournament on the Saturday after the Warsaw match. UMass finished tied for first, as it played some of the best volleyball of the early season. UConn and Providence College fell to UMass for the first time ever in women's volleyball.

The Minutewomen went on a winning tear, taking four straight, including a convincing win against Boston College (who had defeated UMass in last year's Mass. State Tourney).

Springfield College overwhelmed UMass last year; the Minutewomen wanted to settle that score, to get back and beat theChiefs. UMass played aggressively, showing Springfield its powers; twice during the match, UMass went ahead by a healthy margin. Springfield came right back with hard spiking and blocking. The Chiefs stopped UMass in a sweep.

Afterwards, the Minutewomen hit the road extensively, splitting many tri-matches, while overcoming the problems of adjusting not only their blocking, but to the long road schedule.

UMass' first home match after six weeks on the road featured Southern Connecticut, one of New England's top squads. The Owls possessed a good frontcourt, but the Minutewomen punched through to a quick lead in the first game. Like Springfield, Southern came back; despite a fierce attack by UMass, SC held them off to win in four games.

Season's end saw UMass on another winning streak, including two tri-match sweeps. Yale University put an end to UMass' regular season with a loss ?(after UMass went ahead by two games, the Elis managed to take the match).

Perhaps the biggest blow to this year's UMass squad came not in a loss or an injury, but in the form of consideration. After looking at UMass' lack of tourney exposure, the committee in charge of the Regionals declined to give UMass a chance to compete in the Easterns.

As a result, the Minutewomen didn't go to New Jersey for the Rutgers Invitational. Instead, they appeared at the Mass. State Tournament at Clark University in Worcester last weekend. Defeating Northeastern in straight games, UMass earned the title of tourney champions.

This year, UMass won Mass. State. Next year, despite losing Kathy Shinnick, Donna Sasso, Chris Perron, Chris Kelly and Joanne Eames, the Minutewomen should improve over this year's record, au well as benefiting from a schedule that features more tourneys. Next year, UMass just might make it to the Easterns.

The women's volleyball team posted the best seasonal record in the team's history with a 20-7 record this past season. (Staff photo by John Bunting).

On November 30th, Marvin Hagler can make his dream of a world title come true by defeating current champ Vito Antuofermo. (AP Laserphoto)

Marvelous Marvin Hagler yearns for middleweight title

By DICK BRAUDE
Associated Press

BOSTON — The vision creeps into Marvin Hagler's dreams and spurs his lonely, punishing workouts.

"I see myself with my hands in the air and Vito down on his back," says the sleek middleweight with the shaved head. "I hear the referee say: 'The new middleweight champion, Marvelous Marvin Hagler.'"

The 27-year-old boxer from Brockton, Mass.—home of the late heavyweight champion Rocky Marciano—has waged more than 100 fights half of them as an amateur—to reach his goal of a title fight.

He'll meet champion Vito Antuofermo in Las Vegas—where Hagler is now training—on Nov. 30. Hagler is intent on "swatting him down like a fly. I call him 'Vito the Mosquito.'"

Hagler has a 46-2-1 record with 38 knockouts. The slashing left-hander hasn't been beaten in three years and has sent several opponents home with broken jaws, deep facial cuts, or a temporary loss of memory.

"Lots of times you get up in the morning and you feel like crying," says the Newark, N.J. native—who headed to Massachusetts at age 16. "No one knew my name. I'm finally getting the recognition I deserve."

"We've climbed the mountain and no one's going to knock us off," says Goody Patronelli, his trainer and, with brother Pat Petronelli, co-manager. The Petronelli brothers, who run a ramshackle but respected gym in Brockton, have trained Hagler from the beginning.

"Our bond is for life," says Goody. "He started with us and he'll finish with us."

If he beats Antuofermo, Hagler will make up to three title defenses for New York-based promoter Bob Arum. The first likely would be in Boston against Alan Minter of England.

Antuofermo, however, is a sturdy roadblock. He's never been knocked out, and stopped only on cuts. He won the title June 30 and will be making his first defense after upsetting champion Hugo Corro in Monte Carlo.

On the same card, Hagler demolished Norberto Cabrera to earn the title shot that Arum had promised—after political pressure was applied by U.S. Sen. Paul Tsongas of Massachusetts.

The boxing establishment lately has been suitably impressed by Hagler's pwer. Angelo Dundee, Muhammad Ali's trainer, has called Hagler "an animal" and Hagler claims Howard Cosell has branded him "a monster" in the ring.

For his part, the fighter—who sometimes spouts Ali-like poetry to predict victories—says simply: "If Antuofermo tries to box me, I'll tear his face apart."

Steve Zack

There should be no MVP

One of the great inconsistencies of modern day sport has occurred with the voting of the National League MVP award, or co-MVP award as the case may be. Ten of this country's illustrious baseball writers gave first place votes to the ancient Pirate warrior, while four of the remaining fourteen didn't even have him on their ballot. What this leads to is whether there should even be an Most Valuable Player award rather than a Player of the Year award, comparable to that given out by the Sporting News.

One of the problems with giving an MVP award is the criteria to decide it. Should it include playoff statistics and heroics or be solely judged on regular season merits? Officially the voting for the MVP award is to be concluded before the playoffs begin. If so, why is the announcement detained until the World Series has been concluded? It makes me wonder whether the votes really were cast before the post-season action, or did last votes for Stargell arrive to aid his cause?

And what of all the other players in the league who were deserving of the award that were shunted because of their team's poor performance. For example, I the San Diego's superlative outfielder Dave Winfield. Although Winfield finished a respectable third in the voting, were he to have played on a first or close second place team he might very well have absconded with the MVP title. This leads me in favor of a "Player of the Year" award.

A player of the year honor would allow for players to be judged for their input to baseball as a whole, both statistically and in a general framework for meritorious service to the game, not just for the numbers or who they play with.

As a sidenote to the above, the American League MVP is due to be announced shortly, perhaps even today, and if I were to put personal perference in the forefront, I would give the award to the Orioles Ken Singleton. Singleton remains oblivious to the national plaudits of the press year after year, but nonetheless he has been the backbone of the Orioles ball club. While Flanagan was stymiing opponents and Stanhouse was waiting his Bozo the Clown hairdo in the breeze, Singleton silently kept the Orioles going in a positive direction and almost to a World Series championship. Lynn, Baylor, and Flanagan may have the stats, but Singleton has the stats and something more—class.

The Athlete of the Week award for the past seven days of Athletic feats should go to none other than Rubin "Bowling Ball" Carter who, after forgetting how to get up and run with the football, reverted to the primal instincts of man and crawled into the end zone. Imagine the hernia fellow Bronco lineman Barney Chavous would have gotten if he had had to pick up the 6', 253 lb. Carter. Now that would have been something to see.

Let's hear it for Ed "Too Tall" Jones who upped his illustrious boxing mark to 2-0 by defeating the Unknown Boxer, Abdullah Muhammed. As soon as Jones steps into the ring with any fighter who knows what he is doing, every rib in the big man's body will be split in two. It's a shame to see boxing stoop to this level of shenanigans, not that it hasn't before, but perhaps there is a shining light in the form of newly crowned champ John Tate.

He is not boisterous like Ali and Sugar Ray Leonard or flashy like Larry Holmes and Howard Davis. He is simply a good strong boxer, something the sport needs to survive.

MASSACHUSETTS DAILY VOLUME CIX, ISSUE 51 Friday, November 16, 1979

Collegian

Student Newspaper of the University of Massachusetts/Amherst, Ma. 01003 (413)545-3500

© 1979, Massachusetts Daily Collegian

Rich LaVoice addresses part of the estimated 600 people who attended yesterday's rally. The student rally was for a variety of campus problems. In the background looms the library which was the crux of the demonstration. (Staff photo by Jim Mahoney)

Students rally to protest UM problems

By ED LEVINE
Collegian Staff

It remains to be seen what administrative action will be taken following a rally attended by about 600 students yesterday, which resulted in a march on the Whitmore Adminstration Building.

The rally, organized by the Student Government Association and the Student Center for Educational Research and Advocacy, was held to protest a proposed increase in room and board fees, the lack of adequate lighting around campus, police patrols in the dormitories, the closing of the library, and deteriorating conditions in many residence halls.

Following speeches by several student leaders outside the Student Union Building, about 250 of the protesters marched through Whitmore in an attempt to meet with University administrators.

Neither Chancellor Henry Koffler or Vice Chancellor for Student Affairs Dennis L. Madson were available to meet with the protesters. Dean of Students William F. Field agreed to meet with them in the Campus Center, and led the chanting group back across campus.

When contacted last night however, Madson said the student demands were "legitimate issues" and some of them have been resolved. He said the police have clear guidelines, and will not be in the hallways in the future. He also said he is working on the lighting problem.

"I'm pushing for it. I'm trying to round up some money," he said.

Madson said the rally served to highlight the issues. "There was action taken before the rally, and it will continue after," he said.

Speaking before the crowd outside the Student Union, retiring Student Senate Speaker David Barenberg cited the lack of administrative action on the issues. "Nobody takes any action other than action that makes them look like they're doing something," he said.

"We want student involvement in decision making," he

TURN TO PAGE 3

Students: We want Field now

By STEPHEN KLEIN
Collegian Staff

The students wound their way through the halls of the Phillip H. Whitmore Administration Building. All the doors were locked. A few students banged on the doors or twisted door knobs.

The three chants, at times sounding at once, were "The students, united, will never be defeated—we won't stop fighting, till we get some lighting—we're hot, we're hot, no more SWAT."

The shouts lingered in the upper levels of Whitmore as the front of the line stopped at the one unlocked door.

Dean of Students William F. Field wasn't in his office, or so it seemed. The students sat down and decided to await his return. "Field will be back in a few minutes, a half hour," Howard Goldman, a student organizer said.

"We want Field, we want Field."

"Who do we want."

"We want Field."

"When do we want him."

"Now."

Amid the chanting, Field walked in the rear door smiling. He anonymously worked his way through the crowd until one student spotted him and cried out, "Field's here, Field's here."

As the chant changed once again it became, "Where's Field, where's Field."

Field strolled out the front door as easily as he slipped in the rear, smiling, never once skipping stride.

"Catch Dean Field, follow Dean Field," the crowd said as they left and followed him to the Campus Center.

Photo by Chris Grace

DEAN WHO???

The Iranian situation

Carter harshens criticisms

By MAUREEN SANTINI
Associated Press

WASHINGTON — President Carter said yesterday the Iranian government is "fully responsible" for the safety of about 60 Americans held hostage in the U.S. Embassy in Tehran and "will be held accountable."

Carter, in his harshest statement about the actions of Iranian leaders in the 12-day-old crisis, said he found it "unthinkable that any responsible government" would try to pressure another nation by using diplomats as barter.

Addressing the convention of the AFL-CIO, the president said the seizure of the embassy and the Americans stationed there violated basic principles of international law. He vowed that the students occupying the embassy will not sway American policy.

"This is an act of terrorism totally outside the bounds of international law and diplomatic tradition," Carter said. "This crisis calls for firmness and restraint."

But Carter also said the United States "will not compromise our fundamental principle of justice, no matter how grave the provocation." He added: "The United States of America will not yield to international terrorism or blackmail."

The president said taking the hostages has resulted in "anger and outrage" from Americans. However, he added, the United States will do nothing that endangers the safety of the hostages.

He said the situation calls for patience, perserverence and "measured, deliberate action."

Carter said the U.S. government will continue to use its influence around the world to obtain the safe release of the hostages and will take no action "that could be used to justify violence or imprudent action by anyone."

TURN TO PAGE 6

Shah's son must report too

WILLIAMSTOWN (AP) — One of the most famous Iranian students in the United States, the son of the deposed shah, apparently is affected by a Justice Department drive to check the credentials of Iranian students.

Prince Reza Pahlavi, 19-yearold son of the shah, is in his first year at Williams College. College spokesman Ray Boyer said he wasn't sure how the Justice Department order affected Pahlavi.

But Timothy Whelan, deputy director of the federal Immigration and Naturalization Service in Boston, said, "He's on student status, and the order applies to all Iranian students."

☆☆☆☆☆☆☆☆☆☆☆☆☆☆☆☆☆☆☆☆

Iranian students at UMass have declined comment on their situation here on campus, maintaining their positions have been previously misrepresented in the Collegian.

Authorities, students split

By The Associated Press

Islamic student militants, declaring they take orders only from the Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini and the Iranian people, rejected a suggestion by Iranian officials yesterday that they free their women and black hostages at the U.S. Embassy in Tehran.

It was the latest sign of a major split between Iranian authorities and hundreds of students who have been holding about 60 American and more than 30 non-American hostages since seizing the embassy Nov. 4.

As the students reaffirmed their demand for extradition of Shah Mohammad Reza Pahlavi, U.S. and other diplomats huddled at the United Nations over the Iran crisis.

President Carter, who has banned Iranian oil imports and frozen Iranian government assets in the United States, said in a speech yesterday that he was holding Iranian authorities "fully responsible" for the safety of the hostages.

"They will be held accountable," he declared in a speech interrupted repeatedly by loud applause and whistles.

But despite diplomatic efforts and mounting U.S. economic pressure, one Western source in Tehran reached by telephone from Bonn, West Germany, said foreign diplomats believe it looks like a long siege.

U.S. officials say the shah, hospitalized in New York for cancer treatment, may be well enough to travel in two weeks. The Mexican government is expected to give him refuge again, and he also has been invited to Egypt.

But one Iranian official, Ambassador to Britain Ali Afooz, said this would not cool the U.S.-Iranian conflict.

"Egypt or Mexico — they're U.S. puppets. It doesn't matter where he goes," he told a London news conference.

TURN TO PAGE 9

DIGEST

President Carter bows his head during a prayer service at Washington Cathedral yesterday for the hostages being held at the U.S. Embassy in Tehran, Iran.

Embargo may raise prices

CONCORD, N.H. (AP) — The Department of Energy will ake steps to assure that the cutoff of Iranian oil to the 'nited States will not disproportionately effect New ngland, a DOE official said yesterday.

"If the Caribbean refineries that service the Northeast are anning low of crude oil for any reason, the Department of nergy will allocate oil from the rest of the country," Harold eohane, the regional representative of the Energy Department, said in Concord.

But he added that he could not promise the Iranian oil utoff would not increase the price of home heating oil, hich is not regulated.

"I would hope the situation would not have an adverse afect on the price of oil, but I'm not a seer. I can't see into the uture," he said.

Cars to face pollution check

BOSTON (AP) — A bill requiring car owners to have their vehicle pollution equipment pass state tests starting in 1982 has been signed into law by Gov. Edward J. King.

The measure signed yesterday, a product of years of legislative battling, consolidates the state's twice-a-year inspection requirement into a once-a-year check-up costing $10. Besides covering the usual safety features, the new inspections will monitor the amount of pollutants in auto exhausts.

The inspections will continue to be performed at local garages, but owners who want to challange the pollution test can have a second emission check performed at regional "referee" stations.

Chad's death still unclear

SAN DIEGO (AP) — An autopsy on the body of Chad Green failed to show any clearcut cause for the leukemia victim's death, a pathologist says, prolonging the dispute over he therapeutic value of Laetrile.

"The leukemia possibly could have led to it," said Dr. Frank Raasch yesterday. "But certainly there was nothing to indicate the Laetrile which he took contributed in any way."

Raasch, who performed an autopsy at the request of the 3-year-old's parents, said: "This isn't any one of those black and white cases. There are questions that might never be answered."

A University Hospital pathologist who also works for the San Diego County coroner's office, Raasch said in an interview that the autopsy was hindered by a Tijuana mortuary's mistake in embalming the boy's body before the autopsy could be started.

However, the autopsy did find that Chad's internal organs were enlarged, an indication of the presence of leukemia, doctors said.

'Don't ski into Olympics'

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — If you've been thinking of slipping past the ticket-takers and strict traffic controls at the Winter Olympics by skiing in over the mountains, better forget it.

The state Department of Environmental Conservation published rules yesterday banning any travel — on ski, foot or snowshoe — over all the wilderness trails which lead towards sites for events at the February Games at Lake Placid.

Furthermore, it formally banned camping on state land in the Olympics region.

Ford predicts profit

DETROIT (AP) — Ford Motor Co., while predicting a loss of more than $1 billion on North American car and truck operations, said yesterday that it would show an overall profit for the year anyway — with help from a rigid cost-cutting plan.

Despite the gloomy pronoucements on the U.S. and Canadian markets, Ford executives said profits from overseas and elsewhere could give the No. 2 automaker its third-best year ever. And they repeated denials that Ford would follow Chrysler Corp. into a money crunch.

The Massachusetts Daily Collegian (USPS 333-220) is published daily Monday through Friday excluding January, June, July, and August, for $15 at 113 Campus Center, University of Massachusetts, Amherst, MA 01003. Second class postage paid at Amherst, Mass. Postmaster: Send address changes to Massachusetts Daily Collegian, 113 Campus Center, University of Massachusetts, Amherst, MA 01003.

Egypt flies flag over land as Israel returns Mt. Sinai

By MAGDA EL SANGA
Associated Press

MOUNT SINAI, Egypt — Israel ended its 12-year occupation of this area yesterday and returned it to Egypt, whose soldiers hoisted their blackwhite-red flag near the mountain where Moses is said to have received the Ten Commandments.

In ceremonies at an airstrip within view of the 2,285-foot peak, Israeli soldiers pulled down the Star of David banner two months ahead of schedule at the special request of Egyptian President Anwar Sadat.

It was the fourth of a sixphase Israeli pullout that will leave Egypt with control of two-thirds of the desert peninsula by Jan. 25. Egypt, which lost the lands in the 1967 Mideast War, is to regain them by 1982 under terms of the peace treaty signed in March.

Egyptian Brig. Gen. Seif el Din Abu Snaf, in a brief speech, pointed to the early withdrawal as proof "we are moving ahead" and as evidence which "disproves all the lies and hatred of the rejection front," referring to Arab nations which reject the Egyptian-Israeli treaty.

The Israelis withdrew early so Sadat could come to Mount Sinai to celebrate the second anniversary of his Nov. 19, 1977 trip to Jerusalem, a trip that set the peace process in motion.

Sadat, in exchange, agreed to an Israeli request to allow tourists, including Israelis, to continue to visit the area.

"Here for the first time daily there will be a meeting between the youth, Arabs and Jews, Egyptians and Israelis," Israeli Gen. Dov Sion said in his remarks at the flag raising ceremony.

"In this natural workshop, youth will learn to live and work together," Sion said, adding it was "here that the Ten Commandments came down with the moral injunction" to love thy neighbor.

Israeli army officials said the airfield, an Israeli field school, a tourist hostel, schools, clinics and housing in the 600 squaremile area were handed over to the Egyptians.

Sadat plans to build a single house of worship for Christians, Jews and Moslems between the airport and the venerated mountain, and he is to lay a cornerstone in formal ceremonies Monday.

George Meany retires

By OWEN ULLMANN
AP Labor Writer

WASHINGTON — George Meany, the gruff and powerful voice for a generation of working people, bade a tearful goodbye to his "house of labor" yesterday with a call for new leaders and policies to keep the AFL-CIO in step with the changing world.

The AFL-CIO, which Meany helped forge in 1955 and ruled ever since, "is alive and well," the retiring 85-year-old labor leader said in a farewell address to an emotion-swept federation convention.

But "the labor movement cannot be content with defending the status quo or reliving past glories," said Meany, who long has been criticized for failing to keep the AFL-CIO up with changing times. "We must constantly look to the future, develop new leadership, adapt policies to changing conditions and new technologies."

A gaunt and ashen Meany, confined to a wheelchair, thanked the 1,000 delegates attending the opening convention session "for the highest honor that could be paid any human being — the honor of leading this great organization of workers who have built this nation."

The convention responded with a long, whistling ovation. Delegates applauded him when Meany, crippled by an arthritic hip since April, was wheeled into the convention hall.

The former plumber managed to put forth his usual stern grimace throughout most of his 15-minute address, and his Bronx-accented voice, though weakened by age and illness, remained unemotional until the very end.

But then, even tough old George Meany was unable to restrain the tears. Twice his voice choked, and only with difficulty could he utter in a shaking voice: "To God go my prayers ... of thanks for granting me more than one man's share of happiness and rewards, and prayers for His continued blessing on this nation and on this movement and on each of you."

The delegates, many weeping with Meany, roared back in tribute to him, and he, his face sullen, waved back. When he tried to gavel the ovation to an end, the delegates — for once — refused to give the iron-willed labor patriarch his way.

Although Meany's long stewardship over the 13.6-millionmember AFL-CIO has been criticized for not altering the federation's policies, there is little evidence so far at the convention that delegates would heed Meany's call for new policies, at least immediately.

There will be a new leader, AFL-CIO Secretary-Treasurer Lane Kirkland, Meany's protege and hand-picked successor.

Ma. establishes first lottery in nation to support the arts

By JOANNE D'ALCOMO
Associated Press

BOSTON — The nation's first lottery to support the arts became law in Massachusetts yesterday, but the state lottery director is worried it may hurt existing drawings that help limit property taxes.

"Massachusetts, which is taking a pioneering step, will show the rest of thw world how to support the arts," said House Ways and Means Chairman John J. Finnegan, a Boston Democrat who attended the Statehouse signing ceremony.

The arts lottery, scheduled to begin next year, is expected to generate $3 million a year to distribute to arts councils in nearly every city and town in the state. The yet-to-be-established arts councils will consist of five people — appointed by the community's governing body — who will decide how to allocate the money.

The minimum ticket price in the lottery would be $5.

But state lottery director William H. Perrault is concerned that the new lottery may cut into the take of the state's three other games of chance. They had a combined profit of $46.9 million during the last fiscal year's financial report.

"Such a continuous (arts lottery) game would severely, negatively impact other sales, thereby further reducing the net economic benefit of the new game," Perrault wrote to legislators earlier this year.

Profits from existing lotteries are distributed to the state's cities and towns, and help hold down the property taxes which are their principal sources of revenue.

Perrault also questioned the wisdom of creating a lottery for the one cause "to the disadvantage of other worthy charities."

"Once a special interest is successful in having the state operate a lottery for it, many other worthwhile groups would expect similar treatment, and who can blame them?" he said.

The concept first was proposed in the Legislature three years ago by a special legislative Commission on the Performing Arts.

"We were mandated to come up with new new methods of funding for the performing arts — but they couldn't involve new taxes," said Jacqueline O'Reilly of Foxboro, a commission member.

Mrs. O'Reilly said the commission borrowed the lottery idea from Australia, which she said has the only other government-sponsored lottery for the arts in the world. The arts lottery in New South Wales raises $15 million a year, she said.

Perrault, however, said arts patrons should not expect to match the successful Australian experience because that country has "a large Anglo-Saxon population with a traditional affection for gambling."

Community arts organizations, which frequently have difficulty finding enough income to stay afloat, look forward to the lottery.

"It's a good way of getting public support for the arts," said Mark Lawrence, the director of the East Boston Arts Council, which operates workshops and offers technical assistance to artists.

Fee hikes not yet reviewed

By JIM LENNOX
Collegian Staff

No discussion of the proposed student rent and fee increases was heard by presstime last night in a meeting between University administrators and student representatives. A variety of other campus programs did present requests for fees to take effect next fall.

All requests are subject to UMass Board of Trustee approval.

Last night's fee review was held between members of the University administration and the student rents and fees committee, a representative of the student body that challenges proposed increases. It receives copies of the budget proposals and then investigates the validity.

Reasons cited by the administration for the various increases have all primarily centered on inflation and its impact on costs of maintenance, transportation, food and administration itself.

The subject of the residence halls and dining commons increases for the next academic year came at the end of last night's meeting, after action had been discussed on other smaller items concerning special programs within the University.

Because the meeting last night was strictly for consideration of proposals, no immediate action was taken by the committee. However, the committee listened to the following groups: the University day care centers, commencement committee, Placement Services, Health Services, and Performing Arts.

Director of Health Services Barry Averill requested a $12 per student fee increase, and a corresponding 25 cent per week summer hike in health charges. Claiming cutbacks have already been made in mental health and nursing staffs and through the elimination of the summer dietary staff, Averill said the increase is needed to maintain operation and avoid prescription increases.

The Placement Service requested a $10 fee for seniors and graduate students, to continue operating a country-wide computer job placement program, according to director Arthur Hilson.

The Performing Arts Division last night asked for a new $3 per semester fee to subsidize ticket prices and artists' fees, and continue to provide a wide-range of cultural events. Controversy on this issue centered around the lack of student input into the distribution of the fee.

The administration's proposed increases for campus rents included: $914 for a double room, an increase of $120; $1,014 for a designated single, an increase of $220; and $1,064 for a double single, an increase of $270, according to figures published last week.

Madson denies staff charges of SW police harassment

By BRIAN O'CONNELL
Collegian Staff

University Vice Chancellor of Student Affairs Dennis L. Madson, speaking to the Faculty Senate yesterday, denied charges made by Residential staffs in Southwest that students living in that area were being harassed by campus police.

Earlier this month, dormitory staff members expressed outrage over police patrols and some officers, who identified themselves as the "SWAT Team," entering dorm rooms and "harrassing" individual students.

According to UMass Legal Services Attorney Charles DiMare, these patrols are in violation of students' rights, and may be illegal.

Madson told faculty members that campus police "were not going into bedrooms and halls," and added "some security precautions have been taken."

"We're not here to harass the students," Madson said.

Madson also said the University was "hard pressed" to allocate money to improve faulty lighting on campus. He cited the areas around the library and residence halls as "high priority areas." Madson also reported a decrease in false fire alarms on campus last weekend.

Saying that students "have to take responsibility for their guests," Madson announced that the University intends to force dormitory students to sign-in visitors and be held responsible for their guest's actions.

"This has not been a consistent policy in the past," he said.

In other matters, Vice Chancellor of Budget and Finance George Beatty told faculty members that one of the consulting firms investigating the UMass/Amherst library was released. The firm, LeMessurier Associates of Cambridge, was discovered to be the designers of the UMass/Boston library, also plagued by falling bricks.

Beatty said the Boston firm of Simpson, Gumpers and Hager will report on the library tower within a month.

The Faculty Senate's Library Committee also reported they would advise University administrators to allow undergraduates with "demonstrative" needs to use the library tower when it opens. The committee also said that up to 500 people would be allowed into the tower at one time.

Vice Chancellor Beatty said the reason for the limit was not physical. "This limit depends on the library staff's ability to handle this many people," he said. The library committee said that a total of ten library employees will be working at one time.

Student Government Association co-president Brian Burke told the Senate the University administration is "inadequate" in dealing with student problems.

★ Rally

CONT. FROM PAGE 1

said, "We do know what we're talking about, it's they (the administration) that makes us look like fools."

SGA co-president and student trustee Rich LaVoice attacked the administration for its policies on lighting, police patrols, and the library closing. He cited a recent article in Boston Magazine as the primary motivation behind recent administrative action on violence. "There are better ways than Boston Magazine to light a fire under the administration," he said.

LaVoice said the proposed fee increases would make UMass an "upper class bourgeois school. We want every type of student here. We want a real university."

Addressing the crowd of about 200 which returned to the Campus Center, Field said he was in favor of increased lighting and also said plans were underway to install new lights. He said police patrols in the dormitories should be stopped, and added he felt the library should be opened for students to do research.

When questioned about fee increases, Field admitted he did not know "what the answer is." He said costs are up, and as a result, the higher fees are being assessed.

Field said, however, that neither he nor any other single administrator had the power to make decisions on the issues.

Following the meeting with Field, several groups were formed to discuss what would be done next by the students. Joel Weissman, SGA co-director of communications, said a "candlelight vigil" would be held Monday night at Koffler's house on Orchard Hill. He said the protest, being held to demand action on lighting, would begin at 7:30 p.m. in the Student Union Building.

Thanks to Peter Wagscal, you can now find entertainment in a computer through the Future Resource Center, open Monday through Friday 9-11 a.m. and 1-5 p.m. (Photo by Steve Thomas)

Future Center holds open house visitors try to beat the computer

By NORM WHITEHURST
Collegian Staff

Where can you go to "refight,' the battles of the Civil War, control a Patriots and Cowboys football game, or even be "whimped out" by a six-year old pre-school intellect?

Well, thanks to Future Studies Director Peter Wagschal and members of the Future Studies Program, such a place now exists on campus in the School of Education basement.

In its open house yesterday, the newly-developed Future Resource Center catered to the needs of students of every age. College students as well as five and six-year-olds from the Marks Meadow School adjacent to the School of Education Building toured throughout the center, picking up literature about the future and testing their skills against the many computerized games available there.

Present at the center were students of the Future Studies Program who taught others how to work the computers and explain various aspects of the future.

Michael Kendra of the UMass L-5 Society, a group that studies the possibilities of space colonies, explained the advantages of extra-terrestrial living. "It's not a far-fetched idea," said Kendra. "It's been studied by NASA and it's possible that such colonies could exist before 2000."

When asked what the purpose of outer space living was, he replied, "It would be solar powered and could beam some of the sun's energy to the earth. Also it would provide jobs for thousands of people in technical fields."

Also available at the FRC are hand-held computer games such as "Alfie", and "Major Morgan" for children, and games such as Cosmic Wimpout and larger computers which are plugged into the source network that included educational programs.

These larger computers are programmed for various undertakings from war games to football games and from biorhythmic and horoscope charts to UPI news bulletins.

Aside from the entertainment component of the center, there is an academic component. This also uses computers for solving problems in just about any subject.

The center contains a large assortment of books and films dealing with the future.

"Cosmic Wimpout", a popular game on campus, is used for educational purposes at the center. According to Katherine Reynolds, Master Special Education Teacher in Fairfield, Connecticut, the game reinforces simple math concepts and logic and decision making skills.

Kathy McKay, a teacher at the Marks Meadow School said, "I thought that the kids would be too young for the computers but now I can't pull them away."

The computers at the center are easy to use and step-by-step instructions are placed next to the machines.

"The open house is a huge success," a FRC member said.

Wagschal said he did not expect the center to be as crowded and hectic in the future. "The youngsters from Marks Meadow were here in bunches today because it was opening day and teachers wanted to introduce the kids to the center," he said.

Wagshcal is hoping for more equipment to be added to the center and possible expanding the "only-one-of-its-kind" center to other areas.

The FRC will be open to the public Monday through Friday 9-11 a.m. and 1-5 p.m.

Black Affairs

Ron Art brought his incredible talents back to the UMass campus this week, and dazzled hundreds of passersby with his unique art. His secret he says is that he never cleans the brush. (photo by Ed Cohen)

It all happened by accident

By MARCIA HOSPEDALES
Collegian Staff

It is not an everyday experience to walk through the Student Union Building and find growing crowds and music filling the entire lobby. Nor is it common to see such an amazing spectacle three days in a row. However, this has been the case this past week as crowds of students, ever increasing, stood stunned as they witnessed the thoughts of an artist being put on canvas. The fascinating thing about the artist, Ron Art, is the incredible speed with which each painting is produced. So amazing is Ron's performance that the production of each new painting is easily comparable to any act in the best of magic shows.

A couple of minutes, that's all it takes and something new is created. No one knows exactly what the next subject will be. Not even the artist. Ron uses a canvas square for the basic board. With three strokes of the brush, the background is set. Then he adds a few drops of oil paint which he scrapes with this pallet knife and P-R-E-S-T-O, yet another piece is created before the eyes of an amazed crowd. "It takes 2½ to 3 minutes to complete a painting when I'm not rushing," he said.

Ron stands about 6 feet 2 inches and works in an environment in which everything seems to be a product of his own creation. His once green coveralls now covered with paint presents a design in itself and attests to a long history of service to its owner. Even the stereo on which he plays music all day long is now under a couple of layers of paint.

Ron uses the music for relaxation and the composition of the painting is never predetermined. His secret is that he never cleans the brush. Each creation is started with the color that's already on the brush. He simply adds more color to it and "once the color is set, the composition comes naturally," he said.

His paintings are generally of swamps and waterfalls. According to Ron they are something that people can relate to and are still to some extent, untouched by man.

"Waterfalls show strength. They are alive and never die," he explained.

Perhaps the most interesting aspect of Ron's career is that he has never had any formal training in art. The technique which he calls "Ron Art" was discovered by accident. "The idea just came to me one day," he said.

When he leaves UMass today, Ron "Art", originally from Philadelphia, would have completed another leg of his national tour. He plans to visit many other cities and university campuses.

Political debate?

With the Thanksgiving holidays around the corner, I suddenly realized that the semester was drawing to a close. It seems incredible that I have been at UMass for a year and half now.

In high school I painted a perfect picture of college life. I just knew that college would be brimming with stimulating and intellectual conversations. I couldn't wait to leave the humdrum world of talk about parties, getting high and the fine boy in your history class. In fact, I began to read the New York Times daily during the summer so that I would be ready for a political debate.

I arrived on campus, smiling at every black face I encountered. I got all sort of reactions; people dropped their eyes, pretended like they didn't see me or looked me dead in the face as if to say 'who the hell are you?'

Well, I didn't let that reception bother me. Eventually I got introduced to the black community here. The next week a few smiled and one girl even ventured to say hi, over her shoulder as she picked up her pace.

And then the death of Seta Rampersad occured. I asked my girlfriend, who was a sophomore, if she knew her. Why was she found dead in a motel room? She said, "Oh, she was pretty, real tiny, you know? Are you going to the party tonight?" I continued to ask questions and I received the same type of attitude from others. "Well you can expect that sort of thing around here, didn't anyone tell you? Oh well that's UMass!"

Commentary

I was horrified. A girl was dead and the general concensus was light pity. There were rallies and petitions, speeches etc. to reopen her case, but it seemed that the major portion of the black community was more concerned with the date of the Battle of the D.J.'s.

I decided to take a different approach. I attended the parties, doing the rock until five and six the next mornings. I sat down in the horseshoe in Southwest during the warm weather and commented on the players' legs, I cut classes to watch my soap operas. I was tired, my mid-term grades were low but I was at all the social happenings.

Second semester I returned minus a couple of comrades. Seems that their extended probation came to an end. There were new students, their semester off was over and they were returning for a semester without probation.

I started a course of hibernation. I moved to a quieter residence and attended my classes and returned to my room. I studied a lot, went to a party or two and enjoyed the company of individual people. I attended a few cultural events, but somehow I felt I was missing something.

I like the social aspects of college. I like an occasional party, I enjoy fooling around with a gang of friends and sometimes I even enjoy some light gossip.

There's nothing wrong with all of these separate aspects of college life. No, it is not a perfect picture where students walk around dying for the chance to learn, nor can college be just one social event. We are here for the chance to grow, intellectually as well as emotionally. Somewhere a balance must be obtained.

This semester I became seriously involved with Black Affairs. I was enthused and happy about the job. A few freshmen showed an interested in learning about journalism. It looked like the year was going to be fruitful.

It's Thanksgiving now and I can't seem to locate these freshmen. I hope that they are having political debates somewhere. I hope that they will return next semester minus the probation plan. But, I also seriously hope that they are able to attend some parties, some cultural events and even return to the Black Affairs.

There are things on this campus to be interested in, there are interesting people to meet and cultural and social events to attend. There are clubs that wish to see a growing membership. It is time for the black community to learn something more than to recite Rapper's Delight.

Karen Thomas

Food for thought

During most of this semester, people have been asking "What's happening." This has been expressed for Homecoming, concerts and other programs since the "Knee Deep" party in September. With the semester coming to a close, there are still some programs of interest to the community.

On Thursday, a few people met to discuss plans for

Commentary

Kwanza. Kwanza is the seven African principles that represent the Black Celebration in December. The group's main focus was brainstorming ideas for the week long program. Programs being considered will be a concert through the Duke Ellington Music Series, gospel show, two plays, children show, art exhibit, fashion show and a film. Most of the events are still tentative but interested individuals can contact the Office of Third World (Rm 308 S.U.B. or call 545-2517 for the next meeting date.

The second area of concern is the mid-December call of rationales by all Student Senate organizations. Historically, people have had problems putting together rationales, budget requests and explaining their past and present expenditures. Because these problems have been consistent, the community has lost numerous organizations (Black Scientist Society -1978, WEBD -1978, Eco Latino, Black Psychology -1974, and Third World Centers -JFK, and John Adams). This is not to mention the number of organizations that have been systematically cut. Last year, an attempt was made to remove the hassles faced by most groups. A subcommittee was formed to assist all Black and Third World organizations. But this semester the committee has not functioned. The announcement of the mid-December deadline, will force our organizations into more panic. In order to reduce the problems, the Office of Third World Affairs will be reactivating the Budget review group. People having an interest or experience should contact the office.

In conclusion, the problems associated with the Black Homecoming and other events have been the lack of interest by the community. Because of this the weight of brainstorming, advertising and running around has fallen on a few people.we have a choice now, of preparing ourselves for sound programming in December and February, or placing the community in its old predicament.

Earl Brown

Cease fire in sight

By MAUREEN JOHNSON
Associated Press

LONDON — Both sides at the Zimbabwe Rhodesiapeace talks accepted Britain's plan for interim administration on Thursday, raising hopes for a final agreement within two weeks to end the war that ravages the country.

The peace talks now move to the final stage — cease-fire negotiations.

Foreign Secretary Lord Carrington, the conference chairman, said he was "delighted" by the agreement, extracted after weeks of hard bargaining and thinly veiled British threats to recognize Prime Minister Abel Muzorewa's embattled administration if the guerrilla alliance persisted in its objections.

Twenty-four hours of intense communication culminated in a crucial meeting of all parties Thursday morning, a day after Carrington's last deadline for guerrilla acceptance expired.

Britain amended its original plan to specify that the Patriotic Front guerrillas would, like government troops, come under direct authority of the proposed British governor during the cease-fire.

Concerts

In Concert: Mary Watkins, Linda Tillery and Rashida Shah, Friday, November 16 at 8:00 p.m. at the FAC. An evening of Black Women's Music, including popular Boston area jazz vocalist. Jazz and jazz fusion will be presented tonight. Tickets: $5.00

Taller Ausubo presents "De Lejos Vengo Cantando", "I Come Singing from Afar" on Friday, Nov. 16 at 8 p.m. in Bowker Auditorium.

LUTHER By Brumsic Brandon, Jr.

Dave Dennison, (right) and two other members of the UMass Outing Club take a break while climbing in the Great Gulf Wilderness Area in the White Mountains of New Hampshire. (Staff photo by Pat Hafey)

Correction

The brunch and lecture Sunday sponsored by the UMass Hillel will be on "Intermarriage," not "Responses to Anti-Semitism," with UMass Afro-American Professor Julius Lester as reported in yesterday's Collegian. That lecture is scheduled for Dec. 2. Both begin at 11 a.m. for the brunch and 11:45 for the lecture.

Got something on your mind? Why not let 25,000 other people know by writing a letter to the Collegian?

THE MAGNIFICENT WRITING MACHINES

Smith-Corona® Typewriter Models

SMITH-CORONA® ENTERPRISE

Middle-weight electric at a budget price has cartridge ribbon system.
- Light enough to travel with you.
- Type letters with real carbon film.
- Quick, clean cartridge corrections.
- 84-character keyboard, extra-wide carriage and powered return.
- Rugged double-walled case included.

sug retail $249.50
our reg $199.95

SPECIAL*
$15 OFF
ONLY
$184.95

SMITH-CORONA® 2500

sug retail $369.50
our reg $315.50
SPECIAL*
$25. OFF
ONLY
$290.50

CARTRIDGE ELECTRIC FOR LETTERS WITH EXECUTIVE LOOK.
A deluxe, business-like portable.
- Versatile cartridge ribbon system.
- Quick, clean corrections with Re-Rite cartridge.
- Rich black carbon film ribbon.
- Paper injector and check protector.
- Wide carriage and office-size keyboard.
- Deluxe double-walled case included.

VISA
Mastercharge
American Express
accepted

*specials limited to typewriter in stock. offer ends December.21

campus center/umass
the UNIVERSITY STORE

Earn $500.00 weekly in your spare time. Addressing envelopes. For details, send self-addressed stamped envelope to F.I.S. P.O. Box 435-T, Danvers, MA. 01923

SUGARBUSH VERMONT presents

A WARREN MILLER FILM

WINTER FEVER

90-minutes of exciting ski action and adventure. The Bushnell Memorial Hall, Hartford, Ct.;8:00 p.m.November 19,1979.

Tickets available at the Bushnell box office and all ticketron outlets.

ESKIM'S CLOG SHOP
SALE still on
7 Pleasant St. Northampton 586-2528

Authoritative guides for making the right decisions

CAREERS TOMORROW
By GENE R. HAWES
The first and only guidebook that concentrates on those career areas which will have substantial growth during the 1980s. Drawn from the latest Department of Labor statistics, it reveals the highest-paying, most secure professions in the coming years. More than 100 are discussed, with information about:
- the character of the work
- the personal qualifications required
- the salaries and personal satisfactions offered
- working conditions
- advancement and related careers
- the best method for "breaking in"

and much, much more.
PLUME Z5214 $4.95

YOUR CAREER
How to Plan It, Manage It, Change It
By Richard H. Buskirk
Drawn from case histories, this guide covers topics such as career goals and planning, college versus experience, the boss, termination, office politics, image, and more. Stresses choice, not chance, in shaping the future.
MENTOR MJ 1537 $1.95

LOOKING AT LAW SCHOOL
Edited by Stephen Gillers
The most esteemed law professors in the country offer invaluable advice on every aspect of legal training and practice. Essential information for both planning a general law education and selecting a specialization.
MERIDIAN F477 $4.95

CAREERS TODAY
By Gene R. Hawes; Mark Hawes and Christine Fleming
An up-to-date guide to securing over 150 different types of jobs with good income and growth potential, requiring two years' training or less.
PLUME Z5157 $3.95

HAWES COMPREHENSIVE GUIDE TO COLLEGES
By Gene R. Hawes
The only guide that ranks colleges good, better and best buys: the least expensive schools with the best programs and reputations. The only guide that lists schools categorically by state rather than alphabetically, offering the reader fresh insight and usefulness.
PLUME Z5183 $7.95

NAL
NEW AMERICAN LIBRARY
Education Department
120 Woodbine Street, Bergenfield, N.J. 07621

Norma Rae

Sat. Nov. 17 7, 9, 11 p.m. $1.00
by C.C. Program Council

•LIVE ENTERTAINMENT•

THE SAILCATS featuring MARION GROVES

FRIDAY AND SATURDAY
9:00-1:00
Nov. 16th & 17th

THE PUB
15 East Pleasant St.
AMHERST

BOOKS

two ways to buy books -you decide which way you paY

BY THE POUND
all the books in our sale area can be purchased at only $1.99/lb.

BY THE PRICE
in some cases the prices as marked are lower so you can by them that way!

come in for some fun and some great book values
at "the bookstore"

the UNIVERSITY STORE
campus center/university of massachusetts

★ Carter

CONT. FROM PAGE 1

The students who attacked and overran the embassy Nov. 4 have demanded that the United States return the deposed Shah Mohammad Reza Pahlavi to Iran for trial as a war criminal. The shah is being treated for cancer in a New York hospital and the U.S. government has flatly refused to bow to the Iranian demand.

Carter's efforts to negotiate with the Iranian government have been stalled at every turn. His personal emmisary, Ramsey Clark, was not allowed into Iran and remained in Turkey for a week before being recalled on Wednesday.

The Iranian government also has resisted the efforts of third countries to negotiate the release of the hostages.

In his strongest attack on the Iranian government, Carter also said: "An embassy is not a fortress. There are no embassies that can long withstand the attack of a mob if the mob has the backing of the host government itself."

The president said it was "a clear tenet" of international affairs that a host government "is responsible for the safety and well-being of diplomtic representatives."

He said the situation calls for patience, perserverence and "measured, deliberate action."

Embassy funds not frozen

WASHINGTON (AP) — A growing number of Iranian students, concerned about their safety and faced with a possible shortage of funds, say they want to return home, a spokesman for the Iranian Embassy said yesterday.

However, the problem of money was at least temporarily resolved later yesterday when the Treasury Department said it would let the Iranian Embassy make payments to students.

Inner Space

FREE PACK of PAPERS with this ad!
Lowest Prices on headgear in the valley
57 E. Pleasant St.
Inside Paul's Old Time Furniture

FOR LOVERS
THE MOST INTIMATE BOOK OF POEMS EVER WRITTEN FOR LOVERS AND DREAMERS AND THOSE ALONE. IT'S AN IDEAL GIFT FOR YOURSELF AND THE ONE YOU LOVE; THEY WILL REMEMBER YOU ALWAYS. IN BLACK AND WHITE FOR THE TOUCH OF ELEGANCE.
For Your Copy:
Send $10.00
& Tax
VAN STEAD
303 FIFTH AVE.,
NEW YORK 10016

BETA
WORD PROCESSING CENTER
584-4247
We are a Typing Service
thornes marketplace
150 main st (3rd floor)
northampton ma 01060
WHERE THE PRINTED WORD COMES ALIVE AND GROWS
We Specialize in:
ROUGH DRAFTS
only 50¢ per page

FOUR SEASONS
Miller Beer 12 oz. btls..... case $7.49
Falstaff Beer 12 oz. cans..... case $5.49
Jim Beam Bourbon 1.75 ltr..... $10.99
Paul Masson Wines 1.75 ltr..... $3.49
Chablis, Burgundy, Rhine, Rose
WE HAVE THE LARGEST WINE SELECTION
WINE DISCOUNTED BY THE CASE
Wines/Liquors
rte.9, hadley, ma./584-8174
in front of the malls

THE AMHERST DELICATESSEN
BAGELS, LOX, KNISHES, DELI SALADS, CHEESE CAKE
SOUPS, DELI SANDWICHES, PASTRIES, CHEESE, PICKLES, ASSORTED BEVERAGES
WE DON'T MAKE SANDWICHES... WE BUILD THEM
OPEN TIL 2 A.M.
Amherst Carriage Shops 549-6314

The Holyoke Police Department
Needs Minority Candidates to Fill 14 projected openings in the Holyoke Police Department

To qualify for employment with the Police Department, you must sign up now to take the Police Civil Service Test of December 1, 1979.
Last date for applications is November 13.

Special training classes on how to take the Police Civil Service Test will start November 19-30, 1979 at local sites.

To sign up for the classes and the test contact:

Office of Compliance
Room 402
City Hall Annex
Holyoke, Mass.
536-8222
536-8223
Ext. 36

Holyoke Police Dept.
City Hall Annex
536-6431

South Holyoke
Development Corp.
344 Main St.
Holyoke, Mass.
532-1406

whole wheat PIZZA FACTORY
Introduces:
THE WORKS
Pepperoni, Onions, Mushrooms, GreenPeppers and Sausage
Regularly $8.00
From 5:00 - 10:00 only
7 days
$2.00 off
363 Main St. 256-8587

Editorial/Opinion

UMass: A dog with 2 masters

Jack Gallagher

Two dogs continually lie on this campus.

One of the mutts sleeps; the other eats. But the sleeper woke up yesterday, for a little while outside of its pen. But the other mutt continued to eat, leaving little for the awakened one.

And such is the way it has gone on, now, for quite a while.

That the eating dog doesn't sleep here is a given, and, conversely, that the sleeping dog doesn't eat here is a given,too. The eating dog thinks its relationships with the sleeping dog is symbiotic, however, while the sleeping dog doesn't think such is the case at all.

What the eating dog says to the sleeping one is: "You never do any work, so why should you sleep?" And the sleeping dog says to the eating dog: "I have to sleep before I can go to work."

Thus, the sleeping dog is always on the defensive, answering the eating dog's questions. The eating dog doesn't sleep here, though, so the sleeping dog's inadvertant questions fall on no, rather deaf, ears.

Further, both sets of ears are floppy. So it is harder to hear each; harder than usual for sleeping and eating dogs to communicate.

And in the middle of this dogfight is a school, answering the sleeping dog's questions while taking orders from the eating dog. That neither dog serves a master is a given, and that the dog serves both dogs is debatable.

□

There was a dogfight of some kind yesterday in the bowels of a place called Campus Center. But it was only a sideshow. The top dogs are never present, except at mealtime. Mealtime usually consists of lobsters when the top dogs scurry to their bowls.

If the sleeping dogs get to eat at all, it is usually Alpo.

The school sometimes get the top dogs' leftovers.

And sometimes the sleeping dogs are thrown the proverbial bone.

□

Sleeping dogs do not lie.
Eating dogs do.

Jack Gallagher is Associate Executive Editor.

Letters

UMass Alumni Assoc.: Koffler's actions correct

To the Editor:

The Executive Committee of the Alumni Board of Directors commends Chancellor Koffler for his prompt, firm, and judicious response to the increase in violence and vandalism on the Amherst campus. We recognize that the students in 1979 face many problems not of their making: ever tightening budgets, an economy which makes their post-graduate futures unsure, internal building construction problems which make studying and on-campus residence difficult, and soaring educational costs.

We also recognize that the image and prestige of our University must be molded jointly by the students, faculty, alumni, and administration. For our part, we have pledged our efforts and finances toward urging our peers to support increased funding for the campus. We believe that through this effort we can assist the University in maintaining and improving its academic quality.

We urge the student body to assist us in this endeavor. We urge that you be cognizant of your personal actions on campus. Violence, racial incidents, and vandalism make all our efforts more difficult and have no place on a college campus composed primarily of responsible and hard working adults.

William L. Mahoney
President
Univ. of Mass. Alumni Association

Women being abused: Self-respect the utmost

To the Editor:

In response to "Concerned Women":

This is one woman who is not very concerned about what happened to a "helpless" girl who got drunk and went to the upstairs of a fraternity house to sleep it off. The "concerned woman" who wrote the editorial has no right using the incident to hurt the name of a fraternity that has an unblemished reputation. She gives an example — using a weak illustration — of the way in which women are "used" by men.

If some women had more respect for themselves and exercised a little self-control when it came to drinking and sex, perhaps they wouldn't wake up in the morning feeling "second rate."

People, regardless of their sex, who act like tramps are going to be treated as such. Men are not monsters. They are human beings who, given the chance, will take advantage of a situation in much the same fashion any woman would.

In closing, I would like to express my admiration for a group of men who are genuinely loving and supportive of one another — the brothers of Phi Sigma Kappa. In addition, they have always treated me and my friends in a respectful manner.

Virginia Lee Stevens

The Executive: An 'exclusive' power

To the Editor:

I am refering to Stephen Klein's editorial-letter of Nov. 13, in which he generalizes some rules over which he seems to know nothing about. Such as saying that Spartacus Youth League (S.Y.L.) is an Iranian group. Just for your information, the S.Y.L is an American organization and none of the Iranian students of UMass are members.

Worst, he even goes as far as asserting that the Nazi Party supports the Iranians who are holding the 60 hostages. Who gives him the right to make-up such an unbelievable story?

One morally, if he feels any responsibility, would not print any such garbage based on untrue facts; even though he has that exclusive power to abuse as Collegian's executive editor.

Vahid Abbaspour

DVP 'takes the cake': Dayan for $10,000?

To the Editor

This takes the cake! In a recent article in the Collegian, the Distinguished Visitors Program manifested an interest in inviting former Israeli Defense Minister Moshe Dayan to speak here at the University of Massachusetts. The cost is to be nothing less than a mere $10,000.

I would just like to remind students and faculty that if not for this man's aggressive, imperialistic ambitions there probably would never have been a "seven-day war." Now, think this through... there would have been no consequent malice by O.P.E.C. nations [because of the United States siding with Israel], and there would have been no oil embargo in 1973, which has brought the once mighty United States to its knees.

So, the next time one is waiting in a line to pay over a dollar a gallon for gasoline, or reading about a family less fortunate than most, who can not afford to heat their home to a subsistant temperature, think of how incredibly ignorant it would be to give this man so much as a nickel!

Name withheld by request

From Amherst High: UMass kids, 'Grow up'

To the Editor

I accepted the invitation of the Butterfield residents to come up and see their new sidewalk. I would like to say that I disagree with their comments. I don't think it is doltish or insensible to build a sidewalk for the safety of all people who have to walk on that hill, even if it does take a few feet of the students' play yard.

Where were "concerned students in Butterfield" when someone put sand in the gas tank of the heavy equipment parked on the hill. Do they know or even care that someone snapped the break cable on the loader putting people's lives in danger?

I am a student at Amherst Regional High School and I think it is about time for some of the UMass students to grow up. All you do is complain about everything and everybody. I think it is "unnecessary, aesthetically laughable, insensible, and doltish" to leave your nice furniture out in the rain and snow, to write bad things on the walls, to smash glass all over campus, to tip over dumpsters, to shoot off fire extinguishers, to tear the sinks off the wall, and etc.

The men and women who work for the physical plant and have to clean up after some of you probably feel that your acts are "ludicrous, wasteful, and intellectually barren."

Name withheld by request

A conventional view: 'Homosexuality a sin'

To the Editor:

As unpopular as the view is, homosexuality is a sin. But this isn't where the basic problem lies.

Homosexuality is only one of the many possible manifestations of a sin we are all guilty of, idolatry. If this sounds archaic, wait a minute and hear me out. We do not love the Lord, our God, with all our heart, soul, mind and strength. We love other things instead; our careers, our possessions or our present or future status in the community. We do not serve God with all our strength, we serve ourselves instead. We worship ourselves and this is idolatry.

After all, this is the "Me" generation in which realization of one's ideal self-image is all that is really emphasized. Consequently, we have exchanged the truth about God for a lie and worship and serve what God has created instead of the Creator Himself.

Because we do this, God has given us over to shameful passions. Women pervert the natural use of their sex by unnatural acts. In the same way, men give up natural sex relations with women and burn with passion for each other. Because we refuse to keep in mind the true knowledge of God, He has given us over to corrupted minds, so that we do the things that we should not. We are filled with all kinds of wickedness, evil, greed and vice.

We are full of jealousy, murder, fighting, deceit and malice. We gossip, speak evil of one another, are hateful of God, insolent, proud and boastful. We think of more ways to do evil, we disobey our parents, are immoral and break our promises. We show no kindness or pity to others.

Even though we know that God's law says that people who live in this way deserve death, yet, not only do we continue to do these very things, but we approve of others who do them also.

Barbara Rasco

NEW WAVE— New wave becomes success as thousands flock to concerts

By JEFF STEIN
Collegian Staff

New wave music is here to stay.

After facing about four years of turbulence and opposition, new wave has finally established itself as a sellable commodity.

When the Talking Heads came to Bowker Hall last year, the show sold out, but not until the day of the concert. Yet this year they sold out the Fine Arts Center in one day. There are many possible reasons for this and none are definite, but the fact remains—there is a significant change in peoples' musical taste.

Further proof of the rise of new wave was offered last Friday night when the Motels and the Scinceros played together at the Blue Wall. It was expected that the long weekend and the band's newness would stunt ticket sales. Yet the $1 show sold out in advance and the crowd was more enthusiastic than at any Blue Wall concert in recent years.

New Wave music is no longer taboo or barbarian, it has become a viable alternative.

Record companies also begun to take new wave more seriously to the point where the majority of new releases are, in one way or another, new wave. One recent sentiment that echoed through the industry is that disco sold more clothes than it did records. Obviously then disco isn't so popular. And the trend seems to have shifted to new wave.

TURN TO PAGE 12

HOLLY NEAR
IN CONCERT
Tuesday, December 11

Join Us for Breakfast
at the
TOC Restaurant
7:00 A.M.-9:00 A.M.
Monday-Friday

Youth is our Concern
The Piarists are a Catholic Order of priests and brothers who dedicate their lives to educate the young. They work in schools, CCD programs and parishes. For more information, write:
Vocation Director
The Piarists
363 Valley Forge Road
Devon, Pennsylvania 19333

Atkins Greenhouse Special
Fri. Nov. 16 thru Thurs. Nov. 22
African Violet
95c
in a 2½" pot
This week come to Atkins Greenhouse where you save on all your plants and fresh flowers. We have assorted colors of carnations and mums, long and short stem roses, ferns and baby's breath to choose from. Plus, we have a plentiful supply of mixed flowers arranged in beautiful bouquets for only $1.49. Our plants are the same florist quality but never the florist price.
Atkins Greenhouse
Corner of Rte. 116 and Bay Road
Amherst 256-6412

The Hungry-U
WE ALSO FEATURE VEGETARIAN SPECIALTIES
549-5713
55 University Dr.

Brandeis University
JACOB HIATT INSTITUTE IN ISRAEL
What does it offer you?
- a semester of study in Israel in the Fall term
- coursework in English on the political, economic and social development of Israel and in its language, history and archaeology
- a strong program of Hebrew language study
- important internship opportunities in social service agencies in Jerusalem
- field trips, study trips, interviews with prominent Israelis, a kibbutz visit
- financial aid is available

Application deadline: March 15
For further information, see your Study Abroad advisor or write
Office of International Programs
Brandeis University
Waltham, Massachusetts 02254
(617) 647-2422
Brandeis University admits students of any race, color, national or ethnic origin, sex, age, or handicap to all its programs and activities.

Spirit Haus
Liquor Store
The Area's Largest Selection of
Imported & American Wines
New Tremendous Selection of Imported Half Bottles
WINE SELECTION
Riunite.....$2.39 fifth
Marques de Caceras Rioja '73.....$3.99 fifth
Louis Latour Beaujolais '78.....$3.99 fifth
Breckenridge Cellars.....$5.99 4 liters
Almandin Burgundy.....$6.49 3 liters
Martini & Rossi Vermouth (sweet & dry).....$3.29 fifth
Popov Vodka.....$4.99 qt.
Canadian Mist 80°.....$6.95 qt.
Highland Piper 12 yr. old Scotch.....$12.49 1.75 liters
PM.....$10.99 1.75 liters
Stolchnaya.....$8.99
BEER
Miller 12 oz. cans or NR.....$7.59 case
Falstaff 12 oz. cans.....$5.75 case
Falstaff 12 oz. returnables.....$2.95 12 pack plus deposit
Moosehead.....$2.99 six
Heineken 12 oz. NR.....$3.69 six $14.49 case
Karakus Polish 12 oz. NR.....$2.49 six
Labbats.....$2.69 six pack
10% Case Discount Available on Wine
Many Other In Store Specials
Ice, Kegs & Soda Available
338 College St (Rt 9) 253-5384
Amherst open till 11:00
not responsible for typo errors

The Bluewall Bar Presents:
LOOSE GABOOSE
Friday Nov. 16 - 9:00 P.M.
$1.00 Cover Charge
THE FOOLS

Saturday Nov. 17 9:00 P.M.
$2.00 Cover Charge
TOC Sticker and Valid ID
required to purchase alcohol

WEEKEND CONCERTS

In honor of Thanksgiving, the Fine Arts Center is presenting the New Globe Theatre in one performance only of the first theatrical comedy produced in the United States in 1787. Entitled, "The Contrast," the performance is tomorrow night at 8 in the Fine Arts Center Concert Hall. Tickets are $3 for students and $5 for the general public.

Also this weekend will be two free area concerts. Tonight at 8 the Smith College department of music will present a concert in Sage Hall in memory of the late Ernst Wallfisch who died this May and was a violist, violinist and member of the department since 1964. The program will include the Smith College Chamber Orchestra and members of the UMass music department playing a piano quartet.

And on Sunday, beginning at 2 p.m. and ending at midnight, there will be a benefit concert at Tassone's Lounge on Rt. 10 on the Easthampton-Northampton line. The concert will feature many acoustic and electric acts including Fine Line, Valley Partners, Williams and Vallan, Barney's Beanery, Paradise Rhythm Shoes, the Sailcats and Willow Creek.

A donation will be asked at the door to help Willow Creek lead guitarist Al Turati meet medical expenses incurred during his recent hospitalization because of cancer.

★ Hostages

CONT. FROM PAGE 1

Adding to the uncertainty was a report by Tehran radio, monitored in Washington, that Khomeini has canceled all appointments until Dec. 5 because of "slight fatigue and illness."

Iran's acting foreign minister, Abolhassan Bani Sadr, suggested Wednesday that the nonAmerican embassy captives might be freed by the weekend. Yesterday he told a CBS radio correspondent all women and "blacks" would be freed soon.

The State Department says six or seven of 15 women hostages are Americans.

The Amherst Music House & Guitar Workshop
Amherst Carriage Shops 549-1728
SAVE 40%
OFF RETAIL PRICE ON
NEW GIBSON, GUILD
OVATION, YAMAHA, GUITARS
with this coupon

BAGEL DELI
Best in the Valley for:
•whole wheat pastries
•lox & eggs
•blintzes & potato pancakes
•fresh bagels
•omlettes
•frozen yogurt
28 Pleasant St. Northampton

To Serve Studying Students
the Campus Center will provide food service in
THE HATCH CAFETERIA
in the evenings
Monday-Friday 5:00 pm-10:00 pm
On a Trial Basis

Bluewall
Happy Hour
The Weekend
Starts Here

GREAT
Blouses - Skirts
Gifts Cards Prices
Daily 10 am-6 pm Sunday 12-5 pm
THE MERCANTILE
AMHERST CARRIAGE SHOPS

UPC Productions and
AEC/SCANN present
Holly Near
ON SALE
MON., OCT. 19

Lesbian DISCO and Gay
Friday 9-1 $2.00
10th floor CC
Music-By Kurt Lights-B. Dwelli
Presented by the Lesbian Union
& Peoples Gay Alliance

150
THORNES
A MARKETPLACE
Fine Shops
Restaurants
The Art Department
galleries
150 Main St., Northampton,
open daily
9:30-5:30
thursdays
til 9:00

GOOD

$169
TEAC A-103
This low-priced reliable front loading dolby caseettte deck sets new standards for delivering the performance you want at a price you can afford.
BETTER

$300
TEAC A-500
The logic behind this Teac is in its feather-touch full-logic controlled transport. It also has high density ferrite heads, peak-reading db meters & superb high frequency performance. The Teac A-500 is as solid as they make 'em.
BEST

$439
TEAC A-550 RX
Tape hiss is practically a thing of the past with this new Teac thanks to built-in dbx II. With conventional tapes the signal to noise ratio is an incredible 80 db. Full metal compatibility.
SOUND & MUSIC
"Good Advice - Honest Price"
90-92 King Street
(Rte. 5)
Northampton
master charge
VISA
Thursday & Friday 'til 9
Mon.-Sat. 10-5
584-9547

DENBY'S

we can be your store

STOREWIDE 1-DAY sale

SATURDAY ONLY

NOVEMBER 17

save 30% men's astor one dress shirts
Reg. 10.00, 6.99. Large selection of long sleeve poly/cotton solids, 14½-17.
Men's

save 33⅓% men's haggar pants
Reg. 24.00, 15.99. Belted texturized polyester pants. Solids, easy care, 32.42.
Men's

save 20% men's cardigan sweaters
Reg. 25.00, 19.99. Cable front, pockets, collar. Acrylic and nylon, S-M-L-XL.
Men's

save 20% men's chenille sweaters — Reg. 15.00, 11.99. Great looking v-neck models in a host of colors, S-M-L-XL. Men's	save 30% men's snap front parkas — Reg. 50.00, 34.99. Pile lined detachable hood, poly/cotton shell, poly fiberfill. Brick, tan, 38-46. Men's	save 28% men's nylon parkas — Reg. 45.00, 31.99. Great colors. Nylon shell with warm fiberfill. S-M-L-XL. Men's	save 21% men's thermal underwear — Reg. 2/14.00, 2/10.99. Poly/cotton raschel knit for extra warmth. Machine washable, S-M-L-XL. Men's	save 25% boy's 8-20 sweater shirts — Reg. 12.00, 8.99. Warm acrylic knits in a wide range of colors and stripes. 8-20. Boys & Students	save 28% boy's 8-20 flannel shirts — Reg. 7.00, 4.99. Rugged warm cotton flannels. Assorted handsome plaids. Machine washable. Boys & Students save 10% wear-ever® silverstone — Reg. 9.99-50., 8.99-44.99. Entire stock. Non-stick cookwear from DuPont. Assorted sizes. Homemaker's Shop	save 33% wear-ever® pokey pot® slow cooker — Reg. 29.99, 19.99. 5½ qt. pokey pot, removable ceramic crock with plastic ventilated cover. Not in Hampshire or Holyoke	save 50% relish crystal gift sets — Reg. 6.00, 2.99. A relish set with servers. Beautifully boxed. Homemaker's Shop	save 38% hoan salad spinners — Reg. 12.95, 7.99. Gift item! Dries all vegetables and lettuce in a jiffy. Homemaker's Shop	save 20% carter's infant jamakin — Reg. 7.-9., 5.60-7.20. Soft pastels in terry. S-M-L. Young World, Not in Colonie	save 20% infants eden stuffed toys — Reg. 3.-16., 2.40-12.80. Adorable selection of cuddly soft animals. Young World, Not in Colonie save 30% all carnival bras & bottoms — Reg. 6.-7.50, 4.20-5.25. Fabulous selection of styles. Foundations	save 25% denby's own sleepwear — Reg. 12.-17., 9.00-12.75. Flannel or brushed nylon in long or short gowns and pajamas. Assorted, S-M-L. Lingerie	save 25% entire stock loungewear — Reg. 23.-26., 17.25-19.50. Polyester floats and caftans in solids and prints, S-M-L. One size fits all. Lingerie	save 20% girl's 7-14 pull-on pants — Reg. 9.00, 6.99. Basic styles in acrylic knits. Assorted colors. Young World.	save 25-40% girl's 4-14 velour tops — Reg. 8.00-10.00, 5.99. Long sleeved styles in a rainbow of fashion colors. Young World.	save 20% young men's levi's — Reg. 15.00 12.40 save on our basic stock. Young Men's save 20% entire stock pierced earrings — Reg. 2.-25., 1.60-18.75. Choose from assorted colors, tailored, basic and novelty styles. Accessories	save 25% all dearfoam slippers — Reg. 4.00, 8.00. Assorted scuffs, ballerina's, boots in a variety of solid colors. Accessories	save 25% entire stock totes umbrellas — Reg. 10.-16. Variety of folding, regular and deluxe sizes in solids and prints. Accessories	save 25% all acrylic & wool mufflers — Reg. 6.-9. Oblongs and squares in a wide assortment of plaids and solids. Accessories	save 15% entire stock dresses — Including half-sizes. 1 & 2 pc. styles. Including: Sue Brett, Leslie Fay, Lady Carol. Dresses	save 20% wendy winter ladies' pants — Reg. 22.00, 17.60. Acrylic and polyester pullons with mock fly-front and pockets. Solids, 10-18. Moderate Sportswear
save 15% misses' russ "night life" — Reg. 11.-21., 9.35-17.85. long & short skirts, pants, lurex and print tops, solid tops and tanks. Sportswear	save 20% entire stock women's blouses — On regular priced merchandise in assorted fabrics, prints and solids, 38-44. 'The Extra Room'.	save 20% entire stock ladies' coats — On regular priced coats. Wide array of fabrics, styles and colors. Coats	save 20% misses' long skirts — Reg. 16.00, 12.80. Polyester knits with tie belts and side slits, 8-18. Sportswear	save 20% ladies' v-neck sweaters — Reg. 16.00, 12.80. Collection of 100% acrylic in assorted colors. Machine washable, S-M-L. Moderate Sportswear	save 20% lady manhattan print blouses — Reg. 20.00, 15.99 Better woven polyesters blouses. Assorted prints, 10-18. Moderate Sportswear
save 40% russ coordinates — Reg. 13.-28., 7.80-16.80. Acrylic knit-/polyester skirts, pants, sweaters, jackets, blouses. Fall colors, misses sizes. Sportswear	save 15% donkenny pull-on pants — Reg. 14.00, 11.90. Stretch gabardine in six shades. Petite and average lengths, 8-18. Sportswear	save 35% misses plaid jumpers — Reg. 31.-35., 20.15-22.75. From Art Shirt. Acrylic plaid jumpers in a variety of styles. Sportswear	save 20% jr. novelty sweaters — Reg. 17.-23., 13.60-18.40. Fantastic group of styles in fashion colors, S-M-L. Jr. Sportswear	save 20% entire stock jr. skirts — Reg 15.-26.12. - 20.80 20. Great fashion looks in a range of styles, colors, fabrics, 5-13. Jr. Sportswear	save 20% smart alec terry tops — Reg. 15. & 18., 12.00-14.40. Popular novelty tops in a variety of colors. Long sleeved, S-M-L. Jr. Sportswear

USE YOUR CONVENIENT DENBY'S CHARGE, VISA OR MASTERCHARGE

Hampshire Mall (Hadley) * Holyoke Mall (Ingleside)

Around campus

Collins to speak to student leaders

State Rep. James Collins (D-Amherst) will be the keynote speaker at this Sunday's conference of the Massachusetts State Student Association, to be held at the UMass Boston Harbor Campus.

UMass Student Government Association President Richard LaVoice, also the president of the MSSA, said Collins will speak on "The Future of Public Higher Education in Massachusetts," focusing on proposed reorganization of the state's public higher education system, as well as the anticipated battle over the fiscal 1981 state budget.

The day-long conference is designed to inform student leaders from the state's 28 public colleges and universities about the legislative process, organizing and publicity techniques, and specific legislative proposals which may affect public higher education in Massachusetts.

SW center sponsors racism colloquium

The Southwest Center for Racial Studies is sponsoring a one credit colloquium this weekend on racism in society. The colloq will be held in the Hampden Dining Commons in the Southwest Residential Area from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. on both Saturday and Sunday.

Steve Coons, spokesperson for the center, said the program will cover the genesis of racism and comparative racial formations, educational and institutional racism, as well as the economics of racism.

He also said the program will be taught by a series of guest speakers including professors, area residential staff and others whose work deals with the problems of racism.

The program will be similar to the one sponsored last year by the Center which was considered very successful by all concerned, Coons said. Registration will be taken either in advance by calling the Center or by attending on Saturday morning.

—JEFF STEIN

Plan Your Weekend at the TOC Happy Hour

Holly Near
Tickets On sale
AT: Everywoman's Center, Disabled Students Office and Womon-frye Books

Featuring Shirts, Hats & Jackets with All Major Logos
SPORT SHACK
Red Sox
Patriots
Yankees
Cowboys
Hampshire Mall, Hadley, Mass.

COME Spend The Night With Us--
THIS SATURDAY - November 17

Bayshore Recording Artists
The SHADES formerly
ZONKARAZ
w/original vocalist-
Joanne Barnard

FAT CHANCE and

TOGETHER at THE RUSTY NAIL
(Rt. 47, Sunderland)
Great Music from 9:30 P.M. Till 2:00 A.M.

8:30 P.M.
The Bluewall Bar Presents in a Special Sunday Opening:

FX

"Jazz-Rock Fusion to the Max" is back on Nov. 18 ($1. cover) The band that appeared on Nov. 3 is back!! FX

TOC Sticker & Valid ID required to purchase alcohol

STADIUM
U. Mass. Amherst

KEGS—BEER—WINE—LIQUORS

— 253-5595 —

10 a.m. til 11 p.m.

SPECIALS

BUD 12 oz. bottles or cans.....$7.49 case $2.10 six
MILLER 12 oz. btls. or cans.....$7.49 case $2.10 case
MOLSON .....9.90 case 2.50 six
O'KEEFE CANADIAN ALE.....
$9.75 cs. $2.35 six
OLD MILWAUKEE 12 pack.....$2.89
MATEUS ROSE 750 ml.....$3.29
BLUE NUN LIEBFRAUMILCH 750 ml.....
$3.59
ALMADEN Chablis, Rose, Burgundy 3 liter..5.59
CARLO ROSSI WINE
Chablis, Rose, Burgundy 3 liter.....4.95
S.S. PIERCE VODKA 1.75 l.....$7.95
JIM BEAM _____1.75l $11.59
TUBORG GOLD 12 oz. btls..$6.99 cs $2.00 6
GALLO WINE
French Columbard, Rose, Chenin Blanc,
Sauvignon Blanc .....12.49 fifth $3.95 carafe

LIQUORS

adventura travel
549-1256
Airline Tickets
Amherst
Carriage Shops

FRYE

Save $40
Sale $55
Ladies 16" Cuff
(Limited sizes)
Over 50 styles
sizes 4-15
Heartfelt Leather
103 N. Pleasant St.
Downtown
Amherst

JAZZ

World Saxophone Quartet impresses CCA audience

By BILL SUNDSTROM
Collegian Staff

The World Saxophone Quartet marched into the Campus Center Auditorium Wednesday night playing like a dixieland band possessed by the spirit of John Coltrane. It wouldn't be the last time this important and creative group would reach far back into the history of Black American music for its inspiration.

The quartet, only three years old, consists of multi-instrumentalists Oliver Blake, Julius Hemphill, Hamiet Bluiett and David Murray. Each had gained a well-established reputation as an avant-garde musician before joining the group. Together, they constitute one of the freshest sounds in music anywhere.

The concert, sponsored by a number of student organizations under the rubric of the Duke Ellington Music Series, began with the stage devoid of musicians but cluttered with saxophones of various sizes, flutes and strangely sculptured wire music stands which were constructed by Hemphill himself. The quartet marched in while playing Hemphill's "Plain Song."

The quartet members are all graduates of the "free jazz" school, relying much on collective improvisations that tend to sound chaotic to the uninitiated. But like many other contemporary Black Classical musicians at the vanguard of their medium, the quartet mixes in styles from the entire history of the music: ragtime, blues, swing, bop and cool. At times, the quartet sounds like the sax section of a really hot band, sliding up and down in complex rhythms and harmonies.

Among the many impressive aspects to this group is its sense of rhythm, especially considering that it is not accompanied by a rhythm section. At times during the performance, the musicians moved from complex free improvisation directly to composed sections without misplacing a beat.

Quartet members showcased their talents on one of the evening's more memorable numbers, an Oliver Lake composition entitled simply "WSQ." After a lengthy section of accompanied and collective solos, each member of the group played an extensive a capela (without band). Murray, who played tenor and bass clarinet most of the night, started with a squealing tenor solo that demonstrated that this least-known member belonged with the other three. Lake followed an alto sax with an angular but swinging improvisation that contrasted nicely with Murray's.

Then came the best single solo of the night, a blistering, screeching alto frenzy by Hemphill, who seemed able to coax two or three notes out of his instrument at one time. Finally after all the others had left the stage and returned, Hemphill let Bluiett take over on baritone with a series of long, buzzy notes played without pausing to take a breath.

The quartet uses visual as well as aural effects; in fact, all the members except Murray are former members of the Black Artists' Group in St. Louis, which involved them heavily in theater. At one point during the concert the musicians danced around the stage while playing, and then joined at the center and caricatured a chamber ensemble, with Bluiett conducting the others with his flute.

The afternoon before the concert Lake offered a fascinating free workshop of music and poetry for a small crowd in Hampden Student Center.

One member of the audience asked Lake if his music is "avant-garde." I consider myself to be part of the continuum of Black music," Lake said. "I'm not avant-garde; that means being ahead of your time, and I'm here now. The labels divide us, put us against each other."

The concert was one of the more brilliant and daring to hit campus in quite some time. Hats off to the Ellington series for bringing these deserving but neglected geniuses to our attention. It might be added that with tenor giants Clifford Jordan and Dexter Gordon both blowing their way through the Five College area in the coming weeks, and that monster pianist Don Pullen due to show in early December, it promises to be the best semester for Black Classical music in recent memory.

★ New Wave

CONT. FROM PAGE 8

Still some say that by diluting new wave its following will expand greatly, others say this defeats the purpose. In either case new wave as we know it now is at a crux.

There are many variations of the new wave theme but the one which receives the most support from the buying public will eventually prevail.

Whether it will be the music of The Shoes, the B 52's, or Elvis Costello no one can tell at this point. I simply buy all three.

Collegian Classifieds

To place a Collegian Classified Ad
•Come to Collegian Office (CC 113)
•8:45 to 3:45, Mon. thru Fri.
•Classified deadline is 3:45 two days prior to publication day

Collegian Classified Rates
•15c per word
•Student rate 10c per word
•Cash in advance
•5 consecutive days, 5% discount
•Phone number FREE

AUDIO

Theatrix Rents Mirror balls and other Disco supplies. Lights for sale, new and used 323-7160

McIntosh Amp & Preamp Harmon Kardon Tuner, Dual Turntable Bill - 665-2810

AUTO FOR SALE

69 Chevelle needs some work, B.O. 256-0613

70 Capri Body good condition, 64000 AM-FM, snows, tuneup. $600 253-3194

73 VW Super Beetle Dependable transp., good gas mi., Call Eric 253-9233 BO

70 Mav 66,000, std., 22 mpg, AM-FM, AC, body gd, $650 BO Mike 546-6498

72 Opel-Cadet exc-cond-30-mpg-auto Call Jim 549-3672

72 Mustang Grande: Very good cond., auto, stereo, reg, gas, $1800 Call Steve 253-3782

68 Impala needs work or for parts $125 mornings 256-6279

1969 Red VW Microbus 30 mpg, new brakes and cables, rebuilt engine, spare parts, asking 800.00 549-3529

New and Used Parts for Triumph, Jaguar, MG and all English cars. Discount prices 586-2013

69 Belair must sell, engine excellent, 400 or B.O. 549-1399

ENTERTAINMENT

Good Times—DJ's for hire, disco and/or Rock, Call 546-4726 or 546-4777

Soundsystem for Hire perfect for bands, discos, coffeehouses Rick 584-4105

FOR RENT

Cliffside [illegible] bedroom apartment available [illegible] 665-3902 evenings.

1 Bedroom in three bedroom apt $118/month plus utilities start Jan., bus route 5-10 minute walk to campus, call 549-6537

FOR SALE

Portrait Drawing Dennis Delap, 256-8732

Ski-Jacket New men's small/women's 14, Karen 546-1159

2 Leather Jackets Walter Dyer Call 253-7103

1 American Airline ½-price coupon, $50 Call D[illegible] 546-5530

Unit[illegible] fare coupon 253-3877 evenings

2 ½ p[illegible] airline coupons call Debby 323-5[illegible]

Fu[illegible]ed w/frame & headboard. Call evenings 584-5077

Half-fare United coupon 549-5031

Fleetwood Mac tickets (2), Boston 549-6688

United Airlines Coupon for sale $50 or best offer, call 584-3357

Two United half price coupons $50 each or best offer, call 253-2541

Tires: Snows: (2) 6:50-13, studs, Dart/Valient rims; (1) 7:00-13; (1) 7:00-13, studs; (2) 6:50-13. Regular: (2) A78-13; (2) 5:90-15, VW Rims; (1) 165-15 Michelin X also (4) Volvo rims (early) 549-3529

United coupon $30/offer 256-0334 aft 5

3½ cu. ft. Refrigerator-Freezer: $80; Leather Armchair: $6; Wooden Chairs: $4 ea. Call to pick up Sat. 10-noon: 549-6024 Cash Only

Waterless Cookware 20 pc set, great Xmas gift, price reduced until Nov. 30 549-2867

United Airlines half price coupon best offer 546-9729

FOUND

Found Puppy approx. 2 mos., vic. Brandywine Apts. Call 549-6227 after 4 p.m.

Small silver necklace or chain found on UMass bus Saturday Night

HELP WANTED

Overseas Jobs—Summer/year round. Europe, S. America, Australia, Asia, etc. All fields, $500-$1,200 monthly, expenses paid. Sightseeing, free information write: IJC, Box 52-MC, Corona Del Mar, CA. 92625

Workstudy help needed at the Collegian hours 9:30-12:30 also Wed. afternoon 2:30-4:30 Call Kathy 545-3500 or stop by.

I need a tutor for Physics 162 immediately. One hour per week. Rate negotiable. Call Steve at 546-7133

Caretaker for 6 month old baby in our home. Mon., Wed., 2-4:30 P.M. Thurs. 1:00 P.M. on bus route $1.50/hr 256-6475

On Campus 3 Juniors, Seniors. One living in Northeast/Sylvan, Orchard Hill/Central, Southwest. Call Keepsake Diamond Showcase 536-8411 Holyoke Mall

Free Adorable Kitten 12 wks old, grey, we're moving and can't take her with us 546-6461

INSTRUCTION

Piano Instruction Experienced teacher. Beginners, intermediates. Call Liora Cohen 549-0721

LEGAL SERVICES

Attorney Jason R. Rosenthal General Practice Legal Representation for the Amherst, Mass community by apt. only days 584-4285 evenings 253-7617

LOST

Gold Watch sentimental value, gift from my parents, lost somewhere on Phillips St. or No. Pleasant. If found, call 6-7022 keep trying, reward

Lost Brown Leather Hat in Stud. Union. Reward for return. Lost on Thurs. Nov. 8 256-8075

Black and white female cat w/collar near Phillips and North Pleasant Call 549-4632

British Passport and UMass ID call 546-8809

Lost-Amplifier on Friday, Nov. 2 in front of Thoreau. Dynaco Stereo 80 is old and broken. Reward in $ or Herb. Call Dan at 6-7867

RIDE WANTED

Desparate: Ride needed for two to LI on Wed. Nov. 21 - Mike 546-6088

Washington DC Thanksgiving, will share expenses Maggie 546-4073

Desperately need ride anywhere near Potsdam, NY for Nov. 20th Call Karen 549-0112

Desparate Montreal Thanksgiving 546-1291

ROOMMATE WANTED

Male Roommate wanted to share room in 2 bedroom apt. $90 Brittany Manor Apts. 253-3967

2 Women roommates wanted for house one block from campus. Call 549-4620

2-3 Females to share lg. furnished apt. Jan-Aug 253-7619

Immediate Occupancy Brandywine $119 call 549-1049 1 room

Two Roommates to share one bedroom in Sunderland Apt. $90 & util., starting Jan 1 Call Johnn at 665-4792

ROOM WANTED

We need 2/3 bedroom apt starting Jan. Call 546-5226 or 546-5221

Looking for a 2 bedroom apt. Starting Jan. 1st Call 546-7093 or 545-3271

Female seeks room in quiet house Nancy 256-8610

PERSONALS

Sugarbush Hotel needs chambermaids Jan.-March includes lodging call Ski Club 545-3437 or Ken 549-6060

PRACTICUM: Intersession - 3 credits Spring semester 3-6 credits. Work in afterschool Day Care on Campus. For more info call Nancy Ross 549-6170

Congratulations Barri!

Free Black & White Cat 6 months, will deliver 1-527-5579

You took my brown tweed blazer sz. 9 Larry Levine at PICA party 11/8 and left your wine twd blazer. I have yours, you have mine-let's switch, please. No questions asked. Julie 549-2664 or 545-3500

Female Musicians Wanted to form band. Into Stones. Devento, Circle Drive, Box 132, Monroe, NY 10950

Presenting UMass'es first Lesbian and Gay disco Fri nite 10th floor CC 9-1. Admission is$2 Sponsored by the PGA and the LU

Anyone interested in tryouts for the Basketball Twirling Squad: Tryouts will be at the end of Nov. Call Wendy at 6-6175 for more information

Hey J.C.! Happy Day! Love, Rt. 9

To the jack of all trades in the C.C. yes, I did enjoy our roasty-toasty birthday kiss. Thanx!

Happy Birthday Kate Tanx for the night at Lenox Love Ray D. and the Entourage

"Am I really playing with your mind?"

Mike—Happy Birthday & I still love you. You get better with age ya know. Enjoy Bennie Buns

UMass concert photographs of Bonnie Raitt & Talking Heads call, respectively: Howard 665-7759 & Steve 5-2240 or 557-3002

SECURITY DEPOSIT PROBLEMS?

Have any questions about your security deposit? Do you think monies were unfairly deducted for repairs or cleaning? Did you get 5% interest? Do you know where your money is being held? Call the Security Deposit Task Force at UMass Legal Services 545-1995 or Off Campus Housing 545-0865

STURDY CAR

Study car 65 Buick, excellent condition, new battery, rebuilt carburator, 600 or BO 253-2772

SERVICES

"Attention Car Owners" Protect you auto with an alarm system. Up to 15% off insurance. One year guarantee 549-4041

TO SUBLET

1 bedroom Cliffside apt bus route, tennis courts, pool, available Jan 1, call665-4448

WANTED

Fast Immediate Cash for gold-school rings-diamonds-silver Jeff anytime 527-7078 586-0180

WANTED TO RENT

Wanted to Sublet 2 or 3 bedroom apartment for Spring Semester Call John or Pete 546-7477

2 Bedroom apt sublease pref Brittany Manor call after 6 546-9636 or 546-8170

Aluminum Foil by Steve Lafler

Nuke the Whales by Danny Guidera

Beasts by Rob Ranney

Norma B. by M.J. Galper

Doonesbury by Garry Trudeau

TODAY'S CROSSWORD PUZZLE

UNITED Feature Syndicate
Thursday's Puzzle Solved

ACROSS
1 Well known
6 Salad
10 Blurt
14 Anoint
15 Plus
16 English river
17 Marine group: 2 words
19 Hairless
20 Total
21 Riled
23 Legumes
25 Indeed
26 Some
27 Wing
29 Crustacean
31 Color
33 Wire measure
34 Grand —
36 Master in India
40 Futile
42 Lawmaker
44 Ramble
45 Potions
47 Colonist greeting
49 Girl's nickname
50 — Vegas
52 Flank
53 Finish
54 Brazilian tree
57 Give — — whirl
59 Pheasant broods
61 Barrow
64 Chinese city
67 Preposition
68 Poll term
70 Halt
71 Hangout
72 Shelve
73 Rabbit
74 Discover
75 Repose

DOWN
1 Confront
2 Shortly
3 Menu items
4 Miss Dinsmore
5 Take away
6 Dallas univ.
7 Soil
8 Marshal
9 Kind of bliss
10 Infant
11 Vine
12 Composer Harold —
13 A Roosevelt
18 Classes
22 Time periods: 2 words
24 Squelched: 2 words
27 During
28 Posh resort
30 Tree trunks
32 Corn unit
35 Out: 2 words
37 Lincoln: 2 words
38 Russian Tsar
39 Yield
41 Lamprey
43 "I refuse!": 2 words
46 Levantine ketch
48 Teachers
51 Commodity
54 Imitative
55 — del Este
56 John Jacob —
58 Districts
60 Inner: Anat.
62 Trust
63 Stumble
65 Leer
66 Turnip
69 Sob

DC menu

LUNCH
Torpedo Grinder
Tuna Noodle Casserole

BASICS LUNCH
Flat Bread Sandwich
Tuna Noodle Casserole

DINNER
Salisbury Steak/French Fried Onion Rings
Baked Fish/Lemon Slice

BASICS DINNER
Polynesian Vegetables
Baked Fish/Lemon Slice

EARTHFOODS
Enchiladas
Spanish rice
Black bean soup
Corn Bread

Central Area
Craft Shop-Greenough
next to the snack bar
OPENS NOV. 17th - SAT.
mon - thur 7-10 sat - 12-4
Silver, wood, photography ceramics, leather

NOTICES

The co-op is open to all in the five-college community.

Fri.

Josie LaTorre in concert, presented by Commuter Collective, $3.00 adm., 8 p.m., Bowker Auditorium.

Annual Great Ski Snatch, sponsored by Ski Club. 10 a.m.—10 p.m., Student Union Ballroom.

P.G.A. Disco, 8 p.m.—closing, $2.00 adm., Campus Center 1009.

Mad Hat Disco, sponsored by A.A.S.A., $1.50 with hat, $2.50 without hat adm., Hatch.

Center for Racial Studies presents BIRD OF MY LUCK, 8 p.m., Hampden Theatre, Southwest.

Linda Tilley—Mary Watkins—Rashida Shah concert, sponsored by Catalyst Newsstand, $5.00 adm. FAC Concert Hall, 8 p.m.

The Sporting Goods Co-op will have expanded hours during the ski sale. Please drop in for super bargains.

Sat.

NORMA RAE. Saturday, Nov. 17. CCA 7, 9, 11 pm. Sponsored by Campus Center Program Council.

There will be a one-credit 16-hour weekend colloquium on racism conducted by the Southwest Center for Racial Studies on November 17 and 18. The colloquium will be held at Hampden Commons and will offer a series of segmented workshop topics.

Sun.

NO NUKES BENEFIT CONCERT being held Nov. 18th, at the Savoy Theater in Boston, 524 Washington St. from noon to 8 pm. Artists include, Michael Gregory Jackson, Do'a, Semenya McCord, Jim Bridges, Debra Byrd, Randy Roos and Barbara Weene.

On Monday, Nov. 19 at 7:00 p.m. in the Student Union Ballroom there will be an Outing Club bi-annual auction.

Sports notices

PARACHUTE CLUB — Special meeting—emergency elections, "Death Bus" down payments for Florida trip. Resolution for unjumped people. Last organized meeting of the year. Please attend. 7:00 p.m., Nov. 29 in SBA 100.

HANG-GLIDING CLUB — Important meeting Monday night at 7:30 p.m. in CC 803. Many topics to be discussed. Newcomers and all members urged to attend. We're a real active club now and we're doing a lot of flying.

TABLE TENNIS — The Umass Table Tennis Club is sponsoring the second annual UMass Table Tennis Tournament to be held Sat., Nov. 17 at 10:00 in NOPE Gym. Anyone interested may fill out an entry blank at the Games Room, located across from the Hatch. Entry fee is $1.00 to be paid at the tournament site. All UMass students welcome!

INTRAMURALS — THANKSGIVING SCHEDULE:

Wed., Nov. 21: Boyden and NOPE close at 6:00 p.m.
Thurs., Nov. 22: ALL FACILITIES CLOSED (Thanksgiving).

Fri. and Sat., Nov. 23-24: Boyden open 10:00-6:00 p.m., NOPE closed.
Sun., Nov. 25: Boyden open 12:00-8:00 p.m., NOPE closed

INTRAMURAL ENTRIES DUE:
Three on three basketball due Monday, Nov. 19.
Basketball (Men, women. co-rec) due Wednesday, Dec. 5.

Enter the above at the Intramural Office, 215 Boyden.
BASKETBALL OFFICIALS MEETINGS are being held on Dec. 10, 11, and 12 at 7:00 in Boyden 249. Officials must attend at least one of these meetings.

JV gridders meet Brown

By SCOTT SOLOMON
Collegian Staff

In the continuation of see-saw events that have plagued UMass junior varsity football all season, the Minutemen will face Brown University at Alumni Stadium tomorrow at 1:30 p.m. to complete their '79 campaign, and hopefully raise their season total to 4-1.

Brown, which faced a cancellation with Holy Cross (a game originally scheduled for tomorrow) contacted UMass Wednesday afternoon at 3:00 p.m. to request the game, an offer which was accepted whole heartedly by varsity head coach Bob Pickett.

The Brown freshmen team comes into tomorrow's contest with UMass with a 2-3 mark, having beaten Naval Prep, 24-6, and Boston University's junior varsity squad, 22-21.

Dastardly Dan's
35 E. PLEASANT ST
AMHERST
$2.25 60 OZ. PITCHERS
Sandwich, Chips & Beer For Just $2.25
ROAST BEEF TURKEY HAM & CHEESE

Holly Near
in concert
Tuesday, December 11
at FAC Concert Hall

CINEMA 1-8
HOLYOKE MALL AT INGLESIDE
Mass. Pike Exit 4 to Int. Exit 15
24 Hr. Movie-Phone 538-7510
$1.00 OFF REGULAR ADULT PRICE PRESENT AD BOX OFFICE
Recorded in Dolby — The Muppet Movie (G) — Today 1:10 3:15 5:00 7:20 & 9:30
A True Story — The Onion Field (R)
HELD OVER — When a Stranger Calls (R) — Today 1:00 3:00 5:00 7:20 & 9:30
The Night He Came Home — Halloween — Today 1:20 7:45 & 9:45
Ends Tuesday — Harold and Maude
Held Over — Breaking Away — Today 2:45-4:55-7:05 & 9:15
French Postcards (PG)
Skatetown USA — Roller Disco! (PG)
DOORS OPEN THANKSGIVING DAY 4:30 PM

CINEMA 1·2·3·4·5·6·7·8
HOLYOKE MALL at INGLESIDE
MASS. PIKE Exit 4 To INT. 91-Exit 15
24 HOUR MOVIE PHONE 538-7510
EXCLUSIVE LIMITED SHOWING!!
DAILY AT 4:15
FRIDAY & SATURDAY AT 11:30 P.M.
Tommy
Your senses will never be the same. PG
SNIP IT or CLIP IT
This coupon entitles student with college ID to admission to one show of your choice at $1.00 per person before 5 P.M. or $1.50 per person after 5:00 P.M. each day. One coupon per person only "regular" shows only
Not valid Sat. eve (except 11:30)
expires November 20, 1979
Tommy

ACADEMY of MUSIC
Northampton, Mass.
Now, Only Area Showing, Ends Tuesday
On Screen at 7:00 and 9:00
ACADEMY AWARD Best Cinematography
CANNES FEST 1979 Best Director
Terrence Malick's DAYS OF HEAVEN (PG)
Richard Gere Brooke Adams Sam Shepard
AT THE GATES OF SMITH COLLEGE

AMERICAN MULTI CINEMA
TIMES SHOWN FOR TODAY ONLY
ADULTS $2.75 STUDENTS & SR. CITIZENS WITH AMC CARD $2.25 TWI-LITE SHOW $1.50
SPECIAL ENGAGEMENTS EXCLUDED TWI-LITE SHOW - LIMITED TO SEATING

HAMPSHIRE 4 584-7550 HAMPSHIRE MALL, ON CAFE SQ RT. 9—HADLEY, MASS
Francis Ford Coppola's Apocalypse Now (R) — Fri and Sat (4:30 @$1.50) 7:45-10.30 Sun-Wed (5:30 @ $1.50) Matinees Sat, Sun-1:30
Burt Reynolds Jill Clayburgh Starting Over (R) — Fri & Sat (5:00 @ $1.50) 7:30 9:45 Sun-Wed (6:00 @ $1.50) 8:45 Matinees Sat, Sun 2:00
Audiences Will Simply Cherish Breaking Away (PG) — Fri & Sat (5:15 @ $1.50) 7:30-9:55 Sun-Wed (6:15 @ $1.50) 8:45 Matinees Sat, Sun 2:15
The Rocky Horror Picture Show (R) — Fridays & Saturdays 12:00 Midnight All Seats $2.50
Guess Who's Back? National Lampoon's Animal House (R) — Fri & Sat (5:00 @ $1.50) 7:30 9:45 Sun-Wed(6:00@$1.50)8:30 Matinees Sat, Sun 2:00

MOUNTAIN FARMS 4 584-9153 MOUNTAIN FARMS MALL ROUTE 9—HADLEY, MASS
A comedy for adults who can count. "10" (R) — Fri & Sat (5:00 @ $1.50) 7:30 9:55 Sun-Wed (6:00 @ $1.50) 8:30 Matinees Sat, Sun 2:15
Al Pacino And Justice For All (R) — Fri & Sat (5:00 @ $1.50) 7:30 9:55 Sun-Wed (6:00 @ $1.50) 8:30
Honk if you love Brian. Monty Python's Life of Brian (R) — Fri & Sat (5:15 @ $1.50) 7:45 10:15 Sun-Wed(6:15@$1.50)8:45 Matinees sat, sun 2:15
Children's Matinee "Challenge to Lassie" All seats $1.50 Sat & Sun 2:00
Midnight Show Reefer Madness & 3 Stooges Fri & Sat 12:00 Midnight All Seats $2.75
Skatetown USA Roller Disco! (PG) — Fri & Sat (5:15 @ $1.50) 7:45 10:15 Sun-Wed (6:15 @ $1.50) Matinee Sat, Sun 2:00

SHOWCASE CINEMAS
BARGAIN MATINEE DAILY
FIRST SHOW $2.00 TEL 733-5131
RT. 5 RIVERDALE RD. WEST SPRINGFIELD
The most ingenious thriller of our time. Time After Time (PG)
Apocalypse Now (R) United Artists
Starting Over (R) Burt Reynolds Jill Clayburgh Candice Bergen
Life of Brian (R)
A temptingly tasteful comedy for adults who can count. Hilarious —N.Y.TIMES "10" (R)
Fiddler on the Roof ...a tradition (G) United Artists
Al Pacino And Justice For All (R)
The Fish That Saved Pittsburgh (PG) United Artists
Late Shows Fri. & Sat. & Sun. (except Apocalypse & Fiddler) Continuous Sat. & Sun. & Mon.

★ Stickers in Easterns

CONT. FROM PAGE 16

The stickers are stronger than last year. Losing seniors Lynsie Wickman and Gayle Hutchinson has not apparently hampered UMass in the least. Sophomore Judy Strong and Laura O'Neil have emerged as the top scorers and Hixon has discovered that Senior goalkeeper Robin Jennings, a goalie extraordinare in lacrosse, is more than capable at field hockey. Last year Jennings saw only limited action.

The rest of the nucleus is there. Eleven returning team members with national tournament experience has to be enough to make UMass one of the toughest teams from here on in.

UConn, at 14-3 (one of those losses coming against UMass) is again rated first, followed by UNH at 9-1-2. UMass, which could have been ranked anywhere in the top three, is third followed by Dartmouth, Springfield, Yale (8-5-1), URI and Bridgewater State. The Minutewomen's two losses this season have come against Dartmouth and UNH, both 1-0. Take a closer look. This season all games between the top six seeded teams have been decided by one goal.

This morning's contest will be the first time UMass has met Yale this season. Their October 10 game was snowed out and the make-up last Saturday was not played when Hixon and Bulldog coach Richard Cantwell decided not to play when wet field conditions at NOPE would mean possible injuries and ills.

By Cantwell's own admittance, UMass is stronger than the bulldogs, but one can never tell, especially in a tournament. Just ask last year's players. UMass was the Cinderella team at Ellensberg.

"If there is any team in the national tournament with which I would like to go, it would be UMass," Cantwell said. "Massachusetts is a classy team and I respect Pam very highly. But when you get down to it, any team in the top eight could win. A tournament is a whole different ballgame. We could get obliterated or we could win by one goal."

Minutewomen run in nationals

By JAMES GRAHAM
Collegian Staff

The UMass women's cross-country team will run in the nationals this Saturday against 24 of the best teams in the country at Florida State in Tallahassee. The Minutewomen, who won the New England Championship, were the only team in New England to qualify by placing fourth in the Eastern on November third.

"I'd like to be in the top 15 teams, but it's hard to pick exactly where we'll finish. We'll be running to our potential. We're definitely not physically past peak," coach Pete Pfitzinger said.

Penn. State won the Easterns followed by Maryland, Princeton and UMass. Penn. State is one of the favorites in the nationals and UMass will be running to improve its placing in the Eastern Division.

"We've been running more basic speed workouts the last weeks. I'm going for my best race so far and I'll probably go out fast," top ranked Minutewoman Judy McCrone said. Seven Minutewomen including Cathy Petrick, Linda Welzel, Tricia Moores, Julie Burke, Robyn Dally and 'Dill' Wilson in addition to McCrone will compete on the 5000-meter (3.1 mile) course. The top five finishes for each team score points for the final standings.

None of the Minutewomen have competed in the nationals before and four of their top five runners are sophomores. Linda Welzel is the only junior in the top five.

"Hopefully we'll be running it as just another race and won't go out too fast. I'll go as fast as I have to, but I won't be going out with the leaders," second ranked Minutewoman Cathy Petrick said.

Happy Hour with Jim Plunkett
• 35c Pub Mugs •
Friday 3 'til 7
THE PUB
15 East Pleasant St.
AMHERST

University of Massachusetts / Amherst
FINE ARTS CENTER PRESENTS
JIMMY OWENS PLUS ...

and
THE UNIVERSITY OF MASSACHUSETTS JAZZ WORKSHOP
In a benefit concert for the Music Scholarship Fund
Monday, November 19 8 p.m.
FINE ARTS CENTER CONCERT HALL
Tickets now on sale. General Public - $3.00. Students $2.00.
Fine Arts Center Box Office M-F 12-5. 545-2511
Free Parking is available for FAC events.

DEADLINE 5 P.M.
TOMMORROW
THAT'S WHEN IT ENDS
THE GREAT SKI SNATCH
IN THE S.U.B. Today 10-10, TOMMORROW 10-5 p.,.
STILL TONS OF BARGAINS ON WINTER CLOTHING: Parkas, Vests, Hats, Mittens, Gloves, Ski Suits
EQUIPMENT: Skis, Boots, Bindings, Poles, Skates
Downhill & X-Country
UMASS SKI CLUB

T.O.C. CABARET
Presents:

Phyllis Wall
Steve Yorra
CAROUSEL
lile floor Campus Center
9:00 P.M.
TOC Sticker and Valid ID Required to Purchase Alcohol
Thursday November 15 in T.O.C. Lounge
Friday and Saturday November 16 & 17 in T.O.C. Restaurant
Starting time. . . .9:30 P.M.

George O'Brien

Sports awards of the 70's

For better or worse, the 1970's are drawing to a close and, as expected, everyone and his brother is starting to look back on the decade, trying to determine the best, the worst, the most exciting, the greatest athlete and so on and so forth.

There is something rather absurd about this whole thing though; trying to compare Abdul Jabbar with Rod Carew or Bobby Orr with Muhammid Ali or even Mike Flanagan with Al Skinner is like comparing apples with oranges. However, reason and logic have never scared me before anyway, so here goes.

The first category under consideration, one of my favorites, is the naming of the dumbest sports event of the decade, the one we really wish had never happened. Lots and lots of events immediately come to mind, the Bobby Riggs-Billy Jean King "tennis match", the Evil Kneivel Snake River Canyon "jump", the "fight" between Ali and that Japanese wrestler, "the Battle of the NFL cheerleaders on Sports Spectacular" and a recent event, that "boxing match" between Too Tall Jones and Julio Unknown.

Although all of these events are totally ridiculous, the Evil Kneivel debacle goes bar beyond ridiculous. It only proved how gullible the sporting public had become and how easy it was to rip off nine million dollars.

One of the more interesting categories and one that can certainly be debated well into the next decade, is the question of what was the most exciting sports event of the 70's.

There are many events, both locally and nationally that come to mind; the sixth game of the 75 World Series, the Red Sox-Yankees playoff game in 78, the US-USSR basketball game in the 72 Olympics, the triple-overtime classic between the Celtics and Suns, the Bruins-Canadiens playoffs last spring, the Raiders-Dolphins Playoff game in 74, the Sugar Bowl in 74 between Alabama and Notre Dame, the Ali-Frazier fight in Manilla, the list could go on forever and it probably does.

I was all set to put the check mark next to that great sixth game, and then I was ready to vote for the 78 playoff game. Finally, I decided to pull an upset and go with that war of a Sugar Bowl between Bama and Notre Dame. There was never a dull moment in that contest which saw the Irish eek out a 24-23 win on the heroics of Tom Clements, thus gaining themselves a national championship.

'...the Evil Kneivel debacle goes far beyond ridiculous. It only proved how gullible the sporting public had become.'

The next category, everybody's favorite, is the one for "Best Athlete of the Decade." Since it is nearly impossible to compare the performances of athletes in different sports, I will have to define best Athlete, as the man or woman who has totally dominated his or her sport and has had the most impact upon it. The candidates are, Bobby Orr, Rod Carew, Abdul Jabbar, Jack Nicklaus, O.J. Simpson, Ali, Bjorn Borg, Chris Evert-Lloyd, Nancy Lopez and Steve Cauthen.

Bobb Orr revolutionized the role of the hockey defensemen and Evert-Lloyd and Lopez brought their sports up to respectability. However, after much debate, I have to go with Ali. The man aroused interest and captured attention wherever he went and kept alive a dying sport that would not have survived the decade without him.

Aside from giving us a multitude of great athletes and many exciting moments, the decade of the 70's also gave us some blockheads, personalities who have tarnished sports and left us wishing they had never existed in the first place. Among the many notables are Charlie Finley, Bowie Kuhn, Marvin Miller (executive director of players union in baseball), Howard Cosell, Woody Hayes, Don King, Renee Richards, Ilie Nastasie, Billy Martin and Gary Davidson (founder of such success stories as the ABA, WFL, WTT, and WHA).

Although a prize for being the biggest blockhead isn't worth very much, the prize would have to go to Davidson, the man who brought you the New Jersey Nets, the Edmonton Oilers, the Chicago Fire and the $9.00 box seat.

Going for the gold:

The UMass field hockey team shows some of the form that gave them the Minutewomen the third seed in the Eastern Tourney this weekend. (Staff photo by Richard Newman)

Stickwomen seeded 3rd in Easterns

By MIKE ESTRADA
Collegian Staff

You can bank on the fact that the UMass field hockey team will come to play this weekend. Their quest for a national tournament berth begins today at 11:00 when they meet Yale in the opening round of the Eastern Association for Intercollegiate Athletics for Women tournament at Springfield College.

The top three finishers in the eight-team single elimination tournament earn the right to travel to the nationals at Princeton, N.J.

UMass (14-2-1) is seeded third as it was in 1978, but last year is becoming a pleasant, fading memory; a mixture of ups and downs which saw the stickers finish fourth out of four teams in Springfield but fourth nationally at the national tournament in Ellensberg, Washington.

"We're not out to prove anything, we just want to do our best," said second year coach Pam Hixon. In her debut last year, Hixon's return to her alma mater Springfield College was tainted by duo losses to Dartmouth and UConn, a situation that should have excluded UMass from the national tournament. But Springfield appeared as the sainted institution, stating that the funds necessary for sending the team to Ellensberg might be used for better purposes elsewhere.

Hixon received grumblings inside and outside of the Athletic Department that her squad had "backed into" the tournament and should decline the trip to Ellensberg. The Minutewomen silenced quite a few skeptics when they downed Temple, the number two-ranked team in the nation, and finished fourth nationally overall; circumstances that have kept the Minutewomen high in the national poll all season.

TURN TO PAGE 15

Gridders seek share of YanCon title

By MARK MARCHAND
Collegian Staff

UMass halfback Clifford Pedrow is tackled during recent Minuteman football action. UMass visits New Hampshire for a key Conference clash tomorrow afternoon. (Staff photo by Pete Berry)

Currently in the throes of a destructive two-game losing streak, the 5-3 UMass football squad will head north this afternoon to square off against the 5-3-2 New Hampshire Wildcats in a key Yankee Conference clash at 1:00 P.M. Saturday afternoon.

As has been the case for the past five years, the UMass-UNH battle will have a direct effect on who wins the Yankee Conference. If the Minutemen can beat the Wildcats Saturday, they will assure themselves of a tie for the Conference with the Terriers of Boston University.

Missing from the UMass effort this week will be senior defensive back Kevin Sullivan who suffered a broken leg during last week's 20-18 Minuteman loss to Holy Cross. With the senior co-captain gone for the rest of the year, UMass head coach Bob Pickett will be relying on sophomore Todd Powers and junior John Kraham to fill the hole in the defensive backfield.

The Wildcats, third in the Yankee Conference with a 2-1-1 record in the division, come into tomorrow's game with last week's embarrassing 34-14 loss at the hands of Springfield College, a Division Two club, still on their minds. The only loss within the Conference for the Wildcats has been to Boston University in a 41-28 contest.

Catch all the action of Minutemen football this Saturday on WMUA, 91.1 FM, when UMass travels to Durham to take on the University of New Hampshire. Howie Sobolov and Tim Wasserman describe the action. Pre-game with Jim Mullins begins at 12:30.

Against UMass, head coach Bill Bowes will unleash a punishing ground attck paced by halfbacks Jim Quinn and Dwight Hamsley who have both rushed for more than 500 yards and four-plus yards per carry this year. In the air, first year Wildcat quarterback Tom Leavitt will be passing to stellar flanker Dave Loehle who has caught five touchdown passes along with a total of 450 yards gained in the air. In addition, the Huntington Station, NY native doubles as a punt returner with a 12.1 yard average per return, second in the Yankee Conference.

In the kicking department, New Hampshire hands the bulk of the kicking to senior Art Illman who has kicked 19 extra points in 19 attempts this year. Added to that are his 11 field goals in 15 attempts which gives him a total of 52 points to lead the Yankee Conference in scoring.

Currently second in the Yankee Conference, the Minuteman passing department finds itself on the top of the heap in the division. Quarterback Mike McEvilly leads the league with 10.4 completions per game while his favorite receiver, Kevin O'Connor sits at the top of the receiving heap with 3.6 catches per game.

In addition, UMass fullback Dan Dawson earned a spot on the weekly Yankee Conference All-Star list for his effort against Holy Cross last week when he gained 77 yards in 17 carries.

MASSACHUSETTS DAILY VOLUME CIX, ISSUE 52 Monday, November 19, 1979

Collegian

1979, Massachusetts Daily Collegian

Student Newspaper of the University of Massachusetts/Amherst, Ma. 01003 (413)545-3500

Minutewomen win Easterns, head for national tournament

By MIKE ESTRADA
Collegian Staff

SPRINGFIELD — The Minutewomen field hockey team will travel to Princeton, N.J. Nov. 28 to compete in the national finals, following a first place finish this weekend here in the Eastern Association for Intercollegiate Athletics for Women tournament.

A belligerent UMass defense allowed only eight shots on goal through three games in capturing the tourney.

UMass breezed past Yale and the University of New Hampshire Friday and Saturday before downing defending champion Springfield College yesterday 1-0 for the Minutewomen's best finish ever in eastern competition.

"i can't say that we made many mistakes," UMass coach and 1973 Springfield College graduate Pam Hixon said. "Our offense and defense combined to give us some of the best field hockey we've played all year."

Defensive backs Carol Duffey and Patty Bossio, an emerging star, are two thirds of what Hixon termed the "backbone" of the team in the tournament. The last third is All-American Judy Strong, who netted five goals in the tournament, including a hat trick against Yale to give the Hatfield native 21 goals in the season.

Bossio and Duffey were particularly tough in the latter two games of the tournament, shutting down the opponent's offensive attack downfield with the help of seniors Jody Wickman and Sue Kreider. Bossio, who spent most of last season on the bench, scored the game-winning goal in the 2-0 defeat of New Hampshire in the semi-finals. It was her first college career goal.

Stopper back Duffey was a ball-hawker. Against UNH, Duffey tripped while trying to clear the ball away from the UMass end. She managed to maintain control and clear the ball away while lying on her stomach.

"They were outstanding," Hixon said of the Minutwomen. "The whole team's fatigue factor was low the entire tournament. I didn't think we could keep this up for three games."

The following is a synopsis of the three minutewomen-played games.

GAME 1: The Minutewomen fought some early pressure by the Bulldogs to go on to completely dominate the game by halftime. Judy Strong scored the first of her five goals when she dribbled the full length of the astroturf field past defenders and eventually goalie Martha Finney to fire upon an open net. Strong scored again at 28:47 of the first half when she took a pass off a penalty corner and tucked a shot between the left goal post and a defender's leg to put the third seeded Minutewomen two goals up at halftime.

Strong, who is a possible Olympic Field Hockey team competitor at the games in Moscow next summer, netted her third goal off another penalty corner pass from Karen Laverdiere at 31:40 for the hat trick as the stickers rolled 3-0.

GAME 2: Probably the only person who was not surprised with her performance was the one doing the performing. Norwood native Patty Bossio mixed aggressive defense at midfield with offensive pressure to key the sticker win in the semi-finals over UNH 2-0 to guarantee a spot in the national tournament.

Bossio netted the only goal that her squad needed at 12:00 of the first half, rifling a shot off the pad of Wildcat goalie Janet Cope that rebounded into the corner of the net. Strong again figured in the scoring when her blast from the top of the striking circle beat Cope to the left.

UMass goalie Karen Stifter was only tested on three shots for three saves but her first was a beauty, a deflection of a tremendous shot by the Wildcat's Gabrielle Haroules early in the game.

GAME 3: UMass was without the services of All-American Laura O'Neil, who was slightly injured in a car ac-

TURN TO PAGE 15

Two women victimized in sexual assault on campus

By KAREN LIBUCHA
Collegian Staff

Two UMass women, both sophomores, were sexually assaulted at 11:50 Saturday when they were walking in a well-lit on-campus area, they said.

The Coolidge dormitory women reported the crime to the UMass police, but because they wished to remain unidentified, no report was written on the incident, police said.

The students were returning home from a party in the Northeast Residential Area when they were attacked. Three men were walking toward them, the women said. The men passed them at the point where the path under the Southwest tunnel diverges across from the UMass soccer field.

At that spot, which the women described as a "brightly lit area," one man grabbed and twisted one woman's breast, another grabbed the other woman's crotch, and the third "just laughed," the women reported.

The women said they were emotionally upset by the incident and black and blue from the assaults.

"It was over in about 30 seconds," one said, "and they (the offenders) just kept walking."

"I felt so dirty, filthy, worthless and empty," the other said.

The victims said they gave a brief description of the men to the police, but were not sure if they could identify them positively.

The women talked about the attack at a security meeting in Coolidge upper last night to a group of about forty, including UMass police Sgt. Grader and heads of residence.

Hot-L Warren:

South Deerfield establishment really 'cooks' with 'good vibes'

By KAREN LIBUCHA
Collegian Staff

"This place used to really cook, and it will cook again," Bruce Scott said before he bought South Deerfield's Hot-L Warren in March. The building was a mess of fallen beams and flying bats. Yet, "even before it was fixed up, you could feel the good vibes all over the place," Scott said.

Today the historic drinking establishment, located ten miles from UMass, really "cooks." Live music, food, drink, pool, darts, and a foot-stompin' crowd enliven the first floor of the century-old defunct hotel.

'I'd be bored just catering to people our age. I want to get the kids and the old folks to enjoy this place too.'

Photo by Angie DiCaprio

The variety of music at the Hot-L includes just about everything (except disco), from bluegrass to jazz. There are two rooms adjacent to the band room, where patrons may eat, drink or play pool without paying admission.

The contrast of the rustic frame and elegant furnishings gives the Hot-L an alluring warmth. Care is being taken in renovating the building to retain the historic charm because "those old feelings were good feelings," Scott said.

Since March, co-owners Scott, Mark Wisotzsky and Len Buck have made extensive progress on the interior renovations of the homey bar. Green candlelight sheds a unique glow on the dried flowers on the tabletops around the dance floor. An adjacent parlor is cozy, yet classy, with fine artwork, velvet furniture, carpet, dart board and sevice bar.

There is not a more interesting place to find dedicated drinking partners than the Hot-L. After all, where else in the Pioneer Valley can one get a double for a buck and a half?

Yet drinking isn't the only fun activity at the Hot-L. Every Monday night there are dart tournaments, on Wednesdays the mike is open for local talent, and Scott said, he has plans to sponsor puppet shows for children on Sunday afternoons and card parties for older people during the week: "I'd be bored just catering to people our age (twenties). I want to get the kids and old folks to enjoy this place too."

Scott said that from historic records and the architecture, he speculates the Hot-L was built in about 1870. Past-owner J.H. Ockington acquired the first liquor license in 1899. In 1908 an adjacent gas

TURN TO PAGE 12

DIGEST

A major fire in Sanborn's Fish Market threatened Boston's Historic Faneuil Hall late Saturday night. The recently restored Quincy Market was also at one point threatened by the fire but firefighters brought the blaze under control with only minor damage to surrounding buildings. (AP Laserphoto)

Dartmouth students blast Iran

HANOVER, N.H.(AP)— Singing "America the Beautiful" and carrying banners proclaiming "To Hell with Khomeini," about 100 Dartmouth College students held a 20-minute, anti-Iranian demonstration yesterday.

The students assembled on the college green cheered as leaders burned the Iranian flag and spoke against the Ayatollah's regime in Iran and the capture of American hostages.

Calling the taking of hostages "an act of war," student leaders called for student support of current and future American actions aimed at freeing the hostages.

The speakers were members of the Dartmouth Conservative Union, a conservative student group on the 4,500-student campus.

There are no Iranian students at Dartmouth.

Ted attacks Carter on inflation

WASHINGTON(AP)— Sen. Edward M. Kennedy yesterday accused President Carter of abdicating the presidential role of personal and effective leadership in the fight against inflation.

Kennedy, who was interviewed on NBC News' "Meet the Press," also said his political career did not enter his thoughts in the time he failed to report his 1969 accident at Chappaquiddick.

And, questioned about Iran, he said he supports Carter's actions, adding, "It is absolutely essential that all Americans work closely together following the leadership of the president."

The Massachusetts senator challenging Carter for the Democratic nomination cited cases in which his brother, President John F. Kennedy, and President Lyndon B. Johnson had personally intervened to bring down prices.

Brown seeks 'independent' vote

NEW HAVEN, Conn.(AP)— California Gov. Edmund G. Brown, declaring that "political parties are dying," is counting on the independent nature of rank-and-file Democrats to help him win the party's 1980 presidential nomination.

"I intend to offer a clear choice, not sit around and negotiate with the chairman of the Democratic Party to muzzle my criticism of what I consider to be bankrupt economic and political policies," Brown said in a Connecticut Radio Network interview broadcast yesterday.

In a question-and-answer session taped during Brown's Nov. 9 campaign visit to Connecticut, he also said he believes presidential marriages are subjects for "psychologists and interested historians" and that his single lifestyle will not hurt his candidacy.

Protestors burn Iranian flag

Associated Press

Anti-Iranian demonstrators burned a flag at a Boston waterfront park yesterday and confronted students in a shouting match near a veterans' monument in Brockton.

Both incidents remained nonviolent as police kept watch from the sidelines.

In the Boston incident, about a half-dozen men went to Christopher Columbus Park, a popular tourist spot near the harbor, and shouted anti-Iranian slogans through a bullhorn. After gathering about 150 onlookers, the group set fire to a large Iranian flag.

The Massachusetts Daily Collegian (USPS 333-220) is published daily Monday through Friday excluding January, June, July, and August, for $15 at 113 Campus Center, University of Massachusetts, Amherst, MA 01003. Second class postage paid at Amherst, Mass. Postmaster: Send address changes to Massachusetts Daily Collegian, 113 Campus Center, University of Massachusetts, Amherst, MA 01003

Iran hints release of dozen, threatens trial of hostages

Associated Press

Release of about a dozen black and female hostages from the occupied U.S. Embassy in Tehran appeared near, but student militants say they will put some of the remaining 50 or so hostages on trial for espionage unless the shah is sent to Iran, reports from Tehran said yesterday.

At a morning news conference, conducted on the embassy grounds, students told American and Iranian reporters the chosen group of hostages would be released later in the day. But of the remainder, "those who are spies will face trial, news reports said, unless America sends them Shah Mohammad Reza Pahlavi, now in a New York hospital being treated for cancer.

Journalists attending the news conference reported the students appeared to be in disagreement about when and how many hostages would be freed but Iran's spiritual leader, Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini, Saturday ordered the release of the blacks and women among the 60 to 62 Americans and eight non-Americans held since the embassy was seized Nov. 4.

NBC-TV interviewed Khomeini in Qom, 100 miles south of Tehran, and quoted him as saying the remaining hostages will be safe as long as there was a possibility the deposed shah would be returned to Iran, but if the United States does not send the shah back to Iran, most of the hostages would be tried and punished under Islamic law.

Peter Jennings of ABC-TV interviewed Khomeini, and quoted him as saying "the only condition is to return the shah. . ."

"The diplomats in any country are supposed to do diplomatic work, not the crimes of espionage," Khomeini said, adding that those who commit espionage "are no longer diplomats. And this is what people have done ... a certain number are spies, and should be, according to our laws, tried and punished."

Khomeini did not specify in the ABC interview about the nature of the spying, but Tehran Radio, monitored in Bonn, reported the militants reported finding U.S. officials were forging Iranian exit visas to help "thieves and criminals" leave the country.

"As long as Mr. Carter does not respect international laws, these spies cannot be returned," but if the shah is returned, the hostages would be released as "a kind gesture on our part," Khomeini said in the ABC interview.

Iran has no extradition treaty with the United States, andthe White House has said it will not send the shah to Iran, and President Carter stopped American oil purchases from Iran and ordered a freeze on Iranian funds in U.S. banks.

Tehran interview session with three American hostages to be released by Iranian students. From left to right, Ladell Maples, Kathy Gross and Sgt. Wyn Quarles. The hostages are to be released today. (AP Laserphoto)

Carter far ahead of Kennedy in Florida convention poll

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. (AP)— President Carter, working to repeat the Florida victories that helped propel him toward the White House four years ago, overwhelmed Sen. Edward Kennedy in a straw ballot yesterday at the state's Democratic convention.

Carter won 1,114 delegates to Kennedy's 351, a margin of 76 percent to slightly less than 24 percent. Nine delegates expressed no preference. California Gov. Edmund Brown Jr. was not on the ballot.

The outcome was not binding and Carter's victory had been virtually assured for weeks. But the president's supporters whooped up the victory anyway. "We want Carter," they shouted, repeatedly interrupting the counting and taking over the podium in a boisterous circle as large counties came in for Carter.

Strategists on both sides said the real showdown between Carter and Kennedy will be on March 11 in the Florida primary when 100 Democratic National Convention delegates will be chosen.

"It's a measure of support of the two candidates among party activists in Florida," Jay Hakes, Carter's state campaign manager, said of the straw vote. "But Ted Kennedy is a very formidable candidate. He's ahead in the national polls and right now he's got some strength in Florida."

A day earlier, former California Gov. Ronald Reagan won a similar straw ballot test at the state's Republican convention in Orlando as he turned back challenges from former Texas Gov. John Connally and onetime U.S. intelligence chief George Bush.

Reagan captured 36 percent of the vote. Connally, who outspent Reagan in the state, took 27 percent and Bush had 21 percent. Illinois Rep. Philip Crane took 14 percent followed by Sens. Bob Dole of Kansas and Howard Baker of Tennessee.

Carter operatives dominated the Democratic convention in an alliance with Gov. Bob Graham and other state party leaders.

NEED CREDIT? SEND FOR THE CREDIT GAME

- Too young to borrow?
- New in town/no references?
- Erase bad debt records
- Skip bills without ruining credit
- Receive loans within weeks of beginning this program
- Information on updated credit laws and legislation
- Your rights under the Federal Credit Acts

SOLVE ALL THESE CREDIT PROBLEMS with THE CREDIT GAME

"Tired of being without credit, or up to your neck in 'minimum payments'? With this book you will learn how to make the $300 billion credit industry jump at your command."

ONLY $5.95
(N.Y. residents add 8% Sales Tax)

Enclosed is $ _____ for _____ Books
Name _____
Address _____
City _____ State _____ Zip _____
Allow 3 weeks for delivery.

Send Check or Money Order to WALL STREET PUBLISHING CO. 303 5TH AVE. SUITE 1306 NEW YORK, NY 10016

Jill McKelroy studies alone recently in Marston. (Staff photo by Nancy Jane Rossman)

Revised BOG constitution awaits official signatures

By ELIZABETH McGOWEN
Collegian Staff

The University Board of Governors, which oversees all Campus Center operations, has had a revised constitution for seven years now, but the document cannot take effect until several administrators sign it.

Vice Chancellor of Adminstration and Finance George Beatty must approve the revision, Chancellor Henry Koffler said.

Beatty said Friday he cannot yet approve the constitution because he has not yet seen it. He said he has not seen the revised document since February and he would not speculate as to what action he would take with it.

The board was formed nine years ago and according to its constitution, it is responsible for establishing Campus Center policies and procedures. It is also concerned with the management of the $79 Campus Center fee paid by each student.

In a meeting with Koffler two weeks ago, the Board hoped to have its revised constitution approved but it failed.

"No consensus was reached at the meeting about the validity of the constitution or who it should be submitted to so it can be passed and made official," Constitution Committee Chairperson John Furbish said.

Communications Chairperson, Dave O'Malley said he thinks approval of the constitution is necessary so the board can begin work on other projects.

Furbish said the board's constitution has been a problem since it was questioned by former Chancellor Randolph Bromery in 1976. Bromery had adhered to the revised consititution since 1972 when it mandated that Campus Center and Student Union Councils serve together on one board.

According to a report by Furbish, Bromery stopped adhering to provisions of the 1972 constitution for no apparent reason four years later. Bromery requested that a revised constitution be written in the fall of 1978. This was accomplished when the board amended parts of the constitution. The amendments were passed by the Undergraduate Student Senate in the spring and reviewed by Bromery.

The board has thirty-two members who meet on the eighth floor in the Campus Center Thursday nights. Eight of its members are graduate students appointed by the Graduate Student Senate. The other members, elected by the student body, are undergraduates, including a member from each residential area, a handicapped student, three Third World members and a Greek Area representative. Elections are held in September and are open to any full-time undergraduate student.

The Board is composed of several committees active in creating student programs, such as the check-cashing window in the lower level of the Campus Center, the key function in the Student Union, assigning office and desk space, the vendor tables in the Campus Center concourse, as well as movies and musical events.

The Board supports the co-ops at the University through the Economic Development Committee, O'Malley said.

The Board this year is sponsoring a student competition for the redesign of the Campus Center landscaping, O'Malley said. The board has exhibited several displays to show what could be done with the grounds.

Higher ed: Looking at problems, solutions

By MARK L. CURELOP
Collegian Staff

Students from state colleges and universities convened yesterday at the Massachusetts State Student Association Conference to discuss "issues which will affect the students" at University of Massachusetts — Boston Harbor.

The association is a three-year-old organization designed to represent 32 colleges and universities funded by the commonwealth and to build a working alliance between the state colleges and universities.

Representative James G. Collins, D-Amherst, addressing the association delegates, said "the future of Public Higher Education is outlined this year in the legislature."

"If Proposition 2½ is passed, it will be the end of Massachusetts public higher education," Collins said. "Massachusetts does not have the surplus of funds California has to provide the necessary services to the public," he said referring to California's Proposition 13 act.

"If Proposition 2½ passes without tax reform to make up the difference, public higher education will be a remembrance in this state," Collins said.

Massachusetts Public Higher Education only amounts to four percent of the state budget.

Collins, Vice Chairman of the Education Committee and a member of the newly formed Reorganizational Commission of Public Higher Education siad he believes there should be students and faculty on the recently appointed commission. The Commission's eventual goal is for its members to take a stand on adult education in the Commonwealth and conduct a study of it.

UMass – Amherst Student Government Association Co-President Richard LaVoice said he believes the commission should strive for a "cost efficient, yet higher quality public higher education."

Carol Dillon, state college coordinator for Senator Edward Kennedy's presidential campaign, spoke at the conference, soliciting volunteers for the upcoming presidential primaries.

Students to stage candle vigil

By ED LEVINE
Collegian Staff

Demanding improved lighting on campus, students are scheduled to hold a candlelight vigil and march to the home of Chancellor Henry Koffler tonight, said Student Government Association Communications co-Director Linda Geary.

The march, sponsored by the Student Government Association and the Student Center for Educational Research and Advocacy, is intended to voice student demands for administrative action in improving campus lighting, Geary said.

Vice Chancellor for Student Affairs Dennis L. Madson last week said he is "concerned" about the lighting problem. "I'm pushing for it. I'm trying to round up some money," he said.

The march is scheduled to begin in the lobby of the Student Union at 7:30 tonight. Students will proceed through the Campus Center, the Northeast and Sylvan residential areas, and on to the Chancellor's house on Orchard Hill, Geary said.

Students are asked to bring their own flashlights and candles, although some will be provided, she said.

A SCERA campus lighting survey conducted last year described more that 30 percent of the campus as poorly lit. The worst areas cited were the parking lots, and the reidential areas named as most poorly-lit were Central, Orchard Hill and Sylvan.

National campus round-up

By BARBARA EPSTEIN
Collegian Staff

The debate over nuclear power is a hot issue, in college newspapers across the country. While nearly all UMass students seem decidedly no-nuke, spokespersons from other schools appear more divided in their opinions on nuclear power.

According to the newspaper at Western Connecticut State College, Echo, students there are concerned with seeing the development of alternative energy sources. Northeastern schools, according to other papers from this area, seem to favor alternatives more than students from other areas.

Nationwide, college newspapers reveal that most students say drinking is a major problem at their schools. New Hampshire has recently raised its drinking age, which has caused changes at Dartmouth College as The Dartmouth discusses. Now a great number of students cross the border into Vermont, the newspaper stated. The raised drinking age has also spurred a debate at Dartmouth, the newspaper reported: students cannot agree on whether getting drunk constitutes Dartmouth's main social activity.

UMass is not the only school with disintegrating buildings. The University of New Hampshire also has problems with its campus structures, as reported in its newspaper, The New Hampshire. For example, one of its science buildings may have to be evacuated because of a chemical leak. The school also has structural problems with its continuing education building.

Another widespread concern among college students is the country's economic situation. The rising cost of living, education, gas prices and higher interest rates all give students a rather pessimistic outlook as they view the business world. These worries were stronger at state schools than at private colleges.

Students at Michigan State were staging protests against tuition hikes and budget cuts, their newspaper reported.

The two most popularly discussed national issues on college campuses are the presidential campaign and the Iranian situation. Starvation in Cambodia is another issue that concerns all students.

Women's issues are apparently a major concern at many colleges. Abortion, rape and sexual harassment, problems of minority women, the Equal Rights Ammendment and pornography are some of the most publicized. Rape and sexual harassment received wide coverage, with problems ranging from verbal abuse to innuendos to physical attack.

As far as academic issues, these varied greatly from school to school. Problems caused by tenure raised many questions with Holy Cross students. Amherst College is finally adopting a pass/fail option which has been on trial there for four years. Grade inflation has long been a problem at UNH, according to the New Hampshire, and it finally seems to be levelling off.

Jimmy Owens Staff Photo by James F. Mahoney

Jazz artist Owens stresses financial side of music

By ELLEN TUCHMAN
Collegian Staff

Jimmy Owens, jazz trumpeter, composer and lecturer believes that besides being creative, musicians must be strongly concerned with the financial aspect of music.

Owens, who will be at UMas until Wednesday, conducting lectures and workshops about jazz and the business aspects of music, and doing a concert tonight at 8 in the Fine Arts Center. "I'll be in residency here to bring in the talent of professional jazz musicians, to help the faculty and to help the students," Owens said in a recent Collegian interview.

The concert is a benefit concert for the UMass Music Scholarship Fund.

Owens studied here under former UMass professor Rowland Higgins and received his Masters in Education from UMass in 1976. Owens, along with Dr. Billy Taylor and Chris White were the first students to begin the University Without Walls program. Owens later played with Taylor's band on the David Frost Show for three years.

Owens said jazz is "by and large, a music of spontaneous personal expressionism — this shows itself through the art of improvisation. In jazz, the artist deals with creativity first — it's natural — and interpretation follows." The classical European artist deals with interpretation, is trained by imitating another composer and is not taught the creative approach to the instrument, he added. Therefore, he said, jazz cannot be judged by a European system — jazz is based on an African tradition and must be judged by the value system that has been developed by jazz musicians: "This value system manifests itself in the legacy of those who've come before."

Many educators — both black and white — view jazz as a "lower" form of music, Owens said. "Powerful people — ones with a Ph.D. in performance — don't know anything about jazz and I think that that's ridiculous. There have been some changes but they aren't happening often enough. Many universities are not staffed nor funded to bring in guest lectures."

TURN TO PAGE 5

Tillery's jazz brings audience dancing into aisles at concert

By KAREN THOMAS
Collegian Staff

Jazz artist Linda Tillery brought an audience of 400 to their feet with her rendition of "I Want to Get to Know You," Friday at the Fine Arts Center in the Union Program Council and Missing In Action blues project-sponsored event, "An Evening of Black Women's Music."

Tillery, at the age of 19, played with Janis Joplin and "took over the set and almost blew out the fuses," said Master of Ceremonies Mary Ruth Warner of the Women's Studies Department.

Dressed in brown and beige, Tillery repeated that performance. The microphone was not turned on loudly, but her deep, full voice had no problem filling the concert hall.

Tillery's talents do not stop at her vocal ability. Along with her all-woman band, she performed original pieces. Her music is a cross between jazz and soul, with a really funky beat that had the audience running into the aisles to dance.

The program also included popular jazz vocalist in Boston, Rashida Shah. A soft-spoken woman dressed in white, Shah's full, angelic voice caught the audience off guard. One person yelled out, "You sound good!"

Like Fitzgerald, Shah's vocal artistry is comparable to Ella Fitzgerald's. She has the

TURN TO PAGE 5

Union Program Council and the Missing in Action Blues Project presented an evening of Black Women's music last Friday night at the Fine Arts Center. Pictured above, Linda Tillery and Mary Watkins played before an almost entirely female audience. (Staff photo by Wayne Rosenberg)

SNOW TIRES SAVE ½
Firestone Retreads have the same width, depth, design and rubber as new tires —only at ½ the cost.
FREE replacement if they EVER fail for ANY reason.
Regular $15.00 up
Radials $19.50 up
exchange plus tax
LEON'S TIRES
291 FEDERAL STREET
(next to McDonald's)
GREENFIELD, 773-8315

The TOC has a GREAT
Happy Hour
4-6 Mon.-Fri.

two ways to buy books -you decide which way you paY

BY THE POUND
all the books in our sale area can be purchased at only $1.99/lb.

BY THE PRICE
in some cases the prices as marked are lower so you can by them that way!

come in for some fun and some great book values
at "the bookstore"
the UNIVERSITY STORE
campus center/university of massachusetts

HOUSING
ROOM-CHOOSING

NOVEMBER 26 - Students remaining in room - Sign up with your Head of Residence/Cluster Coordinator

NOVEMBER 27 - Students changing rooms within the same dorm - Sign up with your Head of Residence/Cluster Coordinator

NOVEMBER 28 - DECEMBER 7 - Students moving to another dorm and all others:

1. Pick up Housing Preference Form from Head of Residence/Cluster Coordinator, Area Management Coordinator or the Housing Office
2. Fill out form indicating dormitory/area preference.
3. Return completed form to the Area Management Coordinators Offices located in Leach (NE/Sly), Baker (Central/OH), Kennedy Lobby (SW) or the Housing Office, 235 Whitmore.
4. You must turn your form in no later than 5:00 p.m. Friday, December 7, 1979. Late applications will not be processed.

DECEMBER 17 - Students will receive written Confirmation of their dormitory assignment for Spring Semester.

IMPORTANT
Only one Preference Form per student will be accepted
Any student who does not sign up for, or request a dormitory assignment will be randomly assigned.
International Students may sign up for Prince House.
Any student in the Residence Halls without a currant signed University Housing Contract will not be allowed to participate in the room-choosing process.

★ Owens

CONT. FROM PAGE 4

Owens has worked to change this conception of jazz music by serving on a number of committees. He established a non-profit performance and educational organization called Collective Black Artist, Inc. In 1970, he served on the Board of Governors of the National Academy of Recording Arts and Sciences (1971-74), the Board of Directors of the N.Y. Repertory Jazz Co., the N.Y. State Council of the Arts (1975-78) and currently is a staff member of Jazzmobile, Inc. in N.Y. Owens also worked for the National Endowment for the Arts from 1972-76.

Currently, he said, $1.5 million a year is allocated for all jazz programs in the United States. Owens said this is insufficient. And in a press release, he said, jazz is "America's only indigenous art form. If our governmental system and our society say that not-for-profit tax-exempt corporations should be able to get money from the government, and if such organizations exist in the jazz field, then why shouldn't jazz be able to get funded just like orchestras, operas, dance companies and so forth?"

To be a musician today, one needs to be a businessman, also, he said.

Historically, the black creative artist has been the innovator of jazz and was told by managers — "You take care of the music, I'll take care of the money," Owens said. It was easier for the individual artist to set his own destiny in the '20's and now because the music industry has expanded greatly, this is impossible. Creative artists such as Duke Ellington, Bessie Smith and Louis Armstrong made it possible for us to have CBS, NBC and ABC. They brought money into the recording industry and this money was then put into the new technology of time, or TV, he said."

Owens has appeared in numerous festivals and has been featured on over 75 recordings made with artists such as Dizzy Gillespie, Hubert Laws, Herbie Mann, and Archie Shepp. Recently he produced four solo albums.

Jimmy Owen's Plus, his band, will play in tonight's concert. The other band members are Eric Johnson on guitar, Jerry Jemmott on bass, and Billy Hart on drums. The UMass Jazz Workshop, under the direction of Professor Frederick Tillis, also will appear with Owens. Commenting on events such as this, Jazz Workshop member Steve Abel, present at Owen's rehearsal in the Fine Arts Center, said, "The professionals coming to UMass teach us a lot about jazz. Playing along with these musicians gives me a good feeling and has taught me to listen better, and in turn to develop my own style."

Tomorrow, Owens will conduct a workshop in Room 36 of the Fine Arts Center followed by a lecture on "Business Aspects of the Music Industry" in Room 151 FAC. On Wednesday at 10 a.m. Owens will hold a jazz improvisation class in the Old Chapel.

★ Tillery

CONT. FROM PAGE 4

ability to manipulate her voice to sound like a musical instrument. At the end, singing Roberta Flack's "I Want to be Your Baby," Shah brought the audience to its feet, clapping. As an upcoming jazz artist, Shah's talent is sure to carry her far.

Shah's all-women band also performed solo. The sound effects they used to accompany Shah's voices were excellent, especially in "Ginghei." The variety of instruments ranged from congas to wind chimes.

In the final set of the evening, Mary Watkins, jazz pianist and a member of Tillery's band, toned the atmosphere down with her magical ability to capture the audience with her music.

Watkins performed a particularly fun piece, entitled "Witches Revenge." The piece was upbeat, full of strange sound effects and beats. Tillery's band accompanied her, and Tillery herself played the drums. Watkins last jazzy pieces brought the night to a perfect close.

Warner earlier described the MIA blues project as "a time to give those black women in jazz their recognition."

MASSACHUSETTS DAILY
Collegian

STAFF MEETING
—interview and listen to candidates for Spring Board of Directors
Tuesday, November 27
7:30 CC 162

IT PAYS TO MIDASIZE

If you need a brake job, try to stop at Midas

MIDASIZE YOUR BRAKES

And never again buy new pads or linings as long as you own your car.
Once our professionals reapir your brakes, you'll never have to buy new pads or linings as long as you own your car. If they become defective, they will be replaced absolutely free in any one of the 1000 Midas shops around the world.

THE LOW COST WAY TO END IMPORT CAR SHAKES
McPherson Strut Cartridges Installed The Midas Way
$119.95

MIDAS GUARANTEES FOREIGN CAR MUFFLERS
HONORED IN EVERY STATE AS LONG AS YOU OWN YOUR CAR.

143 King St.
Northampton
Mon.-Fri. 8-5:30
MIDAS
586-4840
Sat. 8-2:00

THE WOK
Chinese Home Style Cooking
Complete Take-Out Menu

Ample Parking
Luncheon & Dinner Specials
Cocktail Lounge
Mon.-Thurs. 11:30 a.m.-10 p.m. • Fri. & Sat. 11:30 a.m.-12 p.m.
Sun. & Holidays 1 p.m. to 10 p.m. • Luncheons 11:30 a.m.-3 p.m.
Except Holidays
48 RUSSELL ST. RT. 9
HADLEY
Call 586-1202

1ST ANNIVERSARY
AT THE NEW LOCATION
DINNER SPECIAL on every Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday from 3:00 p.m. to 10:00 p.m.
$3.99
ALL DINNERS COME WITH A MILLER OR MILLER LITE OR BUDWEISER

1. Beef with Mixed Veg. & (2) Fried Shrimp & Roast Pork Fried Rice
2. Beef with Mixed Veg. & (3) Chicken Wings & Roast Pork Fried Rice
3. Beef with Mixed Veg. & (3) Chicken Fingers & Roast Pork Fried Rice
4. Chicken with Mixed Veg. & (2) Terriyaki Beef & Roast Pork Fried Rice
5. Chicken with Mixed Veg. & (2) Fried Shrimp & Roast Pork Fried Rice
6. Chicken with Mixed Veg. & (2) Spare Ribs & Roast Pork Fried Rice
7. Shrimp with Mixed Veg. & (1) Egg Roll & Roast Pork Fried Rice
8. Shrimp with Mixed Veg. & (3) Chicken Wings & Roast Pork Fried Rice
9. Shrimp with Mixed Veg. & (3) Chicken Fingers & Roast Pork Fried Rice
10. Scallop with Mixed Veg. & (3) Chicken fingers & Roast Pork Fried Rice
11. Scallop with Mixed Veg. & (2) Spare Ribs & Roast Pork Fried Rice
12. Scallop with Mixed Veg. & (3) Chicken Wings & Roast Pork Fried Rice

Vegetarian Dishes
13. Mixed Veg. & (4) Fish Chunks & Plain Fried Rice
14. Mixed Veg. & (2) Fried Shrimp & Plain Fried Rice
15. Mixed Veg. & (4) Fried Scallop & Plain Fried Rice

LOUIS FOODS

SPECIALS EFFECTIVE MONDAY-SATURDAY NOV. 19 THRU 24

Guide to Savings!

S&H GREEN STAMPS

ARMOUR VERI BEST EXTRA LEAN ANY SIZE
LOIN ROAST PORK $1.39 LB

USDA CHOICE SHOULDER CLOD
LONDON BROIL $2.09 LB

USDA CHOICE TOP ROUND ROAST $2.19 LB

SWIFT'S PREMIUM SLICED BACON LB PKG $1.39

★ FRESH PRODUCE SPECIALS ★

LOCALLY MADE FRESH CIDER ½ GAL $1.09 GAL $1.99
FRESH OCEAN SPRAY CRANBERRIES LB 69¢
LOUISIANA YAMS LB 29¢
EXCELLENT FOR STUFFING & ROASTING ITALIAN CHESTNUTS LB 89¢
LOCALLY GROWN BUTTERNUT SQUASH LB 19¢
FRESH CUT UP PEELED & READY TO BE COOKED BUTTERNUT SQUASH 2 LBS 89¢
PRINCE EDWARD ISLE WAXED TURNIPS LB 19¢
EXCELLENT FOR BAKING IDAHO POTATOES 5 LB BAG $1.09

WELCH'S TOMATO JUICE 48 OZ 79¢

CAINS RIVIERA DRESSING 2 8 OZ BTLS 99¢
EMPRESS SOLID PACK IN WATER WHITE TUNA 7 OZ CAN 99¢
ALWAYS FLUFFY RIVER RICE 32 OZ BOX 79¢
LONG GRAIN & WILD RICE MIXTURE UNCLE BEN'S RICE 6 OZ $1.09
PILLSBURY OR BETTY CROCKER PIE CRUST MIX 3 11 OZ PKGS $1
LUX LIQUID DISH DETERGENT 22 OZ BTL 89¢
WELCH GRAPE JUICE 40 OZ $1.39
CAINS ALL NATURAL MAYONNAISE QT JAR $1.19
GINGER ALE OR CLUB SCHWEPPES 2 32 OZ BTLS 79¢

O&C BOILED ONIONS 16 OZ JAR 59¢
GARDEN-3 BEAN-VEGETABLE HANOVER SALADS 14 OZ 59¢
NABISCO COOKIES CHIPS AHOY 13 OZ BOX 99¢
KEEBLER WHEAT-RYE-SESAME TOASTS SNACK CRACKERS 7½ OZ 89¢
PILLSBURY ALL VAR. BREAD MIXES 15 OZ BOX 99¢
MADAM 6 OZ CAN SNOW CRABMEAT $1.79
MOTTS NEW WITH CRANBERRIES APPLESAUCE 20 OZ 59¢
BAGGIE 50 CT BOX FOOD STORAGE BAGS 99¢
HEAVY DUTY REYNOLDS WRAP 18"X25 FT 79¢

SALADA TEA BAGS $1.59 BONUS 125 CT PKG

GEORGIAN BATHROOM TISSUE $1.49 8 ROLL PKG

Medium Tender SWEET PEAS SWEET LIFE TENDER PEAS 3 16 OZ CANS 89¢

★ FROZEN FOOD SPECIALS ★

BIRDS EYE BROCCOLI SPEARS 2 10 OZ PKGS 99¢
SEALTEST FRUIT SHERBETS QT 89¢

SEABROOK NORMANDY-COSMOPOLITAN-FAR EASTERN VEGETABLE MIXTURES 18 OZ 79¢
CRINKLE CUT OR STRAIGHT CUT HEINZ DEEP FRIES 2 12 OZ PKGS 99¢
LOUISE'S CHEESE RAVIOLI 15 OZ PKG $1.29
OCEAN SPRAY COCKTAIL CRANBERRY JUICE 2 6 OZ CANS 79¢
BRADY BLUEBERRIES 16 OZ PKG $1.29
MRS. SMITHS APPLE PIE 26 OZ PKG $1.09

★ DAIRY ★

HOOD EGG NOG ½ GAL $1.69
HOOD ALL NATURAL WHIPPED CREAM 7 OZ CAN 79¢
RONDELE 4 OZ PKG GARLIC & HERB CHEESE 89¢
HOOD SOUR CREAM 16 OZ CONT 79¢

$3 VALUABLE COUPON WORTH $3.00 TOWARD THE PURCHASE OF THIS WEEK'S FEATURED ITEM VEGETABLE BOWL
Our Reg. Discount Price
Coupon Savings
Your Price (with coupon) $10.99
In the pattern of your choice
CHINA 1000 THRU
NOV. 24, 1979

WITH COUPON & $7.50 PURCHASE OR MORE EXCLUDING CIGARETTES
QUARTERS SWEET LIFE MARGARINE LB PKG 9¢
VALID THRU NOV. 24 LIMIT ONE AT LOUIS FOODS

WITH COUPON & $7.50 PURCHASE OR MORE EXCLUDING CIGARETTES
BETTY CROCKER CAKE MIX SUPER MOIST 18½ OZ 49¢
VALID THRU NOV. 24 LIMIT ONE AT LOUIS FOODS

WITH COUPON & $7.50 PURCHASE OR MORE EXCLUDING CIGARETTES
GREEN GIANT NIBLETS CORN 12 OZ CAN 19¢
VALID THRU NOV. 24 LIMIT ONE AT LOUIS FOODS

Louis FINE FOODS

Around campus

Pre-registration ends Wednesday

Pre-registration forms are due by 5 p.m. Wednesday in the Registrar's Office in the Whitmore Administration Building. A $5 late fee will be charged to students submitting their forms after that date.

Declared majors can pick up their pre-registration material at their department office, and undeclared majors can pick up their forms at the CASIAC office in Machmer Hall. Students in the Bilingual Collegiate Program and the Committee for the Collegiate Education for Black Students can pick up their material at Goodell Hall and the New Africa House respectively.

Meeting to plan Women's Week

An organizational meeting to discuss theme and funding possibilities for International Women's Week is scheduled for tonight at 7 in Campus Center room 168. The week is scheduled for March. For more information, contact Elli Bagli or Margaret Reid at the Student Center for Educational Research and Advocacy, fourth floor of the Student Union Building.

Dorms to be closed for Thanksgiving

Residence halls will close at 6 p.m. Wednesday and reopen at 12 noon Sunday for the Thanksgiving Holiday. Foreign students and students living more than 250 miles from Amherst will be allowed to remain in the dormitories with permission from their heads of residence.

Earn $500.00 weekly in your spare time. Addressing envelopes. For details, send self-addressed stamped envelope to F.I.S. P.O. Box 435-T, Danvers, MA. 01923

A career in law— without law school.

After just three months of study at The Institute for Paralegal Training in exciting Philadelphia, you can have a stimulating and rewarding career in law or business — without law school.

As a lawyer's assistant you will be performing many of the duties traditionally handled only by attorneys. And at The Institute for Paralegal Training, you can pick one of seven different areas of law to study. Upon completion of your training, The Institute's unique Placement Service will find you a responsible and challenging job in a law firm, bank or corporation in the city of your choice.

The Institute for Paralegal Training is the nation's first and most respected school for paralegal training. Since 1970, we've placed over 2,500 graduates in over 85 cities nationwide.

If you're a senior of high academic standing and looking for an above average career, contact your Placement Office for an interview with our representative.

We will visit your campus on:

WEDNESDAY, NOVEMBER 28

The Institute for Paralegal Training
235 South 17th Street
Philadelphia, PA 19103
(215) 732-6600
operated by Para-legal, Inc.
Approved by the American Bar Association.

Sale
Going Out of Business

X-C Skis & Ski Equipment all ½ price
(Skis now $20.63 & up)

Bikes 10% off regular price on all new bikes
Selected Specials on Pro Bike equipment & clothing

HURRY! We are running out of everything.

Amherst Cycle Shop
253 Triangle Street

Behind Commonwealth Federal Bank. Use REAR ENTRANCE, due to construction in front of building

10-5:30 Tues-Sat 549-3729

ON SALE!
LEOTARDS & TIGHTS
DANSKIN

Special price on any leotard or tight in stock! - Sale from Nov. 5 - Nov. 21
$1.00 OFF our already discounted price, for example, style no. 68 tights have a suggested retail price of $4.95; our regular price is only $3.95 with $1.00 off you pay only $2.95; comparable savings on other tights and leotards!

Hurry while the selection is good.

in the sportswear shop
campus center/umass
the UNIVERSITY STORE

The Holyoke Police Department
Needs Minority Candidates to Fill 14 projected openings in the Holyoke Police Department

To qualify for employment with the Police Department, you must sign up now to take the Police Civil Service Test of December 1, 1979.
Last date for applications is November 13.

Special training classes on how to take the Police Civil Service Test will start November 19-30, 1979 at local sites.

To sign up for the classes and the test contact:

Office of Compliance
Room 402
City Hall Annex
Holyoke, Mass.
536-8222
536-8223
Ext. 36

Holyoke Police Dept.
City Hall Annex
536-6431

South Holyoke Development Corp.
344 Main St.
Holyoke, Mass.
532-1406

Spirit Haus
Liquor Store

The Area's Largest Selection of Imported & American Wines
New Tremendous Selection of Imported Half Bottles

WINE SELECTION

Riunite.....$2.39 fifth
Marques de Caceras Rioja '73.....$3.99 fifth
Louis Latour Beaujolais '78.....$3.99 fifth
Breckenridge Cellars.....$5.99 4 liters
Almandin Burgundy.....$6.49 3 liters

Martini & Rossi Vermouth (sweet & dry).....$3.29 fifth
Popov Vodka.....$4.99 qt.
Canadian Mist 80°.....$6.95 qt.
Highland Piper 12 yr. old Scotch.....$12.49 1.75 liters
PM.....$10.99 1.75 liters
Stolchnaya.....$8.99

BEER

Miller 12 oz. cans or NR.....$7.59 case
Falstaff 12 oz. cans.....$5.75 case
Falstaff 12 oz. returnables.....$2.95 12 pack plus deposit
Moosehead.....$2.99 six
Heineken 12 oz. NR.....$3.69 six $14.49 case
Karakus Polish 12 oz. NR.....$2.49 six
Labbats.....$2.69 six pack

10% Case Discount Available on Wine
Many Other In Store Specials
Ice, Kegs & Soda Available

338 College St (Rt 9) 253-5384
Amherst open til! 11:00

not responsible for typo errors

Editorial/Opinion

Staff photo by Chris Greene

Real UMass horrors

I just attended a rally with 600 other people who were very concerned about where their money goes on this campus and who in Adminstration is addressing their academic, monetary and safety needs on this campus.

The rally was designed to signal the administration that students care about their education and are willing to stand up and actively participate in the decision making process which dictates the conditions of student existence at UMass. I was very pleased to see this, but it is important that every student make his voice heard in not only rallies like last Thursday, but in meetings with the Administration, and calls to people with the power to make life here better, like William F. Field, dean of students, Dennis L. Madson, vice-chancellor for student affairs, and Chancellor Henry Koffler.

Julianne Robertson

These gentlemen are here to administer the rules of the day to the students. They seem to accomplish this task with great enjoyment and vigour. It would seem only natural to me that they would be very, very receptive to legitimate insightful grievances aired by concerned students.

If it were not for the students, their usefulness would be nil. If they refuse to listen to our needs, our gripes and our concerns, then it is our responsibility to enforce our rights. We pay for a decent, safe education free from the psychological terrors of racism, sexism and their physical manifestations in the form of rape, racial slurs, beatings, police misconduct on campus and the like.

If the administration does not engage in sincere, concerted action with tangible results such as better lighting, academic, programatical support to combat the real horrors of racism and sexism, then they are not doing their job and will be informed as such again, and again, and again, and again...

Julianne Robertson is a Collegian columnist.

The issue of poor lighting throughout campus is actually nothing new. It goes back to the dark ages. In fact, ...

Due to the increase in sexual assaults against women, a survey was conducted by SCERA last year to determine the quality of lighting on campus. The following results were found: 1. 30 percent of the entire campus was classified as poor (100 feet or less visibility) 2. Much of the lighting classified as fair to poor is due to ornamental lighting. 3. Parking lots are considered very poor and because of their isolation, they are some of the most hazardous areas.

There were at least five confirmed sexual attacks in the Sylvan area last year and two rapes occured in parking lot 44. These were attributable to the poor lighting, isolation and lack of bus service in the area.

Central area was also the scene of an attack last year and again this was attributable to the ornamental lighting.

Southwest has good to fair lighting but at the time of the survey much of the lighting was not in working order.

To date there has been no action in response to the survey.

The administration recognizes the seriousness of the lack of lighting, especially since this past Halloween weekend, and it is considered "top priority." However, "the budget is still tight" according to Chancellor Koffler. It appears that the safety of the students is not "top priority," but rather that the budget is.

Jack Littlefield, director of planning, has proposed a corridor walkway that includes improved lighting and police patrol. This plan is sitting on the administrator's desk today. They say that there isn't enough money to implement it. It would seem that while Littlefield was drawing up the proposal, he would include where the money came from and get the plan off the desk and on to the campus.

In face of the complaints of inadequate lighting the University has continually procrastinated on our demand for more. It is the responsibility of this University to respond to and implement measures that will protect students. Money an obstacle? It wasn't an obstacle when it came to paying the members of the S.W.A.T. squad in Southwest, or to renovate Chancellor Koffler's house, or landscaping the campus.

Time after time, when faced with critical problems, the administration offers vague solutions and little action. What answers they do act upon are designed more to meet their own needs that those of the students. The violence on campus must be stopped. But instead of money for programming to educated and communicate, the administration has opted for the law and order tactics of S.W.A.T. They may achieve their "tranquil" campus but what will happen to the spirit of the campus community?

Now is the time to act. Now is the time to let the Admininstration know that we will not accept their inadequate solutions.

Donna Gallagher
Barbara Riordan
Members of the Women's Issue Team, SCERA

U.S. & Iran

Blend of idealism and history

Jim Moran

The handling of the current Iranian crisis is, to be sure, a very delicate matter. The United States should direct its diplomacy toward the situation with a perspective consistent with its idealistic foundation while being mindful of our historical actions in this area. Such diplomacy implies a philosophy of rationality on both the domestic and foreign fronts.

As for the immediate crisis, the United States has to be very careful to avoid a hypocritical appearance. Demonstrations such as the ones conducted by pro-American students at Springfield Technical Community College and Western New England College this past week, with the racist "Go Home Iranians" and "Death to Iran" slogans emitted from them are dangerous. Dangerous for they are ignorant to the fact that Iranians in this nation, whether they be students or whatever, are entitled to the same rights and privileges as United States citizens as long as they are here under legal student or visitor's visas. As such, under the Fourteenth Amendment, persons "subject to the jurisdiction thereof," shall be deprived of "life, liberty, or property without due process of the law," nor denied "the equal protection of the laws."

Therefore, should Iranian students choose to demonstrate for the return of the Shah, they are as much protected by the First Amendment freedoms as anyone else. Once their advocacy translates into actions, such as the assault by an Iranian student against two immigration officers in Boston this week, or the attempt to smuggle illegal arms on an interstate airliner in Baltimore, then they become liable for crimes under other existing statutes barring such violent crimes.

But to deny them constitutional guarantees is just as anti-American as the seize of the U.S. Embassy in Iran.

Turning our attention to the foreign policy with regard to Iran, the current freeze on the assets held by Iranians in US banks seems wise.

They're holding 60 of our assets right now.

Our government's decision to refrain from purchasing Iranian oil cannot be criticized. The freedom to do business with another nation implies also the freedom to terminate such an agreement.

As for those who would go so far as to suggest the US should cut off food supplies to Iran, I question their sense of humanity. It's one thing for us to say we won't buy from Iran. But as long as they are willing to buy from us, and if they are in need of our wheat, it would be a vengeful act of human deprivation to cut off a nation's food line.

They have to eat.

From the standpoint of our past involvement in Iran, our Central Intelligence Agency worked hand-in-hand with other corporate forces to put the Shah in power in 1953. More recently, David Rockefeller, Henry Kissinger and Jimmy Carter designed a policy, through their establishment of the Trilateral Commission, to exploit such Third World nations as Iran. We got the answer to the question of "Should we continue to be as invloved in Iran's affairs?" when they overthrew the Shah and put in Khomeini. Sensibly, neither the Shah nor the Ayatollah seem to be ideal leaders for the total population of the nation. Both have jailed and executed their political foes, both have subverted the rights of their people. Perhaps it is time for the Iranians to decide what would be best for them? Perhaps they ought to reconsider whether the rights of their minorities should be sacrificed for the sake of preserving a religious state of the majority?

But I do not think we can decide that for them. To the extent that they should control their own people's destiny, the United States should maintain a hands-off approach. But if they are interfering with the lives of our citizens, and continue to do so, using a "blood and guts" style of diplomacy, then they should only expect some form of retaliation — be it economic or military.

Let us hope that both parties can maintain an agreeable state of composure over the crisis. For our part, let us hope that we not let our government's policy be dicatated by hawkish forces, nor that we make concessions as to put this nation's reputation into a position as a beggar for mercy at terrorist temples.

From our past successes in dealing with the Cubans and Soviets during the Missile Crisis of 1962, and in dealing with the Germans and the Soviets during the 1948 Berlin Airlift, we can look for solutions. From our failures at the Bay of Pigs in 1961 and in Chile in 1973, we can draw from some misguided lessons.

As Robert Lovett once wrote to Robert Kennedy, after counseling him on the Cuban Missile Crisis, "Good judgement is usually the result of experience. And experience is frequently the result of bad judgement."

Jim Moran is a Collegian columnist.

Stein: '...novel blush'

To the Editor

This is in response to the comments of Mr. Stein in the Nov. 14, 1979 issue of the Collegian.

Few will argue the value of honesty. And rightly so. It fits right in with tne whole "truth, justice and the American way" concept that we all hold dear. What I do question is the journalistic integrity of a commentator who presents a diverse group consisting of 120 people to the public as an army of Nixon clones. Certainly it is the perrogative, if not the purpose, of the press to analyze and criticize the government and the people who operate it. Mr. Stein, however, has skipped the analysis and employed techniques in his criticism that would make the author of an obscure dime novel blush with shame.

We all face serious questions every day. In the political realm, when does a compromise become a rationalization? When does a desire to be effective and have a postive impact become a power trip? Where does active support of opposition stop and manipulation begin? The only difference between you and "them" is that their decisions must run the gamut of public scrutiny while yours remain your own. So before you ask Woodward and Bernstein to come with wooden stakes and mallets, Mr. Stein, try reading your story replacing the word "senator" with the word "reporter" (associate assistant jr. editor if you like) and the word "senate" with "newspaper." The affect is the same, only the direction is shifted. Wasn't it Mark Twain who said "The truth can only hurt the guilty, but a good lie 'll hurt just about anybody?"

Some of the best people I have ever met have been senators, so have some of the worst. It's a lot like life, I guess.

Timothy O'Leary
Northampton

'One percent poor'

To the Editor:

We'd like to thank Rich LaVoice, David Barenberg, Jill Tregor, those who organized the rally last Thursday and those students who participated. The spirit of those who were there was intense. But this does not make up for the fact that out of an enrollement of twenty thousand, only one percent turned out. That's incredible to the point of being disgusting. The issues that we, the students, are trying to deal with; SWAT teams, residential fees increase, improper lighting — to name a few, concern us all, not just dorm residents.

So where were you all when you were needed?

Sitting back complaining about what's going on and relying on someone else to get the answers? Unfortunately there seems to be an epidemic of ignorance and apathy on this campus. No one knows and no one cares. What kind of atmosphere is this anyways where only a handful are willing to pull the load of the whole campus?

This is a serious situation in our midst threatening our well-being. OUR well-being, not mine or one of the two hundred at the rally, but everyone's, yours.

So why don't we all take a little pride in this university instead of complaining about what's happening. All this hot air can and should be turned into useful energy. We have to get off our asses and be heard!

Denise Pengeroth
Ann McDevitt
Student Senators

Waste apathy, not food

To the Editor

I worked in, the Basics Window at the Worcester Dining Commons on Hunger Awareness Day. There is usually a terrible amount of food waste, but I was especially angered by it Thursday night. I understand that some people had perfectly legitimate reasons for not participating in Hunger Awareness Day: These people know who they are, and know that this letter does not apply to them.

But I found the gross amount of food waste that went on Thursday night [and goes on every other night, for that matter] totally unacceptable. I realize that many people just weren't thinking; but I also think that it's awfully sad that a group of intelligent college students can be so insensitive, or too apathetic, to think.

Most people on this community are lucky enough to not feel the world food shortage. I sincerely hope that the people who didn't have time enough to think, will wake up someday and face reality.

Jeannine Shelton
Mary Lyon

Mr. or Ms. nameless

To the Editor

Mr. or Ms. Name Withheld By Request in the letter of 11-16 tries to blame all of the malicious acts of OPEC on Moshe Dayan. What are those nations, infants? I suppose that the recent murders allegedly committed by the KKK are similarly due to the "ambitions" of Martin Luther King!

I think that it is appropriate that Mr. or Ms. Request had a name withheld because in that letter both the intelligence and the maturity of its author were withheld.

Don Schneier
Prince House

Elved Owens: Forgot cause & effect

To the Editor

In "Terrorism not quite justified," [11-13-79], Elved Owens discusses, among other things, the causes of the violence in the North of Ireland. He states that the current violence is caused by the Catholic demand for a united Ireland and that it began with an eruption of the Catholics and the IRA in 1968. Further, he suggests that a complacent population were caught off-guard and were unprepared for "the eruption." The facts do not support this characterization of the Catholics, the IRA, or the term "eruption."

In the 1960's a civil rights movement emerged in Northern Ireland to protest blatant discrimination and the injustices of Northern Ireland's constitution. [Owens recognizes this history of grievances without noting its significance as a cause.] The emergence of a non-violent civil rights movement cannot correctly be termed an eruption. However, in 1968 non-violent civil rights marches did encounter an eruption — they met with the organized violence of the militant Protestants.

Neither did the IRA "erupt." In 1968 the IRA was largely dormant -- it had followed a policy of non-violent political action for ten years previously, and had in fact sold its arms. So when the civil rights movement sparked a Protestant backlash, the IRA was practically powerless to protect the Catholic ghettos from the first burning depredations of the Police-led Protestant mobs.

In recognition of this failure Belfast Catholics painted bitter words on their ghetto walls: "IRA -- I Ran Away." Mr. Owens' argument, therefore, is not only simplistic but ignores the facts. The eruption of violence in 1968 was clearly an eruption of the Protestant state.

Since 1968 acts of violence have been committed by nearly all parties involved and the violence has gone quite a long way toward making a rational non-violent solution impossible. But if it is fair to say that the cycle of violence, once started, becomes self-justifying, than the search for someone to blame should concentrate on the beginnings and should take proper notice of the facts.

Mr. Owens would do well to bear this in mind when he discusses IRA rhetoric and the wishes of the Protestant majority and especially when he seeks to blame the current round of violence on an imaginary eruption of the Catholics and the IRA in 1968.

Dennis Foley
Puffton Village

Thank you SCANN

To the Editor

I attended two of the workshops sponsored by SCANN and Mass PIRG in memory of Karen Silkwood and as part of Safe Energy Week. I was able to learn about the nuclear power industry's exploitation of Native American People's and their land in order to mine uranium, as well as some of the economics of the industry -- which seem to profit a limited and select few.

In addition to the rallies and actions that groups such as SCANN support, I feel that community outreach and education in the form of workshops and teach-ins is a step in a very good direction for the anti-nuclear movement.

Thank you SCANN, I learned and enjoyed.

Steve Winn
Amherst

Lincoln Apts: Many a sleepless eve

To the Editor

We write to complain about the inefficiency of both the Family Housing and the Physical Plant.

We moved to Lincoln Apartment in June. The toilet seat was broken before we moved in. We told the Family Housing about this. But we have to wait until late August before they finally fixed it.

Remember the first snow this year? We had to go through two sleepless nights before we got heat. But once we got it, the thermostat stays persistently at 80 degrees Farenheit: whether we turn it on or off. We have to open all windows to get some breath; in which case, the thermostat goes down to 75 degrees Farenheit and we have to go through alternate periods of heat and coldness every night. It has been more than 40 days now and we don't know how much longer we have to suffer before we get a nice sleep.

Resident of Lincoln Apt.

Reactionary captain

To the Editor

I for one would like to thank Boston Magazine for printing such a horrid story about UMass. While much of the story is completely erroneous factually, it drawns upon a correct base; there is some amount of vandalism and violence at UMass. I feel justified to thank Boston Magazine for one simple reason. That is, as a result of that story, something is finally being done about increasing security on campus.

The main purpose of my letter however was not to thank Boston Magazine. I am writing because I feel something is wrong when a chancellor is responsive to an article that threatens the reputation of the school rather than being responsive to the students [who have all along expressed and proven the need for added security measures].

I guess while I'm happy something is finally being done, I feel slightly disappointed with our chancellor if it takes something like a story in a magazine before he reacts to a situation that has been threatening UMass for quite some time.

Name Withheld Upon Request

Letters Policy

Due to space limitations, letters to the editor should be written as brief as is humanly possible. They should be TYPED at 67 characters across and triple spaced.

To the Editor:

Collegian

BOARD OF DIRECTORS

CAROL ROSENBERG, Editor-in-Chief; CHRISTOPHER H. SCHMITT, Managing Editor; LAURA P. BASSETT, Business Manager; FRAN T. BASCHE, News Editor; STEPHEN B. KLEIN, Executive Editor; LISA M. CAPONE, Women's Editor; MARCIA HOSPEDALES, Black Affairs Editor; AMIRA I. RAHMAN, Photo Editor; DEBRA ROTH, Arts Editor; MARK A. MARCHAND and STEVEN S. ZACK, Sports Editor, MARY B. KINNEAVY, Graphics Manager.

ASSOCIATE EDITORS

Julie Eagle, Pamela Lindmark, Carolyn Mooney, Beth Segers, Gayle Young, Associate Managing Editors; Sean Harvey, Robert E. Stein, Associate News Editors; Jack Gallagher, Associate Executive Editor; Debbie Wallace, Associate Women's Editor; Karen Thomas, Associate Black Affairs Editor; Paul Price, Associate Photo Editor; Ken Sands, Associate Arts Editor; Linda Reyer, Associate Sports Editor; Suzette Courtmanche, Associate Graphics Manager.

BUSINESS DEPARTMENT

Ken GrandPre, Advertising Manager; Joan Daly, Frederic Keillor, Assistant Advertising Managers; Dan Peterson, Circulation Manager; Howard Bass, Finance Manager.

The Collegian is the student newspaper of the University of Massachusetts. The staff is responsible for its content and no faculty member or administrators read it for accuracy or approval prior to publication.

Unsigned editorials represent the view of this paper. They do not necessarily reflect the views of the faculty, administration, or student body as a whole. Unsigned editorials, columns, reviews, cartoons, and letters represent the personal view of the authors.

The Collegian is a member of the Associated Press. Publication of their material does not constitute endorsement.

The Collegian strives to print only advertising which is truthful and complete, but final responsibility for all advertisers lie with the individual advertisers.

USPS 333-220

Crew of 3 lose lives in explosive plane crash

SALT LAKE CITY(AP)— A cargo plane carrying explosives and "a minute quantity" of low-level radioactive material blew up in flight yesterday then crashed in a thinly populated area, officials said. All three crewmen were killed.

The four-engine Transamerica Airlines turboprop crashed in a sagebrush area of the Salt Lake Valley about 5 a.m., 10 minutes after taking off from Hill Air Force Base in Ogden, Utah, officials said.

Originally, the Air Force had said there were 1,500 pounds of explosives aboard.

Rescue workers sighted the body of one crewman in the smoldering fuselage. Lt. John Llewelyn of Salt Lake COunty Sheriff's Department said it was believed "none of the three survived" the crash.

Alfred McCallister, a Federal Aviation Administration official in Salt Lake, said the pilot had radioed that the plane was having electrical problems and was unable to maintain altitude. The plane, a Lockheed Electra L-188, was flying about 11,000 to 12,000 feet at the time, the FAA said.

The plane was en route to Nellis Air Force Base in Las Vegas, Nev., before the crash occured, officials said.

Rick Slakoff, a spokeman for Trans America in San Francisco, identified the crewmen as the pilot, Marvin Dick, 46, of Ogden; the first officer, Harry Gardiner, 35, of Layton; and the flight engineer, Jack Johnstone, 54, of Warner Robbins Air Force Base, Ga.

Monday Night Football at the Bluewall Bar 9:00 P.M.

Chinese Language and Cultural Studies
CLCS Offers:
Reasonable expenses * Travel
* Concentrated study in Taiwan
* Extensive course listing
* Full university credit
Accepting applications for all quarters
For Free Pamphlet and Counseling:
Chinese Language and Cultural Studies
P.O. Box 15563, Long Beach, CA 90815
Telephone: (213) 597-3361

BAGEL DELI
Best in the Valley for:
•whole wheat pastries •fresh bagels
•lox & eggs •omlettes
•blintzes & potato pancakes •frozen yogurt
28 Pleasant St. Northampton

UNE
Noreste, Admissions
January 80 and August 80 applicants 4-year fully recognized and established Mexican Medical School with several hundred American students enrolled. Use English language textbooks and exams in English. School combines quality education, small classes, experienced teachers, modern facilities.
Universidad Del Noreste
120 East 41 St.
NY, NY 10017
(212) 594-6589
or 232-3784

The Hungry-U
Monday Night Pizza Special
Buy any large pizza and get a pitcher of beer for HALF-PRICE!
549-5713
55 University Dr.

UPC PRODUCTIONS AEC/SCANN present
HOLLY NEAR
with J.T. Thomas & Susan Freundlich
Tuesday, December 11, 8 P.M.
Fine Arts Center Concert Hall
Tickets on sale Mon. Nov. 19 at:
Everywoman's Center, Disabled Students Office and WomonFrye Books
$4.—adults $2.—children gen. adm.

Lighting on campus
What good is improved landscaping when it can't be seen at night?

STUDENTS—TAKE BACK the CAMPUS!
CANDLELIGHT MARCH
to Chancellor Koffler's House
MON. 7:30 meet in front of S.U.
Bring flashlights & candles!

CLASSICS HAND PAINTED Stoneware Dinnerware THIS WEEKS FEATURE: Saucer 49¢ ea. With ea. $3 food purchase

FREE FILM ALL YEAR! We'll give you a free roll of "Our Own" 110 or 126 color print film every time you bring in any brand of color print film for processing. Offer good through Saturday, January 12, 1980.

1lb roll Rath Sausage Meat Frozen 59¢
Park Sausage Regular or Hot & Sages. 12 oz. roll $1.29
Jimmie Dean Sausage Meat Regular or Sages. 12 oz. roll $1.19
First Prize Sausage mix of 1 pound roll $1.29
Jones Sausage Mild All Varieties 1lb. roll/3 pack $1.49

self service deli Oscar Mayer Sale!
1 pound package Oscar Mayer Wieners 1.49 Everyone's in love with 'em
Oscar Mayer Bacon 1 lb pkg $1.49
Oscar Mayer Franks Beef or Jumbo 1 lb pkg $1.69
Meat Bologna Oscar Mayer 1 lb pkg $1.39
Variety Pack Oscar Mayer 12 oz pkg $1.79

corner deli Great for cold plate meals.
Available in stores with service deli Artificial Casing Carando Brand Genoa Salami 2.99 lb Natural Casing $3.59 lb
Carando Mortadella $1.89
Carando Pepperoni $2.89 lb
Cooked Ham Oven Roasted Choice $3.69 lb
Potato Salad Homemade 1 lb carton 55¢
Shrimp Salad Stop & Shop $3.99 lb
Custards Plain or Grapefruit 89¢

our kitchen Prepared by our chefs.
Rice Pudding Greek Style 2 lb pkg. 1.35
Pizza Twin Pack 12 ounce $1.09
French Bread Pizza 10 ounce $1.19
Cheese Pizza 18 ounce size $1.29

seafood A big catch of fine values.
Fresh Pollock Fillets 1.49 lb
Fresh Haddock Fillets $2.49 lb
Oysters Fresh Opened 8oz pint $1.89
Shrimp Shell On Lenape Photo Meat Size 1 lb pkg $3.99
Fish-nics Stop & Shop Cooked 10 oz. pkg. frozen $1.09
Extra Large Shrimp 12 oz pkg $5.49
Stop & Shop Peeled & Deveined 1 count

health & beauty aids
Aqua-fresh Toothpaste 6.4 oz. Tube 99¢
Listerine Antiseptic 32oz btl $1.49
2 pkgs. of 2 Ampex Light Bulbs 60-75-100 Watt inside frost 99¢

Stop & Shop Coupon J26 With this coupon and a $7.50 purchase
FREE 16 oz. can STOP & SHOP WHOLE KERNEL CORN
Good Mon., Nov. 19-Nov. 24. Limit one per customer
Grocery 248

Stop & Shop Coupon J29 With this coupon and a $7.50 purchase
FREE 16 oz. pkg. STOP & SHOP FROZEN SQUASH
Good Mon., Nov. 19-Nov. 24. Limit one per customer
Frozen 251

Stop & Shop Coupon J33 With this coupon and a $7.50 purchase
FREE! BLUE BONNET MARGARINE 1 lb package qtr. lb sticks
Dairy 278

Stop & Shop
Your good old New England Thanksgiving Headquarters.
Get your Stop&Shopsworth.

For Your Traditional Holiday Feast
U.S. Grade A Frozen 18-22lbs. Turkeys 69¢ lb
Turkeys U.S. Grade A 10-12 lbs. Frozen 79¢
Swift's Deep Basted 18-22lbs. Frozen Butterball 85¢ lb
Swift's Butterball Turkeys Deep Basted 10-13lbs. Frozen 89¢
Fresh U.S. Grade A 18-22lbs. Turkeys 89¢ lb
Fresh Turkeys U.S. Grade A 10-13lbs 89¢
Stop & Shop Turkeys 18-22lbs. Frozen Butter Basted 79¢ lb
Butter Basted Turkeys Stop & Shop 12-14 lbs. Frozen 85¢

Top Round Roast Beef Steaks 2.29 lb 1.79 lb
Beef Round Tip Roast Steaks 2.39 lb 1.89 lb
Beef Eye Round Roast "Great Beef" USDA Choice 2.39 lb
Beef Rump Roast "Great Beef" USDA Choice 1.99 lb
Beef Rib Roast 4th thru 7th Ribs Bone-in 1st 3 Ribs 2.79 lb 2.29 lb

Semi Boneless Ham Colonial Cooked Water Added 1.59 lb
Cooked Ham Shank Portion Stop & Shop Special Trim Less Waste 1.29 lb
Cooked Ham Rump Portion Stop & Shop Special Trim Less Waste 1.39 lb
Hospitality Ham Boneless Water Added 2.29 lb
Hormel Cure #81 Ham 2.89 lb produce Our buyers shop for the best and freshest values.

"First of Season" Large California Navel Oranges 6 for 1
Red or Golden Extra Fancy Delicious Wash. State Apples 2 lbs 89¢ 138 size
Extra Fancy Anjou Pears 2 lbs 89¢
Jumbo Calif. Celery bunch 69¢
Yellow Onions 5 lbs 79¢
Fresh Carrots 2 lb bag 39¢
Squash Butternut or Acorn 19¢ lb
Meats Walnut Diamond 10oz. Pkg. 1.79

Apple and Eve Apple Juice All Natural 64 oz. bottle 99¢
Cranberry, Date or Banana Pillsbury Bread Mix 16 oz. pkg. 89¢
Ocean Spray One Pie Cranberry Drink 48 ounce bottle 99¢
Pumpkin or Squash 15 ounce can 2 .. 79¢
Pie Crust Mix Pie Crust Shell Betty Crocker or Pillsbury 3 11 oz pkgs $1
Graham Cracker Johnson's 8oz pkg 59¢
Stop & Shop In Syrup Fruit Cocktail 2 17oz cans 89¢
Sweet Mixed Vlasic Pickles 32 oz jar 79¢
Maraschino Orchard Queen Cherries 10 ounce jar 69¢
Heinz Gravy Mixes Brown, Chicken, Onion, Mushroom or Turkey 2 12oz jars 89¢
Vlasic Spears Large Olives Polish or Kosher Dill 24 ounce jar 69¢
Early California Black Pitted 6oz. Can 59¢
Stop & Shop Sliced Carrots 16oz. Can 4 for 1
Stop & Shop Medium Peas 16 oz. can 3 for 1
Royal Prince Yams 1 lb 2 oz can 69¢
Sliced Beets Stop & Shop 4 16 oz. cans $1
Cut Green Beans Stop & Shop 4 16 oz cans $1
Mixed Vegetables Veg-All 3 10 oz. cans $1
3 pound can Stop & Shop Shortening Why pay more? 1.49
Assorted Flavors Hawaiian Punch 46oz. can 2 for 1
Nestles Morsels Jumbo Semi-Sweet 12 ounce pkg $1.59
Bells Stuffing Mix 16oz pkg 97¢
Seven Up Soda Diet or Caffeine Free 64oz btl + deposit 99¢
FFV Snack Crackers 10 oz pkg 59¢

frozen foods Energy-saver values!
Pumpkin, Minced or Apple Mrs. Smith's Pies 26oz pkg. 99¢
Stop & Shop Half Gallon All Natural Ice Cream Assorted Flavors 1.79 tub
Sara Lee Pound Cake 10 ounce pkg 89
Pie Shell Crust Mrs. Smith's 17 oz. pkg (of 2) 79¢
Vegetables Stop & Shop 24oz bag 69
Peas, Peas & Carrots, Corn or Mixed Vegetables
Sherbert Stop & Shop 3 Flavors half gallon container 99¢
Whip Topping Stop & Shop 13 fl. ounce container 69¢
Melon Balls or Mixed Fruit Seabrook 16 ounce pkg 89¢

dairy Save on many of the top brands!
Whole Milk Calabro Ricotta 2 pound container 1.99
Gallon Stop & Shop Orange Juice 128oz Cont. From Concentrate 1.79
Colombo Yogurt Assorted Flavors 3 8oz btls $1
Cream Cheese Kraft Philadelphia 8 ounce pkg 59¢
Light n Lively Cottage Cheese 16 ounce container 79¢
All Purpose Cream Stop & Shop 16oz carton 89¢
Sour Cream Stop & Shop 16 ounce container 65¢
Stop & Shop Rolls Buttermilk or Homestyle 6 8oz pkgs 1

bakery Treats from our own ovens!
Stop & Shop. Variety Breads Oatmeal, Italian, or Honey-Wheat Buttertop 16oz. Loaf 2 for 1
Stop & Shop. Squash or Pumpkin Pie 22oz. Pkg. 99¢
Blueberry Muffins Stop & Shop 4 4oz pkg (of 8) 1.19
English Muffins Stop & Shop 2 12oz pkgs (inc.) 1
Cinnamon Raisin or Blueberry Flavored
Egg Rolls Plain or Seeded Stop & Shop 12oz pkg (of 6) 69¢
Dinner Rolls Stop & Shop 12oz pkg (of 6) 59¢
Brown & Serve

Prices effective Mon. Nov 19-Sat., Nov. 24 in stores to all our customers. We reserve the right to limit quantities on any item. Prices in effect at Stop & Shop Supermarkets. All rights reserved for reproduction by photographic means.

HADLEY-AMHERST Route 9 at the Hadley-Amherst Line. 8a.m.-10p.m., Mon.-Sat. We redeem your Federal Food Stamps.

★ Hot-L Warren

CONT. FROM PAGE 1
house, also owned by Ockington, which contained the natural gas for all of Deerfield -- New England's agricultural center of the time -- was exploded, killing the proprietor and smashing all the windows of the hotel.

When it was called A'Hearn's Restaurant, Calvin Coolidge, then mayor of Northampton (in 1910-11), ate lunch at the hotel, according to Scott.

And over the past century, Scott said, "people haven't changed that much. They still like to dance and have a good time."

FRYE

Save $40

Sale $55

Ladies 16" Cuff (Limited sizes)

Over 50 styles sizes 4-15

Heartfelt Leather

103 N. Pleasant St. Downtown Amherst

Dan Guidera, Mark Marchand, Steve Zack, George O'Brien. Four good ways to keep abreast of campus and pro sports.

INTERESTED IN ENVIRONMENTAL ISSUES?

ENVIRONMENTAL ECONOMICS? ENERGY ECONOMICS?

Check out Food & Resource Economics 262

3 credits - M W F 10:10

for information call

Tom Stevens 545-2489

Graduate student Lynn Frieband takes time out Saturday afternoon to work on a bronze statue at the Sculpture Studio, located behind the Morrill Science Center. (Staff photo by Fadi Shawish)

Collegian Classifieds

To place a Collegian Classified Ad
- Come to Collegian Office (CC 113)
- 8:45 to 3:45, Mon. thru Fri.
- Classified deadline is 3:45 two days prior to publication day

Collegian Classified Rates
- 15c per word
- Student rate 10c per word
- Cash in advance
- 5 consecutive days, 5% discount
- Phone number FREE

AUDIO

Theatrix Rents Mirror balls and other Disco supplies. Lights for sale, new and used 323-7160

McIntosh Amp & Preamp Harmon Kardon Tuner, Dual Turntable Bill - 665-2810

Large Advents $175 pair 546-5738

Sony TC-355 reel to reel $120 or B.O. 549-6689

AUTO FOR SALE

72 Opel-Cadet exc-cond-30-mpg-auto Call Jim 549-3672

72 Mustang Grande: Very good cond., auto, stereo, reg, gas, $1800 Call Steve 253-3782

68 Impala needs work or for parts $125 mornings 256-6279

69 Belair must sell, engine excellent, 400 or B.O. 549-1399

64 Falcon St. Wgn. runs $100. Rick 253-7634

ENTERTAINMENT

Good Times—DJ's for hire, disco and/or Rock, Call 546-4726 or 546-4777

Soundsystem for Hire perfect for bands, discos, coffeehouses Rick 584-4105

Music, Games, Prizes, and lots of Fun! Energize yourself for the Fall Cosmic Wimpout Residential Tournaments!

Good Times—DJ's for hire, disco and/or Rock call 546-4726 or 546-4777

FOR RENT

Cliffside 1 bedroom apartment available Call 665-3902 evenings.

1 Bedroom in three bedroom apt $118/month plus utilities start Jan., bus route 5-10 minute walk to campus, call 549-6537

FOR SALE

Portrait Drawing Dennis Delap, 256-8732

2 Leather Jackets Walter Dyer Call 253-7103

2 ½ price airline coupons call Debby 323-5262

Full size bed w/frame & headboard. Call evenings 584-5077

Half-fare United coupon 549-5031

United Airlines Coupon for sale $50 or best offer, call 584-3357

Two United half price coupons $50 each or best offer, call 253-2541

United coupon $30/offer 256-0334 aft 5

Waterless Cookware 20 pc set, great Xmas gift, price reduced until Nov. 30 549-2867

United Airlines half price coupon best offer 546-9729

Wallets - Top quality leather, great Xmas gifts, hurry-limited stock 19-10 546-7524

Ski Boots size 11 Kevin 549-4199

1 american Airline ½-price coupon, best offer call Sarah 546-6004

FOUND

Small silver necklace or chain found on UMass bus Saturday Night

HELP WANTED

Overseas Jobs—Summer/year round. Europe, S. America, Australia, Asia, etc. All fields, $500-$1,200 monthly, expenses paid. Sightseeing, free information write: IJC, Box 52-MC, Corona Del Mar, CA. 92625

I need a tutor for Physics 162 immediately. One hour per week. Rate negotiable. Call Steve at 546-7133

Caretaker for 6 month old baby in our home. Mon., Wed., 2-4:30 P.M. Thurs. 1:00 P.M. on bus route $1.50/hr 256-6475

On Campus 3 Juniors, Seniors. One living in Northeast/Sylvan, Orchard Hill/Central, Southwest. Call Keepsake Diamond Showcase 536-8411 Holyoke Mall

Free Adorable Kitten 12 wks old, grey, we're moving and can't take her with us 546-6461

Homeworkers needed!! $500/1,000 stuffing envelopes. Rush stamped self-addressed envelope—Dynamic Enterprises, D313 G.R.C., Bloomingtom, IN. 47406

LEGAL SERVICES

Attorney Jason R. Rosenthal General Practice Legal Representation for the Amherst, Mass community by apt. only days 584-4285 evenings 253-7617

LOST

Lost-Amplifier on Friday, Nov. 2 in front of Thoreau. Dynaco Stereo 80 is old and broken. Reward in $ or Herb. Call Dan at 6-7867

Help lost glasses in brown case on campus please call Annie 6-5654

At Hot Bell's H. S. ring with initials TSP, Reward 546-8017

Lost—Wire Frame glasses in a green & yellow case—reward call 6-1417

PERSONALS

You took my brown tweed blazer sz. 9 Larry Levine at PICA party 11/8 and left your wine twd blazer. I have yours, you have mine-let's switch, please. No questions asked. Julie 549-2664 or 545-3500

Female Musicians Wanted to form band. Into Stones. Devento, Circle Drive, Box 132, Monroe, NY 10950

Anyone interested in tryouts for the Basketball Twirling Squad: Tryouts will be at the end of Nov. Call Wendy at 6-6175 for more information

UMass concert photographs of Bonnie Raitt & Talking Heads call, respectively: Howard 665-7759 & Steve 5-2240 or 557-3002

Aloha MCQ Welcome Back

Charismatic Bible Study and Prayer Campus Center 901 Tuesday November 20 at 8 pm all students welcome

First Floor Only—congratulations on the birth of Lisa. A 10 pound baby girl.

Need 3 credits? Volunteer and tutor with NES 549-6508 549-5730

To my Prince with the sweet, sweet smile - I love you, your cowgirl

TARA-RAH! Thanks for helping us there, sisters now and forever M&J

LL: You bring the jello and felt I'll bring the whipped cream and dice NSLM

RIDE WANTED

Desparate: Ride needed for two to LI on Wed. Nov. 21 - Mike 546-6088

Ride needed for Nov. 21 to New York call 665-7975 nights

ROOMMATE WANTED

Immediate Occupancy Brandywine $119 call 549-1049 1 room

Two Roommates to share one bedroom in Sunderland Apt. $90 & util., starting Jan 1 Call Johnn at 665-4792

Quiet, responsible woman to share a house on a lake in Belchertown. Dec. 1-June 546-4929 10 PM - 7 AM

House in Shutesbury needs occupants pets OK call Nancy keep trying 253-3301 7 mi from Campus

ROOM WANTED

Female seeks room in quiet house Nancy 256-8610

SECURITY DEPOSIT PROBLEMS?

Have any questions about your security deposit? Do you think monies were unfairly deducted for repairs or cleaning? Did you get 5% interest? Do you know where your money is being held? Call the Security Deposit Task Force at UMass Legal Services 545-1995 or Off Campus Housing 545-0865

STURDY CAR

Study car 65 Buick, excellent condition, new battery, rebuilt carburator, 600 or BO 253-2772

SERVICES

"Attention Car Owners" Protect you auto with an alarm system. Up to 15% off insurance. One year guarantee 549-4041

TO SUBLET

1 bedroom Cliffside apt bus route, tennis courts, pool, available Jan 1, call665-4448

WANTED

Fast Immediate Cash for gold-school rings-diamonds-silver Jeff anytime 527-7078 586-0180

WANTED TO RENT

2 Bedroom apt sublease pref Brittany Manor call after 6 546-9636 or 546-8170

2 Resp. Persons looking to rent or sublet 2-3 bedroom apt or house Please call Melinda at 546-7021 or 546-7023

2 bedroom apt wanted for spring, starting Jan. 1, call 546-5874

2 bedroom apt bonus$$ pref. split level for Spring semester call 546-4096, 546-4904, 546-4093

Moving Out? Looking for a two bedroom apt. starting Jan. Bonus offered$$$ call 546-4093

Aluminum Foil by Steve Lafler

Nuke the Whale by Danny Guidera

Norma B. by M.J. Galper

Beasts by Rob Ranney

Doonesbury by Garry Trudeau

TODAY'S CROSSWORD PUZZLE

ACROSS
1 Wound
5 West and Murray
9 Guide
14 Allot
15 "Kubla Khan" river
16 Flavor
17 Differently
19 "— — of Old Smoky"
20 Composer Ferde —
21 Sleds
23 Mouth water
25 Girl's name
26 Roman emperor
28 Banged in
32 Hand coverings: 2 words
37 Reserve
38 — Lupino
39 Hebrew high priest
41 Inlet
42 Univ. bldgs.
45 Fruit rind: 2 words
48 Rests
50 Epochal
51 Semites
54 Sharp ridges
58 Disciplinarians
62 Globe
63 More
64 Put back
66 Bay
67 Hence
68 Robt. — —
69 Perishers
70 Minister.
71 Dare: Dial.

DOWN
1 Smazes
2 Four: Prefix
3 Mass. town
4 Complaining
5 Gullet
6 Came down
7 — salts
8 Queen of —
9 Cigars
10 Touching
11 This: Sp.
12 English school
13 Agts.
18 Festivity
22 California fort
24 Venezuelan copper center
27 Egg shaped
29 Lacerated
30 Great Lake
31 Negotiate
32 Jokes
33 Icon
34 Defy
35 Before
36 Any
40 Girl's name
43 Pithier
44 Dashes
46 Nostrils
47 Folded
49 — Diego
52 French cap
53 Cubic meter
55 Musical refrain
56 Feminine suffixes
57 Sail
58 Lass
59 Hindu god
60 Rattle
61 Gesture
65 Bow

UNITED Feature Syndicate
Friday's Puzzle Solved

F	A	M	E	D		S	L	A	W		S	L	A	T
A	N	E	L	E		M	O	R	E		A	I	R	E
C	O	A	S	T	G	U	A	R	D		R	A	L	D
E	N	T	I	R	E		W	A	D	E	N	E	D
		B	E	A	N	S		Y	E	A	S	T		N
A	L	A		C	R	A	B		D	Y	E
M	I	L		T	E	T	O	N		S	A	H	I	B
I	D	L	E		S	O	L	O	N		R	O	V	E
D	O	S	E	S		R	E	T	O	P		N	A	N
			L	A	S		S	I	D	E		E	N	D
A	P	A		I	T	A	N		I	D	E	S
P	U	S	H	C	A	R	T		C	A	N	T	O	N
I	N	T	O		P	E	R	C	E	N	T	A	G	E
S	T	O	P		L	A	I	R		T	A	B	L	E
H	A	R	E		E	S	P	Y		S	L	E	E	P

DC menu

LUNCH
Turkey Divan
Grilled Cheese Sandwich

BASICS LUNCH
Turkey Divan
Grilled Cheese/Wheat

DINNER
Baked Chicken/Supreme Sauce, Cranberry Sauce
Italian Shrimp and Rice

BASICS DINNER
Baked Chicken/Supreme Sauce, Cranberry Sauce
Greek Skillet

EARTHFOODS
Soy burgers
Fruit salad
Mushroom-barley soup
Cranberry bread

Custom-Made In Our Store Cake'n Ice Cream Cakes

Your choice of 31-derful flavors

BASKIN-ROBBINS ICE CREAM STORE 31

28 Main St. Amherst 253-9774

across from Town Hall on the BN/BR bus routes

Sports notices

PARACHUTE CLUB — Special meeting -- emergency elections, "Death Bus" down payments for Florida trip. Resolution for unjumped people. Last organized meeting of the year. Please attend. 7:00 p.m., Nov. 29 in SBA 100.

HANG GLIDING CLUB — Important meeting tonight at 7:30 p.m. in CC 803. Many topics to be discussed. Newcomers and all members urged to attend. We're a real active club now and we're doing a lot of flying.

INTRAMURALS - THANKSGIVING SCHEDULE — Wed., Nov. 21: Boyden and NOPE close at 6:00 p.m. Thurs., Nov. 22: ALL FACILITIES CLOSED (Thanksgiving).
Fri. and Sat., Nov. 23-24: Boyden open 10:00-6:00 p.m., NOPE closed.
Sun., Nov. 25: Boyden open 12:00-8:00 p.m., NOPE closed.

INTRAMURAL ENTRIES DUE — Three on three basketball due Monday, Nov. 19. Basketball (Men, women, co-rec) due Wednesday, Dec. 5. Entries should be brought to 215 Boyden.
Basketball officials meeting are being held on Dec. 10, 11, and 12 at 7:00 in Boyden 249. Officials must attend at least one of these meetings.

Staff meeting

There will be a mandatory sports staff meeting tonight at 8:00 at the sports desk. Winter beats will be discussed and assigned. The Budweiser Athlete of the week will be chosen at the meeting. All members of the sports staff are urged to attend along with newcomers interested in writing sports.

★ Objective fan

CONT. FROM PAGE 16

people get me confused with a cheerleader. I am not a cheerleader. My job is not to encourage, praise, or psych-up a team. My purpose in covering an event is not to make players or coaches happy by giving them ink. My job is to report what happens at a sporting event, to the best of my ability, for the benefit of the readers.

Which brings me to the subject of ability. If the afore-mentioned player had told me I "suck" in reference to my journalistic ability, there would be virtually no argument. I have a long way to go before I cover basketball for the Globe. That's why I'm here at UMass, and the Collegian.

He was upset, however, because I did not play the role of Cheerleader.

GREAT
Blouses - Skirts
Gifts Cards Prices
Daily 10 am 6 pm Sunday 12 5 pm
THE MERCANTILE
AMHERST CARRIAGE SHOPS

Featuring Shirts, Hats & Jackets with Red Sox
All Major Patriots
Logos Yankees
Cowboys
SPORT SHACK
Hampshire Mall, Hadley, Mass.

To Serve Studying Students
the Campus Center will provide
food service in
THE HATCH CAFETERIA
in the evenings
Monday-Friday 5:00 pm-10:00 pm
On a Trial Basis

The Amherst Deli
Winter Hours
Mon-Thur 9 a.m.-8 p.m.
Fri-Sat 9 a.m.-10 p.m.
Sunday 9 a.m.-6 p.m.
The Amherst Carriage Shops
549-6314

Taste the pride of Canada.
Molson.

You'll get a taste of nearly 200 years of brewing heritage every time you open a cool, green bottle of MOLSON GOLDEN.™ North America's oldest brewery got its start back in 1786. John Molson, our founder, wouldn't recognize our modern breweries, but he'd be proud of the good, smooth taste of GOLDEN.™
A taste that says Canada in every refreshing sip.
Brewed and bottled in Canada; imported by Marlet Importing Co., Inc., Great Neck, N.Y.

THE MAGNIFICENT WRITING MACHINES
Smith-Corona®
Typewriter Models
SMITH-CORONA
Coronamatic™
sug. retail $289.50
our reg. $24 .95
SPECIAL
$20 OFF
only
$229.95

Has wide carriage, full sized keyboard and manual carriage return. Takes large envelopes, ledger sheets. Cartridge ribbon sysyem uses carbon film, fabric, colors and correction tape. Repeating keys; full range tabulator.

sug. retail $110.00
our reg. $89.95
SPECIAL
$10.00 OFF
only
$79.95
SMITH-CORONA®
Courier™
Good looking, wide carriage manual portable with sports styling, vivid youthful colors and many practical features like pre-set tabs, two color ribbon, and variable spacing.
*specials limited to typewriters in stock
offer ends Dec. 21
VISA
Mastercharge
American express
accepted
campus center/umass
the UNIVERSITY STORE

JV gridders fall to Brown 10-7

By SCOTT SOLOMON
Collegian Staff

A 74-yard pass from Dave Baum to Ron Mosely on a fake punt with 6:23 left in the first half gave the Brown University junior varsity a 10-7 victory over the J.V. Minutemen last Friday at Alumni Stadium. The loss lowered the Minuteman record to 3-2, while Brown elevated its mark to 3-3 in a game which marked the season finale for both clubs.

Brown began with good field position on their first possession, starting on their own 45. A screen pass from quarterback Baum to Paul Furnham set Brown up on the UMass 34, with a fourth and seven facing them, apparently out of field goal range. But kicker Bud Brooks came in and finished the job with a 50-yard strike which sailed through the uprights, giving Brown a 3-0 edge with over nine minutes still remaining in the quarter.

The Bruins came right back on their last ball control of the period. George Gordon slapped down UMass punter Ray Larnard's kick (Gordon blocked two of three Larnard miscues on the afternoon), setting Brown on the Minuteman 28. Two offside penalties against UMass as the second quarter opened put the ball on the two-yard line, giving the Bruins a fourth and goal situation. On the next play back Tim Ruark was swamped by defenseman Dan Brucato and Steve Gootkind, halting the Bruin threat.

Five minutes later the UMass offense struck, as a Rich Vaughn fumble gave the Minutemen a first and ten on the Bruin 30. Two plays later, tailback Mark Piccirillo burst through the left side of the Brown defensive wall and galloped 24 yards to give UMass a 6-3 lead. Greg Conklin's extra point upped the margin to 7-3 with 10:21 to play in the half.

On fourth and 11 from their own 26, Brown lined up in punt formation. But quarterback Baum took the snap from Bruin center Jim Higgins, and lofted a bomb to a wide open Ron Mosley, who coasted in, reaffirming the Bruin edge, 9-7. A Brooks extra-point lifed the total to 10-7.

★ Stickers

CONT. FROM PAGE 1

cident Saturday night and was only able to watch the game from the bench. But the Minutewomen ignored the possible setbacks due to O'Neil's absence, and played well enough to disappoint the hometown fans at Benedum Field.

"We came to win" was the assurance from Pam Hixon. The stickers never let the Chiefs get on the track offensively, shutting down a team that had scored four times in its previous two games. Springfield reached the finals from perhaps the toughest seed, fifth, defeating Bridgewater State 3-2 in its semi-final game. Bridgewater defeated number one seeded UConn 2-1 in its first round game and ended in third place.

Judy Strong capped her brilliant tournament play when she took a pass from freshman Sue Caples and faked around a defender before her shot beat Chief goalie Robin Walcott to the left corner of the net.

University &
Office Supplies
Thanksgiving & Christmas
Cards
A.J. Hastings Inc.
newsdealer & stationer
45 S. Pleasant St., Amherst

FOR LOVERS
THE MOST INTIMATE BOOK OF POEMS EVER WRITTEN FOR LOVERS AND DREAMERS AND THOSE ALONE. IT'S AN IDEAL GIFT FOR YOURSELF AND THE ONE YOU LOVE; THEY WILL REMEMBER YOU ALWAYS IN BLACK AND WHITE FOR THE TOUCH OF ELEGANCE.
For Your Copy:
Send $10.00
& Tax
VAN STEAD
303 FIFTH AVE.,
NEW YORK 10016

NOW YOU CAN EARN OVER $6,500 WITH ARMY ROTC.
Before you graduate from college! Because now, you can combine service in the Army Reserve or National Guard with Army ROTC. It's called the Simultaneous Membership Program (SMP). And, depending on your academic year when you enter, SMP can help you earn over $6,500.
Here's how it works. If you qualify and a vacancy is available, you become a member of an Army Reserve or National Guard unit as an officer trainee and, at the same time, enroll in the Army ROTC advanced course at your college. Your Reserve or Guard membership will pay you at the minimum level of Sergeant E-5, and you'll receive $100 a month during the regular school year as an Army ROTC advanced course cadet.
At the end of your second year of advanced ROTC, you'll be commissioned a second lieutenant and, assuming there's a vacancy, serve with a Guard or Reserve unit while you complete the requirements for your college degree. Upon graduation, you may continue service with a Guard or Reserve unit while pursuing your civilian career, or you can, if you prefer, compete for active duty as an Army officer.
So if you'd like to earn over $6,500 while you're still in college, get into SMP. Because SMP can help you do it. You can bank on it!
For further information, contact the Professor of Military Science at your school.
ARMY ROTC. ARMY NATIONAL GUARD. ARMY RESERVE.

QUICK copy and Typing inc.
"Quality at a price you can afford"
*Copying
*Offset
*Thermography
*Binding
*Word processing
*Typing
*Executive secretarial services
If you can find a lower price for comparable service we will refund the difference to you.
The Carriage Shops
Amherst
master charge
549-0557
Hours M-F 9-8
Sat 10-5
or by appt.
visa

Fall means back to friends... back together

This fall make a great impression with a precision haircut shaped especially for you . . . then step stylishly into fall fashion and be a winner.
GREAT EXPECTATIONS
PRECISION HAIRCUTTERS
$10. COMPLETE
Shampoo, precision cut, blow dry styling
HAMPSHIRE MALL

$1.00 OFF REGULAR ADULT PRICE PRESENT AD BOX OFFICE
CINEMA 1-8
HOLYOKE MALL AT INGLESIDE
Mass. Pike Exit 4 to Int. Exit 15
24 Hr. Movie-Phone 538-7510
Recorded in Dolby
The MUPPET MOVIE G
Today 1:10-3:15 5:00-7:20 & 9:30
A True Story
THE ONION FIELD R
HELD OVER
WHEN A STRANGER CALLS R
Today 1:00-3:00-5:00-7:20 & 9:30
The Night He Came Home
HALLOWEEN
Today 1:20 7:45 & 9:45
Ends Tuesday
Harold and Maude
Held Over
BREAKING AWAY
Today 2:45-4:55-7:05 & 9:15
FRENCH POSTCARDS PG
SKATETOWN USA
ROLLER DISCO! PG
DOORS OPEN THANKSGIVING DAY 4:30 PM

AMC AMERICAN MULTI CINEMA
ADULTS $2.75 STUDENTS & SR. CITIZENS with AMC CARD $2.25 TWI-LITE SHOW $1.50 Special Engagements Excluded Twi-Lite Show Limited to Seating
TIMES SHOWN FOR TODAY ONLY
HAMPSHIRE 4 584-7550 HAMP. MALL ON CAFE SQ., RT. 9, HADLEY, MASS.
Apocalypse Now
Mon-Wed (5:30 @ $1.50) 8:30 Thur 1:30 (4:30 @ $1.50) 7:45-10:30 R
NATIONAL LAMPOON'S ANIMAL HOUSE
Mon-Wed (6:00 @ $1.50) 8:30 Thur 2:00 (5:00 @ $1.50) 7:30-9:45 R
Movie and Dinner see one of the 8 movies listed here and have dinner at the Pewter Pot Rest on Cafe Square in the Hampshire Mall for only $5 call for details
STARTING OVER
Mon-Wed (6:- @ $1.50) 8:45 Thur 2:00 (5:00 @ $1.50) 7:30-9:45 R
BREAKING AWAY
Mon-Wed (6:15 @ $1.50) 8:45 Thur 2:15 (5:15 @ $1.50) 7:30-9:55 PG
MOUNTAIN FARMS 4 584-9153 MOUNTAIN FARMS MALL ROUTE 9-HADLEY, MASS.
A temptingly tasteful comedy 10
Mon-Wed (6:00 @ $1.50) 8:30 Thur 2:15 (5:00 @ $1.50) 7:30-9:55 R
AL PACINO AND JUSTICE FOR ALL
Mon-Wed (6:00 @ $1.50) 8:30 Thur (5:00 @ $1.50) 7:30-9:55 R
Honk if you love Brian. MONTY PYTHON'S LIFE OF BRIAN
Mon-Wed (6:15 @ $1.50) 8:45 Thur 2:15 (5:15 @ $1.50) 7:45-10:15 R
ROCK AND ROLLER DISCO! SKATETOWN USA
Mon-Wed (6:15 @ $1.50) 8:45 Thur 2:00 (5:15 @ $1.50) 7:45-10:15 PG

Duke's Gene Banks slams down two of his 17 points during the Blue Devils game with the Kentucky Wildcats at the Springfield Civic Center on Saturday. Duke won 82-76 in overtime. (Staff photo by Steve Zack)

Gridders clinch YanCon tie by taming Wildcats 29-0

By JIM DEGNIM
Collegian Staff

DURHAM, NH -- The UMass football team dominated New Hampshire in every facet of the game Saturday en route to a 29-0 win before 7,000 at Cowell Stadium. The victory gives the Minutemen a 4-1 mark in league play (6-3 overall) and a tie with Boston University for the Yankee Conference title, which UMass won outright in '77 and '78.

Now the Minutemen must wait for the NCAA Div. 1AA playoff bids to come out. Four teams will be named, one each from the South, the West, the East, and one at-large team. While the selection committee may wait another week before choosing the playoff participants, the bids will probably go out today, according to Richard Page, UMass sports information director.

Most observers feel that Lehigh (9-2) will be chosen to represent the East, and that if the at-large team comes from the East it will be B.U., by virtue of its better record (8-1-1 to UMass' 6-3.) UMass plays at Boston College next week, while B.U.'s regular season is over.

There is at least one person who thinks that UMass should be chosen. "We're the best Division 1AA football team in the East," UMass head coach Bob Pickett said after the UNH game.

"We beat the daylights out of B.U. It wasn't a squeaker. It was a decisive win. If this area wants the best team to go to the playoffs, in my mind we're it."

UNH coach Bill Bowes, whose team lost to B.U., 41-28, doesn't see such a clear cut difference between the Minutemen and the Terriers.

"The selection committee has a difficult decision," Bowes said. "UMass and B.U. are pretty even football teams."

While many think that a 6-3 team has little chance of post-season consideration, playoff selection committees often work in inexplicable ways.

It was apparent from the outset Saturday that the Wildcats were overmatched, as the Minutemen drove 80 years for a touchdown on their first possession, using almost seven and a half minutes. Senior tailback Cliff Pedrow (15 carries, 43 yards) ran one yard around right end for the touchdown. Key plays in the drive were two passes to freshman fullback Dan Dawson, who caught four passes in the game for 68 yards.

UMass scored again early in the second quarter when quarterback Mike McEvilly threw a three-yard scoring pass to tight end Marty Paglione to finish a 75-yard drive. The big play in the drive was a 23-yard pass to Dawson.

On New Hampshire's next possession, Wildcat tailback Jim Quinn was tackled in the end zone for a safety, typifying the kind of day it was for UNH.

Midway through the quarter, UMas kicker Sandro Vitiello booted the first of his two field goals from 32-yards, and UMass led 19-0 at the half.

UMass quarterback Mike McEvilly completed 12 of 23 passes for 190 yards and one touchdown during Saturday's 29-0 Minuteman win over New Hampshire. (Staff photo by Richard Newman)

UMass finished its scoring in the third quarter as freshman Gary Pearson (13 carries, 51 yards) ran 17 yards for his first career touchdown from scrimmage. Later, Vitiello kicked a 31-yard field goal.

The UMass defense played very well, limiting UNH to two net yards rushing and 105 passing. Defensive back Bob Manning had two interceptions, and had a punt return for a touchdown called back due to a penalty. Manning also had another apparent touchdown called back when he scooped up a fumble and went into the end zone, but the play had already been whistled dead.

McEvilly, playing in his final conference game had a fine day, connecting on 12 of 23 passes for 190 yards and a touchdown. He also ran the ball ten times for 40 yards. In the second quarter, he threw the ball a light year as he hit Mike Newell for a 52-yard gain.

"McEvilly is the best quarterback in the Yankee Conference," said Bowes. "He was the difference today. He made several key third down plays." Indeed, as the senior quarterback led his unit to six consecutive third down conversions in the first and second quarters.

UMass' defense was reflected in the final statistics. The Minutemen ran 81 offensive plays, 30 more than the Wildcats. UMass racked up 34 total yards compared to 107 for New Hampshire, 23 first downs to eight for UNH.

The objective fan

By DAVE BRADLEY
Collegian Staff

College athletes should not play a sport because they want to get their names in the paper. And they should not expect to see their names in a sports story unless they are a part of that story.

After a recent sporting event I was accosted by a player who referred to Collegian sportswriters in general, then told me that I "suck." It was explained to me by his teammate that he did this because his name was not mentioned in previous stories about the team.

Commentary

I was amused. I was reminded of my days in Little League when my hometown paper used to put the names of the children who got hits the previous week in the corner of the last sportspage. I got a big kick out of that when I was ten years of age.

But before a similar incident occurs, and I am again afforded these fond memories, I'd like to explain something to everyone involved with UMass sports: there is a big difference between a sportswriter and a cheerleader.

A cheerleader is someone who stands on the sidelines at a sporting event, yells, jumps, dances and chants in support of his/her team. A sportswriter is someone who sits or stands -- usually quietly -- at a sporting event, observes, takes notes, interviews coaches and players, and then reports what happens on the field, court, mat, track, etc.

Most people, including athletes, can pick out the differences between the two quite easily. But to make it even simpler, cheerleaders often wear bright-colored clothes and wave pom-poms or wield magaphones, while sportswriters are most often equipped with a notebook and pen.

As a sportswriter, I get annoyed when

TURN TO PAGE 14

Collegian Sports

Doreen Dahle was one of nine women who participated in the intramural table-tennis tournament last Saturday. The championship titles went to Steve Marecha and Adele Fox. (Staff photo by Fadi Shawish)

UMass forward Judy Strong (33) advances the ball against Springfield College during the championship game of last weekend's Northeast Field Hockey Tournament. For full details see Mike Estrada's story on page one. (Staff photo by Pat McCarthy)

NUMMO

Nummo is editorially independent of the Massachusetts Daily Collegian. It exists due to the prior struggles of Black students to obtain coverage of Third World News.

volume 8 issue 10 19 november 1979

Photo By Ed Cohen

The World Saxophone quartet as they appeared in concert November 14 at the Campus Center Auditorium

THANKSGIVING:
Thanks for nothing

by Tony Crayton

One of America's most celebrated holidays is here again-Thanksgiving. The television programs are flooded with variations on the same theme of giving thanks. For many people however the question annually resounds; thanks for what? I say this because for many Blacks, Native Americans, Hispanics and Asians Thankgiving is not a holiday but a holoday. "Holo" because it is devoid of any honest accounting for the millions who died for white "manifest destiny." It is "holo" because the true holocaust happened, not for 10 years to 6 million, but for 200 years to 100 million. And it's not over.

July 4, 1976, the entire country invested billions of dollars to celebrate the Bicentennial and as it was then its the same now. CrispusAttucks a Black man becomes the first to die for white liberty, and on the country's 200th birthday in Boston, a blackman Theodore Landsmark, an attorney of law, is speared in the face with an American Flag in front of City Hall, a block away from where Crispusfell. Thanks for what?

1629 the Pilgrims landed at Plymouth rock half starved, half sick and half dying. They called it the New World but history a continuation of the old world. Before the Pilgrims even landed, Cortes' had destroyed Aztec civilization with public burning of the chiefs infront of Montezuma in 1519, and the massacre of participants in the fiesta of Toxcatl. The sick ceremony of conquest had begun.

The first whites to settle in Virginia came in 1607 under the same hardship and facing the same starvation. There the native people brought them great qualities of food for survival and by 1622 they were run off the land. Of course, they were far more fortunate than the Pequots in Connecticut who were exterminated in 1636. 1642 the tribe that "sold" Manthattan Island to the Dutch were massacred, in their beds while they slept, by the very whites they had saved when they came among them as "adventurers." They murdered men, women, children and babies as they slept!

They not only brought murder, they brought plague. The coastal tribes of Massachusetts were decimated by disease brought by adventurers of Europe. The spread of disease accounted for a considerable sum of deaths among Indians. To speak of only the leading causes of death is to underscore the magnitude of the problem. However it was absolutely a fact that the European brought to America, smallpox, measles, diphtheria and the common cold. They also can claim their most epidemic; venereal disease and alcholism. Thanks for what? Now the Native Americans have no land, they have been decimated to only about one million people, with almost 30 percent of the women sterilzed by the American Government.

Thanks for what? They murdered nearly 100 million Africans to establish their "Land of the free." When the "Founding Fathers" authored that gross and barbarous lie called the Declaration of Independence, they claimed that they hold these truths to be self evident, that all men are created equal.

As soon as that pen dropped slavery was a legal federal entity. Congressmen, legislators and ambassadors to foreign courts all engaged in the trade or ownership of slaves. Doctors, lawyers, ministers of the Lord, judges, governors, mayors and ladies alike, all became part of the American tradition of racism through slavery.

Thanks for what? The bloody corpses of Greensboro, the nation wide epidemic of cross burnings, murders and legal lynching: Spoiling a nice holiday-not hardly. Thanks for most of the 565 persons facing execution in the U.S. Thanks for Jose Campos Torres, Claude Reese, Clifford Glover and all those who have been murdered officially, unarmed and unaccounted for. America come on will you!

The image of America is continually being portrayed as the "leader of the free world." They expect us to continue to give Thanks each year for the few blessings that we have.

The Martin Luther King national holiday was recently turned down for lack of funds. Black students continue to be object of assaults over busing, a system developed and imposed by whites on the racist assumption that our children will learn better if in proximity with a white skin!

Thanksgiving is a white celebration of the blessing of the genocidal extermination of the Indian and the theft of their land; the benefits of 200 years of free African labor; and the total exploitation of millions to acquire the wealth they now enjoy. Certainly those not possessing white skin have nothing to thank America for.

COMMENTARY

·I·N·S·I·D·E· ·T·O·D·A·Y·

Page 2 - 3
Iranian Special Commentaries from campus
The Amherst campus community responds to the situation in Iran

Page 4
Community Perspectives
Phyllis Winfield of Smith College reports on the recent conference on W:E:B: Dubois.

Page 5
African Affairs
Botha of South Africa consolidates his power.
Morrocco mounts offensive against Polisario. South Africa prepares for war.

Page 7
Asian Affairs
First three professors from China at UMass

Page 8
Announcements
Nummo News Record Raffle
Dexter Gordon Concert
Drum Magazine's cover design competition and more

READ NUMMO

IRAN: The Struggle Continues

By Gary Lee.

When we speak of Revolution, we speak of a process which implies a time factor. Realizing this, it should as no surprise that Iran dominates the news a full year after massive demonstrations toppled the repressive regime of Shah Mohammed Reza Pahlevi.

Installed by the C.I.A. and supported by the United States government, the Shah oppressed the people he was supposed to lead for 25 years. By conservative estimates he; was responsible for the imprisonment and of the death of a half a million people, he embezzled $17 billion, and contributed to the underdevelopment of Iran by buying up enormous amounts of sophisticated military hardware which he often used against those who would defy him. This type of behavior endeared the Shah to the "ministers of exploitation," who have accepted him as an ally and he encourage us to do the same.

Let's face some obvious FACTS; the man is a friend of the U.S. defense industry, the U.S. oil and auto industries, those obsessed with the U.S.S.R., and those who seek to stiffle the Islamic tide which is flowing in that region of the world. There are changes coming about in Pakistan, Turkey, and Afghanistan, nations which border the Soviet Union and are predominantly Islamic. According to the N.Y. Times, Wall Street Journal, NBC, CBS, etc. these changes are bad for Uncle Sam. Why: Because the people are seeking to control their own destinies. Religion is an important factor in this struggle because Islam is not just a religion in the western definition, it is a way of life. It has been, since long before some faker repeated the phrase "The World is Round." For emphasis, I point to the period 632AD - 1087AD when Islam ruled - ah - was the civilied world. The days of nations working to keep the U.S. and Co. fat are over and its time we all realized that.

Oh - I almost forgot the embassy seige. It is known that three weeks ago then - Prime Minister Mehdi Barzargan and then - Foreign Minister Ibrahim Yazdi (who does some writing for the N.Y Times) met in Algiers with National Security Advisor Zbigniew Brezezinski. It is not clear what they discussed, but Ayathollah Khomeini felt that it was not proper to "dine at the devil's table," so Yazdi and Barzargan lost their jobs. Documents at the U.S. Embassy in Teheran outlined U.S. contingency plans to admit the Shah into America. David Rockerfeller, president of Chase Manhattan and Henry Kissinger both lobbied for the Shah's admission. Chase Manhattan is very tied up in Iranian financial affairs and it is rumored that the Shah's embezzled billions are in the coffers of Chase.

It seems that many Americans are pitifully ignorant of history. Otherwise why would all this back - room finageling be going on when a long - term perspective would encourage our government officials to lay low for awhile before antagonizing the Iranian people - again. As I stated earlier, revolution is a process, and one year does not complete the process. The atrocities committed by the Shah and his cronies (SAVAK, C.I.A., etc.) will not be soon forgotten.

Reza Pahleri has been sick (mentally and physically) for a number of years. Had he stayed in Iran his ordeal would be over and the Iranian Revolution could move on. The Shah's flight from Egypt, Mexico, and now America. The U.S., instead of deporting Iranian students who are trying to tell the truth about the situation, should extradite the real criminal. I am certain that the hostages will not be harmed if the Shah is returned to Iran. If he is not...the release of women and Blacks who were not spies is highly significant for it shows a pattern of thinking whereby the Revolutionary Council (not terrorist as they are labeled in the media) has distinguished its real enemy from those who have been historically oppressed in this country.

I have seen some ugly incidents of harrassment of Iranians (from Beverly Hills to Springfield) which is ludicrous and ignorant. I think we should question why our government allows its citizens to endure hardship so it can habor a murderer it calls our 'friend.' I do not think the Shah is worth a hundred or so lives (Do You!!), but what is a hundred lives when you have already got 500,000 under your belt.

COMPLEXITIES OF THE IRANIAN REVOLUTION

As we all know, the name of Iran has been on the news a lot since the spring of 1978. The Iranian revolution has been something hard to understand for a lot of people. The way the revolution went on (and is still going on!) raises many questions. To understand the situation, a little historical background is necessary.

The Shah of Iran was put to power by Western powers following the invasion of Iran during the World War II. In 1951 a crisis developed over the issue of oil nationalization. Since the end of World War II, the antiimperialist mobilizations were directed against the Western imperialist economic interests in Iran. So one of the leaders of the movement, Dr. Mossadegh, with many similarities to Allende, took the power with 99 percent of the vote. He nationalized the oil. But that was against the Western capitalists. So in a notorious coup d'etat staged by the American CIA, the Shah was put back in power; by overthrowing the legally elected government of Mossadegh, and began his military dictatorship. The revolutionaries were all imprisoned or executed by the thousands, and, in fact, the oil was denationalized and parceled back among the various imperialist powers, with the U.S. monopolies getting the lion's share.

In 1957, with the help of CIA advisers, SAVAK, or the gestapo of the Shah, was created. Savak for 21 years got the instrument of the cruelest tyranny of the world for political repression. Its main task was to make sure that even any kind of individual opposition of the government was destroyed under severe torture. Torture included: whipping, beating, electric shocks, extraction of nails and teeth, boiling water pumped into the rectum, heavy weights hung on the testicles, tying the prisoner to a metal table heated to a white heat, raping, etc.

By 1975 SAVAK had closed down 95 percent of all the publications in Iran. No book could be distributed without the permission of SAVAK. The actual judge, the actual administration of justice and the determinator of the administrative and political destiny of the citizens of Iran, was SAVAK, and only SAVAK.

The striking similarities between the sophisticated methods of torture and interrogation of political prisoners which exist between SAVAK, MOSSAD (the Israeli secret police), DINA (the Chilean secret police), and the Brazilian and Argentinian secret police forces, together with the fact that all these regimes are aspects of imperialist U.S. foreign policy, is proof that the U.S. carries a big responsibility for what has been happening in all those countries. It also shows that those secret police forces are all trained by the adviser from the Central Intelligence Agency.

The westernization and modernization that the Shah did was to create a big market for Western corporations. Iranian agriculture. Before, Iran used to export food to foreign countries. But by 1977, Iran imported 91 percent of its food needs. The Shah's army was given the most sophisticated weaponry from the U.S.. But tyranny and foreign domination could not last forever.

In Iran, minority ruling groups and their capitalist supporters had such a luxurious life and such a magnitude of income and wealth as ever heard about or seen at any time in history. And day by day the oppressed and exploited masses of Iranians were becoming poorer and poorer, more deprived, under the severe pressure of increasing exploitation, inflation, corruption, and shortages of food. And that was the scene while 500 U.S. corporations had investments in Iran. All these were good reasons for the notorious imperialist support for the Shah.

Jimmy Carter said once: "Our friendship and alliance with the Shah is one of our important bases on which our entire foreign police depends."

The Carter administration has been echoing a consistent theme of report in the capitalist press that the Iranian revolution has been the result of the religious opposition to the Shah's modernization program. But the entire facade cracked in 1978.

During a spontaneous revolutionary movement that started on January '78, intensified in September '78, and calmed down relatively in February '79, Iranian masses overthrew with merely empty hands and no foreign aid the most oppressive regime with the most sophisticated arsenal, backed by the most omnipotent imperialist power of the world.

From a lot of aspects this revolution was a complicated process to understand. For the first time in the 20th century, a massive revolution occured with a religious type of ideology.

This revolution must be studied with a few points in mind.

The starting point of every revolution is the society which produced it and the Iranian society is a very religious one. In Islam every aspect of life is under religious rules. That makes it extremely hard to distinguish the strictly religious from the strictly nonreligious aspects of it.

In Iran as earlier in a number of revolutionary Arab countries such as Algeria, the emphasis is on returning to a past that had expressed something special and unique; unfortunately, this is taking precedence over any attempt to analyze the society historically and rationally.

Some of the similarities existing between the Iranian revolution and other anti-imperialist Third World revolutions seems to be very disappointing.

It has been argued by many writers such as Maxime Rodinson, that after the process of foreign imperialist domination, a lot of tendencies are created calling for going to the old values. That might explain the reason why in so many Arabic and Islamic countries Islam was used to mobilize the masses.

In Iran, the religious leaders (among which we could point out the tradional intellectuals) took the leadership when the pro-imperialist ruling class was impotent of solving the problems wracking the society. This was helped by the antagonisms between the new working class and the foreign capitalists (e.g. the oil strike helped the revolution along).

But, unfortunately, there are signs saying that there is a big threat to the revolution. These signs are the historical examples of Egypt, Kenya, Somalia, Congo, Iraq, Ghana, Indonesia, etc.

In all these cases, a sad shift to the right began after a while. Remembering the replacement of Nasser by a gangster called Sadat is scary! None of those revolutions produced a real radical change in the oppressive structure of their society.

Besides Islam. the ideology of the Iranian government is crystallized around anti-imperialism (hence, anti-Zionism) and a lot of time an emotional anti-imperialism which is a necessity but not enough.

In fact in the case of all the anti-imperialist revolutionary movements worthy of the name, what seems to be decisive is the conjunction of national objectives (in the case of Iran, Islamic ones), with a tradition on the whole favorable to change and a set of goals being able to mobilize the people. In the case of Iran, the slogan of "Islamic Republic" reminds us of this similarity.

Some of the expectations which were rising from the masses for an Islamic Republic were pretty progressive. Tradition goes deep and has many ramifications. To underestimate it, if not racist, is underestimating the weight of history.

But Islam is a religion. Therefore, a culture. Hence, in a sense, expressed through pan-Islamism (a movement in the Islamic countries which calls for the reunification of all the Islamic societies). It could play (and it did) the same progressive role as the anti-imperialist nationalism, to mobilize the masses for the revolution. But the complexity is that its conservative aspects conflict with the revolution.

The Ayatollah Khomeini's role as in the case of a lot of the revolutionary leaders in the Third World is ambigious. On the one hand, he vounches for a progressive anti-imperialist (hence, anti-Zionist) line or even measures in favor of the lower classes. On the other hand, he is the head of a government which structurally runs in the ancient ways. The power is dominated by religious leaders, and to a certain extent the "bazaris" tradtional small capitalists. The capitalists are pushing to secure their postion. In most of these cases, the role of the leader gets to involuntarally "mistify" the masses while the mobilizaton peters out.

But, like a lot of other revolutionary leaders in the Third World (e.g., Nasser, Cadafi, Allende, Mossadegh, etc.), he does not talk too much about class antagonism existing within the society. Since the establishment of the Khomeini government. If they talked about the "national unity," he talks about an Islamic one.

The threat to the revolution is the danger of some of the "conservative" religious circles pushing for the restoration of some of the most backward aspects found in many societies: e.g. Magical religious obscuranism domination of women by men.

Charles Fourier, an early idealist socialist, once said: "In every society the level of the society's freedom could be measured by the level of its women's freedom."

So let's have a closer look at the women's question in Iran, even though the space available is extremely limited. You must have heard a lot from the capitalist media about how the Shah's dictatorship "liberated" the women and how the revolution "destroyed that freedom." So let's see what the reality was. In an interview with Oriana Fallaci in 1973, the Shah said: What do they mean by women's movement? What do that want? Equality. I'm not trying to be mean. I apology, but women are not equal to men. Women have never been able to offer artists like Michelangello or musicians like Bach. You are not even good cooks....

In Iran under the Shah, around 4500 political prisoners were female. A lot of them were tortured so much that when they got out of jail they were not able to menstruate

But the fantastic process which occured during the revolution was the massive participation of women in the movement. That participation of women could be compared with the case of the Algerian revolution, but unfortunately, after the revolution in Algeria women drew back to their old traditional positions.

In Iran, which has the same cultural problems, the women's movement faces a large problem. The fact that during the Shah's reign bourgeois ("feminist"), images of women's freedom, ideas imported through the market of Western pornography presented the women's movement to the masses as ideas reducing women to objects for making profit. The women of the exploiting classes, as Roza Luxembourg said, are not an independent social group they are just means of the reproduction of those classes. Contrarily, the women of lower class have the potential to be drawn to the women's movement. But unfortunately, the social ground for women's movement is very weak.

Because of traditions, the Iranian society is highly male dominated generally. Women wearing veils is a symbol of oppression. But the participation of women in the movement which must lead by itself toward socialism could be a great introduction to the women's liberation in Iran.

The history of all Islamic societies hitherto existing has been the story of oppressed layers and classes rising for a just Islamic society. From that stand point there is nothing new with the Iranian revolution. There has existed a relatively egalitarian Islamic "empire" in 7th century. That covered an area from Iran to North Africa. But after its fall it became an idea: a lost haven to be found by the rebelling oppressed fighting the oppressor for a just Islamic society. As a religious story says: "A society so egalitarian that the head of the State would die of manual labor, or would eat with the poorest, and the society which would enjoy an equal distribution of income.

Islam is a force present in every aspect of life in Iran. All desires, hopes, political beliefs, etc. have been expressed for 14 centuries through Islam. Marxism may be the first political force totally independent from Islam present in the Iranian politics. For most other political parties claim to be Islamic.

Even revolutionary socialist ideas have found their way of expression through Islam. An example of this is the existence of groups such as Mujahedin, a leftist party (the 2nd largest) with the slogan "Toward a monotheistic classless society."

The totality of these points, along with the fact that under the Shah's repressive regime the only gatherings of people were the religious ones (in the mosques, where anti-Shah religious leaders would talk to people and set a ground to mobilize them against oppression) could help us to understand the ideological roots of the Iranian revolution.

After years of struggle that cost the lives of ten of thousands of Iranians, a power struggle has already begun in the various factions of the government. And the question the revolution and its leadership had never clearly faced is finally raised: What is the social content of the post-revolutionary Iran to be?

WHY RICHARD NIXON, DAVID ROCKFELLER AND HENRY KISSINGER MUST RETURN THE CRIMINAL EX-SHAH TO IRAN

By Hassan Al Jaur Ibn Saud.

The ex—Shah of Iran had to have a visa to enter this country, likewise for his previous visitors stay in Mexico. Why is a visa necessary? He is neither a citizen of Mexico nor of this country. Where is the ex—Shah's citizenship? Iran, Iran, he is an Iranian citizen.

As a Iranian citizen he is still subject to the laws and jurisdiction of the courts of Iran, even though he is abroad. Under international law conventions, a non citizen found guilty of crimes by his native country's court, must be returned. The ex—Shah left Iran. He was tried. He was found to have committed crimes: murder, torture, and theft of billions of dollars. Robert Vessco, an American, swindeled American investors out of 220 million dollars. He left the country. Was tried and found guilty. A warrant for his arrest is outstanding. He now hides out in Costa Rica. The U.S. is attempting to have him extradited. Like the ex—Shah, Vessco is a fugitive from the law.

Under U.S. law a visa cannot be issued to a foreigner who is a fugitive. The ex—Shah is not a tourist. The ex—Shah, however, was granted a U.S. visa for humanitarian reasons. Iran's laws are being destroyed under this arrangement. As a U.S. visa is directly conferring a pardon upon this alleged criminal citizen of Iran. A U.S. visa is being used to nullify the legal authority of the Iranian government duly supported by the citizen of Iran.

The ex—Shah supposedly has had cancer for over six years. Yet he was never in the U.S. for treatment. He was, however, a close friend of ex—President Richard Milhouse Nixon. Remember him, Watergate and the $50,000 in jewelry that the Shah gave to the U.S. people, that was eventually recovered from Nixon when he was forced from office. Remember David Rockefeller, owner of Chase Manhattan Bank, where multi—millions of dollars from Iran where deposited by the Shah. Remeber Henry Kissinger, ex—Secretary of State, and a close compatriot of the ex—Shah. Iran has now become subject to that special brand of lawlessness that only a Nixon—Rockefeller, Kissinger triumvert could create. The ex—Shah's illegal visa' was gained through the combined effort of these guys. Pressure was put on the Carter State Department to issue the "bogus visa." What that pressure was will be speculated about in the next column. But rest assured, that a U.S. visa issued under false information is void. As numerous ex—Iranian students who have had their visas expire, so too must the ex—Shah be deported to Iran.

Another nation cannot impose its concept of justice and due process upon another country. That would breach the international order based upon sovereignty if U.S. law were applied in Iran to Iranians. That would be grounds for war. The ex—Shah's illegal presence in this country does just that. But Iran has not declared war. Only the U.S. embassy was taken over and people there held. The Nixon—Kissinger—Rockefeller triumvert caused the embassy to be a target and now they must be held responsible for what ever possible disaster arises. How else could have Iran directed this over—reach to the world's attention? When three persons who a not elected officals and who have not been formally deemed advisors to the President. Where there has been no formal Congressional hearing to determine if Nixon—Kissinger—Rockefeller's financial holdings would be in conflict of interest with their advise to the President to issue a questionable visa to a citizen of Iran, who is a fugitive and an alleged criminal.

Unless the U.S. has become the offical haven for tyrants murders, multi—billion dollar theivs, and mass exterminators of humanity, the ex—Shah must be extradited or deported to Iran. For he is an Iranian citizen. He must be returned immediately.

I wonder who made millions from this supposed "international crisis". The costs are: millions of dollars for stepped up U.S. military preparation and activity; forecasted increased domestic fuel prices without Iranian oil; higher prices for "spot market" crude oil; loss of Iranian business; loss of U.S. businesses in Iran: and tension in the Middle East. The American consumer becomes the fall guy again, you pay a very high rental rate for the ex— Shah's stay. The bill for these additonal expenditures should be billed to Nix—Kiss—Rock, Inc. They caused the "crisis".

Please Amercians, have you loss contact with national purpose, dignity, and destiny. Return the ex—Shah, who is an Iranian citizen, to Iran. He is not worth more than two Americans in a pup—tent in a U. Mass laboratory

Where is Pol Pot , the annilaltor of Cambodians, who ran out of Cambodia under the cover of night? Probably at Beth Isreal Hospital having a face lift for humanitarian reasons. Nix—Kiss—Rock, Inc. strike again.

IRAN

The Young Socialist Alliance.

"Travel freely in the land four months and know that ye cannot escape Allah..." —The Koran, Repentence 2

During the past 12 days, as sixty Americans continue to be held hostage at the U.S. embassy in Tehran, several anti—Iran demostrations have erupted across America, all of them involving people who are angry that the 'dignity' of the United States has been thus outraged. Recently, President Carter announced that steps will be taken to deport all Iranian students in this country whose visas are not in order. Even the possibility of employing American military force has been raised.

All of these events and statements underscore the fact that a nationalistic, jingoistic hate campaing is being whipped up in a backhanded manner by the U.S. government, the national media, and a righ—wing minority, aimed at the nation that only recently overthrrew the Shah--- a U.S. backed dictator that was dependent on Washington for arms to keep himself in power and the people of Iran tyrannized; a dictator who, with the help of the dreaded Iranian secret police, Savak ---an institution established with the full cooperation of the CIA is guilty of the worst atrocities against humanity, including the murder of an estimated 100,000 Iranians. Such is the enlightened record of the Pahlevi dynasty.

The American people have not been told the truth about these atrocities. Instead, over the past 25 years and even now the media continues to portray the Shah as a modernizer; a progressive and benevolent monarch whose plans for reform ran into a wall of religious intolerance and mass hostility. If we knew the truth, the militant action by the Iranian students in Tehran might make sense or even seem moderate in comparison to the murder and violence the Iranian people have been subjected to thanks to the U.S. government, who engineered the overthrow of a popular government in Iran in 1953 to re—install Mohammed Pahlevi Reza Shah.

But President Carter, posing as an apostle of human rights, has said nothing about the crimes committed by this tyrant, who is currently undergoing first—rate medical care in New York. Because of this blatant hypocrisy, and the loyal support given by Carter and other U.S. presidents to the criminal regime of the Shah, Americans should not be surprised that the United States is regarded with suspicion and hostility by the Iranian people, nor that Americans in Iran are considered as potential enemies.

The Iranian government is fully justified in demanding that the Shah be returned to Iran to stand trial for his crimes, just as the Jewish people were and are justified in demanding the extradition of Nazi war criminals hiding in South America. And it is the refusal of the U.S. to accede to this just request that forced events in Tehran. Washington alone is to be held accountable for the fate of the Americans. Rather than posing as the injured party, the United States should for once in its history face up to its moral responsibilities and deport the Shah back to Iran. However, given the deplorable record of U.S. support for tyrants throughout the world, it is unlikely that such a course will be followed. It is becoming increasingly obvious that 'Human Rights' Carter caresmore for the welfare of a mass murderer than the lives of sixty Americans.

Amherst YSA

-YOU—REAP—WHAT—YOU—SOW-

By Tony Crayton.

America is rattling its swords again against a Third World country. Showing no concern for human rights when the Shah murdered 100,000 of his own citizens, with American approved arms, as another international murderer, and ally of America, Somoza of Nicaragua did; now Iran is targeted as a violator of human rights for upsetting 100 American state department workers.

America responds by freezing Iranian assets, deporting and harassing Iranian students who thought they were welcomed in America. They have passively and without comment allowed their racist citizenry to attack Iranians in the streets and intervene only after assaults are committed. Iranians are now in America under attack from the Klan as in Huntsville Alabama and hounded by the Justice Department to be sumerally deported as is being done in the MidWest.

America has supported the most vicious, murderous and undemocratic nations on this earth. Americans have no tears for the Cambodians, they shed none over the millions killed by the Pahlevis, Somoza's, and Batistas. They use their embassy in Paraguay to harbor Nazi murderer Dr. Mengela. They overthrow and murder through their embassies. Allende in Chile, Lumumba in the Congo and Diem who America put in Viet Nam, but defend the millions starved, imprisoned and Murdered by facist neo-Nazi regiemes-impossible.

America is embroiled in a broth of misery of its own making and blaming Iranians, Cubans and any others they may target for racist attacks, is not going to change that fact. You reap what you sow. The CIA put the Shah in power to murder and ravage his own populace; they conspired with Britain and Israel to put Idi Amin in power they conspired and put Park in Korea. If these areas are "trouble spots" its because of American State Department intervention for "American interests" that causes it. Money interests. Any troubles you see in Iran is but a reflection of American moral bankruptcy for supporting the worlds most disgusting despots.

Multinational business exploitation backed by covert CIA military and political operatives to bolster governments like Pahlevi in Iran and Samoza in Nicaragua, is the highest form of terrorism on this planet. A solid analysis of Americas racial history will show that it was as Jacobs and Zandoru(Vintage books 1971) penned it: "To Serve the Devil." The terrorist cries terrorism. The bicentennial Revolutionary can't tolerate others to have their freedom and punish those who murder them.

America is right not to send back the Shah because they would then have to send back Somoza and all those ex-nazis they still harbor in this country or protect through their embassies in Latin America. You reap what you sow.

PERSPECTIVES ON W·E·B· DUBOIS

by Phyllis Winfield Smith College

(Nov. 12)-Smith College's Black Students' Alliance held a conference on W.E.B. DuBois with professors John Bracey (U-Mass), Maceo Dailey (Smith), Homer Meade (U Mass), and Mike Thelwell (U-Mass) as panelists.

Professor Thelwell began by noting the "appropriateness of discussing black history in terms of W.E.B. Du Bois. Du Bois had a primary role in black history. It is very important that black people define their own heroes; and Dr. Du Bois can be counted as one of the most appropriate heroes in the history of black America. He was centrally involved: he became a major figure in American history in addition to being a prominent figure in black history. Not only in the black world, but in the modern world also, Du Bois influenced many peoples. He was honored by the heads of state of the Soviet Union, and by the heads of state of the People's Republic of China. I don't believe there has been an American in this century who has contributed so much to the liberty of humanity."

According to Professor Thelwell, Du Bois was an intellectual who "grew up in the heart of Western philosophy; and was educated only within the context of white society during his youth. There was no way possible for a people as oppressed as black Americans living in the late nineteenth and early 20th centuries to be educated in white academic institutions." Education, according to Thelwell, is "quite meaningless unless it incorporates the history of ones' people in that given academic program. Du Bois consistently spoke the truth as he saw it intellectually. He was always simple. He was always honest."

Thelwell went on to say that the standard applying to education advanced by Du Bois has parallels in the view that he holds concerning the role of art within a culture. Thelwell maintained that Du Bois believed in "purposeful art"-that is "art that provides people with examples, art that serves as a firm anchor within the culture of a people. Unless black art has clear and unwavering roots within the culture and aspirations of black people, it is useless."

Professor Meade followed, reading from some of Du Bois's works. He remarked on his various accomplishments-i.e., Du Bois received his maters from Harvard; he was also the first black to receive his doctorate from Harvard; and when Du Bois was eighty, he was a candidate for the U.S. Senate."

Meade compared Du Bois to Socrates: "Du Bois was the modern day Socrates. Socrates devoted much of his life disputing the Sophists; thus the term "sophist" came to be linked with connotations of image-making, and sophists were regarded as creators of false images. So too, Du Bois sought the truth and his adversaries were later regarded as creators of false images."

Meade was followed by Professor Bracey's comments on Du Bois' relationship to Africa. Bracey: Du Bois grew up in a period when Africa was seen by Western philosophy as totally uncivilized. At the Berlin Conference, Africa was just carved up like a turkey: whoever white showed up got a piece. Only Lyberia and Ethiopia remained autonomous nations. Africa, in fact, was seen as such a depressing place that even those who liked Africa wanted to civilize and uplift her out of her barbarism and pre-Christian values. Du Bois wanted the physical redemption of Africa from European colonialist; or more specifically, he preferred that the more enlightened European nations assume the leading political role in Africa's rule. He believed that the more progressive Western nations would be more humane colonizers than the less progressive Western nations."

Bracey also discussed Du Bois' role in the Pan-Africanism movement: "The second Pan-Africanism conference, held in Paris, was led by W.E.B. Du Bois. It included European-based Africans, Afro-Americans in the military services, and West Indians. They attempted to lay out for Africa a plan for self-determination to supplement those plans for self-determination drawn up by the Berlin conference (which excluded similar plans for Africa as Africa was not regarded as being capable of self-determination according to the views of Western philosophy during this post-war era). By the sixth Pan-Africanism conference, held in Manchester, England, Du Bois was recognized as the dean of the Pan-Africanism movement. He saw these conferences as means of keeping Africa in the limelight continuously: as much as was physically possible, Du Bois wanted to raise the question of Africa and her independence in the shuffle of 20th century politics."

According to Bracey, Du Bois was one of the first Afro-American scholars to incorporate Africa in Afro-American history. He accomplished this without the narrow views usually imposed upon African history by Western philosophy-"Du Bois established the fact that Africa had a history. He wrote as if Africa had a history; thus, he started from a totally different premise than that of other historians. He treated Africa as though she were a land which was inhabited by human beings."

Bracey also addressed the often times controversial fact that Du Bois became a communist: "Du Bois joined the communist part, but he went to Ghana to live, not to Russia. He was buried in Africa: he went back to his beginnings, his homewhere he could rest in peace. He wanted a comfortable place because he had worked hard. So he packed himself up at the age of ninety-four and took himself on home."

Professor Dailey spoke on the Booker T. Washington-Du Bois debate of the early 20th century. He noted their respective problems concerning American racism: Washinton, representing the "Tuskegee machine", centered around constructing a policy of change; Du Bois was concerned with responding and reacting to a given situation. According to Dailey, "There is a need for careful analysis when studying the history of their debate-i.e., the question of who was right cannnot be simply a matter of answering off the top of ones head. Washington wanted black Americans to wait until we possessed the sufficient economic stability before asserting ourselves more so in the political realm. Du Bois saw this as the selling of our political rights for the promise of economic gains. When Booker T. Washington died in 1915, Du Bois was still quite critical of his ideology. But in 1930, when Du Bois delivered the commencement speech at Howard University, Du Bois seemed to retract some of his earlier criticism about Washinton, in saying,:"Maybe Washington was not all wrong. Maybe Washington was not all bad. Blacks would benefit from an autonomous economic system." Dailey asserted that this shift in Du Bois' stance was probably due to Du Bois encountering firsthand the political and economic dislocation of blacks in the South, as Washington had experienced it in 1895. Both Washington and Du Bois were fighters-it is not so much a question of who was right and who was wrong that should be taken into consideration when realizing the role of this debate upon black history; but rather, one should be aware of the fact that these two men shared a common goal, but their means of achieving this goal was the actual difference between them."

PHOTOS OF THE WEEK

Photo By: Ed Cohen

Bheki Langa Langa performing in his play ·Bird Of My Luck

Josy Latorre sang some beautiful Puerto Rican and Latin folk songs at Bowker Auditorium. Photo by Ed Cohen

Photo By: Ed Cohen

Patti O·Neal and Jose Lynn in a recent performance at Bowker Auditorium

BMCP

BLACK MASS COMMUNICATIONS PROJECT

BROADCASTING SCHEDULE

- Sunday 6–11 am "Glory Road Gospel" with Rev Pearson
- Sunday 6pm–2am "Jublation Jazz"
- Monday 10am–2pm Black Classical Music with Sam Gilford
- Monday 6–7pm "News Magazine" Public Affairs show with Ujamaa and Gary Lee

Monday 7–10pm " Concept Latino" with Carlos Gonzalez

Tuesday 10am–2pm "Black Spectrums" with Valerie Hamilton

Tuesday 10pm–2am "Spirits Past and Present" with Khalil Reed

Tuesday 2am–6am "Ladies Nite" with Lezlie Harrison and Nancy Brooks

Wednesday 6–10am "Black Classical Music for a Wednesday Morning Wakeup" with Rick Grant

Thursday 10am–2pm Your hostess is Kindall Hudgins

Friday 10am–2pm "Talk of the Town" with Merritt Crawford

Saturday 2–6pm "Pan Afrique" with Kari Njiiri

6–10pm "Variation" with K–Rock

10pm–2am "Family and Friends" with Ujamaa

2–6am "Giant Steps" with EDCohen

The first four listing are not designated BMCP air Time

BOTHA: CONSOLIDATING POWER

On November 7 the NP candidate in another Transvaal race was beaten by the Progressive Federal Party (PFP), the largest and most liberal parliamentary opposition group.

The NP is in no danger of losing control of Parliament; it holds 134 of 165 seats in the House of Assembly. But last week's loss was the first for the party since 1960 and the first in a by-election since it came to power in 1948. (The PFP also cut deeply into the NP vote margin in a supposedly 'safe' NP constituency near Cape Town.)

Already unhappy with some of Botha's plans, Treurnicht is reportedly angered by the attempt to blame him for the Transvaal difficulties. "If P.W. is attempting to goad Andries into leaving the Cabinet, and the party, he may be successful," one Treurnicht friend told the Financial Mail. "But Andries will go in his own time, when he has organized things properly."

Botha will have to make up for whatever defections which result by attracting new voters and that is what he will attempt on November 22. He will "have to convince his audience, the majority of whom will certainly be traditional opponents of the government," says the Financial Mail, a pro-business weekly, that he will make "the kind of policy reforms that help improve South Africa's credibility abroad."

The South African prime minister, who has held office for just over a year, is moving to consolidate his power-an essential step if he is to implement his new domestic and regional policies.

On November 22, P.W. Botha will host a gathering of more than 250 business leaders (including several Africans, Asians, and Coloureds (mixed race)) to appeal for support. The session is the clearest indication of his intention to broaden the National Party's traditional Afrikaans-speaking base.

The prime minister's call for racial reforms is popular in the business community, and he has won additional favor by naming prominent persons from the private sector to key posts. One example: the appointment of John Maree, an executive of the Barlow Rand conglomerate, to head the government's weapons manufacturing corporation Armscor.

Botha has also sought with equal skill to lay the blame for recent NP electoral setbacks on Dr. Andries Treurnicht, who holds the powerful post of Transvaal party chairman. Treurnicht is also unofficial leader of the party's conservative wing.

During October by-elections to fill vacant parliamentary seats, the NP saw its victory margin drastically slashed in four Transvaal constituencies by the extreme rightist Herstigte Nasionale Party (HNP).

MOROCCO MOVES ON POLISARIO

Over 7,000 Moroccan Special Forces with 1,500 armored cars and tanks, missiles, heavy artillery and air support have moved into the northeastern corner of Western Sahara, with the avowed aim of knocking out the POLISARIO guerrillas who have been attacking Moroccan garrisons in the area as well as in southern Morocco. The move comes as King Hassan has apparently rejected U.S. pressure to negotiate, saying once again that Morocco would never yield an inch of Saharan territory.

Algeria's official news agency has charged that the two pronged Moroccan assault force is far too large for its declared purpose and is headed for the Algerian border area. The agency warns that the column's real target may be the Tindouf area in southern Algeria, which hosts major refugee camps for Western Saharans and provides sanctuary for POLISARIO guerrillas.

SOUTH AFRICA : PREPARING FOR WAR

[AN] While the prospect of major warfare in southern Africa has worried many observers for years, current diplomatic efforts have raised hopes for peace in the region. Nevertheless, even as these negotiations continue, the signs of a wider war pitting South Africa against various African opponents are very much in evidence.

Two weeks ago, for example, on the day the United Nations Security Council was condemning "South Africa's aggression against Angola," a South African police station in Soweto was attacked by a small group of guerrillas, (presumably from the African National Congress), who killed two policemen and escaped unharmed.

The UN action, on which Britain, France and the U.S. abstained, was provoked by a succession of raids last month on Angolan targets, which Pretoria described as "hot pursuit of terrorists" and Luanda termed "escalation of murderous violence aimed at destabilization."

The noted Africanist scholar Basil Davidson, a supporter of Angola's ruling MPLA, blames the South African "belief that the West will never act against them" for what he sees as the ever more likely prospect of major regional war.

"If the whole wide world does nothing against South Africa's small aggressions," he writes in West Africa, "what should make Pretoria believe that a major military aggression—invasion and obliteration bombing—will be met by more than verbal brickbats and condemnations?"

South African Prime Minister P.W. Botha has warned that he is determined "to keep revolution out of South Africa," and to this end he is pursuing a carrot-and-stick policy not only at home but also in the region. Along with the reforms he has proposed to make domestically, he has called for regional cooperation and equality among neighboring states.

At the same time, he has reiterated his intention to use South Africa's military might where necessary. "We want to make it quite clear," he told the Natal party congress in August, "that if the eventual choice in South West Africa/Namibia is between stability and chaos, we will choose stability."

The force of chaos, as Pretoria views it, is SWAPO (South West African Peoples' Organization), which is waging guerrilla war to oust the South Africans. Some observers believe Botha will never accept UN-supervised elections, which could bring SWAPO to power in the territory.

Last week, the South African leader rebuffed UN Secretary General Kurt Waldheim's call for a new round of talks in Geneva designed to bring agreement on a UN election plan. As the negotiations drag on, the South Africans continue to build up an 'internal settlement' structure to which it may hand the government some day.

They have also been forced to commit an ever-larger military contingent to the territory to meet SWAPO's challenge. In May, for example, the Guardian's James MacManus reported a mobilization of thousands of South African reservists "to reinforce army units in northern Namibia, where one of the biggest operations of the 13-year war against nationalist guerrillas is now said to be under way." Writing from Windhoek, he said SWAPO units "have penetrated well beyond the traditional confines of the war in northern African reserves."

While the breakdown in Namibian talks would lead to an escalation in the fighting, an even more explosive situation exists in Zimbabwe, where the risk of wider conflict looms even if the parties to the current London conference reach agreement.

Currently, South Africa is spending at least $50 million per month—not only helping the Zimbabwe Rhodesian regime evade economic sanctions and arms embargoes but also on low-key military assistance. It is reliably reported that the military commands and intelligence services in the two countries are cooperating, and certain South African military personnel —pilots, technicians, "volunteers"—are reported to be present in Zimbabwe.

Since former Defense Minister P.W. Botha took office in October of last year, there have been even more obvious indications of a greater South African role. Mirage jets, which are not listed by the International Institute of Strategic Studies in Rhodesia's arsenal, have been repeatedly used in Rhodesian attacks on targets in Mozambique. Last month South Africa and Rhodesia launched simultaneous raids on southern Zambia. And, armed opponents of Mozambique's government who were captured after infiltrating into that country have said they were trained by both South Africans and Rhodesians.

The spirit may no longer be that of 1971, when Ian Smith told a South African audience the two countries "should always fight the reds together." But earlier this year Salisbury's military head General Peter Walls, at a press conference in Johannesburg, pledged his support for a unified strategy, and vowed to prevent "Soviet expansionism" in the region. If Walls' army remains intact, as stipulated under the British transition plans, and faces new difficulties, Botha might be called on to carry out earlier threats of intervention.

The future will be determined by a variety of contingencies. But it is already clear from the course of the years since 1975 that South Africa (along with its allies in Rhodesia) is ready to respond to heightened guerrilla struggle with expansion of the theatre of war to neighboring countries. A survey of those years, moreover, with data drawn from a variety of sources, shows a marked pattern of increased confrontation in the 13 months since P.W. Botha assumed office.

MILITARY BALANCE IN SOUTHERN AFRICA*

ANGOLA
armed forces: 40,000 (including 2,500 air force) combat aircraft: 31, including 15 MiG-17, 12 MiG-21, 4 G-91 military budget: $117 million

ZAMBIA
armed forces: 14,300 (including 1,500 air force) combat aircraft: 37, including 6 Galeb, 6 Jastreb, 12 MiG-19 military budget: $310 million (1977)

MOZAMBIQUE
armed forces: 24,000 (including 500 air force) combat aircraft: estimated 30-35 MiG-21 military budget: $117 million

ZIMBABWE-RHODESIA
armed forces: 21,500 (regular) (plus conscripts) (including 1,500 air force) combat aircraft: 64, including 5 Canberra B2 bombers, 12 Aermacchi AL-60; 14 Cessna 337; 4 OV-10 (Bronco); 43 Alouette & 11 Bell 205A helicopters military budget: $400 million

SOUTH AFRICA
armed forces: 63,250 (of which 45,250 are conscripts) (including 10,000 air force) combat aircraft: 416, including 6 Canberra B(I)12 bombers; 6 Buccaneer S50 bombers; 32 Mirage F1AZ; 23 Mirage III; 14 Mirage F1CZ; Alouette, Puma, Super Frelon and Bell helicopters military budget: $2.23 billion

*This table is constructed from The Military Balance, 1979-80, published by the International Institute of Strategic Studies in London. Although the Institute's data are commonly accepted as authoritative, the figures are estimates, not confirmed, and many informed observers, such as UN researcher, Sean Gervasi, contend that the South African figures, for example, represent only a fraction of the actual inventory.

South African officers listen to battle plans during a major conventional warfare exercise, code-named "Blitz One," in September 1978. / Rand Daily Mail

Enemy of the Sun

By Taleb Bizri

The action of the Israeli occupation authorities in deporting the Palestinians of expelling then from their homeland, the imposition of this and other penalities without trial, the detention and torture of many people prior to deportation, the destruction of their homes to force them out of their country, are all grave violations of international Law. Such actions are defined as war crimes and crimes against humanity according to the Charter of the Nuremburg Tribunal.

The course of events before and during and after the Second World War, was an ample demonstration of the folly of world puplic opinion condoning or ignoring similar violations of international law by a racist state. The principles involoved are the same, whether the deportation is based on racist grounds or the racist state concerned is Nazi Germany, Israel or South Africa

I may-if you wish-lose my livelihood
I may sell my shirt and bed
I may work as a stone cutter,
A street sweeper, a porter.
I may clean your stores
You may curse my father, my people.
You may destroy my history,
You may deprive my children of a smile.
And of life's necessities.
You may fool my friends with a borrowed face.
You may build walls of hatred around me.
You may glue my eyes to humiliations,
O enemy of the sun,
But
I shall not compromise
And to the last pulse in my veins
I shall resist.

You may put out the light in my eyes.
You may deprive me of my mother's kisses.
You may take the last strip of my land,
Feed my youth to prison-cells.
You may plunder my heritage.
You may burn my books, my poems
Or feed my flesh to the dogs.
You may spread a web of terror
On the roofs of my village,
O enemy of the sun,
But
I shall not compromise
And to the last pulse in my veins
I shall resist.

And to the last pulse in my veins
I shall resist, Resist-and resist.

By Palestinian Poet

AFRO-AMERICAN SOLIDARITY WITH CUBA

By Johnetta B. Cole

(Part II) A reprint from the Black Scholar.

Since U.S. government and business interests have been a major factor in the course of Cuban events for three quarters of a century, one would hardly expect the U.S. to accept revolutionary Cuba passively. When it became clear to the U.S. that the 1959 revolution was not merely the changing of the guard in the presidential palace, the U.S. government initiated comprehensive policies of military and economic sabotage and blockades on trade, travel, and information. The Bay of Pigs invasion in 1961 is, of course, well known. It is perhaps less clear that U.S. aggression against Cuba pre-dated that invasion and has never ceased.[6]

The U.S. blockade and other forms of aggression against Cuba stand in sharp contrast to what is at least a facade of "normal U.S. relations" with other socialist countries. At least part of the explanation is Cuba's practice and example on the question of race. Other socialist countries have also brought equalities in health, education, housing, and working conditions; Cuba's accomplishments, however, may well pose a special threat to the U.S. government because Cuba is "too close for comfort," not only in geography but in historical and cultural similarity. Cuba, like the U.S., underwent a period of intense slavery, followed by still other forms of economic and political oppression. And the people of Cuba, like those of the U.S., are drawn in varying degrees from contact with Africa, if they are not in fact of African descent.

Today, while institutionalized racism reigns in the U.S., it does so no more in Cuba. No greater threat exists for those who rule the U.S., for they know that racism is a necessity for the continuation of their system of economic and political exploitation. And those who rule this country know also that when a people develops a firm anti-racist and anti-capitalist ideology and practice at home, this same ideology becomes a cornerstone of their international practice.

uba's internationalism, as expressed in particular toward the peoples of Africa, is a frightening reality to the U.S. government. When Cuba, in response to the request by the MPLA, assisted the Angolan liberation fighters in expelling invading South African forces, the U.S. government assumed, and correctly, that Cuba was taking an anti-racist as well as an anti-imperialist stance. This sense of the relationship between Cuba's anti-racism at home and abroad is captured in the words of Dr. Melba Hernandez, Cuba's ambassador to Vietnam:

> We [Cubans] are obviously, by origin, Latin-African. And we cannot be indifferent to the sacrifices made by the African peoples, the same Africans who came to our shores exploited as slaves. . . .
>
> But independently of this, for a revolutionary, there are no continental limits. We are Latin Americans. We are Latin Africans. We will always feel in our veins the blood of any people, wherever it is, who struggles for its liberation.
>
> The revolutionary process gives us this understanding. For example, with regard to Angola, we asked ourselves, how would our people have reacted 20 years ago, faced with this just struggle of the Angolan people? . . . first, they would have been indifferent, because they would not have seen the Angolan people or any other African people as made up of human beings. And after this indifference, perhaps, a large part of our population would have reasoned, "well, they are African blacks," and they would have said this in a pejorative way. But you see today, what beautiful sentiments 17 years of our revolutionary process has produced?[7]

Today, as the Carter administration shows signs of interest in "normalizing relations" with Cuba, administration members are faced with a difficult choice. On the one hand, there is much in favor of improved relations: the blockade has not really worked, for not only have U.S. citizens travelled to Cuba[8] but the world's peoples have come to know and respect the accomplishments of the Cuban revolution. It is the U.S., not Cuba, that is isolated. In addition, U.S. business interests obviously wish to trade with Cuba. Finally, the economic blockade has clearly not stopped the progress of the Cuban revolution.

But on the other side of the ledger looms the example of Cuba. Ideas and practices that exist in Cuba today are dangerous to U.S. capitalists and racists—such ideas as the right to work, the responsibility of a people to incorporate women into the full work and life of the society, and even the notion that sports and cultural activities are the right of all. Understanding the danger of these ideas to the U.S. power structure helps us to understand why at the very time that the U.S. government is making courting gestures toward improved relations with Cuba, anti-Cuban propaganda is on the rise in the establishment media.

The example that Cuba offers to us, in the elimination of institutionalized racism, is as sobering as it is hopeful when we consider our own possibilities. For what Cuba has done was not accomplished with ease. Clearly, we cannot simply export the Cuban experience to the U.S., for our conditions are as different in certain respects as they are similar in others. But the major contours of the process of eliminating institutionalized racism in the U.S. are suggested by the Cuban example. We learn from Cuba that the elimination of racism requires, in Fidel Castro's words, not only laws but a revolutionary process. There were anti-discriminatory laws in Cuba, dating back to guarantees in the 1940 constitution. However, in Cuba today an explicitly anti-racist government is armed within a socialist state with the power of laws and a revolutionary process.

rom the Cuban experience, we also learn that a successful victory over racism requires the integral participation of the racially oppressed throughout the revolutionary process. Cuba did not eliminate racism by a system of color coding: this type of struggle for folks of this color, but another struggle for folks of another color. From the first of Cuba's wars of independence in the 1870s, down through the revolutionary movement led by Fidel Castro, there was active involvement and leadership by the black people of Cuba.

AFRO-AMERICAN SOLIDARITY WITH CUBA

The basis for mutual inspiration and support between patriotic Cubans and Afro-Americans not only dates from the 19th century, but has been strengthened by recent events. When black Americans acted in defense of Cuban independence in the 1870s, they had a clear sense of the relevance of Cuban independence to the conditions of black people in the U.S. Douglass, Garnet, and others stood for a free Cuba, for a Cuba without slavery. And when they agitated, petitioned, and organized on behalf of the Cuban patriots, they knew that in an ultimate sense they worked toward the genuine liberation of their own people.

Today, in the 1970s, do we dare do less? For when, as Afro-American people, we stand in opposition to U.S. aggressions against Cuba and in defense of a revolution that brings equality to all Cubans and internationalist solidarity to the peoples of Africa, Asia, and Latin America, we work for our own liberation, for the final triumph of the one and only superior race, the race to which José Marti referred when he wrote:

> In this world there is only one inferior race; that of those who before all else consult their own interest, whether that be their vanity, their arrogance, or their stock of money. There is only one superior race; that of those who before all else consult human interest.

FOOTNOTES

1. John Mercer Langston (a professor of law at Howard University), originally printed in the New Orleans Republican, June 18, 1874; quoted here from Quarles 1969:285.

2. Mainstream scholarship has ignored the history of solidarity between the Cuban and Afro-American peoples. This essay cites only one of numerous instances of Afro-American support for Cuba; equally neglected are the many concrete expressions of Cuban support for the struggles of Black people in the United States.

3. Speech delivered by Fidel Castro in May First Square, Luanda, Angola, on March 27, 1977.

4. In the First Constitution of Free Cuba, adopted by the Constitutional Convention of Cuban revolutionaries on April 10, 1869, article 24 declares that "all the inhabitants of the Republic are absolutely free."

5. From an article published by Arnold Roller in New York Nation and reprinted in 1930 in the Bimonthly Review, as quoted in Valdes 1971:15.

6. The October 6th bombing of a Cuban airliner, killing all 73 persons aboard, is only the most recent act of barbaric terrorism against the Cuban people. In his speech before more than a million Cuban people in the Plaza of the Revolution on October 15, 1976, Fidel Castro listed nine major attacks against Cuba during the period of April 1976 to October 1976. In each case, the attack was carried out with U.S. government complicity, through its Central Intelligence Agency, and often with the assistance of Cuban terrorist groups in exile. Since 1961, the U.S. government has sustained its unilaterally imposed economic blockade against Cuba, creating profound difficulties for a revolution which inherited the problems of underdevelopment and is still faced with the legacies of colonialism and imperialism. And yet the Cuban revolution has survived and continued to consolidate each year.

7. From an interview with Dr. Hernandez by Joe Walker, originally published in the Bilalian News, quoted here from an excerpted version of the interview in the Center for Cuban Studies Newsletter, Winter 1976:15.

8. Since 1969, the Venceremos Brigade, a multi-racial political educat onal project, has sent over 2,500 North Americans to Cuba to work alongside Cubans and to see for themselves the realities of the Cuban revolution. Other projects and groups have also broken the "travel ban."

Bibliography

Castro, Fidel 1976: Speech to the Cuban people at the rally in Havana, culminating the First Congress of the Communist Party of Cuba. Reprinted as a Venceremos Brigade pamphlet, "We Stand with the People of Africa" (translation courtesy of the Department of Stenographic Transcripts of the Revolutionary Government of Cuba, Havana, Cuba).

Castro, Fidel 1977: Speech delivered at the Act held in May First Square, Luanda, Angola. Impreso en los Talleres de la Direccion de Prensa, Divulgacion y Relaciones Culturales del Ministerio de Relaciones Exteriores de Cuba, Havana, Cuba.

Center for Cuban Studies Newsletter 1976: vol. 3, no. 4-5: "Cuba's Foreign Policy: Proletarian Internationalism." New York.

Foner, Philip S. 1963: A History of Cuba and Its Relations with the United States, vol. II. International Publishers, New York.

Quarles, Benjamin 1969: Frederick Douglass. Atheneum, New York.

Valdes, Rafael L. Lopez 1971: "Racial Discrimination from Colonial Times to the Revolution." Instituto Cubano de Amistad Con Los Pueblos, Havana, Cuba.

Democracy in Bolivia unlikely

Coup's opponents fail to find alternative to Colonel's rule

By James Nelson Goodsell
Latin America correspondent of The Christian Science Monitor

The continuing government crisis in Bolivia, with Col. Alberto Natusch Busch holding onto power against the wishes of most sectors in Bolivian society, has to be measured against:

- The inability of Colonel Natusch Busch's opposition to agree on an alternative formula for government to replace his 12-day-old regime.
- The fragile nature of Bolivian politics in the 1970s after two decades of domination by the social reformers of the Bolivian Democratic Movement, which controlled the country in those years.
- The economic and social backwardness of the land-locked country and the failure of successive governments to alter this backwardness, which has made Bolivia the poorest nation in South America.

As has happened so often in recent Bolivian history, Colonel Natusch Busch remains in power because no viable alternatives have yet been advanced.

Colonel Natusch Busch, for his part, indicated Nov. 11 that new presidential elections could come as early as next May 4, but he told newsmen he would remain as president until the elections were held, so "I can make sure Bolivia votes the right way in those elections."

The National Congress, still in sessión although Colonel Natusch Busch had declared it closed, refuses to recognize his government. But the legislature has not been able to come up with a formula for ending the current crisis.

Bolivia's longstanding malaise, moreover, does not auger well for such formulas. Over the years, there have been frequent attempts to solve Bolivia's continuing constitutional crises, only to have the efforts turned aside by an ambitious military commander.

The civilian government of Walter Guevara Arze, in office since August, was such a compromise – having been worked out when no candidate in last July's presidential vote received an absolute majority and Congress failed to choose between the top two candidates.

The Natusch Busch coup d'état, which toppled Mr. Guevera Arze, suggests how precarious civilian rule in Bolivia is at the moment.

For 15 years, Bolivia has had one military government after another. Following the 1964 ouster of Victor Paz Estenssoro's reformist government by Air Force Maj. Gen. René Barrientos a succession of military leaders, many of them somewhat reactionary, paraded through the Bolivian presidency.

General Barrientos was easily the most progressive and certainly the most popular. Although he came to power in a coup d'etat, he enjoyed a degree of support that no subsequent military leader could muster. His death in a helicopter accident in 1969 was widely lamented.

For Bolivians longing for a return to democratic government, the years that followed were frustrating. Each military leader came to power promising some sort of civilian government in the future, but that future never came – at least not until last August, when Mr. Guevara Arze became president.

Then, for a short three months, there was promise that Bolivia might be on the verge of a return to the somewhat progressive, social reformist years of the 1950s and early 1960s when Mr. Paz Estenssoro was president, heading the Bolivia's last civilian government.

Now that promise has been snuffed out and Colonel Natusch Busch's hints of elections next year are not seen as too encouraging.

The bottom line of all this, however, is Bolivia's chronic social and economic backwardness, virtually unchanged by years of military rule. There is little prospect of any improvement under Colonel Natusch Busch.

LEA ECO LATINO

平等團結
EQUALITY UNITY

FIRST THREE PROFESSORS FROM THE PEOPLE'S REPUBLIC OF CHINA AT UMASS

By Richard Mei, Jr.

Photo by Barron Roland

from left to right: Ying-kang Wang, Li-hui Wang and Kang-de Yao.

Photo by Barron Roland

With the normalization of relations between the United States and the Peoples Republic of China came a great deal of goodwill exchanges in the business, technical and educational fields. Among the hundreds of students and professors who have come to the U.S. to expand their knowledge are three very friendly gentlemen; Kang-de Yao, Ying-kang Wang and Li-hui Wang, the first professors to ever come to UMass from China.

Mr. Ying-kang Wang, who is 41 years, was the first to arrive in Amherst. He was later followed by Mr. Yao, 43,and then by Mr. Li-hui Wang, 45, in September. For all of them, this has been their first travel experiences abroad.

In order to come to the United States, the three professors had to first be rcommended by their supervisors and then take an examination. Although these men did not know each other before meeting at UMass, they all share one thing in common-they are professors of polymer science in China.

Mr. Ying-kang Wang comes from Peking University, which is one of the biggest science universities in China while Mr. Li-hui Wang is from another big science school, Fudan University, in Shanghai. Mr. Yao, meanwhile, teaches at Tianjin University which is south of Peking. All of them left behind families in China in order to research here for a period of two years.

The government of China, which is paying for all the expenses of the professors here, chose UMass because it is reputed to have an excellent department of polymer science. According to Mr. Yao, he heard that it was number one in the world.

The purposes of being here, they said, was to learn new methods of research and to adopt better teaching plans that they can bring back to China in order to help their country's high goals of achieving modernization by the year 2000. As a result, Misters Kang-de Yao and Li-hui Wang spend up to twelve hours a day, almost everyday, in the laboratories of the Grad Research Center. Mr. Yang-kang Wang also spends n.uch time in the labs but he is also auditing some courses.

The facilities here, they say, are excellent and they feel that they can learn a great deal. In addition, they like the surroundings. Amherst is very nice and is ideally suitable for studying, very different from where they teach.

Adjusting to American life was a little difficult at first but they are now used to it. Initially, they had some difficulties with English, but they do speak quite well, especially considering that they had not studied English for many years. For instance, Mr. Yang-kang Wang had not practiced any English since high school, which was over twenty five years ago.

Although they really miss good Chinese food, American food such as hamburgers and hot dogs are "not bad." In their free time, they enjoy taking walks, visiting faculty friends and watching TV (which they sometimes find difficult to understand, though). While in the U.S., they have freedom to travel around the country and to visit other places. However, their primary concern is to accomplish their work, so vacations come second.

During the Cultural Revolution which began in 1966, higher education came to a standstill, classes ceased and universities were closed. Only now are the number of university students beginning to approach the levels prior to the Revolution. Professors as well, were profoundly affected during this time. Mr. Ying-kang Wang for instance, was sent to the countryside for two years. Although a little time in the country would have been helpful, he feels that the length of time was too long despite being paid his regular salary. Mr. Li-hui Wang felt that this period was a great waste of time and was a great set back for China.

Presently in China, under the leadership of Deng Xiaoping and Hua Guofeng, criticizing the "Gang of Four" has become very popular. This was exemplified by the three professors who cited the infamous gang as the source of many problems, including the Cultural Revoltion. To Mr. Li-hui Wang, Deng and Hua are great leaders that have the backing of most of the country. China, he insists, is not following a capitalist road despite the policies of the present leadership. In addition, he believes that the aim of the "four modernizations" (i.e. in agriculture, industry, military and science and technology) will succeed and that they will make China into a strong nation.

In the near future, two more profesors are expected to come to UMass to join the mathematics and computer departments. Also, there is a possibility of UMass establishing a sister school program with Fudan University.

Meanwhile, Kang-de Yao, Ying-kang Wang and Li-hui Wang are enjoying their stay at UMass while experiencing new things every single day.

ASIAN STUDIES

The Asian Studies Department offers courses for those interested in the history, language, literature and culture of China and Japan. Many courses are open without prerequisites or prior knowledge of Chinese and Japanese. Check it out. Asian Studies is in the basement of Thompson Hall, behind the auditoriums.

Photo By Ed Cohen

Angel Lee, winner of the singles dance contest at the Mad Hat Disco, sponsored by the Asian-American Students Association last Friday.

LECTURE ON PALESTINE

Sheila Ryan, National Chairperson of the Palestine Solidarity Committee will speak on the "The Camp David 'Peace' Treaty and its Implications for the Palestinian People." The lecture will take place on Monday, November 19, 8 p.m. at the Campus Center Rm. 162. There will also be a slide show on the Palestinian Refugee Camps in Southern Lebanon.

DRUM

AN OPEN LETTER TO THE COMMUNITY RE: PUBLICATION OF DRUM

Recent budget cuts of registered student organizations have been a severe setback for the Drum. We are at this time no longer able to print Bi-annually this school year we will be able only to print once.

Historically, the Black Literary Experience has been published twice yearly and when finance would permit, thrice yearly. But this year monies are tight and we have to budget ourselves accordingly. Although this situation has occured, we will continue to interpret the Black Experience.

Sincerely
Carl E. Yates
Editor

NEW DEADLINE DATE: WEDNESDAY 12 MARCH 1980

DRUM·S COVER DESIGN COMPETITION

For the first time in the history of Drum, a cover design competition is being held. The winner whose design, photography, drawing of painting will be used in our new format, will receive the honor of having his or her design placed on the cover of the fall-spring 79-80 issue of the Black Literary Experience in addition the winner will receive a framed version of the design he or she submits.

1. Individual may not be a professional in the field of art, photography, graphic design, of related fields.
2. Limit of 3 works per entrant.
3. Entries should be submitted no later than the deadline of Monday March 3, 1980. Entries postmarked received after Monday March 3, 1980 will not be considered.
4. Entries should include the name, and entrant, address, phone number, title and medium used.
5. The winner will be notified on Friday March 7, 1980
6. Entries will be strictly judged by the editors and staff of Drum on adherence to the theme.

Theme: FOR THE CHILDREN
I want them to have this time of now as their play ground and future be their new home.
For the children I want them to have this good black earth as a gift. I want them to have this blessing that is the Garden of Eden, to run free and grown strong.
For the children I want them to live and love as I do I want them to sing songs; uhru chants and freedom suites. Tomorrow is theirs oh, God, I want the children to be free.

BEGINNING THIS WEEK:

ALBUMS! ALBUMS! ALBUMS!
NUMMO NEWS RECORD RAFFLE!

TWENTY-FIVE ALBUMS OF YOUR CHOICE!

1 ST PRIZE 15 ALBUMS
2 ND PRIZE 7 ALBUMS
3 RD PRIZE 3 ALBUMS

double albums count as 2 albums

drawing: friday 7 december 1979

drawing by an independent drawing committee

TICKETS WILL BE SOLD IN UNION RECORDS UNLIMITED CAMPUS CENTER CONCOURSE NEW AFRICA HOUSE AND BY ROVING TICKET SELLERS
TICKETS $1·00

DON·T MISS YOUR CHANCE TO WIN!

NUMMO NEWS IN CONJUNCTION WITH UNION RECORD UNLIMITED

There will be the meeting of the
THE THIRD WORLD WOMEN'S TASK FORCE
Tuesday, November 20 ,1979.
Campus Center room 806.
Day Care Available.

THE REAL ISSUES

"Perspectives: The Real Issues," a public affairs program, is aired Monday evenings 6 - 7 pm on WMUA (91.1 fm). The show probes issues such as human services, oppression, education, and various cultural phenomena. On the 19th and 26th of November parts II and III of a forum on dorm security at UMass will be aired. Your hosts are Ujamaa and Gary Lee.

NUMMO NEWS

If you or your organization has any announcements, send them to NUMMO NEWS 103 New Africa House UMASS Amherst, 01003. Deadline Fridays at 5 pm.

Third World Theater Series presents
And the Soul Shall Dance

SHEPP IN CONCERT

Archie Shepp will be in concert at Amherst College, Buckley Recital Hall, 8:00pm, December 7, 1979.

MT HOLYOKE

To announce establishment of the Five College African Alliance

Purpose: establish channel of communication through which the concerns and problems of the valley can be addressed. Further information or questions contact Julie Furgeson, secretary, Mt Holyoke College, 586-3100 ex. 2392, after 11:00pm

Affirmative Action

Debate on Affirmative Action given by Mt Holyoke Law Society, sponsored by many groups, Thursday, November 29, 1979, 7:30pm Gamble Auditorium

DEXTER GORDON QUARTET

sponsored by Straight Ahead
Tuesday, NOvember 27th at Amherst College, Buckley Recital at at 8:00
Tickets available at Faces of Earth, beginning November 5th

Friday, November 30 Bowker Auditorium 8pm
U Mass Amherst $2-students $3-non students

MASSACHUSETTS DAILY VOLUME CIX, ISSUE 53 Tuesday, November 20, 1979

Collegian

1979, Massachusetts Daily Collegian

Student Newspaper of the University of Massachusetts/Amherst, Ma. 01003 (413)545-3500

Garage repair plan questioned

By RICHARD NAGLE
Collegian Staff

An independent engineer yesterday termed "unrealistic" the bid which the University accepted from Desco Products of Connecticut, Inc. to repair the Campus Center Garage.

Jack Frieman, an engineer for Commercial Epoxy Flooring of Bloomfield, Connecticut, said in a telephone interview yesterday, "I cannot believe that the contractor can do the work for that price."

Ed Price of Boston-based Chapman Waterproofing Company also said that Desco's bid last year of $23,000 was "out of line." Desco submitted two change orders last year for $14,000 each, bringing their final bill up over $50,000.

Frieman, whose company does work similar to the garage repair work, said "There is no way in hell they (Desco) can do it for $40,000." Frieman formed his opinion after visiting the garage in October.

A $40,440 contract was awarded to Desco on October 10, and repairs are currently underway.

Specifications detailing the nature and extent of this year's repairs were drawn up in July by the Windsor, Conn. engineering firm of Loomis and Loomis, Inc. The specifications call for large amounts of epoxy injections and the patching of damaged concrete beams, as well as brushing and repainting exposed steel supports for the beams.

Frieman said of the painting alone, "It would cost $10,000 to $15,000 to do it." He said that labor costs would be high due to time lost in moving to and blocking off different areas of the garage.

Frieman placed the cost of the work at three times the bid given by Desco, and said that the honesty of the work depends upon the project supervisor "to see that the work is done."

Frieman said that Loomis and Loomis, Inc. is a very competent engineering firm. But he said of this year's bid from Desco, "Something is fishy in Denmark."

Funding for the work goes through Vice-Chancellor for Administration and Finance George Beatty, who was not available for comment on Frieman's statements. Physical Plant Director George Norton, who coordinates the bidding procedure, declined comment.

Prior to last year's repairs, three bids were submitted including $72,000 from Black and Warner Construction, Co. of Unionville, Conn., $59,000 from Chapman Waterproofing Co., and the $23,000 bid from Desco, this year's sole bidder.

Both Black and Warner attributed their absence of a bid to rising costs. "We're trying to limit our range of operations to reduce costs," he said.

Ed Carter of Chapman found several faults with the University's bidding procedure saying, "Our decision not to bid was a business judgment." Carter said that the University's physical time, or time allocated for repair work, needs to be changed. He cited the adverse weather conditions and the resultant time limitations as an example. "If the work was done in better conditions, the work would be more effective," he said. "You would get your dollars worth."

Carter said that while Chapman is a union shop, Desco has non-union employees. "Seventy percent of the total cost is labor," he said. He added that, in this case, a unionized company could not economically compete with a non-union company.

Carter said that the low number of bids last year, and the sole bid this year are results of the limitations in the bid system in which the lowest bid always is chosen. "You have to feed a larger fish more food," he said, referring to the size and price differences between Chapman and Desco. "It's not worth the effort to bid," he added.

A Physical Plant requisition order dated September 27, 1979 allows $40,000 to be spent on current repairs. This figure is presumably known only to University officials, according to Evan Johnston, former UMass Building Authority Member. Desco's bid on October 10 was only $440 over that figure. Desco "may know somebody," Carter suggested, adding that this is only conjecture.

Group takes UMass pulse on issues

By STEVE WHITE
Collegian

Student service agencies on campus often require information about the attitudes and opinions of students on certain issues and Project Pulse is "tailored to getting information from students in a relatively short time," said its Director Randolph Cornelius.

Project Pulse is a part of the Student Affairs Research and Evaluation Office in Whitmore. It was started in the fall of 1972, and its services are available to any student service organization, Cornelius said.

When information is first requested from Project Pulse, Cornelius, said, the client is given a form to fill out specifying the general issue involved, intended use of the data, population from which the information is to be gathered, and other criteria needed for taking an effective survey.

He said the next step involves getting together with the client to construct a questionnaire. The questionnaire is then used in a telephone survey, Cornelius said,

Project Pulse has conducted five surveys so far this semester, covering such issues as vandalism on campus and the construction of a dome over the Stadium.

The students to be contacted in the survey are randomly picked by a computer from a list of all students, Cornelius said. The computer can select students from the list as a whole or from given categories, such as on or off campus students, he said.

There are 21 work-study students who make the telephone calls, Cornelius said. He said usually 50 to 60 percent of the names on the list can be contacted and that about 90 percent of those contacted will agree to participate.

Cornelius said survey results are compiled into a report which the client receives within a few weeks. The report gives the response to each question plus a table or graph of results which can be interpreted quickly.

Project Pulse has conducted five surveys so far this semester, Cornelius said, covering such issues as vandalism on campus and the construction of a dome over the stadium.

He said there is an average of eight surveys each semester, but said 10 requests for information have been received this fall.

Night stalkers

Candlelit march seeks more light for campus

By BRIAN O'CONNELL
Collegian Staff

An enthusiastic crowd of over 150 UMass students, braving frigid weather, marched with lighted candles through campus to university Chancellor Henry C. Koffler's house last night demanding better lighting on campus.

According to UMass Spokesman Art Clifford, Koffler was "out for the evening."

The protestors lit candles as they gathered outside of the Student Union Building at 7:30 p.m. and began marching through the Campus Center to Koffler's House on top of Orchard Hill.

The group received an enthusiastic reception as they wound their way through Northeast, Sylvan, and Orchard Hill residential areas. In an incident halfway through the march, a group of Northeast students sprayed the protestors with a fire extinguisher.

The marchers stopped only once, leaving five lit candles outside of Sylvan's area's parking lot 47, the scene of two attempted rapes in the past.

Chanting loudly "We won't stop fighting, until we get better lighting," and "The students united, will never be defeated," the protestors arrived at Koffler's house after a 45 minute march.

Rally organizer Linda Gary told the crowd that students "demand that lighting be implemented in priority areas. We have not forgotten that to them (the administration) our safety is not a top priority. Koffler said he wanted student input, well, we will keep on inputting until we see lights go on on this campus," she said.

Students laughed and jeered as protest organizers acted out a short sketch ridiculing campus administrators.

According to Clifford, Koffler "subscribes to everything the people are pushing for." Clifford also said that Koffler "invites student participation especially with any group on campus."

"Tomorrow," Clifford said, "They (administrators) are going to review a plan in the works since the summer."

A meeting between students and Chancellor Koffler is scheduled for next Monday.

Linda Geary, leader of the "Take Back The Campus" rally, rouses her troops before their candlelight march last night protesting inadequate lighting on campus. (Staff Photo by Jim Mahoney)

DIGEST

Ten more hostages, who Iranian students said will be released today in Tehran, Iran, are shown at a press conference in the occupied American embassy. Story this page. (AP Laserphoto)

Contest catapults into town

SOUTH HADLEY, Mass. (AP)— Some say Latin is a dead language, but 150 students of the ancient tongue had a lively time this weekend during the annual Massachusetts Catapult Competition.

Students constructed replicas of the medieval machines of war and brought them to this suburban town Saturday to see which could fire a projectile the longest distance.

When the air cleared the winner was Minnechaug Regional High School in Wilbraham with a shot of more than 200 feet.

A similar competition was started in the Midwest 10 years ago by a Latin teacher who wanted to spur interest in his subject. It's been held in Massachusetts for the past eight years.

Bombs injure 12 in Jerusalem

TEL AVIV, Israel(AP)— Palestinian guerrillas, in grim reminders of their opposition to Egyptian President Anwar Sadat's Nov. 19, 1977 peace initiative, planted two bombs in Jerusalem yesterday and were rebuffed in a seaborne attack on the Israeli coast.

Police said 12 persons were wounded, most of them slightly, when the bombs exploded 15 minutes apart on two Israeli buses during the morning rush hour. By late afternoon, hospital officials said all but one of the victims had been released.

In Beirut, the Palestine Liberation Organization claimed its terrorists planted the bombs, but made no mention of the battle in the Mediterranean.

In one bus, a passenger discovered the bomb and the bus driver ordered the passengers to disembark. He then drove toward an empty lot but the bomb went off at Zion Square, one of the city's busiest crossroads.

Iran gays risk death if deported

BOSTON(AP)— A homosexual leader warned a federal panel yesteray that gay Iranian students risk execution if they are deported to their homeland.

Charles F. Brydon, co-director of the New York-based National Gay Task Force, raised that possibility at a regional hearing of the Select Commission on Immigration and Refugee Policy.

Urging a more tolerant immigration policy toward homosexuals in general, Brydon said President Carter's deportation order for Iranian students violating their visas is causing alarm in some gay circles, particularly in southern California.

"In the past week, we have been contacted by frightened Iranian students who are actively gay and correctly fear deportation to a country that would place them before a firing squad," he said.

The Massachusetts Daily Collegian (USPS 333-220) is published daily Monday through Friday excluding January, June, July, and August, for $15 at 113 Campus Center, University of Massachusetts, Amherst, MA 01003. Second class postage paid at Amherst, Mass. Postmaster: Send address changes to Massachusetts Daily Collegian, 113 Campus Center, University of Massachusetts, Amherst, MA 01003.

'Brilliant Colors': a faded performance

By MICHAEL MARTINEAU
Collegian Staff

This semester has given students a rare treat with two world premieres presented on campus this month. The first was the well received "Just Friends of 1923" but the second, Constance Congdon's "Fourteen Brilliant Colors," presented by The University Ensemble Theater last weekend, was not what it should have been.

Playwright Congdon, a UMass graduate student, provided a witty and insightful look into the difficulties of being a woman in America through a look at one family. Carl (Gerald Stockman) has recently reconciled with Charlotte (Deborah Parker), his wife of seven years. Carl is a dreamer, a bicycle repairman who is also a physical fitness freak and closet writer. Charlotte works in a nursing home, has a young daughter, and is unsure of what she wants out of life. Together they live with Charlotte's mother (Tanyss Martula), and Charlotte's younger sister Lisa (Katherine Scott).

Review

Congdon uses these three women from contrasting backgrounds to say a great deal that is provocative, insightful and hilarious. The various stages of awareness that each of the women are in -- Charlotte, representing the most contemporary and least extreme philosophically; Lisa, a high school student, involved in women's studies and extremely distrustful of men; and Juanita, stubbornly conservative and old-fashioned -- make for interesting interaction. The characters are excellent foils for each other.

The plot involves Carl and Charlotte's impending seventh wedding anniversary. A small celebration is planned, with a visit from Charlotte's close friend, Sharon Rose Braver (Wendy Hartstein). Her arrival is a catalyst for evaluation of Charlotte and Carl's relationship and causes Charlotte to take stock of herself and her life.

When the front porch collapses because of a root cellar that Carl has dug, everyone airs their dirty laundry. And Carl, feeling put upon, decides to leave. Charlotte beats him to the punch, however, and says she is going to be the one to go.

This production does not do justice to the script. The climactic moments of the play are not credible. Much of this is due to the directing and the performance of Stockman, who is miscast and looks uncomfortable. As Carl, a buffoon that no one really likes, his discomfor is understandable. His character could be labeled reverse sexism.

Most of the female characters are better. Parker makes Charlotte believable and poignant. As Juanita, Tanyss Martula is wonderfully funny in spots, although it seemed her Southern accent was merely a device for humor. Hartstein seemed to be a character seen before -- the actress returning to visit friends -- but she is very sensitive, funny and moving in a scene in which she and Charlotte make popcorn and reminisce about their youth.

Even with a clever script and several good performances, "Fourteen Brilliant Colors," only begins promisingly. By evening's end it has faded.

Retiring AFL-CIO President George Meany passes the gavel to the new president Lane Kirkland at the Union's convention in Boston Monday. (AP Laserphoto)

Iran frees three, more to follow?

Associated Press

The first three freed American hostages flew to West Germany yesterday and hours later Iranian militants produced 10 more at a news conference in the occupied U.S. Embassy in Tehran and said they might be released today.

A White House statement said if Iran attempts to put any of the remaining 49 U.S. hostages on trial for espionage, as Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini has threatened, it would be a "further flagrant violation " of international law.

An ABC-TV report from Tehran said the militants led 10 hostages — four women and six black men — before reporters at the embassy news conference.

One spokesman for the students occupying the embassy earlier had said four women and six black men due to be released would leave Tehran late last night on a Swiss jetliner specifically ordered by the U.S. administration, and another spokesman said they would leave "within a few hours" after the end of an evening news conference.

One militant spokesman said the students have been studying files to determine who was involved in espionage, but said: "It is highly unlikely to find any evidence against" the 10.

There were conflicting reports from some Foreign Ministry sources who said they expected the hostages to be turned over to the ministry before they leave Tehran.

The Swiss government said Swissair, the national airline, has sent a DC-8 jetliner to Tehran to collect the 10 Americans when they are freed. ABC-TV's report from Tehran said the 10 were to go first to Zurich, then on to Wiesbaden, West Germany, where the first three were taken for medical checks and questioning.

T-SHIRTS
SPECIAL OFFER
10% Commission Available to anyone for a new order
Valley Silkscreen
Haydenville 268-7800

Best deal in Town?
Bluewall
Happy Hour

Community Organizers
ACORN needs organizers to work with low and moderate income families in 19 states (AR, SK, TX, LA, TN, MO, FL, CO, NV, PA, IA, OK, MI, AZ, NC, GA, SC, CA, CT) for political and economic justice. Direct action on neighborhood deterioration, utility rates, taxes, health care, relining etc. Get a job that makes change. Long hours, low pay--training provided.
Contact the Placement Office for an interview Tuesday, November 27th or write Kaye Jaeger, ACORN, 404 Lodi St., Syracuse, NY 13203 (315) 476-5787.

Plumbley's off the common
30 Boltwood Walk
Amherst Center
253-9586
Tuesday is Tequila Night
Prizes & Surprises
Starting at 9:00

MASSACHUSETTS DAILY Collegian
STAFF MEETING
—interview and listen to candidates for Spring Board of Directors
Tuesday, November 27
7:30 CC 162

UMass student Craig Pangburn of Belchertown feeds his horse named Horace.

(Staff photo by Doug Paulding)

Parent proposes self-defense class in public schools

By KATE BUSCH
Collegian Staff

On November 26 the Amherst School Committee will vote on a proposal that would have self-defense taught in Amherst Public schools.

The proposal was written by Debbie Curtis of Northampton and submitted to the committee by Amherst parent Janice Wohl.

Wohl said self-defense is an "attitude" that should extend to children as well as adults. "Children are especially vulnerable to attack," Wohl said. "But they are in more danger when they have a lack of knowledge regarding harrassment and assault. Many children can't even identify harrassment, much less act on it," she said.

"Twenty-four percent of all people raped are children under the age of 12. Two girls were raped at Mill River recently. Children are very vulnerable," Wohl said.

She said that self-defense education is the responsibility of the school. "Schools must face the fact that they are in the parental role," Wohl said. She said Amherst police Chief Donald Maia was reluctant to address the issue of sexual harrassment. "We had a completely parallel conversation. All we talked about were safety patrols and crossing guards," Wohl said.

"We have to work toward changing society so that no one would even think about committing sexual harrassment or assault; but that is no reason to make children vulnerable until that is accomplished," Wohl said. "Something is going to have to happen now."

Around campus

Everywoman's Center plans alcohol workshop for women

A workshop entitled Women and Alcohol will be held November 27, 3 to 5 p.m., and November 28 and 29, 7 to 9 p.m. at the Everywoman's Center in Wilder Hall. The workshop is co-sponsored by Everywoman's Center and the Alcohol Education Project.

Feasibility of nuclear power to be debated in Morrill Aud.

The UMass chapter of the Student Coalition Against Nukes Nationwide (SCANN(is sponsoring a debate Tuesday Dec. 4, at 7:30 p.m. in Morrill Auditorium. The question to be debated will be "Is nuclear power a viable energy alternative?"

Moderated by Political Science Professor Ken Dolbeare, the debate will be between Bill Semone, public relations representative for Northeast Utilities, and Mark Anerson, UMass economics graduate student and SCANN member.

The public is invited and a question and answer period will follow.

Committee asks future plans for Judaic Studies

By JIM LENNOX
Collegian Staff

The student Committee on Judaic Studies claimed at a meeting yesterday with Chancellor Henry Koffler that a two year effort for recognition has been ignored. Committee members said they wanted to know what the administration plans for Judaic Studies in the future.

According to Spokesman David Levy, the UMass Judaic Studies Program had declined steadily over the past several years. He said UMass is the only state facility where a student can major in Judaic Studies, but said only six of the once 12 courses in the program remains.

A 1,500 signature petition for a permanent, budgeted Judaic Studies Program was presented to the administration in 1977, according to Levy, and the proposal was approved by the Student and Facility Senates in 1978. The student group wants a decision from the administration now, said Levy.

Levy said committee not only wants more courses availible but a permanent budget as well. He said the Judaic Program currently lacks office facilities, staff and a regular advisor. Levy said enrollment in Judaic Studies is rising, in contrast to the declining number of courses available.

To Serve Studying Students
the Campus Center will provide
food service in
THE HATCH CAFETERIA
in the evenings
Monday-Friday 5:00 pm-10:00 pm
On a Trial Basis

Selectmen meet

Elderly given funds

By SEAN HARVEY
Collegian Staff

The Amherst Board of Selectmen last night approved an application by the Council on Aging for $1,500 in grants from the Highland Valley Elder Service Center to be used to pay a part-time nurse and to conduct an elderly needs survey.

In a memo to the selectmen, Barbara K. Griffith, executive director of the Council on Aging, said the nurse would be from the Board of Health and would work approximately three hours a week with the Support Service Coordinator of Congregate Housing on the Support Service Team. She said $600 would be used for this. The remaining $1,000 would be used to fund an elderly needs survey in Amherst to be conducted in 1980.

Town Manager A. Louis Hayward said graduate students from the UMass School of Education would be employed to conduct the survey.

The selectmen designated December 1 "Amherst Youth Hockey Day" as part of a skate-a-thon to be held on that day at Orr Rink, Amherst College. The money raised will be for the benefit of the Frank Hart Scholarship Fund, the U.S. Olympics and the Amherst Hockey Association.

The selectmen approved the use of sidewalks by singing groups on December 1, 11 and 13, when 15 members of the UMass Chorale group will be singing throughout the downtown area and on December 7 when three brass players from the UMass Marching Band will be playing near Amherst Savings Bank, Boltwood Walk and the Carriage Shops.

Angelita Rivera, 2, was seen waiting for the bus yesterday with her mother, Debbie Rivera. Mrs. Rivera hopes to attend UMass during the spring semester. (Staff photo by J. Ferrarone)

WATCH THE SUN GO DOWN AT THE T.O.C. HAPPY HOUR

"An Alternative to Turkey"

The Red Hot Connection

THE GREAT AMERICAN HOT DOG PLACE

Vienna Pure Beef Products

52 Center Street Northampton
586-3306 - Carryout

10% DISCOUNT WITH AD! C1

CINEMA 1-8
HOLYOKE MALL AT INGLESIDE
Mass. Pike Exit 4 to Int. Exit 15
24 Hr. Movie-Phone 538-7510

$1.00 OFF REGULAR ADULT PRICE PRESENT AD BOX OFFICE

Recorded in Dolby — The MUPPET MOVIE (G) — Today 1:10 3:15 5:00 7:20 & 9:30

A True Story — THE ONION FIELD (R)

HELD OVER — WHEN A STRANGER CALLS (R) — Today 1:00 3:00 5:00 7:20 & 9:30

The Night He Came Home — HALLOWEEN — Today 1:20 7:45 & 9:45

Ends Tuesday — Harold and Maude

Held Over — BREAKING AWAY — Today 2:45 4:55 7:05 & 9:15

FRENCH POSTCARDS (PG)

SKATETOWN USA — ROLLER DISCO! (PG)

DOORS OPEN THANKSGIVING DAY 4:30 PM

AMERICAN MULTI CINEMA
ADULTS $2.75 STUDENTS & SR. CITIZENS with AMC CARD $2.25 TWI-LITE SHOW $1.50 - Special Engagements Excluded Twi-Lite Show - Limited to Seatige
TIMES SHOWN FOR TODAY ONLY

HAMPSHIRE 4 — 584-7550 HAMP. MALL ON CAFE SQ.—RT. 9, HADLEY, MASS.

Apocalypse Now (R) — Mon-Wed (5:30 @ $1.50) 8:30 Thur 1:30-(4:30 @ $1.50) 7:45-10:30

NATIONAL LAMPOON'S ANIMAL HOUSE (R) — Mon-Wed (6:00 @ $1.50) 8:30 Thur 2:00 (5:00 9 $1.50) 7:30-9:45

Movie and Dinner — see one of the 8 movies listed here and have dinner at the Pewter Pot Rest on Cafe Square in the Hampshire Mall for only $5 call for details

STARTING OVER (R) — Mon-Wed (6: @ $1.50) 8:45 Thur 2:00 (5:00 @ $1.50) 7:30-9:45

BREAKING AWAY (PG) — Mon-Wed (6:15 @$1.50) 8:45 Thur 2:15 (5:15 @ $1.50) 7:30-9:55

MOUNTAIN FARMS 4 — 584-9153 MOUNTAIN FARMS MALL ROUTE 9-HADLEY, MASS.

A temptingly tasteful comedy 10 (R) — Mon-Wed (6:00 9 $1.50) 8:30 Thur 2:15 (5:00 @ $1.50) 7:30-9:55

AL PACINO AND JUSTICE FOR ALL (R) — Mon-Wed (6:00 @ $1.50) 8:30 Thur (5:00 @ $1.50) 7:30-9:55

Hook if you love Brian. MONTY PYTHON'S LIFE OF BRIAN (R) — Mon-Wed (6:15 @ $1.50) 8:45 Thur 2:15 (5:15 @ $1.50) 7:45-10:15

ROCK AND ROLLER DISCO! SKATETOWN USA (PG) — Mon-Wed (6:15 @ $1.50) 8:45 Thur 2:00 (5:15 @ $1.50) 7:45-10:15

ALL IT TAKES IS ONE VISIT TO JAN'S AT LESNOWS

Discover an authentic factory outlet for designer and nationally advertised brands of better ladies' and mens' coats and outerwear, ladies' sportswear, suits, dresses and designer jeans.

ALL AT LOW, LOW FACTORY PRICES THAT ARE 30% to 50% BELOW NORMAL RETAIL PRICES.

Shop and compare our great selections and prices and you will be convinced that JAN'S offers you the best and newest for less.

JAN'S AT LESNOWS

Phone for Easy Directions (413) 527-0782

148 PLEASANT ST., EASTHAMPTON, MASS.

OPEN: Wed., Thurs., Fri. 11 A.M. to 9 P.M.
Sat., Sun. 11 A.M. to 6 P.M.

QUICK Copy and Typing Inc.

"Quality at a price you can afford"

*Copying
*Offset
*Thermography
*Binding
*Word processing
*Typing
*Executive secretarial services

If you can find a lower price for comparable service we will refund the difference to you.

The Carriage Shops
Amherst
549-0557
Hours M-F 9-8
Sat 10-5
or by appt.
master charge visa

BUST OUT FOR THE WEEKEND

TRAILWAYS and PETER PAN offer frequent service to Boston, New York and many other great Get-A-Way places.

TRAILWAYS & PETER PAN BUS LINES

MAKE LIFE SIMPLER FOR YOU.

For Information, Schedules and Prices, Contact:
Campus Center Bus Office - 545-2006, or 549-6000

Editorial/Opinion

Overkill

'UMass is a big school'

Elved Owens

Morale at UMass has suffered quite a beating over the past few weeks. The notorious article in Boston Magazine took an unremarkable truth — that UMass is a big school with the predictable problems that bigness brings — and turned it into the decline of the West. "This is a good school," one student told me, "but as long as there are lurid stories about riots, rapes and muggings to dwell on, nobody is interested in hearing about the good aspects. It's not easy to sensationalize merit."

In the midst of this negative atmosphere the announcement at last week's Whitmore press conference that the problem of cannibalism in Southwest has been virtually eradicated, passed without comment. "The problem," said an administration spokesman, "is no longer a problem." Without doubt the figures are impressive: of the eight people who have vanished from Southwest this year, the administration is "ninety nine per cent certain" that none of them have been eaten. This contrasts markedly with last year's eighteen unexplained disappearances which included that of the eminent social anthropologist Dr. Henry Blot, presenter of PBS's Blot on The Landscape documentary series. Filming program 13, 'High Living and Low Life' Dr. Blot entered one of the Southwest towers and was never seen again.

At the time great publicity was given to his last recorded words: "Civilization," it has been said, is but a thin veneer. Only a tenuous system of rules similar in its fragility to, say, this crumbling wall of bricks, stands between us and the savage. I think it was Eisenhower who said: 'Eating people is wrong,' but in an age of skepticism and moral experiment, do the certainties of the tranquil fifties still hold? I'm just a humble scientist, so all I can say is "let's take a look..."

A shin bone found in the lobby was never positively identified. The administration has always reacted coolly to suggestions that Dr. Blot was the victim of cannibalism. "When a person enters one of the Southwest towers and vanishes," said a Whitmore spokesman, "one does not immediately conclude that he has been eaten." This complacency has not been shared by the Heads of Residence who earlier this year issued a joint statement that they would deal "most severely" with any individual found devouring a resident.

They have been on the front line. One Head of Residence had the unenviable task of informing a Boston couple, over a bad connection, that their 260 pound son has been eaten. "It was harrowing," he said, "...the slow, awful realization; the way the belly-laughs gave way to the tears." And another told of his narrow escape from what was alleged to have been a Tupperware party: "I got out with shock, a salad crisper and a badly chewed leg. I guess I'm one of the lucky ones."

Last week's press conference seems to mark a turning point. A source close to the administration frankly admitted: "It's the first bit of good news we've had in months. The trustees went bananas over the Bolt affair; 5000 anonymous people in Southwest and some jerk has to go and eat a guy with a television show. We just never get the breaks." Asked about the recent troubles he said: "We'll cope; defeating cannibalism helps you to see these things in the right perspective. After all," he added, gesturing towards the calm, sunlit campus, "things really aren't too bad."

Elved Owens is a Collegian columnist

You're on your own, kid

Eric Janszen

I've been thinking of going into business. I'm not sure what kind of business, I haven't figured that out yet. But having a business has always seemed like the thing to do, because you make more money that way than you can by working for someone else. When you're working for someone they pimp you out of all the money you'd be getting if you were running a business pimping employees of your own. Clearly, a position of ownership is the only position worth being in.

Aside from having no idea what kind of business I'd start I also don't know anything about running a business. I suppose I could learn; take courses on the subject or even major in it, but I would find this disturbing. Sitting in a classroom listening to some maniac describe in grisly detail how to most efficiently rip-off employees and peddle the commonly useless or even harmful products of their tragically misapplied labor to already badly indebted customers has always struck me as the worst kind of perversion. I couldn't do it, I'd have to hire someone to handle that part of my enterprise.

But wait, I couldn't do that because whoever I'd hire to work my business' finances and management would definitely rip me off. They'd do that because I'd hire smart people and it's a smart thing to do, to rip your employer off for what he's pimping you out of or more, if you can get away with it. I wouldn't settle for anything less than what would amount to a team or crack corporate thieves whose success in cleaning me out would be a convincing demonstration of their intelligence — but not of mine.

Which leaves me with having to learn how to run a business. Now in a case like this, where doing what I'd like to means compromising my already beleaguered principles, bodl rationalization is in order. This rationalization is aimed at convincing myself and friends that learning how to grub peoples labor is alright. No sweat.

First, I will cultivate a high tolerance for my own personal bias. Failure to ignore obvious contradictions in any defense of systematically ripping people off hazards a collision with reality. I will assume that my argument, whatever it may be, is correct; everyone else's is wrong.

Second, my rationalization will hinge on vague and indisputable premises — like rights, for instance. Rights are invaluable in all defenses since if you can claim with conviction your right to something then no one is going to argue with you, especially of your claim is to something you have had for a long time — like money. Or, if you have never had money then you can claim your present right to accumulate some on the basis of long-standing deprivation. That's the great thing about rights, they're always advantageous. This is particularly true when the ethics of business, free-enterprise, and capitalism in general is the subject in question. After all, ethics, like stocks and commidities, are too subject to the laws of supply and demand.

Exactly what rights I lay claim to is not important since none will be cotangent in time. For now, any one will do. And if one of my nagging socialist thinking friends disputes my claims I will hasten to point out how boring socialism is: no fast cars, no blaring stereos, no Levi's. Or I can tell jokes like this one:

Me: What's the difference between capitalism and socialism?

Them: Gee, I don't know.

Me: With capitalism, some people get a coat and others don't.

With socialism, everybody gets half a coat! (Laughter)

Letters

Separatist pages...

To the Editor:

In Mr. Pere's letter of 11/2, his conclusion that racial issues should be eliminated from this paper is founded on his assumptions of the concerns of UMass students. Hopefully, we are all concerned with racial, ethnic, and sexist attitudes and realize that they do affect students at this university. To ignore such issues only promotes a lack of understanding.

On the other hand, I find it hard to believe that the Nummo News section of the paper is helping to promote understanding and awareness of black issues. How many non-black students really read this section? As it stands, many important issues and events remain unread and ignored. Forgive me for being extreme, but once we started we could conceivably add a Jewish section, Women's section,...separating news by nationality, race, or sex. This isn't to say these groups don't deserve the attention. But if this situation did exist, the foremost factor would be the nationality, race, or sex of a person (Indeed, to find the article we'd have to turn to the right page), rather than the content of the article.

I would emphasize the importance of encouraging reporters who represent the population of this university (by nationality, race, & sex) to write for the Collegian. But don't reinforce the barriers and divisions we are trying to avoid by separating news on the basis of color.

Name withheld by request

Ms. Rasco: 'Who's...'

To the Editor:

I'd like to ask Ms. Rasco just whose god she wrote of in her editorial of the 16th, and how she feels she can judge an entire class of people, of whom she knows nothing, by her beliefs.

I, for one, do not purport to judge her by mine; what gives her the right to judge some of my friends? Have any of her friends been rousted, beaten, or harassed? Have any of her male friends been raped by homophobes? Have any of her women friends been called unfit mothers, and denied child custody? Have people she knows, and has known for years been denied housing, jobs, or service in restaurants and bars, or the right to dance together in public? Do people she cares about live wondering if or when they will become outcasts because of the way they love?

Let me volunteer an answer: No! These issues don't concern them because they're too damn busy slamming the closet doors of America shut.

Who really speaks evil of others? Who shows no kindness or or pity to others? Just who is full of jealousy and murder?

I suggest that anyone who feels that their god's law says that people deserve death must be full of something.

There are some people who care about people more than they care about centuries-old scriptures whose meaning is uncertain and application dubious. To some people, the people who had the guts to care about another regardless of what conventional moralism had to say about it, this last decade was the "we" decade; I think no one who hasn't been in their shoes or knows what they've been through by "good Christians" and many others has any rights to slander them with the name sinner.

If Ms. Rasco would like to find out which of our respective positions is the more popular view, let us compare notes in a week or two.

John C. Parker
Thatcher

Physical plant blunder

To the Editor:

Well, the physical plant has done it once more! In accompaniment to constructing a very satisfactory handicap ramp to our "temporary" library the entire front area was covered with asphalt.

Tuesday morning I saw them digging up the poorly unkept lawn and laying down some soil. You can imagine my surprise when I returned a mere four hours later and saw the area covered with black asphalt! I thought they were going to put down new sod on the lawn. But NO!

When I questioned who gave orders to do this while they were finishing I was told that one of the men there ordered it. Then I approached this individual and asked him what right he had to do this monstrosity. He said he owned the university. Yah, BULLSHIT!

Gary R. Zahorsky
Field House

Music

Another great album up Dylan's sleeve

The recent controversy surrounding the lyrical content of the latest Bob Dylan LP, Slow Train Coming, seems pointless in a true discussion of the artistic quality of the work. Attempts to downgrade the album by the utterance of such statements as, "His lyrics just aren't poetic any more," or attempts to justify it by saying, 'Musically, it's the best thing he's ever done," seem nonsensical. Such musical mutilation only lends support to the total lack of appreciation for the record-making as an art unto itself. Lyrics alone, or music alone, or mixing alone does not make a good record.

Epistle aside, the total thematic and musical arrangement of this record represents an interesting departure from the usual Dylan fare—whatever that is. The first cut on side one, "Gotta Serve Somebody," with its redundant beat provided by bassist Tim Drummond, would certainly be a welcome addition on the turntable at Studio 54. Dylan talks in the universal about the choices man (generically) must make between good and evil, truth and falsehood. No matter what course you chart for yourself: "It might be the devil or it might be the Lord/But you gotta serve somebody," Dylan slurs. This cut has received much unwarranted airplay.

The second song on the album, "Precious Angel," is by far the most melodic track on the record. The tonal quality of Mr. Zimmerman's voice is just superb. In the chorus, Dylan puts his flair for allegory to good use: "Shine your light/Shine your light on me/I just can't make it by myself/I'm a little too blind to see." Here Dylan employs the age-old use of the word "light" as a metaphor for truth in the meaning of religion, with the two-fisted meaning of search for an honest relationship. Next comes "I Believe in You," again perhaps a spiritual tribute or maybe just another love song about one of the many women in Dylan's life.

The title cut follows next, with the songwriter utilizing the Romantic symbol of the "train comin' 'round the bend," conveying a sense of desperation over "all that foreign oil controlling American soil" and "man's ego's inflated/his laws are outdated," as if Dylan is still clutching to the last vestiges of the American Dream.

The second side opens with "Gonna Change My Way of Thinking," by far the hardest rocker on the album. Outstanding in this piece is the Muscle Shoals Horn Section. Dylan sings in a very threatening way, both lyrically and through his affected inflections. This song, more than any other, may be what bothers some people about Dylan's "born-again" interests. For he offers his audience, in a very traditional sort of way, no choice for salvation except through adherence to a Christian theology. "He not with me is against me," sings Reverend Bob, borrowing from the Gospel: "He that believeth on the Son hath everlasting life: and he that believeth not the Son shall not see life; but the wrath of God abideth on him." (John 3:36) Not bad for a Jewish kid who, only ten years ago, was looking for his "roots" at the Wailing Wall in Israel.

But Dylan has always dealt with the subject of religion from the early stages of his career. In his folk period he sang about the hypocrisy of religion in "With God on Our Side," from the "Times They Are A-Changin' album. In 1967, John Wesley Harding, with its cast of beggars and prostitutes, its Frankie Lee and Judas Priest, the watchtower and St. Augustine, was certainly hinting at religious influences. Also noteworthy is that this song, "Gonna Change..." bears more than a strange resemblance to another Dylan tune, for this could easily be a reworking of "Down the Highway," from the Freewheelin' album of 1962.

The next song is "Do Right to Me Baby (Do Unto Others)," a rather uninspiring song that serves as a nice filler. The third song on side two, "When You Gonna Wake Up?" is classical Dylan. It would please the most die-hard Dylanologists, with its "heavy messages" and politics. A few examples: "Counterfeit philosophies have polluted all of your thoughts/Karl Marx has got you by the throat/Henry Kissinger's got you tied up in knots," and "You got innocent men in jail/Your insane asylums are filled/You got unrighteous doctors/Dealing drugs that'll never cure your ills." All throughout he asks "When you gonna wake up/And strengthen the things that remain/." One might call this another of Uncle Bob's "state of the union" songs.

The last two cuts are insignificant. "Man Gave Names to All the Animals," a Noah's Ark set-to-music, is a really silly piece that could easily have been the soundtrack to "Doctor Doolittle." "When He Returns," aside from piano solos by Barry Beckett, is not very stimulating lyrically or vocally. A comparable tune is "Father of Night," from the New Morning album.

This isn't going to be remembered as one of the best Bob Dylan albums, but it so far surpasses last year's Street Legal that it shows a sense of growth. The lead guitar work of Dire Strait's Mark Knopfler is a good addition. One negative aspect of the musicianship is definitely the four female back-up vocalists. They belong with Dylan about as much as a hemophilliac in a razor blade factory.

However in total, the album is good, not so much for what it is by itself as for what it promises.

One must remember that Dylan masterpieces like Blonde on Blonde and Blood on the Tracks were arrived at through periods of mediocrity and garbage like Nashville Skyline and Self Portrait. After listening to Slow Train Coming, it's obvious that the man whom David Bowie once described as "every nation's refugee" has another great album up his sleeve.

—Jim Moran

Disco and Elton don't mix

Elton John could still be a rock star if he wanted to but it seems he's given up. He's just released a new album and it's disco.

Now wait a minute, disco-haters, Elton could've made a good disco record but he didn't. His involvement here is minimal—he didn't write any of the songs, doesn't produce or arrange, and doesn't even play piano. The songs, written by producer Pete Bellotte, are innocuous at best. The one exception is a version of "Johnny B. Goode" which is only half-discofied. It might have worked if Elton had taken a piano solo. As usual though, Elton's vocals are excellent and provide the album with its only listenable moments.

This album is especially disappointing after Elton's excellent "Mama Can't Buy You Love," which was vintage Philly soul rather than disco. But he still hasn't made a genuine rock record since Rock of The Westies in 1975, and I used to think it came to him naturally.

— Brett Milano

Live entertainment
with STEVE SPELMAN

Tuesday
Nov. 20 9-12

NO COVER
50c DRAFT BEERS

the Hungry P
549-5713
55 University Drive

PIONEER KE-2000

PIONEER 120mm(5in.) flush-mount car stereo speakers
TS-120121
with super slim-line design

We also feature at better prices
J.I.L. • DELCO • PIONEER • AUDIOVOX $230.00 $235.00
JENSEN • FOX • ALPINE
LONG RADIO, INC.
Specialists in Automotive Sound Systems
8 Maple Ave., Northampton
(across from Mini Food Basket)
584-3259
Mon. - Fri. 9-5, Sat. 9-1
7 Logan St., Springfield
(corner of King St.)
733-0808, 734-9429
Mon. - Fri. 8-5, Sat. 9-1

MAIN STREET RECORDS
150 Main Street
Northampton
Massachusetts largest selection of imported and domestic New Wave
10% off imported singles with this ad
thru 11/27
586-5726

Music

Elusive progressive music proves worthy of search

The term "progressive rock" has become almost as widely misused as the term "new wave".

At first it was applied to any band who could play synthesizer; later it became associated with such experimentalists as Van Der Graaf Generator; and nowadays it's usually applied to such monstrosities as Styx and Kansas (who are progressive if the Knack are punk rockers).

Whatever progressive music is, it probably won't be found on the charts and more often will only be found in the import bin. But there is still a good amount of imaginative music there for the investigating. Here are some recent examples:

Tony Banks

Tony Banks: A Curious Feeling

Tony Banks's name should be familiar to fans of Genesis, since he has been their keyboardist since their inception. His first solo effort resembles a good Genesis album, despite the presence of an obscure vocalist (Kim Beacon), the sound is remarkably similar. There is the same keyboard grandeur and the usual inventive lyrical themes. There is also more emphasis on the instrumentals than there has been on the last couple of Genesis albums.

Genesis fans should also be interested in the latest Brand X album Product, which features Phil Collins on drums and vocals. The music here is closer to conventional fusion, always a rather restrictive form, but there is enough compositional talent in the band to keep it interesting. Collins is as usual a fine drummer, providing a rhythmic pulse and elaborating on it at the same time. His one lead vocal is on the album's most rock-oriented track, "Don't Make Waves."

Horslips

Horslips: Short Stories/Tall Tales

Horslips has been through some changes in their 10-album career. Although their original personnel is intact, their musical focus has shifted. They began as a traditional folk-rock band in the same vein as Steeleye Span. In recent albums however, they have moved closer to pure rock. On their new one, the transformation is complete—their violin player has even moved over to rhythm guitar. All 10 of the tracks here are singles-length, and all of them have at least one melodic hook or instrumental passage to grab your attention. If Horslips don't make it in America with this album, it can only be due to their label's failure to promote them.

Mike Oldfield

Mike Oldfield: Exposed

Mike Oldfield may be one of the most under-rated composers of the decade. He achieved American success only with his first album, Tubular Bells. His later works were more inventive, yet most of them weren't released in this country. Exposed is a double album featuring some of his latest compositions recorded live. He usually plays all of the instruments on his studio albums so this is the first time he has recorded with a band. The overall sound is an interesting contrast between the symphonic sound of the band and Oldfield's more rock-oriented lead guitar. The version of "Tubular Bells" included here is radically different from the original due to the addition of bass and drums. There is also a vocal appearance by Maddy Prior and some of the best recorded sound on a live album.

— Brett Milano

Zappa's new release has genius, perversion

There are only a few rock artists who can generate as much controversy as Frank Zappa. It seems that most people either love him or hate him. After all, he's recorded so much material that he can safely play the roles of both underrated musical genius and trivial pervert. Lately due in part to label hassles, Zappa's been turning out a new album every few months. His latest, Joe's Garage, places him, as usual, squarely in the middle of genius and perversion.

As the liner notes describe it, "Joe's Garage is a stupid story about how the government is going to try to do away with music." The album is essentially the first act of a rock opera of sorts with a cast of characters as only Zappa could invent. The story revolves around a group of teen-agers who form a rock band and rehearse in Joe's Garage to the distress of the neighbors. The group breaks up and its members and groupies take off on all sorts of dubious adventures. Somewhere in the middle of all this is the love story of Joe and Mary, who may or may not eventually live happily ever after in Act II when and if Zappa records it.

As it so often does, Zappa's music covers a wide range of styles, with the inevitable weird voices and strange noises popping up from time to time. The title cut is a solid rock'n'roll number but other tunes bring in hints of jazz, disco, country and blues. The lyrics range from brilliant to downright disgusting. Titles like "Crew Slut" and "Why Does it Hurt When I Pee?" should do their part to keep this album from getting any serious airplay, as has been the case with most of the earlier work by Zappa and the Mothers.

Last year could very easily have been a turning point for Zappa when "Dancing Fool" became his first-ever genuine hit. However on that same album was "Jewish American Princess," a song which offended enough people to keep Zappa from becoming a superstar. His "Saturday Night Live" appearance was harmless enough but his concerts showed he hadn't lost his touch for the absurd.

Zappa, as if to show that he has nothing in particular against Jews, Zappa inclues "Catholic Girls," which makes "Only the Good Die Young" sound like a hymn. Those who feared that Top 40 success would go to his head needn't fear. Joe's Garage is as outrightly insane as ever and his larger-than-ever following will not be disappointed.

—Tom Anderson

Disco doesn't always suck

In case you haven't heard, disco is "dead." The record companies are now pushing a "back to rock" movement. Which may end up "sucking" almost as much as disco.

There are valid reasons fr hating disco. The materialism, narcissism, and sexual objectification of the culture surrounding it are a horrifying regression. But one can separate the music from the lifestyle. Granted, a lot of disco is just about the blandest, most formulaic music ever made. But that has more to do with economics of the music industry than with the form itself.

Disco has contributed a number of innovations, in rhythmic feel, song structure, and production style. Some rock artists have enriched their own styles by adapting some of these elements to their own styles: recent examples include Ian Dury, M, and even Kiss. These noble attempts are not to be confused with Rod Stewart-style formula cash-ins. Thankfully, the latter should become much less prevalent now that disco is no longer seen as THE way to a sure-fire hit.

The reason disco sucks on the whole has nothing to do with why many people hate it. Some of the reactionaries who regard any music that doesn't emanate naturally from a live (and preferably acoustic) setting as "inhuman." They can't ackowledge that dancing to a great record over a superb sound system can be more enjoyable than watching a lousy band. Others can't see that supporting "political" music is no more a revolutionary act than listening to "escapist" disco when it is part of the same economic system. Still others are just narrow-minded, and won't listen to anything without enough complexities or loud guitars to suit their tastes. And some are simply racist or homophobic.

No, the real problem with disco was that is was pushed to the exclusion of all other styles, and exposure was very difficult to obtain for artists (particulary black ones) who wouldn't conform to the increasingly rigid standards. Oversaturation caused disco to fade, and now the record companies threaten to do the same thing all over again with "power pop," and make us all hate it, too.

In order for disco to "survive," the industry is now pushing rock on it. And again, the results can be good (as in Donna Summer's fusion attempts) or bad (do we really need the Village People doing "rock 'n' roll"?). If only they would realize that they could make money selling a diverse range of music, rather than always shooting for lowest-common-denominator blockbusters, the pop music climate would be a damn sight healthier.

Here are a few good recent disco records for the open-minded: James Brown's Original Disco Man and Rick James's Fire It Up, hard funk (to disco what punk is to power-pop); Third World's The Story's Been Told, disco-reggae; Cory Daye's Cory and Me, disco-swing; Chic's Risque and KC & the Sunshine Band's Do You Wanna Go Party, individualistic mainstream disco. The Bee Gees' Greatest Hits will make good pop oldies once we get over being sick of them; Donna Summer's Greatest Hits still sounds good,

—Perry Adler

Jeffreys blends lyrics with rhythm

It sometimes seems as though a lot of fine rock songwriters have somehow been lost between the almost-lyricless throbs of "dance music" and the cloyingly pretentious words of much "progressive" rock. Yet a few lone souls, like Bruce Springsteen and Garland Jeffreys, somehow mange to balance well between the two extremes and turn out some fine music. Jeffreys' latest album, American Boy & Girl, is not drawing the critical raves of some of his earlier work, but it continues his tradition of powerful intelligent material which has yet to approach the large sales of colleagues like Springsteen.

As in his previous albums, Jeffreys draws mainly from the city for his portraits of life and love. The street imagery is a little less direct than in many earlier songs, but there's no mistaking where this man's heart lies. The lyrical scope is not, however, limited to life on the streets. There are several fairly traditional love songs and a semi-serious social commentary entitled "If Mao Could See Me Now."

In spite of the overall high caliber of his lyrics, Jeffreys' major weakness—his simple choruses—are still as evident as ever. Most are just refrains, repeating the title over three or four times. Still this is appropriate for the strong reggae roots which form the foundation for his melodies.

Although it is Jeffreys' lyrics that seem to draw the most attention, his musical abilities should not go unmentioned. The music is commanding and well arranged and his fine voice projects a strong sense of sincerity. Jeffreys is, above all, believable, an attribute that few other rock singers can claim.

It is often said of new releases by relatively-unknown artists that "this is not the album for everyone." However, American Boy & Girl deserves more than this write-off. There is much here that should, and occassionally does, find its way into the standrd FM fare of "album rock." Anyone who is interested in the street-wise sounds of people like Bruce Springsteen, Lou Reed and Tom Waits should make it a point to check out Garland Jeffreys, and this album is an excellent introduction.

—Tom Anderson

MUSICAL INSTRUMENTS
NEW & USED
DOWNTOWN SOUNDS
REPAIRS—INSTRUCTION
21 PLEASANT ST. NORTHAMPTON
586-0998

413-256-6217
fine instruments bought and sold
repaired and restored best prices and repair work in the valley
Fretted Instrument Workshop
49 So. Pleasant St., Amherst, Mass. 01002

STOP SWEATER
57 King St., Northampton
(next to Friendly's)
Special 100% wool navy crewneck
$40 value $18.50
excellent parking in front of store

Bell's
Pizza
65 University Dr.
549 1311 253 9051

"Don't you know
everyone goes to
Bell's?
Come and see why
our pizza sells!"

★ Pizza
★ Subs
★ Spaghetti
★ Salads

11 AM-1 PM
65 University Drive
549-1311

Tuesday Evening
November 20

9:00 P.M.

(3) Dull Movie (3 hr)
(22) (24) Run-of-the-Mill Game (30)
(11)th Floor CAMPUS CENTER
"TOC" SHOW AT THE T.O.C.

Premier Live - Color
Ken Ober guest hosts
TOC TALENT SHOWCASE
Guests include Singers
Musicians, Comedians
No Cover (2½ hr)

T.O.C. TALENT SHOWCASE IS TONIGHT
Bring Your Friends

whole wheat PIZZA FACTORY

Introduces:

THE WORKS

Pepperoni, Onions, Mushrooms, GreenPeppers and Sausage

Regularly $8.00
From 5:00 - 10:00 only
7 days
$2.00 off
363 Main St. 256-8587

To place a Collegian Classified Ad
•Come to Collegian Office (CC 113)
•8:45 to 3:45, Mon. thru Fri.
•Classified deadline is 3:45 two days prior to publication day

Collegian Classifieds

Collegian classified rates are: daily, 45¢ per line, five consecutive issues, 40¢ per line per day, 30 consecutive issues, 30¢ per line per day. One line is roughly equivalent to 38 characters.

AUDIO

Theatrix Rents Mirror balls and other Disco supplies. Lights for sale, new and used 323-7160

McIntosh Amp & Preamp Harmon Kardon Tuner, Dual Turntable Bill 665-2810

Large Advents $175 pair 546-5738

Sony TC-355 reel to reel $120 or B.O. 549-6689

Kenwood Cass Deck KX1030 X cond. 200. 256-6205

AUTO FOR SALE

72 Opel-Cadet exc-cond-30-mpg-auto Call Jim 549-3672

72 Mustang Grande: Very good cond., auto, stereo, reg, gas, $1800 Call Steve 253-3782

68 Impala needs work or for parts $125 mornings 256-6279

69 Belair must sell, engine excellent, 400 or B.O. 549-1399

64 Falcon St. Wgn. runs $100. Rick 253-7634

ENTERTAINMENT

Good Times—DJ's for hire, disco and/or Rock, Call 546-4726 or 546-4777

Soundsystem for Hire perfect for bands, discos, coffeehouses Rick 584-4105

Music, Games, Prizes, and lots of Fun! Energize yourself for the Fall Cosmic Wimpout Residential Tournaments!

Good Times—DJ's for hire, disco and/or Rock call 546-4726 or 546-4777

FOR RENT

1 Bedroom in three bedroom apt $118/month plus utilities start Jan., bus route 5-10 minute walk to campus, call 549-6537

1 bedroom apt. in Amherst available in early Dec., quiet bldg.,$235.00 mo., 253-5605 between 6-9 p.m.

Puffton 1. bdrm apt avail Dec 1, call 549-3919 anytime

FOR SALE

Portrait Drawing Dennis Delap, 256-8732

2 Leather Jackets Walter Dyer Call 253-7103

2 ½ price airline coupons call Debby 323-5262

Full size bed w/frame & headboard. Call evenings 584-5077

Half-fare United coupon 549-5031

Waterless Cookware 20 pc set, great Xmas gift, price reduced until Nov. 30 549-2867

Wallets - Top quality leather, great Xmas gifts, hurry-limited stock 19-10 546-7524

Ski Boots size 11 Kevin 549-4199

1 american Airline ½-price coupon, best offer call Sarah 546-6004

Portraits Profile-$7, full face-$10, color-$20, pets in color-$18 Deborah Pompano 549-4634

1974 Honda 450CB: 10,000 mi., excellent condition. 617-544-6380 after 5 $750

Used Tents—Eureka Timberline 4 person $40.00 Rick 527-1065

FOUND

Found Bracelet outside Greenough Dorm Friday morning Nov. 16 6-4730

HELP WANTED

Overseas Jobs—Summer/year round. Europe, S. America, Australia, Asia, etc. All fields, $500-$1,200 monthly, expenses paid. Sightseeing, free information write: IJC, Box 52-MC, Corona Del Mar, CA. 92625

Caretaker for 6 month old baby in our home. Mon., Wed., 2-4:30 P.M. Thurs. 1:00 P.M. on bus route $1.50/hr 256-6475

On Campus 3 Juniors, Seniors. One living in Northeast/Sylvan, Orchard Hill/Central, Southwest. Call Keepsake Diamond Showcase 536-8411 Holyoke Mall

Free Adorable Kitten 12 wks old, grey, we're moving and can't take her with us 546-6461

Airline Attendants earn to $25,000 yr! Airworld shows how to pass the interviews! For free info. send 15c stamp to Airworld 161 Box 60129 Sacramento, CA 95860

Cruiseships! Sailing Expeditions! No experience. Good pay! Europe! South Pacific, Bahamas, World! For application/information/jobs send $4.95 to Cruiseworld 161 Box 60129, Sacramento, CA 95860.

LEGAL SERVICES

Attorney Jason R. Rosenthal General Practice Legal Representation for the Amherst, Mass community by apt. only days 584-4285 evenings 253-7617

LOST

Lost-Amplifier on Friday, Nov. 2 in front of Thoreau. Dynaco Stereo 80 is old and broken. Reward in $ or Herb. Call Dan at 6-7867

Help lost glasses in brown case on campus please call Annie 6-5654

Lost: small gray kitten, lost in the area of Phillips' St., great sentimental value call 549-1869

PERSONALS

You took my brown tweed blazer sz. 9 Larry Levine at PICA party 11/8 and left your wine twd blazer. I have yours, you have mine-let's switch, please. No questions asked. Julie 549-2664 or 545-3500

Female Musicians Wanted to form band. Into Stones. Devento, Circle Drive, Box 132, Monroe, NY 10950

Anyone interested in tryouts for the Basketball Twirling Squad: Tryouts will be at the end of Nov. Call Wendy at 6-6175 for more information

UMass concert photographs of Bonnie Raitt & Talking Heads call, respectively: Howard 665-7759 & Steve 5-2240 or 557-3002

Charismatic Bible Study and Prayer Campus Center 901 Tuesday November 20 at 8 pm all students welcome

Need 3 credits? Volunteer and tutor with NES 549-6508 549-5730

Waterbed 3 months old, 6 drawer base, must sell, new 365 SAC 275 256-6205

Steve—Welcome to UMass, you M.F..Carl

RIDE WANTED

Desparate: Ride needed for two to LI on Wed. Nov. 21 - Mike 546-6088

Ride needed for Nov. 21 to New York call 665-7975 nights

ROOMMATE WANTED

Immediate Occupancy Brandywine $119 call 549-1049 1 room

Two Roommates to share one bedroom in Sunderland Apt. $90 & util., starting Jan 1 Call Johnn at 665-4792

Quiet, responsible woman to share a house on a lake in Belchertown. Dec. 1-June 546-4929 10 PM - 7 AM

House in Shutesbury needs occupants pets OK call Nancy keep trying 253-3301 7 mi from Campus

Responsible female to share 3 bedroom apt in Puffton, own room $113 mos Jan-Aug call 549-5938 Lori & Jody

SECURITY DEPOSIT PROBLEMS?

Have any questions about your security deposit? Do you think monies were unfairly deducted for repairs or cleaning? Did you get 5% interest? Do you know where your money is being held? Call the Security Deposit Task Force at UMass Legal Services 545-1995 or Off Campus Housing 545-0865

STURDY CAR

Study car 65 Buick, excellent condition, new battery, rebuilt carburator, 600 or BO 253-2772

SERVICES

"Attention Car Owners" Protect you auto with an alarm system. Up to 15% off insurance. One year guarantee 549-4041

TO SUBLET

1 bedroom Cliffside apt bus route, tennis courts, pool, available Jan 1, call665-4448

2 bedroom Colonial Village Jan sublet, on bus route 253-2938

WANTED

Fast Immediate Cash for gold-school rings-diamonds-silver Jeff anytime 527-7078 586-0180

WANTED TO RENT

2 Bedroom apt sublease pref Brittany Manor call after 6 546-9636 or 546-8170

2 Resp. Persons looking to rent or sublet 2-3 bedroom apt or house Please call Melinda at 546-7021 or 546-7023

2 bedroom apt wanted for spring, starting Jan. 1, call 546-5874

2 bedroom apt bonus$$ pref. split level for Spring semester call 546-4096, 546-4904, 546-4093

Moving Out? Looking for a two bedroom apt. starting Jan. Bonus offered$$$ call 546-4093

Apt in complex on bus route beginning Jan call Janet 546-6206

Aluminum Foil by Steve Lafler

Nuke the Whale by Danny Guidera

Beasts by Rob Ranney

Norma B. by M.J. Galper

Doonesbury by Garry Trudeau

TODAY'S CROSSWORD PUZZLE

ACROSS
1 Turkish or sitz
5 Else
10 Edging
14 Before bat or nym
15 Madrid museum
16 Etc.'s equal
17 "Bringing in — —"
19 Iowa city
20 Bird dog
21 Chemical suffix
22 Completed
23 Alerts
25 Legal matter
26 Skewer
30 It. title
31 Color
34 Of musical sound
36 Stares
38 Possesses
39 Plumes: 2 words
42 Above: Poet.
43 Of the morning
44 Attend
45 Cowboy
47 — Cole
49 Nasty
50 "Night and —"
51 Souvenir
53 Twirled
55 Timely
56 Some trains
61 Places
62 Potato, e.g.: 2 words
64 Lagers
65 Fiber
66 — Held
67 Mild oath
68 Drift
69 Part of "to be"

DOWN
1 Vampires, e.g.
2 Throb
3 Weight allowance
4 Horde
5 Faust and Aida
6 Malay coin
7 Post card message: 4 words
8 Paradises
9 Flower
10 Conductor
11 Aura
12 French city
13 Besides
18 Chop
24 Prerogative
25 Corrodes
26 Endured
27 Problem
28 Originates
29 Pitch
31 Edible seed
32 Maggot
33 Ruhr city
35 English gob: Slang
37 — code
40 Cage
41 Edge
46 Disappear
48 Cultivated
51 Sonar's kin
52 Iowa college
53 Dross
54 — shirt
55 Saucy
57 Shellfish
58 Top-notch
59 Solitary
60 — Laurel
63 Container

Answer to Monday's Puzzle

DC menu

LUNCH
D.C. BURGER SPECIAL
3-D Burgers & German Hot Dog/special sauces
Fishburgers/Tartar Sauce

BASICS LUNCH
D.C. BURGER SPECIAL
Fishburger/Tartar Sauce
Tofu Burger

DINNER
Roast Pork/Gravy, Applesauce
Manicotti/Tomato Sauce

BASICS DINNER
Seafood Cakes
Manicotti/Tomato Sauce

EARTHFOODS
Tofu Lasagne
Mushroom-barley soup
Green salad
Poppy-seed cake

The Amherst Deli

Winter Hours
Mon-Thur 9 a.m.-8 p.m.
Fri-Sat 9 a.m.-10 p.m.
Sunday 9 a.m.-6 p.m.

The Amherst Carriage Shops
549-6314

Custom-Made In Our Store Cake'n Ice Cream Cakes

Your choice of 31-derful flavors

BASKIN-ROBBINS ICE CREAM STORE 31

28 Main St. Amherst 253-9774
across from Town Hall
on the BN/BR bus routes

James H. McManus eating place

OPEN 24 HRS
FRI. & SAT.
6:30 am to 3:00 am
SUNDAY-THURSDAY
Campus Plaza—Hadley

University & Office Supplies

Thanksgiving & Christmas Cards

A.J. Hastings Inc.

newsdealer & stationer

45 S. Pleasant St., Amherst

ESKIM'S

CLOG SHOP

SALE still on

7 Pleasant St. Northampton 586-2528

A career in law— without law school.

After just three months of study at The Institute for Paralegal Training in exciting Philadelphia, you can have a stimulating and rewarding career in law or business — without law school.

As a lawyer's assistant you will be performing many of the duties traditionally handled only by attorneys. And at The Institute for Paralegal Training, you can pick one of seven different areas of law to study. Upon completion of your training, The Institute's unique Placement Service will find you a responsible and challenging job in a law firm, bank or corporation in the city of your choice.

The Institute for Paralegal Training is the nation's first and most respected school for paralegal training. Since 1970, we've placed over 2,500 graduates in over 85 cities nationwide.

If you're a senior of high academic standing and looking for an above average career, contact your Placement Office for an interview with our representative.

We will visit your campus on:

WEDNESDAY, NOVEMBER 28

The Institute for Paralegal Training

235 South 17th Street
Philadelphia, PA 19103
(215) 732-6600

operated by Para-legal, Inc.

Approved by the American Bar Association.

Top of the Campus Restaurant

Lincoln Campus Center, University of Massachusetts

We Shall Be Closed Thanksgiving

TOP of the CAMPUS

To Allow our Staff to be with their families
We Wish you a Happy Thanksgiving!
Please join us when we REOPEN

Sunday Sunset Buffet 5-9

Reservations Strongly Recommended 549-6000 ext. 639

THE FABULOUS

D. J. Sullivan Returns

TUESDAY

November 20

Happy Hour Prices

THE PUB

Eating & Drinking

AMHERST

The

IRON HORSE

Coffeehouse

20 Center Street
Northampton, Mass.

Tonight One Show Only

Martin Carthy

"The English Ballader"

Tickets $4.00
Doors Open at 8 p.m.

Fall means back to friends... back together

This fall make a great impression with a precision haircut shaped especially for you . . . then step stylishly into fall fashion and be a winner.

GREAT EXPECTATIONS

PRECISION HAIRCUTTERS

$10. COMPLETE
Shampoo, precision cut, blow dry styling
HAMPSHIRE MALL

Celtics' Maxwell injured

BOSTON (AP) — Celtics forward Cedric "Cornbread" Maxwell was hurt in a car accident and may not be able to play when Boston meets the New Jersey Nets Wednesday night, the team disclosed yesterday.

Maxwell, who has emerged this season as one of the team's best ball handlers, was involved in a car accident after the Celtics' loss in a National Basketball Association game Saturday night with the New York Knicks.

Maxwell worked out yesterday wearing a collar brace, and a team spokesman said his condition will be better known after Tuesday's drill.

Maxwell was riding with Celtics guard Jeff Judkins when their car wa smashed from behind, but Judkins was not injured.

If Maxwell is unable to play Wednesday, M.L. Carr is expected to stand in for him.

Ryan's an Astro

HOUSTON (AP) — Nolan Ryan, the American League strikeout king, joined Houston's J.R. Richard, the major league strikeout leader, yesterday by signing a reported four-year, $4 million contract with the Astros that made Ryan the highest paid free agent in baseball history.

Ryan, 32, who shares the major league record of four no-hit games with Sandy Koufax, and Richard struck out 546 batters for their teams last season.

Ryan, a native Texan, said he is returning home to complete his final major league contract before retiring to his farm 26 miles south of here.

"We have established ourselves as a first-rate club and we feel the addition of Ryan puts the Astros a step closer to that day when we will win the pennant," Astros General Manager Tal Smith said.

"I'm delighted to be in Houston and the one thing I am interested in is helping to bring a pennant to this city," Ryan said.

Ryan, who has 2,909 career strikeouts, said signing an Astros' contract fulfilled a childhood dream.

Sports notices

SOFTBALL — There will be a softball interest meeting Thrus., Nov. 29 at 7:30 in NOPE 153. Tryouts will be discussed.

PARACHUTE CLUB — Special meeting -- emergency elections, "Death Bus" down payments for Florida trip. Resolution for unjumped people. Last organized meeting of the year. Please attend, 7:00 p.m., Nov. 29 in SBA 100.

INTRMURALS THANKSGIVING SCHEDULE — Wed., Nov. 21: Boyden and NOPE close at 6:00 p.m. Thurs., Nov. 22: ALL FACILITIES CLOSED (Thanksgiving). Fri. and Sat., Nov. 23-24: Boyden open 10:00-6:00 p.m., NOPE closed. Sun., Nov. 25: Boyden open 12:00-8:00 p.m., NOPE closed.

INTRAMURALS — Basketball officials meeting are being held on Dec. 10, 11, and 12 at 7:00 in Boyden 249. Officials must attend at least one meeting.

SNOW TIRES SAVE ½

Firestone Retreads have the same width, depth, design and rubber as new tires —only at ½ the cost.
FREE replacement if they EVER fail for ANY reason.
Regular $15.00 up
Radials $19.50 up
exchange plus tax
LEON'S TIRES
291 FEDERAL STREET
(next to McDonald's)
GREENFIELD, 773-8315

UNE

Noreste, Admissions

January '80 and August '80 applicants. 4-year fully recognized and established Mexican Medical School, with several hundred American students enrolled. Use English language textbooks and exams in English. School combines quality education, small classes experienced teachers, modern facilities.

Universidad Del Noreste
120 East 41 St.
NY, NY 10017
(212) 594-6589
or 232-3784

This is the famous Budweiser beer. We know of no brand produced by any other brewer which costs so much to brew and age. Our exclusive Beechwood Ageing produces a taste, a smoothness and a drinkability you will find in no other beer at any price.

THE WORLD RENOWNED

BUDWEISER LAGER BEER

Budweiser®
KING OF BEERS®
ATHLETE OF THE WEEK

GENUINE GENUINE

Stickwoman Pat Bossio has been elected as the UMass athlete of the week by the Collegian sports staff for her efforts in helping the Minutewomen win the Easterns. For her efforts, Miss Bossio wins a jacket from Budweiser. (Staff photo by Pat McCarthy)

this Bud's for you!

AIRLINE ATTENDANTS EARN TO $25,000 YR! TRAVEL! AIRWORLD shows how to pass the INTERVIEWS! For FREE INFO. write Airworld 161 Box 60129 Sacto. CA 95860

SONY® dream machines

Specifications ICF-C820W

Semiconductors: Clock 2 LSI • 9 transistors • 16 diodes
Radio 1 IC • 7 transistors • 6 diodes
Frequency range: FM 87.5-108MHz • AM 530-1605kHz
Antenna system: FM Lead wire antenna plus 75 ohm external antenna terminal • AM Built in ferrite bar antenna
Speaker: 3" dynamic
Jack: Earphone
Power requirements: AC 120V 60Hz 6W • Optional power back up battery (9V) Eveready 216 or equivalent
Dimensions: 5⅝"H x 10¼"W x 3½"D
Weight: 2 lbs 7 oz
Color: Metalic silver with woodgrain
Optional accessory: Pillow Speaker DE-25H
All specifications are subject to change without notice

ICF-C820W sug. price $79.95 OUR PRICE only $67.95
also available
ICF-C815W sug. price $59.95 OUR PRICE only $49.95
ICF-C310W sug. price $29.95 OUR PRICE only $27.95
SONY CASSETTE RECORDERS
ALSO AVAILABLE

VISA
Master Charge
American Express accepted

campus center/umass
the UNIVERSITY STORE

The Holyoke Police Department
Needs Minority Candidates to Fill 14 projected openings in the Holyoke Police Department

To qualify for employment with the Police Department, you must sign up now to take the Police Civil Service Test of December 1, 1979.

Last date for applications is November 13.

Special training classes on how to take the Police Civil Service Test will start November 19-30, 1979 at local sites.

To sign up for the classes and the test contact:

Office of Compliance
Room 402
City Hall Annex
Holyoke, Mass.
536-8222
536-8223
Ext. 36

Holyoke Police Dept.
City Hall Annex
536-6431

South Holyoke Development Corp.
344 Main St.
Holyoke, Mass.
532-1406

Collegian Sports

The playoff picture

When the Division 1-AA playoffs begin this year, UMass will not be among the post season contenders it was learned yesterday from sources close to the UMass athletic department. The playoff picture for Division 1-AA, according to the information obtained, is as follows;

Lehigh will represent the east; the winner of this Saturday's Northern Arizona-Nevada/Reno contest will represent the west; the south and at-large selections will be determined by the outcome of the Grambling St.-Southern U. game. If Grambling St. wins they will represent the south and Murray St. of Kentucky will be the at-large entry. If Grambling St. should lose, Murray St. would represent the south and either BU or Easter Kentucky would receive the at-large bid.

Minutewomen finish 20th

By JAMES GRAHAM
Collegian Staff

In their last and most important race of the season the women's cross-country team ran to take 20th place in the nationals last Saturday held at Florida State in Tallahassee. Over 190 runners and 24 of the Nation's best teams competed on the 5,000 meter (3.1 mile) course.

North Carolina State's Julie Shea won the individual championship while leading her team to a first place finish and the National title as well.

Despite 80 degree temperatures and a narrow, flat course, the Minutewomen ran well enough to beat Florida State who had beaten them earlier in the season. Individual times and places were unavailable due to a break down in Florida State's scoring systems. "For all the problems there were, the women handled themselves well. We ran much better than expected under the conditions," coach Pete Pfitzinger said.

First for UMass was Judy McCrone followed by Cathy Petrick. McCrone and Petrick, who have been the top two Minutewomen all season, ran with the speed that helped the team win the New England Championships on October 20th at UVM. Third and fourth for the Minutewomen were Linda Welzel and Julie Burke who ran their best times of the year. Trica Moores, the fifth UMass runner to finish, ran a strong race in spite of a crowded course and the hot Florida Sun.

"No one did badly but no one was overly pleased with the race. The course was so narrow and crowded, if we had run on a course more like those in New England we probably would have done better. I felt strong and at a peak, I ran about as well as I have all season," Petrick said.

Running in the sixth and seventh positions for the team were 'Dill' Wilson and Robyn Dally. Wilson went out strong and was ahead of Moores at the mile mark.

"I got swollowed up in the pack at the narrow part of the course and it was hard to make a move in the crowds. If you didn't make your move when you had a chance, you'd never pass anyone," McCrone said.

UMass ran in Division I of three divisions at the nationals. The best teams in the country run in Division I and UMass would have won either of the other divisions. "We wanted to run against the best," Pfitzinger said. Division I schools are chosen based on the amount of scholarships they give out to women's runners.

UMass and Princeton were the only schools competing in Division I who do not give out scholarship money to women runners. "We're ranked 20th in the nation and we managed to beat a lot of schools that give out money and have big programs," Pfitzinger said.

The Minutewomen have come a long way from their loss to Harvard in the beginning of the season to winning the New Englands and placing 20th in the Nationals. Of the top five Minutewomen four are sophomores and Linda Welzel is a junior.

"They'll be right up there next year in the nationals. The key to our success was in all the strength training we ran. For all the problems there were at the nationals they handled themselves well. They gave 100 percent," Pfitzinger said.

Hoop team names captains

Senior guard Bill Morrison (left) and senior forward George Dennerlein (right) have been named as co-captains of the Minutemen basketball team for the 1979-80 season. (Collegian file photos)

6'4" senior guard Bill Morrison of West Hempstead, New York and teamate Geogre Dennerlein, 6'6" senor forward from Cresskill, New Jersey, have been elected as the new co-captains of the UMass basketball team for the upcoming season.

Morrison, who has lettered at guard for the past three seasons with the Minutemen, compiled a scoring average of just underseven points last season and is being looked upon to lead the backcourt for the 79-80 Minutemen.

Dennerlein has seen limited playing time his first three years on the team but due to the graduation of last year's starting forwards, Eric Williams and Mark Haymore, Dennerlein is being looked upon as the man to step in and fill the void.

Dennerlein is also expected to fill the role of back-up center to starter Jay Stewart due to the recent operation of freshman recruit Pedro de la Cruz.

"I am very pleased with the selection of both men," said head coach Ray Wilson. "Their effort and attitude have been as high as anyone's on the team. I feel they both have the leadership we are looking for this year."

The Minutemen open their season December 1 against the University of Michigan at Ann Arbor. Following the opener, the team will travel to Ohio for a game against Toledo before returning to UMass to open their home season at the Cage on December 8 against league rival Pittsburgh.

Danny Guidera

Pro gridders of the future?

It's a little like watching the police force of Podunk, Arkansas out to solve the crime of the century. Here they are, armed to the teeth, replete with flashing blue lights galore, but you know these guys probably couldn't even collar a jay walker.

That's the feeling I had a couple of weeks ago when I went to my first high school football game. Ever.

It was that classic match-up: Westwood (one of those clone high schools; see Westfield, Norwood, etc.) at Bellingham, a town that can best be described as, well, a suburb of Woonsocket, Rhode Island. Then again, some things are better left unsaid.

A word or two about Bellingham, though. It is a team that prior to three weeks ago had not won a league game since Gerald Ford was president. It is a team that has had five consecutive years of third-and-twenty-one-situations. Sort of like the old Tampa Bay Buccaneers. The team most likely to become the UMaine team in two years.

And there was Westwood. When watching the Westwood players and rooting section you got the feeling that the entire school was made up class presidents, quarterbacks, and cheerleaders. Yuck!

There it was, the '77 Bucs vs. the '78 Steelers, pubescent division.

Now it wouldn't be so bad if these guys just tried to play football, but no, they turned this patch of swamp in Bellingham into a mini-Schaefer Stadium.

Take the coaches, for example. They were wearing headsets. Why? Just who were they talking to? Their respective offensive coordinators in the press box? A passing Leer Jet? Charles Laquidera on WBCN? No one knows for sure.

Or the fans. It's the proverbial every mother's son syndrome. "Hit 'em Charlie!", "Hold that line, son!", or "Nice play, Mark!" Minor league compared to the Schaefer crowd who regularly bellows for mutilation, dismemberment, and the nuking of Howard Cosell.

"Discipline! Discipline, men!" yelled a beer-bellied sideliner.

But some things never change. I think there is a rule somewhere that all high school football games must use the same offesnsive strategy of the last seven Super Bowls. There have been more exciting games played between two teams of drunks on North Pleasant Street.

Or young quarterback's discombobulated pitch-outs. Seemed like the Steve Grogan training school.

Most of all, the high school players try to imitate their Sunday afternoon heroes, but alas, something gets lost in the translation. Yet, they hold hands in the huddle, pound on each other's shoulder pads and do an occasional Drew Person gack on the sidelines.

And of course, where would football be if it wasn't for the always popular marching bands. Now these units of mobile musicians range all the way from the six-member squad from Fishhead High (Fishhead, Tenn.) who perform halftime salutes to Erzell Hickey all the way up to the para-military forces ast, say, USC. But Westwood High sported one of the more novel bands, a group of adolescents who sounded somewhat like a cross between the theme from The Exorcist and one of the drummers for the Grateful Dead.

The cheerleaders: Peaches and cream right? Well maybe if you're a cheerleader for the Miami Dolphins, but that's where the similarity ends. I mean, half of these poor girls at the game didn't even have uniforms, owing no doubt, to a budgetary measure by Ed King.

And it's also tough cheering for a team whose schgol colors are black and white. Black and white, no kidding! I guess that's so the school can have its text books printed in school colors. Clever, huh?

And then there is the speedster, a kid from Bellingham who ran back a punt for a score, only to have it called back. You have to root for the only black kid on a painfully white suburban team.

All in all it was a nice try, but nevertheless, you've got to learn to do it right. That Saturday there were salary disputes (Phil Niekro makes over a million a year——yeeeesh!), no fan, in the stands riots nor any head coaches bolo-punching opposing players like Kid Gavalan.

And no one gave the bird to the fans or punched out any marshmallow salesmen from Minneapolis.

Keep on like this and they'll never make the pros.

US warns Iran of possible military action

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Carter administration hinted for the first time yesterday at the possibility of U.S. military action against Iran if American hostages at the U.S. Embassy in Tehran are not freed.

The veiled threat came from White House spokesman Jody Powell after President Carter returned to Washington from his Camp David retreat to confer with top advisers.

"The United States is seeking a peaceful solution to this problem through the United Nations and every available channel," Powell said. "This is far preferable to the other remedies available to the United States.

"Such remedies are explicitly recognized in the charter of the United Nations. The government of Iran must recognize the gravity of the situation it has created."

Under the U.N. Charter, an aggrieved nation is entitled to take defensive military action and seek Security Council sanctions, including interruption of economic ties or air, sea or land communications.

It was understood that the statement was intended as a stern warning to Iran's revolutionary leaders that the United States is no longer ruling out the right of self-defense.

At the Pentagon, officials declined comment on the White House statement. They said, however, that no orders had been issued to alert or to move any military units.

Defense Secretary Harold Brown and Gen. David C. Jones, head of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, took part in the White House meeting with the president.

Until yesterday's statement, administration officials took care to rule out the slightest hint of military action in connection with the Nov. 4 seizure of the embassy and 62 American hostages.

Officials had said they feared any discussion of such action could endanger the lives of the hostages. As of yesterday, 49 persons still were being held under armed guard at the embassy.

The White House statement followed a declaration by Iran's religious ruler, Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini, that the 49 Americans would be held for trial as spies unless the United States returned the deposed shah to Iran.

Earlier, the State Department reiterated its contention that any trial of the U.S. diplomats would mak. a "mockery" of international principles.

"If there is anything more unacceptable than the taking of hostages, it would be this (a trial)," said Hodding Carter, the State Department spokesman. "It is an outright violation of diplomatic relations and diplomatic protection."

U.S. diplomats attempted unsuccessfully in New York to convince other U.N. Security Council members to condemn a possible spy trial for the hostages. Council President Sergio Palacios de Vizzio of Bolivia said only one unidentified member of the 15-member council supported the U.S. request.

Former U.N. Ambassador Andrew Young told State Department officials in Washington he planned to go to Tehran to try to win freedom for the hostages. U.S. officials said he would be acting on his own.

Tomorrow's march is expected to be the largest antiAmerican protest since miltants occupied the embassy Nov. 4.

The Ruling Revolutionary Council declared the day a national holiday to commemorate the hegira, the march by the Moslem prophet Mohammad from Medina to Mecca in what is now Saudi Arabia.

MASSACHUSETTS DAILY VOLUME CIX, ISSUE 53 Wednesday, November 21, 1979

Collegian

1979, Massachusetts Daily Collegian

Student Newspaper of the University of Massachusetts/Amherst, Ma. 01003 (413)545-3500

Library to open for limited access

By BRIAN O'CONNELL
Collegian Staff

The 28-story University Library which was closed last August by administrators due to faulty construction problems, will reopen for limited use early in December, according to University Chancellor Henry C. Koffler.

Koffler said access to the tower will be limited to faculty members, graduate students, and undergraduate students with "pressing" needs. UMass News Director Art Clifford said last night that undergraduates who "prove" they have a pressing need to use the library, will be issued passes allowing them access.

Clifford said administrators hope to reopen the structure by December 3.

A spokesman from the Library staff said undergraduate students will be "expected" to continue using the renovated Goodell library.

Koffler said entrance to the University Library will be restricted to the South College entrance. According to Koffler, the Northeast Entrance by the campus pond will be designated as an "emergency" exit.

Saying there was a "trade of risk" involved in reopening the library, Koffler said UMass "just couldn't sit around and do nothing." Administrators are still waiting for library test results conducted by the state's Bureau of Building Construction.

Koffler closed the library last August 31, just days before classes were scheduled to begin, after a report completed by the engineering firm of Loomis and Loomis, Inc. of Windsor, Ct. said there was a danger of bricks falling off the building.

The library was completed in 1973 at a cost of $16.5 million by the Holyoke Construction firm of Daniel O'Connell's Sons—the same firm that built the Campus Center Garage, where construction problems have been reported.

Happy Thanksgiving

Koffler reveals increased lighting plans

By CAROL ROSENBERG
Collegian Staff

Chancellor Henry Koffler yesterday presented campus leaders with a three-pronged plan to increase lighting on campus.

Koffler also said he would meet with students in an open forum to discuss their concerns, sometime after the Thanksgiving break.

The plan, drawn up by Vice Chancellor for Administration and Finance George Beatty, Jr., includes rental of lighting for 15 years at an annual cost of $130,000 to $200,000; a legislative request for additional funding; and improved lighting on campus roads to be funded from a Capital Outlay allocation for road improvements Koffler said.

Koffler said it would be "several months" before the rental lighting would be operational.

The plan also calls for campus security to report on the locales and frequency of attacks on campus, and the establishment of a "public information campaign to use the paths" and buses, said Koffler.

The chancellor said the plan for improved lighting has been in the works since the summer, when he received recommendations by campus task force on violence and vandalism.

At the start of the meeting Koffler apologized for not being home Monday night, when 150 students held a candlelight vigil outside his home in protest of inadequate lighting on campus.

Student Senator Linda Geary, a member of the Women's Issue's Team, said the parking lots by the Southwest Residential Area Lot 44 near the Sylvan Residential Area and the Orchard Hill Residential Area are "bad risk" areas and need improved lighting more than Commonwealth Ave. and Governor Drive locations which are slated for improvement.

Koffler said the Capital Outlay grants were given specifically to improve campus roads and the money could not be transfered to those residential areas. The funds, Beatty said, were to "combat traffic accidents."

Beatty said to change the intent of the grant would take "another legislative cycle," and could not be changed until next September at the earliest.

Obtaining of capital outlay funds through the state legislature could take up to five years based on past requests, Beatty said.

After the meeting, Student Senate Speaker David Barenberg said he was pleased with Koffler's presentation to deal with the "emergency situation," but said "five years for Capital Outlay for lighting is not the answer that the students want to hear."

Koffler said he supports improved lighting on campus, but said as evidenced by a recent attack on two women in well-lit part of the Southwest Residential area "lighting is not necessarily a panacea."

During the meeting, Barenberg said students complaints regarding the library and lighting on campus were "symptomatic of other problems on campus." Such problems include the increased drinking age, "lack of social awareness on campus," and the unclear relationship of the Administration to the Students Activities tax funds, he said.

Koffler said he looks toward "responsible student leadership," and is "very concerned about the civi morality on the campus and in the living areas."

Pre-registration forms due today in Whitmore

Kennedy taps Mobil for campaign

By MARK POTTS
AP Business Writer

NEW YORK — Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, one of the oil industry's harshest critics, has tapped one of Big Oil's most outspoken defenders to put together advertising for the Massachusetts Democrat's presidential campaign.

Herbert Schmertz will take a six-week leave of absence from his job as vice president and director of Mobil Corp. to join the Kennedy campaign next week on a volunteer basis.

Schmertz was not available for comment yesterday, but he was quoted as saying he did not feel his role in the Kennedy campaign would be a conflict of interest. He will not be involved in the formation of energy policy for the campaign, just the assembly of an advertising campaign, Kennedy aides said.

But the move drew a shocked reaction from many in the oil industry. Schmertz directed Mobil's multimillion-dollar ad campaign defending oil industry practices and attacking government attempts to control the industry. He has also been a frequent participant in television debates on the oil industry, and is one of the industry's most recognizable spokesmen.

"We are stunned," said a spokesman for another major oil company who did not want to be identified. "Whenever Mobil was attacked, Schmertz wrote knee-jerk ads that sounded a little to the right of Attila. Now he is joining a candidate who is a little to the left of center, to say the least. ... It seems to me that you either believe in what you're doing, or you don't."

And Jody Powell, press secretary to President Carter, Kennedy's chief rival for the Democratic presidential nomination, said, "I hope that Mr. Schmertz is as successful with Senator Kennedy's image and credibility as he has been with the major oil companies'."

The reactions of Powell and those in the oil industry resembled the strident tone of the advertisements Mobil has run regularly in the past several months defending the oil industry.

One, headlined "Senator Metzenbaum Ought To Know Better," attacked Sen. Howard M. Metzenbaum, D-Ohio, for his proposal to limit oil-company acquisitions of other companies.

Such proposals have been backed by Kennedy, and Mobil has been cited as an example for its controversial acquisitions of Container Corp. of America and the Montgomery Ward department store chain.

Kennedy has also attacked President Carter's policy of decontrolling domestic oil prices, saying prices should be controlled. Mobil criticized Carter's plan, too — only it said the plan does not loosen controls enough.

And Mobil has joined the industry in a fight against the "windfall profits" tax, which actually would not be a tax on profits but on the revenues gained by oil companies from higher oil prices. Kennedy has urged a much stiffer windfall profits tax than is now being considered by Congress.

In joining the Kennedy campaign, Schmertz will be united with one of the oil industry's sharpest critics, consumer advocate James Flug, another Kennedy adviser.

Ted Kennedy

DIGEST

Son of Shah to buy estate

WILLIAMSTOWN (AP) — Representatives for the son of the deposed Shah of Iran reportedly are negotiating to buy a 12-room, $100,000-plus estate in this western Massachusetts town where Prince Reza Pahlavi attends college.

Although papers have not been finalized, the prince reportedly has the go-ahead to begin moving into the house, The Transcript of North Adams said yesterday.

Pahlavi, 19, who is in his first year at Williams College, has been living at an off-campus motel with his secretary and bodyguards from a private New York City agency.

After pilot training in Texas, he entered Williams in September as a special student because his preparation in French schools exceeds that of most incoming freshmen. Ray, as he is known to students, has said he plans to major in French and political science.

Newton withholds county taxes

NEWTON (AP) — Newton aldermen want to abolish county government, so they have decided not to pay $600,000 they owe in county taxes.

This is the second straight year the aldermen have voted to withhold the cash and they now owe Middlesex County more than $1 million. County officials vow they will go to court to get their money.

"When we looked over the county budget to see what we're getting for our money, we couldn't find anything," said Alderman Mark White.

The aldermen voted 21-2 Monday night — without debate — to hold back their share for the county's costs.

"The county duplicates services provided more efficiently by the state, like road maintenance, prisons, hospitals and engineering," said White, who organized the anti-county drive. "And they've got people making a lot of money at jobs like dog officer, superintendent of plumbing, director of tourism.

"We are not satisfied that our money is being well spent. We hope to get something going to abolish the county."

Three women held hostage at the U.S. embassy in Tehran, Iran, step from a military plane that brought them to Germany. They are, from top, Elizabeth Montagne, Terri Tedford and Lillian Johnson. Related story on page one. (AP Laserphoto)

Refugees to refuse Thai camp

KHAO I DANG, Thailand (AP) — Relief workers raced to prepare a vast new refugee camp here yesterday but leaders of the estimated 400,000 Cambodians camped inside Cambodia at the Thai border said most would refuse to be resettled.

Planners estimated about 200,000 of the organized refugees would enter the camp starting today, but on a last-minute visit to the site, Cambodian refugee leaders said no more than 30,000 of the sick and aged would come.

The Cambodians are now camped in a huge city of huts along the border, endangered by troops from Vietnam who invaded Dec. 25, 1978 and ran out the Chinese-supported regime of Cambodian Premier Pol Pot.

Felons face forced medicine

BOSTON (AP) — Life-saving medical treatment can be forced on unwilling prison inmates, the state Supreme Court has ruled.

Although ordinary patients may refuse such treatment, the state's interest in "upholding orderly prison administration tips the balance in favor of authorizing treatment without consent," the court ruled.

The unanimous ruling was made in the case of Kenneth Myers, 24, of Boston. Doctors said he needed regular dialysis and medication to treat a kidney problem, but Myers refused the treatment.

Myers, who was sentenced in 1976 for armed robbery, kidnapping and rape, is scheduled to be released in 1985.

Correction Commissioner Frank A. Hall, who has since resigned his position, had testified that he thought Myers refused the help as a means of forcing officials to transfer him from Concord state prison to another institution.

The Massachusetts Daily Collegian (USPS 333-220) is published daily Monday through Friday excluding January, June, July, and August, for $15 at 113 Campus Center, University of Massachusetts, Amherst, MA 01003. Second class postage paid at Amherst, Mass. Postmaster: Send address changes to Massachusetts Daily Collegian, 113 Campus Center, University of Massachusetts, Amherst, MA 01003.

NEED CREDIT? SEND FOR THE CREDIT GAME

- Too young to borrow?
- New in town/no references?
- Erase bad debt records
- Skip bills without ruining credit
- Receive loans within weeks of beginning this program
- Information on updated credit laws and legislation
- Your rights under the Federal Credit Acts

SOLVE ALL THESE CREDIT PROBLEMS with THE CREDIT GAME

"Tired of being without credit, or up to your neck in 'minimum payments'? With this book you will learn how to make the $300 billion credit industry jump at your command."

ONLY $5.95
(N.Y. residents add 8% Sales Tax)

Enclosed is $_____ for _____ Books
Name _____
Address _____
City _____ State _____ Zip _____
Allow 3 weeks for delivery.

Send Check or Money Order to WALL STREET PUBLISHING CO. 303 5TH AVE. SUITE 1306 NEW YORK, NY 10016

Top of the Campus Restaurant
Lincoln Campus Center, University of Massachusetts
We Shall Be Closed Thanksgiving
TOP of the CAMPUS
To Allow our Staff to be with their families
We Wish you a Happy Thanksgiving!
Please join us when we REOPEN
Sunday Sunset Buffet 5-9
Reservations Strongly Recommended 549-6000 ext. 639

Custom-Made In Our Store
Cake'n Ice Cream Cakes
Your choice of 31-derful flavors
BASKIN-ROBBINS ICE CREAM STORE 31
28 Main St. Amherst 253-9774
across from Town Hall
on the BN/BR bus routes

To combat anti-semitism

UMass Jewish profs caucus

By ED LEVINE
Collegian Staff

Jewish faculty members at UMass met yesterday afternoon in the Campus Center to discuss ways of fighting anti-semitism on campus.

A press release was issued last week announcing the groups activities, but Environmental Sciences Professor Haim B. Gunner, chairperson of the group, said prior to the meeting that it would be "private." He then asked all those not directly involved, including reporters from the Collegian and other news organizations to leave the meeting.

Neither Gunner nor any other member of the group could be reached for comment last night.

The press release said the organization would be called the "Jewish Faculty Interest Group" and stated its purpose was to "combat anti-semitism on the Amherst campus of the University."

The release stated that the "regular appearance of anti-semitic articles and editorials" in the Collegian and Nummo News, contributes to "a climate in which Jewish students live in intimidation and fear." The release also stated that the group would attempt to enlist the aid of other organizations on campus to fight anti-semitism and racism.

The press release also referred to the recent distribution of a phamphlet entitled "Masters of the Media" by the Iranian Muslim Student Association as contributing to the anti-semitism problem. This pamphlet—described in an October 16 Collegian article as a reprint from a "white supremacy newspaper," the National Vanguard—stated that Jews control the media.

Iranian students interviewed at the time said the distribution of the article was an attempt to illustrate that the media, because of Jewish control, has "distorted the reports of the oppression of the Palestinians."

Gunner said a press release, describing the details of the meeting, would be issued today.

Older women form local feminist group

By ANN FARIS
Collegian Staff

What does the Five College area have to offer women over forty? Nellie Perohonic, spokesperson for Older Women's Lives (OWLS), has some answers.

OWLS was formed over 10 years ago from a workshop for older women offered at the Everywoman's Center at UMass. Today the organization has 14 members, ranging in age from 54 to 65.

"We are a feminist group that wants to do away with the oppression of women," Perohonic said Monday.

OWLS supports the Equal Rights Amendment, is pro-abortion, and has participated in local women's events including "Take Back the Night" marches. Members have been televised on Channel 8 in Hartford, Ct., and frequently speak on area radio programs.

"We're starting to be more political," Perohonic said. "We feel ERA is not only a women's issue but also helps men. Our slogan on abortion is that women should have the right to choose."

The group meets once a week at Bangs Community Center in Amherst for lectures and discussions. They have no official leader and solve all their problems together. The members have become like a family and are supportive of personal conflicts as well as political objectives, Perohonic said.

Members have attended a speech by feminist Mary Daly at Smith College and those of other feminists who come to the area. Members also prepare lectures on such topics as aging and menopause, health and nutrition, and mother-daughter relationships. They also discuss books such as Betty Friedan's "The Feminine Mystique," according to Perohonic.

She said much of the feminist literature read by women in OWLS has inspired them to write themselves. A few members are doing independent work at UMass and three of them graduated last spring. One woman is returning to school to complete her doctoral degree and another is doing some business work for local author Adrienne Rich, said Perohonic.

Members of the Older Women's Lives support group during a weekly meeting at Bang's Community Center. (Staff photo by Judy Weiss)

Although OWLS is no longer part of the Everywoman's Center, the group holds workshops on campus annually for International Women's Week. "The young women really crowded our workshop this year. They are very receptive," Perohonic said. "Many of them see our group as something they would like to see their mothers involved in."

Members of OWLS recognize how the elderly "feel they are not necessary" to society and the difficulty older women have trying to find work, she said. OWLS does not offer job training, Perohonic said, but gives encouragement and support.

"Most older women were trained that politics is a dirty word and marriage is the only thing to do," Perohonic said. "We need social change. You can't make a dent in anything if you don't change the laws."

Afro-Am prof loves students, learning

By DEBORAH LESSER
Collegian Staff

"I have a real fascination for making history come alive," says Julius Lester, a UMass professor in the Afro-American department.

Lester, who teaches two courses, spent last semester on sabbatical at WGBH-TV in Boston preparing a special teleplay based on the Sarah Roberts Case of 1849.

The case itself concerned a black man who unsuccessfully attempted to have his daughter accepted into a white school. "It marked the first appearance of equal rights before the law," said Lester.

The judge's verdict set the foundation for the "separate but equal" standard that extended outward from the 1849 school system to become "the law of the land," said Lester.

The teleplay dramatized some of the case transcripts and included a discussion on political aspects fo the Boston black community at that time.

Lester said he was actively involved in the civil rights movement of the 1960's; as a folksinger and a writer of propaganda materials, press releases, and speeches for Civil Rights leaders. He was also a policy-maker for the Student Non-Violent Coordinating Committee, a group which evolved out of the sit-in movement, according to Lester.

During the 1960's, he published a calender with his photographs of demonstrations and day-to-day experiences of blacks in Mississippi and Alabama.

The calender was distributed free of charge and Lester said its purpose was to allow blacks to associate with media images "other than Coca-Cola and blondes, a bit more close to home."

Another example of Lester's propaganda literature during the movement was a booklet on the Atlanta, Georgia riot of 1966.

The pamphlet, which included photographs, explained the conditions in Atlanta which triggered the riot.

Lester said many of the racial divisions coming out of the Roberts' case and the tensions of the 1960's still exist in the form of a "nationalist, separationalist point of view" on the part of American blacks.

Lester said he attempts to explore some of the political and social issues associated with the development of a separationalist philosophy in his classes at UMass.

Lester said his teaching here during the last eight years has been a constant challenge. "I try to teach my students to synthesize different kinds of knowledge as well as to criticize and tear them apart," he said.

Lester said he tries to have students and teacher share their knowledge.

"I try to offer, not just the subject matter, but who I am," said Lester. "A teacher must be a person first."

Lester, who is developing a course on the Jewish Holocaust and black slavery for next semester, plans to remain at the University indefinitely.

"I love my students; they're very open to learning, especially about black culture and history," said Lester.

In additions to the teleplay, Lester has published many short stories, reviews, and journal articles in various magazines. His primary goal for the future is "to live life to the fullest with as much integrity as I can regardless of the consequences."

Staff photo by Judy Weiss

Prof. Julius Lester

Lester was born in 1939, raised in Nashville, Tennessee where he received his B.A. in English. He currently resides in Amherst with his wife and four children.

MASSACHUSETTS DAILY Collegian
STAFF MEETING
—interview and listen to candidates for Spring Board of Directors
Tuesday, November 27
7:30 CC 162

Crackers, Cheese, and a Drink at the TOC Happy Hour

SNOW TIRES SAVE ½
Firestone Retreads have the same width, depth, design and rubber as new tires —only at ½ the cost.
FREE replacement if they EVER fail for ANY reason.
Regular $15.00 up
Radials $19.50 up
exchange plus tax
LEON'S TIRES
291 FEDERAL STREET
(next to McDonald's)
GREENFIELD, 773-8315

Black Affairs

Plans begin for Black History Month

To all Third World RSO groups, interested faculty staff and community people. This letter concerns Black History Month.

A people's history cannot be solely presented as an academic endeavor. It is a living account that not only narrates past events, but reinforces feelings of self-worth. It provides a context wherein people see themselves as makers of history. The academic acceptance of Black Studies cannot in and of itself provide this crucial ingredient.

The institution itself must recognize its responsiblity for hundreds of years of neglect towards a people that have contributed so much to the development of civilization and culture.

American educators pride themselves and their "institutions of higher learning" with creating the best education that the world has to offer, despite the supposed great strides made since the 1785 common school system, the 1862 Morrill Act and the 1954 Brown vs. Board of Education, American education continues to socialize all who are under its influence to think as Europeans. Their curriculums are designed to create "productive" members of the "free enterprise system," in the European tradition.

For the supposed minority populations in this country however, the overriding need is to recover from their education.

To offset the self-destructive effect on Blacks in educational institutions, Black instructors were forced in the sixties to implement Black History Week.

Black History Week however, is not new. The need to re-educate Blacks to the feelings of self-worth are recognized decades ago. In 1915 the author of "The miseducation of the Negro," Carter G. Woodson created The Association for the Study of Negro Life and History. By 1926 he established Negro History Week. He was not a loner in this endeavor. Arthur Schomburg (1874-1938), a Black Puerto Rican who came to the U.S. in 1891 and a was a regular lecturer for the Universal Negro Improvement Association founded the Negro Society for Historical Research. He also established the Schomberg Collection of Negro Literature and History, opened at Fisk University in 1926.

Black History is our peoples memory and racism in this country has caused millions to lose the knowledge of a great past. Without it an intelligent course for the future cannot be chartered. Black History Month is a moderate medicine for the extreme illness, racism and eurocentric education. For those who can boldly plot the future the mandate is clear—educate with the truth or be drowned by the lie.

This year an account has been set up through the Office of Third World Affairs. It is proposed that a committee be composed for the planning and implementation of all events. In recognition of the Black experience being international in scope and having shared and contributed to every major national group, this year's events, it is hoped will cover topics and share in resource with all Third World organizations. Please attend an important planning meeting scheduled for 1 p.m. November 29 in the Malcolm X Center, Southwest Area.

Tony Crayton

Office of Third World Affairs

King calls for investigation

BOSTON [AP] — State Rep. Mel King has endorsed the call for an independent investigation into the death of Puerto Rican nationalist Angel Rodriguez in a Florida prison.

Rodriguez, 33, was serving time for trespassing on government property in Puerto Rico during an anti-Navy demonstration, when he was found dead in a Tallahassee, Fla., federal prison Nov. 11.

Although prison officials labeled the death a suicide by hanging, Rodriguez' sympathizers claim his body bore evidence of a beating.

King, D-Boston, held a Statehouse news conference Tuesday to introduce the Boston Vieques Support Network, a group protesting the Navy war games held at the Puerto Rican island of Vieques.

"There's a lot of concern about people being held hostage in Iran, and rightly so," King said. "On the other hand, people right here are being held hostage by the U.S. government, in particular the U.S. Navy," he continued, referring to the disruption of island fishing by the naval exercises.

Karen Rosen, spokeswoman for the Network, said the group has petitioned Amnesty International, the UN Human Rights Commission and the International Association of Jurists to investigate Rodriguez' death. It also is demanding a second autopsy.

King, who ran unsuccessfully for mayor of Boston this fall, speaks out frequently on Third World issues.

Announcements

Afrik-Am

All Afrik-Am members, the next meeting will be Tuesday November 27, 8:00 p.m. at the Orchard Hill Cultural Center. All members are urged to attend. New and interested members are welcomed.

Read Nummo News every Monday in the Collegian.

Drum

Recent budget cuts have caused Drum to cut back production. They are no longer able to print bi-annually and will only publish once this year. Historically, the Black Literary Experience has been published twice yearly and when finance would permit, thrice yearly. Although this situation has occured, Drum will contribute to interpret the Black Experience. THE NEW DEADLINE IS WEDNESDAY, MARCH 12, 1980.

Please Note
FS & N 130
Nutrition & People
is Open to ALL Students
Please Ignore Honors Statement in Schedule Booklet

BAGEL DELI
Best in the Valley for:
- whole wheat pastries
- lox & eggs
- blintzes & potato pancakes
- fresh bagels
- omlettes
- frozen yogurt

28 Pleasant St. Northampton

To Serve Studying Students
The Campus Center will provide
food service in
THE HATCH CAFETERIA
in the evenings
Monday-Friday 5:00 pm-10:00 pm
On a Trial Basis

STUDENT
University of Massachusetts
Amherst, Massachusetts 01003
STUDENT SPECIALS
with
University of Massachusetts
I.D.
CARLSON'S CLOTHING, INC
68 Main Street Phone 413-584-3175
Northampton, Mass. 01060

TO AMERICA'S ZOO KEEPERS
WHO HELP THE PACHYDERMS
PACK IT IN...
THIS BUD'S FOR YOU.

HOT-1 WARREN
S. DEERFIELD, MASS.
665-8757

Wed. Nov. 21	Lightin' Leo-Piano Mad Doctor-Wash Tub Base
Thur. Nov. 22	Happy Thanksgiving
Fri. Nov. 23	Andy May and friends Good time music
Sat. Nov. 24	Alive Jazz
Mon. Nov. 26	W. Mass Dart Assoc Open Tournament 8:00 sharp
Tues. Nov. 27	Al Fuller MC on open mike, folksingers & acoustic musicians welcome
COMING Wed. Nov. 28	Ed Vadas Fake Band one night only

Enjoy our Happy Hour 4-6 pm every day
Domestic Beer & Bar Liquor 50c
Our Restaurant is Open
Italian Style Pizza & Hot Oven Grinders to eat here or go
Daily Luncheon Special
Sunday Brunches Coming Soon

Editorial/Opinion

Letters

Sexual assault...

To the Editor:

I feel the need to write this letter. In the November 19 edition of the Collegian, there was a front page story about two Coolidge women who were sexually assaulted on campus the preceding Saturday night. About an hour after this occurred, I too was assaulted by the same three men. I am certain it was the same three men, because I was assaulted in the same manner as the two Coolidge women.

I feel the need to let all women be aware that, although I was alone, this type of harassment can happen to anyone, whether they are alone, or with several other people.

I should not have to be afraid to walk on this campus alone, or refrain from doing things because I am afraid I might be attacked trying to get somewhere. Obviously there is something very wrong with the attitude men have towards women these days. I think they all need a lesson in respect, and need to realize that women are not to be taken for granted, as they seem to think they are.

If some of the men on this campus could only know the fear and humiliation women suffer as a result of their brutal conduct, they might reconsider their actions before carrying them out.

Name withheld by request

To the Editor:

Because the most recent attack of two women took place in a "well lighted area," don't let this be an excuse for why more lighting won't make the campus safer. With this type of reasoning then we could also say we shouldn't feel safe in our homes or with friends because many incidents of rape or assault occur within the home as well as by someone we've known.

It is unfortunate, insulting and angering that this attack against women took place. Perhaps along with fighting for more lighting we should also be asking for better foot patrols as well as ourselves becoming more responsive to what's going on around us by reporting and trying to help that person in need or trouble.

A. Fox
Cashin

Criticism of story: 4,000 vets, not 4,000 guns

To the Editor

The wording used in the Collegian's article "College life: A different war for veterans" last Thursday has cast a false light on the majority of veteran students here at UMass.

When referring to those Vietnam veterans who suffer from "delayed stress reaction" she said, "they are 4,000 strong at UMass." Isn't it more like, there are 4,000 veterans attending UMass? Surely all of us do not sleep with guns in our beds!

I know what was meant but it wasn't said. Hopefully, this letter will remind you of the journalistic necessity to maintain credibility. Despite my criticism, I feel that the Collegian is doing a fine job. The news editor is accountable.

Bob Stack

Letter defending attack on UMass women 'hurts'

To the Editor:

In response to "Women being abused: Self respect the utmost":

Last Friday a letter appeared defending the men of a UMass fraternity who attempted to attack a woman during a party. Apparently, she had gone upstairs to sleep off the effects of some drinks.

Ms. Stevens' letter is a perfect example of the attitude that hurts women the most and perpetuates incidents of this kind. Ms. Stevens maintained that the men were justified in their actions because they were merely taking "advantage of a situation."

Ms. Stevens must have a low opinion of humanity if she believes that taking advantage of the vulnerable is a human characteristic. The woman who fell asleep at the party made herself more vulnerable but that is all she did. She did not ask for nor invite abuse. That decision came from the men involved.

These men must take responsibility for what they did. They were drunk and did something wrong. If they had broken windows or started fights, they would be held responsible but for attacking a woman they are defended, even encouraged.

People must learn that all human beings have a right to be treated with dignity and respect. Making smug value judgments like "People, regardless of their sex, who act like tramps are going to be treated as such" is no way to accomplish this.

In closing, the brothers of Phi Sigma Kappa "who are genuinely loving and supportive of one another" should extend the same love and support to all members of the community, especially to those who are guests in their home.

G. Fiester
T. Ford

Collegian 'intent on destroying credibility?'

To the Editor:

Is the Collegian intent on destroying its last shreds of credibility? Or has it simply revised its advertising policy to include front page advertisements? I'm referring of course to Karen Libucha's "article" of 11/9/79 on the Hotel Warren. It is my opinion, and the opinion of others, I'm sure, that this "article" amounts to little more than some free advertising for the hotel at the expense of the readers.

While there were some important issues that could have been discussed, this half page article was given front page priority. Why?

Susan Chalifour
Cashin

Letters Policy

All letters to the editor are welcome, however, due to space limitations it would be nice if they were as short as possible.

They must be typed at 67 characters across and triple spaced.

Although the name will be held upon request, a name and address is necessary for reference purposes only.

This page is the UMass community's page and the more input received, the more truthful the representation will be, for everyone. Thank you. S.K.

The Rally: Involved UMass students 'fed up with inadequate response'

To the Editor:

We would like to commend all of the students who participated in the rally that was held last Thursday and its subsequent meeting with Dean Field. Those involved showed that they are fed up with the Administration's totally inadequate response to the problems facing this campus. Thanks to everyone and keep up the good work.

Immediately following the meeting with Field there was a discussion among the students from which three important points emerged. The implementations of these ideas would help enormously in improving the conditions at UMass.

First, there should be a constant, significant student input in all administrative decisions concerning both the physical and academic welfare of our school. The most important aspects of these decisions being in the setting of priorities for the budgeting and policy making committees.

Second, vital issues such as the lack of sufficient lighting on campus require special committees that would take action in facilitating concrete solutions. These committees could formulate detailed plans so that we the students can work with the administration in solving our common problems.

The third and most important point stems from the following two problems: 1) Lack of participation in the SGA and its subcommittees; 2) Limited voter turnout in campus elections. Our needs, opinions and demands can only take the form of positive action if each and every one of us gets involved in any way we can. Involvement can mean anything from simply casting a ballot to volunteering whatever time we can afford to any student interest group on campus. Three examples of such groups are SUPE, SCERA and the individual house councils.

We believe the ideas presented here have merit. But they are only ideas. We urge everyone to express their views and help out in any way possible. Only then can this university live up to its potential to set the example of what a university can and should be.

Stephen Messenger
Steven Petter

If you were selling Equipment at the Great Ski Snatch
YOU MUST
PICK IT UP
Wed. Nov. 21
Mon. Nov. 26
Tues. Nov. 27
Wed. Nov. 28
11-3
In Suffolk Rm #301
Student Union
Please bring an I.D.
UMass Ski Club
We would like to thank everyone that worked at the Ski Snatch

The Amherst Music House & Guitar Workshop
Amherst Carriage Shops 549-1728
SAVE 40%
OFF RETAIL PRICE ON
NEW GIBSON, GUILD
OVATION, YAMAHA, GUITARS
with this coupon

THE ARK
(Episcopal Church at UMass)

Sundays at The Ark	6:00 PM	supper (potluck)
	7:00 PM	Bible Study, Prayer, Eucharist
Wednesdays	1:05 PM	At Newman

Rev. Ian Montgomery 758 N. Pleasant 549-5929

DANCERS*WANTED*DANCERS

Exotics - Go Go
Earn $300.00 - $350.00 per week

Experience Prefered but Not Necessary
I will train you

Must be Dependable and Reliable Transportation Necessary

For Information or Appointment
Call Linda 413-782-9038

ACADEMY of MUSIC Northampton
A Limited Showing
Now, Ends Tuesday
at 7:00 and 9:15
JOSEPH WAMBAUGH'S
THE ONION FIELD
A True Story
AVCO EMBASSY PICTURES Presents R
JOHN SAVAGE
JAMES WOODS
AT THE GATES OF SMITH COLLEGE

The IRON HORSE Coffeehouse
20 Center Street
Northampton, Mass.
Sunday Nov. 25th
Ellen MacIlwaine
and
Julia Burrough
Two Shows
8 p.m. 10 p.m.
Tickets $4.00 each show

Hardee's®

ROAD RUNNER Meet Road Runner. His sport is racing. His restaurant is Hardee's.

THE BEST EATIN' SPECIAL:
TWO DELICIOUS BIG ROAST BEEF SANDWICHES FOR ONLY $1.89.
Good at all participating Hardees. Please present this coupon before ordering. One coupon per customer, please. Customer must pay any sales tax due on the purchase price. This coupon not good in combination with any other offers.
HARDEE'S of HADLEY 430 RUSSELL STREET
or any other participating Hardee's Restaurants
Hardee's "BEST EATIN' A[illegible]ND."
COUPON Expires November 28, 1979
© Hardee's Food Systems, Inc. 1979

$1.00 OFF REGULAR ADULT PRICE PRESENT AD BOX OFFICE

CINEMA 1-8
HOLYOKE MALL AT INGLESIDE
Mass. Pike Exit 4 to Int. Exit 15
24 Hr. Movie-Phone 538-7510

Recorded in Dolby — The MUPPET MOVIE G — Today 1:10-3:15 5:00-7:20 & 9:30
A True Story — THE ONION FIELD R
HELD OVER — WHEN A STRANGER CALLS R — Today 1:00 3:00 5:00 7:20 & 9:30
The Night He Came Home — HALLOWEEN — Today 1:20 7:45 & 9:35
Ends Tuesday — Harold and Maude PG
Held Over — BREAKING AWAY — Today 2:45-4:55-7:05 & 9:15
FRENCH POSTCARDS PG
SKATETOWN USA — ROLLER DISCO! PG
DOORS OPEN THANKSGIVING DAY 4:30 PM

AMERICAN MULTI CINEMA
ADULTS $2.75 STUDENTS & SR. CITIZENS with AMC CARD $2.25 TWI-LITE SHOW $1.50 - Special Engagements Excluded Tw-Lite Show - Limited to Seating
TIMES SHOWN FOR TODAY ONLY

HAMPSHIRE 4 584-7556 HAMP. MALL ON CAFE SQ.—RT. 9, HADLEY, MASS.
Apocalypse Now R — Mon-Wed (5:30 @ $1.50) 8:30 Thur 1:30-(4:30 @ $1.50) 7:45-10:30
NATIONAL LAMPOON'S ANIMAL HOUSE R — Mon-Wed (6:00 @ $1.50) 8:30 Thur 2:00 (5:00 9 $1.50) 7:30-9:45
Movie and Dinner — see one of the 8 movies listed here and have dinner at the Pewter Pot Rest on Cafe Square in the Hampshire Mall for only $5 call for details
STARTING OVER — Mon-Wed (6: @ $1.50) 8:45 Thur 2:00 (5:00 @ $1.50) 7:30-9:45 R
BREAKING AWAY — Mon-Wed (6:15 @ $1.50) 8:45 Thur 2:15 (5:15 @ $1.50) 7:30-9:55 PG

MOUNTAIN FARMS 4 584-9153 MOUNTAIN FARMS MALL ROUTE 9-HADLEY, MASS.
A temptingly tasteful comedy "10" R — Mon-Wed (6:00 9 $1.50) 8:30 Thur 2:15 (5:00 @ $1.50) 7:30-9:55
AL PACINO AND JUSTICE FOR ALL R — Mon-Wed (6:00 @ $1.50) 8:30 Thur (5:00 @ $1.50) 7:30-9:55
Hook if you love Brian. MONTY PYTHON'S LIFE OF BRIAN R — Mon-Wed (6:15 @ $1.50) 8:45 Thur 2:15 (5:15 @ $1.50) 7:45-10:15
ROCK AND ROLLER DISCO! SKATETOWN USA PG — Mon-Wed (6:15 @ $1.50) 8:45 Thur 2:00 (5:15 @ $1.50) 7:45-10:15

SHOWCASE CINEMAS
BARGAIN MATINEE DAILY
FIRST SHOW $2.00 TEL 733-5131
RT. 5 RIVERDALE RD. WEST SPRINGFIELD

BRIAN R
Apocalypse Now R United Artists
Starting Over R
Guess Who's Back? NATIONAL LAMPOON'S ANIMAL HOUSE R
A temptingly tasteful comedy for adults who can count. Hilarious —N.Y.TIMES "10" R
Fiddler on the Roof G United Artists
AL PACINO AND JUSTICE FOR ALL R
The Fish That Saved Pittsburgh PG United Artists

Sports notices

SOFTBALL — There will be a softball interest meeting Thurs., Nov. 29 at 7:30 in NOPE 153. Tryouts will be discussed.
PARACHUTE CLUB — Special meeting - emergency elections, may other topics. Last organized meeting of the year. Please attend, 7:00 Nov. 29 in SBA 100.
FROM THE COLLEGIAN SPORTS STAFF — HAPPY THANKSGIVING!

adventura travel 549-1256
Airline Tickets
Amherst Carriage Shops

WMUA

Catch all the action of Minuteman football this Saturday at 12:50 on WMUA, 91.1 FM, as UMass travels to Boston to take on the Boston College Eagles. Howie Sobolov and Tim Wasserman describe the action. And don't forget the pregame show with the always popular Jim "Moon" Mullins at 12:30.

The Hungry-U
HAPPY HOUR
DAILY
3-6
FREE SNACKS
549-5713
55 University Dr.

Featuring Shirts, Hats & Jackets with All Major Logos
SPORT SHACK
Red Sox
Patriots
Yankees
Cowboys
Hampshire Mall, Hadley, Mass.

Relax!
at the TOC
Happy Hour 4-6

To place a Collegian Classified Ad
•Come to Collegian Office (CC 113)
•8:45 to 3:45, Mon. thru Fri.
•Classified deadline is 3:45 two days prior to publication day
Have a nice vacation!!

Collegian Classifieds

Collegian Classified Rates
•13c per word
•Student rate 10c per word
•Cash in advance
•5 consecutive days, 5% discount
•Phone number FREE

AUDIO

Theatrix Rents Mirror balls and other Disco supplies. Lights for sale, new and used 323-7160

McIntosh Amp & Preamp Harmon Kardon Tuner, Dual Turntable Bill - 665-2810

Sony TC-355 reel to reel $120 or B.O. 549-6689

Kenwood Cass Deck KX1030 X cond. 200. 256-6205

AUTO FOR SALE

72 Opel-Cadet exc-cond-30-mpg-auto Call Jim 549-3672

72 Mustang Grande: Very good cond., auto, stereo, reg, gas, $1800 Call Steve 253-3782

68 Impala needs work or for parts $125 mornings 256-6279

69 Belair must sell, engine excellent, 400 or B.O. 549-1399

64 Falcon St. Wgn. runs $100. Rick 253-7634

ENTERTAINMENT

Good Times—DJ's for hire, disco and/or Rock call 546-4726 or 546-4777

FOR RENT

1 Bedroom in three bedroom apt $118/month plus utilities start Jan., bus route 5-10 minute walk to campus, call 549-6537

Puffton 1 bdrm apt avail Dec 1, call 549-3919 anytime

FOR SALE

Portrait Drawing Dennis Delap, 256-8732

2 Leather Jackets Walter Dyer Call 253-7103

2 ½ price airline coupons call Debby 323-5262

Full size bed w/frame & headboard. Call evenings 584-5077

Half-fare United coupon 549-5031

Waterless Cookware 20 pc set, great Xmas gift, price reduced until Nov. 30 549-2867

Ski Boots size 11 Kevin 549-4199

1 American Airline ½-price coupon, best offer call Sarah 546-6004

Portraits Profile-$7, full face-$10, color-$20, pets in color-$18 Deborah Pompano 549-4634

1974 Honda 450CB: 10,000 mi., excellent condition. 617-544-6380 after 5 $750

Used Tents—Eureka Timberline 4 person $40.00 Rick 527-1065

Ice skates womens Riedel 7-8 excellent condition $50 call Karen 549-4049

Fleetwood Mac Tickets (2), Providence, 549-6688, call early

2 American Airlines ½-price coupons $35 ea. Call 253-7150

FOUND

Found Bracelet outside Greenough Dorm Friday morning Nov. 16 6-4730

Found lots of clay pots Greenough Craft Shop Mon-Thurs 7-10 Sat 12-4

HELP WANTED

Overseas Jobs—Summer/year round. Europe, S. America, Australia, Asia, etc. All fields, $500-$1,200 monthly, expenses paid. Sightseeing, free information write: IJC, Box 52-MC, Corona Del Mar, CA. 92625

Caretaker for 6 month old baby in our home. Mon., Wed., 2-4:30 P.M. Thurs. 1:00 P.M. on bus route $1.50/hr 256-6475

Free Adorable Kitten 12 wks old, grey, we're moving and can't take her with us 546-6461

Airline Attendants earn to $25,000 yr! Airworld shows how to pass the interviews! For free info. send 15c stamp to Airworld 161 Box 60129 Sacramento, CA 95860

Cruiseships! Sailing Expeditions! No experience. Good pay! Europe! South Pacific, Bahamas, World! For application/information/jobs send $4.95 to Cruiseworld 161 Box 60129, Sacramento, CA 95860.

LEGAL SERVICES

Attorney Jason R. Rosenthal General Practice Legal Representation for the Amherst, Mass community by apt. only days 584-4285 evenings 253-7617

LOST

Lost-Amplifier on Friday, Nov. 2 in front of Thoreau. Dynaco Stereo 80 is old and broken. Reward in $ or Herb. Call Dan at 6-7867

Generous Reward Diamond Engagement Ring call collect 1-788-4075

PERSONALS

Female Musicians Wanted to form band. Into Stones. Devento, Circle Drive, Box 132, Monroe, NY 10950

Anyone interested in tryouts for the Basketball Twirling Squad: Tryouts will be at the end of Nov. Call Wendy at 6-6175 for more information

Need 3 credits? Volunteer and tutor with NES 549-6508 549-5730

Waterbed 3 months old, 6 drawer base, must sell, new 365 SAC 275 256-6205

Steve—Welcome to UMass, you M.F..Carl

UMass Women's VB: sorry for no-show Friday. As reporter I make a better hermit. Thanks for good season. Sullivan

To SK, The Cop, and Eric Thanks alot! Love Pledges & Co at "Toke" Hall

Greenough Craft Shop is now open Christmas is coming, silver, leather, photography, ceramics, wood, Mon-Thurs 7-10 Saturdays 12-4 Free Instruction

Anne, Ed, Beth, Joel—Thanks a million for all the work. Couldn't have happened without you; and because of you, it couldn't have been better! Best UBC officers ever! Chris

If anyone found a rust colored down vest at PIKA last Thurs 11-15 Please call Judy 545-0082 Great Sentimental Value!

ROOMMATE WANTED

Two Roommates to share one bedroom in Sunderland Apt. $90 & util., starting Jan 1 Call Johnn at 665-4792

House in Shutesbury needs occupants pets OK call Nancy keep trying 253-3301 7 mi from Campus

Responsible female to share 3 bedroom apt in Puffton, own room $113 mos Jan-Aug call 549-5938 Lori & Jody

SECURITY DEPOSIT PROBLEMS?

Have any questions about your security deposit? Do you think monies were unfairly deducted for repairs or cleaning? Did you get 5% interest? Do you know where your money is being held? Call the Security Deposit Task Force at UMass Legal Services 545-1995 or Off Campus Housing 545-0865

STURDY CAR

Study car 65 Buick, excellent condition, new battery, rebuilt carburator, 600 or BO 253-2772

SERVICES

"Attention Car Owners" Protect you auto with an alarm system. Up to 15% off insurance. One year guarantee 549-4041

TO SUBLET

1 bedroom Cliffside apt bus route, tennis courts, pool, available Jan 1, call665-4448

WANTED

Fast Immediate Cash for gold-school rings-diamonds-silver Jeff anytime 527-7078 586-0180

WANTED TO RENT

2 Bedroom apt sublease pref Brittany Manor call after 6 546-9636 or 546-8170

2 Resp. Persons looking to rent or sublet 2-3 bedroom apt or house Please call Melinda at 546-7021 or 546-7023

2 bedroom apt wanted for spring, starting Jan. 1, call 546-5874

2 bedroom apt bonus$$ pref. split level for Spring semester call 546-4096, 546-4904, 546-4093

Gridders end season against BC

By GEORGE O'BRIEN
Collegian Staff

The UMass Minuteman Football team which last week wrapped up a tie for the Yankee Conference Championship with a 29-0 rout over UNH, will try to wind up its season on a high note Saturday, when it travels to Chestnut Hill to battle the 3-6 Boston College Eagles in a 12:50 contest that will be televised regionally on ABC.

Any hopes for post-season action for the Minutemen ended Monday, when the Division 1-AA selection committee chose Lehigh (9-2) to be the Eastern representative in the playoffs. The BU Terriers, co-YanCon Champions, still have a shot at the playoffs as an at-large representative.

Although there is no post-season action at stake for either UMass or BC, Saturday's contest is a game both teams want to win badly.

The Minutemen are 6-3, and despite the fact that they failed to make the playoffs they have played some good football this season. A win over BC would we a nice way to end the year and a fitting finale for the 16 seniors who are playing their final game as Minutemen.

On the other side of the coin is BC. The Eagles are 3-6, but they are coming off an impressive 27-10 romp over bowl-bound Syracuse. A win Saturday would be a big lift to BC, which has fallen on hard times under second year coach Ed Chlebek. The Eagles would also like to gain some revenge. Last November when BC visited Amherst, the Minutemen embarrassed them 27-0. It was a low point of a low (0-11) season for the Eagles.

In 1979, the Eagles have improved. In addition to the big win over Syracuse, BC has notched victories over Army and Villanova, which whipped UMass 35-7. The Eagles have good team speed and they have size, the starting offensive front line averages a hefty 259 lbs.

UMass coach Bob Pickett said that he and his squad were not overawed by size, speed or a tough schedule. "We have excellent kicking and specialty teams," said Pickett. "If we play defense the way we have been and if we stay away from mistakes we can beat BC."

Boston College will rely on sophomore quarterback John Loughery who threw one touchdown pass and scored one himself in the big win over Syracuse. Loughery's primary targets will be tight end Tim Sherwin who leads the team with 19 catches, wide receiver Rob Rikard with 18, and fullback Dan Conway with 12.

UMass quarterback Mike McEvilly (15) carries the ball against Boston University. The Minutemen close their season tomorrow afternoon when they play the Eagles of Boston College. (Staff photo by Doug Paulding)

Conway leads the strong BC ground game with 708 yards on 162 carries. Freshman halfback Shelby Gamble has 596 yards on 136 carries. Both runners have an impressive 4.4 yard average per carry and five touchdowns.

For the Minutemen, this will be the last hurrah for some 16 seniors, including Mike McEvilly, Cliff Pedrow, Tim Fontaine, Carl Nylholm, Marty Paglione, Kevin O'Connor, Mike Newell, Sandro Vitiello, Steve Lemay, Steve Wojes, and Peter Stevens.

Mark Marchand

Giving thanks...

Before all you sports fans take off for wherever you humbly reside for the Thanksgiving holiday, let's all take a few minutes to thanks to certain people, teams, and events who have made this year in sports anything but boring. Few people seem to take time out to do this; us faithful scribes just report on what happens and everyone reads them and says: "hey, that's neat." So, before you sports fans perform a gastronomic assault upon your stomach tomorrow, join me in giving thanks to:

...John Y. Brown joining Phyllis George in wedlock and getting her out of the sports broadcasting business.

...Tom Landry for forcing the retirement of Thomas "Hollywood Henderson and returning the title of NFL "jerk" to Howard Cosell.

...the UMass athletic department for solving the problem of our ice hockey team by eliminating it.

...Ed "Too Tall' Jones and his fanatically exciting debut in pro boxing that cured my previously incurable case of insomnia.

...the Boston Bruins who have finally come up with another blue-chip defenseman in 18-year old Ray Bourque.

...our beloved New England Patriots whose emotional roller coaster season thus far may have even made Chuck Fairbanks happier that he went to Colorado after his losing season.

...the Hartford Whalers for proving that New England hockey doesn't have to be Bruins hockey to be exciting.

...Dave Cowens who's finally decided to play the brand of hoop that he's always been capable of.

...faithful sports writers like Dave Bradley, Mike "Chico" Estrada, Jim Degnim, Maureen Sullivan, George O'Brien and Danny Guidera who have made my job as co-sports editor that much easier.

...Phyllis George for marrying John Y. Brown and removing the "chicken magnate" from professional basketball.

...free agency for destroying loyalty in major league baseball.

...the UMass women's field hockey team for once again proving that women athletics here should be taken seriously.

...that infamous marshmallow salesman from Minnesota who used his face to get Billy Martin fired once again.

...Daryl Dawkins for proving that the plexi-glass used on the NBA backboards reallllllllly does break.

...Danny Guidera for using the word "lobotomy" only once in his sports column this semester.

...Haywood Sullivan and the rest of Red Sox brass who have once again proved that racism still exists.

...Howie Sobolov, Tim Wasserman, and Jim "Moon" Mullins for their thrilling broadcasts of UMass football this semester.

....the Texas Rangers for drafting George Scott in the free agency draft and making the poor Boomer feel like someone wanted him.

...Howard Cosell for once again proving that he still doesn't know much about baseball during ABC's World Series telecasts.

...those four WHA teams who made all the "doubting Thomases" wrong after their dismal pre-season predictions.

...UMass had football coach Bob Pickett for his cooperation with the press after games this year. Win or lose, "Pick" was always gracious to members of the press regardless of what happened.

...George Steinbrenner for keeping the salaries of major league baseball players in the upper stratosphere.

And finally, a great big thanks to you, our readers for putting up with the Collegian Sports Staff.

Minuteman defenders in action during the booters' 7-5-2 season. It was a season of "almosts" described in Dave Bradley's story below. (Staff photo by Amira Rahman)

Booters end 'almost' year

By DAVE BRADLEY
Collegian Staff

"It was an almost year."

That's the way men's soccer coach Russ Kidd summed up the 1979 season, a season which saw the Minutemen play almost great soccer on the way to a 7-5-2 record.

It seems that "almost" was the watchword for most of the season. Coach Kidd was almost able to recruit a high-scoring striker who might have boosted the offense immensely; UMass almost won it's opening game of the season; the Minutemen almost beat two nationally ranked teams; the defense almost didn't allow one goal at home; and the offense almost took off after the first four games.

It was almost (last time) possible to predict from the first week the kind of season UMass would have. The starting defense, comprised of four veteran seniors, was virtually impenetratable. Indeed, Bret Simon, Mike St. Martin, Greg Omasta and Mark Vassalotti combined with goalie's Mark Marilla and Matt Esteves to allow only 13 goals in 14 games. Marilla made 68 saves in 12 games, posting five shutouts while allowing less than one (.9) goal a game.

The midfielders and forwards were capable of moving the ball well, and the wingers had the speed and ball control to put pressure on any defense.

But it was evident from day one that the team would be one player short of greatness. The Minutemen lacked a striker who could, as the coach once described it, get the ball in front with his back to the goal and turn it around quickly for a shot or a lead pass to a teammate. Tasso Koutsoukos, a player who left UMass last year for a professional career, played the striker role for most of last season, scoring seven goals and assisting on seven others. There was no one of Koutsoukos' caliber on this year's squad.

Senior Wayne Moran was the big gun this year, scoring seven goals to go with his three assists. Tony Dias, a sophomore, was next with five goals and one assist. Dias scored UMass' first four goals of the season in the initial three games and Moran busted out to slam a hat trick into the University of Maine net in the season's fourth contest. Moran also scored the lone goal in the victory over Vermont in game five.

The team was riding high at this point. After tying their first two games, the Minutemen had scored nine goals in three games to bring their record to 3-0-2. When UMass played Vermont, the Catamounts were ranked third in New England.

After the Vermont game, however, Moran and Dias went cold and UMass' balloon was popped by two shutout losses to then unranked University of New Hampshire and highly rated Boston University. (Both UNH and BU qualified for the E.C.A.C. New England regional tournament, B.U. winning it all with a 2-1 win over Oneota College in New York.) UMass would only score six goals in their next seven games.

UMas recovered enough after the B.U. game to beat Providence College 1-0 in the eighth game, getting ready for games against the Universities of Connecticut and Rhode Island. When the Minutemen faced them, both teams were ranked first in New England and tenth nationally. Had the Minutemen pulled the upsets, there would have been a chance they would have seen NCAA post season play. UMass "played themselves proud;" as one story put it, in both contests but lost 1-0 io U.R.I. at home (the only opposition goal scored at Boyden) and 3-2 at Storres, Connecticut.

It may have been an "almost year" in many respects, but when it came to hustle and effort there was never a near miss.

MASSACHUSETTS DAILY VOLUME CIX, ISSUE 55 Monday, November 26, 1979

Collegian

1979, Massachusetts Daily Collegian

Student Newspaper of the University of Massachusetts/Amherst, Ma. 01003 (413)545-3500

Saudi troops reclaim holy mosque

By R. GREGORY NOKES
Associated Press

RIYADH, Saudia Arabia — Saudi troops led by armored personnel carriers routed armed invaders from the upper floor of Mecca's Grand Mosque in a bloody battle that left part of the huge shrine in flames, a diplomat said yesterday.

A Saudi official said some of the invaders still held hostages in the basement.

"The whole mosque is under our control," Sheik Ahmad Zaki Yamani, the Saudi oil minister, told reporters. "Some gangs are still in the basement, but there is no danger from them."

Diplomatic sources said the Saudis reopened a portion of the mosque for public worship Sunday for the first time since dissident Moslems following a self-preclaimed prophet seized the Moslem world's most sacred shrine Tuesday.

In a related development, security was stepped up at U.S. diplomatic facilities in Saudi Arabia Sunday out of concern that Moslem pilgrims here might blame the United States for the disturbances at Mecca. There were no reports of trouble, however, and officials said they doubted any would occur.

King Khaled ordered his U.S.trained national guard troops into a decisive battle for the mosque Saturday night after losing patience with an earlier plan to try to starve the invaders into surrendering, the diplomat said.

Casualties were said to be heavy and the diplomat said the end was "dramatic and violent."

The Saudi government issued no statement on the fighting and provided no estimates of the number of persons involved. Unofficial estimates put the minimun number of raiders at 200, hostages at 20 and total casualties at 50.

There were as many as 50,000 worshipers inside the mosque when the raiders, members of an unidentified Moslem sect, seized it Tuesday.

It was not known how many invaders or

TURN TO PAGE 4

Update Iran...

● Iran and the hostage situation in the American embassy continued to be the topic of America. A labor leader, a diplomat, and a presidential hopeful all discussed the situation yesterday on network shows. Page 2 Digest.

● U.S. Congressman George Hansen met yesterday with some of the hostages being held in the American embassy in Tehran. Afterwards, for a few seconds, some of the hostages were shown on Iranian television. Unidentified, forlorn-looking hostages were shown sitting alone, or talking with Hansen. A portrait of Ayatollah Khomeini hung in the background.

UN Security Council plans Iran discussion

By WILLIAM OATIS
Associated Press

UNITED NATIONS (AP) — U.N. Secretary-General Kurt Waldheim called yesterday for an urgent meeting of the Security Council on the U.S.-Iranian crisis, saying it poses a grave threat to world peace.

In Washington, the Carter administration said it "strongly supported" Waldheim's request.

It was 3 a.m. in Tehran when the secretary-general issued his appeal and Iranian officials were not immediately available for comment.

State Department officials in Washington denied the administration's support of Waldheim's appeal represented a concession to Iran, which previously had sought a Security Council meeting.

But the State Department earlier had opposed Iran's request, insisting that 49 Americans being held hostage at the U.S. Embassy in Terhan be freed first.

A State Department official told reporters the United States agreed to the meeting because it was considered certain the council would adopt a strong resolution supporting the American demand that the hostages be released immediately and without stipulations. The official asked not to be identified.

The embassy in Tehran was seized Nov. 4 by Iranian militants who said the Americans would not be released until deposed Shah Mohammad Reza Pahlavi, who is undergoing medical treatment in a New York Hospital, was returned to Iran to stand trial.

Announcing his decision at a news conference at U.N. headquarters, Waldheim said he expected the meeting would be "very soon" but gave no date.

He said he wanted the 15-nation

TURN TO PAGE 4

Postponed

Acting Iranian Foreign Minister Abolhassan Bani Sadr postponed plans to fly to New York today for an appearance before the United Nations Security Council, a spokesman said yesterday. The postponement, due in part to an important Shiite Moslem holiday, was made two hours after the government announced the trip. Sadr is shown here in a photo taken earlier this year. (AP Laserphoto)

Art major Mary Curran rolls ink on a woodblock in the Fine Arts Center printmaking shop. (Staff photo by Dave Clancy).

Library access to be limited; December reopening planned

By BRIAN O'CONNELL
Collegian Staff

As students stuffed themselves with turkey, cranberry sauce and mom's apple pie over the Thanksgiving holiday, University officials were readying the 28-story library tower for a scheduled Dec. 3 re-opening.

Chancellor Henry C. Koffler announced last week the library tower would be re-opened "for limited access" sometime early in December.

UMass News Bureau Director Arthur Clifford said University officials were "shooting for a target date of Dec. 3." Clifford said only faculty members, graduate students and undergraduate students who proved they have a "pressing need" will be allowed access to the library.

According to Clifford, undergraduates who prove they need to use the library facilities will be issued a special pass allowing them use of the facilities. Clifford said these passes will be issued sparingly since undergraduates should be able to collect needed materials from the Goodell Library.

A library spokeman said yesterday that undergraduate students will be "expected" to continue using the renovated Goodell Library, where over 200,000 books have been relocated.

Koffler said students will enter through the South College tunnel. The Northeast door by the campus pond will be limited to an emergency exit. Physical plant workers have constructed the northeast exit from the library basement in the past few weeks.

Koffler also said there was a "trade of risks" involved in re-opening the University Library, but added "the University just couldn't sit around and do nothing."

Koffler closed the library last August 31, just days before classes were scheduled to begin, after a report completed by the engineering firm of Loomis and Loomis, Inc. of Windsor, Ct. said there was a danger of bricks falling off the library.

The library was completed in 1973 at a cost of $16.5 million by the Holyoke Construction firm of Daniel O'Connell's Sons -- the same firm that built the Campus Center Garage, where construction problems have been reported.

Athletic Department gets TV lift

By MARK MARCHAND
Collegian Staff

The UMass Athletic Department will receive "somewhere between $180-190,000" from the ABC television network for appearing on a regional telecast of Saturday's UMass-Boston College football game according to David C. Bischoff, Dean of the School of Physical Education.

The money, as has been the case in the past, will be used exclusively within the athletic department through the Barber Scholarship Fund which supplies athletic scholarships for football, men's and women's basketball, and women's gymnastics.

"That's been the arrangement that the University has used in cases like this in the past," said Bischoff. "We don't use money from the student athletic fee or state money for scholarships, we rely on earned income like TV money, gate receipts, and alumni donations [illegible] program."

Also, according to Bischoff, other Yankee Conference schools- the Universities of Maine, Rhode Island, New Hampshire, Connecticut and Boston University will receive 10 percent of this year's pool. In past years, the other schools have received 50 percent according to a prior agreement.

"The question is currently being negotiated and settled," explained Bischoff. "So far, everyone agrees that the figure of 10 per cent would be best."

Last year, according to Bischoff, the money that UMass received for appearing on ABC twice during the national Division 1-AA playoffs was "much less" than the amount the University will receive this year.

"It's really a big help for us," said Bischoff. "Our number of scholarship athletes has remained the same while costs have just skyrocketed; we didn't know about this until about a week and a half ago and it was a big lift for us."

DIGEST

Zimbabwe leaders defy British demand

DAR-ES-SALAAM, Tanzania (AP)— Zimbabwe Rhodesian guerrilla leaders Robert Mugabe and Joshua Nkomo said yesterday they will reject Britain's ultimatum for a cease-fire decision when they return to the London peace talks.

The announcement followed a meeting with presidents of the "frontline" African states.

In neighboring Zambia, witnesses said Zimbabwe Rhodesian forces bombed one of Nkomo's guerrilla camps, the latest in a string of aerial and ground attacks that have cut off vital supply routes in Zambia, in retaliation for that country's support of the guerrillas.

Britain told the guerrillas to say by today, when they return to London, whether they will agree to a cease-fire so final election arrangements can be made for a new, internationally recognized government in Salisbury and an end the seven-year-old war.

Mugabe and Nkomo met with presidents of the "frontline" states, which support their Patriotic Front guerrilla alliance, then Nkomo told a news conference at Tanzania's state house, "We're not going to say yes or no to anything.

Three give opinions on Iranian situation

Associated Press

The new head of the AFL-CIO says he supports workers who refuse to service ships and planes bound for Iran.

George Ball says the U.S.-Iranian crisis may ease at the end of the week. And Sen. Edward Kennedy says the nation must stand behind President Carter's efforts to free the hostages held at the U.S. Embassy in Tehran.

All three made their remarks in interviews on the network's regular weekly talk shows yesterday.

Lane Kirkland, who succeeded George Meany as president of the labor federation, said on CBS-TV's "Face The Nation" that he thought a boycott was "a perfectly normal, spontaneous reaction of workers faced with an opportunity to demonstrate how they feel about the conduct of Iran and the seizure of Americans as hostages."

Ball, a former undersecretary of state who made a special study of the Iranian revolution for the administration last year, said on NBC's "Meet the Press" that the situation in Iran might change for the better at the end of next week.

He noted that the embassy seizure coincided with the start of the month of Moharram, a time of mourning and atonement in the Iranian Shi'ite Moslem calendar. That period ends on Dec. 1.

Kennedy, a Massachusetts Democrat who is seeking his party's presidential nomination, said on ABC's "Issues and Answers" he feels that in general the Carter administration has failed to "speak with one voice" and has thereby diminished respect for U.S. power overseas.

Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, pictured here as he appeared on ABC's Issues and Answers program yesterday, is continuing to build his campaign organization which is still not the "well-oiled machine" past Kennedy organizations have been known for. (AP Laserphoto)

Man to be arraigned in failed Iran hijack

EL PASO, Texas(AP)— An 18-year-old man who left the Army after failing to complete basic training faces arraignment today in the takeover of an American Airlines jet with 71 persons aboard.

Gerald James Hill Jr. of Chester, Mass., was overpowered Saturday by FBI agents who boarded the Boeing 727 jet nearly four hours after he allegedly commandeered it at El Paso International Airport and said he wanted to go to Iran.

Hill, carrying a 6-inch knife and saying he had "old dynamite" that could easily explode, took over the jet as it was taxiing on a runway, agents said. No dynamite was found.

Authorities said Hill allowed women and children to leave the plane but forced 19 men to remain on board. The siege ended when FBI agents armed with shotguns burst into the jet, told Hill to "freeze, freeze, freeze" and disarmed him, the FBI said.

Hill was being held yesteday at the El Paso County Jail in lieu of $500,000 bond set by U.S. District Judge William S. Sessions, who said the charge could mean life in prison. Sessions, who appointed an attorney for Hill, would not allow a plea during the initial appearance.

Court big enough for two, judge says

NEW YORK(AP)— Defense attorneys are critical of a judge's order that two men stand trial simultaneously in the same courtroom before separate juries. One attorney said the unusual procedure could serve as the basis for an appeal.

The two defendants accused of killing a bartender are to be tried together in Manhattan's state Supreme Court. Both face life in prison if convicted on the second-degree murder charges.

Justice Edward J. Greenfield ordered the dual trials last week, in part, as a way to clear up a heavy backlog of cases.

"It's not a time to experiment," said defense attorney Kenneth Aronson. "You're creating issues for the appeal."

The other defense attorney, Gustave Newman, also was critical of the the idea.

"I think we'll all be putting our toes in the water together and we'll all be looking for sharks," he said in an interview during the weekend.

Greenfield, however, said he could foresee no insurmountable problems. "The people have rights, too," he said.

The defense objections "were predicated on their tried-andtrue methods of trying cases and they were uncomfortable about these innovations," the judge said.

SNOW: Colorado blizzard kills four

Associated Press

Another snowstorm bore down on Colorado yesterday as ranchers and National Guard troops in neighboring Wyoming struggled to get feed to cattle stranded by a three-day blizzard.

At least four deaths in Colorado, including one in an avalanche, were blamed on the storms that struck in parts of both states Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday.

No major livestock losses have been reported in either state, but some ranchers in Wyoming have been unable to reach herds snowbound on the windswept plains.

The snow in the West was in stark contrast with the two days of record warm weather along much of the East Coast. The temperature climbed to 73 degrees in New York's Central Park yesterday, and some people in Boston did their Christmas shopping in Bermuda shorts.

But in Alabama, thunderstorms spawned tornadoes that demolished several homes in Montgomery, the state capital, and the Clarke County community of Salitpa. The extent of injuries and damage was not known immediately.

In Denver, last week's snow accumulated to depths of 17.7 inches, but most major streets were cleared by yesterday. Hundreds of people on cross-country skis turned out in city parks and along the dividing strips on parkways.

Four hundred, seventy-five truckloads of snow were carted away from the field at Mile High Stadium before the Denver-Oakland professional football game.

Heavy snow fell again yesterdayin the Colorado mountains, and the National Weather Service warned of up to 12 inches of new snow in some mountain areas that received 40 inches and more last week.

The state patrol closed Loveland pass over the Continental Divide as 40-mph winds whipped up ground blizzards, and the U.S. Forest Service issued an avalanche alert for all mountain areas of Colorado.

The executive director of the Wyoming Stock Growers Association, Dean Prosser, said yesterday that livestock losses there had not been extensive so far.

Collegian

STAFF MEETING

—interview and listen to candidates for Spring Board of Directors
Tuesday, November 27
7:30 CC 162

Community Organizers

ACORN needs organizers to work with low and moderate income families in 19 states (AR, SK, TX, LA, TN, MO, FL, CO, NV, PA, IA, OK, MI, AZ, NC, GA, SC, CA, CT) for political and economic justice. Direct action on neighborhood deterioration, utility rates, taxes, health care, redlining etc. Get a job that makes change. Long hours, low pay--training provided.
Contact the Placement Office for an interview Tuesday, November 27th or write Kaye Jaeger, ACORN, 404 Lodi St., Syracuse, NY 13203 (315) 476-5787

Custom-Made In Our Store Cake'n Ice Cream Cakes
Your choice of 31-derful flavors
BASKIN-ROBBINS ICE CREAM STORE 31
28 Main St. Amherst 253-9774
across from Town Hall on the BN/BR bus routes

University & Office Supplies
Large Selection of Christmas Cards
A.J. Hastings Inc.
newsdealer & stationer
45 S. Pleasant St., Amherst

Monday Night Football at the Bluewall Bar 9:00 P.M.

CAMPUS TRAVEL CENTER
CENTER UNIV OF MASS
AMHERST, MASS 01003 413-545-0500
Book your reservations
NOW for INTERSESSION and SPRING BREAK
at:
CAMPUS TRAVEL CENTER

SECRET SANTA
Great Gifts - Great Prices
Stocking Stuffers
Hundreds of 25c to $10 items
CARDS Daily 10 am-6 pm Sunday 12-5 pm
THE MERCANTILE
AMHERST CARRIAGE SHOPS

Come Fly with the COLLEGIATE FLYING CLUB immediate openings available for new students and licensed pilots

call 549-6320 549-6777 or 549-3800

GRADUATE STUDENTS!
DISSERTATION AND THESIS BINDING
PERFECT BINDING:
1.00 SOFTCOVER
8.00 HARDCOVER (18.00 at book binderies)

THE COPY CENTER
Hours: 8 a.m.-6p.m., Mon-Fri.
32 Pleasant St.
(across from Pleasant St. Theater)
Northampton 584-0117

Drive is on to buy Jaws of Life for Amherst

By MARK L. CURELOP
Collegian Staff

Some area residents who have died in auto accidents could have been saved with special life saving equipment which the town of Amherst does not have, say many who are attempting to raise funds for the equipment.

The Jaws of Life is hydraulic rescue equipment which can exert thousands of pounds of pressure to compress the metal of a demolished auto, freeing the injured inside quickly and safely. Police say the equipment also does not compound the injuries which ordinarily happen when a car is pried open with jimmie bars.

The Amherst Council of the Knights of Columbus is sponsoring a drive to raise the $7,500 needed to purchase the equipment. Frank Mazzei, Tom O'Conner, and Edward Flynn are co-chairing the charity event.

"The Jaws of Life is the best possible equipment for rescue for the police and fire departments of Amherst," said Grank Knight Gerald T. O'Neil.

"Any possible surplus of money raised will go towards the town of Amherst ambulance rescue equipment," he said. "Local organizations have donated money, and right now we are well over half the way."

Maureen Harrell, student senator of Crampton Dormitory in the Southwest Residential Area, is coordinating a campus raffle which will be held today through December 2.

A 10-speed bicycle, a black and white television set, and a teletone turntable with albums will be the prizes. Daily drawings for dinner for two at local restaurants will also be held.

Pat Rissmeyer, head of residence of Crampton said she is enthusiastic about the dorm's participation in the community project. "people in the dorm designed the logo, the posters and the tickets. Others were responsible for soliciting the donation of prizes. One person could not have done this, the only way this could have been done was by the entire dorm pulling together," she said.

Plan for lighting limited solution?

By JIM LENNOX
Collegian Staff

Student Senator Linda Geary, who organized the candlelight march for increased lighting on campus had mixed reactions last night to Chancellor Henry Koffler's three-point lighting plan released last week.

Geary, said she is pleased some lighting will be provided but is still frustrated by what she said is the bureaucratic red tape that prevents large sums of money from being utilized.

Capital outlay grants for other projects cannot be diverted from their approved uses without state legislative approval.

Koffler's plan includes rental of lighting for 15 years at an annual cost of $130,000 to $200,000; a legislative request for additional funding; and improved lighting on campus roads to be funded from a capital outlay allocation for road improvements. The plan also calls for campus security to report on the locales and frequency of campus attacks.

Geary, who is also the co-director of senate communications, said lighting is not the only answer to the problem of campus violence, and called for the implementation of an emergency phone system across the campus, an issue that has been discussed previously.

She said a means to obtain funding for crucial issues should exist other than the usual five year delay method of capital outlay funds aquisition.

The chancellor said the plan for improved lighting had been in the works since the summer, when he recieved recommendations from campus task forces on vandalism and violence.

After the meeting last week at which Koffler announced the plan, Undergraduate Student Senate Speaker David Barenberg said he was pleased with Koffler's presentation to deal with the "emergency situation," but said "five years for capital outlay for lighting is not the answer that the students want to hear."

Barenberg said at the meeting that students' complaints regarding the library and lighting on campus were "symptomatic of other problems on campus". Such problems include the increased drinking age, "lack of social awareness on campus", and the unclear relationship of the Administration to student activity funds, he said.

Koffler said he looks toward "responsible student leadership," and is very concerned about the civil morality on the campus and in the living areas.

Russell's incident trial continues tomorrow

By BRIAN O'CONNELL
Collegian Staff

The trial of three area women arrested at an Amherst liquor store Sept. 29 on charges of disorderly conduct was Wednesday ordered continued by Judge Albert Morris.

The trial will continue tomorrow at 9:30 a.m. at Hampshire District Court in Northampton.

The three women, Hampshire College student Ada Griffin, Amherst College student Gina Stevens and Amherst College librarian Sheila Johnson were arrested by Amherst police after an incident at Russell's Liquor Store in Amherst.

The women claim they were "attacked and brutalized by four Amherst police officers" while attempting to make a purchase.

The trial has attracted much attention in the Five College area. Last month over 200 people attended a rally sponsored by the Third World Women's Task Force and the Committee Against Repression held at the Amherst Commons.

Over eighty observers jammed the courtroom Wednesday while several dozen others watched the proceedings from outside the courtroom doors.

One spectator commented that most of the other observers were present to show support for the three women.

Paul Kneeland, a clerk from Russell's, owner William Russell and Amherst Police officer William Tuttle, the arresting officer, testified Wednesday and were questioned by both defense and prosecution attorneys.

The women charged are scheduled to testify Tuesday.

Kneeland testified that on the day of the incident he had worked fourteen hours.

He said, "Johnson told me that the store employees and myself were white trash and white boys," after Johnson's identification card fell to the floor.

Johnson had claimed that Kneeland threw the I.D. at her.

Kneeland testified that Stevens "told me that Johnson was a dean at Amherst College and should be treated with more respect," following the I.D. incident.

ATTENTION SENIORS
All February graduating Seniors who have been awarded a National Direct or Student Nursing loan are required to attend one of the following "Exit Interviews"
Tuesday, November 27, 1979 7 p.m.
or Wednesday, November 28, 1979, 7 p.m.
in the Goessman auditorium. This is a Federal regulation. Failure to comply will result in an Administrative Withdrawal.

Bell's Pizza
65 University Dr.
549 1311 253 9051
"Don't you know everyone goes to Bell's? Come and see why our pizza sells!"
★ Pizza
★ Subs
★ Spaghetti
★ Salads
11 AM-1 PM
65 University Drive
549-1311

A career in law—without law school.

After just three months of study at The Institute for Paralegal Training in exciting Philadelphia, you can have a stimulating and rewarding career in law or business — without law school.

As a lawyer's assistant you will be performing many of the duties traditionally handled only by attorneys. And at The Institute for Paralegal Training, you can pick one of seven different areas of law to study. Upon completion of your training, The Institute's unique Placement Service will find you a responsible and challenging job in a law firm, bank or corporation in the city of your choice.

The Institute for Paralegal Training is the nation's first and most respected school for paralegal training. Since 1970, we've placed over 2,500 graduates in over 85 cities nationwide.

If you're a senior of high academic standing and looking for an above average career, contact your Placement Office for an interview with our representative.

We will visit your campus on:
WEDNESDAY, NOVEMBER 28

The Institute for Paralegal Training
235 South 17th Street
Philadelphia, PA 19103
(215) 732-6600
Approved by the American Bar Association.

true elegance endures
J. AUSTIN JEWELER
heirloom and contemporary jewelery conservatively priced
31 So. Pleasant St., Amhe

The Massachusetts Daily Collegian (USPS 333-220) is published daily Monday through Friday excluding January, June, July, and August, for $15 at 113 Campus Center, University of Massachusetts, Amherst, MA 01003. Second class postage paid at Amherst, Mass. Postmaster: Send address changes to Massachusetts Daily Collegian, 113 Campus Center, University of Massachusetts, Amherst, MA 01003.

THE MAGNIFICENT WRITING MACHINES

Smith-Corona® Typewriter Models

SMITH-CORONA® ENTERPRISE

Middle-weight electric at a budget price has cartridge ribbon system

- Light enough to travel with you
- Type letters with real carbon film
- Quick, clean cartridge corrections
- 84 character keyboard, extra wide carriage and powered return
- Rugged double-walled case included

sug retail $249.50
our reg $199.95

SPECIAL*
$15 OFF
ONLY
$184.95

SMITH-CORONA® 2500

sug retail $369.50
our reg $315.50
SPECIAL*
$25. OFF
ONLY
$290.50

CARTRIDGE ELECTRIC FOR LETTERS WITH EXECUTIVE LOOK.
A deluxe, business-like portable.

- Versatile cartridge ribbon system
- Quick, clean corrections with Re-Rite carriage
- Rich black carbon film ribbon
- Paper injector and check protector
- Wide carriage and office size keyboard
- Deluxe double-walled case included

*specials limited to typewriter in stock. offer ends December 21

VISA
Mastercharge
American Express
accepted

campus center/umass
the UNIVERSITY STORE

FOR LOVERS

THE MOST INTIMATE BOOK OF POEMS EVER WRITTEN FOR LOVERS AND DREAMERS AND THOSE ALONE. IT'S AN IDEAL GIFT FOR YOURSELF AND THE ONE YOU LOVE; THEY WILL REMEMBER YOU ALWAYS. IN BLACK AND WHITE FOR THE TOUCH OF ELEGANCE.

For Your Copy:
Send $10.00
& Tax
VAN STEAD
303 FIFTH AVE.,
NEW YORK 10016

★ Mecca

CONT. FROM PAGE 1

hostages remained in the mosque's basement, or what attempts were being made to drive them out. The diplomat also said some of the invaders apparently escaped.

The fate of the self-proclaimed Mahdi, or prophet, was not known. After his followers seized the mosque, he demanded the government abolish radio and television, ban soccer and prohibit women from engaging in business activities.

The diplomat said an observer saw two armored personnel carriers aiming heavy fire into the ramparts of the building, estimated to be three times the size of Yankee Stadium, while other vehicles took up positions outside the mosque.

★ UN

CONT. FROM PAGE 1

council to "deal with the crisis situation in the relations between the United States and Iran."

"In my opionion, " he said, "tension has now escalated to such an extent that a threat has been created not only to the peace and stability to the region but to the entire world."

Waldheim requested the meeting under Article 99 of the U.N. Charter that empowers the secretary-general to bring to the Security Council's attention "any matter which in his opinion may threaten the maintenance of international peace and security."

SENIORS!

If you are a January graduate or if you are not going to be here next spring--your only opportunity to get your portrait taken for the 1980 yearbook is this week - Please call 545-2874 or come to Room 811 Campus Center to make your appointment. This is your final chance!

A "FOGELBERG" FESTIVAL

TO CELEBRATE AN UNBELIEVABLE NEW FOGELBERG ALBUM

Dan Fogelberg's

including:
To The Morning
Hickory Grove
Long Way Home (Live In The Country)
Looking For A Lady
Wysteria

"Captured Angel" also included

ALL SERIES
5.98
3.49

Dan Fogelberg Nether Lands
including:
Love Gone By False Faces
Sketches
Loose Ends
Once Upon A Time

DAN FOGELBERG SOUVENIRS
including:
Part Of The Plan/Better Change
Illinois/Changing Horses
There's A Place In The World For A Gambler

DAN FOGELBERG
PHOENIX
including:
Phoenix/The Last To Know
Wishing On The Moon/Longer/Face The Fire

new visions, spirit & songs.

4.99

ONLY AT:

FOR THE RECORD

Located in Faces, Downtown Amherst

Open Mon. - Sat. 10 - 6 Friday 'till 9

Amherst's Most Complete Record Store

Dan Fogelberg & Tim Weisberg
Twin Sons of Different Mothers
including:
Tell Me To My Face
Since You've Asked/The Power Of Gold
Intimidation/Guitar Etude No. 3

SERIES 7.98
4.99

"Buy It Once. Enjoy It A Lifetime. Recorded Music Is Your Best Entertainment Value."

get more than you bargained for with these food values!

BOTTOM ROUND ROAST
U.S.D.A. CHOICE

$1.99 LB

KRAKUS CANNED HAM
IMPORTED 3 LB CAN

$6.87

ARMOUR STAR VERI-BEST EXTRA LEAN
CENTER CUT PORK CHOPS $1.59 LB

U.S.D.A. CHOICE BEEF ROUND
CUBE STEAKS $2.29 LB

TENDER TASTY
BABY BEEF LIVER 99¢ LB

LEAN
GROUND BEEF 5 LB PKG $8.25 $1.69 LB

COUPONS

WITH COUPON & $7.50 PURCHASE OR MORE EXCLUDING CIGARETTES LU81
REGULAR OR DIET SWEET LIFE SODA 28 OZ BTL FREE
VALID THRU DEC. 1
LIMIT ONE AT LOUIS FOODS

WITH COUPON & $7.50 PURCHASE OR MORE EXCLUDING CIGARETTES LU82
SWEET LIFE REGULAR & RIPPLE POTATO CHIPS 8 OZ PKG 39¢
VALID THRU DEC. 1
LIMIT ONE AT LOUIS FOODS

WITH COUPON & $7.50 PURCHASE OR MORE EXCLUDING CIGARETTES LU83
SWEET LIFE 32 OZ JAR REAL MAYONNAISE 79¢
VALID THRU DEC. 1
LIMIT ONE AT LOUIS FOODS

WITH COUPON & $7.50 PURCHASE OR MORE EXCLUDING CIGARETTES LU84
JUMBO ROLL SCOTT TOWELS 39¢
VALID THRU DEC. 1
LIMIT ONE AT LOUIS FOODS

WITH COUPON & $7.50 PURCHASE OR MORE EXCLUDING CIGARETTES LU85
REGULAR, SUPER, SUPER PLUS 40 CT TAMPAX TAMPONS $1.49
VALID THRU DEC. 1
LIMIT ONE AT LOUIS FOODS

WITH COUPON & $7.50 PURCHASE OR MORE EXCLUDING CIGARETTES LU86
SKIPPY PEANUT BUTTER 18 OZ JAR 79¢
VALID THRU DEC. 1
LIMIT ONE AT LOUIS FOODS

MOTT'S APPLE SAUCE
35 OZ JAR
79¢

KLEENEX FACIAL TISSUE
200 CT BOX
59¢

PRINCE MACARONI & CHEESE
4 7.25 OZ PKGS $1

SPAGHETTI
REGULAR-THIN & ELBOWS
MUELLERS PASTA
3 LB PKG

$1.29

SPECIALS EFFECTIVE
NOV. 26 THRU DEC. 1

SARA LEE
COFFEE RINGS
RASPBERRY OR BLUEBERRY
10 OZ PKG 99¢

Louis
FINE FOODS
N. PLEASANT ST., AMHERST, MASS

Letters

Iran: Lesson of history

To the Editor

As of this writing, Americans are being held hostage by Iranian students in the American embassy in Teheran. As we watch the television news or read the newspapers, we see violent demonstrations, not only in the streets of Teheran, but also on American college campuses and in such places as Beverly Hills, Cal. and Springfield, Mass.

Contrary to appearance, however, none of this came about overnight. The storming of our embassy and the subsequent demonstrations, with the accompanying violence, are the result of a generation of foul policies established and embarked upon by profoundly conservative leaders.

Back in 1953, President Eisenhower and the C.I.A. overthrew Iran's Premier Mossadegh and returned Shah Mohammed Riza Pahlevi to the throne from which he had been toppled a few years earlier.

Over the years, Presidents Eisenhower, Kennedy, Johnson, Nixon, Ford and Carter have supporte the Shah against his internal enemies. During these years, particularly during the Nixon administration, the Shah sold billions of dollars' worth of Iranian oil while Mr. Nixon made no effort to reduce U.S. consumption or to establish a national energy policy. The Shah, with these billions of U.S. dollars, then purchased from President Nixon American military hardware. This money was then funneled to the large corporate contractors of the Pentagon, completing a cycle in which few American or Iranian citizens ever benefitted.

Through this vicious circle, a dangerous situation was in the making in Iran. An enormous gap between the rich and the poor widened. Housing, education, health care were all relegated to a position of secondary importance, while the Shah and subsequent American Presidents set into motion a frightening military buildup. Little was made available to Iranians except useless consumer goods available to the few who could afford the cost.

In addition, torture, killings and imprisonment were the reality for those Iranians who dared to disagree with the Shah's policies. All this occurred with both the implicit and explicit support of six successive American governments. At the same time, the Shah lived in an opulent palace with everything money could buy. Ironically, the U.S. embassy in which these 90 people are being held, was the scene of many lavish and wild parties held for the upper echelons of Iranian society, Iranian government officials and U.S. government officials.

Is it little wonder then that the U.S. is despise in Iran? Should we be surprised to see the American flag burned in the streets of Teheran?

No sensible person, of course, sees any value in Iran's present government which succeeded the Shah. nor does any compassionate individual see any sense in the holding of the hostages in our embassy. Indeed, we pray that these 90 people will soon be able to leave the embassy safely and end their days of horror. However, as Americans discuss what the U.S. government should do, perhaps we should also remember what previous U.S. governments have done.

American governments have a disgraceful history of supporting and propping up tyrannical right-wing dictators who rarely, if ever, had the support of their people. One U.S. President after another has supported the Shah, as well as Somoza, Park Chung-Hee, Franco, Thieu, and others simply because they pursued our interests, at the expense of their people's interests. We should work, instead, toward a common interest: that of the democratic process and a decent life for all people. If this sounds idealistic, it is only because we are used to the barbarism and the horrors of the 20th century.

While we may feel angry, frustrated and humiliated at this recent assault on our embassy and those it sheltered as well as the assault on our sensibilities, its seeds were planted years ago by reckless and short-sighted men who felt compelled to meddle in the internal affairs of another country in a most destructive way.

These 90 people are indeed innocent victims. But they are victims not only of a deranged religious leader and his followers; they (and all of us) are also the victims of cynical and irresponsible leaders of the past, all of whom have passed from center stage. This is the legacy we have all inherited.

Stephen Singer
Amherst

Peter Pan flies

To the Editor

I am writing this letter to thank those wonderful people who are solely responsible for the happiness of thousands of UMass students who go home to visit their parents on the weekend. I am, of course, referring (with undying affection) to the Peter Pan bus company. I feel privileged that these "pioneers of the open road" will lower themselves to accepting we, the students of UMass, as passengers. This great company selflessly is willing to transport us from the undefined boundries of the UMass campus to the waiting arms of our loved ones, at no personal gain to themselves (except a mere $6.50 as a hospitality charge).

After a frustrating week of early classes, surprise tests, bad meals and noisey dorms, I wearily carry my bags to the campus bus stop and look forward to all the joy of boarding a spacious luxury bus which will carry me and about 50 other people away from UMass and back to all the comforts of home.

However, I can see that the 130 other people waiting to board that same bus are just as excited as I am.

Thank you Peter Pan for allowing me to push, kick, and trample all my weekly frustrations away. I enjoy participating in a sport that makes the violence of football look like a Sunday visit to the park. I honestly enjoy watching a pretty girl elbow her way into line, or 800 pounds of angry human flesh united by the common goal of cramming its way into a small door. There is nothing more enjoyable than watching a little old lady get pushed aside by a body builder only to come back with a "below-the-belt-bone-crusher" and resume her place in line.

I do admit showing weakness last Friday when a small oriental woman, trying to board the two o'clock Death Bus 2000, was thrown aside and stepped on. But I suppose, like all other aspects of life in the jungle, Darwin's concept of survival of the fittest prevails. "If you can't stand the heat, get out of the fire" right??? So thanks again Peter Pan for a sport more enjoyable than midget wrestling.

Craig Brown
Cashin

UMass 'interesting'

To the Editor

We're faced with some pretty interesting surroundings here at the University. A few examples...we have a pseudo-library, dorms whose condition is deplorable because of a lack of maintenance, crumbling and leaking buildings, and SWAT teams who harass completely innocent students in the name of increasing campus security. We have a full-force landscaping project while many of our buildings need repair and many parts of campus are nearly pitch dark at night. We have a statewide reputation of being a bunch of animals who are not here to pursue an education, but rather to throw bottles, vandalize buildings and inflict violence upon each other.

And we're paying for all of this? We must be crazy! The University should be paying us for the privilege of living with this shit! (And now they want to raise room and board fees by outrageous amounts? -- The irony of the whole situation almost makes me laugh!)

But seriously folks, there are many threats to our existence here at the University. The state legislature has been steadily snipping away at our budget for the past few years and, by all indications, intends to continue doing so. That so-called article which appeared in Boston magazine reinforces those narrow-minded individuals who oppose public higher education and who are convinced that this place is a zoo.

We can't afford to sit back and let ourselves get screwed like this. I urge everyone on this campus to register to vote and to become informed about the issues which we face as students...especially proposition 2½ which, if passed, would cut our budget by another 30 percent. There is a petition in the Campus Center which provides for less devastating alternatives to this piece of legislation. It doesn't take long to sign a petition and, with student support, proposition 2½ will be stopped.

Diane Jacoby
Johnson House

Letters Policy

Due to space limitations, letters to the editor should be written as brief as is humanly possible. They should be TYPED at 67 characters across and triple spaced.

Editorial/Opinion

WOMEN:

Words consist of letters and more

Nancy L. Maffucci

After being in college almost four years, I have finally become accustomed to my status as a woman. Nowhere else has the transition from girlhood to womanhood been so apparent. Four years ago I made the mistake of visiting the "girls" across the hall. My upperclass roommates promptly corrected me: "Don't you mean women?" they said. I pondered their statement for a while. "What's the difference?" I said, and now I have learned the answer.

The difference is more theoretically based than anything else. There is no specific time when a girl becomes a woman, but she must assert to become one. It does not happen automatically. A woman, in the eyes of a man can be a "girl" until she is 90. But a boy, in the eyes of a woman, becomes a "young man" at the age of 13, a "guy" at the age of 18, and a man at the age of 22 when he lands his first big job. This is a strange phenomenon. It is as if to say the women of the world are left stagnant while the men grow and flourish. Needless to say, the implications for a woman's intellectual growth go much further.

People argue that it doesn't make a difference because it is only a word. If it is not used in a derogatory sense then it should not be condemned. The point remains, the word "girl" is demeaning in itself when it is applied to women. A "girl" is defined as a female child or young person. While I am female, I am no longer a child. I am capable and ready to manage my adult as a woman—not a "girl."

Perhaps it is difficult for some people to use the word woman because they long for a counter to the male term "guy" so commonly used in society. Fortunately for us, the word "gal" hasn't made it into today's colloquial ranks. Consequently, the only alternative for rational adults is the word "woman."

Women are demanding more recognition which they deserve. Collectively, they have made headway in the "man's" world. But it is not nearly enough to achieve equality. It isn't an easy task and is made even more difficult when the collective growth is stunted by individual misnomers like "girl." Women have accepted the responsibilities which accompany adulthood; but why is society so reluctant to support such a normal pattern of growth?

In the long run, a single word does make the difference. The longer we use the word "girl" instead of "woman," the more difficult it is to assert independence and adulthood. Consequently, the longer the inferior myth of women as individuals prevails. The word "girls" implies we are childlike—when we are not. It implies that we are children—when we are capable of having our own. The word also implies that we are dependent youths—when we are just as old as any independent man. Yes, this single word makes a big difference. So, if you will excuse me, I am now going to visit the women across the hall.

Nancy L. Maffucci is a Collegian columnist

Woman appointee to Supreme Court

Carolyn Mooney

The movement to appoint a woman to the Supreme Court, the primary goal of the newly-formed National Organization of Women Judges which met last week in Los Angeles, is finally gaining nationwide momentum and legitimacy. Considering there has never been a woman justice in the Supreme Court's 190-year history and a vacancy may be created soon if Justice William Brennan decides to retire, the timing is right.

The nine men in black who currently preside over U.S. constitutional law are all white except for one and all over 55, a composition which to me does not constitute equal justice. I shudder to think that such a homogenized group makes the ultimate decisions on questions of constitutional freedom in this country.

One of several Supreme Court oral arguments I reported on while in Washington, D.C. last spring was a Massachusetts class action suit which sought to appeal legal abortions for minors without parental consent. In the hour during which both sides presented their arguments, the justices and the attorneys ---all of them male-- described some of the emotional problems a pregnant girl faces. How can they ever really know ?Because only members of the bar may practice before the Supreme Court, a pregnant girl obviously cannot testify. But because attorneys for state cases often hold appointments within the state's judiciary, and women hold very few, the possibilities of a woman arguing before the Supreme Court are very slim. The problem goes far deeper than the absence of a woman Supreme Court justice.

The fact that women currently represent over 30 percent of total law school enrollments (Pre-Law Handbook 1979-80 figures), made possible in part by affirmative action rulings by the same court, appears meaningless if a few statistics are examined:

—Last year, five of 675 U.S. Circuit and District Court judges were women. (Women in Public Office, 1978)

—There are still about 15 states that have no women judges at all. (California Appeals Justice Joan Dempsey Klem, at last week's conference)

Progress in these areas is another concern of the women judges who met last week. While the Carter Administration has appointed more women (women currently hold 14 percent of all Federal positions) than any other, that progress is not paralleled in the judiciary. Carter's newest woman appointee, Education Secretary Shirley M. Hufstedler, acknowledged last week when she accepted the post under the condition she could still be considered for a Supreme Court appointment.

If the highest court in the U.S. and the Carter Administration really believe to be valid the inscription "Equal Justice Under Law" which so impressively adorns the marble facade of the Supreme Court building, they put the entire nation's judiciary to shame. If not, let them destroy some of the inequities which exist now by taking appropriate long-term action, and not by merely making a few token appointments.

Carolyn Mooney is a Collegian assistant managing editor

Plenty of things that require plenty awareness

Jim Moran

Here in the happy land of Fivecollegeonia, we are the victims of a rather unusual malady—over-consciousness. When Ben Franklin said, "God forbid we should ever be five years without a revolution," he obviously said it without a preconception of the growth of American academia. If he had visited UMass, for instance, he would know that we are lucky to get by seven days without some form of insurgency, let alone five years. Everyone is revolting at UMass...revolting...get it?

It is not enough to have a Revolutionary Student Brigade. Our Recognized Student Organization must also legitimize a Revolutionary Communist Youth Brigade. The reason for this bureaucratic mitosis, I am informed, is a disagreement over the Chinese Gang of Four. But the real reason for the split—larger egos require more office space. Now I can certainly support a little diverse thought, for after all it's a healthy thing to have a challenge to conventional forms of logic. But for the student treasury to fund an interoffice feud between two factions who ultimately have the same aims is a little silly. Sorry Charlie!

Then there's the workshop of the coordinating committee of the task force of the collective holding their second annual discussion group in the International Conference for the Year of the Dork. Come on, be a little original!

And then there's our women's groups—always separating and re-grouping, bickering over their respective agendas: Lesbian factions, pro-life factions, pro-choice factions, the ones who are the products of Madison Avenue, the ones who don't shave under their arms, the militants, the pacifists. It's no wonder they can't get an Equal Rights Amendment ratified. They're too busy deciding who should light the candles and who should hold the matches.

This is to say nothing of the exclusion of men from their "participatory" functions. I know of one male who was told he couldn't view a "women's film." I am therefore led to assume that the male optical nerves must go into a state of dysfunction exposed to such pieces of social art. And let us not forget the thousands of paraplegic men who were unable to march to "Take Back the Night."

For our enemies of the atom, I am forced to borrow from some Guideran philosophy—it's not that I like nukes, it's that I can't stand no-nukers.

Our Third World brothers and sisters will be interested to know that several people are still having problems finding the First and Second worlds. I've already passed them, though. I'm starting a Fourth.

Of course you cannot criticize a black or Hispanic in a constructive manner without being a racist. I know there are valid reasons for having Black Affairs. God knows I've had enough failures with all my white ones. But if you really think about it for a moment, how would it sound to have White News? Doesn't any racial supremacy walk on a two-way street? I suppose the next step of "progression" will be the establishment of Black Weather, for all we know, the Lord alternates our periods of rain and shine in a discriminatory fashion.

Which brings up the question of the best theological school of thought. We put down the Moslems and Hare Krishnas as "cults." Is it their fault that they haven't gained mass acceptance? Or a Chase Manhattan bankbook? The Christians and Jews are, I suppose, well-oiled, well-recruited cults.

Let us not forget our earth food advocates, who continually spend the best years of their lives in the classified offices of our newspapers, placing ads in a vain quest for the perfect non-smoking, herbal-oriented, cooperative roommmates who they shall never find before they are through with their institutionalized educations. In fact, to find the Mr. or Ms. Right who will be suitable enough to put up with all their fussy symptoms of neurosis, they might do better to seek out cooperative cemetary lots.

And what of our gay colleagues? I can remember hearing several conversations of not finding it pleasant to be in the company of those "straight babymakers." I worked at an establishment in Boston that had a fondness for not hiring those poor souls who chose to breed the human race. Did they ever stop to think that without those "straight babymakers" there cannot be any more little homosexuals coming along the way?

Just one closing note, though. I will admit to not always being the most idealistic person anymore. The cynicism creeps in and maybe I need to have my "social awareness transistors" replaced. I will submit to taking the G-Core, Human Awareness courses on one condition—that the proponents of this plan will enroll themselves in a course entitled, "Advanced Techniques of Human Hypocrisy." The designed purpose of this course is to convey to the students some intermediate methods of covering up their phoneyness. Because from what I've experienced, my trashcompactor could fit quite easily through the holes in their arguments, and that too warrants a refresher course for our amateur sociologists.

Jim Moran is a Collegian columnist.

King to UMass: Money's tight

The following is a response by Commonwealth Governor Edward J. King to a letter which appeared in the Collegian last month written by Managing Editor Christopher H. Schmitt outlining what he saw as some of the problems of Higher Education at UMass. The letter was sent on October 23.

Dear Mr. Schmitt

In your letter which articulates many of the problems facing higher education in the Commonwealth, you suggest that there exists a complacent attitude toward education and attribute that to be a source of the problem. As Governor, I am acutely aware of and concerned about the problems you identify. I have visited a number of campuses and have spent time with institutional representatives in order to better familiarize myself with the nature and extent of many of the problems you describe.

'I concur that quality, low-cost public higher education for citizens of the Commonwealth is important and should be viewed as one of several priorities currently facing the state. Because of the complexity of the educational system and its needs, a special commission has been constituted to address the issue of Reorganization of Public Higher Education.'

The state's system of public higher education represents a significant investment on the part of the Commonwealth. Unfortunately, the period of that system's unrestrained growth has passed and higher education, like other sectors of the economy, must adjust to a period of fiscal restraint. Despite these times of fiscal austerity, we must be certain to protect the investments and accomplishments made in prior years and continue to work toward better management of existing resources.

I concur that quality, low-cost public higher education for citizens of the Commonwealth is important and should be viewed as one of several priorities currently facing the state. Because of the complexity of the educational system and its needs, a special commission has been constituted to address the issue of Reorganization of Public Higher Education. Presumably that Commission's recommendations will provide guidance to the Executive Branch in this very important area.

It would seem that simply allocating more money to education will not necessarily produce the quality of education you and I both desire.

In light of the many demands on the taxpayers' money we need to determine the minimum level of funding necessary to ensure the continuance of a quality system accessible to our citizens. That appropriation, along with better resource management, may have to suffice during the coming years when we anticipate declining enrollments in our institutions and tighter budgeting at all levels.

Sincerely,

Edward J. King

EDWARD J. KING
GOVERNOR

BOARD OF DIRECTORS

CAROL ROSENBERG, Editor-in-Chief; CHRISTOPHER H. SCHMITT, Managing Editor; LAURA P. BASSETT, Business Manager; FRAN T. BASCHE, News Editor; STEPHEN B. KLEIN, Executive Editor; LISA M.CAPONE, Women's Editor; MARCIA HOSPEDALES, Black Affairs Editor; AMIRA I. RAHMAN, Photo Editor; DEBRA ROTH, Arts Editor; MARK A. MARCHAND and STEVEN S. ZACK, Sports Editor, MARY B. KINNEAVY, Graphics Manager.

ASSOCIATE EDITORS

Julie Eagle, Pamela Lindmark, Carolyn Mooney, Beth Segers, Gayle Young, Associate Managing Editors; Sean Harvey, Robert E. Stein, Associate News Editors; Jack Gallagher, Associate Executive Editor; Debbie Wallace, Associate Women's Editor; Karen Thomas, Associate Black Affairs Editor; Paul Price, Associate Photo Editor; Ken Sands, Associate Magazine/Fine Arts Editor; Linda Reyer, Associate Sports Editor; Suzette Courtmanche, Associate Graphics Manager.

BUSINESS DEPARTMENT

Ken GrandPre, Advertising Manager; Joan Daly, Frederic Keillor, Assistant Advertising Managers; Dan Peterson, Circulation Manager; Howard Bass, Finance Manager.

The Collegian is the student newspaper of the University of Massachusetts. The staff is responsible for its content and no faculty member or administrators read it for accuracy or approval prior to publication.

Unsigned editorials represent the view of this paper. They do not necessarily reflect the views of the faculty, administration, or student body as a whole. Unsigned editorials, columns, reviews, cartoons, and letters represent the personal view of the authors.

The Collegian is a member of the Associated Press. Publication of their material does not constitute endorsement.

The Collegian strives to print only advertising which is truthful and complete, but final responsibility for all advertisers lie with the individual advertisers.

whole wheat PIZZA FACTORY

Introduces:

THE WORKS

Pepperoni, Onions, Mushrooms, GreenPeppers and Sausage

Regularly $8.00

From 5:00 - 10:00 only

7 days

$2.00 off

363 Main St. 256-8587

SONY dream machines

Specifications ICF-C820W

Semiconductors: Clock 2 LSI • 9 transistors • 16 diodes
Radio 1 IC • 7 transistors • 6 diodes
Frequency range: FM 87.5-108MHz • AM 530-1605kHz
Antenna system: FM Lead wire antenna plus 75 ohm external antenna terminal • AM Built in ferrite bar antenna
Speaker: 3" dynamic
Jack: Earphone
Power requirements: AC 120V, 60Hz, 6W • Optional power back-up battery (9V) Eveready 216 or equivalent
Dimensions: 5¾"H x 10½"W x 3⅜"D
Weight: 2 lbs 7 oz
Color: Metalic silver, with woodgrain
Optional accessory: Pillow Speaker DE-25H
All specifications are subject to change without notice.

ICF-C820W sug. price $79.95 OUR PRICE only $67.95
also available
ICF-C815W sug. price $59.95 OUR PRICE only $49.95
ICF-C310W sug. price $29.95 OUR PRICE only $27.95
SONY CASSETTE RECORDERS
ALSO AVAILABLE

VISA
Master Charge
American Express accepted

campus center/umass
the UNIVERSITY STORE

To place a Collegian Classified Ad
•Come to Collegian Office (CC 113)
•8:45 to 3:45, Mon. thru Fri.
•Classified deadline is 3:45 two days prior to publication day.

Collegian Classifieds

Collegian Classified Rates
•15c per word
•Student rate 10c per word
•Cash in advance
•5 consecutive days, 5% discount
•Phone number FREE

AUDIO

Theatrix Rents Mirror balls and other Disco supplies. Lights for sale, new and used 323-7160.

McIntosh Amp & Preamp Harmon Kardon Tuner. Dual Turntable Bill 665-2810

Kenwood Cass. Deck KX1030 X cond. 200. 256-6205

AUTO FOR SALE

68 Impala needs work or for parts $125 mornings 256-6279

69 Belair must sell, engine excellent, 400 or B.O. 549-1399

64 Falcon St. Wgn. runs $100. Rick 253-7634

69 VW Bug body ok, needs valve job, must sell $50 call 586-2496 notes

1974 Toyota Celica exceptional condition $2500 546-9826

ENTERTAINMENT

Good Times DJ's for hire, disco and or Rock call 546-4726 or 546-4777

Soundsystem for Hire perfect for bands, discos, coffeehouses Rick 584-4105

Looking for an evening of perfectly enjoyable music? Try the 2nd annual UMass Folk Concert, this Weds., Nov. 28, 8 p.m., 1 a.m., in the Hamden Theatre in SW. Don't miss it. It's free!

Zeta Psi's last party was an event to remember. The band was hot. They're new. They're ready to rock. They're

INCOGNITO

for bookings call 586-3924, 546-7120, 546-7815, or 256-6845 (Brian or Charlie)

FOR RENT

1 Bedroom in three bedroom apt $118 month plus utilities start Jan. bus route 5-10 minute walk to campus, call 549-6537

3 bedroom, tiny house Summer Street in North Amherst. Would like lease taken over starting Jan. Russ 549-6194

FOR SALE

Portrait Drawing Dennis Delap. 256-8732

2 Leather Jackets Walter Dyer Call 253-7103

2 ½ price airline coupons call Debby 323-5262

Full size bed w. frame & headboard. Call evenings 584-5077

Half fare United coupon 549-5031

Waterless Cookware 20 pc. set, great Xmas gift, price reduced until Nov. 30 549-2867

Ski Boots size 11 Kevin 549-4199

Portraits Profile $7, full face $10, color $20, pets in color-$18 Deborah Pompano 549-4634

1974 Honda 450CB 10,000 mi., excellent condition, 617-544-6380 after 5, $750

Ice skates women's Riedell 7 B excellent condition $50 call Karen 549-4049

2 American Airlines ½-price coupons $35 ea. Call 253-7150

CANON 200mmF4 lens with case excellent condition. Winston evenings 665-7006

United Airlines 2 half price coupons $100 ea or B.O. Steve 545-2627

FOUND

Found lots of clay pots Greenough Craft Shop Mon-Thurs 7-10 Sat 12-4

Irish setter male found 11-17 at Franklin DC call Greg at 6-4945 or Hamp Vet Clinic at 549-5800

HELP WANTED

Overseas Jobs—Summer, year, round. Europe, S. America, Australia, Asia, etc. All fields. $500-$1,200 monthly, expenses paid. Sightseeing, free information, write IJC, Box 52-MC, Corona Del Mar, CA 92625

Caretaker for 6 month old baby in our home. Mon., Wed., 2-4:30 P.M. Thurs. 1:00 P.M. on bus route $1.50 hr 256-6475

Free Adorable Kitten 12 wks old, grey, we're moving and can't take her with us 546-6461

Dorm residents earn$$ helping out THE BAGEL CONNECTION on call 253-5184

Research Assistant needed immediately for humanities project. Work study student only. Sophisticated, interesting work. Good typing, good head required. Flexible hours. $3.25 per hour. Call Mr. Donohue 545-2329 or 545-0498

INSTRUCTION

Tutoring given in Math and Accounting. Roy 549-5360

LEGAL SERVICES

Attorney Jason R. Rosenthal General Practice. Legal Representation for the Amherst, Mass community by appt. only days 584-4285 evenings 253-7617

LOST

Lost: small gray kitten, lost in the area of Phillips St., great sentimental value call 549-1869

Generous Reward Diamond Engagement Ring call collect 1-788-4075

Red and Black Plaid Wool Jacket lost at Wheeler coffehouse 11-15. Reward call Greg at 6-4945

"Lost" 2 rings in downstairs bathroom of Music Dept. in FAC on 11-15. Both have great sentimental value. Please return. $rewards$ no questions asked call Kris at 6-8282 after 10 pm

Reward Volkswagon hubcap Kevin 1-788-4075

PARALEGAL INTERNS WANTED

The Legal Services Office has 8 positions available for full time paralegal interns for Spring, 1980 semester. You can receive up to 15 credits from the Office of Internships located at Curry Hicks. These internships will provide exciting, challenging and rewarding work which will include the learning of many legal skills. Interviewing clients, legal research and maintaining a continuing caseload under the supervision of attorneys. Third World students and women are encouraged to apply. Application forms can be obtained at the Curry Hicks building and additional information obtained at the Legal Services Office in 922 Campus Center and must be submitted by Friday, November 30, 1979 at the latest.

PERSONALS

Female Musicians Wanted to form band. Into Stones, Devento, Circle Drive. Box 132, Monroe, NY 10950

Anyone interested in tryouts for the Basketball Twirling Squad. Tryouts will be at the end of Nov. Call Wendy at 6-6175 for more information

Waterbed 3 months old, 6 drawer base must sell, new 365. SAC 275-256-6205

Greenough Craft Shop is now open Christmas is coming, silver, leather, photography, ceramics, wood. Mon-Thurs 7-10 Saturdays 12-4 Free Instruction

If anyone found a rust colored down vest at PIKA last Thurs 11-15 Please call Judy 545-0082 Great Sentimental Value!

Father O Cuss, a ½ baked Browine, who doesn't know the difference between Judas and Peter, but when it comes to receiving, he gets all he can, cuz he's a WILD and CRAZY man. Happy 21 From us

NSLM congratulations! Doesn't jello work? GNG

November 16, 1979 I was not drunk I was stricken with a sudden head cold followed by extreme nausea. After a brief conversation with a passing physician it was advised that I rest for awhile. FMK

Save the Worm! Dec. 3

Women do you feel that you did not receive a through pelvic exam when you saw a GP or NP at the infirmary? Have you ever been diagnosed bne way, and then seen a gynecologist who gave you a different diagnosis? Please call Linda at 546-9454 MW 2:00 P.M.-7:00 P.M. TuTh 7:30 P.M.-9:00 P.M.

Kit! Whole lots of bunches. Bunches to the bunches power!

To Lori in Patterson: Looking good! I'll get you yet. A very secret admirer

Neil, I handed you a shing STARR. Cokie Basoism, Inc.

SECURITY DEPOSIT PROBLEMS?

Have any questions about your security deposit? Do you think monies were unfairly deducted for repairs or cleaning? Did you get 5% interest? Do you know where your money is being held? Call the Security Deposit Task Force at UMass Legal Services 545-1995 or Off Campus Housing 545-0865

SERVICES

"Attention Car Owners" Protect you auto with an alarm system. Up to 15% off insurance. One year guarantee 549-4041

Drummer looking for working band call 546-8567

Typist—papers, theses, dissertations, resumes IBM Selectric correcting top quality work, reasonable rates. Reliable contact now. Nancy Merritt 403 Arnold House, evenings 527-3071

Women and alcohol workshop Nov. 27, 28, 29 at Everywomans Center call Alcohol Education Project for info 549-2671 ext 186

TO SUBLET

Space in Brandywine available for month of Jan for details call 549-0128

WANTED

Fast Immediate Cash for gold school rings diamonds silver. Jeff anytime 527-7078 586-0180

Silver Dimes 60 Quarters 1.50, Half dollars 2.50, call for offer Jim 6-8393

Japanese/Chinese people needed for move satire. (11-27) no experience needed call Ted 6-7145 or Scott 6-5858

WANTED TO RENT

2 Bedroom apt sublease pref. Brittany Manor call after 6 546-9636 or 546-8170

2 bedroom apt wanted for spring, starting Jan. 1, call 546-5874

2 bedroom apt bonus$$ pref. split level for Spring semester call 546-4096, 546-4964, 546-4093

ROOMMATE WANTED

Two Roommates to share one bedroom in Sunderland Apt. $90 fp util., starting Jan 1 Call Johnn at 665-4792

House in Shutesbury needs occupants pets OK call Nancy keep trying 253-3301 7 mi from Campus

Two rooms in four bedroom house Amherst 546-9151

Roommate wanted for apt insouth amherst 253-9744

Looking for 1 or 2 roommates to share 2 bedroom Townehouse starting Jan 1 Call Peter 549-1609 eves

Female, Jan-Aug own bedroom, bus route, $110 + Ann or Lisa 546-6491

Male or female for own bedroom in 3 bedroom apt 113.00 a month Jean 549-6690

ROOM FOR RENT

South Amherst house bus stops out front, dishwasher, pay for cleaning, $125.00 includes all utilities. Call 253-2409 9:00 AM-10:00 AM

Woman to rent one bedroom of three bedroom apt in Jan on bus route call 549-1661

Aluminum Foil by Steve Lafler

Nuke the Whale by Danny Guidera

Beasts by Rob Ranney

Norma B. by M.J. Galper

TODAY'S CROSSWORD PUZZLE

ACROSS
1 Sheep
4 Trades
9 More halt
14 Past
15 Earth: Fr.
16 Quick
17 Mixologist
19 Agitated
20 Thwart
21 Tijuana cheer
22 Barrier
23 Distant: Prefix
24 Chest
26 Felines
29 Wood
31 Patriotic gp.
32 Indigo
33 Lounge
36 Redact
38 Man's name
39 Kind of dance
41 Irate
43 Collection
44 Error
46 Civetlike cats
47 Liquors
49 Impair
50 Permit
51 Oaf
52 Cure
54 Fastener
58 "— Amatoria"
60 Pal in Nice
61 Rhythm
62 Show off: 2 words
64 Oregon county
66 Fragment
67 Prevent
68 Musical inst.
69 Relieved
70 Reposes
71 Ruby

DOWN
1 Morocco port
2 Amole
3 Mushroom
4 Let it stand
5 Tumor
6 Zeal
7 Overture
8 Nocturne
9 Exalt
10 Ruminant
11 Handle badly
12 Adam and —
13 Macerate
18 Entertains
24 "Desire Under — —"
25 Kris —
27 Region of China
28 Luges
30 Cliques
33 Rises
34 Boredom
35 Fellow players
37 Corner
40 Brain membrane: 2 words
42 Song
45 Vow
48 Trim
53 Highland garb
55 Love affair
56 Orated
57 Jabbed
59 Drove fast
61 Spigots
62 Copy
63 U.S. agcy.
65 Fate

Answer to Tuesday's Puzzle

DC menu

LUNCH
Hot Beef Sandwich
Sausage, Corn Fritters

BASICS LUNCH
Vegetable Hot Pot
Vegetable Taco

DINNER
Meatloaf Italiano
Baked Ham/Fruit Sauce

BASICS DINNER
Carrot Loaf
Baked Haddock/Lemon Slice

Crackers, Cheese, and a Drink at the TOC Happy Hour

4-week Christmas Season Dance Programs start November 26th to December 17th, at Kathleen Erickson's School of Dance
Classes offered:
Mouern Dance, adults, beg. & inter., $19.25
Modern Jazz Workshop, adults, $18.25
Registration now in progress. Limited class size
Call 549-4916

UPC PRODUCTIONS AEC/SCANN present

HOLLY NEAR

with J.J. & Susan Freundlich

Tueday, December 11 8 P.M.
Fine Arts Center Concert Hall

Tickets: $4 - adults $2 - children
General admission available at:
Everywoman's Center, Disabled Students Office & Womonfrye Books
For Childcare info. call Tina 546-1248

Clip these coupons for savings worth over $8.00

With this coupon 69¢ NABISCO CHIPS AHOY CHOC. CHIP COOKIES 13oz. pkg. Good Mon., Nov. 26-Dec. 1. Limit one per customer. Grocery. 269

59¢ 12 ounce can MINUTE MAID ORANGE JUICE Frozen. Good Mon., Nov. 26-Dec. 1. Limit one per customer. Frozen. 269

Stop & Shop Coupon. With this coupon and a $7.50 purchase 19¢ Assorted Flavors HI-C FRUIT FLAVORED DRINK 46oz. can. Good Mon., Nov. 26-Dec. 1. Limit one per customer. Grocery. 269

With this coupon and a $7.50 purchase FREE! 12oz. pkg. of 6. Reg. or Split STOP & SHOP ENGLISH MUFFINS. Good Mon., Nov. 26-Dec. 1. Limit one per customer. Bakery. 269

With this coupon 79¢ 6.4 ounce tube AIM TOOTHPASTE with Flouride. Good Mon., Nov. 26-Dec. 1. Limit one per customer. Grocery. 269

With this coupon and a $7.50 purchase 49¢ 26 ounce bottle STOP & SHOP KETCHUP. Good Mon., Nov. 26-Dec. 1. Limit one per customer. Grocery. 269

Stop & Shop Coupon. With this coupon and a $7.50 purchase 19¢ 2 ply 200 count STOP & SHOP FACIAL TISSUE White, Pink or Yellow. Good Mon., Nov. 26-Dec. 1. Limit one per customer. Grocery. 269

With this coupon and a $7.50 purchase FREE! 8 ounce cup BREYERS YOGURT Assorted Flavors. Good Mon., Nov. 26-Dec. 1. Limit one per customer. Dairy. 269

ONE OF THE STOP & SHOP COMPANIES. Stop & Shop SUPERMARKETS

Get Your Stop & Shopsworth!

CLASSICS HAND PAINTED Stoneware Dinnerware in 3 patterns. Salad Plate 49¢. With ex. $20 food purchase.

FREE FILM! We'll give you a free 20 exposure roll of "Our Own" 110 or 126 color print film every time you bring in any brand of color print film for processing. Offer good through Saturday, January 12, 1980.

Stop & Shop "Great Beef" USDA Choice. USDA CHOICE Sirloin Steak $1.99 lb. Beef Shell Loin. Treat yourself to one at this low price!

Underblade Steak — Beef Chuck Bone-in $1.59 lb.
7-Bone Beef Chuck Steak — Bone-in USDA Choice $1.39 lb.
Boneless Blade Steak — Beef Chuck USDA Choice $1.99 lb.

Boneless Chuck Roast — USDA CHOICE Beef Chuck "Great Beef" USDA Choice $1.79 lb.

Chuck Stewing Beef — "Great Beef" USDA Choice $1.89 lb.
26%* Ground Beef — Approx. 3 lb. Chub $1.39 lb.
*Contains not more than 26% fat.

Fresh Pork Shoulder — Picnic 79¢ lb.
Fresh Pork Spare Ribs — Broil or bake $1.19 lb.
Fresh Pork Butts — Lean & meaty! $1.19 lb.

3 lb. Canned Ham — Stop & Shop. Trim lean meat, no waste. $5.79. Cudahy "Bar S" Ham. 3 pound canned $5.89 self service deli Great buys!

Stop & Shop Extra Mild Franks 1 lb pkg. 99¢
Colonial Bologna 1.19
Armour Hot Dogs 1.29
Nepco Knockwurst 1.69
Hillshire Kielbasi 1.89

corner deli Everything sliced and packaged to your order
Available in stores featuring a service deli. Deutschmacher Bologna $1.69 lb. Good & Fresh Liverwurst 1.39
Alperts Brand Pastromi 2.29
Weaver Chicken Roll 2.29
Cheddar Cheese 2.19
Cole Slaw 55
Chicken Salad 2.29
"Our Rare Beef" 3.59

our kitchen Delicious foods!
Herbs n' Butter Countryfine Cooked Chicken $1.09 lb. or Home Style
Potato Salad 59

seafood The best of the catch!
Fresh Cod Fillets $1.99 lb. Bake, broil or fry
Squid (Calamari) 1.79
Turbot Fillets 1.49
Flounder Fillets 1.99

produce. Pick these good nutritious values all week!
5 lb. bag Maine U.S. No. 1 Potatoes 49¢
10 lb. bag Maine Potatoes U.S. No. 1 89¢
Fresh Florida Tangelos 125 size 12 for $1
Fresh Washed Spinach Former Brown 10oz. pkg. 69¢
Flowering 4 in. pot Poinsettia Plant $2.49 ea.
5 lb. bag Onions Yellow Rich in vitamin C 79¢

Stop & Shop Coupon. With this coupon. Save 50¢ 1 lb. can STOP & SHOP COFFEE Reg., Drip, Electric, Auto. Good Mon., Nov. 26-Dec. 1. Limit one per customer. Grocery ★ 269

Save 25¢ Random Weight Pkg. STOP & SHOP CHEESE DOMESTIC CHUNK SWISS or MONTEREY JACK. Good Mon., Nov. 26-Dec. 1. Limit one per customer. Dairy ★ 269

Save 50¢ 8¾ ounce pkg. TASTE O' SEA FISH DINNER or BATTER DIPT SCROD. Good Mon., Nov. 26-Dec. 1. Limit one per customer. Frozen ★ 269

Save 50¢ 11½ ounce pkg. TASTE O' SEA RAW FLOUNDER or SOLE PORTIONS. Good Mon., Nov. 26-Dec. 1. Limit one per customer. Frozen ★ 269

Save 20¢ 32 ounce jar Stop & Shop IMITATION MAYONNAISE. Good Mon., Nov. 26-Dec. 1. Limit one per customer. Grocery ★ 269

Save 50¢ "Our Own" DISPOSABLE DIAPERS Extra Absorbant 48ct., Toddler 40ct., Daytime 60ct. or Overnight 48ct. Good Mon., Nov. 26-Dec. 1. Limit one per customer. Grocery 269

Save 50¢ Batter Dipt TASTE O SEA HADDOCK PORTIONS 12oz pkg or FISH n CHIPS 16oz. pkg. Good Mon., Nov. 26-Dec. 1. Limit one per customer. Frozen ★ 269

Save 30¢ STOP & SHOP 48oz. jar SPAGHETTI SAUCE Mushroom, Meat Flavored or Plain. Good Mon., Nov. 26-Dec. 1. Limit one per customer. Grocery ★ 270

Save 40¢ Package of 40 STOP & SHOP TRASH BAGS. Good Mon., Nov. 26-Dec. 1. Limit one per customer. Grocery ★ 272

Save 40¢ Package of 100 RED ROSE TEA BAGS. Good Mon., Nov. 26-Dec. 1. Limit one per customer. Grocery ★ 271

Save 30¢ Any Size STOP & SHOP PIZZA Sold Fresh in our Meat Dept. Good Mon., Nov. 26-Dec. 1. Limit one per customer. Meat ★ 273

Save $1.00 8 ounce bottle VIDAL SASSOON SHAMPOO or RINSE or 2oz. tube Remoisturizer. Good Mon., Nov. 26-Dec. 1. Limit one per customer. Grocery ★ 274

Dark Rye, Caraway Rye, Russian or Pumpernickel Kasanoff's Bread 16 ounce loaf 69¢

Sliced Cinnamon Coffee Cake Stop & Shop 16 ounce loaf 69¢

Doughnuts 99

Snow Shovel Sale!
Alum. Blade Shovel 4.99
Heavy Duty Alum. Shovel 6.99
Auto Trunk Shovel 5.99
Long Handle Snow Scoop 9.99
Children's Snow Shovel 1.99

Prices effective Mon. Nov. 26 Sat. Dec. 1

HADLEY-AMHERST Route 9 at the Hadley-Amherst Line. 8a.m.-10p.m., Mon.-Sat. We redeem your Federal Food Stamps.

Hampshire Business Machines, Inc.
Holiday Super Special
Air Clean & Oil all portable typewriters including ribbon
$135.00
(Adjustment slightly higher)
only with this coupon
5 Pray St., Amherst
Tel. (413) 549-6177

SNOW TIRES SAVE ½
Firestone Retreads have the same width, depth, design and rubber as new tires —only at ½ the cost.
FREE replacement if they EVER fail for ANY reason.
Regular $15.00 up
Radials $19.50 up
exchange plus tax
LEON'S TIRES
291 FEDERAL STREET
(next to McDonald's)
GREENFIELD, 773-8315

The Hungry-U
Monday Night Pizza Special
Buy any lage pizza and get a pitcher of beer for HALF-PRICE!
549-5713
55 University Dr.

ACADEMY OF MUSIC Northampton
A Limited Showing Now, Ends Tuesday at 7:00 and 9:15
JOSEPH WAMBAUGH'S THE ONION FIELD
A True Story
FAVCO EMBASSY PICTURES presents R
JOHN SAVAGE
JAMES WOODS
AT THE GATES OF SMITH COLLEGE

Sports shorts

ISEZAKI, Japan (AP) — The Japan national volleyball team beat the U.S. national team 15- 9, 15-5, 11-15, 15-7 yesterday in the final game of a four-game exhibition series in Japan.

It was the American team's fourth straight defeat against no victories.

BERLIN (AP) — Eric Heiden led an American sweep of the first three places in men's competition at a two-day, international speed skating competition which ended yesterday in West Berlin.

Heiden finished the seven-nation competition, which featured two 500-meter and 1,000- meter races, with 156.650 points, followed by fellow Americans Peter Mueller with 158.245 points and Dan Immerfall with 158.505.

Heiden's victory came despite a poor showing in the first 500 meter race, in which he finished eighth among 41 competitors.

In women's event, East German Christa Rothenburger took first place, winning three of the individual races and placing fourth in another.

The 20-year-old skater finished with 171.510 points, well ahead of Ljubov Sadchikova of the Soviet Union with 174.450 points and Sylvia Burka of Canada with 175.890.

PERTH, Australia (AP) — The French ketch Anitra crashed into a reef off Parker Point, the southernmost tip of Rottnest, just 17 kilometers from the Parmelia yacht race finish line yesterday.

The accident happened a 4 a.m. local time and the yacht immediately radioed a call for help as water poured in through a gash in the hull.

A southwest breeze drove her further over the maze of reefs as she rolled on her beam near shore with pieces of wreckage floating abbut her.

Dr. Jim Chute skippered his 13.8 meter cutter Challenger over the Fremantle finish line to win the race's open division.

NEW YORK (AP) — Willie Classen, the middleweight boxer who suffered severe head injuries in a bout Friday night, remained in critical condition yesterday, a Bellevue Hospital spokeswoman said.

The 29-year-old Classen reportedly suffered a hemorrhage in a network of arteries between the brain and the dura, the lining around the brain. He fell from the ring backwards through the middle ropes and onto the apron of the ring in the final round of his 10-rounder against Houston's Wilford Scypion at Madison Square Garden's Felt Forum.

Observers said that after two knockdowns — one in the third round and one in the ninth — Classen did not appear to have heard the bell signaling the 10th round. He did not raise his gloves, and Scypion finished him off with two rights with the round just 12 seconds old.

The TOC has a GREAT Happy Hour 4-6 Mon.-Fri.

BAGEL DELI
Best in the Valley for:
•whole wheat pastries
•lox & eggs
•blintzes & potato pancakes
•fresh bagels
•omlettes
•frozen yogurt
28 Pleasant St. Northampton

Christmas Hours: Hampshire Mall (Hadley); Holyoke Mall (Ingleside); Mon. Sat. 10 A.M.-10 P.M. All Stores Open Sundays 12-5 P.M.

Eagles humiliate gridders, 41-3

By GEORGE O'BRIEN
Collegian Staff

Freshman halfback Shelby Gamble rushed for three touchdowns and quarterback John Loughery scored one and passed for two more to pace the Boston College Eagles to a 41-3 rout over UMass before 28,500 fans at Alumni Stadium in Chestnut Hill.

The game was the season finale for the Minutemen, who finish up the season with a 6-4 record after losing three of their last four games. Boston College, 4-6, will wind up its season next week on the road against Holy Cross.

A look at the final score does not really tell the whole story of this contest because the Minutemen played much better than 41-3 would indicate. The Minutemen led 3-0 after the first quarter and were trailing only 14-3 at halftime. It was a series of mistakes and missed opportunities early in the game and 21 third quarter points by the Eagles decided the game.

In the first quarter the Minutemen dominated the game on both sides of the ball. They drove the ball well in the first half and the defensive line, sparked by the inspired play of end George Lewis, shut down the BC offense.

On their first possession, the Minutemen drove from midfield down to the BC six yard line. They failed to punch it in, however, and had to settle for three points on a 24-yard field goal by Sandro Vitiello. It was the 13th field goal of the year for Vitiello and the 29th of his tremendous UMass career.

For the Minutemen the remainder of the first half was a succession of mistakes and missed scoring opportunities that eventually cost them the game.

A clipping penalty with UMass on the BC 25 took the Minutemen out of one drive, a Mike Mayock interception on the BC 32 ended another threat, and a fumble by quarterback Mike McEvilly on the BC 21 thwarted a third.

Meanwhile, the Eagles were making good use of the big play to take a 14-3 halftime lead and control of the game.

After taking a punt on their own 44 yard line, BC scored on first down when Loughery (five of 11 for 155 yards) hit split end Rob Rikard, who was all by himself down the left sideline, with a 56 yard bomb to put the Eagles in front. BC faked the kick on the PAT and Mayock threw to Jim Budness for two points and an 8-3 lead.

The Loughery to Rikard connection worked again for the Eagles later in the quarter. After a fumble recovery gave BC the ball on its own 23, Loughery hooked up with Rikard (four catches for 146 yards) for a 52 yard gain and a first down at the UMass 23. One play later, Gamble went around left end and ran 16 yards for a touchdown. The two-point conversion failed and it was 14-3 at the half.

In the third quarter UMass was ruined by poor field position and a dogged BC defense. McEvilly, who went 12-29 for 99 yards with two interceptions in his final UMass game was pressured heavily and was unable to sustain a drive. The Minutemen were held to but two first downs in the quarter and could advance the ball no further than the BC 48.

BC, on the other hand, had a tremendous quarter of offense. The Eagles rushed for 172 yards in the second half, had 234 yards of total offense, and scored TD's on four consecutive possessions. The Eagles made good use of their size and superior team speed and were able to move the ball at will.

On BC's first possession of the quarter Loughery connected with Rikard again, this time for a 22 yard touchdown pass to make it 21-3.

Gamble, who led all rushers with 83 yards, picked up 45 of them in the second half and scored the fourth and fifth BC touchdowns on runs of 11 and 17 yards to bust it wide open at 35-7 after three quarters.

On the second play of the fourth quarter, BC's Joe Ferraro blocked a Tim Fontaine punt and the Eagles took over on the UMass 41. Five plays later, Loughery romped down the left sideline for 30 yards and the final touchdown of the day making it 41-3.

Boston College fullback Dan Conway (34) blasts through the UMass defensive line during Saturday's 41-3 pounding of the Minutemen. (Staff photo by Pat McCarthy)

Staff meeting

There will be a staff meeting tonight for all beat reporters to select the athlete of the week award. The meeting will be at the sports desk at 5:00. Also candidates night for elections to the new board of directors for next semester will be held tomorrow night at 7:30 in CC 162. If you want to meet the new sports editor, show up.

Collegian Sports

Wide receiver Lou Piccone of the Buffalo Bills holds the ball aloft after catching an 11-yard touchdown pass with only 18 seconds remaining in yesterday's New England-Buffalo NFL contest. The score forced the game into overtime where the Bills downed the Patriots 16-13 to deal New England a cruel blow to its division title hopes. (AP Laserphoto)

Pats lose to Bills in OT

By DAVE O'HARA
Associated Press

FOXBORO, Mass. — Nick Mike-Mayer, set up on a 51-yard pass from Joe Ferguson to Jerry Butler, booted a 29-yard field goal at 9:15 of overtime Sunday as the Buffalo Bills shocked the New England Patriots 16-13 in a National Football League upset.

Ferguson forced the overtime by passing 11 yards to wide receiver Lou Piccone for a touchdown with 11 seconds remaining in regulation.

The victory was Buffalo's third in a row, and avenged a loss at home to the Patriots while boosting its record to 7-6.

The loss was a bitter blow to the Patriots, 8-5. A victory would have given them a shot at clinching the AFC East Division championship with a triumph in Miami Thursday night.

Ferguson caught the New England defense by surprise after the Patriots failed on a fourth down gamble at the Buffalo 22. Steve Grogan's flip pass intended for Don Calhoun was intercepted by rookie Jim Haslett who returned the ball 12 yards to his 42.

Ferguson failed to connect on a pass and Buffalo was detected in motion and penalized to its 37. Ferguson then lobbed a long pass to Butler who tipped the ball at the New England 22 and raced to the 12.

That was all Mike-Mayer needed for his third field goal of the game. He connected on a 29 yard kick, tying the score 3-3 as the first half ended and then booted a 26 yarder late in the third period.

Grogan got New England's sluggish offense going and completed two key third down passes, setting up a 1 yard touchdown for himself.

MASSACHUSETTS DAILY VOLUME CIX, ISSUE 56 Tuesday, November 27, 1979

Collegian

1979, Massachusetts Daily Collegian

Student Newspaper of the University of Massachusetts/Amherst, Ma. 01003 (413)545-3500

Communists cause debate on campus

By JIM MORAN
Collegian Staff

Two members of the UMass Revolutionary Communist Youth Brigade, standing in front of the Student Union Building yesterday, handed out leaflets supporting the Iranian seizure of the United States embassy -- evoking pro-American sentiment from bystanders.

The students, giving their names only as Debbie and Ellen, expressed their philosophy, in front of a backdrop reading: "US Imperialism, Keep Your Bloody Hands Off Iran." The banner was torn down by one unidentified female student. The protest attracted about 40 bystanders, most of them expressing disagreement with the communists' views.

"We don't support imperialism and the United States has been exploiting the people of Iran since 1953," Ellen said. One student onlooker countered, "Our obligation is to protect them (the hostages) and that international law has been violated by the Iranians."

"One side has been sensationalized by the ruling class media," Ellen responded.

When asked if the Shah, Mohammad Reza Pahlavi, should be returned in light of America's tradition of being a land of refuge for dissidents, Ellen said, "I don't think we have freedoms in this country. As the situation heats up, you're going to see more attacks on the left." She cited the assault and murder of civil rights activists by members of the Ku Klux Klan in Greensboro, North Carolina last month as an example of the stifling of left-wing activists. Another student responded, "But those individuals are going to jail for their violent actions."

The other communist student, Debbie, said the Shah should be returned in light of "atrocities" his regime committed, "which have been factually substantiated," she said. When asked if Ayatollah Khomeini was not oppressing homosexuals, women and other citizens who disagreed with the new order in Iran, Debbie responded, "Khomeini is not the Shah, but in continuing the revolution in Iran the people will eventually rise up against him, too, and we should support them."

Both students warned of the potential for involvement of US students in war over Third World nations within the next decade. Debbie said the solution to the current Iranian crisis could only be found if the United States returned the Shah.

TURN TO PAGE 4

IRAN

Khomeini calls for military preparation

By ALEX EFTY
Associated Press

TEHRAN, Iran — Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini raged against the United States yesterday and told his followers all Iranians must learn to handle weapons, drop their divisive arguments and unite with all their might against America or "we will disappear for good."

As attempts to solve the U.S.-Iranian crisis got under way at the United Nations in New York, Khomeini broadcast a speech from his headquarters at the holy city of Qom to revolutionary guards, asking that they mobilize against the "Satanic" power of America.

And 100 miles away, in Tehran, the 49 American hostages that are his price for return of the deposed Shah Mohammad Reza Pahlavi spent their 23rd day as captives in Tehran's U.S. Embassy.

"An Islamic country ought to be a military one ... Everyone must learn shooting and military skills ... In addition to the religious equipment and faith that (the youth of our nation) possess, they must also be equipped with materials and arms ... A country that will have 20 million youths in a few years time, should have 20 million armed men," the Moslem patriarch said on Tehran radio, monitored in London.

Shortly afterward, the radio broadcast a statement from the guards' central headquarters saying it had formulated a nationwide program of military training for all which would be explained in further announcements.

Religious fervor heightened as Moslem leaders called for demonstrations and again alleged United States responsibility for invasion of the Grand Mosque, Islam's holiest shrine in Mecca, Saudi Arabia.

Thousands gathered in an unusual night demonstration outside the occupied embassy, listening attentively to speeches then, on cue, bursting into deafening chants denouncing the U.S. government. Many wore white mourning shrouds signifying their readiness to die for Islam. "Death to Carter, death to the Shah," they shouted.

The embassy has become a place of pilgrimage for thousands of devout Moslems who travel there from all over Iran to denounce "infidel America" in response to the appeals of Khomeini and other religious leaders.

The hostages, held inside the embassy buildings since militants took it over Nov.4 and demanded the shah be extradited from New York, where he is undergoing cancer treatment, have had their first American visitor.

Rep. George Hansen, R-Idaho, described them as well but worried after a brief visit with 20 of them on Sunday.

Everyone must learn shooting and military skills. In addition to religious faith, Iranians must also be equipped with materials and arms.
—Khomeini

The congressman, here on a personal mission to solve the stalemate, does not have the Carter administration's approval, and White House press secretary Jody Powell said yesterday that Hansen's independent negotiations could prolong the holding of the hostages.

Powell said the administration opposes the mission and expressed concern that the Iranians might misinterpret Hansen's statements as an administration signal, giving a "conflicting view."

An unidentified student makes a point to a woman indentified as Ellen—a member of the Revolutionary Communist Youth Brigade, a group which sponsored yesterday's pro-Iranian demonstration in front of the Student Union Building. (Staff photo by Jim Mahoney)

Air crash kills 146 Moslems

JIDDA, Saudi Arabia (AP)—Rescue workers found no survivors in the scattered wreckage of a Pakistani jetliner that caught fire and crashed yesterday. It was taking 146 passengers home from a pilgrimage to the Moslem holy city of Mecca.

A Pakistani International Airlines spokesman in Karachi said the Boeing 707 also carried 11 crew members.

Sheik Abdullah Mahdi, chairman of the Saudi Civil Aviation Authority, said the plane crashed 65 miles due east of the Red Sea port of Jidda, and the wreckage was spread over a three-square mile area 65 miles north of Mecca.

Food distributor sues fraternities, sororities

By MARK L. CURELOP
Collegian Staff

A Springfield wholesale distributor is sueing 11 UMass fraternities and sororities because of alleged failure to pay a $32,441 debt according to a Nov. 17 Amherst Record article.

The debt was incurred under the defunct Fraternity Management Association, a student-run co-op that served as a distributor of food, fuel, and paper products to member fraternities and sororities. The association also oversaw the billing of these supplies.

Operating since the early 1960's, the co-op closed in 1978 when a debt totalling over $5,000 could not be paid by the association to their supply distributors.

The association was a private, non-profit group, independent of the campus. Its daily operations were managed by Joseph Sexton of Turner Falls who had to resign in May 1978 due to health problems.

Of the association, administrators in 1978 said, according to a May 17, 1978 Collegian article, "the co-op for the last few years was managed by Sexton in a personal, informal fashion; shuffling monies around to pay for sudden expenses. ...While Sexton's management practices were apparently successful, once the back problems kept him out of work, the records became disorganized and many businesses were not paid for services to the co-op.

Director of Greek Affairs, ex-officio member, Shannon Ellis said "The university lawyer was contacted, not me," regarding payment of the $32,441 debt to Arnold's Frozen Foods. "We've been totally removed from this end," she said.

When asked if any of the financial records were on hand to compare the debts with Arnold's records, Ellis said, "What books we have are now non-existent. It is impossible to rectify the financial statements. Some houses say they paid once, or even twice."

Richard Howland, an Amherst attorney for Arnold's, could not be reached for comment yesterday, nor could the University lawyer Sid Myers who works in Chancellor Henry C. Koffler's office.

DIGEST

It was a year ago today that former supervisor Dan White walked into the San Francisco's City Hall and shot Mayor George Moscone and Supervisor Harvey Milk, left, the city's first openly homosexual official. White was found guilty of voluntary manslaughter. (AP Laserphoto)

Israelis reconsider West Bank

JERUSALEM — Israeli spokesmen, signaling a shift in attitude, said yesterday the government would reconsider the expulsion of Nablus Mayor Bassam Shakaa in exchange for a statement by him against terrorism and his voluntary resignation from office.

A military review board which was to hear Shakaa's appeal against the expulsion order postponed its meeting for the second time to allow quiet contacts to continue.

Israeli sources said consultations among Prime Minister Menachem Begin's Cabinet on Sunday produced an agreement to explore the feelers put out by Arab mayors on Shakaa's behalf.

It was still unclear if a compromise could be reached between the government's insistence that Shakaa be deposed as mayor and Shakaa's refusal to step aside, sources said.

Shakaa was arrested Nov. 11 and his deportation ispending following a discussion he held with a top army officer in which he allegedly condoned Arab terrorism.

Detectors miss hijacker's knife

EL PASO, Texas — The man who commandeered an American Airlines jet apparently slipped his knife past a security force put on alert by the trouble in Iran, a Federal Aviation Administration official said yesterday.

Authorities said Gerald James Hill Jr., 18, of Chester, Mass., armed with a knife, commandeered the jet just before it landed here Saturday on a flight from San Antonio. Hill, who demanded to be taken to Iran, was overpowered by FBI agents and taken into custody.

Charged with armed interference with a flight crew, Hill appeared at a hearing in federal court yesterday. His bond was ordered kept at $500,000 and he was assigned a court-appointed defense attorney. Another hearing was set for Thursday.

Hill's attorney, John Langford, said he has asked for a court-ordered psychiatric evaluation of his client and a delay of Thursday's hearing.

'Local call' areas to expand

BOSTON(AP)— Massachusetts telephone users who are tired of calling long-distance to numbers only a short distance away have won a concession from Ma Bell.

All the telephone customers are to be offered the option of an expanded territory for "local" calls, under an order announced yesterday by the state Department of Public Utilities.

The order broadens and makes permanent an experimental service offered by the New England Telephone Co. in Sudbury and other areas for the past three years.

Under the new arrangement, customers will be able to make toll-free calls to a larger territory than under the minimum basic monthly service charge.

The Massachusetts Daily Collegian (USPS 333 220) is published daily Monday through Friday excluding January, June, July, and August, for $15 at 113 Campus Center, University of Massachusetts, Amherst, MA 01003. Second class postage paid at Amherst, Mass. Postmaster: Send address changes to Massachusetts Daily Collegian, 113 Campus Center, University of Massachusetts, Amherst, MA 01003

Supreme Court may tackle welfare abortions question

By RICHARD CARELLI
Associated Press

WASHINGTON — The Supreme Court said yesterday it may decide whether Congress can refuse to pay for most abortions wanted by women on welfare.

Once again taking up one of the nation's most divisive legal and social topics, the court agreed to hear arguments over the constitutionality of the abortion-spending restriction.

But the justices left themselves an escape route. First they will have to decide they have the proper jurisdiction before ruling on the constitutional question.

Arguments likely will be heard this winter and a decision announced sometime before the end of the court term in June.

Attached to the budget for the Department of Health, Education and Welfare, the socalled Hyde amendment was first passed by Congress in 1976. Various versions of it have been enacted for each fiscal year since then.

The court will study the Hyde amendment passed for fiscal year 1978, which bars Medicaid spending for abortions unless a woman's life would be endangered by childbirth, in cases of promptly reported rape or incest, or when two doctors say childbirth would cause "severe and long-lasting physical health damages to the mother."

Congress earlier this month agreed on a new and more restrictive spending ban for fiscal year 1979, eliminating the "severe and long-lasting physical health damages" exemption.

A federal judge in Chicago last April struck down the spending restriction — both the Hyde amendment and the Illinois law patterned after it — as unconstitutional.

U.S. District Judge John Grady ruled that Illinois must make Medicaid money available for all "medically necessary" abortions until a fetus reaches the point where it can survive outside the mother.

Just when that viability occurs varies in individual cases. But it usually is sometime between the pregnancy's 20th and 30th weeks.

In three separate appeals, the Carter administration, Illinois and two doctors representing the Americans United for Life Legal Defense Fund are urging the court to overturn Grady's ruling.

"In forbidding the use of federal funds for any abortions other than those in certain limited categories, Congress was motivated by two legitimate concerns: the desire to encourage normal childbirth and to protect the potentiality of human life, and the desire to avoid spending tax revenues to support an activity that many taxpayers find morally repugnant," Justice Department lawyers argued.

Three American women who live in Iran gave a press conference in Tehran today in which they supported the seizure of the US embassy and hostages by armed students. They said they thought the hostages should be tried. They are, left to right, Molly McComb of Los Angeles; Mariam Kazemi of New York City and Margaret Hunter of Atlanta. (AP Laserphoto)

Find it all in Collegian Classifieds.

MASSACHUSETTS DAILY Collegian

STAFF MEETING

—interview and listen to candidates for Spring Board of Directors
Tuesday, November 27
7:30 CC 162

QUICK Copy and Typing inc.

"Quality at a price you can afford"

*Copying
*Offset
*Thermography
*Binding
*Word processing
*Typing
*Executive secretarial services

If you can find a lower price for comparable service we will refund the difference to you.

The Carriage Shops
Amherst
549-0557
master charge
visa
Hours M-F 9-8
Sat 10-5
or by appt.

Live entertainment with STEVE SPELMAN

the Hungry I

Tuesday
Nov. 27 9-12

NO COVER
50c DRAFT BEERS

549-5713
55 University Drive

Dorm security to require I.D.

By VICTORIA JONES
Collegian Staff

Students will no longer be able to walk freely into dorms starting Friday. The need for greater security dictated a new Residential Hall Guest Policy, said Marge Lenn of the Residential Management.

Student security guards will be on duty from 5 p.m. to 2 a.m. Sundays through Thursdays, and 5 p.m. to 3 a.m. Fridays and Saturdays, Lenn said. All guests will have to register with security upon entering and leaving the dorm, she said. Security has the right to refuse entry to guests, and no more than two guests will be allowed overnight per resident, she said.

This policy was designed by a student and administrative committee to curb campus damage and violence, Lenn said. While this mandate is campus-wide and enforced by police, individual residential area officials have the right to add to the policy.

Students interviewed said a problem in the policy is a regulation that guests must show identification to guards. If the guest does not comply, Lenn said, the police will be called, and a $25 fine will be levied. However, because a guest is defined as anyone not a legal resident of the dorm, any non-dorm resident visiting a dorm will be required to show an ID.

Lenn said that with any new campus-wide policy there are bound to be problems, but committee members say they are sure the policy will be implemented effectively in a short time.

After showing an ID, guests will be required to sign in and have their host come down and get them, Lenn said. Although this is a time-consuming process, Lenn said, it has been in effect in Southwest since the beginning of the semester and has been successful in alleviated vandalism. Heads of Ressidences, floor counselors and administrators will have special identification to ensure quick dorm entry, Lenn said.

Lenn said this policy was not instituted to thwart legal guests, but to readily identify visitors in dorms.

Open meeting offers students info on library

The reference department of the UMass library in the Goodell Building is sponsoring an information session Friday afternoon for students to "help them get the most out of the library" as the semester draws to a close, reference librarian Paula Marks said yesterday.

The session, scheduled for 2:30 p.m. in Bartlett Auditorium, is to assist students who may be having problems with library-based assignments since they are unfamiliar with the renovated Goodell Library. Marks said she has spoken to about 1,500 students in classes since September.

UMass Chancellor Henry C. Koffler closed the main library days before classes began this semester and the Goodell Library opened in mid-October.

Marks said when the main library opens in early December for limited use, more information sessions may be needed. Meanwhile, a memorandum has been sent across campus updating the library situation. She said the memo is available at Goodell.

The following is some of the information contained in the memo:

Most of the reference collection is now on the fifth floor of Goodell, as well as 60,000 of the most frequently circulated books on the fifth and sixth floors. All current periodicals are on the fifth floor, and 1200 of frequently used ones dating back to 1965 are on Floor 2, and 150 titles in microform are on floor 4. The complete collection of microfilm, microfiche and microprint materials are on the fourth floor.

Most of the law collection is now on the second floor and about half of the documents collection, including the most frequently used are on the fourth floor. Current newspapers are available in room 506. College catalogues are available in microfiche. The reserve and audiovisual reserves are in room 615.

Books not in Goodell may be requested at the paging desk section next to the circulation desk on the fifth floor lobby entrance. Call numbers and authors/titles are needed to page a book still housed in the main library.

The memo also states there are about 500 study spaces in the building on Floors 2, 5, and 6. Two public pay phones have been installed as well as copiers on the 4th, 5th and 6th floors, although there is not a change machine.

This often-travelled foot bridge on South Pleasant Street was empty over the Thanksgiving Weekend. (Staff photo by Jim Mahoney)

Selectmen hear energy measures

By SEAN HARVEY
Collegian Staff

The Amherst Board of Selectmen last night heard a presentation from a member of the Energy Conservation Analysis Project calling for implementation of measures to save fuel costs in ten Amherst public buildings this winter.

Project member Douglas Alderman presented a report to the selectmen recommending energy conservation in Town Hall and nine other buildings. Alderman outlined three ways to cut energy costs. The first would include no-cost measures such as turning down thermostats and turning off lights. The second calls for low-cost improvements that should pay for themselves through decreased fuel bills, such such as putting in weatherstripping around doors and windows. The third would include costly outlay measures that must be appropriated by the selectmen. These would make energy-saving improvements which would eventually pay for themselves, such as storm windows.

"I would say in the order of 25 percent of total energy usage for these 10 buildings could be saved if these measures are implemented," Alderman said.

The first two measures will be implemented in town hall shortly, said Alderman, who told the group he made a "walk-through energy audit report" of the building to determine energy-saving methods. He said approximately $5,500 in fuel bills could be saved through the implementation of these measures.

Alderman said he would have the energy audits of the other nine buildings finished by the end of December. Those buildings include the North and Central Fire Stations, the Munson and North Amherst Libraries and the Bangs Communit, Center.

Interests unite students

Corridors offer varied resources

By PHILIP TURESKY
Collegian Staff

When choosing rooms this week students will have special interest corridors as an alternative.

"Special interest corridors try to provide for students socially and academically in a way that other dorms can't," said Kevin George a member of the Student Center for Educational Research and Advocacy Residential Life Team.

By residential area, special corridors or programs offered are:

Southwest Residential Area: Moore House = social awareness programs, computer terminals. Pierpont = possible social awareness and Transcendental Meditation corridor. Coolidge = large library, Third World center. George Washington lower = one floor 24-hour study. Patterson = handicapped renovations, business orientation. Thoreau = social awareness programs. Melville = all women, Third World Corridor JFK lower = community building. JFK middle = all men, music oriented. JFK upper = social awareness programs. Emerson = all women, social awareness programs, women's library, women's health issues.

-Northeast Residential Area: MaryLyon = all women. Thatcher = all men, strong intramural participation.

-Central Residential Area: Butterfield = extensive art/craft facilities. Brett = social awareness floor, renovated for handicapped.

-Orchard Hill: Field = German corridor, computer terminal. Grayson = computer terminal.

Head of residences from the Sylvan Residential Area noted that students who cannot find enough people for a special interest corridor could form special interest suites in one of the three dormitories in the Sylvan Area.

Coolidge tower is now operating under a "whole tower concept" with both houses in the tower cooperating in various programs.

The above list was compiled by the SCERA team.

Many of the corridors are for social purposes, but some, such as the French and German, are backed by academic deans and also sponsor colloquium, George said. In the past, many of the corridors were formed after a group of students with a common interest signed up for rooms on the same floor, George said. The SCERA team is currently organizing corridors by providing students with information on those available.

Part of the difficulty in organizing the corridors, George said, is getting students to commit themselves to living on one and getting involved in corridor activities. Dorm official

TURN TO PAG

A wood pile on the property of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Kidd of Hardwick, Mass. seemed like an ideal vantage point from which a cat observes this pastoral scene. (Staff photo by Jim Mahoney)

Support offered for children of holocaust Jews

A support group for children of the WW II Jewish holocaust survivors has formed in the Amherst area and group spokesperson, Judy Kopman, herself a child of the holocaust survivors, would like to see the already existing group expand.

Kopman said the group meets to share experiences in dealing with their common background and to discuss the meaning of the holocaust in relation to their present lives.

Kopman said the idea for the group came as a result of the International Children of the Holocaust conference held in New York City in early November in which she participated.

The group facilitator is Dr. Alan Liebman, an Amherst psychologist, Kopman said. She said she believes some people may be frightened away by the seemingly psychological set-up. "While being theraputic, it is not therapy," she added.

The group is trying to contact other children of the holocaust survivors in the area, she said. She has talked with Rabbi Saul Perlmutter of the UMass Hillel about organizing the group.

--JOSHUA SPELVIN
Special to the Collegian

★ Corridors

CONT. FROM PAGE 3

are unwilling to allocate part of their budgets to corridors either because too few people are interested or those involved are apathetic, George said. Instead, he said, dorms use most of their budgets for security.

Some special interest corridors or potential special corridors have suffered from lack of funds, George said. An arts and crafts corridor never got started because funding could not be obtained, he said. Other corridors have been limited in their programming both socially and academically because of this lack, he said.

Students interested in signing up for a special interest corridor may do so today through Dec. 7, on their housing preference forms. For more information, contact George at SCERA, room 422 in the Student Union Building.

Got something on your mind? Why not let 25,000 other people know by writing a letter to the Collegian?

★ Debate

CONT. FROM PAGE 1

The students were asked why they, and not Iranian students, were speaking on campus of the Iranian situation. "They'd be crazy to come out in public after what happened to them at Northeastern University and Springfield. We have to get U.S. students to support them."

Debbie was then asked if she saw anti-Jewish leaflets handed out by the UMass Iranian Muslim Association last month in the Campus Center. "Yes," she answered, adding, "We don't support that kind of racism. We don't equate Zionism with Judaism. Zionists are just as racist and are part of the Israeli ruling class who have been supported by British and United States capitalist interests."

Join Us for Breakfast
at the
TOC Restaurant
7:00 A.M.-9:00 A.M.
Monday-Friday

PRECISION HAIRCUTS

Includes:
FIRST—a professional consultation
SECOND—a precision style cut selected individually just for you
THIRD—our stylists will show you how to take care of your hair
All for $5.50
with this coupon only
With personal style cut, shampoo and blow dry $8.00, long hair slightly more.
With this coupon only,
limited to new customers only
Try our special deluxe
FACIAL TREATMENT
now $8. reg.$12
Styles by Deborah I & II
65 University Dr. Amherst, MA 549-5610
Hirmack
62 Main St. Easthampton, MA 527-2411

SNOW TIRES SAVE ½
Firestone Retreads have the same width, depth, design and rubber as new tires —only at ½ the cost.
FREE replacement if they EVER fail for ANY reason.
Regular $15.00 up
Radials $19.50 up
exchange plus tax
LEON'S TIRES
291 FEDERAL STREET
(next to McDonald's)
GREENFIELD, 773-8315

Physics 119 (E) No prerequisites
Schedule #562876
Arms Policy and National Insecurity
SALT, MIRV, cruise missles, MX, ABM,. . .
How serious is the threat of nuclear war?
MW 2:30-3:45, Has. 124,
Prof. Kalkstein, 545-0844

THE WOK
Chinese Home Style Cooking
AMPLE PARKING
LUNCHEON & DINNER SPECIALS
COMPLETE TAKE-OUT MENU
COCKTAIL LOUNGE
MON. - THURS. 11:30 AM - 10 PM • FRI. & SAT. 11:30 AM TO 12:00 PM
SUN. & HOLIDAYS 1 PM TO 10 PM • LUNCHEONS 11:30 AM - 3 PM
EXCEPT HOLIDAYS
46 RUSSELL ST. HADLEY
Call 586-1202
1st Anniversry
at the New Location
Dinner Special on every Monday, Tuesday, and Wednesday at 3:00 p.m. to 10:00 p.m. 15 choices of Beef, Chicken, Seafood & Fried Rice & a bottle of beer.
For Only $3.99

LAST CHANCE
TO SIGN UP FOR THE
SUGARBUSH SKI & PARTY WEEK
AT SUGARBUSH & SUGARBUSH NORTH
LODGE - $135 INCLUDES
*MEALS
*LODGING
*5½ day LIFT TICKET
*BEER SLALOMS
CONDO - $125
*MEALS EXCLUDED
*LODGING
*5½ day LIFT TICKET
*BEER SLALOMS
UMASS SKI CLUB
TUES 27
THURS 29
FRI 30
9 A.M.-3 P.M. CC. CONCOURSE

Editorial/Opinion

Thus spoke...

Then there was a guy in the hospital who would have been king, if...

Elved Owens

In the beginning, for the sake of argument, there was the West and it was sore afraid of heathens from the East. So it said to the shah: "Go ye forth and build a strong nation, and build it in our image, for it is good, and we shall help you build a mighty army so that the heathens shall not come to spoil your corn, rape your womenfolk and steal your oil." And the shah was saying, "What?" and the West said, "Just leave it to us."

And so the shah went forth and made his nation strong, and in the image of the West, and he saw that it was good. But the people grew troublesome, saying: "We have made it in the image of the West for the West fears the heathens from the East and covets our oil. Lest it be invaded it has invaded us by making it in its image. Should we not fear invaders, too?" But the shah spoke saying: "This is how it must be. The old ways will not find us our oil or build our army or make our cities strong and wealthy." And when the people grew troublesome the shah punished them exceedingly hard, and they were afraid.

And it was at this time that a man called Khomeini rose up against the shah and cursed him mightily for abandoning the old ways, whereupon the shah banished him to the North, saying: "Be gone, mad priest. Ye are out of touch." And the shah turned again to the West and said, "The mad priest is out of touch, is he not?" and the West said: "He is. Fear not, but be wary for the heathens of the East are full of tricks." And the shah took comfort in this, for his people were still troubled and he punished them hard.

And the time passed until the people would take no more and they said to the shah: "You have brought us the new ways which we do not want and when we have cried out you have punished us exceedingly hard," and they called to Khomeini from the North (who was a man of the old ways) that he might help them. Now at this the shah was much taken aback and he said to his people: "Did I not make you strong? Did I not bring you treasures of the West like concrete and disco?" But the people did not listen. And the shah turned to the West and said: "Did I not do all that you asked of me? Will you not help me?" And the West said, "All your people have turned against you. There is nothing we can do. Thou art on your own, Jack." So the shah fled to the West; and he understood nothing and grew ill.

And Khomeini was brought from the North and the people were exceedingly jubilant for he had brought down the shah. And truly they thought he was a man of God, and he promised them the old ways and swore vengeance against the West. And when the people questioned him he said: "Why do you question me? Did I not bring down the shah?" until none but men from the West questioned him. And to them he said: "The West sought to destroy the old ways for its own ends; it stood by as the shah punished the people exceedingly hard, and it has given the shah refuge."

And some of them were ashamed, and put ash on their heads and cried: "We have done grievious wrong." But others continued to question, saying: "And how will you govern this land?" to which Khomeini once more replied, "Did I not bring down the shah?" And returning home in darkness they feared that much blood and many tears would flow before the real answer to their question would be known.

Elved Owens is a Collegian columnist.

Readers write:

Fishing for bodies off the coast of Thailand

Staff photo by Judy Weiss

To the Editor:

Fishermen of Thailand are afraid to cast their nets off the eastern gulf shores. Too often their catches have contained more human remains than fish.

Near Malaysia, in one incident alone, over 100 Vietnamese perished when their boat capsized in the violent and deep waters. Fleeing their homeland and its communist victors, the refugees never had a chance.

Americans, who abandoned Saigon during her final nightmare, continue to operate vast resettlement programs, but many U.S. citizens remain unmoved by the refugees' plight, and want the flow of Orientals to stop. The fact that 140,000 men, women and children have died trying to escape South Vietnam since its surrender in 1975 seems to fall on deaf ears.

Authorities in Hong Kong have stiffened their penalties aimed at "refugee racketeers" who, for $500 a boatload, had been sneaking the Vietnamese into Hong Kong harbor. (Coming from a country where the average school teacher makes $28 a month, this amount is a king's ransom.) Now ships' captains are unloading their human cargoes at sea and paying the owners of Chinese fishing boats large sums of money to smuggle the refugees onto the already overcrowded island.

To compound the problems and confusion, over 400,000 refugees have poured into Vietnam from Laos and Cambodia during the last three years.

The red pot of gold at the end of the communist rainbow has mysteriously failed to appear. What has become of the promises—promises fueled by American war protesters—for a better life under northern rule?

Though embarrassed at the defeat of the "greatest" country on earth by guerillas in Vietnam, American politicians continue to develop deceptive balance-of-power concepts that must eventually lead to the domino-downfall of a free Asia.

The going rate for bribing your way out of Ho-Chi-Minh City? Two thousand U.S. dollars for an adult, half that for a child. A high price that families, exhausted by nearly 40 years of fighting, gladly pay for the prospects of peace and freedom—only to drift aimlessly across the sea, a people without a country. The communists outlawed maps, compasses and navigational aids long ago, and this additional torture lends itself to endless confusion as the Vietnamese search for another home.

Tourists skimming along the waves in their hydra-boat, on the way to Macao for an evening of gambling, were shocked to see the body of a dead infant thrown from the deck of a listing freighter into the murky water. Some of the tounists snapped pictures for their scrapbooks back home, and their ship continued unabashed on its cruise.

Even former Viet Cong leaders have found the communists from the north to be vicious liars. The population of Saigon's Chi Hoa Prison, once heavily criticized by outsiders for its abject squalor and overcrowding, has multiplied five times under communist supervision. Former protesters like singer Joan Baez and poet Allen Ginsberg have been turned away by the Vietnamese authorities. Hanoi no longer listens to them.

There was once an American actress who trouped across Laos and North Vietnam, pointing an accusing finger at our POW's and lecturing to news media and all who would listen on the evils of the imperialist running dogs of the U.S.A. Oh, how lovely it would be, she promised, if the South Vietnamese people would open their arms to their brothers in Hanoi! The communists, keeping a low profile, sat back and grinned at the actress, leaving all the work to their new support. Thousands have died, and the final chapters of the city of sorrow have yet to be written...

Where are you now, Jane Fonda?

Paul Withers
Joe Collins
V.F.

IT PAYS TO MIDASIZE

If you need a brake job, try to stop at Midas

MIDASIZE YOUR BRAKES

And never again buy new pads or linings as long as you own your car.

Once our professionals reapir your brakes, you'll never have to buy new pads or linings as long as you own your car. If they become defective, they will be replaced absolutely free in any one of the 1000 Midas shops around the world.

THE LOW COST WAY TO END IMPORT CAR SHAKES

McPherson Strut Cartridges Installed The Midas Way

$119.95

MIDAS GUARANTEES FOREIGN CAR MUFFLERS

HONORED IN EVERY STATE AS LONG AS YOU OWN YOUR CAR.

The Midas Muffler that we install on your American or foreign car is guaranteed in writing for as long as you own the car. If anything goes wrong, even if it just wears out, any Midas shop will replace the muffler, free of charge.

143 King St. Northampton

MIDAS®

586-4840

Mon.-Fri. 8-5:30

Sat. 8-2:00

ATTENTION SENIORS

All February graduating Seniors who have been awarded a National Direct or Student Nursing loan are required to attend one of the following "Exit Interviews"

Tuesday, November 27, 1979 7 p.m.
or Wednesday, November 28, 1979, 7 p.m.

in the Goessman auditorium. This is a Federal regulation. Failure to comply will result in an Administrative Withdrawal.

APPRENTICE IN NEW YORK WITH TOP PROFESSIONALS FOR CREDIT

If you are a college student preparing for a career in the visual or performing arts, here is a unique opportunity to earn credits while gaining practical work experience as an apprentice to a distinguished New York professional. Join students from over 25 states and 45 colleges who have found the Arts Apprenticeship Program a most enriching and valuable experience. Apprenticeships can be arranged based on individual experience and interest and include:

PAINTING/SCULPTURE/PRINTMAKING/CINEMA
GRAPHIC DESIGN/PHOTOGRAPHY/VIDEO-TELEVISION
MUSEUM-GALLERY WORK/INTERIOR DESIGN/THEATRE

- Discover, up front, how successful professionals function in the most competitive and provocative city in the world.
- Venture beyond the classroom environment to preview your field by actually working in a demanding professional environment.
- Enjoy an exciting semester in New York — arts and communications capital of the world — with its museums, galleries, cinema, theatres.

Apprentice positions available in either the Spring, Summer, or Fall Semesters.
For more information, mail the coupon below or call (212) 741-8975.

Director of Special Programs 24
Parsons School of Design
66 Fifth Avenue, New York, N.Y. 10011
Please send me more information about the Parsons/New School Arts Apprenticeships Program

My area of interest is _____
Name _____
Address _____
City/State/Zip _____

PARSONS SCHOOL OF DESIGN
A Division of the New School

NEED CREDIT? SEND FOR THE CREDIT GAME

- Too young to borrow?
- New in town/no references?
- Erase bad debt records
- Skip bills without ruining credit
- Receive loans within weeks of beginning this program
- Information on updated credit laws and legislation
- Your rights under the Federal Credit Acts

SOLVE ALL THESE CREDIT PROBLEMS with THE CREDIT GAME

"Tired of being without credit, or up to your neck in 'minimum payments'? With this book you will learn how to make the $300 billion credit industry jump at your command."

ONLY $5.95
(N.Y. residents add 8% Sales Tax)

Enclosed is $ _____ for _____ Books
Name _____
Address _____
City _____ State _____ Zip _____
Allow 3 weeks for delivery.

Send Check or Money Order to WALL STREET PUBLISHING CO. 303 5TH AVE. SUITE 1306 NEW YORK, NY 10016

The Legal Services Office located at Room 922 Campus center has 8 openings for paralegal internships for the Spring, 1980 semester.

General Statement of Paralegal Intern Duties:
Paralegals assist the attorney at the Legal Services Office with initial client interview, investigations, legal research, negotiations, giving legal advice and referral whenever necessary, preparation of court forms and attendance at hearings in the District, Superior and Probate courts of Hampshire and Franklin counties, and participation in administrative hearings and federal litigation. Other duties include the drafting of various legal documents, the writing of letters and making of phone calls on the client's behalf; the maintainance of a continuing-client case load; meeting regularly with supervising attorneys to discuss cases; the attendance at staff meetings for teachins and case strategy; and the assistance in reception duties.

Qualifications for Paralegal Intern Applicants:

1. Applicants must be full time UMass students eligiable for full-time academic credit through an academic department. Legal studies and social science majors are especially encouraged to apply.
2. Prior experience is helpful but not required.
3. A desire to learn and study the field of law.
4. An ability to work and relate well with staff and clients of the Legal services Office which serves a diversified student population.
5. The ability to work with creativity, diligence, and occasionally under high pressure.

If interseted in applying for a paralegal internship position for Spring Semester, 1980, please contact the Office of Internships at the University of Massachusetts, Curry Hicks Bldg, and inquire further at Legal Services Office, 922 Campus Center, ninth floor. Applications are due Friday, November 30, 1979. Writing sample required.

All Third World students and women are encouraged to apply!

Union Records Unlimited

Open Saturday 10 - 5
Weekdays 10 - 5

LED ZEPPELIN SPECIAL
Choose from

Led Zeppelin I Presence
Houses of the Holy
Led Zeppelin II
Stairway to Heaven
Led Zeppelin III

All Specials $4.69 with this ad

Your Student-Run Record Store
201 Student Union 545-0400

Around campus

Support group for rape victims offered at Everywoman's Center

A support group for rape victims will begin meeting December 4 at 7:30 p.m. at Everywoman's Center. The group will meet weekly for ten weeks. For more information call 5-0883.

Student interviews scheduled for vacation jobs at ski areas

Students interested in working at northern ski areas during intersession and weekends can sign up for interviews today through Thursday from 1 to 4 in the Student Employment Office, Room 239-A Whitmore. Students must find their own living accomodations.

Hundreds of UMass students join to support Kennedy

Presidential candidate Sen. Edward M. Kennedy has the support and help of several hundred student members of the Committee to Elect Kennedy, a UMass group.

Michael DeMattia, communications affiliate for the group, said the committee is perhaps the largest such organization at any New England college.

A straw vote poll will be held in the concourse of the campus center December 4, and the following day students will assist in voter registration for Amherst residents DeMattia said.

The committee attended Kennedy's candidacy announcement in Boston and will soon work in anticipation of the Massachusetts primary, he said.

The Committee wil campaign for Kennedy in New Hampshire, a state which holds one of the earliest and most important primaries, DeMattia said. The committee will apply the "canvasssing theory," in which literature and information on the presdiential candidates is made available to the voters prior to the day of the primary, and voters are called and encouraged to vote, he said.

Paul Banks

Domestic violence program to aid both victim and abuser

A new domestic violence program will be implemented December 1 in the Greenfield area as a result of a $90,000 Law Enforcement Assistance Administration grant awarded to the Franklin/Hampshire Community Mental Health Center, District Attorney Thomas G. Simons office announced last week.

Those interested should call Simon's office in Northampton.

The project is a collaborative effort of the Mental Health Center, Simon's office, the New England Learning Center for Women in Transition and the Alcohol Programs of the Franklin County Public Hospital.

"We are excited about this project because it allows us to provide help for both victims and abusers," said Julie Peterson of the Mental Health Center.

The UMass Everywoman's Center will hold a support group in January for women who have been victims of domestic violence. Contact the center in Wilder Hall for details.

Collective bargaining issues to be discussed at workshops

The UMass Center for the Study of Collective Bargaining in Education will hold a national conference on The Impact of Collective Bargaining on the Quality of Education Today on December 2-4 in the Campus Center.

FOR FASHION AND VALUE,

THE BEST IN DESIGNER STYLES AT LOW FACTORY PRICES!

Make the discovery hundreds of area residents have made! Free yourself forever from the high cost of dressing up. The best in nationally advertised brands. Without the fancy mall prices! At Jan's you get the double advantage. Jan's at Lesnow's is a real factory outlet. AND Jan's is a discount outlet for other fine manufacturers throughout the country. Tremendous selection, pleasant surroundings. No crowds, no rush. Come to Jan's. Stretch your fashion dollar twice as far as you believed possible!

DESIGNER
COATS
DRESSES
Slacks-Blouses
Sportswear
Sweaters
Blazers-Jeans
SUITS

UP TO 50% BELOW REGULAR RETAIL!
- All Nationally Advertised Brands!
- All First Quality!
- All Sold Currently For Much, Much More in Department and Specialty Stores!

JAN'S AT LESNOWS

Phone for Easy Directions (413) 527-0782

148 PLEASANT ST., EASTHAMPTON, MASS.

OPEN: Wed., Thurs., Fri. 11 A.M. to 9 P.M.
Sat., Sun. 11 A.M. to 6 P.M.

Richard Dreyfuss
the Big Fix
A UNIVERSAL PICTURE TECHNICOLOR PG
© 1978 UNIVERSAL CITY STUDIOS INC. ALL RIGHTS RESERVED

THURS. NOV. 29 7, 9, 11 p.m. $1.00
MAHAR AUD.
by CC. Program Council

STADIUM
U. Mass. Amherst
LIQUORS

SPECIALS SPECIALS

University Drive
Amherst
10 A.M.-11 P.M.
253-5595

KEGS-BEER-WINE-LIQUORS

BUD 12 oz. btls. or cans..... $7.49 case $2.10 six

MILLER 12 oz. btls. or cans. $7.49 case $2.10 six

OLD MILWAUKEE 12 pack..... $2.89

S.S. PIERCE VODKA 1.75 l..... $7.95

Catch Our Weekly Specials

10 A.M.-11 P.M. 253-5595

SECRET SANTA
Great Gifts - Great Prices
Stocking Stuffers
Hundreds of 25c to $10 items
CARDS Daily 10 am-6 pm Sunday 12-5 pm
THE MERCANTILE
AMHERST CARRIAGE SHOPS

University & Office Supplies
Large Selection of Christmas Cards
A.J. Hastings Inc.
newsdealer & stationer
45 S. Pleasant St., Amherst

To Serve Studying Students the Campus Center will provide food service in THE HATCH CAFETERIA in the evenings
Monday-Friday 5:00 pm-10:00 pm
On a Trial Basis

TUESDAYS
Happy Hour
9 'til 1
with
STEVE SPELLMAN
No Cover
THE PUB
15 East Pleasant St.
AMHERST

The last time you had a hot dog this good, you were either out of town, or smoking something illegal.
The Red Hot Connection

THE GREAT AMERICAN HOT DOG PLACE
Vienna Pure Beef Products
52 Center Street Northampton
586-3306 - Carryout
10% DISCOUNT WITH AD! C-2

Coming soon:
A SALE TO BEAT ALL RECORDS!!!

UNE
Noreste, Admissions
January '80 and August '80 applicants. 4-year fully recognized and established Mexican Medical School, with several hundred American students enrolled. Use English language textbooks and exams in English. School combines quality education, small classes experienced teachers, modern facilities.
Universidad Del Noreste
120 East 41 St., NY, NY 10017
(212) 594-6589 or 232-3784

Collegian Classifieds

To place a Collegian Classified Ad
•Come to Collegian Office (CC 113)
•8:45 to 3:45, Mon. thru Fri.
•Classified deadline is 3:45 two days prior to publication day

Collegian Classified Rates
•15c per word
•Student rate 10c per word
•Cash in advance
•5 consecutive days, 5% discount
•Phone number FREE

AUDIO

Theatrix Rents Mirror balls and other Disco supplies. Lights for sale, new and used 323-7160

McIntosh Amp & Preamp Harmon Kardon Tuner, Dual Turntable Bill - 665-2810

Kenwood Cass Deck KX1030 X cond. 200. 256-6205

AUTO FOR SALE

64 Falcon St. Wgn. runs $100. Rick 253-7634

69 VW Bug body ok, needs valve job, must sell $50 call 586-2496 nites

1974 Toyota Celica exceptional condition $2500 546-9826

1971 Vega 253-9455

ENTERTAINMENT

Good Times—DJ's for hire, disco and/or Rock call 546-4726 or 546-4777

Soundsystem for Hire perfect for bands, discos, coffeehouses Rick 584-4105

Zeta Psi's last party was an event to remember. The band was hot. They're new. They're ready to rock. They're INCOGNITO

for bookings call 586-3924, 546-7120, 546-7815, or 256-6845 (Brian or Charlie)

Tomorrow's the Night - Don't miss the 2nd annual UMass Folk concert in Hampden Theatre in Southwest - 8:1 a.m. - free!

FOR RENT

3 bedroom, tiny house Summer Street in North Amherst. Would like lease taken over starting Jan. Russ 549-6194

FOR SALE

Portrait Drawing Dennis Delap, 256-8732

2 Leather Jackets Walter Dyer Call 253-7103

Full size bed w/frame & headboard. Call evenings 584-5077

Half-fare United coupon 549-5031

Waterless Cookware 20 pc set, great Xmas gift, price reduced until Nov. 30 549-2867

Ski Boots size 11 Kevin 549-4199

Portraits Profile-$7, full face $10, color $20, pets in color $18 Deborah Pompano 549-4634

2 American Airlines ½-price coupons $35 ea. Call 253-7150

Moving selling everything, prices negotiable 584-2586 keep trying

FOUND

Found lots of clay pots Greenough Craft Shop Mon-Thurs 7-10 Sat 12-4

Irish setter male found 11/17 at Franklin DC call Greg at 6-4945 or Hamp Vet Clinic at 549-5800

HELP WANTED

Overseas Jobs—Summer/year round. Europe, S. America, Australia, Asia, etc. All fields, $500-$1,200 monthly, expenses paid. Sightseeing, free information write: IJC, Box 52-MC, Corona Del Mar, CA. 92625

Dorm residents earn$$ helping out THE BAGEL CONNECTION on call 253-5184

Research Assistant needed immediately for humanities project. Work/study student only. Sophisticated, interesting work. Good typing, good head required. Flexible hours. $3.25 per hour. Call Mr. Donohue 545-2329 or 545-0498

Dancers wanted part time or full time exotics go-go earn 300 to 350.00 per week call Linda 413-782-9038

Intersession Employment—engineers & technical majors. Charlie 549-0071 before 9 P.M.

Airline Attendants earn to $25,000 yr! Airworld shows how to pass the interviews! For free info. send 15c stamp to Airworld 161 Box 60129 Sacramento, CA 95860

INSTRUCTION

Tutoring given in Math and Accounting -Roy 549-5360

LEGAL SERVICES

Attorney Jason R. Rosenthal General Practice Legal Representation for the Amherst, Mass community by apt. only days 584-4285 evenings 253-7617

LOST

Lost: small gray kitten, lost in the area of Phillips St., great sentimental value call 549-1869

Generous Reward Diamond Engagement Ring call collect 1-788-4075

Red and Black Plaid Wool Jacket lost at Wheeler coffehouse 11/15 Reward call Greg at 6-4945

"Lost" 2 rings in downstairs bathroom of Music Dept. in FAC on 11/15. Both have great sentimental value! Please return $reward$ no questions asked call Kris at 6-9282 after 10 pm

Reward - Volkswagon hubcap Kevin 1-788-4075

Statistics book in Hasbrouck Room 230 on Tues 11/20 if found please call Jeff at 546-9291

Granny glasses adrk frame. Vicinity Bartlett-Herter, Oct. 5-2332 Reward

PARALEGAL INTERNS WANTED

The Legal Services Office has 8 positions available for full time paralegal interns for Spring, 1980 semester. You can receive up to 15 credits from the Office of Internships located at Curry Hicks. These internships will provide exciting, challenging and rewarding work which will include the learning of many legal skills. Interviewing clients, legal research and maintaining a continuing caseload under the supervision of attorneys. Third World students and women are encouraged to apply. Application forms can be obtained at the Curry Hicks building and additional information obtained at the Legal Services Office in 922 Campus Center, and must be submitted by Friday, November 30, 1979 at the latest.

PERSONALS

Female Musicians Wanted to form band. Into Stones. Devento, Circle Drive, Box 132, Monroe, NY 10950

Anyone interested in tryouts for the Basketball Twirling Squad: Tryouts will be at the end of Nov. Call Wendy at 6-6175 for more information

Waterbed 3 months old, 6 drawer base, must sell, new 365 SAC 275 256-6205

Greenough Craft Shop is now open Christmas is coming, silver, leather, photography, ceramics, wood, Mon-Thurs 7-10 Saturdays 12-4 Free Instruction

If anyone found a rust colored down vest at PIKA last Thurs 11-15 Please call Judy 545-0082 Great Sentimental Value!

NSLM congratulations! Doesn't jello work? - GNG

November 16, 1979 I was not drunk I was stricken with a sudden head cold followed by extreme nausea. After a brief conversation with a passing physician it was advised that I rest for awhile. FMK

Women do you feel that you did not receive a thorough pelvic exam when you saw a GP or NP at the Infirmary? Have you ever been diagnosed one way, and then seen a gynecologist who gave you a different diagnosis? Please call Linda at 546-8454 MW 2:00 P.M.-7:00 P.M. TuTh 7:30 P.M.-9:00 P.M.

Daytona Beach in March—Peter Pan World Travel Agents MC130223 are offering sensational sunshine and sand during your spring break of March 15-22. Don't get caught without a seat! Includes: 8 days, round trip bus and accommodations, only 1 block from the boardwalk. Double occupancy all for only $299! Please call S. Rayner at 256-0675 or J. Hyde at 1-773-3854 Deposit required immediately-call now

Charismatic Bible Study and Prayer Campus center 801 Tuesday November 27 at 8 PM All Students Welcome

To Spike: Happy Birthday to a favorite wimp, Love from your California girl

Happy 22nd birthday Mary Gill with love from the girls Rosie, Val, Juju and Pooh

Worms make great gifts. Dec. 3

Hogster—Had a great time 11-17 but is the party really over?

ROOMMATE WANTED

Two Roommates to share one bedroom in Sunderland Apt. $90 & util., starting Jan 1 Call Johnn at 665-4792

House in Shutesbury needs occupants pets OK call Nancy keep trying 253-3301 7 mi from Campus

Two rooms in four bedroom house Amherst 546-9151

Roommate wanted for apt insouth amherst 253-9744

Looking for 1 or 2 roommates to share 2 bedroom Townehouse starting Jan 1. Call Peter 549-1609 eves

Female Jan-Aug own bedroom, bus route, $110+ Ann or Lisa 546-6491

Male or female for own bedroom in 3 bedroom apt-113.00 a month Jean 549-6690

ROOM FOR RENT

South Amherst house bus stops out front, dishwasher, pay for cleaning, $125.00 includes all utilities. Call 253-2409 9:00 AM-10:00 AM

Woman to rent one bedroom of three bedroom apt in Jan on bus route call 549-1661

ROOM WANTED

Female seeking own room for Spring near Campus or bus 549-1347

SECURITY DEPOSIT PROBLEMS?

Have any questions about your security deposit? Do you think monies were unfairly deducted for repairs or cleaning? Did you get 5% interest? Do you know where your money is being held? Call the Security Deposit Task Force at UMass Legal Services 545-1995 or Off Campus Housing 545-0865

SERVICES

"Attention Car Owners" Protect you auto with an alarm system. Up to 15% off insurance. One year guarantee 549-4041

Drummer looking for working band call 546-8567

Typis: papers, theses, dissertations, resumes IBM Selectric correcting top quality work—reasonable rates. Reliable contact now. Nancy Merritt 403 Arnold House, evenings 527-3071

TO SUBLET

Space in Brandywine available for month of Jan for details call 549-0128

WANTED

Fast Immediate Cash for gold-school rings-diamonds-silver Jeff anytime 527-7078 586-0180

Silver Dimes .60 Quarters 1.50, Half dollars 2.50, call for offer Jim 6-8393

WANTED TO RENT

2 bedroom apt wanted for spring, starting Jan. 1, call 546-5874

2 bedroom apt bonus$$ pref. split level for Spring semester call 546-4096, 546-4904, 546-4093

Still looking for a 2/3 bedroom apt to sublet/rent call 546-5226 546-5221

2 Seniors looking for 2 or 3 bedroom apt starting January through Spring or Summer please call 546-8928 or 546-8939

Aluminum Foil by Steve Lafler

Nuke the Whale by Danny Guidera

Beasts by Rob Ranney

Norma B. by M.J. Galper

TODAY'S CROSSWORD PUZZLE

UNITED Feature Syndicate
Monday's Puzzle Solved

R	A	M	■	S	W	A	P	S	■	L	A	M	E	R
A	G	O	■	T	E	R	R	E	■	A	L	I	V	E
B	A	R	T	E	N	D	E	R	■	U	P	F	I	T
A	V	E	R	T	■	O	L	E	■	D	A	M	■	■
T	E	L	E	■	T	R	U	N	K	■	C	A	T	S
■	■	■	A	S	H	■	D	A	R	■	A	N	I	L
E	T	T	E	R	■	E	D	I	T	■	A	B	E	■
O	N	E	S	T	E	P	■	E	N	R	A	G	E	D
A	N	A	■	S	L	I	P	■	G	L	E	N	E	S
R	U	M	P	■	M	A	R	E	■	E	■	■	■	■
S	I	M	P	■	S	M	O	K	E	■	H	A	S	P
■	■	■	A	R	S	■	A	M	I	■	T	E	M	P	O
A	C	T	U	P	■	T	I	L	L	A	M	O	O	K
P	I	E	C	E	■	E	S	T	O	P	■	U	K	E
E	A	S	E	D	■	R	E	S	T	S	■	R	E	D

ACROSS
1 Jewish service
6 On — — with
10 Robbed: Arch.
14 Sheeplike
15 Shavetail
16 King of Israel
17 Hangs
18 Cuff
19 Shrewd
20 Skulks
22 Conducts
24 Old cars
26 "The — Falcon"
27 Troop member: 2 words
31 Cravat
32 Property
33 Heaped
35 Hostility
38 Vanished
39 Monkey
40 Tibia, e.g.
41 Crag
42 More painful
43 Italian poet
44 Deity
45 Loathed
47 Collects
51 Pigeon
52 Slips back
54 Gizzard
58 Revise
59 Excursion
61 Egypt's capital
62 Dub
63 Taj Mahal site
64 — Island
65 War god
66 Spool
67 Gash

DOWN
1 Soaks
2 Level
3 Martin, to friends
4 Sanctioned
5 Esteem
6 Mornings: Abbr.
7 Wood product
8 Siren
9 Kind of gun
10 Repeat
11 Dodge
12 Destinies
13 Pronoun
21 — Canals
23 Coasted
25 Opera extra
27 Astern
28 Christiania
29 Flanders river
30 Clocked
34 Enticed
35 Custom
36 Stake
37 Grass
39 Polaris
40 Expos' game
42 Menu item
43 Gadgets
44 Abrades
46 Dress
47 Stadium
48 Tree
49 Weather
50 Fabric
53 Beget
55 Girl's name
56 Goddess of discord
57 Twaddle
60 Friend

DC menu

LUNCH
Jr. Club Sandwich
Fish in Batter/Tartar Sauce

BASICS LUNCH
Mixed Beans Au Gratin
Fish in Batter/Tartar Sauce

DINNER
Miniature Egg Rolls
Chicken Chow Mein/Noodles, Soy Sauce, Duck Sauce
Breaded Veal Pattie/Onion Paprika Sauce

BASICS DINNER
Miniature Egg Rolls
Chicken Chow Mein/Noodles, Soy Sauce, Duck Sauce
Cheese Strata

HPC PRODUCTIONS AEC/SCANN present
HOLLY NEAR
with J.J. & Susan Freundlich
Tueday, December 11 8 P.M.
Fine Arts Center Concert Hall
Tickets: $4 - adults $2 - children
General admission available at:
Everywoman's Center, Disabled Students Office & Womonfrye Books
For Childcare info. call Tina 546-1248

Custom-Made In Our Store Cake'n Ice Cream Cakes
Your choice of 31-derful flavors
BASKIN-ROBBINS ICE CREAM STORE 31
28 Main St. Amherst 253-9774
across from Town Hall on the BN/BR bus routes

Merwomen win third

By LAURA FRANK
Collegian Staff

Central Conn. State College proved to be icing on a cake for the UMass women's swim team, as they won by a decisive score of 111-29, stacking up their third victory of the season.

UMass came out strong with a powerful 200 yard medley relay team of Leslie Johnson, Theresa Totin, Judy Miller, and Jennifer Black.

The Minutewomen swept the next two events with one-two finishes from Leslie Johnson and Nancee Shifflett in the 500 yard freestyle, and Jennifer Black and Gail Holland in the 200 yard individual medley.

Judy Miller placed first in the 100 yard freestyle with Caroline Benjamin swimming to a third place finish. Miller also finished second in the 50 yard freestyle.

The next race was another one-two finish by Theresa Totin and Nancy Collins in the 50 yard breaststroke.

Leslie Johnson swam a fantastic race in the 100 yard butterfly, setting a new record of 1:03:0 and finishing first. Jeanne Kelly placed third in that event.

Freestylers Judy Miller and Caroline Benjamin racked up another one-two finish in the 100 yard freestyle, as did Theresa Totin and Jennifer Black in the 100 yard individual medley.

Kathy Driscoll again remains undefeated in the required and optional diving events, winning each with a high degree of skill and composure. Jean Bushee finished third in the requireds while Denise Tetro placed second in the optionals.

TURN TO PAGE 11

Philadelphia wide receiver Harold Carmichael (left) displays the hands that caught three passes on Sunday in the Eagles 21-10 win over Green Bay. The win put the Eagles into first place in the NFC East. (AP Laserphoto)

THE $10 COLLEGE RING (seriously)

HERE'S HOW:
TRADE IN your man's gold High School ring (limit one per sale).
CHOOSE any Siladium® ring. (Siladium is a fine quality jewelers' alloy guaranteed for a lifetime.)
SAVE $58 on a new gold College ring with the trade-in of a man's gold High School ring.
ORDER NOW
Date Nov. 27, 28, 29
Place at the UNIVERSITY STORE
a service of
the UNIVERSITY STORE
campus center, umass
$10 required with trade-in.

ARTCARVED
COLLEGE RINGS
Symbolizing your ability to achieve.

Best deal in Town?
Bluewall
Happy Hour

4-week Christmas Season
Dance Programs
start November 26th to December 17th, at Kathleen Erickson's School of Dance
Classes offered:
Modern Dance, adults, beg. & inter., $19.25
Modern Jazz Workshop, adults, $18.25
Registration now in progress. Limited class size
Call 549-4916

SEND A MESSAGE TO JIMMY... wear a TEDDY-T!

BLUE AND RED ON LIGHT BLUE, YELLOW, OR WHITE
SIZES
MEN'S: S, M, L, XL, XXL / WOMEN'S: S, M, L
MEN'S: $7.95 ($8.95 for XXL) + $1.00 Handling*
WOMEN'S: $7.50 + $1.00 Handling*
California Residents add 6% Sales Tax
*8 to 9 Weeks Delivery

Send Check or Money Order (U.S. only) to
DAY ENTERPRISES
DEPT. T-1 - 412 SANSOME
SAN FRANCISCO, CA 94117

ANTI-NUKE? SAY IT LOUD!

BLACK AND RED ON YELLOW T-SHIRT
SIZES
MEN'S: S, M, L, LX, XXL / WOMEN'S: S, M, L
MEN'S: $8.95 (XXL $9.95) + $1.00 Handling*
WOMEN'S: $8.50 + $1.00 Handling*
California Residents add 6% Sales Tax
*8 to 9 Weeks Delivery

*$1.00 will be donated to ANTI-NUKE Movement Committee
Send Check or Money Order (U.S. only) to
DAY ENTERPRISES
DEPT. T-1 - 412 SANSOME
SAN FRANCISCO, CA 94117

Dastardly Dan's
35 E. PLEASANT ST
AMHERST

$2.25 60 OZ. PITCHERS
Sandwich, Chips & Beer For Just $2.25
ROAST BEEF TURKEY HAM & CHEESE

Sox to sign Lockwood

BOSTON[AP]— Right-handed reliever Skip Lockwood was certified physically fit yesterdayby physicians for the Boston Red Sox, who announced that the former local schoolboy star will sign a contract with the American League team.

Lockwood, who played out his option with the New York Mets while nursing a sore arm, was scheduled for a news conference Tuesday at Fenway Park.

The 33-year-old Norwood, Mass. native, now a resident of Cos Cob, Conn., has agreed to a four-year pact reportedly worth $1.2 million.

The financial agreement was reached last week, but it depended on Lockwood passing a physical exam of his pitching arm. The Red Sox said Lockwood's arm is sound, based on stress tests by team physicians Arthur Pappas and William Southmayd.

Lockwood was 2-5 with nine saves and a 1.50 ERA for the Mets last year until being sidelined in mid-June. His lifetime record in 10 major league seasons is 54-96 with 66 saves and a 3.49 ERA.

Calling the agreement "a dream come true," Lockwood says he wants to pitch in front of his family and friends.

A week ago, at a reported cost of $1.1 million for three seasons, the Red Sox signed free agent first baseman Tony Perez to replace Bob Watson, who had been lured away by the New York Yankees.

Lockwood is expected to team in the Boston bullpen with Dick Drago and possibly Bill Campbell.

★ Swimwomen—

CONT. FROM PAGE 10

UMass clinched the meet with a victorious 200 yard freestyle relay team of Jennifer Black, Nancee Shifflett, Caroline Benjamin and Lindy Buchan.

The victory against Central added a third win of the season to the UMass win column. However, the women just did not have enough power to overcome an exceptionally strong UConn team. There were many close races in the triple dual meet, but UConn came away with a 78-62 victory against UMass.

UConn started out strong with a victory in the 200 yard medley relay. However, Leslie Johnson captured a first place in the 500 yard freestyle with Nancee Shifflett finishing third, to give UMass some points.

The powerhouse from UConn, Carla Drapo, placed first in the 100 yard individual medley with Jennifer Black from UMass placing second. Judy Miller also captured a second place in the 50 and 100 yard freestyle events with Caroline Benjamin finishing third in the 50. Co-captain Kathy Jurcik placed second in the 50 yard backstroke.

At this point, UMass began to capture some first place finishes. Leslie Johnson set a new record, swimming the 100 yard butterfly in a fast 1:03:0. Theresa Totin placed first in the 50 yard breastroke and the 100 yard individual medley.

Required diving provided UMass with a sweep from Kathy Driscoll and freshman Jean Bushee. Driscoll also continued her winning streak with a victory in the optional round of diving.

The meet became close and exciting but still in favor of UConn who virtually never let up.

Leslie Johnson swam to her third first place finish race of the meet in the 200 yard freestyle.

The swimwomen will be training hard this week and are looking for an exciting meet against the University of New Hampshire on Friday.

FRYE

Save $40
Sale $55
Ladies 16" Cuff (Limited sizes)
Over 50 styles sizes 4-15
Heartfelt Leather
103 N. Pleasant St.
Downtown
Amherst

This is the famous Budweiser beer. We know of no brand produced by any other brewer which costs so much to brew and age. Our exclusive Beechwood Aging produces a taste, a smoothness and a drinkability you will find in no other beer at any price.
THE WORLD'S RENOWNED
BUDWEISER® LAGER BEER
AMERICA'S
Budweiser®
KING OF BEERS®
ATHLETE OF THE WEEK
GENUINE GENUINE

Minuteman receiver Kevin O'Connor (14), named to the all Yankee Conference squad, has been voted the UMass athlete of the week by the Collegian sports staff. In appreciation for his efforts, Budweiser is presenting O'Connor with a find jacket. (Staff photo by Doug Paulding)

this Bud's for you!

Dan Guidera, Mark Marchand, Steve Zack, George O'Brien. Four good ways to keep abreast of campus and pro sports.

CONTACTS FOR CHRISTMAS
$89 pr
Reg. 99.00
Bausch & Lomb
American Optical

- 1 hour service in most cases
- Highest quality FDA approved lenses
- Largest inventory of soft contact lenses anywhere

Designer eyewear 1/2 price
Buy any two pair & receive 50% discount on the lower priced pair when purchased together.
American Vision Centers
NEW YORK • CHICAGO • BALTIMORE
Hampshire Mall
Hadley, Mass.
(413) 584-7958

"Pssst...

TRAC II 5's our reg. 1.55 now $1.07
NOXZEMA 10 oz. only $1.50 our reg $2.31
OLD SPICE STICK DEOD. only 95c our reg. $1.67
SILKIENCE conditioner 7 oz. only 99c our reg. 1.47
EXTRA SAVINGS
COLGATE 5 oz. our reg. 1.14 15c off plus another 22c off only 77c
BAUSCH & LOMB Disinfecting Solution 8 oz. our reg. 2.35 only 1.49
campus center/umass
the UNIVERSITY STORE

Danny Guidera

For the birds

Poor Hollywood Henderson. The poor guy played himself right off the Cowboys, and who does he have to blame besides himself?

Well, CBS for one. Perhaps if Henderson hadn't pandered to and become a fool for the television cameras, if his every cute move and verbose statement hadn't picked up on as if it were an utterance from the Ayatollah, perhaps he would still be a Cowboy.

During the Washington-Dallas game of two weeks ago, the camera caught Henderson giggling and laughing on the sidelines as the Cowboys were losing to the Redskins. In Tom Landry's book, you take your game seriously. Don't forget this is the Cowboy organization, the NFL's version of IBM.

Here's not saying that Henderson was blameless. On the contrary, he was an overly flashy, arrogant extrovert. He liked to rub his own success in on his opponents—witness last year's playoff game against the Rams when he slam-dunked his interception of a Pat Hayden pass over the crossbar. He tried, on the basis of one good season, to become the Ali of football.

But in his glory days Ali could back up his boastings. And when, near the end of his career, he became a fat slob and no longer had it, he was out of boxing but not the limelight. But he didn't have a Tom Landry who would not tolerate his horsesht.

Henderson embarrased a losing Landry in front of an entire nation. Cowboy country is one of the few places you don't do that. Anyone is expendable, ask Duane Thomas.

And so, CBS, once nicknamed the Cowboy Broadcasting Network proved to be the downfall of Henderson. It's getting so that football has become a third rate burlesque—the camera can finish you as fast as it builds you up.

The networks can make fans sit and watch a World Series in sub-freezing temperatures just so they can get the game on Mork & Mindy time. They can turn the sport's commissioner into a transistorized geek sitting there in suit and tie pretending he's not cold. "A million fans watching on TV is more important than the people in the ballpark," a network higher-up once said.

They have turned the NBA into a freak show with their halftime one-on-one-double-reverse-comb-your-hair-drink-a-Pepsi-and-call-Mom-back-board-shattering-slam-dunk-contestants. Yeah, there's Earl Monroe, but is he talkative?

They are the same jerks who have given us that assinine KGB Chicken who parades around the playing field, antagonizing players, and looking like he's just recovered from a combined spinal tap and lobotomy. I guess pro sports is now designed to appeal to the mental level of a four-year-old. Thank God the Red Sox haven't adopted one of those silly mascots, but then again there's always Don Zimmer...

Last summer during a Yankees-Mariners game at Seattle the Chicken goaded Ron Guidry. Lou Piniella finally smacked the fowl with his glove. Many advanced the notion that the Chicken (and basedall) would be better off if he was put in an oven and broiled into a Purdue oven-stuffer.

Thank Divine Providence that the networks have dropped hockey. All the NHL needs now is Peter Puck to go along with expansion, geekism, and Dave Keon and the Springfield Whalers.

And of course, a big thank you to the man who turned television sports into a burp-joke. Yes it's The Boring One, Howard Cosell, or Howie the Schill as Dick Young of the New York Daily News calls him.

Even though he is loud and abrasive, I once tended to think that Cosell honestly did try to "tell it like it is." But after his recent schilling in such monumental sporting events as Battle of the Network Star, battle of the NFL Cheerleaders and similar such lobotomized events, well Howard, it looks like it's time to apply for a job at Candlepins for Cash.

Sad thing is, that once the Brent Musbergers, the Dick Stoctons, and maybe even the Howards were serious journalists, and the Hollywood Hendersons, Reg-gies, and the entire L.A. Rams were serious athletes. Now, through the wonder of technology, they've merely become jokes.

Griffin, Castino share AL rookie of the year

By HAL BOCK
Associated Press

NEW YORK — Third baseman John Castino of the Minnesota Twins and shortstop Alfredo Griffin of the Toronto Blue Jays were named joint winners yesterday of the American League Rookie of the Year award presented by the Baseball Writers Association of America.

Castino and Griffin each received seven votes from a 28- member BBWAA committee consisting of two voters from each of the American League's 14 franchise cities.

Relief pitcher Mark Clear of the California Angels, the only rookie in either league named for the midseason All-Star Game, finished third with five votes.

New York Yankee reliever Ron Davis, first baseman Pat Putnam of the Texas Rangers and pitcher Ross Baumgarten of the Chicago White Sox received three votes each.

It marked the first time the AL rookie balloting has finished in a deadlock. In 1976, pitchers Pat Zachry, then with Cincinnati, and Butch Metzger, then with San Diego, finished tied for the NL rookie award.

Griffin, a 21-year-old switch hitter, batted .287 for the Blue Jays, who acquired him from the Cleveland Indian organization in a trade at last winter's baseball meetings in Orlando, Fla. He set club records with 179 hits and 20 stolen bases.

Castino, 25, won the Twins' third-base job at midseason and batted .285 with 52 runs batted in for Minnesota.

Clear, who had won 10 games by the All-Star break, finished with an 11-5 record and 14 saves for the West Division champion Angels.

Davis, recalled from the minors when Yankee bullpen ace Rich Gossage was sidelined with an injured thumb, posted a 14-2 record with nine saves. Baumgarten was 13-8 with a 3.53 earned run average for the White Sox and Putnam batted .277 with 18 home runs for Texas.

Griffin is the first player with Toronto's expansion franchise to win the rookie award. Castino is the third Minnesota winner, following Tony Oliva in 1964 and Rod Carew in 1967.

Toronto Blue Jays shortstop Alfredo Griffin (top) and Minnesota Twins third baseman John Castino have been named co-winners of this year's American League rookie-of-the-year award. (AP Laserphoto)

The tie is the second in BBWAA awards this year. Earlier, Willie Stargell of the Pittsburgh Pirates and Keith Hernandez of the St. Louis Cardinals finished deadlocked in the National League most valuable player balloting. That tie was tougher to achieve, however, because 24 voters chose 10 candidates each on their ballots and votes were totaled on a point basis. The rookie award requires only one vote per ballot.

Collegian Sports

Matmen open season at BU

By DONNA SULLIVAN
Collegian Staff

The wrestlers from UMass travel to Boston University today for their season opener which will be utilized to gain experience for the young team and to give coach Dave Amato a look at how his team performs minus a few key players.

Ten men wrestle and a mere three of the starters from last year's winning team will be wrestling today. Super wrestler Larry Otsuka was lost to that unending athlete snatcher known as graduation.

The UMass attack will include tri-captain John Allen, a name that still rings clear in the majority of UMass' opponents. Allen has been a consistent New England champion and went to last season's National competition.

Two top wrestlers, Charles Rigoglioso and Dana Rasmussen will be sidelined with injuries and when they will return, though in the near future, is still yet to be determined. Rigoglioso at 142 pounds and Rasmussen at 126 were both second in New England last year.

Another wrestler, tri-captain Mike Carroll will not see competition until January. Three more starters from last year just didn't come out, according to coach Amato.

After rigorous practice and numerous wrestle-offs the available wrestlers are ready. "Team morale is up," said coach Amato. "BU is a good club and if we can beat them it will be a good win."

Wrestling in the 118 weight class will be Rich Schiarizzi, a junior and a returning starter.

Gordon Wrin a freshman from Framingham, Massachusetts, will wrestle in the 126 pound weight class. A high school star, Wrin was elected to the all-Boston Globe team.

Another freshman, Doug Johnson, will wrestle in the 134 pound spot. "He is untested but Johnson is pretty tough," said Amato.

Going in the 142 pound class in place of injured tri-captain Rigoglioso will be junior Greg MacDonald.

Wrestling at 150 will be sophomore Kevin Murphy, a returning starter who placed third in New England in last year's competition.

The third freshman scheduled to start tonight is Dave Devoy, who will be wrestling in the 158 pound weight class.

Senior Aaron Moynihan will wrestle in the 167 spot, sophomore Dave Guselli, a high school state champ from Lawrence Massachusetts will go in the 177 class, and Bill McQuad will wrestle in the 190 pound weight class.

The man who has been described as "awesome" and "slick," John Allen will wrestle in the unlimited class "only if I need him," said coach Amato. Allen has the dual role of wrestler, and noseguard for the football team and has seen just one day of wrestling practice.

Tri-captain John Allen will be returning to lead the UMass wrestling team during the 1979-80 season. The matmen open their season against the Boston University Terriers in Boston tonight. (Collegian file photo)

Amato's wrestlers, in their surge for a 13-3 record last year, triumphed over the Terriers with a crushing 34-8 victory.

Led by fourth-year coach Amato and assistant coach Dave Foxen, the successful veteran-talented freshman combination is in good position to chalk up another winning season.

MASSACHUSETTS DAILY VOLUME CIX, ISSUE 57 Wednesday, November 28, 1979

Collegian

1979, Massachusetts Daily Collegian

Student Newspaper of the University of Massachusetts/Amherst, Ma. 01003 (413)545-3500

BYE KEVIN

With but three short weeks remaining until finals, senior Nancy Sullivan, an economics major, prepares herself for the home stretch. (Staff photo by Doug Paulding)

Liquor store trial reaches verdicts

By BRIAN O'CONNELL
Collegian Staff

One of three local women arrested at an Amherst liquor store in September was found guilty of charges of Disorderly Conduct by Hampshire District Court judge Alvertus Morse at a trial hearing yesterday in Northampton.

Amherst College junior Gina Stevens was placed on probation by Judge Morse. The case of a second defendant, Hampshire College student Ada Griffin, was ordered continued after the defendant admitted to incidents of disorderly conduct. A third woman, Amherst College librarian Sheila Johnson, was acquitted of disorderly conduct charges.

The three women had claimed that they were brutally attacked by Amherst Police officers after attempting to purchase liquor in Russell's Package store last September 29. The women were arrested after refusing to leave the store, saying they were the victims of racial and sexual discrimination.

The incident attracted great publicity throughout the Amherst area as dozens of onlookers jammed the courtroom during the two-day trial. Many of the crowd were turned away at the door, while others scrambled for seats on the marble floor of the courtroom.

Defense Attorney Allan M. Katz, representing Stevens, argued that the women were "being discriminated against" by store employees and Amherst police, and "they had a right to defend that."

Katz also said the women "were protecting their rights," so they "should not be found guilty of disorderly conduct."

Prosecuting Attorney Eillen O'Connor said the women were "screaming and yelling, creating a ruckus." According to O'Connor, Amherst Police Sgt. William Tuttle told the women that their refusal to leave would result in their (the women's) arrest.

Judge Morse said the women had a right to protect what they felt was discriminatory. However, Morse also said that Steven's conduct "went beyond the First Amendment."

Morse added Johnson's conduct "was not uncorrect."

After the trial, Stevens said the women "were not satisfied" with the outcome of the trial. Stevens also said the women "are unsure" if they will take further court action. Stevens said the trial was "definitely" unfair and discriminating.

"I don't know what I'm going to do next," she said.

Iranian students face Amherst interviews

By CAROLYN MOONEY
Collegian Staff

Iranian students enrolled at the University have been asked to report to the Amherst Post Office for immigration "interviews" today and tomorrow, according to a letter sent to them by the Foreign Students' Office Monday.

The letter stated, "If you do not choose to go to the interviews in Amherst, you will have to go to Boston...We do not anticipate any difficulties but wish to be prepared to meet whatever should arise."

An Amherst Post Office employee said last night there was a "possibility" interviews with Iranian students would take place there. But the supervisor would not comment on the issue.

While the letter did not specify who would be conducting the interviews, Iranian students at yesterday's crowded Campus Center debate said they expected immigration officials to be there.

Carole Cumps of the Foreign Students Office confirmed that immigration officials would be conducting the interviews, which she said would be "routine."

The controversy over President Carter's immigration procedures for Iranians in the United States has sparked the organization on campus of a newly-formed group called the Iranian-American Friendship Committee of Amherst. The committee of about 55 American and Iranian students met for the first time Monday night to discuss picketing the Amherst Post Office today. Memebers said they will protest the "discriminatory interrogation and deportation of Iranian students" they fear may occur.

According to a statement issued by the committee yesterday, its members oppose U.S. military intervention in Iran and believe the shah should be sent back. They also want to stop "the racist and political harassment of Iranians in the U.S.," and "promote friendship between Iranians and Americans."

"We want a peaceful, non-aggressive picket," said UMass student Laurie Kellogg, who described herself as "an active participant of the committee."

An Iranian student who identified himself as Kaveh said most Iranian students "will not attend this week's interviews, since we legally have until December 14 to report for immigration proceedings."

"We don't know our legal rights yet," said another Iranian student, Bahram. "We heard immigration officers and FBI agents in California have asked students about their personal opinions. We will wait until December, when we can talk to lawyers."

RCYB sparks campus Irianian debate

By ED LEVINE
Collegian Staff

A fiery debate over the Iranian crisis raged all day yesterday in the Campus Center between members of the Revolutionary Communist Brigade and other members of the UMass community.

The RCYB, which opposes United States' intervention in Iran, called for the U.S. to return the deposed Shah Mohammed Reza Pahlevi to Tehran to face trial. Angry students responded, calling the government of Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini "terrorists" and shouting "America—love it or leave it."

Earlier in the day a crowd of about 150 angry students stood singing "God Bless America" while several others tore down a sign which proclaimed the United States to be "imperialist" and which urged the nation to "keep your bloody hands off Iran."

Iranian students were also present.

Several members of the UMass Veteran's Service Organization said yesterday there were reports a United States flag would be burned outside the Student Union Building early in the afternoon and said they waited outside, along with several Reserve Officers Training Corps Cadets. The flag burning did not occur, however, and the group moved inside to the Campus Center Councourse to confront the RCYB members.

Ellen Becker, speaking for the RYCB, denied any knowledge of the rumored flag burning.

The debate centered around the holding of 49 American hostages in the U.S. embassy in Tehran by Iranian students, who demand that the United States return the shah. The standoff, in its third week, has resulted in many pro and anti-Iranian demonstrations throughout the nation.

Becker and other RCYB members spoke throughout the day, attacking the U.S. government for its role in Iran. "Those 49 people (being held hostage in the U.S. embassy in Tehran) are being used as pawns by the U.S. government," Becker said. "They're willing to sacrifice those 49 people. I'm not going to be used as a pawn for the imperialist United States to get its fangs back into Iran.

"The Shah should be returned to face the wrath of the Iranian people," she said. "The Iranian revolution should continue. The immediate danger is United States intervention."

Many students responded angrily to Becker's statements. "We're not sticking up for the Shah. If we give in to terrorists they'll all do this to us," one students shouted. "How about a little concern for human dignity?" responded another.

When asked by several students what would happen to the shah should he be returned to Iran, an Iranian faculty member said he "will be put on trial for all crimes for the past 37 years. This position is supported by all Iranians. This is not an isolated issue. The question of 49 hostages is not different than millions of Iranian's being held hostage for 37 years."

Crisis in Iran

Militants rig embassy to blow up on cue

By MAUREEN JOHNSON
Associated Press

TEHRAN, Iran — Islamic militants said yesterday they have rigged the U.S. Embassy to blow up on command, and the Iranian armed forces went on alert as Tehran seethed with rumors of an impending U.S. attack and warnings that American agents were plotting to infiltrate the embassy.

The U.N. Security Council gathered in New York to discuss the Iran crisis. But Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini, convinced the United States had the council on its side, rejected in advance any decision it might make as "dictated" by Washington.

At New York Hospital, exiled Shah Mohammad Reza Pahlavi underwent an operation in which doctors removed a gallstone from his bile duct.

A hospital spokeswoman said the shah would remain under observation for a few days. But it was believed the deposed monarch would probably be able to return to his exile home in Mexico after that.

The militants issued a statement yesterday saying they had planted mines throughout the embassy compound and their supporters should not try to enter the area.

The militants said they were especially concerned about provocations Thursday and Friday, the emotional Moslem holy days of Tasua and Ashura, when devout Moslems here whip or cut themselves to signify their willingness to become martyrs.

The militants had hinted previously they were rigging explosives to kill all the hostages if the United States launched a military action to rescue them.

Paratroopers were seen at Tehran's Mehrabad Airport flying off in U.S.-made transports to an unknown destination. Local newspapers said the Iranian navy "started defensive operations" in the Persian Gulf, and the airspace over Qum, Khomeini's headquarters city 120 miles south of Tehran, had been closed.

The Carter administration indicated last week it might respond militarily if any of the hostages are harmed. A carrier task force headed by the USS Midway had been in the Arabian Sea south of Iran for almost two weeks. Another, six-ship force, led by the carrier Kitty Hawk, has sailed into the Indian Ocean.

And in Washington, White House press secretary Jody Powell announced President Carter would hold a news conference tonight in the White House at 9 p.m. because "The president felt the American people deserve an opportunity to hear from him."

UN meets briefly, postpones action

By WILLIAM N. OATIS
Associated Press

UNITED NATIONS — The U.N. Security Council met for only 16 minutes yesterday on the U.S.-Iranian crisis, hearing pleas from Secretary-General Kurt Waldheim and the council president, and then adjourned until Saturday.

In one of the shortest formal council meetings on record, Walkheim called on the United States and Iran "to avoid any action which could inflame" the situation.

The council president, Ambassador Sergio Palacios de Vizzio of Bolivia, repeated an appeal to Iran he had made in the council's behalf Nov. 9, asking for the release of 49 American hostages held in the U.S. Embassy in Tehran.

Ahmad Salamatian, the Iranian foreign minister's special envoy, listens during a Security Council meeting yesterday on trouble between his country and the United States. (AP Laserphoto)

Palacios de Vizzio then adjourned the meeting until 9 p.m. EST Saturday, when Iran's acting Foreign Minister Abolhassan Bani Sadr is expected to be in New York to join in the resumed debate.

Iran had sought a week's delay, while the United States had pressed for a public meeting to call again for the release of the hostages. The session yesterday was a compromise, with only Waldheim and the president permitted to speak.

It also meant a postponement of any decisive action until the weekend.

The United States dropped its insistence on speaking yesterday, U.S. Ambassador Donald F. McHenry saying the American speech would "be incorporated in the council president's statement." Saeed Sanjabi, an Iranian special envoy, said of the U.S. decision, "We consider that a very positive sign."

Earlier yesterday, Iran's chief U.N. diplomat, Jamal Shemirani, formally asked the 15-member council to postpone its meeting until Saturday evening when, he said, Beni Sadr would be present.

Shemirani said a Security Council session on the volatile embassy confrontation would not be "opportune and productive" until after the Moslem holy days of mourning this Thursday and Friday.

Iranian leader Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini, in a Tehran radio broadcast yesterday, denounced U.S. pressure to have the council deal only with the issue of the embassy hostages, seized by Islamic student militants Nov. 4, and not with the alleged crimes of the ousted Shah Mohammad Reza Pahlavi.

"There is talk these days that the Security Council will meet to investigate the issue of the hostages, whose spying activities have been proved by our people," Khomeini said. "After political and military maneuvers, Carter has contended that the Council should only convene to deal with this matter."

He rejected in advance any Council decision "dictated" by the United States.

The shah must be investigated only in Iran, he said.

United Nations Secretary General Kurt Waldheim appeals to the United States and Iran "to avoid any action which could inflame" the crisis between the two countries during yesterday's Security Council meeting. (AP Laserphoto)

DIGEST

Inflation spirals to record rate

WASHINGTON (AP) — The sharpest rise in housing costs in three decades pushed consumer prices up another 1 percent in October, all but guaranteeing the worst inflation rate for a single year since 1946, the government said yesterday.

Rapidly rising prices for energy slowed significantly during the month and food price increases showed a modest slowdown. But moderation in those areas was offset by a 1.5 percent jump in housing prices — the steepest monthly increase since 1947, the Labor Department said.

So far in 1979, consumer prices have risen 11 percent, and government economists predicted inflation was certain to top 13 percent for the year, the highest rate since war-time wage and price controls were lifted in 1946.

"You can say with certainty ... that the inflation rate will be about 13.5 percent or higher for the year," said Theodore Torda, a senior economist at the Commerce Department.

Torda and R. Robert Russell, director of the Council on Wage and Price Stability, said they see no signs that inflation will slow in the comming months.

Handgun, rape bills slated

BOSTON (AP) - Bills to loosen the law governing the sale of handguns and to broaden the legal definition of rape are among those filed for next year's legislative session.

The handgun bill, filed by six state representatives and the Gun Owners Action League, a lobbying group, would allow any person to sell up to four pistols to another individual in a calendar year. Currently, only licensed dealers are allowed to sell the weapons.

The rape bill would change the definition of rape to include homosexual rape or rape involving only females. Under the present law, only men may be prosecuted for rape, and it is a crime only if the victims are women or young girls under the age of consent.

United States U.N. Ambassador Donald McHenry tells a news conference yesterday that "We came out just where we want to," after a brief Security Council meeting on the Iranian—U.S. standoff. (AP Laserphoto)

Chrysler wage freeze demanded

WASHINGTON (AP) — Before the government agrees to extend loan guarantees to Chrysler Corp., the automaker's employees should accept a wage freeze, two members of the Senate said yesterday.

Sens. Paul Tsongas, D-Mass., and Richard Lugar, R-Ind., members of the Senate Banking Committee, said they would offer legislation requiring employees in both management and labor to forego pay increases.

Both Tsongas and Lugar, in announcements made separately, also called for banks, parts suppliers, state and local governments and others to step up their projected contributions toward matching a proposed federal loan guarantee for Chrysler.

Meanwhile, acting Senate Minority Leader Ted Stevens of Alaska told reporters, "I sense an increasing opposition to doing anything" to aid faltering Chrysler Corp.

Senate OK's Education Sec.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Judge Shirley M. Hufstedler, President Carter's choice as the nation's first secretary of education, breezed through her Senate confirmation hearing yesterday.

Mrs. Hufstedler told the Senate Labor and Human Resources Committee that the new Department of Education will strive for excellence without encroaching on state and local control of schools.

The California jurist said the guiding principles by which she will operate the new department are her belief in pluralism, quality, equal opportunity and the importance of the individual.

The Massachusetts Daily Collegian (USPS 333-220) is published daily Monday through Friday excluding January, June, July, and August, for $15 at 113 Campus Center, University of Massachusetts, Amherst, MA 01003. Second class postage paid at Amherst, Mass. Postmaster: Send address changes to Massachusetts Daily Collegian, 113 Campus Center, University of Massachusetts, Amherst, MA 01003.

Goodell remains library for most undergrads

By BRIAN O'CONNELL
Collegian Staff

The re-opening of the 28-story main library next month will be "purely temporary" and will limit access to 500 people due to state occupancy regulations, UMass spokesman Terence Burke said yesterday.

"By no means does this (re-opening) mean that the library will be fully operational. We'll operate for a while, and see if it makes any sense," Burke said.

The Faculty Senate Library Committee said two weeks ago that no more than 500 people will be allowed into the main library at one time, according to the state building occupancy agreement currently in effect. The committee also said that a total of ten library staffers will be working at any given time. The senate also agreed to advise administrators to allow undergraduates with "demonstrative" needs to be allowed access to the tower.

However, most undergraduate students still will be expected to use the recently renovated Goodell library, Burke said.

Those undergraduates who prove they need to use the main tower will be given a temporary pass allowing them access, he added.

Reacting to the stipulations on undergraduates, Student Senate co-President Rich LaVoice said last night that the library tower "was better than Goodell.

"Student input into library planning has been minimal, not nearly enough. I don't want to see Goodell as the de facto library for undergraduates from now on," he said.

Burke also cited lack of funds as another reason why undergraduates must continue to use Goodell. "We don't have the personnel to run two libraries," he said. Citing the "overwhelming bulk" of materials available now in Goodell, Burke added the University is "not about to move everything back to the tower."

After the closing of the main library last September, the University paid Roger Sitterly and Son, Inc. of South Deerfield over $124,000 to transfer 250,000 books from the library tower to Goodell.

UMass Chancellor Henry C. Koffler last week announced the re-opening of the University library, which has now been closed for 94 days. He said entrance to the library will be restricted to the South College entrance. According to Koffler, the Northeast entrance by the campus pond will be designated an emergency exit. Physical plant workers recently completed a walkway there leading from the library to the campus pond.

UMass News Director Arthur Clifford said last week the University is "shooting for" a re-opening date of December 3.

Springfield polar bear dies, zoo's elephant to be exiled

By RICK HAMPSON
Associated Press Writer

SPRINGFIELD — The crumbling old Forest Park Zoo has lost one of its last two attractions, and it appears the other soon will be gone, too.

Snowball, the zoo's 29-yearold, one-eyed polar bear, died in her cage Monday evening.

Later, the Springfield Park Commission officially voted to send Morganetta, the zoo's lonely 14-year-old elephant, to a new home — although not necessarily the Los Angeles Zoo.

Death came suddenly for Snowball, who had not seen another member of her species since she was a cub in Labrador.

The bear seemed normal during the weekend, but developed diarrhea and stopped eating on Monday, according to zoo officials.

Zookeeper Peter Jaskievic said today the bear's cause of death might not be known for several weeks until Cornell University specialists analyze the results of an autopsy performed Monday night.

Lili Chou signs a raffle ticket as she stands in line at Earthfoods, located in the Student Union. Earthfoods, a non-profit collective serves hot vegetarian dishes to approximately 350 UMass students each day. (Photo by Steven Loureiro)

Exchange students: a trip worth taking

By JEFF BAKER
Collegian Staff

UMass students with an urge to attend school in a different part of the country have an opportunity to do so through the National Student Exchange program. Approximately 160 students from 22 universities around the country are currently on exchange at UMass, while an equal number of Massachusetts natives are scattered from Maine to Hawaii.

The majority of students are unaware of how to apply and be accepted to the program, according to NSE club president Sue Kennedy. Kennedy and others on exchange from UMass formed the club in an effort to help UMass students learn about colleges they might attend.

The club plans to hold an orientation meeting tonight at 7 in Memorial Hall Lounge for all UMass students interested in going on exchange next year. Students from many of the schools in the program will be available to answer questions about their home institutions.

Formal requirements for exchange are relatively simple, according to NSE coordinator Irma McClaurin-Allen of the Office of Transfer Affairs. A student must be a sophomore or junior during the exchange year and have a grade point average of 2.5 at the home campus. Students may exchange for either a semester or full year and usually pay the in-state tuition of the host school. McClaurin-Allen said over 350 UMass students have already been to her office requesting information.

Most students on exchange at UMass from other schools seem happy with their stay at UMass. Recommendations about Amherst from friends and a desire to experience another part of the country were the reasons most frequently given for the exchange.

"It's a great opportunity to travel the East and meet really different people," said Oregon junior Barry Davis. Alabama senior Susan Gojsza said, "Political activism is so much stronger here. More students are concerned with campus issues."

Other impressions of UMass were more lighthearted. Boise State junior Cathy Hancock said, "Ever since I saw SWAT on TV I've wanted to experience UMass." NSE club social chairman John Fowler summed up his views by saying, "It's great to get away from home and party."

...And yet another victim falls prey to Amherst Towing in the lot in front of Hasbrouk. (Staff photo by Doug Paulding)

Black Affairs

Iranian students taunted at Boston U.

BOSTON (AP) — A demonstration supporting Iranian students at Boston University ended in a noisy shoving match as counter-demonstrators chanting "U.S.A. All the Way," ripped down banners calling for the deportation of the Shah.

The noisy, confused demonstration, involving some 20 protesters and twice as many counter-demonstrators, ended when Boston police broke into the crowd to separate the two groups Tuesday afternoon. There were no injuries or arrests.

The protest was organized by the Boston Committee to Defend Iranian Students, a group concerned about the possible deportation of Iranians as the result of the current takeover of the U.S. Embassy in Tehran.

President Carter has issued orders for all Iranian students to report to the U.S. Immigration and Naturalization Service to determine if they are in this country legally.

Boston University has about 250 Iranian students currently enrolled in graduate and undergraduate programs.

Tumah Mwawaza, a BU student who said he was of Iranian descent, attempted to address protesters assembled in front of the school's student union, calling on the United States to return the former shah to his country.

"We want the American government to apply justice across the board," he said. "This country has deported Nazi war criminals; they extradited Tongsun Park from Korea, but they won't send a criminal like the shah back to stand trial in his country."

Mwawaza and other students began chanting "Deport the Shah, Save the Hostages," but were shouted down by other students who shouted "Deport You" and "Nuke Iran."

Other speakers were also shouted down by the crowd which then blocked an attempt by the protesters to march to the university's nearby chapel.

Police separated the two groups when several men tore down banners reading "U.S. Out of Iran" and "End U.S. Imperialism."

Photo-of-the-Week
Cambodian baby

Final concert of Duke Ellington series

Presenting in concert, Beaver Harris, Don Pullen and the 360 Degree Music Experience. This is the final concert being put on by the Duke Ellington series this fall. It is perhaps the most formidable in that it will encompass the full spectrum of our past concerts.

Beaver Harris is on drums, Don Pullen on piano, Ken McIntyre on reeds, Ricky Ford on tenor, Hamiett Bluiett on baritone and Cameron Brown on bass. The 360 Degree Music Experience since its creation has made a policy of getting top musicians.

Beaver Harris, and Cameron Brown have done time in Archie Shepp's group as well as other combos. Harris has also helped Ken McIntyre (a professor at Smith College) with his annual presentations at the school. Ricky Ford out of Boston was the featured reedsman in the last Charles Mingus group and also performed here last spring with his own trio.

This group in general promises if nothing else to be the high light of the Duke Ellington Series. The performance starts at 8:00 P.M. at the Student Union Ballroom at the University of Massachusetts. A donation will be taken at the door, and this will take place on Friday, December 7, 1979.

CCEBS holds workshops

There will be a Medical School Information Workshop on Wednesday, November 28, at 7:00 p.m., in the CCEBS Library/Lounge, New Africa House. The Workshop is open to all CCEBS students. Additional information may be obtained from Brian Maher or Gatian Lungu in Room 209, New Africa House, or call 545-0031, extension 24.

A Law School Information Workshop will be held on Tuesday, December 4, at 4:00 p.m. in the CCEBS Library/Lounge, New Africa House. The Workshop is open to all CCEBS students. Additional information may be obtained from Brian Maher or Gatian Lungu in Room 209, New Africa House, or call 545-0031, extension 24.

There are job openings (to be filled in June or July) with the Social Security Administration. These positions do not require one to take any examination. This is an excellent opportunity for seniors. All interested students should pick up applications immediately from Brian Maher in Room 209, New Africa House.

TWSS sponsors "Casino"

The Third World Scientist Society will be sponsoring an evening of dancing and gambling at "THE CASINO" (a mock casino) this Saturday, December 1, 1979 at the Hatch in the Student Union. Doors will be open at 8:00 p.m., with gambling until 12:00 midnight. (Chips for gambling will be issued upon entering "THE CASINO"; games will not be played using real money.) Persons winning the most chips during the evening will be eligible to win prizes to be given away. A Silver Pot BONANZA will also be raffled off at midnight. (All persons with a ticket stub will be eligible to participate in the raffle.) There will also be dancing throughout the evening. The cover charge is $1.50/person.

No Liquor, cans or bottles PLEASE; liquid refreshments will be available. If you're up for an evening of fun, games and partying come and check things out at "THE CASINO."

Iranian-Am Friendship Comm formed

The Iranian-American Friendship Committee of Amherst, a newly formed coalition of groups and individuals from the Amherst/Northampton area, will be holding a peaceful morning picket line in front of the Amherst post office on Wednesday from 11:00 to 1:00.

The picket line is being held to protest against the discriminatory harassment of Iranian students in the U.S. and to demand the extradition of the Shah.

All Iranian students have been asked to report to immigration officers on Wednesday and Thursday through the back door of the post office to check on their visa status and to answer questions. President Carter has ordered that all Iranian students who's visas are not in proper order, (this includes such technicalities as whether they have ever worked in this country, carried a full course load, or taken a semester off from school), be deported. According to students who have already reported to Immigration, many have been fingerprinted and photographed and asked detailed personal and political questions irrevelant to accessing their visa status.

Other coalitions have been uniting to speak out against physical and verbal attacks on Iranian students across the country, which have resulted, thus far, in one death. These attacks are directed against people's only crime is to be Iranian and in this country. Further plans of the committee include extensive educational work and a teach-in or forum next week on the Iranian situation.

The committee feels that it is abhorrant that the Shah was admitted to the U.S. on questionable medical grounds. He was responsible for some 60,000 deaths and jailings last year alone (including some 5,000 protestors gunned down in one hour last September 7th). The government ignored two weeks of appeals from the Iranian government to not admit the Shah and acted against the recommendations of the U.S. State Department. Those responsible for pressuring admission of the Shah are his long time friends, Henry Kissinger, Richard Nixon and David Rockefeller, the latter of the Chase Manhatten Bank, which harbors millions of dollars of the Shah's wealth, according to George Ball former Undersecretary of State.

The Amherst Coalition demands an end to deportation proceedings and to University involvement in them.

DEPORT THE SHAH, NOT THE STUDENTS. Contact Tony Crayton, Office of Third World Affairs, 545-2517.

Announcements

Workshops

CCEBS, BCP and MEP students: there will be a financial-aid workshop regarding fall application processes and information for 1980 at the Malcolm X Center, November 28, 1979 from 7 p.m.-9 p.m. Please try to attend!

Women's week

There will be a meeting to plan International Women's Week on Monday December 3, in room 101 of the Campus Center. Important agenda items are a theme and a structure for the committee.

Eat at Yvonne's

During your class in New Africa House does your stomach begin to rumble because of the delicious aromas you breathe in? Don't let your stomach rumble, jump out of your seat and rush downstairs to Yvonne's Restaurant for some spicy West Indian cooking. Yvonne's specialities are her Southern fried chicken platter and fried fish platter.

THE MAGNIFICENT WRITING MACHINES
Smith-Corona® Typewriter Models

SMITH-CORONA® Coronamatic™
sug. retail $289.50
our reg. $249.95
SPECIAL
$20 OFF
only
$229.95

Has wide carriage, full sized keyboard and manual carriage return. Takes large envelopes, ledger sheets. Cartridge ribbon sysyem uses carbon film, fabric, colors and correction tape. Repeating keys; full range tabulator.

sug. retail $110.00
our reg. $89.95
SPECIAL
$10.00 OFF
only
$79.95

SMITH-CORONA® Courier™
Good looking, wide carriage manual portable with sports styling, vivid youthful colors and many practical features like pre-set tabs, two color ribbon, and variable spacing.

*specials limited to typewriters in stock
offer ends Dec. 21

VISA
Mastercharge
American express
accepted

campus center/umass
the UNIVERSITY STORE

Save-on-Tires
ROUTE 9 HADLEY, MA.
2 MILES FROM NORTHAMPTON OR AMHERST
MICHELIN - GOODYEAR - LEE - SEIBERLING - B.F. GOODRICH - ARMSTRONG - CONTINENTAL - PLUS OTHER MAJOR BRANDS.
SUPERSEDES ALL OTHER ADS.
Cash & Carry
TIRE SALE
COMPARE OUR PRICES BEFORE YOU PURCHASE ELSEWHERE
Cash & Carry
Wholesale to the Public.
We can arrange to have your tires mounted.

CONSUMER NOTE
When comparing prices, make sure you also compare quality grades. Effective April 1979 the N.H.T.S.A. graded regular bias-ply tires (standard = 100) as follows:

Name;	Grading*
B.F. Goodrich (H.T.)	110
Firestone (DLC)	80
Zenith (PE 78)	80
Woolco (All American)	70
Sears (Guardsman) 60
K-Mart (KM-50)	50

*the higher the No. the longer the tire will last

BIAS PLY SNOWS
QUALITY GRADINGS 80 OR HIGHER

SIZE	TYPE	PRICE
600X12	Alliance Bk	25.95
A78x13	Goodyear Bk	21.95
B78x13	Zenith Bk	25.95
C78x14	B.F.G. Bk	28.95
E78x14	Zenith Bk	28.95
F78x14	Zenith Bk	29.95
F78X14	Pen BFG Bk	34.95
G78x15 BFG Bk.		36.95
G78x14	Zenith Bk	31.95
H78x14	Zenith Bk	32.95
560x15	Zenith Bk	23.95
H78x15 BFG Bk.		38.95
G78x15	Zenith Bk	31.95
H78x15	Zenith Bk	32.95
L78x15	BFG Belt w/s	46.95

STEEL BELTED RADIAL SNOWS

SIZE	TYPE	PRICE
185/75X13	Global All Sea. Wht	38.00
175/80X13	BFGXTP wt	46.00
195/75X14	globalallsea	43.00
195/75X14	BFG XTPwt	53.00
205/75X14	Zenith wt	55.00
205/75X14	BFGXTP wt	49.00
215/75X14	BFGXTP wt	56.00
225/75X14	BFGXTP wt	59.00
215/75X15	Glob. All Sea. Wht.	49.00
215/75x15	Zenith wht.	54.00
225/75X15	Zenith wht	56.00
235/75X15	Zenith wht	61.00
155X15	Phoenix Bk.	32.95
P165/75x13	Tiempo Bk.	39.00
CR78X15 (175X15)	Goodyr. RayBeltBk.	41.50

ALL PRICES PLUS F.E.T. TAX & SALES TAX.
CASH AND CARRY
VISA
OR
MASTER CHARGE
OPEN
MON.-FRI. 9:30 A.M. TO 5:30 P.M.
SAT. 9:30 A.M. TO 3 P.M.
586-2544

Arts Calender

Today, tomorrow and Friday— "Bureauworks," a show of lowfire ceramic sculpture by artist Janna Ugone at the Student Union Gallery.

Tonight at 8—The UMass Chamber Choir in concert in Bowker

Tonight at 8—The UMass Chamber Choir in Bowker Auditorium. Free.

Tonight at 8—Film: The Gypsy Camp Vanishes Into theB Tonight at 8—Film: The Gypsy Camp Vanishes Into The Blue. Free. A story of two gypsy lovers by Russian director Emil Loteanu. Recipient of the 1976 San Sebastian Film Festival Award. Sponsored by the UMass Arts Council and the UMass Slavic Department as part of the Soviet and Eastern European Film Festival. In room 106, Thompson Hall.

Tonight at 8—Three films documenting environmental sculpture including, Artpark People, which covers an entire summer season of art projects at a park near Niagara Falls. In 227 Herter Hall.

Nov. 30-Dec. 14—The UMass Art Performance Group will be showing photographs and other types of art work. Opening reception Nov. 30 at 7 p.m. In Herter Gallery. Gallery hours are Monday, Wednesday, Friday: 12:15-3:30 p.m.; Tuesday, Thursday: 11 a.m.-4 p.m.; Sunday: 1:30 p.m.-5 p.m.

Also opening on Nov. 30 with a reception, and continuing until December 14: a student architecture show in Herter Gallery number 2.

Custom-Made
In Our Store
Cake'n Ice Cream Cakes
Your choice of
31-derful flavors
BASKIN-ROBBINS
ICE CREAM STORE 31
28 Main St. Amherst 253-9774
across from Town Hall
on the BN/BR bus routes

The Amherst Music House & Guitar Workshop
Amherst Carriage Shops 549-1728
SAVE 40%
OFF RETAIL PRICE ON
NEW GIBSON, GUILD
OVATION, YAMAHA, GUITARS
with this coupon

SECRET SANTA
Great Gifts - Great Prices
Stocking Stuffers
Hundreds of 25c to $10 items
CARDS Daily 10 am-6 pm Sunday 12-5 pm
THE MERCANTILE
AMHERST CARRIAGE SHOPS

THE ARK
(Episcopal Church at UMass)

Sundays at The Ark	6:00 PM	supper (potluck)
	7:00 PM	Bible Study, Prayer, Eucharist
Wednesdays	1:05 PM	At Newman

Rev. Ian Montgomery 758 N. Pleasant 549-5929

Issues of Life Counseling
FOR STUDENTS AND OTHER TRANSITIONAL PERSONS
*A program designed to assist you in exploring the directions of your future
*SENTICS training and STRESS MANAGEMENT techniques included to facilitate emotional awareness and integration.
Elizabeth Patton (413) 549-3880

The BLUEWALL Presents
DISCO
Wednesday,
November 28, 1979
HAPPY HOUR ALL NIGHT LONG
Under 20's Welcome!
9:30 pm-12:30 am
This Week: J.C. The Mover
T.O.C. Sticker and Valid I.D. Required to Purchase Alcohol

Or Would You Rather Be Studying

Dress A-cord-ingly.

Wide-wale Corduroy Chinos.

$14.95

Regularly $19.50.

With coupon only; Good thru 12/8. C

Women's Fur-lined Galoshes. Waterproof rubber. 20% off

Men's V-Neck Velours. $18.00

Women's 100% Wool V-neck Shetland Sweaters. $13.95

Men's Corduroy Shirts. $12.95

Women's Plaid Shirts. $7.95

THE LODGE at harvard square ®

Route 9. Hadley. 584-9690.
Monday to Friday, 10:00-9:00.
Saturday till 6:00.

Eastfield Mall. Springfield. 543-5978.
Monday to Saturday, 10:00-9:30.

©The Lodge at Harvard Square

SEASONS GREETINGS
from
The Warner Bros. Family and FOR THE RECORD

Here's a few gift ideas we thought we'd share with you!

New Led Zeppelin also included in sale!

Amherst's most complete Record Store

5.99 series 8.98

4.99 series 7.98

New XTC and New Dave Edmunds also included in sale!

Located in Faces, Downtown Amherst

Open Mon.-Sat. 10-6 Fridays 'till 9
now open Sundays 1-5

Editorial/Opinion

The problems of democracy

James Lewis

I'm not so sure how Americans got to be so misinformed or prejudiced against a people they've been influencing or controlling for so long. The hatred and ignorance is profound. I would like to think that given an equal dose of facts concerning America's role around the world as the defender of democracy, most Americans could and would see that America has been actively setting up pro United States governments and U.S. businesses have been actively acquiring some form of control over the economy and resources of those countries. The United States is involved with more than two-thirds of the countries on every continent on this globe economically, militarily or both.

According to William Shawcross in his book "Sideshow: Kissinger, Nixon and the Destruction of Cambodia," the Pentagon produced a study in 1959 titled "Psychological Operations: Cambodia." This is a 471 page study of how the United States could influence the Cambodian people in such a way as to discourage respect for the regime of Norodom Sihanouk. It was a long term plan of psychological warfare designed to foster the baser elements in the Cambodian people. Starting in 1967, the United States sent special forces throughout Cambodia. On March 18, 1969, Nixon with Kissinger executed the secret bombing of Cambodia with specific orders not to tell the media. It was to be kept top secret. The bombing was to be aimed at Vietnam bases in Cambodia.

The United States did similar studies of Burma, Egypt, China, Iran, Iraq, Laos, Syria, Thailand, Chile, Guaetemala, the Dominican republic, Puerto Rico, Kenya, Bolivia, Brazil and countless other countries.

Iran was one of the countries the United States tried to control. Iran borders the Soviet Union and was the second leading exporter of oil in the world. The United States also had military bases in Iran. The Shah was king since 1941. The drift toward western adaptation began in 1921 when a coup installed the Shah's father. In 1937 women did not have to wear veils. Iran had been a Moslem country for centuries. Islam was their way of life, their definition of being, their understanding of nature, their vision of the future. With the Shah came the influx of western values, which the Iranians rejected.

The resentment of the Iranian people only grew deeper, but so did the mercilessness of the Shah. The Shah's chief export was oil, his chief import was weaponry, mainly from the United States. The Shah repressed the Iranians with torture of the worst forms until death. The Shah is accredited with killing at least 100,000 Iranians. He also used much of the oil revenue for personal investment (largely in the U.S.) and riches. The overwhelming majority of Iranians hated the Shah and his western values and his attempt to change their tradition and culture.

The facts of the Iranian situation show that if it were not for the United States, the democratic options of the Iranian people would have never been violated by the Shah, and 100,000 people would not be dead expressing their right of free speech.

If there are any Americans who believe in democracy (thank God for those), they would have gone about trying to return the Shah.

In the name of democracy, this is the least the United States should do.

James Lewis is a Collegian columnist.

Winter Games for dollars

William Robinson

As I have recently been made aware of, the United States winter olympians are a special group; and, as such, they have been awarded the privilege of being focal points from which we as a people can compete in an effort to establish some sort of superiority.

In several short weeks, these American athletes, as I have been led to believe, will drive to Lake Placid in Subaru hatchback wagons, fully equipped with Goodyear "Tiempo" tires and fueled by Mobil Oil Corp. They will be outfitted in Levi's sportswear, and the female competitors will be furnished with abundant supplies of Stay-Free "Maxi-Pads." For relaxation, most of the participants will be drinking Schlitz beer; the exceptions will be the bobsled team, who will be drinking Budweiser.

A curious menagerie of products, to say the least. Yet in a three-hour sports afternoon last Sunday, every one of these products were advertised, and every one of them claimed to be "the official [blank] of the 1980 winter olympics." It should be noted here that these ads were on N.B.C., "the official network of the 1980 winter Olympics."

Obviously, it is becoming an in-thing for companies to sponsor the Olympics as a covert means of advertising their products. I must admit that in and of itself there is nothing overwhelmingly wrong with this. But the resulting consequences cannot be ignored: The Olympics are becoming too impersonal. And sports have now become a product; by the covert advertising of the network's sponsors, we are made to fear inferiority, to be afraid of losing face unless we come up as clear winners in the Olympics. And this emphasis placed on competition, on winning, is so severe that sportsmanship has lost out.

Also worth mentioning is the three minute "Olympic Moment" sponsored by the Bell System, which I saw during the same three-hour television stint. It consisted of a taped history of Cassius Clay's 1960 light-heavyweight triumph in Rome. This bothered me: If the Olympic Moment was only a taped history, something which would cost, at the most, a few hundred dollars for the editing costs, did that cost warrant its being sponsored by as big a corporation as Bell? Of course, I am sure that Bell was charged the standard rate for advertising during a sporting event, amounting to most probably several hundred thousand dollars per minute. But if N.B.C. feels as strongly as it says it does about the United States' commitment to winning, why doesn't it donate its profits made from sponsors advertising any aspect of the Olympics to the U.S. team itself? Perhaps they are saving it all in an effort to pay the Soviet Union on time next year for television rights to the Summer Olympics.

One more thing. This editorial is being brought to you by Butyzolidinc, the offical pain-killer of the 1980 olympics.

William Robinson is a Collegian guest columnist

Letters

Protestors must have 'undeniable' rights

To the Editor:

On Monday two women of the Revolutionary Student Brigade placed a banner in front of the Student Union that demanded the return of the Shah to Iran. The merits of this demand are at best questionable, however, the right of women to present the argument is undeniable. Unfortunately, many students felt otherwise. The hostility the women were to receive is a sad indictment on our college community.

Their banner was torn down by a "patriot" who then ran away. The applause he received from the crowd was equalled by the applause for an ROTC man who accosted the women shouting "I love fuckin' America" over and over again.

Another enlightened man said "If you weren't girls I'd belt you." A woman asked if it were the "Commies" that were putting on the rally. Very few students would hear what the women had to say.

Granted the taking of the embassy may be abhorrent and irresponsible terrorism, but, actions such as tearing down banners, threatening violence and characterizing people as "Commies" are no less irresponsible. What's worse, these things happened at an educational institution.

Perhaps a course about Joseph McCarthy and a reading of the Constitution should be required of all students.

Steve Westra

What if we sent 'gallstones for...?'

To the Editor:

The serious hostage crisis in Iran is in need of precautionary action, before it's an involuntary reaction. I call upon Carter, the American father, to speak to us first hand because it is so confusing to listen to the rest of his band. I suggest, if you can digest, my plan for Iran. One man, the shah, has broken the straw of the United States' back.

Would the people of Iran, make a compromise and, take a "King" instead of a shah or any other rock'en fella? If we send gallstones for hostages would Ayatollah accept? The people of the two countries are building hate, why, we've never been formally introduced. I'm getting bad vibes that if they don't let go they will glow. Gas is a buck, sure this sucks, it's not their fault, maybe we all need Gestault. From the inside, I feel, let the world court decide. From their eyes the embassy was a haven of spies, though out government calls it lies, I don't know the answer but if Iran, I run.

Carl Dittirich

BOARD OF DIRECTORS

CAROL ROSENBERG, Editor-in-Chief; CHRISTOPHER H. SCHMITT, Managing Editor; LAURA P. BASSETT, Business Manager; FRAN T. BASCHE, News Editor; STEPHEN B. KLEIN, Executive Editor; LISA M. CAPONE, Women's Editor; MARCIA HOSPEDALES, Black Affairs Editor; AMIRA I. RAHMAN, Photo Editor; DEBRA ROTH, Arts Editor; MARK A. MARCHAND and STEVEN S. ZACK, Sports Editor, MARY B. KINNEAVY, Graphics Manager.

ASSOCIATE EDITORS

Julie Eagle, Pamela Lindmark, Carolyn Mooney, Beth Segers, Gayle Young, Associate Managing Editors; Sean Harvey, Robert E. Stein, Associate News Editors; Jack Gallagher, Associate Executive Editor; Debbie Wallace, Associate Women's Editor; Karen Thomas, Associate Black Affairs Editor; Paul Price, Associate Photo Editor; Ken Sands, Associate Arts Editor; Linda Reyer, Associate Sports Editor; Suzette Courtmanche, Associate Graphics Manager.

BUSINESS DEPARTMENT

Ken GrandPre, Advertising Manager; Joan Daly, Frederic Keillor, Assistant Advertising Managers; Dan Peterson, Circulation Manager; Howard Bass, Finance Manager.

The Collegian is the student newspaper of the University of Massachusetts. The staff is responsible for its content and no faculty member or administrators read it for accuracy or approval prior to publication.

Unsigned editorials represent the view of this paper. They do not necessarily reflect the views of the faculty, administration, or student body as a whole. Unsigned editorials, columns, reviews, cartoons, and letters represent the personal view of the authors.

The Collegian is a member of the Associated Press. Publication of their material does not constitute endorsement.

The Collegian strives to print only advertising which is truthful and complete, but final responsibility for all advertisers lie with the individual advertisers.

Carter signs $135B for American poor's fuel bills

By BROOKS JACKSON
Associated Press

WASHINGTON — President Carter promised yesterday to speed $1.35 billion into the hands of millions of poor Americans to help them pay higher fuel bills this winter.

Benefits and eligibility will vary widely from state to state, but are expected to average roughly $200 for each of an estimated 7 million or more eligible families.

"We will expedite the distribution of these funds," Carter said at the White House as he signed the new program into law.

HEW Secretary Patricia Roberts Harris predicted that some states would be distributing their share of the money under the new program next month, and said the federal government will mail its share of the money Jan. 7.

Those eligible for the aid include those receiving federal assistance for the blind, aged and disabled. State plans yet to be formulated will determine who else is eligible; most plans are expected to be based on who receives welfare assistance.

Colder, Northern states receive the bulk of the money but even balmy Hawaii and Florida will get at least a little. Among those receiving the highest benefits are Iowa and New Hampshire, where Carter faces two early contests in his soon-to-beannounced campaign for renomination and re-election.

Checks for $400 million will be mailed by the federal government Jan. 7 to about 4 million recipients of Supplemental Security Income, which is federal welfare for aged, blind and disabled persons.

Under this portion of the program, benefits will range from $34 per person in Hawaii to $250 per person in Iowa, New Hampshire, North and South Dakota, Alaska, Connecticut, Idaho, Minnesota, Montana, Utah and Wyoming. No family may receive more than $250, even when two or more persons get SSI payments.

About $800 million will be parceled out to state governors under plans which they must submit to the federal government for approval.

Most are expected simply to distribute the funds to welfare recipients, those getting Aid to Families with Dependent Children. However, governors may opt for more exotic plans including payments directly to fuel suppliers or payments to food stamp recipients as well as those getting AFDC.

The Student Senate Budgets Committee is accepting proposals for funding in FY '81. All R.S.O. groups seeking S.A.T.F. monies should submit their proposals no later than December 14, 1979 at 5:00 p.m. in the Senate Office, Rm. 420 of the Student Union Building.

Information packets will be in your mail boxes by the end of the week.

THE TOC PRESENTS:

Mark Wilding and Dave Simons

Wednesday, November 28
TOC Lounge 9:00 P.M.
TOC Sticker and Valid ID required to purchase alcohol

FREE 3 Pc. Place Setting of Dinnerware
Fine Porcelain China or your choice of 3 exquisite patterns of superbly crafted stoneware with each $99 worth of Finast Green Register Tapes.

Finast

Double manufacturers' Coupons
Offer Available thru Sat., Dec. 1, 1979

Boneless London Broil — Shoulder USDA Choice $1.89 lb.	Fresh Pork Shoulder — Arm Picnic 69¢ lb.
Porterhouse or T-Bone Steak — Tailless Beef Loin USDA Choice $2.89 lb.	Beef Franks — Morrison & Schiff $1.99 lb. Available in Stores with Service Deli Dept.
Fresh Tangerines — 18 for $1, 176 size	Hi-C Drinks — 46 oz. can 49¢
Star-Kist Chunk Light Tuna — in oil 6-1/2 oz. can 59¢	Wisk Liquid Laundry Detergent — half gallon bottle $2.29
Hocd Orange Juice — half gallon carton 99¢	Asst. Flavors Rice-A-Roni — 2 6-1/2 oz. pkgs. 79¢
Waldorf Bath Tissue — White or Assorted Colors 4 roll pkg. 79¢	Tropi-Cal-Lo Orange Drink — half gallon bottle 69¢
Golden Grain Mac & Cheese — 5 7-1/4 oz. pkgs. $1

For the best in spirits . . . Visit our beer & wine shoppe!
Case of 24-12 oz. Non. Ret. bottles Heineken Beer $12.99
Case of 24-12 oz. Non. Ret. bottles Michelob Beer $7.95
25.4 oz. bottle J. Roget Spumonti $2.19
1.5 liter bottle Donelli Lambrusco $3.25
25.4 oz. bottle Donelli Lambrusco $1.75
Available Finast of Hadley Only!
Prices effective thru Saturday, December 1, 1979 at Finast Supermarkets Only!
We reserve the right to limit quantities. Not responsible for typographical errors. Illustrations are for design purposes only and do not necessarily depict products on sale.

Bolles Shoes
8 Main St., Amherst

James H. McManus eating place
OPEN 24 HRS FRI. & SAT.
6:30 am to 3:00 am
SUNDAY - THURSDAY
Campus Plaza – Hadley

To Serve Studying Students the Campus Center will provide food service in THE HATCH CAFETERIA in the evenings
Monday-Friday 5:00 pm-10:00 pm
On a Trial Basis

Our sale prices will mean new records

Almys
YOU'RE IMPORTANT TO US AND HOW!
WE'RE FIGHTING INFLATION WITH A KNOCKOUT OF A SALE!
SALE! SALE!
WE'RE JUST SPARKLING WITH SAVINGS– WE'RE A COMPLETE, MODERN STORE!
20% OFF Sale
USE YOUR STORE CHARGE, VISA, MASTERCHARGE
COME ON IN AND SAVE BIG!
THE SALE OF SALES!
SCOOP UP THE BARGAINS!
SAVE 20% ALL THIS WEEK
Run to us and save a whopping 20% off the regular prices of all merchandise in stock – there are no exceptions! Here's your chance to save a pocketfull of greenbacks!
We have a pot pourri of values!
Wow! Our merchandise people have come up with the best sale ever to save you big money! Nothing is held back! Choose from a wide array of famous brand names!
NOT EFFECTIVE IN BEAUTY SALON AND COFFEE SHOP
NO GIFT WRAPPING AND NO LAYAWAYS, PLEASE
ALMYS • MOUNTAIN FARMS MALL • HADLEY

Campus Center at UMass
BLUE WALL
Thurs. Nov. 29

$1 cover charge
Fri. Nov. 30
A UPC Production

Derringer with The Proof
$4 in advance at U.R.U.
$5 at the door
Sat. Dec. 1
FX
Jazz rock fusion to the max
$1 cover charge
TOP OF THE CAMPUS
EVERY TUESDAY NIGHT TALENT SHOWCASE
with your host Ken Ober 9:30 p.m.

no cover charge
ALL AGES WELCOME
TOC sticker and valid ID required to purchase alcohol
in association with UPC Productions info: call 545-2892

Mayor White supporters face Boston payroll layoff

BOSTON [AP] — Some 1,600 temporary city workers, many of whom helped in Mayor Kevin H. White's successful reelection drive, are facing imminent layoffs.

The estimated 12 percent work force reduction is necessary to offset a projected $18 million deficit, but will take jobs from many who worked in White's re-election campaign and had expected permanent jobs, The Boston Globe reported yesterday.

There were also massive firings — 1,209 — following White's 1975 re-election to a third term. They represented about 9 percent of the city work force of 13,909 at the time.

Budget director William P. McNeill said political loyalty will be an important, but not governing factor in the upcoming personnel cuts.

McNeill said a number of longtime employees have not backed White, or have supported opponents. He said they "may find out that their string has run out."

The budget chief said the anticipated deficit is based on several unforeseen factors, including raises to policemen and firefighters.

The city's work force numbers approximately 13,700 now and the layoffs would be made from among some 3,000 non-civil service positions controlled by the mayor's office.

While claiming sizeable layoffs cannot be avoided, McNeill also said some employees would be lost through attrition and there would be an effort to place others in federally funded jobs.

McNeill said that about a thousand of the employees in jeopardy were hired as emergency employees on 30-day appointments.

When their appointments ran out, they were reappointed as provisional employees entitled to remain on the payroll for up to 120 days.

The Globe quoted other unnamed officials as saying many of the employees who are most vulnerable were placed on the city payroll before or during the mayoral campaign, even though the city had little need for their services.

"White has made it clear in repeated statements over the last year that he values political loyalty over other traits in city workers, and he is now said to be reluctant to lay off any of his political operatives," the newspaper said.

The average salary of employees to be laid off is $12,000 a year, and if 1,600 to 1,800 are fired in January, the savings would amount to some $10 million, McNeill said. No firings will take place until the new year, he said, and the layoffs are likely to continue well into the spring rather than take place all at once.

The current city budget is some $321.1 million.

Got something on your mind? Why not let 25,000 other people know by writing a letter to the Collegian?

THE $10 COLLEGE RING (seriously)

HERE'S HOW:
TRADE IN your man's gold High School ring (limit one per sale).
CHOOSE any Siladium® ring. (Siladium is a fine quality jewelers' alloy guaranteed for a lifetime.)
SAVE $58 on a new gold College ring with the trade-in of a man's gold High School ring.
ORDER NOW
Date Nov. 27, 28, 29
Place at the UNIVERSITY STORE
a service of the UNIVERSITY STORE campus center, umass
$10 required with trade-in.

ARTCARVED COLLEGE RINGS
Symbolizing your ability to achieve.

WHEN IT COMES TO JEANS, WE'VE GOT JUST YOUR BAG!

Relax—you can breath again! Because fashion's new blue jean is big and baggy, with a tiny waist (of course), 2 front pleats and lots of leg, that tapers to a teeny-tiny ankle. Here, one of our new baggies from Jean Elle by Glenora, with neat contrast stitching. Sizes 3 to 11, $30. (Add a western belt, undersized shrink sweater and you're ready to go!) Get into a brand-new bag. At The Weathervane, of course!

The Weathervane

Education system needs major overhaul

WASHINGTON [AP] — One of every three youths is "illeducated, ill-employed and illequipped to make their way in American society" by a public education system in need of an overhaul, it was asserted yesterday.

The Carnegie Council on Policy Studies in Higher Education said high schools prolong "compulsory youth" and favor those continuing formal education over those moving directly into the job market.

"We must find ways to break up the big, monolithic high school and its deadly weekly routine," the council declared in a 322-page report. "High school is an alienating experience for many young people (and) like a prison — albeit with open doors — for some."

The council said there is a need for basic changes in the manner in which high schools operate, adding that new ways must be found to teach marketable job skills.

If society smoothes the abrupt transition from school to work and stops prolonging "compulsory youth," it said, then those coming of age before the year 2000 could be "the most favored generation since the 1950s."

But failure to act poses the danger of "creating a permanent underclass, a self-perpetuating culture of poverty, a substantial and continuing 'lumpen-proletariat' in the 'home of opportunity'," it added.

Council chairman Clark Kerr said the study, entitled, "Giving Youth a Better Chance: Options for Education, Work and Service," was undertaken "as a matter of conscience."

"College youth have been assisted by federal initiatives in the 1970s far more than noncollegiate youth and it is time to redress the balance," the report said.

"The 'youth problem' in the United States is not going to go away," although the baby boom is over, it said.

ACADEMY of MUSIC Northampton
Only Area Showing Now, Ends Tues. at 7:00 and 9:00
There are many ways to be seduced. Joe Tynan knows them all.
ALAN ALDA
BARBARA HARRIS
MERYL STREEP

THE SEDUCTION OF JOE TYNAN
R AT THE GATES OF SMITH COLLEGE

The Hungry-U

Wednesday
Dinner Specials
Manicotti Dinner for 2 $4.95
Lasagne Dinner for 2 $5.95
Veal Parmesan for 2 $5.95
549-5713
55 University Dr.

adventura travel 549-1256

Airline Tickets
Amherst Carriage Shops

INSTANT COPIES

Now: Copy cassette tapes yourself—any length. Fast: Copy a one-hour cassette in less than 2 minutes. Simple: Easy as xeroxing a letter. Inexpensive: Our remarkably low price includes the Rezound Copy Cassette™. Accurate: Guaranteed perfect monaural copies, every time. Versatile: Make 1, 2, 3 or 100 copies.

REZOUND CASSETTE COPYING CENTERS
the UNIVERSITY STORE campus center

Richard Dreyfuss.
Moses Wine Private Detective.
...so go figure
the BigFix
RICHARD DREYFUSS
SUSAN ANSPACH
BONNIE BEDELIA
JOHN LITHGOW
OFELIA MEDINA
FRITZ WEAVER
"THE BIG FIX"
THEATRE
THURS. NOV. 29 MAHAR AUD.
7,9,11 pm $1.00
by C.C. Program Council

Distinguished Visitors Program and Hillel
present
"An Evening with Chaim Potok"
Author of
The Chosen, The Promise,
My Name is Asher Lev, and Wanderings
Thursday, November 29, 1979
8:00 P.M., Bowker Aud. (Stockbridge)
Lecture is free and open to the public

Watch us fix their wagons
NOW YOU SEE IT
WISH YOU'D SEEN IT $1.50
LAST SEMESTER
The UMass Comedy/Music Revue
DECEMBER 1, 2, 11, 12 8 P.M.
BOWKER AUD. STOCKBRIDGE HALL UMASS
Tickets avail. Nov. 29 and 30 Bowker Box Office and at the door before performance

AMC AMERICAN MULTI CINEMA
ADULTS $2.75 STUDENTS & SR. CITIZENS with AMC CARD $2.25 TWI-LITE SHOW $1.50 - Special Engagements Excluded Twi-Lite Show - Limited to Seating
TIMES SHOWN FOR TODAY ONLY

HAMPSHIRE 4 — 584-7550 HAMP. MALL ON CAFE SQ. RT. 9, HADLEY, MASS.
Apocalypse Now (5:30 @ $1.50) 8:30 R
NATIONAL LAMPOON'S ANIMAL HOUSE (6:00 @ $1.50) 8:45 R
BURT REYNOLDS JILL CLAYBURGH Starting Over (6:00 @ $1.50) 8:45 R
a tradition returns... Fiddler on the Roof (5:30 @ $1.50) 8:30 G

MOUNTAIN FARMS 4 — 584-9153 MOUNTAIN FARMS MALL ROUTE 9-HADLEY MASS
A temptingly tasteful comedy "10" (6:00 @ $1.50) 8:15 R
AL PACINO AND JUSTICE FOR ALL (6:00 @ $1.50) 8:15 R
Honk if you love Brian. MONTY PYTHON'S LIFE OF BRIAN (6:15 @ $1.50) 8:30 R
As jocks they were jokes The Fish That Saved Pittsburgh (6:15 @ $1.50) 8:30 PG

CINEMA 1-8 HOLYOKE MALL AT INGLESIDE
Mass. Pike Exit 4 to Int. Exit 15
24 Hr. Movie-Phone 538-7510
"THREE STOOGES FESTIVAL" FRI SAT SUN*
"ADV OF PINOCCHIO" MATS FRI SAT SUN*
Recorded in The MUPPET MOVIE G
A True Story THE ONION FIELD R
HELD OVER WHEN A STRANGER CALLS R Today 1:00-3:00-5:00-7:20-9:30
THE NIGHT HE CAME HOME HALLOWEEN No Mats Fri Sat Sun 5:45-7:45-9:45
Arabian Adventure
WINNER! 3 ACADEMY AWARDS PETER O'TOOLE KATHARINE HEPBURN THE LION IN WINTER Ends Tuesday
FRENCH POSTCARDS PG
SKATETOWN USA ROLLER DISCO! PG
*Child Discount Coupons Avail. at all Mall Stores

AN IDEA WHOSE TIME HAS COME
THE 2nd ANNUAL
UMASS FOLK CONCERT
A SOUTHWEST EVENT
FEATURING THESE PRESENT AND PAST UMASS PERFORMERS
Russ Annis, Wayne Burns, Dee Finn, Chris Danos, Brad Kaufman, John Shibley, Pam Flynn, Jon Harrison
AND OTHER FINE MUSICIANS
FREE NO ADMISSION CHARGE FREE
HAMDEN STUDENT CENTER SOUTHWEST
WEDNESDAY, NOVEMBER 28
8:30 PM - 1:00 AM
DOORS OPEN AT 8:00 P.M.
A JFK MIDDLE / SOUTHWEST ASSEMBLY EVENT

Coffee House
sponsored by
HANDICAPPED STUDENT COLLECTIVE
Friday Nov. 30 8:00 P.M.
Brett Main Lounge
All Welcome!
For information about interpreting services call 545-2202 545-0892 (TTY)

Classifieds Work

The Steak Out

Rt. 9 at University Dr.
Amherst
256-8557

PRIME RIB DINNER

$6.95

WITH POTATO AND UNLIMITED SALAD BAR WEDNESDAY SPECIAL

THE WOK

Chinese Home Style Cooking

AMPLE PARKING

LUNCHEON & DINNER SPECIALS

COMPLETE TAKE-OUT MENU

COCKTAIL LOUNGE

MON.-THURS. 11:30 AM - 10 PM • FRI. & SAT. 11:30 AM TO 12:00 PM
SUN. & HOLIDAYS 1 PM TO 10 PM • LUNCHEONS 11:30 AM - 3 PM
EXCEPT HOLIDAYS

48 RUSSELL ST.
HADLEY

Call 586-1202

1st Anniversry at the New Location

Dinner Special on every Monday, Tuesday, and Wednesday at 3:00 p.m. to 10:00 p.m. 15 choices of Beef, Chicken, Seafood & Fried Rice & a bottle of beer.

For Only $3.99

To place a Collegian Classified Ad
- Come to Collegian Office (CC 113)
- 8:45 to 3:45, Mon. thru Fri.
- Classified deadline is 3:45 two days prior to publication day

Collegian Classifieds

Collegian Classified Rates
- 13c per word
- Student rate 10c per word
- Cash in advance
- 5 consecutive days, 5% discount
- Phone number FREE

AUDIO

Theatrix Rents Mirror balls and other Disco supplies. Lights for sale, new and used 323-7160

McIntosh Amp & Preamp Harmon Kardon Tuner, Dual Turntable Bill - 665-2810

Kenwood Cass Deck KX1030 X cond. 200. 256-6205

Large Advents $175 546-5738

Pioneer SX650 35 watts/ch. ex. cond. 6-9803 $150

AUTO FOR SALE

1971 Vega 253-9455

67 Buick Wildcat Convertible restorable classic $400 firm 586-1322

70 Chevy Imp very dep, new tires, runs excel $600 253-7158

74 Vega Hatchback red, engine frozen, new tires & muffler, good parts ev. 665-7518

Truck 27 mpg Datsun flatbed w/stake sides. Needs minor work, I'm broke. $1400 863-4001

73 Cutlass PB, PS, PW, $1100 or best off contact Joe at 6-5843

ENTERTAINMENT

Good Times—DJ's for hire, disco and/or Rock call 546-4726 or 546-4777

Soundsystem for Hire perfect for bands, discos, coffeehouses Rick 584-4105

Zeta Psi's last party was an event to remember. The band was hot. They're new. They're ready to rock. They're. . .
INCOGNITO
for bookings call 586-3924, 546-7120, 546-7815, or 256-6845 (Brian or Charlie)

Cosmic Wimpout Residential Tournaments are being held this week! Energize your dice for fun, prizes!

"Dock-Risco" Diverse Musical DJ. Reasonable rates. Call 549-4199

FOR RENT

3 bedroom, tiny house Summer Street in North Amherst. Would like lease taken over starting Jan. Russ 549-6194

Room(s) available in house bordering campus, Jan-Aug call Karen 549-0338

FOR SALE

Portrait Drawing Dennis Delap, 256-8732

2 Leather Jackets Walter Dyer Call 253-7103

Full size bed w/frame & headboard. Call evenings 584-5077

Ski Boots size 11 Kevin 549-4199

Portraits Profile-$7, full face-$10, color-$20, pets in color-$18 Deborah Pompano 549-4634

2 American Airlines ½-price coupons $35 ea. Call 253-7150

Moving selling everything, prices negotiable 584-2586 keep trying

United Half-fare coupon 253-3877 evenings

15" Sony Trinitron TV $275 call Ted 549-6520

Irish Harps various sizes, easy to play. Sylvia Woods, Box 29521, Los Angeles, CA 90029

Men's Nordica Ski Boots nearly new, great condition, size 13m $40 or best price call Julie 549-2664 or 545-3500

Give Greenpeace Seals, Whales T-shirts, necklaces, pins STORM 586-3959

Bed and other bedroom furniture (Cabinets, Desks, etc) must sell, will take best offer! Ron 549-6803

A Steal! 1974 Honda 360CB, only 7000 miles, very good condition, extras, $625 or BO 546-4771

FOUND

Irish setter male found 11/17 at Franklin DC call Greg at 6-4945 or Hamp Vet Clinic at 549-5800

HELP WANTED

Overseas Jobs—Summer/year round. Europe, S. America, Australia, Asia, etc. All fields, $500-$1,200 monthly, expenses paid. Sightseeing, free information write: IJC, Box 52-MC, Corona Del Mar, CA. 92625

Research Assistant needed immediately for humanities project. Work/study student only. Sophisticated, interesting work. Good typing, good head required. Flexible hours. $3.25 per hour. Call Mr. Donohue 545-2329 or 545-0498

Dancers wanted part time or full time exotics go-go earn 300 to 350.00 per week call Linda 413-782-9038

Airline Attendants earn to $25,000 yr! Airworld shows how to pass the interviews! For free info. send 15c stamp to Airworld 161 Box 60129 Sacramento, CA 95860

Part Time - Bus Survey Persons to help regional planning commission and PVTA conduct on board bus surveys in Amherst Northampton area. One day only, Wednesday, December 12. Both 4 and 8 hour shifts available. Pay $4/hr. Apply by Dec. 3 to LPV/RPC, 26 Central St., West Springfield, MA 01089 Tel. 781-6045

INSTRUCTION

Tutoring given in Math and Accounting -Roy 549-5360

LEGAL SERVICES

Attorney Jason R. Rosenthal General Practice Legal Representation for the Amherst, Mass community by apt. only days 584-4285 evenings 253-7617

LOST

Lost: small gray kitten, lost in the area of Phillips St., great sentimental value call 549-1869

Generous Reward Diamond Engagement Ring call collect 1-788-4075

Red and Black Plaid Wool Jacket lost at Wheeler coffehouse 11/15 Reward call Greg at 6-4945

"Lost" 2 rings in downstairs bathroom of Music Dept. in FAC on 11/15. Both have great sentimental value! Please return $reward$ no questions asked call Kris at 6-8282 after 10 pm

Reward - Volkswagon hubcap Kevin 1-788-4075

Statistics book in Hasbrouck Room 230 on Tues 11/20 if found please call Jeff at 546-9291

Granny glasses adrk frame. Vicinity Bartlett-Herter, Oct. 5-2332 Reward

Lost—glasses in blue denim case call 6-5500

PARALEGAL INTERNS WANTED

The Legal Services Office has 8 positions available for full time paralegal interns for Spring, 1980 semester. You can receive up to 15 credits from the Office of Internships located at Curry Hicks. These internships will provide exciting, challenging and rewarding work which will include the learning of many legal skills. Interviewing clients, legal research and maintaining a continuing caseload under the supervision of attorneys. Third World students and women are encouraged to apply. Application forms can be obtained at the Curry Hicks building and additional information obtained at the Legal Services Office in 922 Campus Center, and must be submitted by Friday, November 30, 1979 at the latest.

PERSONALS

Female Musicians Wanted to form band. Into Stones. Devento, Circle Drive, Box 132, Monroe, NY 10950

Anyone interested in tryouts for the Basketball Twirling Squad: Tryouts will be at the end of Nov. Call Wendy at 6-6175 for more information

Waterbed 3 months old, 6 drawer base, must sell, new 365 SAC 275 256-6205

Women do you feel that you did not receive a thorough pelvic exam when you saw a GP or NP at the Infirmary? Have you ever been diagnosed one way, and then seen a gynecologist who gave you a different diagnosis? Please call Linda at 546-8454 MW 2:00 P.M.-7:00 P.M. TuTh 7:30 P.M.-9:00 P.M.

Daytona Beach in March—Peter Pan World Travel Agents MC130223 are offering sensational sunshine and sand during your spring break of March 15-22. Don't get caught without a seat! Includes: 8 days, round trip bus and accommodations, only 1 block from the boardwalk. Double occupancy all for only $299! Please call S. Rayner at 256-0675 or J. Hyde at 1-773-3854 Deposit required immediately-call now

Charismatic Bible Study and Prayer Campus center 801 Tuesday November 27 at 8 PM All Students Welcome

The Worm Cometh Dec. 3

Hey Lulu Cutie Did you know I'm madly in love with you? I am you know. D.

Hapy B-day Wendi I love you, Michael 11/28/79

How's your Karma? Find out at the Residential Wimpout Tournaments! The future may be in your dice!

Students! Earn money at home operating a typing service! Information, send self addressed, stamped envelope to Lee M. 2102 ½ 58th St., So. Gulfport, Fla 33707

Mark M.: Thanx for the ride home, much appreciated. Thanx. Are you busy this weekend? Call Signed "F.M."

Bunny: Belated thank-you for the rose and the poem. Thanx for caring. Mooch

Wanted :undergraduate geology major who is specially adept in Geology 103: Intr. to Oceanography. Please contact as soon as possible 546-7701

My kitten needs a home! Shes affectionate, box-trained and beautiful. Please call 253-5128

Ricky. . .Can I have a brownie and a cookieee. . .Little Pig

JDB Happy B-Day. Remember - you're no bunny 'till. . .ILY-your feisty little bugger!

RIDE WANTED

Need ride to Florida for two leaving Dec. 19-23 256-0613 will help $

ROOMMATE WANTED

Two Roommates to share one bedroom in Sunderland Apt. $90 & util., starting Jan 1 Call Johnn at 665-4792

House in Shutesbury needs occupants pets OK call Nancy keep trying 253-3301 7 mi from Campus

Two rooms in four bedroom house Amherst 546-9151

Roommate wanted for apt insouth amherst 253-9744

Looking for 1 or 2 roommates to share 2 bedroom Townehouse starting Jan 1. Call Peter 549-1609 eves

Female Jan-Aug own bedroom, bus route, $110+ Ann or Lisa 546-6491

Male or female for own bedroom in 3 bedroom apt 113.00 a month Jean 549-6690

Smoking Female 20+ share 4 rm. lake house in Belchertown. Must eat meat, into school, love cats. No dogs 132+ wood heat possible 323-4462 eves

For 2-bedroom Puffton apt Spring sem & Jan non-smoker(s) 549-1758

ROOM FOR RENT

Woman to rent one bedroom of three bedroom apt in Jan on bus route call 549-1661

ROOM WANTED

Female seeking own room for Spring near Campus or bus 549-1347

SECURITY DEPOSIT PROBLEMS?

Have any questions about your security deposit? Do you think monies were unfairly deducted for repairs or cleaning? Did you get 5% interest? Do you know where your money is being held? Call the Security Deposit Task Force at UMass Legal Services 545-1995 or Off Campus Housing 545-0865

SERVICES

"Attention Car Owners" Protect you auto with an alarm system. Up to 15% off insurance. One year guarantee 549-4041

Drummer looking for working band call 546-8567

Typist—papers, theses, dissertations, resumes IBM Selectric correcting top quality work—reasonable rates. Reliable contact now. Nancy Merritt 403 Arnold House, evenings 527-3071

TO SUBLET

One bedroom apartment to sublet Colonial Village call 253-5200

2 bedroom apt. Cliffside take over lease Jan 1 665-7765

WANTED

Fast Immediate Cash for gold-school rings-diamonds-silver Jeff anytime 527-7078 586-0180

Silver Dimes .60 Quarters 1.50, Half dollars 2.50, call for offer Jim 6-8393

WANTED TO RENT

2 bedroom apt wanted for spring, starting Jan. 1, call 546-5874

Still looking for a 2/3 bedroom apt to sublet/rent call 546-5226 546-5221

2 Seniors looking for 2 or 3 bedroom apt starting January through Spring or Summer please call 546-8928 or 546-8939

Aluminum Foil by Steve Lafler

Nuke the Whale by Danny Guidera

Beasts by Rob Ranney

Norma B. by M.J. Galper

Doonesbury by Garry Trudeau

TODAY'S CROSSWORD PUZZLE

ACROSS
1 Thwacks
6 Key
10 Mountain in Thessaly
14 Gin and —
15 Labrador ore
16 Shank
17 Flower
18 Musicians' milieu
20 Portuguese coin
21 Overcome
23 River bank
24 Large Canadian export
26 "All — — that's fit to print"
28 Set down
30 Bed need
31 Tricks
32 Ballplayer
36 Time zone abbr.
37 Rotates
38 Chemical suffix
39 Scooping
42 Inasmuch as
44 Carroll girl
45 Says
46 — — of the fact
49 Singer — Ross
50 Resign
51 Classify
52 Bucket
55 Obviously
58 Of sheep
60 Vend
61 Spoken
62 Competitor
63 Threespot
64 Clock
65 Odor

DOWN
1 Asterisk
2 Fail to win
3 Canape
4 Apple —
5 Predicaments
6 Rome's river
7 Mouthward
8 No: Fr.
9 Finish
10 Portents: Arch.
11 Whittle
12 Muscle
13 S. American range
19 Weather word
22 Unite
25 Expert
26 Strap
27 She owns it
28 Exec.
29 Opulent
30 Glitter
32 Season
33 Provisional
34 Quondam
35 Letters
37 Gash
40 Insipidly
41 Select
42 Dynamo parts
43 Scottish name
45 Knight
46 Example phrase
47 At no time
48 Smirk
49 Arthur Conan —
51 Bang
53 Single
54 Gong
56 In no degree
57 Thrice: Prefix
59 Energy

UNITED Feature Syndicate
Tuesday's Puzzle Solved

S	E	D	E	R		A	P	A	R		R	E	F	T
O	V	I	N	S		M	U	L	E		E	L	A	H
P	E	N	D	S		S	L	A	P		C	U	T	E
S	N	O	O	P	S		P	R	E	S	I	D	E	S
			R	E	O	S		M	A	L	T	E	S	E
B	O	Y	S	C	O	U	T		T	I	E
A	S	S	E	T		P	L	L	E	D		W	A	R
F	L	E	D		L	E	M	U	R		B	O	N	E
T	O	R		S	O	R	E	R		D	A	N	T	E
			G	O	D		D	E	T	E	S	T	E	D
A	C	C	R	U	E	S		D	O	V	E
R	E	L	A	P	S	E	S		G	I	B	L	E	T
E	D	I	T		T	R	I	P		C	A	I	R	O
N	A	M	E		A	G	R	A		E	L	L	I	S
A	R	E	S		R	E	E	L		S	L	A	S	H

1	2	3	4	5		6	7	8	9		10	11	12	13
14						15					16
17						18					19
20				21	22					23
		24	25					26	27
28	29						30
31						32							33	34	35
36					37							38
39			40	41						42	43
			44						45
46	47	48						49
50							51					52	53	54
55					56	57				58	59
60					61					62
63					64					65

DC menu

LUNCH
Hamburg/Roll
California Quiche

BASICS LUNCH
Golden Burger
California Quiche

DINNER
Roast Beef/Mushroom Sauce
Spaghetti/Tomato Meat Sauce

BASICS DINNER
Italian Tofu Balls & Spaghetti
Potato Mushroom Delight

CALVIN ICE CREAM

HOME OF THE 35c ICE CREAM CONE
Milkshakes Sundaes
HALF-GALLONS
HOURS: MON-WED 12-5 THURS-SAT 12-10

CALVIN ICE CREAM SHOP
233 N. PLEASANT ST.
CARRIAGE SHOPS
549-6938

MOVIE LISTINGS

Academy Of Music
Seduction of Joe Tynan
7:00 9:00
Hampshire 4
Fiddler on the Roof
5:30 8:30
Animal House
6:00 8:45
Starting Over
6:00 8:45
Apocalypse Now
5:30 8:30
Mt. Farms 4
Life of Brian
6:15 8:30

And Justice For All
6:00 8:15
"10"
6:00 8:15
Fish that Saved Pitts
6:15 8:30
Holyoke 1-8
Muppet Movie
1:10 3:15 5:20 7:25 9:30
Stranger Calls
1:00 3:00 5:00 7:20 9:30
Onion Field
1:00 3:35 5:35 7:30 9:45
French Postcards
1:35 3:35 5:35 7:40 9:45

Skatetown U.S.A.
1:00 3:05 5:10 7:15 9:20
Halloween
1:45 3:45 5:45 7:45 9:45
Arabian Adventure
2:30 4:40 7:00 9:05
Pleasant St. Cinema
Tall Man
6:00 9:30
Happy Alexander
7:50
Showcase 1-8
Animal House
2:00 7:20 9:45

Fiddler on the Roof
2:00 7:00 9:50
Fish. . .Pittsburg
2:00 7:20 9:30
"10"
2:00 7:20 9:45
Starting Over
2:00 7:20 9:45
Apocalypse Now
1:30 7:10 10:10
Luna
2:00 7:00 9:45
And Justice For All
2:00 7:20 9:40

Minutewomen open season against Crimson at Harvard

By DANNY GUIDERA
Collegian Staff

The UMass women's basketball team opens the 1979-80 season tonight when they take on the Harvard Crimson at Cambridge. Last season the Minutewomen posted an impressive 18-7 record and advanced to the Eastern Association of Intercollegiate Athletics for Women semifinals before falling to powerhouse Southern Connecticut State College.

The 1979-80 Minutewomen are led by All-America guard Sue Peters and center Julie Ready. The 5'7" Peters, a senior from Southbridge, led the Minutewomen scoring parade averaging 23.4 points per game. Last season she became the first woman in UMass basketball history to score over 1,000 points in a career.

Peters paced a scoring attack which, on the average, outpointed opponents by fifteen points per game.

Ready commanded the boards for the Minutewomen last season, pulling down a team-leading total of 292 rebounds. Listed at 6'2" and also a senior Ready was named the 1978-79 Collegian women's basketball Player of the Year.

"We're looking forward to a team efforst against Harvard," said Ready, who led the Minutewomen in field goal percentage last year, hitting 57 percent. "We always play good 'D' against Harvard," said Ready.

The hoopswomen are coached by Mary Ann Ozdarski, who is beginning her fourth season as head coach of the Minutewomen. Over the past three season Ozdarski has piled up an outstanding record of 50 wins and 20 losses for a .714 winning percentage. Steve Jefferson is assistant coach of the Minutewomen.

Last year the Minutewomen crushed the Crimson 86-49 in the season's initial contest.

Starting in the Minutewomen backcourt will be a diminutive sophomore Sherry Collins, who is from right here in Amherst. Ginger Legare, a junior at 6'1" and sophomore Tricia Corcoran and Legare placed third and fourth, respectively, in scoring for the Minutewomen, with Corcoran leading the team in free-throw percentage, sinking 80 percent from the line.

Other Minutewomen who will be returning to action this season will be senior power forward Maura Supinski and Jen Parker. Supinski shared the bulk of the Minutewomen's rebounding chores last season with Ready, crashing the boards for 164 caroms. The 5'10" forward hails from Northampton.

Forward Parker was one of three Minutewomen to play in all twenty-five games last season. The Connecticut native averaged six points with radar-like bombs and quick drives to the hoop.

This season the Minutewomen will field a total of six (count 'em) newcomers. Five freshpersons, Tara Heinzmann, Marlene Susienka, Valerie DePaolo, Susan Carey, and Robin McElfresh along with sophomore Martha Ready will make their UMass debut tonight in Cambridge.

Featuring Shirts, Hats & Jackets with All Major Logos
SPORT SHACK
Red Sox
Patriots
Yankees
Cowboys
Hampshire Mall, Hadley, Mass.

SEND A MESSAGE TO JIMMY... wear a TEDDY-T!

BLUE AND RED ON LIGHT BLUE, YELLOW, OR WHITE
SIZES
MEN'S: S, M, L, XL, XXL / WOMEN'S: S, M, L
MEN'S $5.00 (XXL $6.00) + $50 Handling*
WOMEN'S $7.50 + $50 Handling*
California Residents add 6% Sales Tax
(4 to 6 Weeks Delivery)
Send Check or Money Order (U.S. only) to:
DAY ENTERPRISES
DEPT. J - 422 SHERMAN
SAN FRANCISCO, CA 94117

ANTI-NUKE? SAY IT LOUD!

BLACK AND RED ON YELLOW T-SHIRT
SIZES
MEN'S: S, M, L, LX, XXL / WOMEN'S: S, M, L
MEN'S $5.00 (XXL $6.00) + $50 Handling*
WOMEN'S $7.50 + $50 Handling*
California Residents add 6% Sales Tax
(4 to 6 Weeks Delivery)
*$1.00 will be donated to ANTI-NUKE Movement Committee
Send Check or Money Order (U.S. only) to:
DAY ENTERPRISES
DEPT. J - 422 SHERMAN
SAN FRANCISCO, CA 94117

ATTENTION SENIORS

All February graduating Seniors who have been awarded a National Direct or Student Nursing loan are required to attend one of the following "Exit Interviews"

Tuesday, November 27, 1979 7 p.m.
or Wednesday, November 28, 1979, 7 p.m.
in the Goessman auditorium. This is a Federal regulation. Failure to comply will result in an Administrative Withdrawal.

Hampshire Business Machines, Inc.
Holiday Super Special
Air Clean & Oil all portable typewriters including ribbon
$19.50
(Adjustment slightly higher)
only with this coupon
5 Pray St., Amherst
Tel. (413) 549-6177

Relax!
at the TOC
Happy Hour 4-6

COLLEGIAN ELECTIONS

Thursday, November 29
10 a.m.-6 p.m.
in the newsroom

All staff members are eligible to vote for 10 elected Board of Director positions. If you are unsure of staff status see Carol Rosenberg, Editor-in-Chief.

Physics 119 (E) No prerequisites
Schedule #562876
Arms Policy and National Insecurity
SALT, MIRV, cruise missles, MX, ABM,. . .
How serious is the threat of nuclear war?
MW 2:30-3:45, Has. 124,
Prof. Kalkstein, 545-0844

Best tilt of the day!

Good times are great times for the easy taste of Budweiser

ONLY ON WEDNESDAY SPECIAL
ONE DAY ONLY
19.99
LADIES SKI JACKETS
Reg. 40.00. Exciting variety of styles and colors, S-M-L.
COATS, ALL STORES
DENBY'S
we can be your store
Hampshire Mall (Hadley) * Holyoke Mall (Ingleside)

★ New coach

CONT. FROM PAGE 16

personal life goals," Raschal said. The players' goal programs will be monitored by the coach that each player "relates to best," Raschal explained. The player will regularly sit down and discuss it with his coach. Once they are committed to the program, the coaches will see if the players are overcoming their obstacles to reach their goals.

"If you are committed and truthful with yourself, then you become a better person in all areas of your life. You become a better team player and are more compassionate for your teammates," Coach Raschal said, explaining the significance of this goal setting process to the basketball program.

"I've had very few players (at other schools) who have not given a commitment," Raschal said. "many former players still write down their goals,"

"The basketball staff is behind schedule right now and hasn't started the program," Raschal said. "It's just a time element—trying to fit it in."

"We are thinking about starting it during the winter break," Raschal explained. "Instead of letting the players lay up in the dorms, we're going to make them do their workbook."

Raschal said he is very pleased here with the staff's dynamic leadership" and "strong commitment to our league—the EasternEight."

★ Stickers

CONT. FROM PAGE 16

Michigan State (17-6-2) is a formidable enough opponent with four women who have socred at least ten goals this season. Besides Klepinger is freshman Barb Oakley with 12 goals and five assists; junior inner Julie Johnson with 11 goals and three assists and center forward Deb Robson with 10 goals and one assist.

The top assist-getter is junior halfback Marie Herman with 12. She has also added a goal.

The good news for UMass is the expected return of senior co-captain Laura O'Neil. O'Neil injured her back and leg in a car accident the night before the regional tournament championship game against Springfield. She has been practicing all week and should be ready to play tomorrow.

UMass will have to adjust its game again to the natural surface on which they will be playing in Princeton. Hixon admitted her team took a liking to the artificial surface at Springfield College, scoring six times while shutting out their opponents. The sticker's only two losses this season have come on real grass.

Penn State, Maryland, and Long Beach State (of California) are the top three seeds in the sixteen team tournament. UMass' defeat of Springfield College places them fourth. The Springfield Chiefs, seeded 14th, meet Long Beach State in its opening round.

Regardless of the outcome of its game, UMass will meet the winner or the loser of the first round match between St. Louis and San Jose State, respectively the second and third place finishers in last year's national tournament.

Men's track team ready for opener

By JANE WOLFSON
Collegian Staff

Opening their season this Saturday the UMass men's indoor track team will be going against the always strong UConn and Seton Hall teams at UConn in Storrs, Connecticut. Last year the Minutemen lost to both teams with scores of UConn 64, Seton Hall 37 and UMass 25.

Returning to run for the Minutemen this winter are: in the 440 and 600 yard dash seniors Rick Cady, Rich Hoag and Bob Pearson. Junior captain Rick Trunfio and Scott Lutch along with sophomores Steve Gorman and Mark Herbert. Senior Captain Mickey Baugh will be rejoining the team next semester; this semester he is attending the University of Pennsylvania.

Representing the hurdlers will be three freshman: Greg Mader, Greg Towle and John Rasku along with junior Ed Ionowty.

"We'll have a strong group of hurdlers this year," said assistant coach Grady Meyer. "They look impressive already and they should enjoy a good season."

Sophomore Bill DeVarney will be running the dash for the Minutemen. In the field events watch for Jim Larabee in the pole vaulting, Jeff Durant in the long jump, and freshman Steve Hyder, Kirk Skinner, and junior J.C. Bejoran at the shot-put and the 35 pound weight for UMass.

In the distance events Coach Ken O'Brien feels the team has "alot of flexibility." "Versatility will be our strength," explains O'Brien. Top runners include senior captain Steve MacDougall, who placed second in the half mile at the New Englands.

"We should have a good team," said MacDougall. "It's just a matter of putting the talent together."

Millers are seniors Rick Walls and Bob Martin who last year finished fourth and sixth at the New Englands.

Paul Beaulieu missed most of last year but coming off a tremendous cross country season should also play a key role, along with freshman Rick Doiron, last year's two mile state champion from Gardner, and Paul Kirksey who can run anything from the halfmile to the two mile.

"There are alot of young people on the team and they've been working real hard," said Trunfio. "And if everyone gives 100 percent will do OK."

UMASS SKI CLUB
MEETING TONIGHT
TIME: 8:00 P.M.
PLACE:
Public Health Aud.
NEXT TO Morrill
UMASS SKI CLUB
PRESENTATION SPONSORED by Killington Mountain
Sugarbush Sign-Ups
C.C. Concourse
Thursday & Friday

UMass Ski Club
Sugarbush & Sugarbush North & Ski & Party Week
Jan 20-26
★ Interchangeable lift ticket 5½ days
★ Lodging
★ Meals
★ Shuttle bus between areas
★ Beer & wine party
any questions call
Ski Club Office
CC 106
545-3437
$135 Total

RAFFLE!
Free Sugarbush Ski Week
Value $135.00 (one person)
coupons must be delivered to Ski Club Office CC 106 or at Ski Club meetings
Name _____
Address _____
Phone _____
Drawing Held - Dec. 12th

Bamboo Hut
Chinese Food
Luncheon and Dinner Specials from $1.95
Ala Carte Specials available for reservations or take out orders
Call 584-0182
36 King St.
(in Hotel Northampton)

Inner Space
FREE PACK of PAPERS with this ad!
Lowest Prices on headgear in the valley
57 E. Pleasant St.
Inside Paul's Old Time Furniture

GRADUATE STUDENTS!
DISSERTATION AND THESIS BINDING
PERFECT BINDING:
1.00 SOFTCOVER
8.00 HARDCOVER (18.00 at book binderies)
THE COPY CENTER
Hours: 8 a.m.-6p.m., Mon.-Fri.
32 Pleasant St.
(across from Pleasant St. Theater)
Northampton 584-0117

Best deal in Town?
Bluewall
Happy Hour

Dastardly
35 E. PLEASANT ST
AMHERST
$2.25 60 OZ. PITCHERS
Dan's
Sandwich, Chips & Beer For Just $2.25
ROAST BEEF TURKEY HAM & CHEESE

UPC PRODUCTIONS AEC/SCANN present
HOLLY NEAR
with J.T. Thomas & Susan Freundlich
Tueday, December 11 8 P.M.
Fine Arts Center Concert Hall
Tickets: $4 - adults $2 - children
General admission available at:
Everywoman's Center, Disabled Students Office & Womonfrye Books
For Childcare info. call Tina 546-1248

Assistant coach Bob Raschal brings new hoop philosophy

By CAROL MORTON
Collegian Staff

What is it that makes someone want to be a coach? "Well, I don't know why other people become coaches," new assistant varsity basketball coach Bob Raschal said, "But I know how I became one."

"When I was a sophomore in college, I had cancer. I was going to sign with the Dodgers two days later," Raschal said. "I had been suffering before, but when I actually passed out, they diagnosed it as cancer."

"They operated, giving me six months to a year to live," Raschal continued. "I made a kind of deal with the Savior. If He would let me live, I would devote the rest of my life to helping young men at athletics. For a while I was kind of bitter, but now I'm very happy."

Raschal played football, basketball, and baseball in high school, although baseball was probably his strongest college game. He tried coaching at the high school level in those three sports, finally settling on basketball coaching as a career.

"It was kind of a natural for me. I enjoyed basketball more. It's a continuing thought process game," Raschal said. "I need something from a work standpoint that is exciting. Basketball is exciting."

"I guess I'm one of those freakish coaches who is looking for varied experience," smiled Raschal. "Hell, I'd like to teach at University of Guam. Or go overseas and teach coaches to coach basketball. Or take a young junior team to a state champ."

Before coming to UMass, Raschal took a year off of coaching to form a detective agency. "Some coaches never get out—never do. I know now that I want athletics as a career. I felt sure before, but now I'm sure."

Coaching new basketball programs is not a new experience for Raschal. Two years ago, he started a basketball program for the University of Alaska.

"Building and rebuilding basketball programs—that's all I've ever done," Raschal explained. "That's why I went to Alaska."

That's also why Raschal came to UMass. "The style of UMass basketball has changed drastically from last year," Raschal said. "It's more of a running game now."

This year's different style of play, coaching philosophy, and approach to the team have all been an adjustment problem among the players, according to Raschal, but he terms it as "normal."

"At our first scrimmage, it seemed like everyone we had was a freshman. Everything is new to all of us," Raschal explained. "We have to get used to them and they have to get used to us."

"The new staff's attitude toward the players is "demanding and tough, but not abusing them in any way," Raschal said.

At Louisiana State Penitentiary, as an academic education supervisor, I learned a lot about patience. I saw what truly having to wait means," the Louisiana-raised coach said. "I don't think you would see that in me at practice. Our practices are intense—we're practicing to win."

"A lot of people say that winning is bad, quite a few schools in this area don't want to admit that winning is important," Raschal said. "There are strong feelings in the whole New England area about academics. School is first; this has always been true of UMass."

Coach Raschal emphasized that it is possible to combine the two. "There is nothing wrong with getting the best athlete as long as academics counts as much as going out and winning," Coach Raschal said, leaning forward in his chair as if to underline his point.

"I am and I want the players to be saturated with the desire to win," Raschal continued. "But I don't determine my success on how many games I've won. There are other things than that."

New assistant varsity basketball coach Bob Raschal. (Staff photo by Steve Zack)

One of those "other things" is a goals program developed by Raschal at Gulf Coast Junior College. "We think this is the most important thing," Raschal said.

Players have two workbooks and accompanying tapes from Coach Raschal's "mental powers library." All players must go through at least the orientation workbook, entitled "Achievement Dynamics."

The followup workbook includes principles of success, and beginning, intermediate, long-range and ultimate life goals. There is one page at the back of this book for basketball goals.

"We are interested in helping them (the players) with

TURN TO PAGE 15

Fourth seeded stickers begin national tourney

By MIKE ESTRADA
Collegian Staff

The fourth seeded UMass women's field hockey team will meet unseeded Michigan State University in the first round of the Association for Intercollegiate Athletics for Women (AIAW) national tournament tomorrow at 12:30 at Princeton University.

What a difference a year makes.

Last year the Minutewomen entered the national tournament at Ellensberg, Washington unseeded and unheralded; a team that had been "allowed" to go when Springfield College declined its berth.

They finished fourth.

This year coach Pam Hixon's squad enters the national division I tournament with the reputation of a powerhouse, the top representative of the strong Northeast Region.

The Minutewomen (16-2-1) finished first in last week's Regional tournament and will be joined by second place finisher Springfield College as the New England representatives.

The key to the Minutewomen's strength is passing, control of play at midfield and strong offensive pressure up front from the likes of All-America Judy Strong, who has netted 21 goals on the season.

At the regional tournament in Springfield, however, the UMass defense showed its vigor by allowing only eight shots in three games. The Minutewomen have played a man-to-man defense since mid-season. Presumably, UMass junior Patti Bossio will play shadow defender on the opponent's biggest scoring threat as she did so effectively against UNH. Her assignment tomorrow will be the Spartans' Jennie Klepinger, the team's top scorer with 13 goals and seven assists.

TURN TO PAGE 15

Senior Maura Supinski (31) will help lead the Minutewomen to the playoffs again this year. Last year the team posted an 18-7 record. See Danny Guidera's story on page 14 for a full view of this year's squad. (Collegian file photo)

Collegian Sports

Mark Marchand

Bruins talk

Here it is, hockey fans, 20 or so games into the 79-80 NHL season and lo and behold, our Boston Bruins have re-established themselves as a power to be reckoned with. After last season's Red Sox like disappointment in the semi-finals against Montreal, the B's have managed what appears to be a complete turnaround and are currently leading the Adams Division along with being tied with the Philadelphia Flyers for the lead in total points. Add to that the fact that the Bruins defense has combined to allow the fewest goals in the League thus far this season.

Let's take a closer look at the previously suspect crew of Bruin blueliners. First off, the conspicuous absence of veteran Brad Park for possibly the whole season because of his knee made a lot of people look at the defense and think of Swiss cheese. With Park gone, the Bruins were forced to go with a patchwork defense consisting of youngsters who would be seeing their first NHL action and a few returning veterans. Well, it appears as though things may have worked out and are probably going to get better. The biggest surprise (or not so big as some of the Bruins brass will tell you) has been the play of 18 year-old Ray Bourque. Reminding a few fans of Bobby Orr when he first came up, Borque has presented himself as a controlling force in both the Bruin attack and defense. He has shown the ability to handle the puck in his own zone under pressure and has given some fans goose pimples on some occasions with his rink-length rushes. If there was any one man that the Bruins would consider building their franchise around, it has to be this man.

Elsewhere on that now sound defense, Rookie Brad McCrimmon has been more than adequate along with returnee Mike Milbury. Add to that three more veterans in the persons of Dave Redmond, Gary Doak, and Rick Smith and you'll begin to see how the Bruins have put together their defensive effort.

Elsewhere on that now sound defense, Rookie Brad McCrimmon has been more than adequate along with veterans in the persons of Dave Redmond, Gary Doak, and Rick Smith and you'll begin to see how the Bruins have put together their defensive effort.

In goal, the Bruins are certainly not hurting. After taking a slap shot in the face last year, Gilles Gilbert is once again exhibiting his fine reflexes and moves that enabled him to stop 50 shots in the seventh game of last year's semi-finals against Montreal. Backing up Gilbert so far has been Gerry "hey I'm still playing for the Bruins" Cheevers. This combo may give the B's the best one-two goalie combination in the League.

Up front on offense, it seems to be a matter of fine Boston center-men whose hustle, shooting and forechecking have frustrated teams like the Canadiens this season. At the top of my list for accolades here has to be 37 year old Jean Ratelle, the "smoothest" center you'll ever see playing the game. Ratelle's performances, like his three goal "hat trick" against the Quebec Nordiques last week (the 11th of his career) have sparked the Boston offense. Then, who can say enough about the hustle of Bob Miller? The man does not know when to stop forechecking and I don't think the Bruins are going to ask him to stop. Elsewhere at the center position, the B's are getting a lot of production from Peter McNab who looks like he can score 40 goals per year even if he wasn't playing hockey. Finally, there's the pint-sized Bobby LaLonde (the smallest player in the League at 5'5") whose acquisition from Atlanta has been very welcome.

On the wings, head coach Fred Creighton is getting a lot of effort from gangsters Terry O'Reilly and Stan Jonathan who have proved that they can actually pass the puck in addition to their regular "board" meetings with opposing players. Captain Wayne Cashman has also proved his worth along with expert penalty killer Don Marcotte who has to be the most unnoticed player on the squad. Add to that the scoring punch of Rick "I can score a goal from anywhere" Middleton and you have one of the most formidable offenses in the League.

The Bruins are just doing the job with what they have. It's a solid team effort. I don't know about you, but I certainly don't miss Don Cherry. Well, maybe his dog Blue, but certainly not him. Look what he's done at Colorado.

MASSACHUSETTS DAILY
VOLUME CIX, ISSUE 58 Thursday, November 29, 1979
Collegian
1979, Massachusetts Daily Collegian
Student Newspaper of the University of Massachusetts/Amherst, Ma. 01003 (413)545-3500

Shooting triggers investigation

By PAMELA LINDMARK
Collegian Staff

What began as a suspected traffic violation has prompted a Washington D.C. investigation of a local Veterans' Administration hospital.

Vietnam veteran Neil Sullivan, 26, a third semester UMass student, early Wednesday morning fired a shot at a UMass police officer from a M-1, 30 carbine after police stopped him in connection with a possible motor vehicle violation, UMass police said yesterday.

A witness to part of the incident said he heard a shot and saw what looked like a man running through the darkness, holding something above his head. There were "a lot of people," at first three or four then "at least eight" policemen the witness said. Three squatted behind cars, pistols out.

University and Amherst police took the man into custody soon after. They reported four officers on the scene, two cars. They said when asked where he lived, the veteran responded, "in the woods."

The arrest, on charges which include assault with a dangerous weapon on a police officer, took place at 12:15 a.m. on Lincoln Avenue-- about eight hours after Sullivan tried to admit himself to the psychiatric ward of the Leeds Veterans Association hospital.

He was stopped by UMass Patrolman David Grader after his van was seen proceeding with a flat tire, dragging a traffic sign, police spokesmen said. Grader reported he asked for a license and registration. Sullivan, he said, went to the back of his van and pulled out the gun. Grader reported he ducked and radioed for help.

The patrolman's brother, Sgt. Richard S. Grader, the night sergeant for the UMass police department, disarmed Sullivan, a police spokesperson said.

Sullivan got into the VA hospital the hard way.

After a 9:30 a.m. arraignment in Hampshire District County Court, Sullivan was told to pay a $5,000 cash surety bail or "commit himself to the veterans hospital in a security setting," according to Clerk of Courts Joyce Wurzel.

Veterans' Service Organization member Paul Withers said Sullivan was "flushed and frustrated," and went to Leeds willingly Tuesday afternoon. "He was freaking out and going bananas," Withers said.

Organization President Joe Cullins, who accompanied Sullivan to the hospital at 4:20 p.m., said Sullivan was turned away by hospital employee William Dilling because doctors had "gone for the day."

The hospital, by law, is required to have a doctor on call 24 hours a day. Dilling last night refused to comment, saying "All I can tell you is the patient was admitted today."

By denying services to Sullivan, Withers said yesterday, the hospital violated an agreement with the Veterans' Service Organization-- an agreement which he said was to sponsor and supply services for the newly formed outreach program.

Designed to help campus veterans deal with the stress of post-war civilian life, it is the only college campus outreach program in the nation according to Withers. Sullivan said he lived "in the woods." Not a rare reaction from veterans feeling stress, Withers said.

He said the incident is being investigated by the Washington, D.C. office of the Veterans Administration.

James Ingram, a federal official on the Washington D.C.-based Region I staff (New England area), said yesterday an 8 a.m. Friday morning meeting between Withers and VA Hospital Director Michael Kane has been arranged.

"If there are any problems not resolved," he said, "then we'll get into the act to prevent any future problem."

Sullivan committed himself to Leeds' Veterans' Hospital yesterday about noon, pending a December 7 hearing.

UMass Dean of Students William F. Field said Sullivan has been suspended from school because of the alleged "criminal acts" in violation of University regulations.

Leeds' hospital, an outreach program servicing vets, was a shot in the dark for Neil Sullivan.

Rich Newman

Students protest immigration interviews

By PAUL BANKS
Collegian Staff

About 75 people, protesting rumored deportation of UMass Iranian students, picketed the United States Post Office in Amherst yesterday.

The protesters sported signs with various slogans such as "The Shah is a mass murderer," "Exchange Kissinger and Rockefeller for the hostages," and "Don't support another war."

Inside the Post Office, Iranian students were being interviewed by immigration officials. The interviews are continuing today.

Carol Cumps, a spokesperson from the UMass Foreign Student Office, said Iranian students are being advised on a Presidential directive which states that Iranian students must report to immigration officials by December 14 for an interview. President Carter has ordered that all Iranian students with visa status not in "proper order," be deported.

Immigration officers are at the Post Office in Amherst as a courtesy, Cumps said. "If they do not report here, then the nearest office is in Boston."

"The Iranian students are not being asked questions which do not pertain to them as students. If there is any question as to a student's status, then they will be asked to report to Boston for further interview. This has not been the case so far," Cumps said.

"The interviews are being conducted remarkably well," she added.

The newly formed Iranian-American Friendship Committee, which organized the picket line, distributed a leaflet which says, "The solution to the crisis (in Iran) is for the Shah to be extradited. His presence here is a national shame and an insult to us and to the Iranian people."

A spokeswoman for the Committee said yesterday that the present crisis with Iran arose from a U.S. foreign policy of negligence and disregard for the "best interest" of Iran.

Allegedly, Shah Mohammed Reza Pahlavi is responsible for some 60,000 deaths and jailings last year alone. The Committee holds that the old regime of the Shah should stand trial and be held accountable for its crimes. The regime held power in Iran for 37 years.

An article said to have appeared in the Wall Street Journal on November 6 of this year says, "In 1953, the first time the Iranian people drove the Shah from the throne and into exile, it was the U.S. CIA that brought him back to power in an August 1953 counter-revolutionary coup ousting the democratically elected Dr. Mohammed Mosadegh."

The chants heard on the picket line yesterday coupled with the meeting of the United Nations Security Council Tuesday, could indicate a potential threat of military conflict. Chants outside the Post Office included, "Send the Shah from our shores, we won't fight Carter's war" and "Friendship, friendship, is the rule, military force isn't cool." One person on the picket line carried a sign which said: "Korea—54,246, Vietnam—57,000, Iran?"

Various critics have stated that the U.S. government ignored two weeks of appeals from the Iranian government to refuse to admit the Shah. After the Shah arrived in the U.S., requests were made that the Shah be extradited to Iran to stand trial for his many alleged crimes. On November 4, Islamic students seized the U.S. embassy in Tehran, taking 49 American hostages.

Another leaflet, distributed by the Iranian-American Friendship Committee yesterday stated, "We do not see an inherent antagonism between the Iranian and American people. Instead, we see the conflict to be between the Shah, as representative of U.S. monopolies and military interests in the Middle East, and the Iranian people."

Members of the Iranian-American Friendship Committee held a peaceful demonstration yesterday to protest the deportation interviews conducted at the Amherst Post Office. (Staff photo by Howard Labitt)

Carter warns Khomeini

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Carter said last night that Americans held hostage in Tehran have been subjected to "inhuman and degrading conditions" and told the Iranian government it faces "grave consequences" if the captives are harmed.

"Any claims raised by Iran will ring hollow while innocent people are bound, abused and threatened," Carter said in opening remarks for a nationally broadcast news conference.

The president said he still has hopes for a peaceful solution to the Iranian crisis, which began on Nov. 4 with seizure of the U.S. Embassy in Tehran. But he did not rule out other remedies.

He said he hoped a United Nations Security Council meeting on the Iranian crisis, scheduled for Saturday, would eventually lead to "a peaceful solution, because a peaceful solution is preferable to the other remedies available — for the United States and the world."

But questions were raised about the Security Council meeting yesterday because of reports from Iran that the revolutionary government was undecided whether to send a top representative to take part.

An Iranian spokesman in Tehran said acting Foreign Minister Abolhassan Bani Adr "probably" would not attend the session. Hours later it was announced that Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini had replaced Bani Sadr with another member of the ruling Revolutionary Council, Iranian radio and television chief Sadegh Ghotbzadeh.

Last night Carter vowed to pursue with "grim determination" the release of the 49 hostages still being held in the U.S. Embassy in Tehran.

Administration officials, he said, "will persist in our efforts until every single American has been freed."

DIGEST

Potential Kennedy attack halted

WASHINGTON [AP] — A Boston woman, shouting incoherently and carrying a knife, was arrested yesterday after she burst into the reception area of Sen. Edward M. Kennedy's Senate office.

A Secret Service agent was cut on his left wrist in the struggle to subdue the woman.

Kennedy, who was in his office, separated from the reception area by another room, said later he was unaware of the disturbance.

The woman was identified by the Secret Service as Suzanne Osgood, 38, of Boston. She was charged with assault on a federal officer.

Ms. Osgood, whose family lives in Nashua, N.H., is a Wheaton College graduate in classics, who reportedly held a variety of jobs.

The incident occurred about 9:40 a.m. Eastern Standard Time, hours before Kennedy was to fly to Iowa to resume campaigning for the 1980 Democratic presidential nomination.

House approves 1980 budget

WASHINGTON [AP] — The House gave final approval to the long-delayed 1980 budget today after defeating a Republican effort to force a two percent across-the-board cut in domestic spending.

The 206-186 vote ends a lengthy battle over guns-versusbutter spending priorities and a Senate proposal to force fiscal discipline on congressional committees.

The $547.6 billion compromise budget, approved earlier by the Senate, covers the fiscal year that started Oct. 1, nearly two months ago.

The budget projects a $29.8 billion deficit and calls for sharply higher defense spending while generally holding the line on social programs.

Suzanne Osgood, 38, originally of Nashua, New Hampshire, was arrested yesterday in connection with an alleged attack at the Washington office of Senator Edward M. Kennedy. This is a 1978 police file photo. (AP Laserphoto)

Kennedy claims Carter threats

WASHINGTON [AP] — Sen. Edward M. Kennedy said yesterday the Carter administration seems to be reviving the White House enemies list with a threat by a Cabinet officer to withhold some federal aid from officials who endorse Kennedy rather than Carter for president.

In a telegram to Mayor John Rousakis of Savannah, Ga., president of the National League of Cities, Kennedy referred to remarks that Transportation Secretary Neil Goldschmidt made to the league's recent annual meeting.

Goldschmidt, a former mayor of Portland, Ore., repeated to the convention his statement last week to reporters in Washington. At that time, Goldschmidt said he was re-evaluating aid requests from Chicago Mayor Jane Byrne, who has endorsed Kennedy.

King nominations spark dispute

BOSTON [AP] — The Executive Council continued to hold up all judicial appointments yesterday, reportedly because of a dispute over some of Gov. Edward J. King's nominations.

With Lt. Gov. Thomas P. O'Neill 3rd presiding, and a split within the council ranks apparent, the formal meeting lasted only two minutes and 8 seconds. Action was restricted to the routine approval of five payments, including the regular weekly warrants.

Held up again were seven pending judicial nominations.

While nothing has been said publicly, there have been reports that a contingent within the council has been pressuring the governor, so far without success, for a greater voice in appointments.

The Massachusetts Daily Collegian (USPS 333-220) is published daily Monday through Friday excluding January, June, July, and August, for $15 at 113 Campus Center, University of Massachusetts, Amherst, MA 01003. Second class postage paid at Amherst, Mass. Postmaster: Send address changes to Massachusetts Daily Collegian, 113 Campus Center, University of Massachusetts, Amherst, MA 01003.

TODAY!
COLLEGIAN ELECTIONS
Thursday, November 29
10 a.m.-6 p.m.
in the newsroom
All staff members are eligible to vote for 10 elected Board of Director positions. If you are unsure of staff status see Carol Rosenberg, Editor-in-Chief.

Coffee House
sponsored by
HANDICAPPED STUDENT COLLECTIVE
Friday Nov. 30 8:00 P.M.
Brett Main Lounge
All Welcome!
For information about interpreting services call 545-2202 545-0892 (TTY)

PRETERM
If you have an unwanted pregnancy...
talk with one of our counselors about your decision.
Abortion/Gynecological Care/Vasectomy/Tubal Ligation
A licensed non-profit Reproductive Health Center
1842 BEACON ST., BROOKLINE, MASS. 02146 (617) 738-6210
PRETERM

RUSSELL'S LIQUORS
18 Main St. Downtown Amherst 253-5441
Free off-campus delivery
Schlitz..... $6.99 case
12 oz. cans..... 1.99 six
Old Milwaukee..... $2.99
12 pack 12 oz. cans
Tuborg..... $6.99 case
12 oz. NR..... 1.90 six
Costa Do Sol..... $2.25 qt
Portuguese Rose
Amherst's closest package store to campus
CHECK THIS PRICE!
Budweiser 7.49 cs.
12 oz. cans & cold!
we specialize in COLD beer

Union Records
Write your Christmas list then come to Union records December 3 - 14

UNE
Noreste, Admissions
January '80 and August '80 applicants. 4-year fully recognized and established Mexican Medical School, with several hundred American students enrolled. Use English language textbooks and exams in English. School combines quality education, small classes experienced teachers, modern facilities.
Universidad Del Noreste
120 East 41 St., NY, NY 10017
(212) 594-6589 or 232-3784

SNOW TIRES SAVE ½
Firestone Retreads have the same width, depth, design and rubber as new tires —only at ½ the cost.
FREE replacement if they EVER fail for ANY reason.
Regular $15.00 up
Radials $19.50 up
exchange plus tax
LEON'S TIRES
291 FEDERAL STREET
(next to McDonald's)
GREENFIELD, 773-8315

The Beatles
Yellow Submarine
SUB:
6:00, 7:45
9:30, 11:15
Sat. Dec. 1st
Admission: $1.00

Come Join the 5 College Crowd!
Time Out
TWO TV's
A REAL FUN PLACE
Free Popcorn
Amherst's Biggest Little Bar
37 N. Pleasant St.

TONIGHT, DON'T MISS!
"An Evening with Chaim Potok"
Author of
The Chosen, The Promise
My Name is Asher Lev, and Wanderings
Thursday, November 29, 1979
8:00 P.M. Bowker Aud. (Stockbridge)
Lecture is free and open to the public!
Sponsored by
Distinguished Visitors Program and Hillel

Routhier defeats Weissman for senate speaker position

By JULIE EAGLE
Collegian Staff

Senator David Routhier last night defeated Senator Joel Weissman, 40-39, for Undergraduate Student Senate Speaker. Senate officials said the outcome was the result of a "close, clean election."

Routhier will replace retiring senate Speaker David Barenberg until April elections. The duties of the $50/week position include conducting weekly senate meetings, representing the senate—which represents the student body—in various campus affairs, keeping the senate well-informed of campus issues and facilitating efficient senate operation, Barenberg said. The speaker works approximately 12 to 14 hours daily, Barenberg said.

"It was a good, clean election and a good, clean debate between two very qualified candidates," said Student Government Association co-President Rich LaVoice, who earlier endorsed Routhier. "Routhier will make a great leader. He will be able to organize the senate. He will make the senate work (on campus issues) instead of one man do all the work. I'm really happy."

Barenberg, who earlier endorsed Weissman, also said the senate was choosing between "two qualified candidates."

"The organization (of the senate) is nothing but a winner from the outcome fo the election," he said.

SGA co-President Brian Burke said of Routhier, "I'm glad to see new blood in the system."

The 26-year-old Routhier, who joined the senate this semester, has been co-chairing the senate Finance Committee this term. "I think the closeness of the election is significant to the truth that we had two equally-qualified candidates," Routhier said. "I think my newness is the key."

Weissman, 22, who is co-director of the SGA Office of Communications, also served as a senator for almost two years, did an independent study with the senate's Affirmative Action Office, served as an assistant to Barenberg and was student coordinator of the Student Center for Educational Research and Advocacy.

The election results were announced after 10 minutes of candidates' speeches, and followed 10 minutes each of questions and answers and a debate.

Routhier told senators, "The senate, in past years, has been regarded in terms of its reaction to problems as they occur, and not its action in identifying these problems and addressing their solutions...The senate speaker, whether by necessity or choice, has assumed the role of not only representing the interests of the students in issues which affect all of us, but also the role of determining, developing and researching these issues, rather than supplying an effective direction for their investigation.

"Such a situaiton can lead to...an incomplete and confusing treatment of very important issues. This should never be the case, and the onus is upon the speaker to provide both necessary information and proper direction to see that it does not. This is my first priority in seeking the job."

Following the election Weissman said, "I'm sure David will do a very good job. He has my support. It's a critical time and I'm sure he'll do well."

Routhier comes back for more

By ED LEVINE
Collegian Staff

David Routhier, who last night was elected Undergraduate Student Speaker by a narrow margin, is a 26-year-old senior returned to UMass after a five year absence.

An English major, he spent three years at UMass beginning in 1971, before dropping out to work and get married. Originally from Easthampton, Routhier and his wife, Bobbie, are now residents of Sunderland.

Following his return to the University last January Routhier became involved with both the Co-op collective and the Collegian. Following a summer working for the Collegian, Routhier ran for editor-in-chief of the paper, and when defeated, ran for and was elected as a commuter senator.

Since joining the senate, Routhier was appointed to the Senate Finance Committee, and was subsequently elected co-chairperson of the committee. As a chairperson of a standing committee within the senate, he also served on the Senate Coordinating Committee, which he said gave him the experience required to seek the speakers post.

Junior Deborah Halli reaches for a note during a concert given by the UMass Chamber Choir in Bowker Auditorium last night. (Staff photo by Chris Grewe)

Trustees relinquish SATF control

By GAYLE YOUNG
Collegian Staff

Undergraduate Student Senate leaders proclaimed a meeting yesterday with UMass trustees a success after the trustees abolished mandatory distributions of student fees and announced they had $1 million in unbudgeted funds which student leaders say could be used for campus lighting.

Trustees had previously mandated that certain amounts from each student's activities fee be used to fund certain accounts. The trustees Budget and Finance Committee at a meeting in Boston yesterday voted down all such mandates except $10 per student for the University bus system. Student Senate Treasurer Bill Fitzgerald said a bus company contract requires the University to set aside the $10 portion of every student's fee.

The full Board of Trustees will vote on the proposal next Wednesday but Fitzgerald said they will probably follow the Committee's recommendation.

Fitzgerald also said trustees announced they had approximately $1 million in unbudgeted funds. He said the money is from interest on University invested fees. "The interest rate (one the invested fees) more than doubled so they came out with more money than they had budgeted," Fitzgerald said. Student leaders are hoping the windfall can be used for increased lighting on the Amherst campus. UMass President David C. Knapp has final say on where the money will go.

Fitzgerald also said an agreement was worked out yesterday where students, the administration, and a consulting accounting firm will determine the best way to allocate the Student Activities Trust Fund (SATF).

The jazz-rock band FX gives yesterday's Campus Center crowd a short preview of what they will see this Saturday night at the Bluewall. (Staff photo by Steve Thomas).

Live tunes of FX brighten Campus Center Concourse

By JEFF STEIN
Collegian Staff

For the first time this year, live music was featured on the Campus Center concourse.

FX, a local jazz-rock-fusion band played for one hour yesterday afternoon to approximately 400 students in a show sponsored by the Campus Center Program Council.

Greg Sokolowski, a member of the Council, and one of the co-ordinators of the event, said the idea behind the show was to promote the band and the Blue Wall. He said he was "very pleased" with the response, as an estimated 400 people stopped to watch and listen.

According to Curtiss Wohlers, a member of the Campus Center Board of Governors, the show was intended to break up the monotony that usually exists between Thanksgiving and final exams. He also said, "the Campus Center is primarily designed to enhance intermingling and to provide a social atmosphere for the campus." Yet, he said such shows must be limited to one or two per year.

The band said they also were pleased with the turnout. During their set they played tunes by Pat Methany, George Benson, and Return To Forever, as well as some originals. The audience seemed very receptive and the band may have gained a few fans from the show, band members said. FX will perform this Saturday night at the Blue Wall in the Campus Center.

NEED CREDIT? SEND FOR THE CREDIT GAME
- Too young to borrow?
- New in town/no references?
- Erase bad debt records
- Skip bills without ruining credit
- Receive loans within weeks of beginning this program
- Information on updated credit laws and legislation
- Your rights under the Federal Credit Acts

SOLVE ALL THESE CREDIT PROBLEMS with THE CREDIT GAME

"Tired of being without credit, or up to your neck in 'minimum payments'? With this book you will learn how to make the $300 billion credit industry jump at your command."

ONLY $5.95
(N.Y. residents add 8% Sales Tax)
Enclosed is $ _____ for _____ Books
Name _____
Address _____
City _____ State _____ Zip _____
Allow 3 weeks for delivery.

Send Check or Money Order to WALL STREET PUBLISHING CO. 303 5TH AVE. SUITE 1306 NEW YORK, NY 10016

Check out those Prices at the Bluewall Happy Hour

The Amherst Music House & Guitar Workshop
Amherst Carriage Shops 549-1728
SAVE 40%
OFF RETAIL PRICE ON NEW GIBSON, GUILD OVATION, YAMAHA, GUITARS
with this coupon

GMAT LSAT
Class Maximum
12 students
course materials updated after each exam
specialist instructors
38 hour course
test prep services
575 boylston st.
boston, mass. 02116
call 266-5082 collect for info on amherst classes
tps

Exile commission to hold fund-raiser

The Women's Commission in Exile, formerly the Governor's Commission on the Status of Women, will hold a fund raiser honoring Kitty Dukakis and Margaret Merry at the home of Florence and Joe Frank, 166 Lincoln Ave., Amherst, on Friday, Dec. 7 at 8 p.m.

The fund raiser will be followed by a conference on Economic Survival-Women in the Connecticut Valley, on Saturday, Dec. 8, from 9 a.m. to 1 p.m., at Springfield Technical Community College, Room 106, Building 20.

Donations will benefit the Women's Commission in Exile.

We have an unbelievable selection in stock.
Photography, Art, Womens', Historical, New England Humor, Animals, Scenic, and many more!
An ideal gift for everyone on your list!
open
Wed nite
til 9
Dec. 5, 12, 19
campus center/umass
the UNIVERSITY STORE

WHY HITCH?
Take a warm,comfortable TRAILWAYS or PETER PAN bus to Boston, New York and many other places. Play it safe!
TRAILWAYS & PETER PAN BUS LINES

MAKE LIFE SIMPLER FOR YOU.

For Information, Schedules and Prices, contact: Springfield Bus
Campus Center Bus Office - 545-2006, or 549-6000

CONTACTS FOR CHRISTMAS
$89 pr
Reg. 99.00
Bausch & Lomb
American Optical

- 1 hour service in most cases
- Highest quality FDA approved lenses
- Largest inventory of soft contact lenses anywhere

Designer eyewear 1/2 price
Buy any two pair & receive 50% discount on the lower priced pair when purchased together.
American Vision Centers
NEW YORK • CHICAGO • BALTIMORE
Hampshire Mall
Hadley, Mass.
(413) 584-7958

Praise ye the Lord!
Coffeehouse
at the Hatch
A good opportunity to relax and hear some great singing!
8 o'clock pm. Fri. Nov. 30
Sponsored by the Governors Program Council

Editorial/Opinion

Treading thin soil

In the sunny farmlands of Southern California, three thousand farm workers are entering the tenth month of a brutal strike against some of the major lettuce growers of that area.

The strike has been marked by violence and since many of the growers refuse to negotiate in good faith, the United Farm Workers (UFW) Union is asking people to boycott all iceberg lettuce with the "Red Coach" label in order to bring the strike to a quick and peaceful end.

Already this year, a successful boycott of Chiquita bananas forced United Brands, the nations largest lettuce grower to settle with the union, but over 15 growers still refuse to negotiate.

UFW contracts expired on January 1, 1979 and growers refused to offer more than a seven percent wage increase, even though Carter's guidelines exempt workers who make less than four dollars an hour. The UFW rejected this offer, negotiations broke down and the strike was called. Unlike past strikes, this is the first time the UFW has gone out for a new contract as opposed to union recognition.

The growers have seen this strike as an opportunity to break the union and have imported illegal aliens as strikebreakers. Despite public pressure, the Immigration and Naturalization Service continues to turn its head to the influx of scabs. Cesar Chavez said, president of the UFW, "We are convinced collective bargaining is the only way farm workers can escape poverty and exploitation. But there can't be free collective bargaining so long as the growers are permitted to respond to the workers legitimate needs with the massive use of illegal alien strikebreakers."

Growers have also resorted to violence against pickets which reached a peak last February when a 27 year old UFW striker, Rufino Contreras, was shot and killed by company foremen as he attempted to leaflet some scab workers in the field. The Ku Klux Klan has also offered to assist the growers, claiming to have members stationed in the strike zone.

The Agricultural Labor Relations Board has filed a complaint against the lettuce growers for refusing to bargain in good faith and the state of California has charged the growers with violating the law by importing strikebreakers, but they still refuse to negotiate. And so, the boycott continues.

So, next time you want to dig into a nice fresh Red Coach lettuce salad, think of Rufino Contreras and the UFW and Don't. Iceberg lettuce doesn't have very much nutritional value anyway. And if you think that the wage increase demands of the farm workers is what makes the price of lettuce go up, remember this. According to a report to the National Farm Workers Ministry Board (5/79), while UFW workers earned $3.70 per hour in 1978, profits for that year for the Salinas Valley lettuce growers were 71 million.

It was the people who boycotted Gallo wines and non-union grapes and lettuce who helped win recognition for the UFW; the UFW needs your help again to keep their union strong and alive.

If you don't have time to work on a committee, there are several things that you as an individual can do: 1) Boycott "Red Coach" lettuce. The local food coops have agreed to stop carrying it, but, Stop and Shop and Finast still feature it. Each head is individually wrapped and marked with the words "Red Coach"; 2) Tell other people about the boycott and strike.

Tinker Ready is a Collegian guest columnist

Do the masses agree?

By KAREN LIBUCHA
Collegian Staff

"In the name of women's rights and motherhood, the abbreviation of this university should be changed from UMass to UMA," Dr. Arthur B. Musgrave been been telling his English classes.

Musgrave claims responsibility for the school name change from Massachusetts State College to University of Massachusetts in 1946 when there were 1,200 undergraduates here.

The professor suggests, with no trace of tongue in cheek, that the present abbreviation is in violation of the Postal Service's state abbreviation, which has been changed from Mass. to MA.

"Think of the money and space the Collegian could save" by shortening the school abbreviation, Musgrave said.

UMA would be far more appropriate, Musgrave said, because the word "Mass" has other meanings, such as the "mob" connotation. Musgrave asks, "Why should a sacred word like 'Mass' be used to name such a profane institution?"

Carter: Banking on confusion

Charlie Bagli

The vehemence with which many persons have responded to the Iranian crisis is understandable but misdirected. In the heat of the situation Iranian students in the US have been subject to unwarranted attacks and discrimination.

It is said that unruly mobs in Tehran holding American Embassy personnel not only threaten the lives of forty persons, but are an insult and challenge to all American people. Threats of "Bombing them back to the Stone Age" are often heard.

This explosion of hatred toward Iranians, when you look at the facts, is misdirected. President Carter's intelligence reports, that have found their way into the press, indicate an understanding of the situation in Iran. Carter's actions however, indicate negligence.

The reports took note of the Iranian peoples' hatred for the Shah. In Iran, the Shah did not represent the kind of progress and modernization as is often portrayed. Shah's progress meant he personally amassed a vast fortune and bought some of the most sophisticated weapons in the world. The annual defense budget rose from $60 million to over $2 billion in 1976. Shah's modernization meant that by 1977 Iran imported 91 percent of its food needs, producing misierious conditions. Before, Shah brought "progress" to the secret police (SAVAK) and their torture paraphernalia by which an estimated 70-100,000 persons died.

That is why the Shah was overthrown. The embassy seizure by Iranians also reflects their disgust for the government that put the Shah in power and kept him there. That power was the US.

In 1953 the Prime Minister of Iran was Dr. Mossadeq. He nationalized the oil company and demanded civilian control of the armed forces. This threatened the American and British corporations' free reign in exploiting Iranian resources. American business, the CIA, and right-wing Iranians initiated a coup d'etat installing the Shah.

Given this history Carter's own intelligence reports warned of grave consequences if the Shah was allowed into the U.S. Carter's allowing the Shah into the U.S. is the action that jeopardized the safety of Americans in Iran.

How the Shah got into the U.S. is a lesson in American politics and who runs the government. David Rockefeller and Henry Kissinger have been pushing, unsuccessfully until recently, to get the Shah into the U.S. All of a sudden we hear the Shah has cancer and needs treatment that he can only get at New York Hospital. I wonder why the Shah has supposedly had cancer for six years yet never had to come to New York before. But we do know that the Shah has millions on deposit at Chase Manhattan Bank.

It is no coincidence that David Rockefeller sits on the board of directors of both New York Hospital and Chase Manhattan Bank!

Nevertheless, the present Iranian crisis has produced two currents. The first has to do with the strong public response that has been ignited in the US. At least one of the reasons for its depth has to do with the "energy crisis." Since 1974 we've been plagued by skyrocketing prices and shortages that magically disappear with the price increases. There is a profound confusion over who is to blame: the government?;oil companies?; or the Arabs?

The other current is in the internal situation of Iran itself. The people of Iran support Khomeini because he helped to lead the movement against the hated Shah. With the Shah gone Khomeini must solve internal problems like an estimated 25-30 percent unemployment and the problems of ethnic minorities such as the Kurds. Many fo his present policies have been unsuccessful. Khomeini's support for the embassy seizure for the time being takes the heat off him. Khomeini's future as a leader in Iran will stand or fall based on his ability to solve those problems. That is a decision that the Iranian people should make without outside interference.

To me, the above facts indicate that our anger should be directed not against Iranians but against the US government for disregarding their own intelligence which warned them of something like this embassy seizure, and allowed the Shah into the US—seriously jeopardizing American embassy personnel.

The government's callousness and the subsequent hysteria should not be allowed to draw us into Carter's interrogation and harrassment of Iranians in the US. It's time to go beyond the newspaper headline. It's time to send the Shah back to his own country.

Charli Bagli is a Collegian columnist.

Khomeini: Oiling the conflict

Jackson Katz

Just like most of us, I've been keeping up with the situation in Iran for a long time now. I know how the Shah was really bad, and the people overthrew him. And more recently, I've been following the thing with the hostages in the U.S. embassy, and I'm real worried about what's gonna happen.

The whole thing is a real serious affair, I know, but the thing that interests me the most is the man behind the whole revolution, the "New Iran," and the current hostage situation.

Who is this guy, the Ayatollah Khomeini? I mean, I know he's the leader of the new Islamic Republic in Iran, but how did he get to be like he is?

How could he believe that taking over another country's property by force is an O.K. thing to do? That takes a lot of nerve. But that isn't the only thing about Khomeini that bothers me.

Where did he get the idea that he can persecute homosexuals, and prostitutes, and use the "legal" system to enforce the second-class status of women?

And who is he to tell people that they can't drink alcohol, listen, in the provacy of their own homes, to whatever music they want? Where did he come up with these things?

I really have problems thinking about how this guy got to be this way. Like who does he think he is using oil as his "weapon?" Iran should share what they've got with the rest of the world! Energy needs are the kind of thing that should be handled for everyone's benefit, not just for the gain of some people who "own" the oil! How could he think like that?

And what about his tolerance of political dissent? He thinks anyone who disagrees with his views is wrong and evil, and labels them as dangerous to the perfect system he says he knows of. He persecutes non-Islamic peoples, in the name of God!

The leaders of his society, the people who make and carry out all the decisions, they're all men! How can he think he has a great society when men make all the decisions about everything, and women practically aren't allowed to speak unless spoken to? It's bad enough that Khomeini and his men believe in this, but to run a country like that?

Like I said, I'm really concerned about the hostages, and I'm really worried that things like this can and will happen. But while there aren't many things we can do right now about the situation, we can try to figure out why people get to be like Khomeini is and where he got the views that he has.

I've thought about this for a while. I know that Khomeini comes from a different culture, halfway across the world, and "backwards" by our standards. I know some of his ideas seem really far out, and strange to us. But I can't help think this, and it scares me.

The Ayatollah could have grown up right here in the United States!

Jackson Katz is a Collegian commentator

Rick Derringer to play at Wall

By ED LEVINE
Collegian Staff

Popular rock and roll artist Rick Derringer will be performing this Friday night, November 30, at the Blue Wall in the CAMPUS Center sponsored by the Union Program Council. Derringer is appearing following the release of his latest album "Guitars and Women."

Derringer first began his career in his native Indiana in 1963 with the McCoys, who gained national popularity with their hit single "Hang on Sloopy."

Following several years with the McCoys, Derringer went on to work with Edgar and Johnny Winter both as a performer and producer on several albums. Derringer also released two solo albums- "All American Boy" and "Spring Fever."

In 1976 Derringer formed his own band, called Derringer, and released four albums, "Derringer", "Sweet Evil", "Live" and "If I Weren't So Romantic, I'd Shoot You," before the release of his latest effort.

Throughout his career Derringer has performed with well-known artists such as Alice Cooper, Richie Havens, Todd Rundgren, Steely Dan, and Bette Midler. In addition, he is credited with the production of 13 albums through his career.

Tickets for the show, which is scheduled to begin at 9 p.m., will cost $4 in advance at Union Records Unlimited in the Student Union Building, and $5 at the door.

The Bachelors Degree with Individual Concentration Program Presents:

CREATIVE ARTS THERAPIES: Careers and Curriculum

Thursday November 29, 7:30 p.m.
Campus Center 101

Panelists
Norma Cann , D.T.R.
Expressive Therapies Program, Lesley College
Nancy Cusack, A.T.R.
Art Education Department
Massachusetts College of Art
Cynthia Clark, C.M.T., R.M.T.
Hogan Regional Center &
Music Dept. Northeastern

The Panel, chaired by Simon Keohakian of the UMass Student Development and Counseling Center, will explore the rise in interest in creative arts therapies, the requisite training for careers in these fields, and curricular implications for the University.

INTER FRATERNITY COUNCIL
Presents

The First Annual Budweiser
Arm-Wrestling Tournament

Featuring: Dan Mason
World Heavyweight
Arm Wrestling Champ

Dec. 9 at Student Union Ballroom
1:00 - 6:00 P.M.

Admission $1.00
Registration: $3.00
anyone is eligible to enter

made possible by UMass IFC

MIKE'S Westview CAFE

Thursday Night - Penny Night
Every Third Drink 1c
9 P.M. to closing

Foosball Tourney - Teams Only
Wednesday Nite - Dec. 5, 1979
Cash Prizes
Details and sign up at Mikes

This Meal's for You
You've Worked Hard All Week
FREE SMORGY

Friday during Happy Hour 4-6 P.M.
Domestic Bottle Beer 75c
Old Milwaukee Pitcher $1.95

Spirit Haus
Liquor Store

The Area's Largest Selection of
Imported & American Wines
New Tremendous Selection of Imported Half Bottles

Bud.....7.59 cans
Falstaff.....5.75 cans
Blatz.....5.99 NR or 1.60/six
Popov.....4.99 qt.
Highland Piper.....12.49/1.75 liter

IMPORTED BEERS
Moosehead.....2.99 11.75/case
Karakus.....2.49
"33" Extra Dry Three Pack.....2.25 (6.3) alcohol
Nuyens Rum.....9.79/1.75 liter

WINE SELECTION
Selected Galo Varietals.....2.25
Barberini Italian Table.....1.69
Almanden.....3 liter Chablis 6.49
Burgundy 6.49

10% Case Discount Available on Wine
Many Other In Store Specials
Ice, Kegs & Soda Available

338 College St (Rt 9) 253-5384
Amherst open till 11:00

not responsible for typo errors

Debate Union to host contest

By MARYANN MICCHELLI
Collegian Staff

The UMass Debate Union will host it's annual "Budget Saver" tournament for novice debators Saturday in the Campus Center. About 15 schools are expected to participate.

Debate coach Rick Burnett, who said the debate team is doing "exceptionally well" this year, described the tournament as "a special service to the debate community in New England.

Patti Gorham, a debate union member will tour Japan during May and June 1980 to demonstrate and teach debating. Gorham was selected from six semi-finalists in a nationwide competition sponsored by the Speech Communications Association. She and another UMass team member, Tina Ceveira, who was also a semi-finalist, traveled to San Antonio, Texas, to the SCA convention.

To Serve Studying Students
the Campus Center will provide
food service in
THE HATCH CAFETERIA
in the evenings
Monday-Friday 5:00 pm-10:00 pm
On a Trial Basis

Library Information Meeting
Confused?
Bring your questions
to librarians

Bartlett Auditorium, Friday
November 30, 1979
2:30 p.m.

Issues of Life Counseling
For students and other transitional persons
*A program designed to assist you in exploring the directions of your future
*Sentics training and stress management techniques included to facilitate emotional awareness and integration.
Elizabeth Patton (413) 549-3880

APPLICATIONS FOR THE UMASS BUS DRIVER INTERSESSION TRAINING PROGRAM WILL BE GIVEN TO THE FIRST 50 QUALIFIED PEOPLE ON DEC. 3 AT 7:00 P.M., C.C. RM. 804
You must be: at least 18 years old, have held a car license for at least 1 year, and be a UMass degree student with at least 3 semesters remaining here at UMass. You must bring proof of class year (ID alone in not sufficient) and license.
For further information call 545-0056
UMTS is an Equal Opportunity, Affirmative Action Employer

Watch us fix their wagons
NOW YOU SEE IT
WISH YOU'D SEEN IT $1.50
LAST SEMESTER
The UMass Comedy/Music Revue
DECEMBER 1, 2, 11, 12 8 P.M.
BOWKER AUD. STOCKBRIDGE HALL UMASS
Tickets avail. Nov. 29 and 30 Bowker Box Office and at the door before performance

LAST CHANCE

TO SIGN UP FOR THE

SUGARBUSH SKI & PARTY WEEK

AT SUGARBUSH & SUGARBUSH NORTH

LODGE - $135 Includes
- *Meals
- *Lodging
- *5½ day lift ticket
- *Beer Slaloms

CONDO - $125
- *Meals excluded
- *Lodging
- *5½ day lift ticket
- *Beer Slaloms

UMASS SKI CLUB

Tues 27
Thurs 29 — 9 A.M.-3 P.M. CC. CONCOURSE
Fri 30

Richard Dreyfuss
the BigFix
A UNIVERSAL PICTURE. TECHNICOLOR® PG
© 1978 UNIVERSAL CITY STUDIOS, INC. ALL RIGHTS RESERVED

THURS. NOV. 29 7, 9, 11 p.m. $1.00
MAHAR AUD.
by CC. Program Council

National Lampoon's "Disco Beaver from Outer Space"

Friday 11/30 — Admission $1.00 — S.U.B. 8:30, 10:00, 11:30

Collegian Classifieds

To place a Collegian Classified Ad
- Come to Collegian Office (CC 113)
- 8:45 to 3:45, Mon. thru Fri.
- Classified deadline is 3:45 two days prior to publication day

Collegian classified rates are: daily, 45c per line; five consecutive issues, 40c per line per day; 30 consecutive issues, 30c per line per day. One line is roughly equivalent to 38 characters.

AUDIO

Theatrix Rents Mirror balls and other Disco supplies. Lights for sale, new and used 323-7160

Large Advents $175 546-5738

Pioneer SX650 35 watts/ch. ex. cond. 6-9803 $150

Heathkit 200 watt Amplifier—$500 Gavin II Band Equalizer-$150 546-8814

Kenwood Amp & pioneer Tuner Both in excel cond. $65 each or $120 for both John 549-4130

AUTO FOR SALE

1971 Vega 253-9455

67 Buick Wildcat Convertible restorable classic $400 firm 586-1322

70 Chevy Imp very dep, new tires, runs excel $600 253-7158

74 Vega Hatchback red, engine frozen, new tires & muffler, good parts ev. 665-7518

Truck 27 mpg Datsun flatbed w/stake sides. Needs minor work, I'm broke. $1400 863-4001

73 Cutlass PB, PS, PW, $1100 or best off contact Joe at 6-5843

68 VW Bug for parts, transmission problem, engine good $125 call 665-2444

Fix your own car The student Auto Workshop has tols, space and friendly mechanics to help you maintain your automobile. Tues, Wed, Thurs 3-9 p.m. Sat 10-5 Lower Level CC Gargae 545-0673

1974 Toyota Celica exceptional condition, best offer 546-9826

78 Toyota Corrila 19,000 miles 30+ mpg, many extras $3300 or BO Call Mike 367-2695 after 6 pm

1971 Ford Galaxie 500 $150 or BO call 6-4144

New and used parts for Triumph, Jaguar, MG and all English cars. Discount prices 586-2013

1971 Datsun 1200 has potential! $125 Bob 549-0571

1972 Chevy wagon best offer 253-9498 after 5

78 T-bird mint must be seen Paul 546-8220

ENTERTAINMENT

Good Times—DJ's for hire, disco and/or Rock call 546-4726 or 546-4777

Soundsystem for Hire perfect for bands, discos, coffeehouses Rick 584-4105

Zeta Psi's last party was an event to remember. The band was hot. They're new. They're ready to rock. They're. . .
INCOGNITO
for bookings call 586-3924, 546-7120, 546-7815, or 256-6845 (Brian or Charlie)

Cosmic Wimpout Residential Tournaments are being held this week! Energize your dice for fun, prizes!

"Dock-Risco" Diverse Musical DJ. Reasonable rates. Call 549-4199

FOR RENT

3 bedroom, tiny house Summer Street in North Amherst. Would like lease taken over starting Jan. Russ 549-6194

Room(s) available in house bordering campus. Jan-Aug call Karen 549-0338

FOR SALE

Portrait Drawing Dennis Delap, 256-8732

2 Leather Jackets Walter Dyer Call 253-7103

Full size bed w/frame & headboard. Call evenings 584-5077

Ski Boots size 11 Kevin 549-4199

Portraits Profile-$7, full face-$10, color-$20, pets in color-$18 Deborah Pompano 549-4634

2 American Airlines ½-price coupons $35 ea. Call 253-7150

Moving selling everything, prices negotiable 584-2586 keep trying

United Half-fare coupon 253-3877 evenings

15" Sony Trinitron TV $275 call Ted 549-6520

Irish Harps various sizes, easy to play. Sylvia Woods, Box 29521, Los Angeles, CA 90029

Men's Nordica Ski Boots nearly new, great condition, size 13m $40 or best price call Julie 549-2664 or 545-3500

Give Greenpeace Seals, Whales T-shirts, necklaces, pins STORM 586-3959

Bed and other bedroom furniture (Cabinets, Desks, etc) must sell, will take best offer! Ron 549-6803

A Steal! 1974 Honda 360CB, only 7000 miles, very good condition, extras, $625 or BO 546-4771

Ice skates womens Riedels 7-8 $50 or BO call Karen 549-4049

Wollrich Down parka small dirty $30 Gerry pack frame $15 Honda AMFM Radio $35 584-3351

United Airlines ½ fare coupon expires Dec. 15th call 546-4161

Car Parts Battery ?20/AM-FM Radio $30/13" Snow tires mounted $35 549-5818

United Airlines 2 half fare coupons $60 ea or BO Steve 545-2627

For Sale orange rust color rug perfect condition-75 or BO 5 cu. ft. refrig 2 months old 100 or BO must sell moving need $ call Paul 6-6230

Couch: great condition, moving so best offer 253-2704

G-78-15 Snows $40 586-8008 nites

5 cubic ft refrigerator good condition $70 or BO 549-1969

Men's 10-speeed bicycle $95.50 Acoustic guitar, case, $65.50 keep trying, 549-0727

FOUND

Irish setter male found 11/17 at Franklin DC call Greg at 6-4945 or Hamp Vet Clinic at 549-5800

HELP WANTED

Overseas Jobs—Summer/year round. Europe, S. America, Australia, Asia, etc. All fields, $500-$1,200 monthly, expenses paid. Sightseeing, free information write: IJC, Box 52-MC, Corona Del Mar, CA. 92625

Dancers wanted part time or full time exotics go-go earn 300 to 350.00 per week call Linda 413-782-9038

Part Time - Bus Survey Persons to help regional planning commission and PVTA conduct on board bus surveys in Amherst Northampton area. One day only, Wednesday, December 12. Both 4 and 8 hour shifts available. Pay $4/hr. Apply by Dec. 3 to LPVRPC, 26 Central St., West Springfield, MA 01089 Tel. 781-6045

INSTRUCTION

Tutoring given in Math and Accounting -Roy 549-5360

LEGAL SERVICES

Attorney Jason R. Rosenthal General Practice Legal Representation for the Amherst, Mass community by apt. only days 584-4285 evenings 253-7617

LOST

Generous Reward Diamond Engagement Ring call collect 1-788-4075

Red and Black Plaid Wool Jacket lost at Wheeler coffehouse 11/15 Reward call Greg at 6-4945

"Lost" 2 rings in downstairs bathroom of Music Dept. in FAC on 11/15. Both have great sentimental value! Please return $reward$ no questions asked call Kris at 6-8282 after 10 pm

Granny glasses adrk frame. Vicinity Bartlett-Herter, Oct. 5-2332 Reward

Lost—glasses in blue denim case call 6-5500

Gold wire frame glasses call Chris 546-7703 Reward!

PARALEGAL INTERNS WANTED

The Legal Services Office has 8 positions available for full time paralegal interns for Spring, 1980 semester. You can receive up to 15 credits from the Office of Internships located at Curry Hicks. These internships will provide exciting, challenging and rewarding work which will include the learning of many legal skills. Interviewing clients, legal research and maintaining a continuing caseload under the supervision of attorneys. Third World students and women are encourageo to apply. Application forms can be obtained at the Curry Hicks building and additional information obtained at the Legal Services Office in 922 Campus Center, and must be submitted by Friday, November 30, 1979 at the latest.

PERSONALS

Female Musicians Wanted to form band. Into Stones. Devento, Circle Drive, Box 132, Monroe, NY 10950

Anyone interested in tryouts for the Basketball Twirling Squad: Tryouts will be at the end of Nov. Call Wendy at 6-6175 for more information

Women do you feel that you did not receive a thorough pelvic exam when you saw a GP or NP at the Infirmary? Have you ever been diagnosed one way, and then seen a gynecologist who gave you a different diagnosis? Please call Linda at 546-8454 MW 2:00 P.M.-7:00 P.M. TuTh 7:30 P.M.-9:00 P.M.

Daytona Beach in March—Peter Pan World Travel Agents MC130223 are offering sensational sunshine and sand during your spring break of March 15-22. Don't get caught without a seat! Includes: 8 days, round trip bus and accommodations, only 1 block from the boardwalk. Double occupancy all for only $299! Please call S. Rayner at 256-0675 or J. Hyde at 1-773-3854 Deposit required immediately-call now

Wanted :undergraduate geology major who is specially adept in Geology 103: Intr. to Oceanography. Please contact as soon as possible 546-7701

My kitten needs a home! Shes affectionate, box-trained and beautiful. Please call 253-5128

Woman, 18, who is kind, warm, seeks a man 21-27 who still enjoys holding hands, white wine and simple things for a joyful, romantic friendship. - Send a letter to G.D.B. General Delivery Amherst, MA 01002

It wriggles ever closer Dec. 3

GNG who? What? explain NSLM

It's better in the Bahamas $319 all inclusive call 6-8365 limited

Howie—Thanks for a great Thanksgiving full of blue dots! Michelle

MUL—The denim jacket is alive and well

RAND—teehee me!

E of Leach Hope we can meet soon if not too late 381-8919

Are you a Beatles Fan? Come see Yellow Submarine. SUB Sat Dec 1st 6:00, 7:45, 9:30 11:15 Admission $1.00

If you make money in an unusual, strange, kinky, illicit, hard-working or All-American way--let us know. We're ROLLING STONE COLLEGE PAPERS and we're looking for people to feature in an article. PLEASE WRITE US IMMEDIATELY: College Papers, Dept. S. 745 Fifth Avenue, N.Y., N.Y. 10022 Include phone number.

ROOMMATE WANTED

House in Shutesbury needs occupants pets OK call Nancy keep trying 253-3301 7 mi from Campus

Two rooms in four bedroom house Amherst 546-9151

Male or female for own bedroom in 3 bedroom apt 113.00 a month Jean 549-6690

Smoking Female 25+ share 4 rm. lake house in Belchertown. Must eat meat, into school, love cats. No dogs 132+ wood heat possible 323-4462 eves

For 2-bedroom Puffton apt Spring sem & Jan non-smoker(s) 549-1758

Woman wanted to share bedroom in Sunderland Apt 990/mo 665-7795

2 females wanted for Belchertown household, bus route, cheap, for details call nights 546-8442 546-8434

ROOM FOR RENT

Woman to rent one bedroom of three bedroom apt in Jan on bus route call 549-1661

ROOM WANTED

Male writer post-grad, needs room under $130, begin Jan. 5-20 Reply: Box 844, Amherst, or mssg at 549-0727

SECURITY DEPOSIT PROBLEMS?

Have any questions about your security deposit? Do you think monies were unfairly deducted for repairs or cleaning? Did you get 5% interest? Do you know where your money is being held? Call the Security Deposit Task Force at UMass Legal Services 545-1995 or Off Campus Housing 545-0865

SERVICES

"Attention Car Owners" Protect you auto with an alarm system. Up to 15% off insurance. One year guarantee 549-4041

Drummer looking for working band call 546-8567

TO SUBLET

One bedroom apartment to sublet Colonial Village call 253-5200

2 bedroom apt. Cliffside take over lease Jan 1 665-7765

WANTED

Fast Immediate Cash for gold-school rings-diamonds-silver Jeff anytime 527-7078 586-0180

Silver Dimes .60 Quarters 1.50, Half dollars 2.50, call for offer Jim 6-8393

UMass Musicians from Southeastern Mass 546-5280

WANTED TO RENT

2 bedroom apt wanted for spring, starting Jan. 1, call 546-5874

Still looking for a 2/3 bedroom apt to sublet/rent call 546-5226 546-5221

2 Seniors looking for 2 or 3 bedroom apt starting January through Spring or Summer please call 546-8928 or 546-8939

2 bedroom apt wanted for Spring sem starting Jan call 546-6368 546-6329

Aluminum Foil by Steve Lafler

Nuke the Whale by Danny Guidera

Beasts by Rob Ranney

Norma B. by M.J. Galper

Doonesbury by Garry Trudeau

TODAY'S CROSSWORD PUZZLE

ACROSS
1 Dillseed
5 Sharpen
10 Thump
14 Vogue
15 "The — Mutiny"
16 Rodent
17 Some parties: 2 words
19 Ardor
20 Yield
21 Utterly
23 City on the Oka
25 Numeric prefix
26 In a — — speaking
30 Responds
34 Gather
35 Friction —
37 Applaud
38 Decay
39 Chatters: Scot.
42 Function
43 Woe word
45 Enemies
46 Five: Prefix
48 Cashier
50 Horizontal timber
52 Heroic
54 Forwarded
55 Sarcastic
59 Footwear item
63 Grit
64 Zoo sight: 2 words
66 Vermin
67 Of a knot
68 Man's name
69 German river
70 Rhonchus
71 Rolltop, e.g.

DOWN
1 Love god
2 Slangy negative
3 Garden
4 Sinews
5 Goal maker
6 Greek letter
7 Stand
8 Upright: 2 words
9 Harasser
10 Cure-all
11 Hearty
12 Russian river
13 Negate
18 Unorthodoxy
22 Sherbet
24 Bingo's kin
26 Corday's victim
27 Soap plant
28 Of birth
29 Destinies
31 Adhered
32 Gusto
33 Harpoon
36 Nuisances
40 Kenyans, e.g.
41 Rachidian
44 Svelte
47 Lured
49 Finial ornament
51 Entertain
53 Law
55 Key
56 Foray
57 Formerly
58 Italian island
60 Vetch
61 Shield
62 Heed
65 Disfigure

UNITED Feature Syndicate
Wednesday's Puzzle Solved

S	L	A	P	S		T	O	N	E		O	S	S	A
T	O	N	I	C		I	R	O	N		S	H	I	N
A	S	T	E	R		B	A	N	D	S	T	A	N	D
R	E	E		A	W	E	D			L	E	V	E	E
		P	A	P	E	R		T	H	E	N	E	W	S
P	L	A	C	E	D		S	H	E	E	T
R	U	S	E	S		S	H	O	R	T	S	T	O	P
E	S	T			S	P	I	N	S			E	N	E
S	H	O	V	E	L	I	N	G		S	I	N	C	E
			A	L	I	C	E		S	T	A	T	E	S
I	N	S	P	I	T	E		D	I	A	N	A
D	E	M	I	T			S	O	R	T		T	U	G
E	V	I	D	E	N	T	L	Y		O	V	I	N	E
S	E	L	L		O	R	A	L		R	I	V	A	L
T	I	M	E	S		T	I	M	E	S		S	M	E	L	L

DC menu

LUNCH
Macaroni and Cheese
Cold Cut Grinder

BASICS LUNCH
Garbanzo Beans and Rice Provencal
Macaroni and Cheese

DINNER
Baked Chicken/Gravy, Cranberry Sauce
Reuben Sandwich

BASICS DINNER
Baked Chicken/Gravy, Cranberry Sauce
Fiesta Rice and Cheese

Custom-Made
In Our Store
Cake'n Ice Cream Cakes

Your choice of
31-derful flavors

BASKIN-ROBBINS ICE CREAM STORE 31

28 Main St. Amherst 253-9774
across from Town Hall
on the BN/BR bus routes

MOVIE LISTINGS

Academy Of Music
Seduction of Joe Tynan 7:00 9:00
Hampshire 4
Fiddler on the Roof 5:30 8:30
Animal House 6:00 8:45
Starting Over 6:00 8:45
Apocalypse Now 5:30 8:30
Mt. Farms 4
Life of Brian 6:15 8:30
And Justice For All 6:00 8:15
"10" 6:00 8:15
Fish that Saved Pitts 6:15 8:30
Holyoke 1-8
Muppet Movie 1:10 3:15 5:20 7:25 9:30
Stranger Calls 1:00 3:00 5:00 7:20 9:30
Onion Field 1:00 3:35 5:35 7:30 9:45
French Postcards 1:35 3:35 5:35 7:40 9:45
Skatetown U.S.A. 1:00 3:05 5:10 7:15 9:20
Halloween 1:45 3:45 5:45 7:45 9:45
Arabian Adventure 2:30 4:40 7:00 9:05
Pleasant St. Cinema
Tall Man 6:00 9:30
Happy Alexander 7:50
Showcase 1-8
Animal House 2:00 7:20 9:45
Fiddler on the Roof 2:00 7:00 9:50
Fish. . .Pittsburg 2:00 7:20 9:30
"10" 2:00 7:20 9:45
Starting Over 2:00 7:20 9:45
Apocalypse Now 1:30 7:10 10:10
Luna 2:00 7:00 9:45
And Justice For All 2:00 7:20 9:40

Live entertainment with JIM KIMBALL

Thursday Nov. 29 9-12

NO COVER
50c DRAFT BEERS

the Hungry I
549-5713
55 University Drive

Sports notices

PARACHUTING—Emergency elections for treasurer and vice president. Resolution for unjumped people. Downpayments for "Death Bus" to Florida. Last organized meeting this year! Thursday Nov. 29th at 7:00 p.m. in SBA 100. All members please attend.

SELF DEFENSE DEMONSTRATION—A Karate demonstration will be held on Monday, December 3 at 7:30 p.m. in the Student Union Ballroom. All phases of this Martial Art will be exhibited from sparring to board breaking. A one dollar donation would be appreciated.

WESTERN MASS HIGH SCHOOL SUPER BOWL—The Western Massachusetts High School Football Super Bowl will be held Saturday, Dec. 1 at Alumni Stadium at UMass. Ware H.S. will play Hoosac Valley H.S. at 10:30 a.m. Holyoke H.S. will play Greenfield H.S. at 1:30 p.m. General Admission tickets are $3.00 and can be purchased at the gate.

1980 FOOTBALL CAPTAINS PICKED—Defensive end Frank DiTommaso, defensive back Bob Manning, and center Frad Read have been elected tri-captains for the 1980 University of Massachusetts football team.

BASKETBALL BROADCASTS—The three station network consisting of WHMP (Northampton), WHAI (Greenfield) and WIXY (Springfield) will make it possible for UMass basketball fans to follow the Minutemen home and away basketball games during the 1979-80 season. The first broadcast will be on Saturday afternoon December 1st from Ann Arbor, Michigan when the Minutemen play the University of Michigan in their season opener with a 2:00 p.m. tapoff time.

SPORTS STAFF—Don't forget to vote today!!!

CINEMA 1-8 HOLYOKE MALL AT INGLESIDE
Mass. Pike Exit 4 to Int. Exit 15
24 Hr. Movie-Phone 538-7510

"THREE STOOGES FESTIVAL" FRI SAT SUN* — "ADV OF PINOCCHIO" MATS FRI SAT SUN*

Recorded in The MUPPET MOVIE (G)
A True Story THE ONION FIELD (R)
HELD OVER WHEN A STRANGER CALLS (R) Today 1:00-3:00-5:00-7:20-9:30
THE NIGHT HE CAME HOME HALLOWEEN No Mats Fri Sat Sun 5:45-7:45-9:45
Arabian Adventure (PG)
WINNER! 3 ACADEMY AWARDS PETER O'TOOLE KATHARINE HEPBURN THE LION IN WINTER Ends Tuesday
FRENCH POSTCARDS (PG)
SKATETOWN USA ROLLER DISCO! (PG)

*Child Discount Coupons Avail. at all Mall Stores

ACADEMY OF MUSIC Northampton
Only Area Showing Now, Ends Tues. at 7:00 and 9:00
There are many ways to be seduced. Joe Tynan knows them all.
ALAN ALDA BARBARA HARRIS MERYL STREEP
THE SEDUCTION OF JOE TYNAN (R)
AT THE GATES OF SMITH COLLEGE

AMERICAN MULTI CINEMA
ADULTS $2.75 STUDENTS & SR. CITIZENS with AMC CARD $2.25 TWI-LITE SHOW $1.50 Special Engagements Excluded Twi-Lite Show - Limited to Seating
TIMES SHOWN FOR TODAY ONLY

HAMPSHIRE 4 584-7550 HAMP. MALL ON CAFE SQ. RT. 9, HADLEY, MASS
Apocalypse Now (R) (5:30 @ $1.50) 8:30
NATIONAL LAMPOON'S ANIMAL HOUSE (R) (6:00 @ $1.50) 8:45
BURT REYNOLDS JILL CLAYBURGH Starting Over (R) (6:00 @ $1.50) 8:45
a tradition returns... Fiddler on the Roof (G) (5:30 @ $1.50) 8:30

MOUNTAIN FARMS 4 584-9153 MOUNTAIN FARMS MALL ROUTE 9 HADLEY, MASS
A temptingly tasteful comedy 10 (R) (6:00 @ $1.50) 8:15
AL PACINO AND JUSTICE FOR ALL (R) (6:00 @ $1.50) 8:15
Honk if you love Brian. MONTY PYTHON'S LIFE OF BRIAN (R) (6:15 @ $1.50) 8:30
As jocks they were jokes The Fish That Saved Pittsburgh (PG) (6:15 @ $1.50) 8:30

UPC Productions and The Bluewall Present

Thursday, November 29
9:30 P.M.
$1.00 cover
TOC Sticker and Valid ID Required to purchase alcohol

The rusty nail Inn
Presents

Sat. Nov. 30 Roomfull of Blues cover charge $3.00 Tickets available at the door only

Sunday Dec. 1 JUSTIN Cover charge $2.00 Tickets available at the door only

Fri. Dec. 7 Doc Watson

Tickets $4.50 in advance & at the door
tickets available at all Ticketron outlets
Special Guests: Orin Star & Gary Mahalik

Sat. dec. 8 Johnathan Edwards

Special Guests: Mason Daring and Jeannie Stall
Tickets $4.50 in advance & at the door
Tickets available in advance at all Ticketron outlets

Open till 2
Rt. 47 Sunderland 665-4437
24 hour taped message

Patriots, Dolphins battle for AFC East lead

By DAN SEWELL
Associated Press

MIAMI— New England tight end Russ Francis notes that if the Patriots and Miami Dolphins live up to their season-long form, tonight's battle for the American Football Conference East lead will end in a scoreless tie.

It's been a strange season for both teams. The Patriots — so very, very good, or so horrid. The Dolphins — struggling through quarterback problems, mistakes and the inability to win a big game.

"The perfect scenario for this game," Francis said, "would be to go into overtime, nobody scores and we'd end in a tie."

In games such as their 28-13 victory over Miami Oct. 21, a 56-3 drubbing of the New York Jets, and a 50-21 victory over Baltimore, the Patriots have been awesome. Yet they've blown a chance to run away from the Dolphins by losing to seemingly outmatched teams such as Buffalo, Baltimore and Green Bay.

"It's really hard to figure out what's wrong with us," Francis said. "It's nothing tangible. I would like to think this is a good team. I hope it is, but I'm not sure. We have a lot of talent ..."

"We find it too hard to take the easy road," suggested linebacker Steve Nelson.

The Dolphins are 8-5. They have yet to beat a winning team (although they beat Chicago, Buffalo and Seattle, all 7-6 now, when they had losing records).

"We haven't won any showdowns this year," Coach Don Shula said. "We're due."

Dastardly Dan's
35 E. PLEASANT ST AMHERST
$2.25 60 OZ. PITCHERS
Sandwich, Chips & Beer For Just $2.25
ROAST BEEF TURKEY HAM & CHEESE

CALVIN ICE CREAM
HOME OF THE 35c ICE CREAM CONE
Milkshakes Sundaes
Half-Gallons
HOURS: MON-WED 12-5 THURS-SAT 12-10
CALVIN ICE CREAM SHOP
233 N. PLEASANT ST.
CARRIAGE SHOPS
549-6938

Pumps are back!

Bolles Shoes
8 Main St., Amherst

WATCH THE SUN GO DOWN AT THE T.O.C. HAPPY HOUR

HOT-L WARREN
S. DEERFIELD, MASS.
665-8757

Thurs. Nov. 29 Julia Burrough
Fri. Nov. 30 Billings Gap foot stomping country dancing bluegrass
Sat. Dec. 1 Life in Paradise
Sun. Dec. 2 Scott & Pam Ritter fine flat & finger pickin
Mon. Dec.3 Open Dart Tournament 8 p.m. sharp 4 nicely set up dart boards
Tues. Dec. 4 Open stage for Musicians stop in or call ahead to reserve your time slot, acoustic musicians welcome, we're open to other performers as well
Wed. Dec. 5 Professor Potter
Hotel Restaurant Open
Stop in for a pizza & a beer and find out what's happening lately at the Hot-L. Our parlor juice bar open with fresh squeezed-juice, hot-spiced cider, etc.
Thurs. Dec. 6
BLUEGRASS JAMBOREE
with Andy May, Wynn Fay, & many others

Tom Jackson, a fiddler known to most of the people in the valley has been laid up in an automobile accident last week. He needs a little help getting back on his feet. Come and lend your good spirits to his benefit. The will be one of the best bluegrass jamborees of the year. Donations accepted. Good bluegrass pickers welcome to this event. Call Bruce at Hot'l for details.

Hardee's®

THE BEST EATIN' SPECIAL: TWO DELICIOUS BIG ROAST BEEF SANDWICHES FOR ONLY $1.89.
Good at all participating Hardee's. Please present this coupon before ordering. One coupon per customer, please. Customer must pay any sales tax due on the purchase price. This coupon not good in combination with any other offers.
HARDEE'S of HADLEY 430 RUSSELL STREET
or any other participating Hardee's Restaurants
Hardee's "BEST EATIN' ALL AROUND."
COUPON EXPIRES December 5, 1979
© Hardee's Food Systems, Inc. 1979

Stickwomen win nationals opener

By MIKE ESTRADA
Collegian Staff

PRINCETON, N.J. — UMass sophomore Judy Strong's second goal at 20:15 of the second half paced the Minutewomen past a surprising Michigan State squad, 3-2, in the first round of the AIAW national tournament here yesterday.

UMass moves on to quarter-final round action today against St. Louis University at 2:30. The Billikens defeated last year's third place finisher San Jose State in its first round, 3-0.

Strong's 23rd goal of the season broke a 2-2 tie and stole the game from the upset-minded Spartans, on a muddy, uneven field.

The East Lansing team, runner-up in its regional tournament, took control of the game mid-way through the first half despite being two goals down. At 10:25 Spartan Doreen Roudebush took a pass from freshman Marie Herman and shot past UMass goalie Karen Stifter to tie the game at two.

UMass, despite scoring two goals early in the game, never got completely on track on the natural surface here, their first game on grass since Nov. 4.

The Minutewomen spent much of the game on their defensive end, unable to clear the ball downfield.

"It took us a while to get used to the field," co-captain Julie McHugh said. "The ball was really slow. We like to use a lot of give and go's, but they (Michigan State) kept cutting off our passes and going back to the middle."

Strong's first goal came as a surprise to Spartan goalie Katherine Costello (3 saves) who eased off when it appeared she thought Strong's shot was taken outside of the striking circle. Strong's easy shot rolled untouched into the net.

Strong figured in UMass' second goal when she fed freshman Sue Caples who fired a waist-high shot to the left of Costello, giving the Minutewomen a two-goal lead at halftime.

Starting late in the first half Michigan State came to life, pressuring the UMass defense for 19 penalty corners by game's end. UMass goalie Stifter was brilliant during the onslaught with six acrobatic saves.

The Spartans scored their first goal at 4:00 of the second half when senior Connie Seymour fired a shot to the left of Stifter off a penalty corner. It was the halfback's second goal of the year.

UMass coach Pam Hixon, who took the Minutewomen to a fourth place finish at the national tournament last year in Ellensburg, Washington was content with the win but not with her team's play.

"It was first-game jitters," Hixon said. "But the field really made a difference. On this field you can run as fast as the ball can move and that makes a difference in our game."

Springfield College, the only other New England representative here in Division I, lost their first round game to third-seeded California State at Long Beach, 3-1.

Springfield plays in a consolation game today against the University of Iowa. The Buckeyes, coached by former UMass mentor Judith Davidson, lost their first round game against Davis and Elkins, 3-0.

Penn State, the tournament's top-seeded team, rolled past host Princeton University, 3-0.

Collegian Sports

Wrestlers slip by BU on John Allen victory

By DONNA SULLIVAN
Collegian Staff

In competition that coach Dave Amato called "the most exciting meet since I've been here," the matmen outwrestled the Boston University Terriers on Tuesday in a match that was decided only after the last bout was through.

When mighty John Allen stepped on the mat, the score was 19-16 and UMass was losing. According to Coach Amato, it was all up to him, Allen needed a superior decision for a UMass victory.

With one minute left in the match, Allen was ahead but shy of a superior decision. Showing the skill and slickness that earned him an awesome reputation, Allen let his opponent go, then proceeded to pin him, winning the bout and the match for UMass.

Things did not start out good for the matmen though, according to Amato. After the first two matches, the 118 and 126 pound classes, UMass was down 10-0.

Freshman Doug Johnson, wrestling at 134, started off the UMass scoring with an 8-4 victory. 150 pound Kevin Murphy followed suit with six points, pinning Steve McPhearson of BU. Freshman Dave Devoy wrestling in the 158 pound class, brought the matmen to a mere one point behind with an 8-6 victory.

Losing the next two weight classes, UMass fell behind 19-12 with just two matches to go.

190 pound senior Bill McQuaide dominated his bout, and with a 14-6 victory, chalked up four points for UMass and set the stage for John Allen.

"It was a very satisfying match," said Amato, "everybody gave 100 percent."

"They really came through when they had to," said Amato of the wrestlers who went in in place of the injured.

This weekend the matmen travel to the Coast Guard Academy for a tournament in which 16 schools will be competing. UMass' John Allen is the defending champ of this double elimination tourney.

Wednesday Dec. 5, the wrestlers travel to the Massachusetts Maritime Academy. "By that time," said Amato, "we should be more healthy."

Sophomore Kevin Murphy defeated Boston University's Steve McPhearson in the Minutemen's victory. (Collegian file photo)

Minutewomen open with victory over Harvard

By DANNY GUIDERA
Collegian Staff

The Minutewomen opened their season on an up note by downing the Harvard Crimson, 83-69, in Cambridge last night. UMass center Julie Ready led all scorers with 31 points and pulled down eight rebounds. Sue Peters contributed 18 points to the Minutewomen cause and also set up many of Ready's baskets.

The game was a close see-saw battle throughout the first half. As the second half opened up, Harvard rallied to take the lead by as much as four points, but the Minutewomen were not to be had.

With five minutes gone in the second half, UMass put together a succession of free throws, two by Ginger Legare and two by freshman Val DePaolo, to tie the game at 45.

The lead changed hands three times before two more free throws by Legare (16 points on the night, eight from the foul line) put the Minutewomen up for good, 52-51.

"Ginger Legare, I've never seen her play so well," remarked UMass coach Mary Ann Ozdarski, adding, "All the kids played well."

"We came back very well; we forced the pressure. We got ahead and stayed ahead," said assistant coach Steve Jefferson. "We struggled back when we had every opportunity to fold."

Harvard center Elaine Holtuch led the Crimson in scoring with 18 points. Guard Ann Scannel added 12.

Steve Zack

The Patriots plunder

BULLETIN! The New England Patriots will attempt to shock the entire football world tonight by playing up to their proposed standard of excellence against the Miami Dolphins in the Orange Bowl.

Realistically, with the injuries heaped upon the hometown boys last week I don't think they'll be celebrating victory in too many of the local bars around Foxboro, or anywhere else that Pats fans happen to hang out for that matter.

It isn't solely because of last week's unforgettable battle with Buffalo has forced me to take a pessimistic view of the Patriots. What has gotten me to hop off of the Pats bandwagon is that throughout the season they have played like a roller coaster with more downhill runs than up and team is presently heading down that one last deep drop that will unfortunately keep them out of the playoffs.

I have felt for a great portion of this season that the major factor for the Pat's rises and falls, as I mentioned in earlier columns, is Steve Grogran.

Not wishing to belabor the subject beyond a tolerable point, which I may have already passed by, it is evident that the quarterback situation for the Pats must undergo an overhaul. I don't see Tom Owens as the team savior, for like Grogan, it is a far better thing to keep him off the field than to let him on. The apparent rescuer of this team is Matt Cavanaugh, but the injury factor that has enraptured this team has stricken the young QB in the knee, and it is doubtful that he will see action before next season.

One other key factor for Pats fans to consider is the punting situation, held by the incomparably bad Eddie Hare. Why the Foxboro contingent didn't discard the obviously ineffective Hare is beyond comprehensible reason. Perhaps he should be replaced with Super Toe, the toy that kicks a little football when you hit it on the head. It gets twice the distance that Hare does and a lot more hang time. Better yet, why don't they just hit Hare in the head when he's about to punt? Wouldn't hurt the punting game anymore than it already is, just Hare.

Facing a similar quarterback situation as the Pats is tonight's opponent, Miami. However, they have rationalized to themselves that Bob Griese is fast approaching the Medicare stage and have relinquished the starting job to Don Strock, which is like putting an empty Tidy Bowl container in your toilet. It makes it look cleaner and fresher but it's still the same stinking mess that was there before.

As for the game itself, I tend towards leaning in favor of the Miami squad, the Dolphins being a tough foe at home, and the fact that the Patriots take to natural grass like Iranian students take to deportation.

Taking a brief look at the rest of the NFL, wouldn't the perfect Chanukah or Christmas gift for the football fan be the Eagles in the Super Bowl instead of the Dallas Cowboys? Philadelphia's play this year has them very deservant of the NFC crown. I believe it would be a lot more pleasurable to watch Harold Carmichael glide down the sideline and catch a pass for the umpteenth straight game rather than watch the Cowboys' Drew Pearson toss his cookies in the end zone.

As for the central divisions, Pittsburgh needs no fanfare and I am willing to bet that Tampa Bay is doing it with mirrors.

In the AFC West, Denver and San Diego are fighting out a survival to the fittest. Whichever can keep up the present pace the two teams are winning at will take the division. Makes a lot of sense, doesn't it?

In the NFC West, history may be set when either Los Angeles or New Orleans wins the division with a sub-.500 record. Speaks highly for the balance of competition in the league.

MASSACHUSETTS DAILY VOLUME CIX, ISSUE 59 Friday, November 30, 1979

Collegian

1979, Massachusetts Daily Collegian

Student Newspaper of the University of Massachusetts/Amherst, Ma. 01003 (413)545-3500

Hostages face speedy trial

By MAUREEN JOHNSON
Associated Press

TEHRAN, Iran — The Moslem militants holding the U.S. Embassy declared yesterday that a trial of American hostages would become "inevitable" if the deposed shah is allowed to leave the United States for Mexico.

A spokesman said a trial could begin "very soon" and hinted that the estimated 50 hostages also might be maltreated.

The number of hostages held by the militants increased from 49 to 50, after a recount.

Doctors at New York Hospital, where he has undergone gallstone and cancer treatment, have told exiled Shah Mohammad Reza Pahlavi he can travel, and a spokesman for the shah says he might return to his Mexico residence within 10 days.

The new threats in the deepening crisis came after more than one million Iranians, chanting hatred for the "Yankees" and their willingness to die, poured through Tehran's streets in a massive show of religious devotion to Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini's holy war against America.

The United States, trying a new diplomatic tactic, asked the International Court of Justice in the Netherlands to order Iran to release the embassy hostages.

A world court ruling would further bolster Washington's hand before the U.N. Security Council, scheduled to meet this weekend in a session many regard as crucial in the diplomatic campaign to end the confrontation peacefully.

Iran's religious rulers were waiting until the last minute to announce whether the new acting foreign minister, Sadegh Ghotbzadeh, will take part in the U.N. debate. Ghotbzadeh was expected to announce the decision at a news conference scheduled for today.

The threats against the hostages, held since the embassy was seized Nov. 4, were made in a statement by the militant students carried by Tehran Radio and in a spokesman's telephone interview with The Associated Press.

The embassy militants and Iranian leaders have threatened previously to put the hostages on trial as "spies" if the United States allowed the shah to go anywhere but back to Iran to stand trial.

"If the U.S. government does not return the ousted shah to Iran, and if it implements the plot of sending him to another country, the trial of the hostages will be inevitable," the radio statement said.

Crisis stalemate may end soon

By ROBERT B. CULLEN
Associated Press

WASHINGTON — How long can the crisis in Iran continue?

Several critical factors point to the possibility that the stalemate will be broken, for better or worse, early next week.

One factor is the health of the deposed Shah of Iran. By midweek his doctors were suggesting he might be able to travel by this weekend. He has said he would like to return to Mexico.

If he does, the proximate cause for the seizure of the American hostages in Tehran will be removed.

That in itself would not mean the hostages' release, of course. No one at the State Department claims to know what impact it would have.

The next factor is the Iranian political and religious calendar. Iran's dominant Shiite Moslem sect is now observing the month of Moharram, a period roughly analagous to the Christian observance of Lent.

Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini, for whom politics and religion are one, has scheduled the national referendum on his new constitution for Sunday, while the religious fervor is at its peak. If Khomeini has had a rational purpose for whipping Iran into a fervor, it may be to insure a favorable vote on the constitution.

Once Moharram and the referendum are over, it is possible Khomeini will find the time ripe to end the crisis.

A third factor is the United Nations. The United States is committed to seeking a Security Council resolution calling for the release of the hostages. It will probably get one this weekend. Then, international etiquette would demand that Iran be given a day or two to answer.

If the answer is negative as expected, President Carter will be in a new position by the middle of next week. Having tried peaceful, diplomatic measures, he will have to decide whether more forceful steps are warranted.

A fourth factor is Carter's plan to announce on Dec. 4 his intention to run for re-election. The announcement was to be followed by a gala series of fund-raising dinners.

The dinners and the panoply can be postponed for a while. What cannot be postponed is the inevitability that, starting in January, the voters will be judging Carter's leadership. He and his advisers realize that the president's handling of the Iran crisis will be the dominant factor in their minds.

The confluence of all four factors may bring the drama to a climax. But no one can predict whether it will have a happy ending.

The only certainty is that there are pitifully few avenues that seem likely to lead to the release of the hostages and fewer still that promise anything but trouble for the United States in the vital Persian Gulf area.

News analysis

The U.S. files suit in International Court against Iran. See story, page 2.

TEHRAN, IRAN - This masked and well-armed girl is one of the Iranian students who holds 50 Americans hostage in the U.S. embassy here. The students say they will not give up the hostages until the Shah is returned for trial. (AP Laserphoto)

Trustees return funding control to SGA

By ED LEVINE
Collegian Staff

Student Government Association leaders expressed satisfaction yesterday following action by the University Board of Trustees Budget and Finance Committee to return control of student funding to the SGA.

The committee met in Boston Wednesday and agreed to delete references to exact dollar amounts from the trustees' program statement for the Student Activities Trust Fund. The program statement, the budget summary for the allocation of the SATF, originally required certain funds to be distributed to specific campus organizations.

The decision however must still be approved by the full board at its next regular meeting.

In a related move, the committee also agreed to allow the SGA to seek alternatives in an effort to reorganize the Student Activities accounting system. Administrators had previously planned to require the financial records be processed through the University accounting system.

The program statement had required $1.50 per student be allocated to the Distinguished Visitors Program, $3 to the Union Program Council, $10 for the bus system, $9 to the combined area governments, $16 to operate the Student Activities Office, and $5.70 to liquidate the $150,000 SGA deficit. This left $38.80 of the required $84 tax to be allocated freely by the Undergraduate Student Senate.

Senate Treasurer William Fitzgerald said the trustees had agreed to delete all the dollar amounts, with the exception of the $10 for the transportation system. Fitzgerald said the SGA is bound by a contract to fulfill the requirement and it would have been met regardless of the appearance in the program statement.

Fitzgerald also explained the $16 originally budgeted for the Student Activities Office had been replaced by a set total amount of $276,000, the amount SGA had requested, but $4,000 less than the program statement required.

The decision to allow the SGA to choose its own method of reorganizing the accounting system was at the recommendation of Vice Chancellor for Student Affairs Dennis L. Madson, Fitzgerald said.

Madson was out of town and unavailable for comment yesterday.

Former Student Senate Speaker David Barenberg yesterday said the "trustees made clear what we wanted...the best system to meet the needs of the students and to provide for accountability in the system."

Both Barenberg and Fitzgerald said the SGA would seek the aid of an outside accounting firm to study the accounting problem and would report on their progress to the trustees in April. Both said the system may go with University accounting, providing flexibility can be built in to allow for all campus groups to operate efficiently.

DIGEST

This picture, released Wednesday by NASA, is the best view yet avaliable of Saturn and its rings, according to NASA scientists. The view was taken by Pioneer Saturn on August 29, 1979, from a distance of 1,500,000 miles. (AP Laserphoto)

Lillian would kill Ayatollah

COW, N.H. (AP) — Lillian Carter, the president's mother, told a men's club Thursday night that if she had a million dollars she would hire someone to kill the Ayatollah Khomeini.

During a lengthy questionand-answer session at the Bow Men's Club, Miss Lillian was asked how she would handle "fanatics" like the Ayatollah, if she were president.

"If I had a million dollars to spare I'd look for someone to kill him," she said, and the crowd leaped to its feet and cheered.

She delighted her audience with comments about homosexuality, Sen. Edward Kennedy, Billy Carter's drinking problems and a variety of other topics.

Gas lines by Christmas?

BOSTON (AP) — Gasoline delivery cutbacks by major oil companies could mean a return of long Massachusetts gas lines in time for the Christmas holidays, a gas dealers association warned yesterday.

"Allocations are going down and it's affecting nearly everyone," said Ed Coletta, a spokesman for the Bay State Gasoline Dealers Association. "The Department of Energy says there won't be problems until March, but we think it will be much sooner."

Coletta said the major oil companies have informed Massachusetts gas dealers that they will be cutting back deliveries as much as 10 percent in December.

Cons join shovel chain gang

NORTHAMPTON (AP) — Remember that song about "workin' on the chain gang?" This winter some Hampshire County convicts may be singing it as they shovel the sidewalks of elderly and infirm residents.

Two District Court probation officers say they want to offer probationers who can't pay their fines a chance to make good on them by shoveling snow off walks.

Probation Officer William Nagle said that the work would be a form of rehabilitation as well as a means of paying off fines.

"My philosophy on rehabilitation is work, doing something," Nagle said. "The most important thing in rehabilitation is helping people."

Nagle and colleague Edward Driscoll said serious offenders would not be allowed to participate in the program.

Chrysler bail out ok'd

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate Banking Committee approved a $1.25 billion federal loan guarantee plan yesterday for the Chrysler Corp., including a qualified requirement for at least a two-year wage freeze for the automaker's employees.

The vote was 10-4.

The House Banking Committee has approved a $1.5 billion guarantee proposed by the administration, which does not call for a wage freeze.

Rep. John Brademas, D-Ind., the assistant House majority leader, said the House will probably take up the measure in about two weeks. Senate action is expected later in December.

The bill approved by the Senate committee proposed a total aid package of up to $4 billion, compared to $3 billion from both public and private sources in an administration bill.

Mexico won't take shah

MEXICO CITY (AP) - The government said last night it will not let the shah of Iran back into the country because the "situation has changed radically" in the U.S.-Iranian crisis and harboring the deposed ruler is not in Mexico's interest.

"The government of Mexico will not be in a position to renew the visa of the shah on Dec. 9," Foreign Minister Jorge Castaneda said in a statement to reporters, so it makes "no sense for him to return to Mexico." Castaneda refused to answer the reporters' questions.

State may lose credit cards

BOSTON (AP) — Texaco is threatening not to renew 756 credit cards issued to the state motor pool if the state doesn't come up with some $20,000 owed the company since early last summer.

It won't be possible for the money to be appropriated by Jan. 1, when the cards are up for renewal, because the Legislature is out of session.

The director of the state Motor Vehicle Management Bureau, Arthur Sweeney, confirmed the problem yesterday.

Carter appeals to world court for release of U.S. hostages

By BARRY SCHWEID
Associated Press

WASHINGTON —The United States filed suit against Iran in an international court yesterday, appealing for immediate action to free American hostages held by Islamic militants in Tehran.

In an urgent appeal to the International Court of Justice in The Hague, the Carter administration called for a ruling that the American hostages be freed and the grounds of the U.S. Embassy in Tehran be cleared of the mob that seized the compound on Nov. 4.

In a letter to the international court, Secretary of State Cyrus R. Vance also asked the court for unspecified "interim measures of protection" for the hostages.

The court, composed of 15 international justices, is not in session, but Vance cited the "extraordinary urgency" of the Iranian situation and asked for action "within days."

"The present crisis constitutes a serious threat to international peace and security," Vance wrote.

The U.S. suit asked the court to "declare that Iran shall release immediately and permit to depart from Iran immediately all hostages and other members of the embassy."

It also asked that Iran be required to pay unspecified reparations to the United States "for numerous grave violations of international legal rights."

The action came a day after President Carter vowed in a nationally broadcast news conference to use all legal and diplomatic means to free the hostages.

Carter said he would not set a deadline for resolution of the crisis through peaceful means, but on Capitol Hill, 54 members of the House of Representatives introduced a resolution asking him to do just that. The congressmen asked for a deadline for "increasingly severe military operations" if the hostages cannot be freed by peaceful means.

It was not immediately clear whether the appeal to the international court could serve more than a symbolic and psychological purpose of increasing pressure on the regime of Iran's revolutionary leader, Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini.

A State Department legal expert said the U.N. Security Council has the power to enforce a court ruling against Iran with economic sanctions and other measures.

Despite virtually unanimous international support for the United States in the 26-day crisis, Iran so far has refused to yield either the hostages or the embassy.

The State Department has been saying there are 49 hostages now held at the embassy, but yesterday it was indicated that at least 50 Americans are captives there.

Iran's terms for releasing the hostages are that the deposed Shah Mohammed Reza Pahlavi, who is in New York for cancer treatment, be extradited for trial as a war criminal. This the Carter administration has refused to do. The shah is expected to leave the New York hospital within a few days to return to Mexico.

CHRISTCHURCH, NEW ZEALAND—The wreckage of the DC-10 plane that crashed Tuesday lies on the side of Mt. Erebus in the Antarctic. Investigations now indicate the crash might have resulted from pilot navigation error. (AP Laserphoto)

Group discusses legality of Seabrook share purchases

By THOMAS S. BROWN
Associated Press

BOSTON — The Public Utilities Commission was asked yesterday to take a harder look at a plan for 20 Massachusetts municipal power companies to buy a $300-million-plus share of the Seabrook nuclear plant.

At a hearing, James C. McManus, assistant Massachusetts attorney general, asked the PUC to determine whether the purchase is justified, not merely scrutinize the technical points of the bond issue needed for the deal.

Joining him in that request was Harvey Salgo, representing the Municipal Power Advocacy Coalition, a group opposed to the Seabrook transaction.

However, attorney Kenneth Barna contended there is no basis in state law for such a broad PUC review. Barna represents the Massachusetts Municipal Wholesale Electric Co., the consortium planning to make the purchase on behalf of the local, publicly owned utilities.

A commission decision on the issue is expected within 10 days. Its next hearing on the purchase is scheduled Dec. 11.

Much of yesterday's legal skirmishing centered on the question of whether a 1975 state law setting up MMWEC supercedes other statutes dealing with utility regulation.

Barna argued that it does, leaving the commission with only the responsibility of making sure the proposed bond issue is in order. McManus and Salgo contended that other laws and case decisions also apply, giving the commission the authority to decide whether the purchase itself is in the public interest.

The Seabrook, N.H., nuclear offering has triggered controversies in several of the Massachusetts communities being lined up as potential buyers.

Originally, MMWEC planned to buy an 11 percent share of the project from the Public Service Co. of New Hampshire, the utility that has encountered financial problems in building the controversial power station.

However, nine of MMWEC's 29 member communities disapproved of the transaction, cutting the size of the purchase to about 5.8 percent.

Among the cities and towns still in on the deal are Hudson, Danvers, Peabody, Mansfield, Hingham and Shrewsbury.

MMWEC manager Thomas H. Roger said his company opposes the attorney general's request mainly because it would lead to duplicate regulation. He said the state Energy Facilities Siting Council already is reviewing the proposed purchase in a comprehensive fashion and there is no need for the PUC to do the same.

"That would just make us spend a lot more money. These guys cost a lot," he said, pointing to his attorney, Barna.

Group reports SALT II unfair

By LAWRENCE L. KNUTSON
Associated Press

WASHINGTON — A report drafted by a decisive majority of the Senate Armed Services Committee concludes that the SALT II treaty is unfair, unverifiable and "not in the national security interests of the United States."

A committee majority, said by Senate sources to be 11-6 and perhaps greater, is prepared to recommend the Senate not ratify the strategic arms limitation treaty with the Soviet Union until major changes are made.

Although the committee's conclusion has no official standing in the Senate ratification process, it is bound to have a psychological impact on the embattled treaty.

The report, which may be voted on early next week, was made available by a staff member of a senator opposed to the treaty. The aide asked not to be identified by publicly.

Sources said the vote of Sen. Sam Nunn, D-Ga., is still hanging in the balance.

Meanwhile, Frank Moore, the chief White House lobbyist on Capitol Hill, said the Senate will not be able to complete work on the treaty until after the first of the year. He said chances for ultimate ratification are good, although neither supporters nor opponents currently have the votes needed to prevail.

Treaty opponents said the pact is not likely to reach the floor at all in 1979 and vowed to mount a filibuster on the motion to proceed. They said the current crisis in Iran has further poisoned the atmosphere against the pact, and one staff aide said, "It's as dead as a doornail."

The Armed Services Committee had a long series of hearings into the provisions of the pact, which ran parallel with a similar examination conducted by the Senate Foreign Relations Committee.

The Foreign Relations Committee voted 9-6 to recommend the Senate approve the pact. It said that on balance, the accord represented a useful framework which could be used to produce deep cuts in nuclear arms in SALT III. And it said Soviet compliance with its terms was adequately verifiable.

The majority on the Armed Services Committee disagreed.

STAR TREK: Grandmother trekkie to view movie's premiere

By CAROL ROSENBERG
Collegian Staff

The Star Trek rage has peaked and decreased, been "reborn" in the minds of some, forgotten by others.

But for textbook annex cashier Shirley S. Maiewski, Star Trek, past and future, is a way of life.

Maiewski, a grandmother in her fifties, has worked here since 1967 and is a self-professed expert in the world of Spock, Kirk and the Star Trek world.

Next week she'll meet up with the stars, writers and fans of Star Trek, in the premier of the new Star Trek movie in Washington D.C. Chairman of the "Star Trek Welcommittee," Maiewski says the committee has answered over 50,000 Star Trek questions in writing about subjects ranging from show episodes, the actors, themselves, and underlying meaning of the upcoming television series, "When will Star Trek Return?"

"The main question for many years was when it is coming back," she said. "It's been 10 years we've waited for it.

"People have learned to be creative because of Star Trek. I never knew I could write," she said, referring to a short story of her own about Captain Kirk which was published by Bantam Books in a series of short stories called "The New Voyager."

The story features the hero of the series, Captian Kirk, and is based on the characters of Gene Roddenberry. In the story, Kirk "Becomes insane, and the Klingons-- the villains of the piece-- take him to the 1950's and he winds up in a State Mental Hospital. He has a terrible time until Spock comes and rescues him," she said.

Last year Maiewski flew to California to view the filming of the movie. Invited by Paramount Studios, she said she spent two days on the set of the movie's filming.

Dressed in her red smock and wearing her name tag, Maeiwski maintains her identity by wearing a "Star Trek Lives" button on the collar on her smock. "I wear my little button and I find a lot of closet Star Trek fans," she said.

Star Trek, she said, "was ahead of its time, it has a great deal to say about getting along with each other. It showed us just because someone is different, they're not necessarily evil and that's very unusual for T.V."

Staff photo by Joanne Owen

"I've made so many friends all over the world," she said. "It frightens me that I wouldn't know the people I'd already known without Mr. Roddenberry and I surely wouldn't have the friends that I have."

The premier of the film, scheduled for next Thursday in Washington, D.C. is followed by a reception at the Smithsonian Institution. Most of the actors, she said, will be there.

Maiewski is proud of the "trekkies," she said. "Trekkies" is a term often associated with "teenie boppers" but is much more respectable. "You know there's lawyers, PhD's and even school teachers," who are "trekkies."

As further justification of the group's widespread influence, she said, "It was the Star Trek fans who wrote to President Ford, who has the first space shuttle named the "Enterprise," she said.

Maiewski has worked at the annex since 1967, when the series started. In 1967 I worked my first "book rush" here. I've really enjoyed working here," she said.

Potok shows reasoning behind his novels

The Distinguished Visitors Program sponsored reknowned author Chaim Potok who spoke to a captive audience of 500 at Bowker Auditorium. (Staff photo by Howard Labitt)

By ELLEN TUCHMAN
Collegian Staff

Chaim Potok, renowned contemporary author of novels such as "The Promise," "The Chosen," "My Name is Asher Lev," and "Wanderings" presented the "invisible scaffolding that holds together the books I've written" to an audience of 500 last night in Bowker Auditorium.

Sponsored by the Distinguished Visitors Program in conjunction with B'nai Brith Hillel Foundation, Potok continued, "We all live our lives inside an umbrella of Western secular civilization...we're living in the generator plant of this umbrella and the University is the powerhouse where ideas are tested—lives are made and lives are broken here."

"From the heart of the umbrella civilization, the novel is essential to the endeavors of western civilization," Potok said.

The West is off on a different track from the rest of the world and as civilizations "bump up against each other flash points result. This generates a certain kind of tension and out of this generates a certain kind of creativity," Potok said. Cultural confusion results, questions are asked and responses given. The response takes the form of a piece of music, art or a book, he added.

Potok said one element of modern serious literature is that of the rebel, the iconoclast who inherits values from the past and finds the games people play, and the masks they wear intolerable as he grows up.

"Storytelling is utilized to study relationships between individuals and values and the conflict they enter into as they grow—this is the focal point of exploration for story-tellers," Potok said. He added that the writer gives shape and configuration to the elements of the human condition and that when these stories are used to understand the species, the realm of serious storytelling is entered.

Potok illustrated his ideas with examples, saying, "The individual is polarized against the 'glory of war' in 'The Red Badge of Courage' against life in France in 'Madame Bovary.'" In his first novel "The Chosen" Potok employed this theme. He questioned whether truths offered to us by the "umbrella civilization" had to be thrown away when the character Danny Saunders, a Hasidic Jew, studies Freud.

Potok decided to become a writer at the age of 15 after reading Evelyn Waugh's "Brideshead Revisited." "I'll never forget the effect this book had on me—I lived more deeply inside this novel than I lived inside my own life for the length of time it took me to read it," he said. Potok said he began to wonder how worlds and imagination are fused to create a world out of words.

Library scheduled to re-open Monday

By BRIAN O'CONNELL
Collegian Staff

The University Library Tower will re-open for limited use this Monday, December 3, UMass Chancellor Henry Koffler announced yesterday.

According to Koffler, safety considerations will prohibit the use of the first and main floors of the library. Koffler also said staff limitation have forced the administration to restrict use of the library to faculty members, graduate students, and undergraduates who express a "demonstrative need" to use the facility.

Koffler added the library will only be opened for 40 hours the first week, "but will virtually double in a short time.

"All these arrangements should be regarded as experimental and subject to improvement as experience indicates," he said.

Library Director Richard Talbot said yesterday that direct access to the library will be limited to 500 people. Faculty and graduate students will be admitted into the tower after presenting a current university I.D., Talbot said.

According to Talbot, undergraduate students writing a senior honors' thesis who want to use the tower must present a current UMass I.D. as well as an entry pass obtained from the library office, 612 Goodell. Other students who wish to use the tower must obtain a temporary pass from the reference librarian in Goodell.

Talbot also said books will be charged out at the loan desk on the second floor of the tower. General study areas are not accessible, he said.

"The card catalog, the reference collection and reference librarians, the microfilm collection and most of the Government Documents are still in Goodell," he said.

Koffler also said he expected undergraduates to continue using Goodell library. Saying Goodell has served most undergraduate needs, Koffler added the renovated library could be improved in some areas.

"Some of the new study space is clearly less than ideal,...but we expect to be able to meet peak demands anticipated during the final exam period," he said.

Collegian elects new board of editors

By FRAN BASCHE
Collegian Staff

Stephen B. Klein, a 22-year-old journalistic studies major from Sharon last night was elected editor-in-chief of the Massachusetts Daily Collegian.

Klein served as the paper's executive editor this semester and worked as a news reporter last semester. He received 57 of the 101 votes cast, defeating one opponent.

Klein said he is looking forward to creating a stronger and more effective free press.

In a written campaign statement, Klein said "The most frustrating aspect of working for our newspaper is the distance between reality and limitless potential...the gauge of success can be determined by whether the distance between reality and potential gets smaller and-or larger; it's getting smaller."

In another race, Robert Burbank, a journalistic studies-marketing major from Mattapoisett, was elected Executive Editor. Burbank, a junior, was a layout technician and advertising representative for the Collegian. He received 57 votes.

James Moran, a 21-year-old junior from Waltham, was elected Arts editor, receiving 61 votes, against one opponent. He has written arts and news stories for the paper for two semesters.

The seven other races were uncontested for this one semester term. The Collegian recently changed its officers' terms to follow the academic year. Once this semester is ended the 200-member staff will elect a new Board of Directors to serve for a full year.

Julie Eagle, a junior journalistic studies - English major from New Canaan, Connecticut was elected Managing editor of the paper, receiving 82 votes. The 20-year-old served as an associate managing editor for two semesters and covered the student government as a reporter for two semesters.

Fredrick Keillor, a Communication Studies major from Hyannis was elected the paper's business manager. The 27-year-old who received 82 votes, served as an associate advertising manager this semester.

Jack Gallagher, a journalistic studies-English major who served as associate executive editor this semester, was elected as News editor. Gallagher, from Medfield, worked as an intern at the Greenfield Recorder writing sports. He received 83 votes.

Lisa Capone, who served as the women's editor this semester, was re-elected, receiving 92 votes. Capone is 21-years-old and is majoring in journalistic studies-psychology.

James Mahoney, a journalistic studies-mechanical engineering major from Arlington who was elected photo editor was the highest vote getter, with 95 votes. Mahoney has worked as staff photographer for 3 semesters and as head darkroom technician for 2 semesters.

Suzette Courtmanche from New Haven, Connecticut was elected Graphics manager with 77 votes. The journalistic studies-animal science major served as the associate graphics manager this semester and was a Collegian sports reporter for a semester.

James Degnim, who wrote sports for the Collegian and worked in the UMass Sports Information Office for three semesters was elected as sports editor with 74 votes. Degnim is a journalistic studies-communication studies major, and is from Franklin.

Karen Thomas, a journalistic studies-English major from New Jersey will act as the Collegian Black Affairs editor. She is currently the associate Black Affairs editor.

Outgoing Business Manager Laura Bassett, who will graduate in December, leaves the paper, previously run at a deficit, in the black for the first time in several years.

Carol Rosenberg, the outgoing editor-in-chief, and Christopher Schmitt, the outgoing Managing Editor, both said they are looking forward to writing for the paper semester. "It'll be fun to be a rep again," said Schmitt.

Black Affairs

'Big Stick' Policy in Iran?

The measures or the policy that the United States has taken to alleviate the Iranian situation is part of the backward foreign policy that this country has conducted since the "Big Stick" policy of Teddy Roosevelt. Roosevelt, acting under the guise of keeping communist influence from Latin America, took control of this area of America, strictly for the purposes of the United States. The "Big Stick" policy which effectively kept out the communists also served to eliminate the Latin Americans themselves from controlling their own countries. By controlling these countries, U.S. companies were insured control of trade and ownership of certain important resources.

Editorial

All this was done at the expense of millions of Latin Americans and the future development of their countries.

Shortly after, the U.S. embarked on a policy of making the world "Safe for democracy". This meant that any United States companies that owned property in any countries any where else in the world would be safe from...communists? Not exactly, it meant that these companies could rest assured that natives of these countries would not get in the way of the companies either. The U.S. Army would insure that the exploitation, murder, slavery and miseducation, propaganda and experiments would continue unabated.

In many of these foreign policy conquests, the U.S. has not been alone. It has found the right men in each of these countries that would help the U.S. in its foreign policy conquest. Such as good ol' Batista. Imagine the U.S. went so far as to insure organized crime that its gambling interest would be protected with the army. Cuba became an international playboy's club for the U.S.

Foreign policy was out 'playing the ropes' again when in 1953, it deposed a democratically elected leader and put in the good ol' shah. I think I have heard that word "democracy" somewhere before. If you want to know what was wrong with the Iranian democracy: 1)The man who won the election got the vote of the Iranian people, but he didn't get the vote of the U.S., the premier democratic state. 2) He decided that Allah, the Muslim God, put certain things on this earth that no one man should privately own-we are all men.

So he decided the best thing to do was to nationalize industry which meant that the people in the country would not starve, would get a good education, would have a place to sleep, would have a job and a whole bunch of things that democratic countries say are the rights of every man. Foreign Policy, I mean democracy, I mean democ-crazy, I mean the U.S....

Terrell Evans

Nov. 27th, a memorable night for the Amherst, Mass. music community. Dexter Gordon (saxaphonist extraordinaire) played to a capacity crowd at the Buckley Recital Hall, Amherst College. The evening featured Dexter Gordon with his quartet, Rufus Reid (bass), Kirk Lightsey (piano), and Eddie Gladden (drums). Photo by Waliyyuddin Qaasim Sharrief.

You fanatic

A huge gap appeared in the side of the page. At last a tiny word came forth.

TWSS sponsors "Casino"

The Third World Scientist Society will be sponsoring an evening of dancing and gambling at "THE CASINO" (a mock casino) this Saturday, December 1, 1979 at the Hatch in the Student Union. Doors will be open at 8:00 p.m., with gambling until 12:00 midnight. (Chips for gambling will be issued upon entering "THE CASINO"; games will not be played using real money.) Persons winning the most chips during the evening will be eligible to win prizes to be given away. A Silver Pot BONANZA will also be raffled off at midnight. (All persons with a ticket stub will be eligible to participate in the raffle.) There will also be dancing throughout the evening. The cover charge is $1.50/person. No Liquor, cans or bottles PLEASE; liquid refreshments will be available. If you're up for an evening of fun, games and partying come and check things out at "THE CASINO."

Blacks receive equal treatment, says Judge

BOSTON (AP) — Minority lawbreakers are not treated any harsher than white offenders by Massachusetts courts, Supreme Court Chief Justice Edward F. Hennessey said Thursday.

In an advance copy of an address to newspaper publishers, the state's ranking jurist said an extensive study has been underway to determine if blacks and Hispanics have been incarcerated more frequently than whites after conviction, or given longer prison terms.

Addressing himself to another hotly debated issue, Hennessey opposed the concept of mandatory sentencing which, he said, can lead to "flagrant injustices."

Hennessey was also critical of the present indeterminate sentences under which prison time is actually set by parole officials, not judges.

"I suggest that all sentences should be determinate, and mean what they say," Hennessey said.

The jurist said the inquiry into whether race was a factor in sentencing was based on a report in The Boston Globe.

"Abhorrent as is the thought that racial discrimination could exist among judges, I and everyone else concerned knew that here was a premise that could not be ignored," Hennessey said.

The study by Superior Court judges is due for release in February.

"The analysts now conclude," Hennessey reported, "that, after statistically accounting for many factors related to the nature of the offenders and the offense, their study thus far indicated that blacks or Hispanics are not sentenced more severely after trials than are whites after trials.

"They tentatively conclude also, and are doing further work in this area, that blacks and Hispanics are not more frequently incarcerated after trials than whites."

Announcements

Service

A Christian worship service, sponsored by the Black Christian Crusade, composed of students from the Five College area, will be held at three p.m. on Sunday, December 9,1979 at Wesley Methodist Church on North Pleasant Street in Amherst. All are invited to attend.

Budget

Budget proposals for fiscal year 1981 are due December 14 at 5 p.m. in the Student Senate Office. Information packages will be in R.S.O. group mail boxes today.

Nummo

Nummo News presents their first record raffle. For just a $1 you can win twenty-five albums of your choice. Tickets will be sold in Union Records Unlimited, Campus Center Concourse, New Africa House and by roving ticket sellers. Don't miss your chance to win! The drawing by an independent drawing committee will take place on Friday, Dec. 7, 1979.

BMCP

On Tuesday, December 4, 1979, Sheila Johnson, Gina Stevens and Ada Griffin will be guest speakers on Brother Kahlil's radio program at 10:30 p.m. (W.M.U.A. BlackMassCommunications program. FM 91.1)

This will be a discussion, interview and call-in concerning the "altercation" that occured at Russell's Liquor Store on September 29, 1979 in Amherst.

Malcolm X

The Malcolm X Center will be sponsoring the movie "Midnight Express" tonight at Mahar Auditorium. The showing times will be 8, 10, and 12 p.m.

LUTHER

By Brumsic Brandon, Jr.

Ready, set.... F l y !

Northampton roommates Doug Weeks and Mark LaVersa demonstrate their hobby of hang gliding, yesterday at Skinner Park. Both men are veterans of several years in the sport and go as often as possible, averaging twice a week. (Staff photos by Paul Price)

The Massachusetts Daily Collegian (USPS 333-220) is published daily Monday through Friday excluding January, June, July, and August, for $15 at 113 Campus Center, University of Massachusetts, Amherst, MA 01003. Second class postage paid at Amherst, Mass. Postmaster: Send address changes to Massachusetts Daily Collegian, 113 Campus Center, University of Massachusetts, Amherst, MA 01003.

UPC Productions and the Bluewall

Present:

Derringer

with The Proof
Friday, December 30
9:30 P.M.
$4.00 in advance at
Union Records Unlimited
$5.00 at the door
TOC Sticker & Valid ID
required to purchase alcohol

Whittier College School of Law
Los Angeles Campus
Announces
Two Spring Admission Programs
Classes Begins January 14, 1980
Full Time & Part Time Day & Evening Classes
Applications Now Being Accepted. For information write Admissions Committee
Whittier College School of Law
5353 West Third Street
Los Angeles, Calif. 90020
Or Call (213) 936-3021 for Associate Dean Sundros.
The only ABA approved California Law School offering these programs.

Hampshire Business Machines, Inc.
Holiday Super Special
Air Clean & Oil
all portable typewriters including ribbon
$13.50
(Adjustment slightly higher)
only with this coupon
5 Pray St., Amherst
Tel. (413) 549-6177

FOR LOVERS
THE MOST INTIMATE BOOK OF POEMS EVER WRITTEN FOR LOVERS AND DREAMERS AND THOSE ALONE. IT'S AN IDEAL GIFT FOR YOURSELF AND THE ONE YOU LOVE; THEY WILL REMEMBER YOU ALWAYS IN BLACK AND WHITE FOR THE TOUCH OF ELEGANCE.
For Your Copy:
Send $10.00
& Tax
VAN STEAD
303 FIFTH AVE.
NEW YORK 10016

The Bluewall Presents:

EX

Jazz-Rock Fusion
Saturday, December 1 9:30 p.m.
$1.00 Cover
TOC sticker & valid ID required to purchase alcohol

International Students Association
presents
INTERNATIONAL DISCO
Friday, November 30
at the
10th FLOOR CAMPUS CENTER
9:00 p.m. - 1:00 a.m.
All ages welcome
Bar open to those over 20
Soft drinks also available
Admission charge - $1.00

The Hungry-U
We also feature Vegetarian Specialties
549-5713
55 University Dr.

MassPirg conference seeks regional unity here

By JEFF BAKER
Collegian Staff

Closer regional cooperation on common energy and environmental issues will be the goal of this weekend's New England Public Interest Research Group Regional Conference, sponsored by MassPIRG at the Campus Center. The conference will bring together approximately 75-100 staff members and student volunteers from PIRG in the five New England states.

The purpose of the conference is to coordinate organizing efforts to deal with regional issues of concern to all New England PIRGs, according to MassPIRG staff member John Pepi. Pepi said the government and utility companies are organized on a regional scale and in order for PIRGs to fight effectively they must be organized in similar fashion.

Pepi mentioned hazardous waste storage and disposal and a variety of energy issues as being of regional concern to all PIRGs.

The problem of what to do with hazardous wastes was expanded on by MassPIRG volunteer Patti O'Donnell. Since there is no legal permanent disposal site in New England, wastes must be temporarily stored on-site or shipped to New York or New Jersey.

O'Donnell said many companies illegally dump wastes into rivers or on the gorund, where they trickle down and contaminate the ground water table. She said sixteen communities in Massachusetts alone have been found with contaminated water supplies.

The conference will feature workshops as well as several speakers and a preview of an unreleased anti-war film. Speaking at Saturday's noon luncheon will be Edgar James, co-director of the Progressive Alliance, a coalition of labor and citizen organizations. James has extensive experience in labor organization. Saturday night, noted feminist Nesta King will speak on "Feminism and Ecology."

Pepi said MassPIRG's executive director had made special arrangement for a Saturday night showing of the unreleased documentary, "The War at Home." According to Pepi, the film deals with the growth of anti-war activism in Madison, Wisconsin during the 1960's.

A final goal of the conference is to strengthen PIRGs in the smaller New England states with small campus populations. Pepi said larger states such as Connecticut and Massachusetts would attempt to help the smaller states with organizing for campus PIRG recognition.

The UMass chapter of the Society of Manufacturing Engineers received their charter from the national chapter on Wednesday evening. UMass president Lee Pratt accepts the charter from national chairman Nick Juliani. (Staff photo by Jim Mahoney)

BAGEL DELI

Best in the Valley for:

- whole wheat pastries
- lox & eggs
- blintzes & potato pancakes
- fresh bagels
- omlettes
- frozen yogurt

28 Pleasant St. Northampton

A REAL VACATION FOR CHRISTMAS

Do you feel tired after your holidays? Do you overtax your body during your holidays instead of finding peace? Think of your jangled nerves, stiff spine, rounded shoulders, and ill ventilated lungs, coated with tar and nicotine; the result is shallow breathing, poor concentration and very little will power.

What you need is a yoga winter vacation at our Yoga Camp on 250 acres of the Laurentian Mountains. Our daily schedule includes proper exercise, proper breathing, proper diet, proper relaxation, and positive thinking and meditation. We have day/night downhill skiing, cross-country skiing with instruction and our own sauna.

Join us for an eleven-day yoga intensive personally conducted by Swami Vishnu Devananda, author of the million copy bestseller "The Complete Illustrated Book of Yoga."

DEC. 22 - JAN 2, $125 or $12.50 per day thru the Winter.

For free ill. brochure call or write to:
SIVANANDA ASHRAM YOGA CAMP
8th Avenue, Val Morin, P.Q. J0T 2R0
(819) 322-3226 New York (212) 255-4560
Washington (202) 331-9642 Chicago (312) 878-2468

Name _____ L
Address _____ Zip Code _____
Send me free illustrated YOGA Handbook ☐
Enclosed is $25 deposit for the following dates: _____ to _____ or 11-day intensive ☐

Looking for that Unusual Holiday Gift!
for only $6.95
We'll print your message on one of our tee shirts (Colored or white) up to 25 letters included in the price (extra letters 5c each)

We'll then send it via UPS (that includes the 48 contguous states) you can even include a card

offer good thru Dec. 21
$5.95 cash 'n' carry

*absolute delivery date cannot be guaranteed

campus center/umass

Bluewall Happy Hour Proudly Presents

Steve Spelman

3:30 to 6:?

SEND A MESSAGE TO JIMMY... wear a TEDDY-T!

BLUE AND RED ON LIGHT BLUE, YELLOW, OR WHITE
SIZES
MEN'S: S, M, L, XL, XXL / WOMEN'S: S, M, L
MEN'S: $7.00 ($8.00 for XXL) - $50 Handling*
WOMEN'S: $7.00 - $50 Handling*
California Residents add 6% Sales Tax
*F.I.O. Hawaii, Alaska, etc.
Send Check or Money Order (U.S. only) to
OAK ENTERPRISES
2011 Fillmore #23 Dept.
SAN FRANCISCO, CA 94115

A NUKE? SAY IT LOUD!

BLACK AND RED ON YELLOW T-SHIRT
SIZES
MEN'S: S, M, L, LX, XXL / WOMEN'S: S, M, L
MEN'S: $6.00 ($7.00 for XXL) - $50 Handling*
WOMEN'S: $6.00 - $50 Handling*
California Residents add 6% Sales Tax
*F.I.O. Hawaii, Alaska, etc.
*$1.00 will be donated to ANTI-NUKE Movement Committee
Send Check or Money Order (U.S. only) to
OAK ENTERPRISES
2011 Fillmore #23 Dept.
SAN FRANCISCO, CA 94115

UNIVERSITY OF BRIDGEPORT SCHOOL OF LAW

The University of Bridgeport School of Law is accepting applications for admission to the fall 1980 semester

Write the Office of Admissions University of Bridgeport, School of Law, Bridgeport, Conn. 06602, or phone (in Conn) 576-4048, (Out-of-State phone toll free) 1-800-243-9496 for an application and further information.

At this time the University of Bridgeport School of Law, is licensed and accredited by the State of Connecticut and approved by the American Bar Association.

Dan Guidera, Mark Marchand, Steve Zack, George O'Brien. Four good ways to keep abreast of campus and pro sports.

Pumps are back!

Bolles Shoes
8 Main St., Amherst

150

THORNES
A MARKETPLACE

STARTING DEC. 2, SUNDAY OPENINGS 12-5 P.M.
STARTING DEC. 10, OPEN EVERY NIGHT EXCEPT SAT. 'TIL 9
GIFT WRAPPING AVAILABLE
STARTING DEC. 15, SAT.

Fine Shops
Restaurants
The Art Department
galleries

150 Main St., Northampton,

open daily 9:30-5:30
thursdays 'til 9:00

Editorial/Opinion

Letters

Asian students' supplies 'moved without consent'

To the Editor:

Mr. Michael T. Suzuki says office equipment belonging to the Asian American Students Association was removed from their offices in New Africa House and placed in storage without said organizations knowledge or consent.

What was actually removed were articles which indicated the room was being used for domestic purposes.

On May 21, 1979 Mr. L. Van Jackson issued a memorandum to all who may be using rooms in New Africa House, clearly pointing out, "residents occupying New Africa House will have to vacate the premises by June 30th. This is due to increased enforcement of regulations." Furthermore, a memorandum dated May 15, 1979 from Vice Chancellors, to Dean Richard Noland and Professor Paul Puryear, Acting Chairperson, Afro-American Studies regarding Fire and Safety Regulations, directed, "persons residing on the fourth floor of New Africa House are forbidden because New Africa House is an academic building, and regulations prohibit individuals from residing in such a building; we therefore request that you take the necessary steps to comply with these regulations."

The Asian American Students Association applied for space in the Student Union of Feb. 15, 1978, their rational for said request:

Student Union is located in the middle of campus, accessible to CCA, Scheduling, RSO, New Africa House not centrally located making their outreach to students more difficult. The Asian American Students Association was granted space in the Student Union between 2/1/78 - 2/9/79, also the Asian American Students Association had its telephone disconnected and moved from New Africa House to 415 Student Union on February 7, 1979. Mr. L. Van Jacksons actions were solely for the safety of New Africa House, and in no way can it or should it have been intimated by Mr. Michael Suzuki that he has anything against the Asian American Students Association.

What should be said, Mr. L. Van Jackson acted in the best interest of the Asian American Students Association and everyone concerned.

W.J. Wheeler

Human life at stake: 'Send shah back'

To the Editor

We are doctoring and protecting an alleged mass murderer, at least indirectly responsible, for what reason?!

We stand a good chance of losing at least 49 American lives—and then more in a war, for what sane reason?! Honor? What about the value of human life?

Supposedly America stands for freedom and justice, yet we supported the Shah for at least twenty-five years. We gave him economic and military support. He used our strength to suppress his own people. When the going got rough, when the mass of Iranian people rose up, spoke out and rebeled against his tyranny, he split and robbed the Iranians in the process. So he is at least guilty of grand larceny on a grand scale.

Send him back!

Can there be honor without justice and a sense of value for human life?

What does America stand for?

Steven M. Hamm

The library is open for those...

Jack Gallagher

Memorandum
From: Harry Hack, UMass/Amherst administrator
To: Undergraduates at UMass/Amherst

Dear students:

The time has come: Santa Claus is coming: The library is opening.

However, you can't use it, unless: you are doing your senior thesis; you can prove that you don't care if you are injured while inside the 28-story structure (and provided, of course, that you sign a contract waiving all liability from the University in the event that you are injured); that you can prove that you should be one of the chosen 500 who needs to use the library in the interests of the University; you can prove that you like me, all your teachers and the University.

It has been called to my attention (nothing gets by me), that 60,000 of the most-used volumes have been moved to Goodell Library. I, therefore, see no reason why you need to use any other books, if you are normal: We know what is best for you, and we certainly have your best interests in mind as your public servants; and we know, thus, however, therefore, that you should learn what we want you to learn.

And moreover, I want all of you to understand what an administrative, public relations and logistical problem all of this has been. We (you) paid a lot (Ed. Note: $124,000) of money to have those 60,000 books moved from the big library to the little one. And we cannot return them because we don't have the money.

Further, as one of my collegues have been kind enough to say, we simply don't have the personnel to staff both libraries. Ten people will be working in the main library, so I see no way that they can adequately serve the needs of the entire University community.

Perhaps, as another of my collegues has suggested, some courses in the Dewey Decimal system could be offered so that, eventually, all undergraduates would be able to find their own books. However, until such time (probably by the spring of 1984), the library will be open for competent people only.

In other words, it means something to have your doctorate.

However, therefore, thus, we will see what happens with a limited-access library. We hope the faculty will not abuse this privilege.

In closing, I know (ha, ha) how much easier school has been for all of you since the big library has been closed: no more of those boring research papers.

Bite the bullet, kids.

Jack Gallagher is a Collegian columnist.

Collegian

BOARD OF DIRECTORS
CAROL ROSENBERG, Editor-in-Chief; CHRISTOPHER H. SCHMITT, Managing Editor; LAURA P. BASSETT, Business Manager; FRAN T. BASCHE, News Editor; STEPHEN B. KLEIN, Executive Editor; LISA M.CAPONE, Women's Editor; MARCIA HOSPEDALES, Black Affairs Editor; AMIRA I. RAHMAN, Photo Editor; DEBRA ROTH, Arts Editor; MARK A. MARCHAND and STEVEN S. ZACK, Sports Editor; MARY B. KINNEAVY, Graphics Manager.

ASSOCIATE EDITORS
Julie Eagle, Pamela Lindmark, Carolyn Mooney, Beth Segers, Gayle Young, Associate Managing Editors; Sean Harvey, Robert E. Stein, Associate News Editors; Jack Gallagher, Associate Executive Editor; Debbie Wallace, Associate Women's Editor; Karen Thomas, Associate Black Affairs Editor; Paul Price, Associate Photo Editor; Ken Sands, Associate Arts Editor; Linda Reyer, Associate Sports Editor; Suzette Courtmanche, Associate Graphics Manager.

BUSINESS DEPARTMENT
Ken GrandPre, Advertising Manager; Joan Daly, Frederic Keillor, Assistant Advertising Managers; Dan Peterson, Circulation Manager; Howard Bass, Finance Manager.

The Collegian is the student newspaper of the University of Massachusetts. The staff is responsible for its content and no faculty members or administrators read it for accuracy or approval prior to publication.

Unsigned editorials represent the view of this paper. They do not necessarily reflect the views of the faculty, administration, or student body as a whole. Unsigned editorials, columns, reviews, cartoons, and letters represent the personal view of the authors.

The Collegian is a member of the Associated Press. Publication of their material does not constitute endorsement.

The Collegian strives to print only advertising which is truthful and complete, but final responsibility for all advertisers lie with the individual advertisers.

USPS 333-220

Around campus

Program explores women, violence

"Violence Against Women in the Media," a program sponsored by the UMass Fashion Marketing Club, will be held Dec. 6 at 7 p.m. in Skinner Hall Auditorium. The program will feature speakers Jill Tregor and Denise Tregor of the Student Center for Educational Research and Advocacy (SCERA) Women's Issues Team.

Group collects for Israeli fund

Students in the Five College area have designated Nov. 26 through Dec. 7 as "A Time to Share" to collect money for the Israeli Emergency Fund. The week's events include a table in the Campus Center for the Fund, and the sale of exotic Israeli baked goods.

Ya'Akov Kirshcen, creator of the Israeli comic trip "Dry Bones" will speak on "The Lighter Side of Israel" on Dec. 4 at 7:30 p.m. in Campus Center room 904-8 as part of the week's events.

A member of the UMass bike club puts a few miles on his bike, yesterday, on the concourse, while recruiting new members. The club members spent part of the week demonstrating different types of biking gear and club activities. (Staff photo by Sharon Brezinsky)

The UMass Music Theatre Guild is now accepting staff applications for the Spring '80 Production of
APPLAUSE

Needed are:
Producer
Director Music Director Choreographer
Stage Manager Tech director Master Electrician
Costume, Set, Lighting, Designers Master Carpenter
Publicity Director
For more info cal Mark at 546-9051

THE WOK
Chinese Home Style Cooking
AMPLE PARKING
LUNCHEON & DINNER SPECIALS
COMPLETE TAKE-OUT MENU
COCKTAIL LOUNGE
MON. - THURS. 11:30 AM - 10 PM • FRI. & SAT. 11:30 AM TO 12:00 PM
SUN. & HOLIDAYS 1 PM TO 10 PM • LUNCHEONS 11:30 AM - 3 PM
EXCEPT HOLIDAYS
48 RUSSELL ST. HADLEY
Call 586-1202
1st Anniversry at the New Location
Dinner Special on every Monday, Tuesday, and Wednesday at 3:00 p.m. to 10:00 p.m. 15 choices of Beef, Chicken, Seafood & Fried Rice & a bottle of beer.
For Only $3.99

You and yours are most cordially invited to the fabulous comedy revue "NOW YOU SEE IT, WISH YOU'D SEEN IT LAST SEMESTER"
The festivities begin on DEC. 1,2,11,12 at 8pm at Bowker Aud. UMASS
Come and laugh until you fall down.
R.S.V.P. — only $1.50

SECRET SANTA
GREAT GIFTS - GREAT PRICES
Hundreds of 25c to $25 gifts
Tree Ornaments - Cards
Blouses - Shirts - Belts
Wallets - Posters - Mugs
Scarves - Boxes - Tins
Jewelry - Crystals - Prints
20% OFF
Tea Sets - Rugs
Bedspreads
through Dec. 6
THE MERCANTILE
AMHERST CARRIAGE SHOPS

Sexual violence victims call program for help more often than last semester

By ANNE MERCIER
Collegian Staff

Calls this year to the Rape Counselor/Advocates at UMass "have definitely increased," said Myra Hindus, coordinator of the counseling group which works out of the Everywoman's Center in Wilder Hall.

"Last year we received 73 calls. This year, since July, we've already had approximately 50 calls," Hindus said.

The calls from women who have been victims of sexual violence have been from a mixture of students and community women, but the majority of calls probably come from students, Hindus said. She attributes this to an increase of incidents and abuse on campus, expecially during Halloween weekend.

Hindus co-ordinates a staff of 20 female Rape Counselor/Advocates, comprised of both students and area women. Available on a 24-hour basis, they help victims of rape, sexual assault, sexual harassment, battering, incest, child abuse, and sexual assault of children. In short, the counselors aid any victim of sexual violence, past or present in the Franklin and Hampshire counties.

The staff provides information, counseling, advocacy, and referrals. Counselors are trained to assess victims' medical needs, support reports of the crime to law enforcement agencies, help ease interactions with family and friends, and provide emotional support to victims. They will also help college women to notify their professors and employers about absences, obtain legal aid, and therapists if requested.

The Rape Counselor/Advocates receive many calls from women who initially don't want to go to the police or to Health Services with their problems.

"We encourage women to seek help from the police or Health Services, but we also act as an alternative to these agencies. Whatever the woman wants to do, we respect her needs and support her decisions," Hindus said.

The 20 counselors go through a 30-hour training program at the onset of their service, and are supervised and trained throughout the semester, Hindus said. The ongoing training includes roleplaying, becoming familiar with all issues of sexual violence, and discussing these issues. They provide medical and legal counseling, and if a woman decides to go to court, the counselors will support her and refer her to an attorney, Hindus said.

Referrals are available to victims to such places as New England Learning Center for Women in Transition (NELCWI) in Greenfield and (HERA), the Hotline to End Rape and Abuse in Springfield. Both of these agencies provide shelter for battered women and children, Hindus said.

During the day if a woman needs help, the Rape Counselor/Advocates are available by calling the Everywoman's Center at 545-0800. During evenings and weekends the Rape Counselor/Advocates are on call at their homes, and can be reached through Health Services at UMass at 549-2671. Hindus said her staff and that of Health Services enjoy a close, supportive working relationship.

Hindus said there was a rash of violent incidents Halloween weekend and the Advocates received several calls as a result.

"I think the problem of violence on campus goes way beyond the lighting problem, and only addressing that problem is not enough. We generally need a number of things to happen, and we need to work in a consistent way," Hindus said.

FAMILY HOUSING
has openings in:
Lincoln Apts. Studios-$153.00/mo.
North Village apts. 1 bdrms-$210.00/mo
ALL UTILITIES INCLUDED
For information call:
Family Housing
103 Berkshire House 545-3115

Coffee House
sponsored by
HANDICAPPED STUDENT COLLECTIVE
Friday Nov. 30 8:00 P.M.
Brett Main Lounge
All Welcome!
For information about interpreting services call 545-2202 545-0892 (TTY)

Library Information Meeting
Confused?
Bring your questions to librarians
Bartlett Auditorium, Friday
November 30, 1979
2:30 p.m.

To Serve Studying Students
the Campus Center will provide food service in
THE HATCH CAFETERIA
in the evenings
Monday-Friday 5:00 pm-10:00 pm
On a Trial Basis

thorne's market
150 main street
northampton
open mon-sat
noon-10 p.m.
584-4832
Paul and Elizabeth's
SUNDAY BRUNCH
December 2, 9, & 16
10 a.m. - 4 p.m.
25% off any brunch
with student ID

whole wheat PIZZA FACTORY
Introduces:
THE WORKS
Pepperoni, Onions, Mushrooms, GreenPeppers and Sausage
Regularly $8.00
From 5:00 - 10:00 only
7 days
$2.00 off
363 Main St. 256-8587

A partial list of
OUTSTANDING WINES FOR THE WINE CONNOISSEUR
on your shopping list. All available in limited supply. Shop early for best selection.

1959 Ch. Rauzon Gassies	23.49
1961 Ch. Lynch Bages	62.50
1966 Ch. Latour	59.95
1966 Ch. Haut Brion	53.99
1966 Ch. Bel Orme Trenquay La Lande	8.99
1970 Ch. Talbot	14.95
1970 Ch. Lafite Rothchild	57.50
1970 Ch. d'Yquem	49.95
1970 Ch. Bouscaut	11.95
1966 Nuits St. George	24.95
1957 Clos de Vougeot	37.50

1976 Kenwood Zinfandel	6.99
1976 Caymus Zinfandel	8.50
1977 Rondon Smith Zinfandel	6.99
1974 Mayacamus Cabernet	14.95
1974 Sterling Cabernet	9.95
1976 Clos du Val Cabernet	10.50
1977 Freemark Chardonnay	10.75
1977 Alexander Valley Chardonnay	9.50
1978 Mirasson Chardonnay	6.50
1978 Dry Creek Fume Blanc	6.99
1977 Sterling Sauvignon Blanc	6.75

C&C LIQUORS
61 Main St., Amherst 253-3091

DENBY'S BUCKS INFLATION WITH INFLATION BUCKS

STORES OPEN 9A.M. SHARP FOR THIS GREAT EVENT

10 — $10. off — Entire Stock REGULAR PRICE DRESSES — Jr., Misses and Half-sizes — Saturday, Dec. 1, 1979

40 — $40. off — Farberware CONVECTION OVEN — Reg. 189.00 — NOT IN COLONIE, LATHAM, FAYETTEVILLE, RIVERSIDE — Saturday, Dec. 1, 1979

10 — $10. OFF — Misses Rabbit Jackets & Coats — Orig $95.00 & $155.00 currently 69.99 & 99.99 — Sat. Dec. 1, 1979

7 — $7. off — Men's Boxed SWEATER & SHIRT SET — Reg. 22.00 — Saturday, Dec. 1, 1979

10 — $10. off — Tano only LEATHER HANDBAGS — Reg. 30.00 to 58.00 — Saturday, Dec. 1, 1979

7 — $7. off — Wearever POPCORN PUMPERS — Reg. 36.99 — NOT IN Hadley or Holyoke — Saturday, Dec. 1, 1979

5 — $5. off — Misses CARDIGAN SWEATERS — Reg. 11.99 to 22.99 — Saturday, Dec. 1, 1979

5 — $5. off — Misses PLAID & PRINT SHIRTS — Reg. 15.00 and 20.00 — Saturday, Dec. 1, 1979

5 — $5. off — Group of MISSES WOOL SKIRTS — Reg. 21.99 to 27.99 — Saturday, Dec. 1, 1979

3 — $3. off — Misses BRUSHED GOWNS — Reg. 10.00 to 20.00 — Saturday, Dec. 1, 1979

2 — $2. off — VERA SCARVES — Reg. 8.00 to 10.00 — Saturday, Dec. 1, 1979

2 — $2. off — MONET JEWELRY — Reg. 10.00 to 20.00 — Saturday, Dec. 1, 1979

SPECIALS FROM 9A.M.-10A.M.

15.00 Ladies Leather Gloves Reg. 24.00

5.99 Men's Sleeveless Sweaters Reg. 12.00

9.99 Men's Wool & Nylon Sportshirts Reg. 18.00

3.99 3 Piece Salad Set Reg. 10.00

Free Christmas Gift Wrapping with any purchase of $5. or more

watch for weekly SUPER SATURDAY SPECIALS

5 — $5. off — Entire Stock MEN'S HAGGAR PANTS — Reg. 16.00 to 22.00 — Saturday, Dec. 1, 1979

5 — $5. off — Men's ARROW 'CARLTON' SPORTSHIRT — Reg. 16.00 — Saturday, Dec. 1, 1979

5 — $5. off — Entire Stock FLEECE ROBES — Reg. 25.00 to 38.00 — Saturday, Dec. 1, 1979

3 — $3. off — Entire Stock GIRLS 4-14 ROBES — Saturday, Dec. 1, 1979

3 — $3. off — All Regular Price MEN'S LEATHER GLOVES — Reg. 15.00 to 23.00 — Saturday, Dec. 1, 1979

2 — $2. off — Package Men's MUNSINGWEAR UNDERWEAR — Reg. 7.50 and 9.00 pkg. — Saturday, Dec. 1, 1979

CHRISTMAS STORE HOURS: TROY, MON.-FRI. 10 A.M.-9 P.M. SA. 9 A.M.-9 P.M. STUYVESANT PLAZA, DELAWARE PLAZA, AVIATION MALL (GLENS FALLS), PENN CAN MALL (SYRACUSE), MON.-FRI. 10 A.M.-9 P.M. SAT. 9 A.M.-9:30 P.M. COLONIE CENTER, PYRAMID MALL (SARATOGA), ROTTERDAM MALL, CLIFTON COUNTRY MALL, LATHAM CIRCLE MALL, FAYETTEVILLE MALL (SYRACUSE), RIVERSIDE MALL (UTICA), MON.-FRI. 10 A.M.-10 P.M. SAT. 9 A.M.-10 P.M. HAMPSHIRE MALL (HADLEY), HOLYOKE MALL (INGLESIDE), MON.-SAT. 10 A.M.-10 P.M. ALL STORES OPEN SUNDAYS 12-5 P.M.

Alcoholism: Women face special problems

By ANN FARIS
Collegian Staff

Alcohol consumption among women is on the rise. Between 1970 and 1974, one third of all new members of Alcoholics Anonymous were female, according to an rticle Max Gunther published in the June 1975 issue of "Today's Health." At UMass, men drink more heavily than women, but there has been a noticeable increase in the number of women drinkers, said Bernie Jaworski, Evaluation Assistant for the Demonstration Alcohol Education Program, in a Collegian interview yesterday.

Jaworski and Deborah Edelman, a Health Educator for the program, discussed some problems specific to women drinkers. Both agree that women are beginning to drink for the same reasons that men do.

"It used to be that men's reasons for drinking were more aggressive than women's. Men wanted to drink to get rowdy and celebrate. Women wanted to be calmed and socialize," Edelman said.

Edelman said that, although it is not scientifically proven, there is a possibility that alcohol effects women differently from men.

"The female body is 55-65 per cent water, while the male body is 65-75 per cent water, so women may become intoxicated faster. Estrogen levels may also effect a woman's reaction to alcohol. When your estrogen level is lower, you metabolize alcohol faster and may need more alcohol to maintain a level of intoxication," Edelman said.

This has implications for women on oral contraceptives and those going through menopause, because mood changes that accompany a woman's estrogen cycle may also increase her desire to drink, Edelman said.

"Women experiencing menopause might be at a higher risk of alcoholism because of increased depression," Edelman said.

Alcohol use also has effects upon family life. In a recent study of 100 battered wives, 87 percent of the abusing husbands were alcohol users and 71 percent of the women were also alcohol users, according to "National Institute on Alcohol Abuse and Alcoholism Quarterly Journal on Alcohol and Family Violence."

"Research is being done on the relationship of alcohol use among mothers and child neglect," Edelman said.

Children whose parents are alcoholics have a high risk of alcoholism themselves. If a mother drinks heavily during pregnancy, birth defects may result according to the gunther article.

Certain types of therapy for alcoholism are more effective for men than women. "When wives participate in husband's therapy it is more successful. Yet marital status will not lead to positive recovery for women. Men do not initiate treatment for their wives," according to a recent study by Sharon Wilsnack on alcohol and women.

"Nine in ten men leave alcoholic wives and one in ten wives leave alcoholic husbands," according to an article by Susan Kinter, Clinical Director of the Special Services Department of the Wheeler Affiliates, of Plainville, Conn.

As with men, many different factors contribute to alcohol abuse among women. Age, employment status, income, and sexuality are all elements involved, Edelman said.

"Alcoholism among lesbian women ranges as high as 25-35 percent. This is because of the central role of gay bars. The social rejection of homosexuality is an additional source of stress for lesbians," according to a source Edelman quoted.

Advertisers are also beginning to make use of the increase in women drinkers, Edelman said. She cited the brewing of light beers aimed at women's consumption as an example of this.

"Women have a lot of extra pressures with the change of sex roles these days," Edelman said. "The change of the sex roles has changed the role of women drinking. We try to teach people other alternatives on how to deal with stress."

Electronic Technicians
R & D part time
Requires knowledge of digital-Analog electronics and associated circuitry.
Flexible working hours.
Contact: Dr. Arthur Boothroyd at 584-3450
Clarke School for the Deaf
Northampton, MA 01060

HAHJEE'S PLACE
"Affordably Unique"
Recommended by NY Times for the second year in a row. Try us. You'll see why.
For a nite complete dine before the Nutcracker Suite
Located between Northampton & Amherst on Rt. 9
Sun.-Thurs. 4:30-10:30 Fri.-Sat. 4:30-11:30

Considering a Graduate Career ?
Come to Boston !

Boston University Graduate School

The Graduate School of Arts and Sciences at Boston University offers a rich selection of advanced programs of study leading to the M.A. and Ph.D. degrees. Located in the Boston/Cambridge environment, Boston University offers its students a unique blend of scholarly, cultural and social opportunities.

Financial assistance includes teaching fellowships, graduate scholarships, graduate and research assistantships, and work-study awards.

For program information and application materials contact:
Admissions Coordinator
Graduate School (Arts and Sciences)
Boston University
705 Commonwealth Avenue
Boston, MA 02215

Boston University admits students regardless of their race, color, national origin, religion, sex, age, handicap, and veteran status to all of its programs and activities. A copy of the University's complete policy on discrimination is printed in the University catalogue and may be obtained from the Affirmative Action Officer, 19 Deerfield Street, Boston, MA 02215 (617/353-4478).

Degree Programs
Afro-American Studies
American and New England Studies
Anthropology
Archaeological Studies
Art History
Astronomy
Biochemistry
Biology
Chemistry
Classical Studies
Creative Writing
Economics
English
Geography
Geology
History
Interdisciplinary Studies
Language Behavior
Mathematics
Medical Sciences
(Anatomy, Biochemistry, Microbiology, Pathology, Pharmacology, Physiology)
Modern Languages (French, Spanish)
Music
Philosophy
Physics
Political Science
Preservation Studies
Psychology
Sociology
Theological & Religious Studies

The Bar - B - Q
Rte. 116 Sunderland
Now serving Draft Beers & Wines
Southern Style
Chicken & Ribs
Delicious
Seafood Sandwiches
Complete Dinners
from 2.50 to 3.95
WE DELIVER
253-9932

Mail a Taste of New England. . .to out of town family & friends. A unique gift of freshly picked or expertly stored apples from Atkins Farms. Hand-selected and snugly packed in sturdy containers for shipment to most any part of the country. Six different assortments of apples, pears, cheeses, maple syrup, honey, jams cracker and candies also available for shipping. Or a simple package of maple syrup can be a big hit in places it is hard to get. Call or write for information or stop in to see our displays.

Custom-Filled Fruit Baskets A Basketful of Good Eating - from a simple assortment of mouth-watering native apples and pears - to a combination of several varieties of apples, pears, citrus, other fruits in season and honey, cheeses, maple syrup, dried fruits, nuts, candies and other specialties. Attractively arranged in the style and size basket to suit your needs. Please call ahead to have just what you want ready for you. Deliveries made in Amherst area for a small fee; five or more delivered to one location at bo charge.

Atkins Fruit Bowl
Corner of Bay Rd. & Rt. 116
So. Amherst
413-253-3243
Open everyday 8 to 6

FOUR SEASONS

Miller Beer 12 oz. btl. ..... $7.49 case
Lucky Lager ..... $4.99 case
Gordon's Gin 1.75 ..... $10.49
Inglenook Navelles 3 litre $5.99

GALLO VARIETALS
(Old Style Bottle)
20% OFF

WE HAVE THE LARGEST WINE SELECTION
WINE DISCOUNTED BY THE CASE

Wines/Liquors
rte.9, hadley, ma./584-8174
in front of the malls

New UMass comedy review hits the stage this weekend

By DEBBIE WALLACE
Collegian Staff

"Now You See It, Wish You'd Seen It Last Semester," is a new musical comedy review, satirizing life in the 5-College area written, directed and narrated by UMass student Peter J. Tolan.

Tolan, whose name is familiar to UMass theater audiences, presented a similiar review last semester, "Now You See It, Wish You Didn't," which drew a capacity crowd. Tolan received funds from a UMass Arts Council grant proposal allocating him $500 for each review. He said the money is used for paint, props, crew chiefs, and a fee which must be paid to the Fine Arts Center for using Bowker Auditorium in Stockbridge Hall.

The cast of this review includes 10 UMass students and one Smith College student—most of them performers or staff members of the UMass Music Theater Guild's last production of "Just Friends of 1923".

Tolan said he handpicked people for this review out of other casts he has worked with: "I know their abilities—so we can put together the review in a short time."

The cast has rehearsed four hours a day for the past three weeks. Much like his past review, this show includes comedy, dancing, singing, and a visual slide show. Tolan said "every sense is touched during his production." Yet it is not the same as the previous show. Tolan said he has changed the skits, music and slide show.

Tolan said he decided to write the original review because said "reviews are popular on college campuses. Being in college lends itself to a lot of humor." He said he draws his material for the shows from "things I like to make fun of, things which give students a headache like Whitmore, the dining commons, the library, PVTA, and the 5-Colleges."

The last review was performed for only one night, but Tolan said this show will run for four nights because "last semester many people said they were upset they missed the show and felt the show should have had more performances."

"Now You See It, Wish You'd Seen It Last Semester" will be presented in Bowker Auditorium Saturday and Sunday, Dec. 1 and 2; and Tuesday and Wednesday, Dec. 11 and 12 at 8 p.m. Tickets are available at the Bowker Box office for $1.50, today from 9 a.m.-4 p.m. and the days of the performances.

Director Peter Tolan of "Now You See It, Wish You'd Seen It Last Semester" stands outside the Student Union yesterday, telling students of his new comedy revue playing on campus this weekend. (Staff photo by Julie Foley)

Collegian Classifieds

To place a Collegian Classified Ad
•Come to Collegian Office (CC 113)
•8:45 to 3:45, Mon. thru Fri.
•Classified deadline is 3:45 two days prior to publication day

Collegian classified rates are: daily, 45c per line; five consecutive issues, 40c per line per day. 30 consecutive issues, 30c per line per day. One line is roughly equivalent to 38 characters

AUDIO

Theatrix Rents Mirror balls and other Disco supplies. Lights for sale, new and used 323-7160

Pioneer SX650 35 watts/ch. ex. cond. 6-9803 $150

Heathkit 200 watt Amplifier—$500 Gavin II Band Equalizer-$150 546-8814

Kenwood Amp & pioneer Tuner Both in excel cond. $65 each or $120 for both John 549-4130

AUTO FOR SALE

1971 Vega 253-9455

70 Chevy Imp very dep, new tires, runs excel $600 253-7158

74 Vega Hatchback red, engine frozen, new tires & muffler, good parts ev. 665-7518

Truck 27 mpg Datsun flatbed w/stake sides. Needs minor work, I'm broke. $1400 863-4001

68 VW Bug for parts, transmission problem, engine good $125 call 665-2444

Fix your own car The student Auto Workshop has tools, space and friendly mechanics to help you maintain your automobile. Tues, Wed, Thurs 3-9 p.m. Sat 10-5 Lower Level CC Gargae 545-0673

1974 Toyota Celica exceptional condition, best offer 546-9826

78 Toyota Corrila 19,000 miles 30+ mpg, many extras $3300 or BO Call Mike 367-2695 after 6 pm

New and used parts for Triumph, Jaguar, MG and all English cars. Discount prices 586-2013

1971 Datsun 1200 has potential! $125 Bob 549-0571

1972 Chevy wagon best offer 253-9498 after 5

78 T-bird mint must be seen Paul 546-8220

VW Owners: I am selling two Firestone radial snow tires mounted on VW rims, excellent condition, call 665-7759

71 Buick Electra 225 great shape, runs like a charm, negotiable, call Ted 545-2735

74 Gran Torino good cond, original owner 323-7613

1978 Chevy Chevette 4 speed, 4 door, excellent condition & gas mileage asking $3,900 need $ for tuition 546-6415

ENTERTAINMENT

Good Times—DJ's for hire, disco and/or Rock call 546-4726 or 546-4777

Soundsystem for Hire perfect for bands, discos, coffeehouses Rick 584-4105

Zeta Psi's last party was an event to remember. The band was hot. They're new. They're ready to rock. They're. . .
INCOGNITO
for bookings call 586-3924, 546-7120, 546-7815, or 256-6845 (Brian or Charlie)

Cosmic Wimpout Residential Tournaments are being held this week! Energize your dice for fun, prizes!

"Dock-Risco" Diverse Musical DJ. Reasonable rates. Call 549-4199

FOR RENT

3 bedroom, tiny house Summer Street in North Amherst. Would like lease taken over starting Jan. Russ 549-6194

Room(s) available in house bordering campus, Jan-Aug call Karen 549-0338

One Bedroom Apartment available Jan. 1 one mile from Campus, no pets $235 includes all & wood for fireplace!!! call 549-6551 after 5:00

FOR SALE

Portrait Drawing Dennis Delap, 256-8732

Portraits Profile-$7, full face-$10, color-$20, pets in color-$18 Deborah Pompano 549-4634

2 American Airlines ½-price coupons $35 ea. Call 253-7150

Moving selling everything, prices negotiable 584-2586 keep trying

Irish Harps various sizes, easy to play. Sylvia Woods, Box 29521, Los Angeles, CA 90029

Men's Nordica Ski Boots nearly new, great condition, size 13m $40 or best price call Julie 549-2664 or 545-3500

Give Greenpeace Seals, Whales T-shirts, necklaces, pins STORM 586-3959

Bed and other bedroom furniture (Cabinets, Desks, etc) must sell, will take best offer! Ron 549-6803

A Steal! 1974 Honda 360CB, only 7000 miles, very good condition, extras, $625 or BO 546-4771

Ice skates womens Riedels 7-8 $50 or BO call Karen 549-4049

United Airlines ½ fare coupon expires Dec. 15th call 546-4161

Car Parts Battery $20/AM-FM Radio $30/13" Snow tires mounted $35 549-5818

United Airlines 2 half fare coupons $60 ea or BO Steve 545-2627

For Sale orange rust color rug perfect condition-75 or BO 5 cu. ft. refrig 2 months old 100 or BO must sell moving need $ call Paul 6-6230

Couch: great condition, moving so best offer 253-2704

G-78-15 Snows $40 586-8008 nites

5 cubic ft refrigerator good condition $70 or BO 549-1869

Men's 10-speeed bicycle $95.50 Acoustic guitar, case, $65.50 keep trying, 549-0727

Downhill Ski Boots Munari mens 6 ladies 7 only worn once yellow, boot carrier, $75 or BO 549-0825 evenings

Scott Superhot boots $60 call 6-7560

2 United ½ fare coupons $25 ea. 367-2762

Lange Banshee Ski Boots to go size 9W unique history $45 or BO Phil 256-6659

2 Acoustic Guitars good condition, must sell 584-2282

FOUND

Men's Winter Jacket must have positive ID to claim it. 253-3852 after 6:00 PM

Woman's Gold Watch on Commonwealth about 3 weeks ago 546-7951

HELP WANTED

Overseas Jobs—Summer/year round. Europe, S. America, Australia, Asia, etc. All fields. $500-$1,200 monthly, expenses paid. Sightseeing, free information write: IJC, Box 52-MC, Corona Del Mar, CA. 92625

Dancers wanted part time or full time erotics go-go earn 300 to 350.00 per week call Linda 413-782-9038

Part Time - Bus Survey Persons to help regional planning commission and PVTA conduct on board bus surveys in Amherst Northampton area. One day only, Wednesday, December 12. Both 4 and 8 hour shifts available. Pay $4/hr. Apply by Dec. 3 to LPVRPC, 26 Central St., West Springfield, MA 01089 Tel. 781-6045

Resident Manager/Handyman experienced responsible person or couple. Newly renovated building central Amherst. 549-6478

Seeking persons for 2-3 hours colorvision testing, especially persons with colrvision deficiencies. Psychology/Mt. Holyoke 586-3100 x2086

Cook needed for Sorority from 1/29-5/27 prior experience cooking for large groups preferred call Lisa or Jenny 549-1030

INSTRUCTION

Tutoring given in Math and Accounting -Roy 549-5360

LEGAL SERVICES

Attorney Jason R. Rosenthal General Practice Legal Representation for the Amherst, Mass community by apt. only days 584-4285 evenings 253-7617

LOST

Red and Black Plaid Wool Jacket lost at Wheeler coffehouse 11/15 Reward call Greg at 6-4946

"Lost" 2 rings in downstairs bathroom of Music Dept. in FAC on 11/15. Both have great sentimental value! Please return $reward$ no questions asked call Kris at 6-8282 after 10 pm

Lost—glasses in blue denim case call 6-5500

Gold wire frame glasses call Chris 546-7703 Reward!

Reward!! Notebook lost in Has 230 11/19 very important-red, course, section, my name all on cover. If found, please call 323-4912 or return to History Dept. Office in Herter Hall 6th floor

Prescription Sunglasses November 17 between Campus and Triangle St. clear frames, large lenses, green case, Reward 549-5793

PARALEGAL INTERNS WANTED

The Legal Services Office has 8 positions available for full time paralegal interns for Spring, 1980 semester. You can receive up to 15 credits from the Office of Internships located at Curry Hicks. These internships will provide exciting, challenging and rewarding work which will include the learning of many legal skills. Interviewing clients, legal research and maintaining a continuing caseload under the supervision of attorneys. Third World students and women are encouraged to apply. Application forms can be obtained at the Curry Hicks building and additional information obtained at the Legal Services Office in 922 Campus Center, and must be submitted by Friday, November 30, 1979 at the latest.

PERSONALS

Women do you feel that you did not receive a thorough pelvic exam when you saw a GP or NP at the Infirmary? Have you ever been diagnosed one way, and then seen a gynecologist who gave you a different diagnosis? Please call Linda at 546-8454 MW 2:00 P.M.-7:00 P.M. TuTh 7:30 P.M.-9:00 P.M.

Daytona Beach in March—Peter Pan World Travel Agents MC130223 are offering sensational sunshine and sand during your spring break of March 15-22. Don't get caught without a seat! Includes: 8 days, round trip bus and accommodations, only 1 block from the boardwalk. Double occupancy all for only $299! Please call S. Rayner at 256-0675 or J. Hyde at 1-773-3854 Deposit required immediately-call now

Wanted undergraduate geology major who is specially adept in Geology 103: Intr. to Oceanography. Please contact as soon as possible 546-7701

My kitten needs a home! Shes affectionate, box-trained and beautiful. Please call 253-5128

Are you a Beatles Fan? Come see Yellow Submarine. SUB Sat Dec 1st 6:00, 7:45, 9:30 11:15 Admission $1.00

GNG who? What? explain NSLM

Mark it's your Birthday! Have a happy much love, you know who XX

Pablo-Here's to our first. A special treat for you today, Tiger: no more blue and brown jokes. Honey, Honey? in love, Blue eyes

To my QTT—Congratulations! on a whole year with clean lungs ILY your QTT

Mark M A very Happy Birthday, Love Dr. K

Photographers: UMass Photo Co-op recruitment meeting Thursday, Dec. 6th 7:00 SBA Room 101

Honey Bear Cuddle-scoochie-hot passion and all that -Smegly

Welcome CDZ--BFB

Biddle-Iddl-Ippl (Marchand noise for Happy Birthday)

Bicycle Florida during January! Meeting Tues. Dec. 4 7:00 P.M. at SUB Bicycle Coop or Chris 253-9336

Happy B-day Brown Eyes We love you from Harvey & Bob

Worm Power begins Dec. 3

C.P. your french kiss is terrible, next time no teeth

ROOMMATE WANTED

House in Shutesbury needs occupants pets OK call Nancy keep trying 253-3301 7 mi from Campus

Two rooms in four bedroom house Amherst 546-9151

Male or female for own bedroom in 3 bedroom apt 113.00 a month Jean 549-6690

Smoking Female 20+ share 4 rm. lake house in Belchertown. Must eat meat, into school, love cats. No dogs 132+ wood heat possible 323-4462 eves

Woman wanted to share bedroom in Sunderland Apt $90/mo 665-7795

2 females wanted for Belchertown household, bus route, cheap, for details call nights 546-8442 546-8434

Two females to share one bedroom in Brittany Manor Apt. $90 starting Jan. call 253-7132

Male for own bedroom in Swiss Village $110 per 256-8616

4th Woman for apt in house. Short walk to UM and town 253-2730

Female to share Brittany Manor apt 253-5961

ROOM FOR RENT

Woman to rent one bedroom of three bedroom apt in Jan on bus route call 549-1661

ROOM WANTED

Male writer post-grad, needs room under $130, begin Jan. 5-20 Reply: Box 844, Amherst, or msg at 549-0727

Male Design Stud looking for room for 2nd sem. Garage is needed Philip 256-6659

Looking to sublet one bedroom apt in or near Amherst beginning Jan 1 Call 253-2265 evenings

Woman seeks inexpensive room or apt during intersession-Amherst area 546-7209 keep trying

SECURITY DEPOSIT PROBLEMS?

Have any questions about your security deposit? Do you think monies were unfairly deducted for repairs or cleaning? Did you get 5% interest? Do you know where your money is being held? Call the Security Deposit Task Force at UMass Legal Services 545-1995 or Off Campus Housing 545-0865

SERVICES

Drummer looking for working band call 546-6567

TO SUBLET

One bedroom apartment to sublet Colonial Village call 253-5200

2 bedroom apt. Cliffside take over lease Jan 1 665-7765

WANTED

Fast Immediate Cash for gold-school rings-diamonds-silver Jeff anytime 527-7078 586-0180

Silver Dimes ,40 Quarters 1.50, Half dollars 2.50, call for offer Jim 6-8393

UMass Musicians from Southeastern Mass 546-5280

Musicians for CEQ Coffeehouse on environmental issues please contact office 5-0618 Nancy 253-7946 Deddie 6-7936

I need WHO tickets call Jeff 323-7178

Double Bed Mattress Please call Susan 256-8713 leave message

WANTED TO RENT

2 bedroom apt wanted for spring, starting Jan. 1, call 546-5874

Still looking for a 2/3 bedroom apt to sublet/rent call 546-5226 546-5221

2 Seniors looking for 2 or 3 bedroom apt starting January through Spring or Summer please call 546-8928 or 546-8939

2 bedroom apt wanted for Spring sem starting Jan call 546-6368 546-6329

2 or 3 bedroom apt wanted for Spring sem call 546-5603

Aluminum Foil by Steve Lafler

Nuke the Whale by Danny Guidera

Beasts by Rob Ranney

Norma B. by M.J. Galper

Doonesbury by Garry Trudeau

TODAY'S CROSSWORD PUZZLE

ACROSS
1 Miner's nail
5 Helicline
9 Divided
14 Snow vehicle
15 Lamb's pen name
16 Moment
17 Taro, e.g.
18 Pack
19 Wanders
20 Delight
22 Strip
23 Standard
24 Vestment
25 Excuse
28 Funny man
32 Outsider
33 Rescued
34 Spring
35 Natterjack
36 Heavy muds
37 Swill
38 Thermal 39 Religions
40 At what place
41 Kitchen tools
43 Has faith
44 Minerals
45 Reared
46 Begins
49 Magnificence
53 Speed
54 Encumber
55 Volcano
56 Stakes
57 Erstwhile
58 Destroy
59 Damp
60 Dandelion, e.g.
61 Ramachandra's wife

DOWN
1 Hockey shot
2 Knitting stitch
3 Fever
4 Exacteo
5 Come back
6 Warning
7 Marceau, e.g.
8 Mash
9 Chevroned
10 Verified
11 Exist
12 Sherbets
13 Trial
21 Pronto
22 Cupolas
24 Bays
25 Trails
26 Knocked for — —
27 Lariat
28 Hauls
29 Ely and Man
30 To the left
31 Neck areas
33 — Marner
36 Tractors
37 Trembles
39 Most brusque
40 Songbird
42 Cakes
43 Exchanged
45 Two of a kind
46 Feign
47 N. Mexican Indian
48 Wine area
49 Lost
50 Case
51 Item
52 Frog genus
54 Base

UNITED Feature Syndicate
Thursday's Puzzle Solved

DC menu

LUNCH
Fishburger on Roll/Tartar Sauce
Turkey Divan

BASICS LUNCH
Lentil Spinach Stew
Turkey Divan

DINNER
Steak/French Fried Onion Rings
Baked Haddock/Lemon Slice

BASICS DINNER
Soybean Souffle
Baked Haddock/Lemon Slice

Custom-Made
In Our Store
Cake'n Ice Cream Cakes

Your choice of
31-derful flavors

BASKIN-ROBBINS
ICE CREAM STORE 31

28 Main St. Amherst 253-9774
across from Town Hall
on the BN/BR bus routes

MOVIE LISTINGS

Academy Of Music
Seduction of Joe Tynan
7:00 9:00
Hampshire 4
Fiddler on the Roof
5:30 8:30
Animal House
6:00 8:45
Starting Over
6:00 8:45
Apocalypse Now
5:30 8:30
Mt. Farms 4
Life of Brian
6:15 8:30
And Justice For All
6:00 8:15
"10"
6:00 8:15
Running
5:15 7:45 10:15
Holyoke 1-8
Muppet Movie
1:10 3:15 5:20 7:25 9:30
Stranger Calls
1:00 3:00 5:00 7:20 9:30
Onion Field
1:45 4:20 7:30 10:00
French Postcards
1:35 3:35 5:40 7:40 9:45
Skatetown U.S.A.
1:00 3:05 5:10 7:15 9:20
Young Frankenstein
3:15 7:40
Silverstreak
1:05 5:30 9:30
Arabian Adventure
2:30 4:40 7:00 9:05
Andrea
2:50 4:45 7:00 9:00
Sneak preview Sat
Electric Horseman
7:15
Pleasant St. Cinema
The Wrong Move
6:00 8:00 10:00
Showcase 1-8
Animal House
2:00 7:20 9:30 11:55
Fiddler on the Roof
2:00 7:15 10:10
Fish. . .Pittsburg
2:00 7:15 9:30 11:45
"10"
2:00 7:00 9:30 11:55
Starting Over
2:00 7:15 9:30 11:45
Apocalypse Now
1:30 7:10 10:10
Luna
2:00 7:30 10:15
And Justice For All
2:00 7:20 9:25 11:45

Gymnasts host invitational

By JAY BRIGHTMAN
ROB EMMONS
Collegian Staff

The women's gymnastics team opens the 1979-80 season tomorrow with an invitational meet, hosting URI, UVM, and UNH at the Curry Hicks Cage. It is the first time that UMass will begin their schedule in competition with more than one school, and the simultaneous events will surely keep every spectator entertained.

The gymnasts come off a fine season (9-2) in which they placed fourth in the Eastern Association of Intercollegiate Athletics for Women.

"This meet will give us a chance to warm-up for the big meet against Penn State next week. Penn State placed second in the national finals last year and their team hasn't weakened any this year," said nine-year coach Virginia Evans.

This year's team is a young one, consisting of three freshmen and five sophmores. Since women's gymnastics receives scholarship funding the team is able to recruit some top-notch gymnasts.

Janice Baker, a froshman from Central Square, NY, was ranked tenth in the country during the previous Olympic Games. Unfortunately she might not be able to compete for the rest of the season because she twisted her ankle in a pothole. Also, Amy Riuli, a strong competitor from last year's team will not be able to compete for at least a month due to her shoulder operation.

Gymnastics has an interesting scoring system. The highest score obtainable for a single event is 10 and proceeds downwards from there.

Team scoring consists of taking the top four scores from the six team members in each of the four events (vaulting, floor exercise, balance beam, and uneven bars) and multiplying that by the score received. Last year the average team score for UMass was about 130

ACADEMY of MUSIC
Northampton, Mass.
Now, Only Area Showing, Ends Tuesday
On Screen at 7:00 and 9:00
There are many ways to be seduced.
Joe Tynan knows them all.
ALAN ALDA
BARBARA HARRIS
THE SEDUCTION OF JOE TYNAN
A UNIVERSAL PICTURE R
AT THE GATES OF SMITH COLLEGE

CINEMA 1-8
HOLYOKE MALL AT INGLESIDE
Mass. Pike Exit 4 to Int. Exit 15
24 Hr. Movie-Phone 538-7510
Recored in Dolby
The MUPPET MOVIE G
Today 1:10-3:15-5:20-7:25 & 9:30
A True Story THE ONION FIELD R
HELD OVER
WHEN A STRANGER CALLS R
Today 1:00-3:00-5:00-7:20 & 9:30
ANDREA R
Today 2:50 4:45-7:00 & 9:00
Arabian Adventure G
IT'S A THIS MOST HILARIOUS SUSPENSE RIDE OF YOUR LIFE!
SILVER STREAK
YOUNG FRANKENSTEIN PG
FRENCH POSTCARDS PG
SKATETOWN USA
ROLLER DISCO! PG
Call for up to date Showtimes

RICK DERRINGER

UPC PRODUCTIONS
presents
Rick Derringer
with The Proof
Tonite
9:30 p.m.
BLUEWALL
Tickets-$4 in advance at Union Records Unlimited
$5. at the door
TOC stickers and valid ID required to purchase alcohol
ALL AGES WELCOME!

AMERICAN MULTI CINEMA
TIMES SHOWN FOR TODAY ONLY
ADULTS $2.75 STUDENTS & SR. CITIZENS WITH AMC CARD $2.25 TWI-LITE SHOW $1.50
SPECIAL ENGAGEMENTS EXCLUDED TWI-LITE SHOW - LIMITED TO SEATING
HAMPSHIRE 4 584-7550 HAMPSHIRE MALL, ON CAFE SQ. RT. 9—HADLEY, MASS.
FRANCIS FORD COPPOLA'S Apocalypse Now R
Fri & Sat (4:30 @ $1.50) 7:45 10:30
Sun-Thurs (5:30 @ $1.50) 8:30
Matinees Sat & Sun 1:30
BURT REYNOLDS JILL CLAYBURGH
Starting Over R
Fri & sat (5:00 @ $1.50) 7:30 9:45
Sun-Thurs (6:00 @ $1.50) 8:45
Mats Sat & Sun 2:00
a tradition returns... Fiddler on the Roof G
Fri & Sat (4:30 @ $1.50) 7:45 10:30
Sun, Tue, Thurs (5:30 @ $1.50) 8:30
Matinees Sat & Sun 1:30
THE ROCKY HORROR PICTURE SHOW R
Fridays & Saturdays
12:00 Midnight
All seats $2.50
Guess Who's Back? NATIONAL LAMPOON'S ANIMAL HOUSE R
Fri & sat (5:00 @ $1.50) 7:30 9:45
Sun-Thur (6:00 @ $1.50) 8:45
Matinees Sat & Sun 2:00
MOUNTAIN FARMS 4 584-9153 MOUNTAIN FARMS MALL ROUTE 9—HADLEY, MASS.
A comedy for adults who can count. "10" R
Fri & sat (5:00 @ $1.50) 7:30 9:55
Sun-Thurs (6:00 @ $1.50) 8:15
Matinees Sat & Sun 2:15
AL PACINO AND JUSTICE FOR ALL R
Fri & Sat (5:00 @ $1.50) 7:30 9:55
Sun-Thurs (6:00 @ $1.50) 8:15
Honk if you love Brian. MONTY PYTHON'S LIFE OF BRIAN R
Fri & Sat (5:15 @ $1.50) 7:45 10:15
Sun-Thur (6:15 @ $1.50) 8:30
Matinees Sat & Sun 2:15
Childrens Show "Captain Nemo & The Underground City" G
All Seats $1.50
Sat & Sun 2:00
MICHAEL DOUGLAS SUSAN ANSPACH Running PG
Fri & Sat (5:15 @ $1.50) 7:45 10:15
Sun-Thurs (6:15 @ $1.50) 8:30
Matinees Sat & Sun 2:00

SHOWCASE CINEMAS
BARGAIN MATINEE DAILY
FIRST SHOW $2.00 TEL. 733-5131
RT. 5 RIVERDALE RD. WEST SPRINGFIELD
JILL CLAYBURGH Nuns R
Apocalypse Now R
Starting Over R
Guess Who's Back? NATIONAL LAMPOON'S ANIMAL HOUSE R
A temptingly tasteful comedy for adults who can count. Hilarious —N.Y.TIMES "10" R
Fiddler on the Roof G
AL PACINO AND JUSTICE FOR ALL R
"THE FISH THAT SAVED PITTSBURGH" PG

Trackmen open indoors

By JANE WOLFSON
Collegian Staff

Storrs, Connecticut will be the scene for the UMass men's indoor track team opening meet of the season as they face off against the Huskies of UConn and Seton Hall College.

UMass is expected to be strongest in the middle distance events according to Minuteman Coach Ken O'Brien. Runners to watch for include senior tri-captain Steve MacDougall, Rick Walls, Bob Martin, and Paul Kirksey, along with sophomore Paul Beaulieu and freshman Rick Doiran.

Other strong points for the Minutemen should be the hurdlers and the weight men. Freshmen Greg Mader, Greg Towle, and John Rasku and sophomore Ed Ioniwitz make up the hurdling squad. Freshman Stephen Hyder, sophomore Kirk Skinner, and junior J.C. Bejoran will handle the shot and the 35 pound weight.

Runners from UConn to watch include, sprinter Raymond Jones, middle distance men Chuck Thompson, David Kent, Tony Crow and Bernie Vogel, freshman high jumper Bob Hopson, and long jumpers Vogel and Thompson.

This year Seton Hall looks very strong with talented freshmen according to Coach John Moon. Top runners are Washington Njiri in the 600, Brian Demman in the 400. Dan Yates in the 1500, Anthony Philips in the long jump, and in the half mile Henry Mair and Brian Jennings.

Sports notices

SELF DEFENSE DEMONSTRATION—A Karate demonstration will be held on Monday, December 3 at 7:30 p.m. in the Student Union Ballroom.

HANG GLIDING—Saturday, Dec. 1 is the date of the second UMass Fly-in. Flying, frisbee, friendship, and fun. Gather outside the C.C. Coffee Shop at 11:45 Sat. morning. Bring car if possible. Poor weather date Sun., Dec. 2, same time. Also club meeting Mon., Dec. 3, 7:30 in Campus Center.

Packers grab McLaughlin

Former UMass linebacker Joe McLaughlin, placed on waivers earlier this year by the New York Giants, has signed with the Green Bay Packers. Yesterday, the Giants tried to put McLaughlin on their active roster, but he had to clear waivers first since he was waived earlier.

The Packers, in desperate need of linebacking help due to injuries, claimed the 6-1, 230 pound Stoneham native.

McLaughlin co-captained the Minutemen last year along with Bruce Kimball and was the team's leading tackler, playing a key role in the Minutemen's 9-4 season. UMass went to the national finals of Div 1-AA, losing to Florida A&M, 35-28. In that game, McLaughlin was named one of the Chevrolet players of the game.

McLaughlin was not chosen last May in the NFL draft, but signed with Giants as a free agent.

Mermen open season at BU

By SCOTT SOLOMON
Collegian Staff

The men's swimming team opens the 1979 season tomorrow afternoon against Boston University at 2:00 p.m. in Boston, looking to improve on last season's 4-6 mark.

First year Coach Russ Yarmouth, a '78 graduate of UMass, feels that his club's strength will come from the powerful free-stylists on the squad this season.

"We sould be powerful in the freestyle events this year," said Yarmouth. "We have a lot of depth in that area."

This part of the UMass swimming team is essential, because six of the 11 events in the meet are freestyle.

UMass will be paced by junior co-captains Bob Deconinck and John Fleeman, both of whom are freestyle swimmers. In addition to the pair of captains will be freshman Mike Boucher, sophomore Tom Dundon, Steve Samuel and Hawaii All-American sensation Jib Bowers.

TONIGHT!!
NATIONAL LAMPOON'S
"Disco Beaver from Outer Space"
PLUS: Marx Brothers Shorts
SUB 7, 8:30, 10:00, 11:30 $1.

Atkins Greenhouse Special
Friday Nov. 30 - Thurs. Dec. 6
Christmas Cactus $1.69
in a 4" pot
We now have in plentiful supply hanging Christams cactus in 8" hanging baskets for only $7.95. See our beautiful large poinsettas for only $6.50 decorated with colorful florist foil. For a new experience in Christmas shopping visit our new gift shop section.
Atkins Greenhouse & Gift Shop
Rt. 116 Amherst Telephone 256-6412

KEGS—BEER— STADIUM WINE—LIQUORS
U. Mass. Amherst
— 253-5595 — 10 a.m. til 11 p.m.
LIQUORS
SPECIALS
Bud 12 oz. cans, bottles.....$7.49 case $2.10 six
Miller 12 oz. cans, bottles....$7.49 case $2.10 six
SS Pierce Vodka.....1.75 liter $7.95
Gallo Wine French Columbard, Chenin Blanc, Sauvignon Blanc, Rose..... $2.49 fifth
Jim Beam.....$10.89 1.75 l
Almaden Wine Chablis, Rose, Burgundy .....3 liter $5.59
Carlo Rossi Wine Chablis, Rose, Burgundy .....3 liter $4.95
Old Milwaukee 12 pack cans.....$2.89
Catch Our Weekly Specials
University Drive, Amherst, Mass. Just past UMass Stadium, from SW dorms Stadium Liquors
ROUTE 9

Strong notches two goals

Stickers advance to semis

By MIKE ESTRADA
Collegian Staff

PRINCETON, N.J. - Sophomore Judy Strong continued her offensive prowess here yesterday scoring twice to lead UMass over previously undefeated St. Louis University 3-1 in the quarter-finals of the AIAW national field hockey tournament.

The Minutewomen meet top seeded Penn State in semi-round action today at 12:30. The Nittany Lions held on for a 1-0 victory over William and Mary yesterday.

The UMass win assures at least a fourth place finish here for the Minutewomen. Last year, the UMass field hockey squad finished fourth in the 1978 national tourney in Ellensberg, Washington.

Problems that UMass incurred Wednesday disappeared as the Minutewomen (playing on the same field) adjusted well to the natural turf. Passes that were cut off by the opposition Wednesday were completed yesterday against the Billikens, (20-1-2) the team tied with Penn State for first in the latest national poll.

But it was more than skills that allowed UMass to defeat St. Louis.

The Minutewomen appeared to play with more authority and desire against St. Louis than against Michigan State. If nothing else the stickers spent considerable time on offense in one of the tournament's key games.

"We weren't really up for the game Wednesday," freshman Sue Caples said. "We were looking past Michigan State. After last night we thought about how bad we played and got upset with ourselves."

UMass broke on top at 27:00 of the first half when a shot by Laurel Walsh off a penalty corner found its way to Judy Strong near the net. Strong turned and slapped a shot just inside the left post past Billiken goalie Lynn Dobelman.

For the second time in two days the Minutewomen made the score 2-0 when senior Laura O'Neil pushed in a rebound off a shot by Karen Laverdiere at 7:00 of the second half.

O'Neil, still feeling ill from a car accident she was in November 17, played what coach Pam Hixon termed "one of her best games in a long time."

O'Neil was also named Wednesday night to the first squad of the 1979 All-American team. Judy Strong, with 25 goals this season, was named to the second squad.

St. Louis pressured mid-way through the second half, receiving seven of their 10 second half penalty corners. UMass goalie Karen Stifter (10 saves) was pulled from the goal by a shot by the Billikens' Karen Shearin. Shearin's shot rebounded off Stifter into the goal, just past the outstretched stick of defenseman Karen Laverdiere.

Minutewoman Judy Strong shows the form that she used to score two goals yesterday at Princeton to lead the UMass field hockey team to the semi-finals of the National Tournament. (Staff photo by Ben Marsden)

Judy Strong put the game away for the Minutewomen scoring her second goal for two straight days a shot from the right side past the pad of Dobelman.

The assist was given to Laura O'Neil.

"The first goal was a cushion," Hixon said. "The difference between yesterday and Wednesday is that we moved to the ball. We beat the other team and took it from there."

As for her squad's chances against Penn State, Hixon is cautiously optimistic.

"We played them in pre-season and they beat us 1-0. But they scored early and we played them even the rest of the game. We won't change a thing tomorrow. I don't think there is anyone who can keep our team from scoring."

The top four seeded teams in the tournament here have advanced to the semi finals. In addition to UMass and Penn State Maryland advances by virtue of their 1-0 flick-off victory over Ursinus. California State at Long Beach advances with their 2-1 win over Davis and Elkins.

Springfield College advanced in the concellation brackett with a 4-3 win over the University of Iowa.

Co-captain Bill Morrison will be in the startin lineup Saturday when the Minutemen take on the Michigan Wolverines. (Staff photo by Jim Mahoney)

Hoopmen set to open

By STEVE ZACK
Collegian Staff

One might wonder what it takes to erase the memories of a 5-22 season and a losing streak currently at thirteen games. It would be of no great wisdom to project that this question is currently on the minds of the Minutemen basketball team and its fans.

Last season was one of nightmare after nightmare as the Minutemen were unable to find a winning combination under coach Jack Leaman who resigned at season's end after thirteen years as head coach. Taking Leaman's place is his former assistant Ray Wilson. Assisting Wilson this year will be Ray Ricketts, now in his fourth season as a UMass assistant after receiving his Masters degree in education from Springfield College. In addition to Ricketts, a new face can be found in the basketball office. It belongs to assistant coach Bob Rachal, who after a one year layoff from basketball, has returned to the court wars. Rachal is the former head coach of the University of Alaska where he compiled a 16-28 record in his only year at the helm.

When the Minutemen take to the court this Saturday at 2:00 against the University of Michigan at Ann Arbor, there will be a lot of new faces in Minutemen uniforms.

Gone from last year's squad are leading scorer Mark Haymore, center Len Kohlhaas, forwards Eric Williams and Brad Johnson (all members of the starting team), and forwards Bob Burton and Mike Grammel (both of whom have transfered).

Replacing the departed are newcomers Joe Anderson, Pedro de la Cruz, Tyus Nedd (currently disabled with a broken wrist), Dan Wright, David Teague, and Curtis Phauls.

Phauls will be counted on to be one of the team's major catalysts.

"A very exciting player to watch, who moves very well with and without the ball," remarked head coach Wilson. "A very good shooter who is very versatile...explosive scorer who at times will be given the assignment of covering our opponents leading scorer."

The new arrivals will join returning seniors and co-captains George Dennerlein and Bill Morrison, juniors Jay Stewart, Marc Roberts, and Tom Witkos and sophomores Jeff Bierly and Bob Thorne.

One of the problems which may prove hazardous for the Minutemen is the lack of bulk on the squad. Only two members are listed at over two hundred pounds, de la Cruz and Teague, both of whom are listed at 205. But this lack of size will be compensated somewhat by the team's speed, shooting ability, and physical condition.

The probable starting lineup for the Minutemen on Saturday will be Tom Witkos and Bill Morrison at the guards, Jay Stewart at center, and Curtis Phauls will team with either George Dennerlein or Dan Wright at forward.

George O'Brien

What might have been

The UMass Minutemen football team finished up its season last Saturday with that 41-3 pasting from the Eagles of BC. The gridders wound up the year losing three of their last four games, ending up 6-4, leaving many people, including myself wondering just how good or bad the 1979 season was.

On the positive side, the Minutemen finished 4-1 in the Yankee Conference and wound up in a tie for the Beanpot with Boston University. UMass also had a number of impressive wins. They whipped BU at home, 20-6, they dominated Harvard 20-7, they leveled North Carolina Central 48-7 and they shut out conference foes URI and UNH 24-0 and 29-0 respectively.

These feats alone look pretty respectable when you consider the number of quality players lost from last year's playoff squad, Dennis Dent, Bruce Kimball, Mike and Joe McLaughlin, Hank Sareault, John D'Amato, Dave Bemis and John Beerworth among others.

In 1979, the Minutemen also had some outstanding individual performances. On offense, Mike McEvilly had a superb year, leading the conference in passing while improving his completion percentage from .396 last year to .476 in 79. Sandro Vitiello led the conference in scoring with 59 points and wound up his UMass career with school record of 29 field goals.

Receivers Kevin O'Connor, Marty Paglione and Mike Newell all had fine years, gathering 38, 23 and 16 catches respectively. The running game had some problems, but halfback Cliff Pedrow had a solid year with six touchdowns and freshman fullback Dan Dawson had a very strong finish.

On defense the Minutemen had a sensational year against the run. Only Villanova and BC had any success at all running on UMass and it may be many moons before any team runs on them for the yardage BC did. Ray Benoit, Eric Cregan, Dan Petrie, George Lewis, the brothers DiTommaso and Scott Crowell all had excellent years. Steve LeMay, Kevin Sullivan, Toni Jessi and Bob Manning were stalwarts in the secondary.

An indication of the talent the Minutemen possessed came with the selection of the All Yankee Conference Team. UMass placed 11 players on the first team (five on defense and six on offense) and eight more on the second team.

Unfortunately for the Minutemen, the ultimate success of a team is not measured by statistics or the number of players who made the all-star team as the Red Sox can attest. Success is measured by the won-loss record, and from here, 6-4 must be looked at as a dissapointment.

Although the team did lose a number of tremendous players from last year, they had the talent and the potential to win their division outright and get back in the playoffs again.

To get to the playoffs however, the Minutemen had to have everything go right for them. They had to play a total game, getting top performances from all the areas on offense, defense, specialty teams and kicking teams.

It was very simple, if all the units of the team played well, the team won, if one element had an off day, they lost. With the exceptions of the Maine and Harvard games, the Minutemen did not have the talent or the maturity to win if one unit did not play to its potential.

Two things that plagued the Minutemen throughout the year were the inability to cash in on scoring opportunities and a susceptability to the pass, especially the deep threat.

In all four of their losses the failure to take advantage of scoring chances hurt the Minutemen. In the Holy Cross game, many people tried to pin the loss on a lack of concentration after the Sullivan injury. Although Sullv's loss hurt, it was the failure to get the ball in the end zone in the first half that really hurt the team.

A susceptability to the pass also hurt the Minuteman. The teams that beat UMass did it through the air, especially via the long pass. Villanova, UConn, and BC all made effective use of the fast receiver.

When I look back on the season, I take great satisfaction in some of the big wins and individual performances. What bothers me, is what could have been and what was not. Unfortunately, the only thing that people will remember about 1979 was the team's record and the fact that they did not make the playoffs.

MASSACHUSETTS DAILY

VOLUME CIX, ISSUE 60

Monday, December 3, 1979

Collegian

© 1979, Massachusetts Daily Collegian

Student Newspaper of the University of Massachusetts/Amherst, Ma. 01003 (413)545-3500

Too much family may cause holiday stress

By JIM MORAN
Collegian Staff

The holiday season often brings with it feelings of family-togetherness and human sharing. But for some, in addition to these positive attributes, there are often the mixed emotions of anxiety, loneliness and utter tension.

What should parents and their college-age students do to cope with stressful situations over the holiday season?

A lecture, given by Dr. David P. Kraft of the University's Mental Health Services, suggested some solutions to that problem last Thursday night before a mostly-student audience of about one hundred in the Campus Center.

Dr. Kraft outlined his plan for dealing with "holiday stress," via the use of vowels. He said parents and their offspring should first "anticipate" problems that have occured in the past, remembering interactions which may have led to arguments. Kraft then advocated that a positive way of dealing with repeated confrontational situations would be to "eliminate" factors which have led to such situations in the past. Such methods, he said, might be to "laugh them off, go along with them for the sake of avoiding an argument or even ignore them."

Kraft then told the audience that "isolating" problems and looking at the motivations for bad feelings would be constructive. He said parents should be honest with their children, telling them they may wish to spend their holidays by going about their normal lives, that they may not like to be "eaten out of house and home," and would like their children to find other persons with whom to share some of their time. He also said students should tell their parents they might like to see old high school friends and spend less time with relatives.

Kraft spoke of his own life: "I remember one year having to visit with twenty relatives." He told of his solution to that problem- that he asked his parents to arrange to see only "some" of his relatives and plan such visits in advance. Kraft humorously related how after doing so, at a time when he only saw three or four relatives during the holidays, his "What I discovered was that my parents really wanted me to see these people and were using me as a way to do it," Kraft said. He said holiday visits should be balanced with consideration of who one "ought" to see, and who one "wants" to see.

"Orchestration," said Kraft, "is a way of finding alternatives" to staying with your family during the holidays. He suggested students visit other friends, staying at home only some of the time and that making excuses for not hanging around, such as doing term papers, might be an effective escape from poor home environments.

Kraft talked briefly of people who might be totally alone during the Christmas, Hannukah, and New Years holidays, He suggested such persons might create a "psychological" family, looking for people to spend time with who might have similar problems-- companians who have no family, friends with divorced parents, persons who cannot go home because of bad feelings or disownment by their family.

A look at all that's ailing us

Call it a malaise, a malady, a sickness, or whatever the politicians are calling it these days. But whatever it's name, the mood of America today might be called at least somewhat gloomy. Presented here is a look at some the problems the nation faces today, both at home and abroad.

VIOLENCE

Mobs storm embassy

TRIPOLI, Libya [AP]—Some 2,000 Libyans chanting support for Iran stormed and ransacked the U.S. Embassy here Sunday in the latest of a wave of angry anti-American protests in the Moslem world, U.S. officials reported.

None of the embassy staff was injured, but the Libyan government accused the Americans of having seriously injured several of the attackers by firing military-type "toxic gases" at them.

Libya's official JANA news agency said this "confirmed that the embassy's employees are military personnel." It did not say whether this meant the government planned to take any action against the Americans, who had to scurry for safety through a back door and went to their homes after the attack.

State Department officials in Washington said an automatic tear-gas security system had activated when the embassy was stormed.

The JANA report said the protesters set fire to an American flag and effigies of President Carter and the deposed Shah of Iran. U.S. officials reported serious fire damage on the first floor of the four-story building.

An embassy source said the consular section was badly damaged and there also was damage on the second floor of the four-story building.

The Carter administration immediately filed the "strongest possible" protest with the government of Libyan leader Col. Moammar Khadafy over the attack and implied that it believed the Khadafy regime supported the attack.

Only one Libyan policeman was in front of the embassy when the demonstrators marched up, and Libyan authorities ignored appeals for help from the staff, State Department officials said in Washington. They said additional protection had been requested from the Libyans as recently as Saturday.

U.S. Marine guards were withdrawn from the embassy some time ago at the request of the Libyan government, department officials said.

This was the second time in two weeks that a U.S. Embassy had been stormed. On Nov. 21, a mob of Pakistani Moslems attacked and burned the embassy in Islamabad, killing two U.S. servicemen and two Pakistani staff members.

The Libyan news agency said the Moslem student protesters marched on the embassy in support of the demand by Iranians holding the U.S. Embassy in Tehran for extradition of the ousted

TURN TO PAGE 7

Shown here, in a photo taken in March of this year, is the Holy Shrine of Qom, home of religious leader Ayatollah Khomeini. Meanwhile, the holding of hostages in the embassy goes on. (Collegian file photo)

IRAN: DAY 29

Militant students at the U.S. embassy in Tehran repeat their warning that it would be "a big mistake" for the Shah to leave the United States for another country. They also threaten the hostages. Page 2.

The deposed Shah of Iran arrives at an Air Force hospital in Texas to recuperate after a five-week stay in New York. Officials say he will remain at the "secure convalescent facility" for an indefinite period pending further travel. Page 2.

INFLATION

Prices —up

By LOUISE COOK
Associated Press

Rising prices dealt another blow to the grocery budget during November, with the cost of a random list of food and nonfood items rising by almost 1 percent, according to an Associated Press marketbasket survey.

The increases hit hardest at breakfast foods like eggs, milk and coffee. One of the

TURN TO PAGE 7

ENERGY

A plan soon?

By DAVID ESPO
Associated Press

WASHINGTON—With only three weeks to go until year-end adjournment. the House and Senate are working against the clock to complete work on important energy legislation and a bill to give federal loan guarantees to the Chrysler Corp.

TURN TO PAGE 7

OPEC ANALYSIS

U.S. pleads no oil hike

By R. GREGORY NOKES
Associated Press

WASHINGTON — It was from the outset a hat-inhand performance: Treasury Secretary G. William Miller urging Saudi Arabia, Kuwait and Abu Dhabi to keep oil production high to help restrain oil prices and prevent a worldwide recession.

"It's the annual pre-OPEC pleading by the United States," one U.S. diplomat in the Mideast observed.

U.S. Treasury secretaries have regularly beat a path to the three countries in advance of price-setting meetings of the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries, scheduled this year for Caracas on Dec. 17.

Saudi Arabia and Abu Dhabi are regarded as moderates on oil prices within OPEC and, along with Kuwait, they produce slightly more than half of the annual daily OPEC oil output of nearly 31 million barrels. The three countries have said they would like to cut production in 1980.

Under the circumstances, Miller returned from the trip with probably the best results the United States had any reason to expect. Saudi Arabia and Kuwait said they would consider the plea to maintain high oil output, while Abu Dhabi agreed to produce what it could.

§Miller's mission was enormously complicated by recent events in Iran. Officials in all three countries worried aloud that the U.S. action freezing Iranian assets, for whatever reason, could someday happen to them in the event of a political falling-out with the United States.

§Furthermore, there were warnings that an armed conflict between the United States and Iran could push the Arab oil producers to adopt positions unfavorable to the United States as all three countries would fear violence from militant Moslem groups if they adopted pro-U.S. positions.

The potential for trouble in Saudi Arabia was reflected in the week-long occupation of the Moslem world's most holy site, the Grand Mosque at Mecca, by armed invaders during the entire time Miller was in the country, although the two events were unrelated.

It appeared likely that Kuwait and

TURN TO PAGE 7

DIGEST

U.S. Ambassador to the United Nations Donald F. McHenry, center, listens to debate on the Iranian crisis by the Security Council last night. At left is Sen. Jacob Javitz, R-N.Y., and William Vandenheuval, deputy U.S. ambassador, is at right. (AP Laserphoto)

Kennedy: Iran debate later

LOS ANGELES (AP)— Sen. Edward M. Kennedy said yesterday he believes there will be a review of the Carter administration's handling of the Iranian crisis, but he continued to oppose such debate until American hostages are freed.

"I think there will always be a time for debate and discussion, and I think that debate and discussion will take place," Kennedy said in a broadcast interview taped at KNBC.

Kennedy said the key question "is whether that debate and discussion now will enhance the release of the hostages...I don't believe that such debate and discussion will provide that kind of early release or enhance their security, and therefore I don't think it's wise to do so."

Grandparent abuse severe

BALTIMORE (AP)— While child abuse and wife beating have drawn considerable attention, another serious family problem — battered grandparents — has gone mostly unnoticed, a researcher says.

Abuse of the elderly may be as severe as child abuse, said Marilyn R. Block, a researcher for the University of Maryland's Center on Aging.

"It's sort of at the stage that child abuse was 20 years ago. People are horrified at the notion," said Ms. Block, who conducted a one-year, federally funded study of the elderly.

Most of the abuse was psychological rather than physical, Ms. Biock said she found. And, although the elderly were more likely to seek help than members of other abused groups, they were usually unsuccessful in getting help.

Disruptive student isolated

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)— Giving up on the paddle and other traditional means of punishment, school officials in nearby Groveport plan to begin isolating habitual troublemakers in restrictive classrooms.

Problem students in the Groveport-Madison School District will be separated from classmates and required not only to complete class work, but also to write a plan on how to change behavior.

"It's an attempt to provide a more workable disciplinary policy for students," Superintendent L. Neil Johnson said Sunday. "Suspending students doesn't seem to be effective."

MBTA buses miss runs

BOSTON (AP) —With hundreds of its vehicles in disrepair, the Boston area bus system reports it is missing about one of every 12 scheduled runs, more than twice the rate of last summer.

According to Massachusetts Bay Transportation Authority, operator of the buses, the fleet missed 8.3 percent of its trips in October, the latest month for which figures are available. In July the missed-trip rate was 2.3 percent, in August 3.9 percent, and in September 7.9 percent.

On any given day, about onethird of the MBTA's 1,069 buses are idle, awaiting repairs.

The Massachusetts Daily Collegian (USPS 333-220) is published daily Monday through Friday excluding January, June, July, and August, for $15 at 113 Campus Center, University of Massachusetts, Amherst, MA 01003. Second class postage paid at Amherst, Mass. Postmaster: Send address changes to Massachusetts Daily Collegian, 113 Campus Center, University of Massachusetts, Amherst, MA 01003.

Shah changes hospitals, flies to Texas Air Force base

By GREG THOMPSON
Associated Press

SAN ANTONIO, Texas — The deposed shah of Iran left his hospital bed in New York before dawn yesterday andflew to Texas aboard a U.S. military jet for an indefinite stay at a "secure" Air Force hospital.

President Carter, returning to the White House from Camp David, Md., said the shah needed "to recuperate" after five weeks of treatment in New York.

Asked if the shah would be offered permanent asylum in the United States, Carter said: "I cannot answer that now."

Carter's press secretary, Jody Powell, said the shah was admitted to the hospital in Texas because "he needs a period of recuperation under medical supervision."

Powell said the shah's doc tors advised him that the deposed monarch "should not undertake a prolonged trip." He said the United States was continuing to seek a haven for him.

"The United States government has agreed for humanitarian reasons to provide a secure convalescent facility where he can recuperate pending further travel plans," Powell said.

The mob holding 50 Americans hostage at the U.S. Embassy in Tehran has demanded the return of the 60-year-old Mohammad Reza Pahlavi to Iran. The shah entered the United States on Oct. 22 for treatment of lymph cancer and for gallbladder surgery.

He was taken secretly from New York Hospital-Cornell Medical Center at 4:25 a.m. under heavy guard by FBI agents and his own security personnel. Reporters were unaware that he was leaving until they saw a motorcade pull away from the hospital.

The shah, accompanied by his wife, the Empress Farah Diva, was taken to Laguardia Airport, where he walked up the ramp of a waiting Air Force jet, a DC-9.

After a nearly 3¼-hour flight, the shah arrived at Kelly Air Force Base, where he was taken in a 13-vehicle convoy, including two ambulances, to the hospital at adjacent Lackland Air Force Base. He was admitted to Willford Hall Hospital, a 1,000-bed facility soon to become the Defense Department's largest medical complex.

Sen. John Tower, R-Texas, said the shah was welcome in Texas. "The shah is an old ally of our country," he said.

Lackland is the Air Force's basic training center, and normally is an "open" base. However, gates where a single sentry usually stands guard were manned by at least four airmen each Sunday morning. Some newsmen reported seeing mili- tary personnel carrying automatic rifles.

Motorcade carrying the Shah arrives at Lackland Air Force base in Texas on its way to Wilford Medical Center in San Antonio. (AP Laserphoto)

Shah's move draws new trial threat

TEHRAN, Iran (AP)— Word that the ousted Shah of Iran was on the move again drew an angry new warning yesterdayfrom Moslem militants that they will put their U.S. Embassy hostages on trial.

It would be a "big mistake" if the shah leaves the United States, a militant spokesman said after learning that former Iranian monarch Mohammad Reza Pahlavi had left New York for Texas. But Iran's acting foreign minister said a trial of the hostages would not take place soon.

The shah flew before dawn yesterday to an Air Force hospital outside San Antonio for an indefinite period of recuperation from gallbladder surgery and cancer treatment he underwent in New York.

Egyptian officials, who have oifered Pahlavi asylum, said in Cairo they believe the ailing exmonarch is likely to remain in the United States for several more weeks. One said the shah would go to the Bahamas, though the Bahamian government has not confirmed that.

U.S. officials said nothing about the shah's eventual destination. President Carter, asked whether he might be offered permanent U.S. asylum, replied, "I cannot answer that now."

The militant students holding 50 American hostages at the embassy apparently believed the trip to Texas was a prelude to the shah's departure elsewhere.

"If the shah leaves the United States for another country, we will try the hostages," one said when reached by telephone.

"This is another trick taken by the CIA to protect the shah," said another. "But ev eryone in the world knows he cannot be protected against the will of God and the will of the people."

The students and Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini have threatened to put their captives on trial as "spies" if the United States does not hand over Pahlavi to face charges of mass murder and corruption. On Saturday, the militants claimed one of their hostages had con fessed to being a CIA agent.

SNOW TIRES SAVE ½
Firestone Retreads have the same width, depth, design and rubber as new tires —only at ½ the cost. FREE replacement if they EVER fail for ANY reason. Regular $15.00 up Radials $19.50 up exchange plus tax LEON'S TIRES 291 FEDERAL STREET (next to McDonald's) GREENFIELD, 773-8315

true elegance endures
J. AUSTIN JEWELER
where christmas gifts are still affordable heirloom and contemporary jewelery conservatively priced
31 So. Pleasant St., Amherst

The UMass Music Theatre Guild
is now accepting staff applications for the Spring '80 Production of APPLAUSE
Needed are:
Producer
Director Music Director Choreographer
Stage Manager Tech director Master Electrician
Costume, Set, Lighting, Designers Master Carpenter
Publicity Director
For more info cal Mark at 546-9051

FOR LOVERS
THE MOST INTIMATE BOOK OF POEMS EVER WRITTEN FOR LOVERS AND DREAMERS AND THOSE ALONE. IT'S AN IDEAL GIFT FOR YOURSELF AND THE ONE YOU LOVE; THEY WILL REMEMBER YOU ALWAYS. IN BLACK AND WHITE FOR THE TOUCH OF ELEGANCE.
For Your Copy:
Send $10.00 & Tax
VAN STEAD
303 FIFTH AVE.,
NEW YORK 10016

INSTANT COPIES

Now: Copy cassette tapes yourself—any length. Fast: Copy a one-hour cassette in less than 2 minutes. Simple: Easy as xerox-ing a letter. Inexpensive: Our remarkably low price includes the Rezound Copy Cassette™. Accurate: Guaranteed, perfect monaural copies every time. Versatile: Make 1, 2, 3 or 100 copies.
REZOUND CASSETTE COPYING CENTERS
the UNIVERSITY STORE campus center

Williams: Quiet college fit for a prince

By LINDA PACK
Special to the Collegian

WILLIAMSTOWN— Reza Pahlevi, the 19-year-old son of the deposed Iranian Shah is a freshman at Williams College. While the rest of the country rages with anti-Iranian sentiment, all seems quiet in Williamstown. There are no flag burnings against the holding of Embassy hostages, there are no protests against the Shah, there are no demonstrations against the presence of Reza at Williams.

Though Williams administrator says Reza is not an issue, certain events they believe indicate otherwise. College spokespersons say that students should not be judged on the behavior and beliefs of their parents. Instead, Williams looks for enthusiastic, imaginative, intelligent and diverse students. Some faculty members, however, say that Reza, because he is on record for supporting his father's actions when in power, should not be regarded as a political issue but as a moral one.

"The sins of the father are not visited on the children," Williams Director of Admissions Phil Smith said.

"The sins of the father should not visit the son," said one faculty member, who did not want to be identified, "except when the son benefits from and believes in his father's sins."

"Reza, perhaps, should be viewed as a maintenance of the status quo," said Kirt Tauber, head of Williams' political science department. "Williams students are taught to think critically and to be objectively concerned. Williams is interested in preparing leadership personnel.

"Reza's being at Williams is an issue," Tauber continued. "While it is a political statement, safety is also a concern. It is safe for him here. Williams is isolated. The comings and goings of the community are easily observed and controlled. Though Reza's coming here was viewed on liberal grounds objectively, he is a political figure."

Protest from a faculty member over Reza's presence at Williams was voiced in September at a faculty meeting. "I feel demoralized with this," Spanish Prof. Antonio Gemenez said. "This was the first time I have talked in a faculty meeting. It was a very emotional thing for me. And I think that what I said has been buried.

"I understand that the college should not judge students by the actions of their parents. But it is hard to disassociate the father from the son. Reza represents a lot. Although he is not responsible for his father's actions, Reza has not disassociated himself from his father politically."

Williams administrators have denied comment on complaints such as this. They say Reza should not be condemned for his father's actions. "We are concerned with the students themselves," Smith said. Asked if he felt Reza's support of his father's actions should have been considered during the admissions process, Smith said no, adding, "I do not even know what his political beliefs are."

Within the student community, little has happened in response to Reza's presence. The college paper, the Record, received a press release that the crown prince would be attending Williams. The Record staff decided not to make Reza a "news item."

"The students, I am pleased to see, take a mature view of the situation," College Dean Dan O'Conner said. O'Conner is also Reza's academic advisor.

"The students here are not politically active," Tauber said. "Not at all. That's another reason why Reza is safe here."

"We are not covering Reza," said Record Editor-in-Chief Karen Walker, "because why make a fellow student's life here more difficult?" Walker added that Reza cannot be expected to not support his father. "After all it's his father," she said.

When asked if she knew what the Shah did when in power that makes Reza's support of him reprehensible to some of the faculty members, Walker said, "the Shah...exploited a number of people."

Reza, for security reasons, lives off campus in a $250,000 house, owned previously by a curator of the Clark Art Institute. Before coming to Williams, Reza studied abroad for five years. Last year he was in Texas taking part in a special Air Force program that taught him how to fly jet fighter planes.

Reza himself could not be reached for comment.

Food engineering major Sharon G. Feldman, a Lewis House resident, takes a study break yesterday at the Campus Pond where a duck enjoyed her presence. (Staff photo by Bel Terzi)

Cops probe JFK fire, FAC theft

UMass police yesterday said they are searching for "two suspects" involved in setting ablaze a bulletin board outside the room of a head of residence of John F. Kennedy dormitory in the Southwest Residential Area.

Police said they were called to the scene at 4:25 yesterday by head of residence Juan Cruz. Two fire engines arrived at the dorm and extinguished the blaze in 10 minutes, Amherst Fire Department spokesmen said.

Papers on the bulletin board outside Cruz's 19th floor room were destroyed, Cruz said. "A large chunk of the bulletin board was also destroyed and part of the carpet beneath it was beginning to burn," he added.

Cruz, 37, and head of the dorm's 16th through 22nd floors, speculated the fire was started by dorm residents "questioning authority." He said dorm policy requires students stop using dorm pinball machines after midnight and he had told some students to stop plaving before the fire had started.

UMass police also reported $6-$8,000 worth of costumes stolen Saturday night from the Fine Arts Center. The costumes were the property of the Hartford Ballet Company for their production of "Nutcracker Suite."

Company spokespersons said they would offer a reward to anyone who could lead them to the return of the costumes, FAC Director of Production Services James E. Mac Rostie said. The company will not press charges, he added.

Lester talks on blacks, Jews

By DEBORAH LESSER
Collegian Staff

Addressing black-Jewish relations, Afro-American Department professor Julius Lester said yesterday, "A victim of racism doesn't necessarily have an automatic immunity from carrying anti-semitism."

Lester also condemned anti-semitism when it attacks Jews as Jews rather than their policies, in his speech, "Responses to Anti-Semitism of Our Times."

Lester spoke before about 150 people in the Commonwealth Room of the Student Union Building in a lecture sponsored by the UMass B'nai B'rith Hillel.

The lecture was intended to give a black perspective on anti-semitism, an issue of growing concern to the Jewish community, Hillel Rabbi Saul Perlmutter said.

Lester has been under fire recently by members of the black community for expressing pro-Jewish sentiments in newspapers, such as Chai Times, a new Five-College Jewish newspaper.

"To speak before this group requires great courage, patience, and a capacity to endure shame," Lester said. "Yet it is necessary to speak honestly about the racism each one of us carries," he added.

Our task is not to flagellate with guilt but to throw away the unholy birthrights bequeathed to us by our culture," he said.

Lester described the decade of the 1960s as an "arduous journey" which "ended in an alienation between black and whites, including many Jews."

Jewish opposition to black nationalism, community controls, and affirmative action angered blacks very much, he said. "I was deeply hurt and wanted to hurt the Jews in return," he said. Out of such rage came his past article attacking Jews and Israel and a radio broadcast of an anti-semitic poem.

Attorney: Frats owe money

By MARK L. CURELOP
Collegian Staff

Amherst attorney Richard Howland at a Hampshire Superior Court hearing on Friday recommended the 11 UMass fraternities and sororities be responsible for a $32,441 debt owed to Howland's client Arnolds and Eddies Incorporated, a Springfield food distributor.

The debt accumulated under the Fraternities Management Association, a student run co-op that served as a distributor of food and supplies for the Greek Area. The association went bankrupt in 1978 due to mismanagement of funds, Greek system members said.

In a related suit, Driekorn, a bakery product manufacturer Mansfield Paper Company and Pearless Foods filed suit Nov. 26 in Hampden County Superior Court against Delta Chi fraternity, Zeta Psi fraternity, Sigma Alpha Mu fraternity, and the defunct Kappa Alpha Theta sorority.

The court favored the companies seeking payment on their goods.

"I can't see how we should be responsible for the mismanagement," said a fraternity president who asked to remain unidentified. "You can't run a business that way. I don't think we should be held responsible for a debt that occured when the brothers now living in the house had nothing to do with those payments."

When the association conducted business at UMass, Joseph Sexton managed the organization in a "personal, informal fashion; shuffling monies around to pay for sudden expenses," according to a May 17, 1978 Collegian interview with campus administrators.

Arts in review

Two of the cast of the Nutcracker Suite, which thrilled audiences at the FAC this weekend, perform in Dance of the Arabian Nights during the second act of the play. (Staff Photo by Steve Thomas)

'Cracker enchants with its fantasy

By DOUG PAULDING
Collegian Staff

From the Kingdom of sweets, waltzing flowers, toy soldiers and snowflakes, emerged the most famous Christmas fantasy: "The Nutcracker Suite."

The Hartford Ballet enchanted the near-capacity crowd with its 1979 debut performance at the Fine Arts Center Friday and Saturday night, and Sunday afternoon. The Friday show was laced wiht absolutely dazzling performances by most everyone. The set was nothing short of fabulous. With transluscent screens giving way to fog, snowflakes and, finally, the actual dancers, an exquisite aura of fantasy was created. One felt as though s/he were within the very set and a part

TURN TO PAGE 6

Derringer disappoints crowd

By ED LEVINE
Collegian Staff

Veteran rock-and-roller Rick Derringer played in the Blue Wall Friday night before an audience eager to hear a hard rock show featuring songs from his latest album and other popular tunes from his 16-year career.

Unfortunately, however, Derringer did not seem to thrill the capacity crowd. Instead of the anticipated exciting hard rock show, Derringer was flat, relatively unexciting, and his performance was not what was to be expected from a seasoned musician.

Derringer drew heavily from his new album "Guitars and Women," leading off his set with the title cut which, despite good tight instrumentals, lacked vocal power. To make matters worse, the bass player, singing backup vocals, was miserably offkey. One bright spot, however, was Derringer's guitar solos, which were piercing, and, for better or worse, quite loud.

Derringer followed with his popular "Teenage Love Affair," which featured fine guitar work as well as his use of a voice box, creating an eerie, echoing effect. This song, perhaps, was the best executed of the night.

Next from the new album came another tune, "Something Warm," as unimpressive as the title cut. Derringer's latest music is, to use an old adage, "overly commercial."

TURN TO PAGE 6

'Belle of Amherst' back

By DEBBIE WALLACE
Collegian Staff

The return of the "Belle of Amherst" to the stage has given theater-goers the extreme pleasure of watching Julie Harris portray Amherst's own prolific poetess Emily Dickinson.

The "Belle of Amherst" is currently playing at Boston's Wilbur Theater until Dec. 8. Written by William Luce it is a play of witty dialogue taken from the poetess' letters interspersed with her descriptive poetry. It is the combined efforts of Emily Dickinson students, director of the play Charles Nelson Reilly, and Julie Harris.

Harris' familiarity with Emily Dickinson enabled her to capture the poetess' love affairs with nature, her deep bond with her sister Lavina, the strict and proper family life and her humorous observations. Harris' extraordinary one-woman show created a magic and genuine feeling for the genius of Dickinson, a woman with the most fragile emotions bonded with extraordinary strength of character.

We are drawn by the beauty of Emily Dickinson's poetry, voiced proudly. Harris created chilling sensations as she spoke this great poetess' words. Her gestures and strong voice resulted in a convincing and moving portrayal of the Dickinson. Harris'

TURN TO PAGE 6

HERE ARE THE ANSWERS

TO FOOD BUDGET PROBLEMS

LONDON BROIL STEAK
USDA CHOICE SHOULDER CLOD
$1.99 LB

MOSEY'S CORNED BEEF
EXTRA LEAN-CHOICE STRAIGHT CUT
3-4 LB AVG
$1.79 LB

HOT OR SWEET
CARANDO ITALIAN SAUSAGE $1.49 LB

OSCAR MAYER
MEAT WEINERS $1.59 LB

OSCAR MAYER
BEEF FRANKS $1.69 LB

OSCAR MAYER
MEAT BOLOGNA 8 OZ PKG 89¢

OSCAR MAYER
BEEF BOLOGNA 8 OZ PKG 99¢

USDA CHOICE
BONELESS BLADE STEAK $2.09 LB

SWIFTS PREMIUM
BACON $1.29 LB PKG

ICEBERG LETTUCE
LARGE CALIFORNIA HD 49¢

AVOCADOES
FRESH FLORIDA EA 39¢

SEALTEST ICE CREAM
½ GAL $1.59

MAXWELL HOUSE
INSTANT COFFEE 6 OZ JAR $2.99

HAWAIIAN PUNCH
RED 46 OZ CAN 59¢

BATHROOM TISSUE
SWEET LIFE 4 ROLL PKG 79¢

CLAM CHOWDER
SNOW'S NEW ENGLAND 15 OZ CAN 79¢

Crown Point by ANCHOR HOCKING
This Week's Special

39¢
Rocks
SPECIAL SAVINGS EACH WEEK ON FEATURED ITEMS

Louis FINE FOODS
N. PLEASANT ST., AMHERST, MASS

SPECIALS DEC. 3-8, 1979
COUPONS

WITH COUPON & $7.50 PURCHASE OR MORE EXCLUDING CIGARETTES LU88
BUMBLE BEE CHUNK IN WATER
LIGHT TUNA 6½ OZ CAN 59¢
VALID THRU DEC. 8
LIMIT ONE AT LOUIS FOODS

WITH COUPON & $7.50 PURCHASE OR MORE EXCLUDING CIGARETTES LU89
JOY LIQUID 13¢ OFF LABEL
DISH DETERGENT 22 OZ 69¢
VALID THRU DEC 8
LIMIT ONE AT LOUIS FOODS

WITH COUPON & $7.50 PURCHASE OR MORE EXCLUDING CIGARETTES LU90
SWEET LIFE
100 CT ASPIRIN FREE
VALID THRU DEC. 8
LIMIT ONE AT LOUIS FOODS

WITH COUPON & $7.50 PURCHASE OR MORE EXCLUDING CIGARETTES LU91
PRELL SOFT, MEDIUM, HARD
TOOTH BRUSH FREE
VALID THRU DEC. 8
LIMIT ONE AT LOUIS FOODS

WITH COUPON & $7.50 PURCHASE OR MORE EXCLUDING CIGARETTES LU87

LAND O' LAKES BUTTER
LB PKG QTRS 99¢
VALID THRU DEC. 8
LIMIT ONE AT LOUIS FOODS

★ Belle

CONT. FROM PAGE 4

range of emotions was exceptional as she recalled Dickinson's struggle to publish her writing, which she summed up in one of Dickinson's poems:

"This is my letter to the World
That Never WROTE TO Me
The Simple News that Nature told
With tender Majesty

Harris was able to express both happy, cherished memories, as well as the gripping, poignant moments of Dickinson's experiences.

Well-known to the people of Amherst, Dickinson was America's first great poetess, yet her writing was not discovered to be of great literary merit until after her death. She wrote 1,775 poems, yet only seven of those were published in her lifetime-anonymously.

Dickinson also gained notoriety for being an eccentric and romantic recluse. She spent most of her adult life in her family's mansion from 1855 until her death May 15,1886. The mansion, The Dickinson homestead on Main Street, has been open to the public year-round, Tuesday afternoons from 3-5 p.m. by appointment only. From May through October tours are also given Friday from 3-5 p.m. The site is owned by Amherst College and is used as a faculty residence. The dispersing of its original furnishings prevents restoring the entire house as a museum, but the poetess' bedroom has been recreated. Experienced guides, students of the poetess' work and of Amherst history conduct informative tours. Reservations can be made at 542-2321.

The "Belle of Amherst" is a great tribute to Emily Dickinson as well as an inspiring and moving theatrical event. After seeing the show one might better understand and appreciate her poetry, a visit to the homestead, as well as the burning passions within oneself.

★ Derringer

CONT. FROM PAGE 4

Perhaps this means the 32-year-old performer is selling out, evidenced by his employment of Todd Rundgren, himself overly-commerical, as producer for his latest album. If Derringer is after commercial appeal, he will not get it with material he chose for this album- it's too commercial, too slick and too loud.

Derringer closed his first set with his classic "Rock and Roll Hoochie Koo" which lacked its former energetic style, and sounded as if he had indeed played it over and over several thousand times.

"The Proof," the New Jersey-based band which began the show, displayed some good talent, and seem to show promise as a solid hard rock band once they gain more experience. Despite their moderately flashy style, the Proof's music was good and clean, delivered with precision.

★ Nutcracker

CONT. FROM PAGE 4

of the show, rather than an observer.

The classic storyline opens with a society Christmas party with merely pleasant waltzing—a nice way to warm up the audience. Dr. Drosselmeyer, a friend of the family around who the ballet is centered, brings presents for all, and the little girl, Clara, receives a nutcracker. Her brother proceeds to break it (as brothers are prone to do). Drosselmeyer—a Merlin the Magician type—repairs it and everyone falls asleep after the party. Later that night, Clara creeps downstairs, falls asleep with the nutcracker in her arms and the magic begins.

The opening of this "fantasy within a fantasy" has mice entering the set. It was done very well, with the mice wriggling around in their fat-bellied costumes fending off attacking, larger mice with toy soldiers. Clara and the Nutcracker (who is now transformed into a Prince) perform a victory "pas de deux" that is absolutely breathtaking. Clara (Judith Gosnell) stole the show with her double and triple pirouettes extending into rock-steady arabesques.

BAGEL DELI
Best in the Valley for:
•whole wheat pastries •fresh bagels
•lox & eggs •omlettes
•blintzes & potato pancakes •frozen yogurt
28 Pleasant St. Northampton

SECRET SANTA
Great Gifts - Great Prices
Stocking Stuffers
Hundreds of 25c to $10 items
CARDS Daily 10 am-6 pm Sunday 12-5 pm
THE MERCANTILE
AMHERST CARRIAGE SHOPS

University & Office Supplies
Typewriter Ribbons & Typewriter Paper
A.J. Hastings Inc.
newsdealer & stationer
45 S. Pleasant St., Amherst

YOUR CHOICE 8.99

WARM SLEEPWEAR
Reg. 12.00 to 15.00. Savings to put you on cloud nine! Discover these soft, warm long gowns and P.J.s in assorted styles in pastels and prints. Brushed nylon or flanned with lace or embroidery trims. Gowns, S-M-L. Pajamas, S-M-L. 34-40.
FREE CHRISTMAS GIFT WRAPPING WITH ANY PURCHASE OF 5.00 OR MORE
DENBY'S
we can be your store
Christmas Store Hours:
Hampshire Mall (Hadley) Holyoke Mall (Ingleside) Mon. - Sat. 10 a.m. - 10 p.m. All stores open Sundays 12 - 5 p.m.

★ Energy

CONT. FROM PAGE 1

Despite the time crunch, the proceedings aren't exactly moving at a breakneck pace.

In the Senate, the Carter administration has abandoned hope of getting a final vote this year on the SALT II arms treaty with the Soviet Union.

And the drive to pass the president's energy program is sputtering, with officials conceding that important bills may not reach the White House until 1980.

Another measure the congressional leadership wants to pass this year would provide anti-recessionary aid to states and local governments. But prospects are uncertain, since the Senate has approved one bill and a widely different proposal is before the House Government Operations Committee this week.

On the floor this week, the House is taking up a number of relatively minor proposals. The most controversial of them would declare Martin Luther King's birthday a national holiday.

The Senate, meanwhile, resumes work on a "windfall profits" tax, a key part of Carter's energy program. No final vote is expected until next week at the earliest.

Even then, a House-Senate conference committee would have to reconcile the Senate bill with a stronger tax the House approved earlier. The tax would be applied on the revenues the oil industry will receive because of the removal of federal price controls on oil.

The administration and Democratic leaders had been hoping to secure final passage of three energy bills this year: the tax, a synthetic fuels bill and a measure to establish an Energy Mobilization Board.

But Frank Moore, Carter's top Capitol Hill lobbyist, said late last week he would settle for two of the three before the House and Senate adjournment target of Dec. 21.

★ Violence

CONT. FROM PAGE 1.

Shah Mohammad Reza Pahlavi to Iran.

Kay Eagleton, wife of Charge d'Affaires William Eagleton, said about a dozen staff members were working in the embassy when the demonstrators arrived. The embassy is on a quiet side street near the Tripoli shoreline, a few blocks from Green Square, a central plaza.

★ Inflation

CONT. FROM PAGE 1

few bright spots was a drop in the price of pork chops.

The AP drew up its marketbasket list of 15 items early in 1973 and checked the price on March 1 that year at one supermarket in each of 13 cities. The prices have been rechecked on or about the start of each succeeding month. One item on the original list — chocolate chip cookies — was dropped when the manufacturer discontinued the package size used in the survey.

The latest survey showed that the market-basket bill increased during November at the checklist store in eight cities and decreased in five cities. On an overall basis, the market-basket bill was eight-tenths of a percent higher at the start of December than it was a month earlier.

Comparing prices today with those at the start of the year, the AP found that the marketbasket bill has increased at the checklist store in every city, rising an average of 7 percent.

Coffee prices went up again last month, rising at the checklist store in six cities and decreased in only one. Milk prices also climbed, up at the checklist store in five cities. The increases reflect earlier boosts in government support levels and the fact that production is nearing the seasonal low point of the year. Egg production last month was about 2 percent to 3 percent above last year, but prices still went up — rising at the checklist store in 10 of the cities on the AP survey.

★ OPEC

CONT. FROM PAGE 1

Saudi Arabia, the world's largest oil exporter at 9.5 million barrels a day, would await the outcome of the U.S.Iranian dispute before deciding whether to maintain current production levels.

Miller made clear repeatedly that the United States has an enonormous stake in the outcome of the decision, as a shortage of oil could push up prices substantially.

OPEC's maximum official price is $23.50 a barrel, but oil is selling on the spot market for double that price.

"If there are continued significant increases, there will be continued significant downward pressures on economies and we could go into a worldwide recession," he told a group of Americans living in Riyadh, the Saudi capital.

He also said controling oil prices is now the key to restraining inflation.

APPLICATIONS FOR THE UMASS BUS DRIVER INTERSESSION TRAINING PROGRAM WILL BE GIVEN TO THE FIRST 50 QUALIFIED PEOPLE ON DEC. 3 AT 7:00 P.M., C.C. RM. 804
You must be: at least 18 years old, have held a car license for at least 1 year, and be a UMass degree student with at least 3 semesters remaining here at UMass. You must bring proof of class year (ID alone in not sufficient) and license.
For further information call 545-0056
UMTS is an Equal Opportunity, Affirmative Action Employer

Inner Space
FREE PACK of PAPERS with this ad!
Lowest Prices on headgear in the valley
57 E. Pleasant St.
Inside Paul's Old Time Furniture

WEDNESDAY NITE COUPON

$1.00 off on the following items with this coupon
☐Paperback Books. $1.00 off any boxed set of paperbacks. We have sets for anyone's interests.
☐UMass Imprinted Shirt. $1.00 off any UMass shirt.
☐Wall Calendars. $1.00 off any decorative wall calendar. Dozens of styles. Minimum price for coupon $4.95
Remember! You can redeem the coupon on Wednesday night, Dec. 5 between 5 pm - 9 pm only.
campus center/umass
the UNIVERSITY STORE

QUICK Copy and Typing Inc.
Quality at a price you can afford.
2¢ COPIES
PRODUCED ON OUR XEROX 9200
Your originals will be reduced 65% and your copies produced two-up.
Copies produced on 20 lb. Bond paper, price includes collating.
Subject to following conditions:
•MIN. 5 COPIES PER ORIGINAL
•MIN. 24 HR. SERVICE
•MIN. $5.00 ORDER
•ORIGINALS MUST BE LOOSE, 8 1/2 x 11, & PRINTED ON ONE SIDE.
The Carriage Shops M-Th, 9-8; F, 9-5:30; Sa, 10-5
549-0557

Looking for that Unusual Holiday Gift!
for only $6.95
*We'll print your message on one of our tee shirts (Colored or white) up to 25 letters included in the price (extra letters 5c each)
We'll then send it via UPS (that includes the 48 contguous states) you can even include a card
offer good thru Dec. 21
$5.95 cash 'n' carry
*absolute delivery date cannot be guaranteed
campus center/umass
the UNIVERSITY STORE

UNIVERSITY OF BRIDGEPORT SCHOOL OF LAW
The University of Bridgeport School of Law is accepting applications for admission to the fall 1980 semester
Write the Office of Admissions University of Bridgeport, School of Law, Bridgeport, Conn. 06602, or phone (in Conn) 576-4048, (Out-of-State phone toll free) 1-800-243-9496 for an application and further information.
At this time the University of Bridgeport School of Law, is licensed and accredited by the State of Connecticut and approved by the American Bar Association.

AMC AMERICAN MULTI CINEMA
ADULTS $2.75 STUDENTS & SR. CITIZENS with AMC CARD $2.25 TWI-LITE SHOW $1.50 - Special Engagements Excluded Twi-Lite Show - Limited to Seating
TIMES SHOWN FOR TODAY ONLY
HAMPSHIRE 4 — 584-7550 HAMP. MALL ON CAFE SQ.—RT. 9, HADLEY, MASS.

(5:30 @$1.50) 8:30 R

(6:00 @ $1.50) 8:45 R
Dinner & Movie $5.00 Have dinner at the Pewter Pot Restaurant on Cafe Square in the Hampshire Mall and see one of the 8 movies listed here for only $5.00. Call for details.
STARTING OVER (6:00 @ $1.50)
FIDDLER ON THE ROOF (5:30 @ $1.50) 8:30* * no 8:30 show Weds G
MOUNTAIN FARMS 4 — 584-9153 MOUNTAIN FARMS MALL ROUTE 9-HADLEY, MASS.

(6:00 @ $1.50) 8:15 R

(6:00 @ $1.50) 8:15 R

(6:15 @ $1.50) 8:30 R

(6:15 @ $1.50) 8:30 PG

Editorial/Opinion

Violence, vandalism: The decline of education

Gregory Tarpinian

The increased violence and vandalism on campus is not due to the common claim that UMass students are animals. Such an analysis is as irresponsible as the actions which such critics intend to condemn. We must understand the increase in anti-social acts on the UMass campus as one of the many results of the decreased quality of education and life offered students upon their arrival at the University. At the same time, such behavior cannot be isolated from the broader society, one where dim future prospects are presented to UMass students by an economy which is in the midst of a deep downturn.

The recent closing of the UMass library along with the sub-standard living conditions in the dormitories are two of the prime causes of such activity. Without a library, students are forced to spend more time in the dormitories, a setting which has been on a fast decline over the last few years since the University has been inadequately funded. The declining living conditions add to the frustration students already face and help produce a situation in which anti-social behavior can flourish.

The increased presence of the UMass police force on campus is another sign of the decline in quality education. While we are all interested in the safety of the student body we must ask why it must be acheived through increased repressive force.

We need only to look to the historic relationship between the decline in funding for social services in this countries cities and the corresponding increase in police 'protection.' When times get tough, and the working and middle classes are forced to bare the brunt through declining services, violence against people and property increases.

This is what is happening at UMass.

Instead of meeting such problems with increased repressive force, they should be met with a change of priorities of the state legislature and governor with regard to public higher education.

While we should not confine such anti-social behavior which takes place at UMass, and in fact should struggle ardently against it, we must see the problems at UMass as being more fundamental than a changed set of personality traits among the student (and non-student) population. It is the responsibility of the Chancellor, President and Board of Trustees to stop bowing to the dictates of Governor King and join the students, faculty and staff of UMass in a fight to increase the level of quality at the University: the bandaid remedies which have been utilized to date are clearly inadequate.

No longer can we sit back as millions of tax dollars flood the golden gates of Harvard, MIT, Amherst and Smith, as our school goes down the tubes.

Gregory Tarpinian is a Collegian guest columnist.

Baseball, politics similar games

Dave Gram

I was going to write a sports column suggesting that Haywood Sullivan and Buddy Leroux call on a couple thousand fanatical Red Sox fans to take the Yankees hostage and demand that the Shah of New York, George Steinbrenner, send Luis Tiant and Bob Watson back to Boston.

But instead of applying the cock-Khomenied laws of modern terrorist diplomacy to big league baseball, I decided to do it the other way around.

It appears that the Uncle Sams and the Ayatollahs have reached a tie and have gone into sudden death (perhaps that's not the best phrase to use) over-time. The Ayatollahs say "Give us the shah," and the Uncle Sams say "No can do." Smiling Jimmy, is above all else, a humanitarian. He says he has to keep the shah in New York because it's the humanitarian thing to do. He also has to keep the shah in New York because to send him back to Iran would cause the Uncle Sams to lose face.

I think what is called for here is a good old fashioned trade. The Uncle Sams get to keep the shah, and in exchange, the Ayatollahs get Henry Kissinger and David Rockefeller. Kissinger and Rockefeller can be let loose in the main square in downtown Tehran and try to fend off a couple hundred thousand screaming Iranians-Kissinger with his diplomatic skills and Rockefeller with hundred dollar bills.

Both men are ripe for the trademarket. Kissinger has been crying to the media that he doesn't like the policies of Uncle Sams' management. Bill Lee tried that with the Red Sox, and look what happened to him. With Rockefeller, the problem is obvious. He's asking for too much money. You thought it was bad when the Sox shelled out a million bucks for Bill Campbell? Well, this guy Rockefeller thinks he can own one of the biggest banks in the world!

For Kissinger, the deal might work out very well. All along, he's been saying what a great friend of the shah he is. A wonderful way to demonstrate that friendship would be for him to offer to take the shah's place when it comes time to go to Tehran and face the music (Oh, that's right-they don't have music over there anymore). The press would make Dr. K. out to look like a real martyr. The Ayatollahs like martyrs so much that they might even let Kissinger go, or, better yet, make him Iran's Secretary of State.

One thing's for sure: the Ayatollahs are an up and coming ball club. Now that Anastasio Somoza has played out all his options with the Managua Earthquakes, I wouldn't be surprised if the Ayatollahs tried to pick him up in the free agent draft.

Einstein could relate to nuclear issues

Jim Moran

Much light has been made the past year of the image of the "no nuker." Perhaps we can all conjure up in our minds some sort of all-encompassing image of the prototype "no nuker."

I know I think of these perennial protesters in a certain way—that they are largely offspring of the upper-middle class, trying hard to obtain some sense of kinship with Mother Earth, roaming from occupation of nuclear construction to campuses to city streets, clad in bandanas and buttons.

I know I picture them exercising their jaws on granola and sipping out of jugs filled with apple juice. I know some of them may even be participating in the movement for the sake of participating in it.

But any perceptual images one might maintain of those involved with fighting the proliferation of nuclear energy does not "delegitimize" the seriousness of the issue itself. Whether they know it, whether we believe it, persons involved with the uphill battle to stop construction of nuclear power plants may very well be the defense attorneys in the court of human survival.

It did not take the Three Mile Island incident to convince any serious observer of the nuclear energy business that the fission of radioactive atoms as a source of power was a dangerous and regressive approach to solving our world's energy depletion.

For one could always point to the human error at the Brown's Ferry plant in Alabama, where a night watchman inspected the breakdown of the reactor by exposing a lit candle to the severed cables covering the control rods. One could always look to the many partial meltdowns that were averted in the past.

The potential for threat to our environment has always been there. It is a scientific fact that nuclear waste "tailings" convert to such deadly substances as Stronium 90, and because there is no safe method perfected for disposal of such wastes, the probability for human contamination, via entanglement of such poisons with our food cycle, is great.

Thermal pollution caused by the cooling of reactor parts in streams bearing a close proximity to the ocean, at such plants as Seabrook, N.H. poses a danger to aquatic life and an economic dagger in the side of our fishing industry.

Ignoring all ecologically-related issues, one can point to the fact that nuclear energy just isn't very viable from an economic platform.

There is only enough plutonium and uranium in supply to last about 75 years—maybe enough for our lifetime, but certainly not nearly enough when one thinks in the long-term interests of the human species. Such alternative energy sources as solar heating units can, it has been estimated, provide for up to 84 percent of our hot water needs, with the potential for storage capacity getting better every day.

Of course this would mean less reliance upon outside utility companies, which may threaten the economic system of our multinational corporations.

Environmentalist Barry Commoner said in 1978, at the Seabrook demonstration, that he was "convinced" the utility companies would put forth some effort at convincing the public that they could go about "managing the sun better for us." So this crossroad in our energy future could very well serve as a means to taking power back into our own hands. The construction of communal, neighborhood solar plants might very well be a way of democratizing the energy industry.

In addition to solar power, we can look to other alternative sources, such as geothermal, hydroelectric and wind power. And one cannot ignore this nation's abundant supply of coal, which, if it could be cleanly-processed, would be a fantastic resource of power. Coal production in 1976 was up to 671,200 tons, with a projection for increased production of Bituminous, and increased profits for Pennsylvania anthracite and Bituminous.

The solution to our energy problem, one can see, is no dependence on any singular source, but supplementing our needs with multiple sources.

And then there is always the hopes of trying to sustain a nuclear fusion reaction, which draws upon hydrogen (read non-radioactive) atoms as their fuel. One need not be anti-science, just a little more innovative and a lot more considerate.

It was impressive to see the anti-nuclear movement grow since the Seabrook occupation of 1977. Many more demonstrations and occupations at such places as Rocky Flats, Colorado and Vermont Yankee in the United States, and the May 1978 demonstration of 100,000 strong in Paris, France, and last year's 200,000 in our nation's capital have led to popular denunciation of nuclear energy. Of course, that little fiasco in Harrisburg didn't hurt, either.

But what is even more impressive is that "no-nukers" have abandoned their "we're gonna blow up and radiate" fear tactics of the early days, in favor of the search for constructive and educational campaigns for alternative energy. For as we all know, if you're going to take something away, you have got to have something to replace it with it you expect to be taken seriously.

Presidential candidates have even begun to contend with the nuclear power issue, though none goes far enough. Jimmy Carter still spouts his "Let's make it safe" rhetoric, but we know he comes from the Chase Manhattan School of Energy.

Jerry Brown and Ted Kennedy each support a moratorium on construction of new power plants, ignorant of the "clear and present" danger existing with already-constructed facilities.

It makes no sense to look at Republicans, we know their philosophy. So let's tell them all, Democrat and Republican, what we want. And what any sane, non-masochistic thinking person must want is the total elimination of nuclear power plants from our planet.

There is historical support for the "no-nuke" argument, from someone who should have known, Albert Einstein: "The unleashed power of the atom has changed everything save our modes of thinking, and we thus drift toward unparalled catastrophes."

Jim Moran is a Collegian columnist.

Readers write

Restraint for all?

Dear Governor King

In your Oct. 23 letter to Christopher H. Schmitt, you stated you had visited a number of campuses and had spent time with many institutional representatives in order to "better familiarize (yourself) with the nature and extent of many of the problems" described. Although these problems, in reference to UMass, were not stated, it can be alluded that they more than likely concern the school's fiscal budget and priority of maintaining the present academic standards, if not of improving them. I question whether you did listen to anything they (the institutional representatives that you did meet with) said to you.

Education is expensive. Although I do not believe UMass was one of the campuses you visited, I am certain that any representatives you may have visited with here described to you the already dire condition of the budget at UMass. You state that the time of unrestrained growth has passed and that the system of higher education must adjust itself to a period of fiscal restraint. In the recent past, the growth of this school's budget has been restrained. In a proposition currently being pushed through the legislature the budget would further be reduced by 30 percent. Is this restraint or strangulation? At present, UMass is feeling the pinch of an already restrictive budget. Many of the more restrictive budget. Many of the more popular classes, particularly freshman and sophomore general courses are held in auditoriums. Is this a proper academic atmosphere? How can students make their voices heard and interact with a teacher if two hundred other students are competing with him? More importantly, many seniors are forced to pay for another semester's tuition and attend school for another half year to fulfill graduation requirements because there are not enough sections of required courses to accomodate the number of students who need the course. On the same idea, many students cannot progress at the proper rate because prerequisite courses are filled. Part of your justification for budget restraint is the anticipation of declining enrollments in the future. However, as the economy tightens and people have less money to spend, the number of applicants to the lower cost state schools will increase.

You also wrote that allocating more money to education will not necessarily produce a higher quality of education. To a certain extent I agree with this statement. However, I question whether cutting the budget will leave untouched the quality of education. A budget cut certainly won't improve it.

In conclusion I say restraint must be practiced not preached. The state legislature, with your approval, recently approved a massive increase in salary for itself. You also received a pay increase. Does the rest of the state have to practice fiscal restraint so the legislature can be rewarded?

Doris Flynn
Leach House
Hilary Park
George Washington Tower

More Readers write

Letters

Banker friend helps Shah-in-exile

To the Editor:

Last week I was made aware of a variety of related opinions held by some students as to what should be done about the Iranian crisis, eg. use nuclear weapons, invade the country. I find these suggestions both incomprehensible and terrifying.

I will not address the bind of irrational "patriotism" out of which such suggestions arise. I merely want to point out, for those who have forgotten, that the entire situation is the result of our harboring the Shah, a man our government kept in power while he imprisoned, tortured, and killed countless numbers of country people.

One of the favorite methods of torture in this man's prisons was to tear the limbs from people who were kept alive afterward to continue their agony. The question I want to ask is this: If it were Hitler who was dying of Cancer, would we have been equally "humanitarian?" And if Israeli students occupied the U.S. embassy in protest, would our reaction have been equally "patriotic?"

The only difference between the Shah and Hitler relevant to the present situation is that Hitler didn't work for the U.S. government or have a friend at Chase Manhattan.

Lisa Orlando
Northampton

Pro-refugee letter 'a stab at Fonda'

To the Editor:

Paul Withers' letter of 11/27 while seemingly full of sympathy for the people of South East Asia, was merely a thinly disguised facade from behind which to take another stab at Jane Fonda. (Under, I might also add, the guise of being spokesman for UMass veterans.)

Mr. Withers, despite the number of years he spent in Vietnam, is still unable to grasp the truth of Vietnam: For years the U.S. waged an illegal and immoral war in Vietnam on a technological scale unprecedented in history, and can be held accountable for most, if not all, of the economic and agricultural problems that now plague South East Asia.

Of course there are people fleeing from Vietnam just as there have been people who have fled from all revolutions and civil wars.

Mr. Withers, you have to face reality. When history records that period of time it will list Tom Hayden, SDS, Jane Fonda et al. as the heroes of the Vietnam War, and Henry Kissinger, William Westmoreland, LBJ et al. as the villians.

Joe Gannon

'WHY DO THEY NEVER ATTACK SOVIET EMBASSIES? AH, COMRADE, IS BECAUSE THEY KNOW WE DO NOT ALLOW SUCH THINGS.'

Collegian

BOARD OF DIRECTORS

CAROL ROSENBERG, Editor-in-Chief; CHRISTOPHER H. SCHMITT, Managing Editor; LAURA P. BASSETT, Business Manager; FRAN T. BASCHE, News Editor; STEPHEN R. KLEIN, Executive Editor; LISA M. CAPONE, Women's Editor; MARCIA HOSPEDALES, Black Affairs Editor; AMIRA I. RAHMAN, Photo Editor; DEBRA ROTH, Arts Editor; MARK A. MARCHAND and STEVEN S. ZACK, Sports Editor, MARY B. KINNEAVY, Graphics Manager.

ASSOCIATE EDITORS

Julie Eagle, Pamela Lindmark, Carolyn Mooney, Beth Segers, Gayle Young, Associate Managing Editors; Sean Harvey, Robert E. Stern, Associate News Editors; Jack Gallagher, Associate Executive Editor; Debbie Wallace, Associate Women's Editor; Karen Thomas, Associate Black Affairs Editor; Paul Price, Associate Photo Editor; Kim Sands, Associate Magazine/Fine Arts Editor; Linda Reyes, Associate Sports Editor; Suzette Courtmanche, Associate Graphics Manager.

BUSINESS DEPARTMENT

Ken GrandPre, Advertising Manager; Joan Daly, Frederic Keillor, Assistant Advertising Managers; Dan Peterson, Circulation Manager; Howard Bass, Finance Manager.

The Collegian is the student newspaper of the University of Massachusetts. The staff is responsible for its content and no faculty member or administrators read it for accuracy or approval prior to publication.

Unsigned editorials represent the view of this paper. They do not necessarily reflect the views of the faculty, administration, or student body as a whole. Unsigned editorials, columns, reviews, cartoons, and letters represent the personal view of the authors.

The Collegian is a member of the Associated Press. Publication of their material does not constitute endorsement.

The Collegian strives to print only advertising which is truthful and complete, but final responsibility for all advertisers lie with the individual advertisers.

Toys ... Toys ... Toys ...

Games, Arts, Crafts, Model Kits, Puzzles, Dolls, Balls. Stop & Shop has a great line-up of brand name toys that will light up their eyes on Christmas morning! Low-priced gifts you can pick up when you food shop, and save time, gas and extra trips to crowded department stores. Shop early for best selection. Sorry, no rain checks.

$1.99 ea.

WHITMAN Sewing Card Assortment, Disney Activity Boxes, Backgammon Game, Animal Dominoes TOMY Bathtubbies, HASBRO Mr. Potato Head MONOGRAM Snap-Tite Model kits FISHER PRICE Play Family Vehicle Assortment BINNEY & SMITH Crayola Art-Kit, Crayola Colorubs, 4-pack Disney Card Game PLAYSKOOL Play Pets, and more!

$2.99 ea.

WHITMAN Hi Ho Cherry-O-Game, Mickey Mouse Tic-Tac-Toe Game AMLOID Turtle or Car Puzzle, Block Clock Puzzle FUN FARM Big Bean Bag Animal Assortment MONOGRAM 1/32 Scale Rod & Custom Models . HASBRO Super Hero Deluxe Paint Set MILTON BRADLEY Mork & Mindy Game SUPERIOR TOY Gumball Bank BINNEY & SMITH, COLORFORMS and more!

$3.99 ea.

MILTON BRADLEY Incredible Hulk Game HANDICRAFT Talking Play Phone ZEE Die Cast Playset Assortment PLAYSKOOL Cobblers Bench MAGIC MARKER Liquid Crayons FISHER PRICE Rock -A-Stack TOMY Wonderful Waterfuls SPORT FUN Offical Weight Basketball GAYTOY Little Miss Polly Shopping Cart WHITMAN Sesame Street Together Box and more!

ONE OF THE STOP & SHOP COMPANIES — Stop & Shop SUPERMARKETS

DOUBLE COUPONS

Double Manufacturer's Coupons—See Store for Details

IN AMHERST STORE

Stop & Shop's Ten Great Deli Party Platters

10 great choices made to order for you. Perfect for house or office parties, large groups or small. Just give us 24 hours notice and we'll whip up the party platter of your choice...beautifully arranged on a reuseable plastic tray and packed in a special box that'll keep it good and fresh until you're ready to serve it. Stop by our deli and orders yours!

Available at stores with Service Deils.

corner deli Pick up a delicious meal after you gift shop!

Available in stores featuring a service deli

Turkey Breast

Norwestern Brand $2.99 lb

All white meat, freshly sliced for you.

Colonial Top Bologna 1.69 — Potato Salad Stop & Shop 55¢
Baked Meat Loaf Stop & Shop 1.99 — Turkey Breast Oven Roasted Stop & Shop $4.29 lb self service deli Always a big choice of fine brands and values!

1 lb. pkg. Colonial Bacon $1.19 lb

Regular, Maple or Sugarless

Weaver Hot Dogs Chicken Hill 1 lb. pkg. 89¢ — Colonial Bologna Meat Harvest 1 lb. pkg. $1.09
Extra Mild Franks Stop & Shop 1 lb. pkg. $1.09 — Knockwurst or Franks Morrison & Schiff 12 ounce pkg. $1.89 seafood What's delicious and an excellent buy? Our sea fare!

Fresh Cod Steaks $1.69 lb

Caught off our New England Shores

Haddock Fillets Frozen $1.79 lb — Cooked Shrimp Salad size Frozen Stop & Shop 8 oz. pkg. $1.69
Shrimp Patties Stop & Shop 12 oz. pkg. Frozen $1.49

our kitchen We prepare delicious dishes from quality ingredients.

Greek Style Rice Pudding 2 lb. pkg. $1.39

Fresh and smooth, you'll love it.

Cole Slaw 15 ounce package 55¢ — Cheese Pizza 18 ounce size $1.29

bakery Specials rushed to you from our big, spotless bakery!

20 ounce loaf Stop & Shop Sliced White Big Daisy Bread 3 for $1

Sandwich Rolls Stop & Shop 2 pkg. 12 ct. 79¢
Daisy Donuts Sugar or Assorted 12 oz. pkg of 12 69¢

Cracked Wheat or Swed. Rye Stop & Shop Sliced Variety Bread Sale! 2 16 oz. loaves $1

Choc. Brownies Stop & Shop 9 1/2 oz. pkg 99¢
Spice Cake Homestyle Stop & Shop 17 oz. pkg $1.09

Assorted Pork Chops

See the difference in meatiness...Save the difference in price!

big eye pork

⅓ Center Chops, ⅓ Blade Chops, ⅓ Sirloin Chops

Well trimmed chops cut from nice meaty loins!

$1.09 lb

Center Cut Pork Chops (Thin sliced $1.59 lb) $1.49 lb
Sirloin Pork Cutlets $1.99 lb — Pork Ribs Country-style $1.19 lb

Chicken Legs 69¢ lb

5-6 pound package

"White Gem" Chicken Breast 5-6 lb. pkg. 99¢ lb
Boneless Chicken Breast Gourmet Brand 2-2½ lb. pkg. $1.99 lb

Beef Top Round Roast

"Great Beef" USDA Choice $1.89 lb

Great Beef USDA Choice

Beef Round Tip Roast USDA Choice $1.99 lb
Beef Top Round Steak USDA Choice $2.39 lb
Beef Round Tip Steak USDA Choce $2.49 lb
Cube Steak Beef Round USDA Choice $2.59 lb

Corned Beef Brisket

Countryfine Point Cut $1.39 lb

Smoked Pork Shoulder Roll water added $1.49 lb produce Pick fresh savings!

Sunkist — Calif. Navel Oranges Extra Large, 72 size 6 for $1

Campbell's Farm Fresh 12 ounce pkg. Mushrooms 89¢

Fresh Yellow Turnips A great source of vitamin C 15¢ lb

Long Lasting Poinsettia Plant 6 inch pot $4.99 ea.

5 lb. bag Wild Bird Food Charlie's Chum 89¢

HADLEY-AMHERST Route 9 at the Hadley-Amherst Line. 8a.m.-10p.m., Mon.-Sat. We redeem your Federal Food Stamps.

ONE OF THE STOP & SHOP COMPANIES — Stop & Shop SUPERMARKETS

Stop & Shop Gift Certificates

Our Food Gift Certificates and Turkey Gift Certificates make good practical gifts for friends, neighbors, the postman, the teacher. And if you own a business or have a lot of people on your gift list, they're ideal!

Stop & Shop Coupon — With this coupon and a $7.50 purchase — L26

FREE!

7¼ ounce package KRAFT DINNER MACARONI & CHEESE

Good Mon., Dec. 3—Sat., Dec. 8. Limit one per customer. Grocery. 275

Stop & Shop Coupon — With this coupon and a $7.50 purchase — L27

FREE!

28 ounce bottle REG. or DIET SUN GLORY BEVERAGE — Assorted Flavors No-Return Bottle

Good Mon., Dec. 3—Sat., Dec. 8. Limit one per customer. Grocery. 276

EXAMPLE: Here's how you can double your savings with MANUFACTURER'S Coupons at Stop & Shop!

40¢ off + 40¢ from Stop & Shop = 80¢

16 ounce can Sun Glory Sweet Peas 4 cans $1
Mixed Vegetables Stop & Shop 3 Mixed Cans 89¢
Sauerkraut Stop & Shop 4 Plus Cans $1

7 ounce can Corn Green Giant Niblets 5 cans $1
LeSueur Peas Green Giant 2 Cans $1
Green Giant Beans Kitchen Style 2 Cans 79¢

Stop & Shop Whole Kernel Corn 4 12 oz. cans $1
Vacuum Pack Whole Beets Stop & Shop 3 Mixed Cans $1
O&C Potato Sticks Total can 65¢

16 oz. Brick Oven B&M Baked Beans 2 cans $1
Comstock Pie Filling Cherry, Apple Can $1.19
Underwood Spreads Deviled Ham, Chicken or Corned Beef 4 oz. pkg. 59¢

28 oz. Round or Crushed Red Pack Tomatoes 2 cans $1
RedPack Tomatoes Italian 2 28 oz. Cans $1
Calif. Tomatoes Stop & Shop 2 28 oz. Cans $1

46 oz. Sun Glory or Libbys Tomato Juice 2 cans $1
LaChoy Noodles Chow Mein 2 3 oz. cans $1
LaChoy BiPack Chicken, Shrimp, Beef, Pepper Oriental or Teriyaki 42 oz. can $1.59

6½ oz. can Chunk Light Tuna Chicken of the Sea In oil 69¢
Pick up Holiday recipe in our store
Sun Maid Raisins 8 ounce package 89¢
Cadbury Candy Bars 5 oz. pkg. 6 candy bars 79¢

Sliced, Crushed or Chunk Pineapple in juice 2 20 oz. cans $1
Stop & Shop
Sanka Instant Coffee 6 oz. jar $5.19
Beef Rice-a-Roni or Chicken 2 7 oz. pkg. 79¢

Stop & Shop Yellow Cling Peaches Sliced or Halves 3 16 oz. cans $1
Spam Luncheon Meat 12 oz. can $1.19
Bartlett Pears Stop & Shop 2 Sliced or Halves in Syrup Mixed cans $1

Asst. Cat Food Friskies Buffet FOR CATS 5 6½ oz. cans $1
Cycle Dog Food 3 14½ oz. cans $1
Chunk Dog Food Cuisinettes Stew & Stew 3 14½ oz. cans 85¢

Bonus Pack Hefty Trash Bags Package of 10 plus 2 Free bags $1
Tall Kitchen Bags Hefty Bonus Pack Each pkg. 2 Free Bags $1
Wisk Detergent Heavy Duty Laundry Setter container $2.79

125 sheet 2ply roll Print Coronet Towels 2 rolls $1
Coronet Napkins Plain 150 count 1 ply 65¢
Coronet Tissues Bathroom Family pack 3 Print 300 ct. 2ply 50¢ 1.59 frozen foods Stock up for Easy meals during the busy weeks ahead!

NEW

Pilaf, Verdi or Medley Green Giant Rices 2 11 oz. pkgs. $1
Green Giant 99¢
Green Giant 1.49
Green Giant 65¢

Harvest Get-Togethers Green Giant Vegetables New! Four Varieties 2 10 oz. pkgs. $1
Green Giant Chicken Chow Mein Not Nutritious 99¢
Green Giant Spaghetti & Meatballs 79¢
Green Giant Chopped Broccoli 79¢
Green Giant Beans Cut Green Wax pkg. 59¢
French Style Beans or Spinach

16 oz. can Stop & Shop Orange Juice 89¢
John's Pizza 99¢
Taste O'Sea 1.19
Swanson Dinners 1.49

Half Gallon Ice Cream Sealtest Asst'd Flavors $1.39 cnt.
Pet Apple Pie 26 ounce pkg. 79¢
Pet Whip Topping 8 ounce container 59¢
Hendries Ice Milk Half Gallon Carton $1.29
Assorted Flavors

dairy Fresh savings for budgeters!

32 oz. Minute Maid Grapefruit Juice from Concentrate 2 ctns. $1
Minute Maid Orange Juice 64 oz. carton $1.09
Fruit Flavored Drink Sun Glory 79¢

Assorted Flavors Yoplait Yogurt 3 6 oz. cups $1
Cottage Cheese Small or Large Curd Stop & Shop 1 lb. pkg 79¢
LeShake Yogurt Low Fat Drink 3 Asst'd Flavors 8 oz. cups $1

Golden Quarters Margarine Mrs. Filberts 2 1 lb. pkgs. $1
Pillsbury Biscuits Buttermilk 5 10 oz. pkg. $1
Hood Sour Cream 16 ounce cup 79¢

Shop early for these... Great Stocking Stuffer Values!

16 ounce bottle Revlon Flex Shampoo Normal, Oily or Tint $1.00
A super value!
Tame Clean Rinse Extra body, oily or dry 8 ounce bottle 79¢
Flicker Ladies Shaver pkg of 5 $1.00

11 ounce aerosol can Colgate Shave Cream Regular or Lime 2 for $1
Old Spice After Shave 4.5 oz. bottle $1.79
Right Guard Deodorant Bronze 7 oz. aerosol can 79¢

Regular or Lime Old Spice Deodorant Stick 2.5 oz. pkg. $1.00
Saline Solution Bausch & Lomb 8 ounce bottle $1.00
Wetting Solution Barnes & Hind 2 2 oz. bottles $3

Bonus Package of 6 Gillette Trac II Blades 5 Plus 1 Free $1.00 pkg.
Good News Razors Gillette Disposable 8 for $1
Tampax Tampons Super or Super Plus 40 count package $1.59

Bottle of 24 Dristan Tablets COLDS & HAY FEVER SINUS CONGESTION $1.00
Novahistine DMX Cough Formula 4 oz. bottle $1.59
Cutex Polish Remover Reg. or Lotion 2 8 oz. bottles $1
New Freedom Maxi-Pads 30 ct. pkg. Reg. $1.89
Tampax Tampons 40 ct. pkg. Reg. $1.59

Panty Hose Sale!
Reinforced Top or Sandalfoot
"Our Own" in Beige, Tan, or Taupe. Sizes A & B ..... 89¢

Photo Supplies!
Color Print Film 20 "Our Own" 110 or 126 .... Prints ... 99¢ roll
Sylvania Magicubes 12 perfect Shots $1.39
Sylvania Flip Flash 12 perfect shots $1.39

EVEREADY Alkaline Batteries Pkg. of two "D" cell, "C" cell, "AA" cell or "9V" one pack $1.00 pkg.

HAND PAINTED CLASSICS Stoneware Dinnerware THIS WEEK'S FEATURE: Cereal Bowl With ea. $3 food purchase 49¢ ea.

Prices effective Mon., Dec. 3—Sat., Dec. 8. We reserve the right to limit sales to three packages of any item except where otherwise noted. Items offered for sale not available in case lots or to other retail dealers or wholesalers. Copyright 1979 by Stop & Shop Supermarkets. All rights reserved. Not responsible for typographical errors.

HADLEY-AMHERST Route 9 at the Hadley-Amherst Line. 8a.m.-10p.m., Mon.-Sat. We redeem your Federal Food Stamps.

Area students study children

By ELIZABETH HERMANCE
Collegian Staff

The United Nation's proclaimed 1979 International Year of the Child. The purpose of this declaration, according to the U.N. is to recognize the importance of children as human beings. Across the country a new awareness is developing, an awareness which is focused upon how children are dealt with in our society.

In recognition of the International Year of the Child, elementary school children at Mark's Meadow School in Amherst have been involved in many different projects, according to school librarian Sue Woodfork. Mark's Meadow offers an educational system in which the students are divided up into four categories by age level. The youngest children, Woodfork said, are placed in the Early Learning Center.

Older children are placed in the South Learning Center, North Learning Center, and finally the Workshop sections for the 4th, 5th and 6th graders.

In the spring of 1979, some of the workshop students, led by Woodfork, spent a week studying other cultures throughout the world, and discussing what they had learned. Outside the Mark's Meadow school library is a bulletin commemorating the International Year of the Child.

Many Mark's Meadow students, when asked about the International Year of the Child, said they saw it as an opportunity to help children from underprivileged nations, who lack food, clothes, or schooling. Others recognized our responsiblity to handicapped children throughout the world. Workshop section student Vanessa Cooper, said she participated in a program related to the IYC this year when she traveled to Cuba for approximately one month to exchange cultural information with students from other countries. The exchange program was sponsored by a group called the Venceremos Brigade.

The children also discussed their feelings about living so close to a large university, and said they would probably go to college themselves.

Collegian Classifieds

To place a Collegian Classified
- Come to Collegian Office CC 113
- 8:45 to 3:45 Mon-Fri
- Classified deadline is 3 :45 two days prior to publication day

Collegian Classified Rates
- 15c per word
- Student rate 10c per word
- Cash in advance
- 5 consecutive days 5 % discount
- Phone number FREE

AUDIO

Theatrix Rents Mirror balls and other Disco supplies. Lights for sale, new and used 323-7160

Heathkit 200 watt Amplifier—$500 Gavin II Band Equalizer-$150 546-8814

Kenwood Amp & pioneer Tuner Both in excel cond. $65 each or $120 for both John 549-4130

OHM L's New, walnut, 3 way, best offer 546-5738

AUTO FOR SALE

70 Chevy Imp very dep, new tires, runs excel $600 253-7158

Fix your own car The student Auto Workshop has tools, space and friendly mechanics to help you maintain your automobile. Tues, Wed, Thurs 3-9 p.m. Sat 10-5 Lower Level CC Gargae 545-0673

1974 Toyota Celica exceptional condition, best offer 546-9826

78 Toyota Corrila 19,000 miles 30+ mpg, many extras $3300 or BO Call Mike 367-2695 after 6 pm

New and used parts for Triumph, Jaguar, MG and all English cars. Discount prices 586-2013

1972 Chevy wagon best offer 253-9498 after 5

78 T-bird mint must be seen Paul 546-8220

VW Owners: I am selling two Firestone radial snow tires mounted on VW rims, excellent condition, call 665-7759

71 Buick Electra 225 great shape, runs like a charm, negotiable, call Ted 545-2735

74 Gran Torino good cond, original owner 323-7613

1979 Chevy Chevette 4 speed, 4 door, excellent condition & gas mileage asking $3,900 need $ for tuition 546-6415

ENTERTAINMENT

Soundsystem for Hire perfect for bands, discos, coffeehouses Rick 584-4105

FOR RENT

One Bedroom Apartment available Jan. 1 one mile from Campus , no pets $235 includes all & wood for fireplace!!! call 549-6551 after 5:00

2 bedroom Belchertown no bus, utilities included 253-3081 5-7 P.M.

Cheap 1 bedrm in Nhampt Apt close to center and bus , available Jan 1 66.25+ (gas heat) call Patty 586-2769 keep trying

Jan 1st 1 bedroom in house in Belchertown $90 a month + utilities and security. Right on bus route. 3 miles to Campus 256-8412

3 bedrm house N. Amherst avail Jan 1 must assume lease call 549-6924 or 549-5449

FOR SALE

Portrait Drawing Dennis Delap, 256-8732

Portraits Profile-$7, full face-$10, color-$20, pets in color-$18 Deborah Pompano 549-4634

Irish Harps various sizes, easy to play. Sylvia Woods, Box 29521, Los Angeles, CA 90029

Men's Nordica Ski Boots nearly new, great condition, size 13m $40 or best price call Julie 549-2664 or 545-3500

Give Greenpeace Seals, Whales T-shirts, necklaces, pins STORM 586-3959

Bed and other bedroom furniture (Cabinets, Desks, etc) must sell, will take best offer! Ron 549-6803

United Airlines ½ fare coupon expires Dec. 15th call 546-4161

For Sale orange rust color rug perfect condition-75 or BO 5 cu. ft. refrig 2 months old 100 or BO must sell moving need $ call Paul 6-6230

G-78-15 Snows $40 586-8008 nites

5 cubic ft refrigerator good condition $70 or BO 549-1869

Downhill Ski Boots Munari mens 6 ladies 7 only worn once yellow, boot carrier, $75 or BO 549-0825 evenings

Scott Superhot boots $60 call 6-7550

2 United ½ fare coupons $25 ea. 367-2762

2 Acoustic Guitars good condition, must sell 584-2282

Downhill Blizzard Skiis 150 cm, with Tyrolia Super Click Bindings, excellent condition $75.00 or BO call Nettie 546-8114

Womens Head Ski Parka down, size sm. $50 549-0219

Tezas Instrument Calculator: SR-52 Programmable, excellent condition, $50.00 call Don Phone: 546-6980 503 Grayson House

Small Manual royal Typewriter works fine $25 665-7060

American Airlines half fare coupon 253-3194

FOUND

Men's Winter Jacket must have positive ID to claim it. 253-3852 after 6:00 PM

Woman's Gold Watch on Commonwealth about 3 weeks ago 546-7951

HELP WANTED

Overseas Jobs—Summer/year round. Europe, S. America, Australia, Asia, etc. All fields, $500-$1,200 monthly, expenses paid. Sightseeing, free information write: IJC, Box 52-MC, Corona Del Mar, CA. 92625

Resident Manager/Handyman experienced responsible person or couple. Newly renovated building central Amherst. 549-6478

Seeking persons for 2-3 hours color-vision testing, especially persons with color-vision deficiencies. Psychology/Mt. Holyoke 586-3100 x2086

Cook needed for Sorority from 1/29-5/27 prior experience cooking for large groups preferred call Lisa or Jenny 549-1030

Jobs! Lake Tahoe California! Little exp. Fantastic Tips! Pay! $1600-$3800 summer. Thousands needed. Casino's, Restaurants, Ranches, Cruisers, rafting, etc. Send $4.95 for Application/Info/Referrals. LAKEWORLD Box 60129, Sacto, CA 95860

Men! Women! Jobs! Cruiseships! Sailing Expeditions! No experience. Summer, Career. Good pay! Europe! South Pacific, Bahamas, World! Send $4.95 for Application/Info/Jobs to CRUISEWORLD 161 Box 60129, Sacramento, CA 95860

High Paying Pt time Jobs Car necessary see Mr. Lamont Campus Center Room 801

LEGAL SERVICES

Attorney Jason R. Rosenthal General Practice Legal Representation for the Amherst, Mass community by apt. only days 584-4285 evenings 253-7617

LOST

Reward!! Notebook lost in Has 230 11/19 very important-red, course, section, my name all on cover. If found, please call 323-4912 or return to History Dept. Office in Herter Hall 6th floor

Prescription Sunglasses November 17 between Campus and Triangle St. clear frames, large lenses, green case, Reward 549-5793

Lost glasses & case call 6-5803

Black puppy 13 weeks old white chest and front paws. Wearing flea collar. Name is Abbey 253-9611

PERSONALS

Daytona Beach in March—Peter Pan World Travel Agents MC130223 are offering sensational sunshine and sand during your spring break of March 15-22. Don't get caught without a seat! Includes: 8 days, round trip bus and accommodations, only 1 block from the boardwalk. Double occupancy all for only $299! Please call S. Rayner at 256-0675 or J. Hyde at 1-773-3854 Deposit required immediately-call now

Photographers: UMass Photo Co-op recruitment meeting Thursday, Dec. 6th 7:00 SBA Room 101

Dummies of Kappa Sigma we think you're great

Charismatic Bible Study and Prayer Tuesday December 4th Campus Center 911-915 at 8 pm all students welcome

Whales too big? Seals too cute? Join Friends of the Earthworm! Membership card, button, worm creed, fact sheet, pet plans. $5.00 Uncle Sol's Farm, Box 78129, Seattle, WA 98178. A profit organization

Sporting Goods Co-op Christmas Sale This week and next Open M-F 10-3

Florida in January! Bicycle with UMass Bicycle Club, meeting Thursday Dec. 6 7:00 P.M. Bicycle Coop call Chris 253-9336

Pattaly you remind me of a Cheryl Ladd poster. . .lonely nights-scoop

Batman enemies or allies? Catwoman

Bryan is your body as well equipped as your mind?

RIDE WANTED

Need a ride to Florida??? We are heading South end of December. Call 546-6143

ROOM WANTED

Looking to sublet one bedroom apt in or near Amherst beginning Jan 1 Call 253-2265 evenings

Woman seeks inexpensive room or apt during intersession-Amherst area 546-7209 keep trying

ROOMMATE WANTED

Smoking Female 20+ share 4 rm. lake house in Belchertown. Must eat meat, into school, love cats. No dogs 132+ wood heat possible 323-4462 eves

Woman wanted to share bedroom in Sunderland Apt $90/mo 665-7795

Two females to share one bedroom in Brittany Manor Apt. $90 starting Jan. call 253-7132

Male for own bedroom in Swiss Village $110 per 256-8616

4th Woman for apt in house. Short walk to UM and town 253-2730

Female to share Brittany Manor apt 253-5961

1 or 3 female non-smokers for 1 bdrm in 2 bdrm apt Liz or Karen 256-6771

SECURITY DEPOSIT PROBLEMS?

Have any questions about your security deposit? Do you think monies were unfairly deducted for repairs or cleaning? Did you get 5% interest? Do you know where your money is being held? Call the Security Deposit Task Force at UMass Legal Services 545-1995 or Off Campus Housing 545-0865

SERVICES

Drummer looking for working band call 546-8567

TO SUBLET

One bedroom apartment to sublet Colonial Village call 253-5200

WANTED

Fast Immediate Cash for gold-school rings-diamonds-silver Jeff anytime 527-7078 586-0180

Musicians for CEQ Coffeehouse on environmental issues please contact office 5-0618 Nancy 253-7845 Deddie 6-7936

I need WHO tickets call Jeff 323-7178

Double Bed Mattress Please call Susan 256-8713 leave message

WANTED TO RENT

2 bedroom apt wanted for Spring sem starting Jan call 546-6368 546-6329

2 or 3 bedroom apt wanted for Spring sem call 546-5503

I need a room only for the month of January. Female, non smoker. Please call 546-8237

WORCESTER AREA

Earn $400 during semester break 18 or over, car necessary, call noon to 3 today 546-9310

Aluminum Foil by Steve Lafler

luke the Whale by Danny Guidera

easts by Rob Ranney

lorma B. by M.J. Galper

Doonesbury by Garry Trudeau

TODAY'S CROSSWORD PUZZLE

ACROSS
1 On — —: Carousing
5 Thoughts
10 Shop complex
14 — avis
15 — code
16 Fever
17 Foment
18 Endurers
20 Suede and chamois
22 Sounds
23 Camera part
24 Laborer
25 Away from home
28 Learned
32 Average
33 Length unit
35 Fling
36 Coup d' —
38 Passe
40 Scram
41 Appraises
43 Is borne
45 Holland city
46 Dormant ones
48 Pursuer
50 — Randall
51 Ratify
52 Service or Burns
55 Circle measurement
59 Practices too much
61 Unusual
62 Ford
63 Fast
64 One of three
65 Luge, e.g.
66 Heaped
67 Rushed

DOWN
1 USSR sea
2 Infant
3 District
4 Blab
5 Was imminent
6 Accomplishers
7 Blunders
8 Burro
9 Nets
10 Early shows
11 Ripens
12 Beguile
13 Minus
19 Reality: Archaic 21 Rudder
24 Shaved
25 Copiers
26 Deadly
27 Enraged
28 Louis Riel follower
29 Contests
30 Dodge
31 Prevent
34 Linger
37 Swayed
39 Dead
42 Game
44 Phoney
47 Catch
49 Warnings
51 After
52 Paddles
53 Egg-shaped
54 "The Venerable —"
55 Watch part
56 Athletic field protector
57 Great Lake
58 Tear
60 Oil assn.

UNITED Feature Syndicate
Friday's Puzzle Solved

S	P	A	D		R	A	M	P		S	P	L	I	T
L	U	G	E		E	L	I	A		T	R	I	C	E
A	R	U	M		T	A	M	P		R	O	V	E	S
P	L	E	A	S	U	R	E		D	I	V	E	S	T
			N	O	R	M		C	O	P	E
P	A	R	D	O	N		C	O	M	E	D	I	A	N
A	L	I	E	N		S	A	V	E	D		S	P	A
T	O	A	D		M	I	R	E	S		S	L	O	P
H	O	T		C	U	L	T	S		W	H	E	R	E
S	P	A	T	U	L	A		T	R	U	S	T	S
				O	R	E	S		B	R	E	D
S	T	A	R	T	S		G	R	A	N	D	E	U	R
H	A	S	T	E		L	O	A	D		E	T	N	A
A	N	T	E	S		O	N	C	E		R	U	I	N
M	O	I	S	T		W	E	E	D		S	I	T	A

DC menu

LUNCH
Hamburg/Roll
Tuna A La King/Biscuit

BASICS LUNCH
Oatburgers
Tuna A La King/Biscuit

DINNER
Fried Chicken/Cranberry Sauce
Rotini/Tomato Meat Sauce

BASICS DINNER
Fried Chicken/Cranberry Sauce
Spinach Noodle Casserole

EARTHFOODS
Soyburgers with gravy
Tabouli
Minestrone soup
Carrot bread

The UMass Photo Co-op
ANNOUNCES:
RECRUITMENT FOR NEXT SEMESTER
Positions available in:
INVENTORY CONTROL
MARKETING
ACCOUNTING
COLLECTION
PERSONNEL
RECRUITMENT
SALES
MEETING: DEC. 6 7:00 SBA 101
COME AND LEARN ABOUT US

MOVIE LISTINGS

Academy Of Music
Seduction of Joe Tynan 7:00 9:00
Hampshire 4
Fiddler on the Roof 5:30 8:30
Animal House 6:00 8:45
Starting Over 6:00 8:45
Apocalypse Now 5:30 8:30
Mt. Farms 4
Life of Brian 6:15 8:30
And Justice For All 6:00 8:15
"10" 6:00 8:15
Running 5:15 7:45 10:15
Holyoke 1-8
Muppet Movie 1:10 3:15 5:20 7:25 9:30
Stranger Calls 1:00 3:00 5:00 7:20 9:30
Onion Field 1:45 4:20 7:30 10:00
French Postcards 1:35 3:35 5:40 7:40 9:45
Skatetown U.S.A. 1:00 3:05 5:10 7:15 9:20
Young Frankenstein 3:15 7:40
Silverstreak 1:05 5:30 9:30
Arabian Adventure 2:30 4:40 7:00 9:05
Andrea 2:50 4:45 7:00 9:00
Sneak preview Sat Electric Horseman 7:15
Pleasant St. Cinema
The Wrong Move 6:00 8:00 10:00
Showcase 1-8
Animal House 2:00 7:20 9:30 11:55
Fiddler on the Roof 2:00 7:15 10:10
Fish. . .Pittsburg 2:00 7:15 9:30 11:45
"10" 2:00 7:00 9:30 11:55
Starting Over 2:00 7:15 9:30 11:45
Apocalypse Now 1:30 7:10 10:10
Luna 2:00 7:30 10:15
And Justice For All 2:00 7:20 9:25 11:45

Matmen take 6th in tourney

By DONNA SULLIVAN
Collegian Staff

Columbia's Dave Galdi defeated UMass sophomore Kevin Murphy in third round wrestling tournament action but Murphy proved to be the better wrestler, outwrestling his opponent when it counted most—the finals. One-hundred fifty-pound Murphy defeated Galdi, 8-3 in the finals to win this weekend's Coast Guard Tournament held at the Coast Guard Academy.

One hundred eighteen-pound Rich Schiarizzi placed fourth in the double elimination tourney, winning four matches before losing two, one to the eventual champ.

According to Coach Dave Amato, as a team UMass came in sixth out of 14 schools. "We did well," he said. "Everyone won at least one match and it was a good experience for them."

UMass sent nine wrestlers to the tournament and five made it to the second day of wrestling action. 142-pound Greg MacDonald, 177-pound Dave Guselli, and 190-pound Bill McQuade came up just one game shy of advancing to the finals.

★ Indoor track

CONT. FROM PAGE 15

In the distance events the trackmen clearly dominated the field capturing six out of eight places in the 1500 and 3000 meter run.

Sophomore Paul Beaulieu won the 1500 with a time of 3:57.3, this was the only event UMass took the top spot in during the afternoon. He was followed closely by senior tri-captain Steve MacDougall, who finished second, his time was 3:58.7. Senior Rick Walls placed fourth at exactly 4:00.

In the 3000 the Minutemen took the second, third, and fourth spots. Freshman Rick Doiron took the number two spot with a time of 8:40.9. Sophomore Chris Omettchenko and Kevin Corcoran also placed with times of 8:50.1 and 8:50.5.

Despite strong running by senior Rick Cady in the 400 meter run and Bill DeVarney in the 55 meter run, the Minutemen were unable to score in the 55, 400, 500, and 800 meter runs. Senior Jay Legere's fourth place in the 1000 meter run with a time of 2:35.4 was the only score that the middle distance team was able to come up with.

The UMass two-mile relay team ran an impressive race as it placed second defeating UConn and losing to Seton Hall by three seconds with a time of 7:58.7. Seton's winning time was 7:55.6. The individual splits were MacDougall 1:58.5, Walls 1:59.2, Beaulieu 1:59.3, and senior Bob Martin 2:01.5.

Junior tri-captain Rick Trunfio, Cady, Rich Hoag and Bob Pearson ran the mile relay which finished third with a time of 3:25.7.

"There were a lot more positive than negative performances on the afternoon," explained O'Brien.

Featuring Shirts, Hats & Jackets with All Major Logos
SPORT SHACK
Red Sox
Patriots
Yankees
Cowboys
Hampshire Mall, Hadley, Mass.

Electronic Technicians
R & D part time
Requires knowledge of digital-Analog electronics and associated circuitry.
Flexible working hours.
Contact: Dr. Arthur Boothroyd
at 584-3450
Clarke School for the Deaf
Northampton, MA 01060

FAMILY HOUSING
has openings in:
Lincoln Apts. Studios-$153.00/mo.
North Village apts. 1 bdrms-$210.00/mo
ALL UTILITIES INCLUDED
For information call:
Family Housing
103 Berkshire House 545-3115

Custom-Made
In Our Store
Cake'n Ice Cream Cakes
Your choice of
31-derful flavors
BASKIN-ROBBINS ICE CREAM STORE 31
28 Main St. Amherst 253-9774
across from Town Hall
on the BN/BR bus routes

VERMONT SKIING
Special service starts Dec.15
Mount Snow
VERMONT
51 trails, 131 ffs . . . 3 separate mountain faces
Saturdays R.T.
UMass Adults $25.00 Children $19.75
South Hadley and Northampton Adults $26.00 Children $20.25
STRATTON MT.
Snowmaking systems operating from base to summit
Sundays R.T.
UMass Adults $25.00 Children $19.75
South Hadley and Northampton Adults $26.00 Children $20.25
Rates include round trip transportation (ticket must be purchased in advance) via luxury Peter Pan motorcoach with departures from the Campus Center Circle at the University of Mass. at 7:25 A.M. from South Hadley Town Common at 6:30 A.M. and from the John M. Green Hall, Smith College at 6:50 A.M. and discount on lift ticket when purchased at terminal.
University of Mass. Campus Center Hotel Lobby Amherst, Massachusetts 545-2006 or 549-6000
Mt. Holyoke College Cannon's Pharmacy 25 College Street South Hadley, Massachusetts 533-7115
Smith College Peter Pan Bus Terminal Old South Street Northampton, Massachusetts 586-1030
Peter Pan Bus Lines, Inc.

Local interviews for software professionals

The purpose of every Wang product is the same: to enhance productivity

At Wang Laboratories, we make computer and word processing systems. But we're really not in the computer or word processing business.

Our business is productivity. And that's a people business.

Because it's people who produce. Machines just make it easier.

Maybe all this sounds obvious. But you'd be surprised how many computer and word processing manufacturers forget that the end users of their products are people.

At Wang, we never forget.

That's why our products are simpler to use than theirs. And more efficient.

And that's why we're growing faster than anybody else in the business.

And that's why we're interested in Bachelor's, Master's or PhD candidates.

Productivity²

Located in Lowell, Massachusetts, we offer excellent salaries and benefits including full relocation, profit sharing, stock purchase plan, medical and dental insurance, and full tuition reimbursement.

In addition, we offer all the assets of New England — beautiful beaches, mountains, and forests; the historic, cultural, and educational richness of the Greater Boston area; and perhaps most important, an enviable standard of living within the reach of the software professional.

Wang's representatives will be on campus on December 12, 1979. To arrange an interview register with the Placement Office. If the schedule is full please call Merle Halverson collect at (617) 459-3422 or send her your resume as soon as possible at Wang Laboratories, Inc.

One Industrial Avenue
Lowell, MA 01851

We are an affirmative action employer

WANG Making the world more productive.

Gymmen debut at Univ.of Lowell

By BOB MITCHELL
Collegian Staff

With a fine pre-season performance under its belt, the UMass men's gymnastics team, under head coach Roy Johnson, begins its regular season tonight with a dual meet at the University of Lowell.

In the pre-season meet held at Cornell November 17-18, five UMass gymnasts emerged from a field of 105 preliminary competitors to compete in the finals. Steve Craig and David Buegler headed the group, with Craig qualifying and placing in two events, vaulting and floor exercise, and Buegler finishing in a three-way tie for first place in the floor exercise competition. David Felleman, Bob Lamb, and Frank Cohen were the other three finalists for UMass, qualifying in still rings, vaulting and high bar respectively.

According to Johnson and assistant coach Steve Nunno, the team will be led by captain Bob Donahue, the team's major strength. Donahue, a senior all around has showed consistency on all six events, especially on floor, pommel horse, parallel bars, and horizontal bar. Graduate student Frank Cohen, another all-around man, will strengthen the total team score on floor exercise, vaulting, parallel bars, and horizontal bar. In addition to Donahue and Cohen, there are three senior all arounders that will play important roles in the Minutemen cause: Bob Lamb, who has improved his all around score by almost six points, Paul O'Neil, a consistent performer on all six events, and John Nelson, who recently turned all around. His best event is still the parallel bars.

Juniors David Buegler and Tim Barry head the specialists on the squad. Buegler, as a specialist on the floor, will lead the team with his excellent tumbling, highlighted by a double somersault. His vaulting will also be a real asset to the team. Barry, a pommel horse specialist, is maturing into a fine performer and will lead the gymnasts in that event. Sophomore David Felleman adds depth to the squad, specializing on still rings, and pommel horse.

Other members of the squad include: senior all arounders Hugh O'Neal and Walt Buckwald, who add a lot of experience to the club, senior vault and parallel bars specialist Andy Dolph, junior floor and vaulting specialists Steve Craig and Ken Schow, sophomore all arounders Adam Geril and Jim Mcgrath, bar and horse specialist David Monti, bar and ring specialist Ron Silberstein, and horse specialist Robert Ross.

Rounding out the squad of 26 men are freshmen all-arounders John Macurdy, Franklin Valentin, Wayne Wright, and Bob Goulart, along with freshmen specialists Anthony Franciosa, Jeffrey Rogalski, Norman Sears, and Craig Stephansen.

Both UMass coaches believe that the Cornell Open was a good "primer" for the club and that it is ready for Lowell tonight. The Minutemen have a tough schedule this season, facing Army, Syracuse, Dartmouth, Navy, Springfield, Temple, Cornell, and nationally-ranked Southern Connecticut in a meet that will feature the men and women teams from both schools.

Staff meeting

There will be a mandatory sports staff meeting at 5:00 at the sports desk to pick this week's Budweiser Athlete.

Cleveland Brown fullback Mike Pruitt fumbles the ball during yesterday's 14-7 Cleveland win over Houston. Pruitt now has over 1,000 yards this season. (AP Laserphoto)

Trackmen drop opener

By JANE WOLFSON
Collegian Staff

Going against two of the top teams in the east, the UMass men's indoor track team, despite strong individual performances, was defeated by both UConn and Seton Hall by scores of UConn 96.5, Seton Hall 47, and UMass 26.5.

"In comparison of this year's performances from last year we looked stronger," said Coach Ken O'Brien. "Our times were better than last year. We looked really strong in the distance events, I saw improvement in the jumping events along with the pole vaulters and the weight team," he added.

Freshman Stephen Hyder led the Minutemen weight-team by placing third in both the shot put and the 35-pound weight with throws of 47'9¼" and 42'2¼".

Pole vaulters senior Jim Larabee and sophomore Jay Buckley both placed for UMass. Larabee tied for second place, and Buckley finished fourth.

UMass was shutout in the long jump, high jump, and triple jump as none of the Minutemen were able to place in the top four spots.

TURN TO PAGE 14

IT PAYS TO MIDASIZE

If you need a brake job, try to stop at Midas

MIDASIZE YOUR BRAKES

And never again buy new pads or linings as long as you own your car.
Once our professionals reapir your brakes, you'll never have to buy new pads or linings as long as you own your car. If they become defective, they will be replaced absolutely free in any one of the 1000 Midas shops around the world.

THE LOW COST WAY TO END IMPORT CAR SHAKES
McPherson Strut Cartridges Installed The Midas Way
$119.95 installed

Midas has the right shock for the way you drive.
We'll save you trouble at Midas because our 20 years experience means the right shocks for your car no matter how you drive.
And if anything ever goes wrong with a Lifeguard, Superguard or Springuard shock we'll replace it free for as long as you own your car.
from 8.95 ea. installed

143 King St. Northampton
MIDAS®
586-4840
Mon.-Fri. 8-5:30 Sat. 8-2:00

It's Now or Never
sign up for Sugarbush Ski
&
Party Week
Jan. 20-25
$135 includes everything
Sign up in the Ski Club Office CC 106
Final Payments Due Immediately
UMASS SKI CLUB

The Hungry-U
Monday Night Pizza Special
Buy any large pizza and get a pitcher of beer for Half-Price!
549-5713
55 University Dr.

1980 Calendars.
Give an original gift that's remembered every day of the year!
We have an unbelievable selection in stock.
Photography, Art, Womens', Historical, New England Humor, Animals, Scenic, and many more!
An ideal gift for everyone on your list!
open Wed nite til 9 Dec. 5, 12, 19
campus center/umass
the UNIVERSITY STORE

Lose to Penn St. in OT

Stickers 4th in nationals

By MIKE ESTRADA
Collegian Staff

PRINCETON, NJ- For the second straight year, the UMass field hockey team has finished fourth in the Association for Intercollegiate Athletics for Women national tournament. Cal State at Long Beach won the tourney with a 2-0 win over Penn State Saturday.

Unlike last season's unseeded squad, the 1979 Minutewomen finished exactly where they were ranked at the competition in Princeton, NJ last Wednesday through Saturday.

UMass dumped Michigan State and The University of St. Louis before losing to Penn State 3-2 in the semi-final round. The game had to be decided by penalty flicks, a method of finishing tied games in tournament competition. Each team sends five of its best shooters to take a penalty flick at the opposing goalie. The teams alternate shooter and goalie; the team with the most goals takes the win.

In the consolation game against the University of Maryland, a physically tired UMass team never got the track against the Terrapins on an incredibly poor field, conceding third place 2-0.

The Penn State game was perhaps the closest, most well-played game of the tournament despite horrendous field conditions at the Princeton Athletic Fields adjacent to the University's Palmer Stadium.

After being two goals down early in the second half, the Minutewomen tied the game with two goals within four minutes and sent the game into overtime. Two seven and a half minute overtimes went by with no team scoring a tie-breaking goal, forcing the game into penalty strokes.

The Nittany Lions scored on its first two flicks and went on to down the stickers 2-0 and head to the finals.

UMass field hockey defenseman Carol Duffey moves the ball against Michigan State University at the national tournament in Princeton. N.J. The stickers finished fourth for the second straight year. (Staff photo by Mike Estrada)

It was the Nittany Lions, in their first national tournament, who controlled the game early, pressuring the UMass defense for 10 penalty corners in the first half. Penn State's Jill Van Bodegon-Smith knocked in the Lion's first goal at 12:20 during a scramble in front of the net and UMass goalkeeper Karen Stifter (8 saves).

A penalty corner set up Penn State's second goal at 6:10 of the second half. Lion Sally Scheller took a push at the top of the circle. She faked a shot and pushed a pass to high scorer Candy Finn on the left wing. Finn lashed a shot past the pads of Stifter that appeared to seal the fate of the Minutewomen who, after one early scoring opportunity, were getting nothing off the Penn State defense.

Added to the Minutewomen's problems was the condition of the field. UMass had adjusted well to the natural surface Thursday, but rain earlier in the week never evaporated. The field that was rough and damp Wednesday was muddy Friday, causing several players to slip and fall.

Enter Judy Strong. The sophomore All-American from Hatfield took a pass from Patti Bossio and drove in alone on Penn State goalkeeper Jeanne Fissinger. Strong's shot from ten feet out beat Fissinger to the left at 14:00. It was Strong's fifth goal in three games. She ended the tournament with five.

After four minutes of strong offensive pressure, UMass tied the game when senior Laurel Walsh gathered in the rebound of a shot by UMass sophomore Sue Caples and flicked a shot past the outstretched stick of Fissinger at 17:55.

Despite control by the Minutewomen in the first overtime period, a "flick-off" seemed inevitable. Late in the second overtime period, UMass coach Pam Hixon employed a little strategy by inserting substitutes Chris Coughlin and goalie Robin Jennings. Coughlin is a freshman with a good penalty stroke, but the key was Jennings. She saw limited action this season but is considered by Hixon to be better at "reaction plays" such as penalty strokes.

The Nittany Lions Cany Finn and Brenda Stauffer, the first two strokers up for Penn State, scored with shots to the right and left of Jennings. UMass' Laura O'Neil and Sue Caples both failed to score. O'Neil's shot went wide to the left, Caples' shot was blocked by Fissinger. In fact no other team scored after Stauffer. Karen Laverdiere, the fourth shooter for UMass in a must situation had her shot caught by Fissinger and the Lions were granted the victory.

UMass goal-scoring leader Judy Strong never got her chance to shoot as she was scheduled for fifth.

A UMass gymnast vaults off the horse during Saturday's Invitational Meet in which UMass beat URI and UVM. (Staff photo by Chris Grewe)

Gymnasts finish 2nd in four-team meet

By JAY BRIGHTMAN
Collegian Staff

This weekend the women's Gymnastics team beat two out of the other three teams competing in the first annual UMass Invitational held at Curry Hicks Cage. The Minutewomen beat URI and UVM with a team score of 129.65 for UMass and scores of 113.40 and 102.65 for URI and UVM respectively, while losing a close contest of UNH who had a team score of 132.55.

The battle was mainly between UMass and UNH since all the individual awards were either won by a member of UNH or UMass. "I thought we could have performed better on the uneven bars and on the balance beam where we seemed to have some difficulty," said Coach Virginia Evans. "I was very happy with the performance of Lisa Martin, (who placed 3rd in a tie for all-around competition) since she never competed in "all-around competition" before.

Liz Marino, a UMass freshman finished first in vaulting with a score of 8.85 and second in floor exercise with a score of 8.6. Ellen Fahey won the meet for UNH by finishing first in the all-around, floor exercise and uneven bars and finishing in a tie for second in the vaulting competition. On her approach to the uneven bars, Ellen performed a flawless front-flip on to the bottom bar which appealed to the crowd of 400. The best performance of the day was by Gail Sweeney of UNH who worked wonders on the balance beam and received an excellent score of 9.1 to win the event and help her achieve second in all-around competition.

Going into UMass' final event (the uneven bars) UMass was leading UNH by the score 99.85 to 99.20. UMass had difficulty with the uneven bars only scoring 29.80 while on the floor exercise UNH received a score of 33.35 which altered the outcome.

"We'll have to clean-up a few spots before the match against Penn State in two weeks. Last year they placed second in the national finals and all the members of their team will be returning this year," said Coach Evans.

Phaul's 30 not enough; Michigan buries Minutemen in opener

By STEVE ZACK
Collegian Staff

ANN ARBOR, MI - The coaching debut of Ray Wilson might have been alot more pleasant had his Minuteman squad not lost to the University of Michigan Wolverines by a whopping 112-64 score before a crowd of 9,627 at Michigan's Crisler Arena.

The honor of scoring the first Minuteman basket of the season went to forward Curtis Phauls. Phauls, who hails from Taft high school in the Bronx - the same school of the UMass back court of Alex Eldridge and Derick Claiborne - led all scorers with 30 points and rebounders with eight. Twenty-one of those points came in the second half.

Thirty-seven seconds into the game, Michigan forward Thad Garner hit a jump shot to put the Wolverines up 2-0 and they never looked back. The closest the Minutemen would be on the afternoon was a 3-2 deficit with two minutes gone in the contest.

In the course of a six-and-a-half minute span, from 3:41-10:09 of the half, Michigan scored 20 consecutive points to end all hope of a Minuteman opening day victory celebration.

By halftime, Michigan had opened it up to a 31-point bulge, 51-20.

"There were times out there I wish we could have taken the air out of the ball," commented coach Wilson.

The second half opened up with a 10-4 scoring outburst in favor of the Minutemen. Eight of the ten points were courtesy of Phauls. A short time later, Michigan returned the favor and ran off an 18-2 spurt to up the Wolverine lead to 78-34 with 11:27 left in the game.

from that point on, all there was to do was to run out the clock and wait for tonight's contest against Toledo.

What had plagued the Minutemen throughout the game was foul trouble. By the five minute mark of the first half, UMass had put the Wolverines into the bonus situation. But that is only the tip of the iceberg.

The Minutemen are not blessed with huge size up front, and when the front men get into foul trouble (forward Dan Wright had three fouls in the first five minutes)...

"We got into foul trouble and I looked down the bench and there was no one to replace our front-line guys," remarked Wilson.

UMASS (64): Wright 1-3-5 Phauls 10-10-30 Stewart 4-0-8 Witkos 5-0-10 Morrison 0-0-0 Dennerlein 3-0-6 Teague 0-1-1 Bierly 2-0-4 Roberts 0-0-0 Anderson 0-0-0. Total: 25-14-64

MICHIGAN: (112): McGee 9-9-27 Garner 4-3-11 Heuerman 2-2-6 Marty Bodnar 2-0-4 Smith 4-4-12 Johnson 3-4-10 Garris 7-0-14 Mark Bodnar 4-2-10 Person 2-0-4 James 1-0-2 Brown 1-0-2 Total: 43-26-112.

NE grid writers honor Page

Richard Page, UMass sports information director (SID), has been named the 28th recipient of the New England Football Writers' George Carens Award for contributions to football in New England over the years.

Page, who has been SID at UMass since 1958 and will be retiring in August, will receive the award tomorrow night at a dinner in Cambridge.

A native of Bennington, VT, Page grew up in Staten Island, NY. He was graduated from Springfield College in 1950, and served his alma mater as its first SID and manager of its field house before leaving for the SID post at UMass in 1958.

Page is a past president of the College Sports Information Directors of America and is enshrined in that group's Hall of Fame. He is the only New England SID to serve as president of the national organization.

In his thirty years as an SID, Page has worked 288 college football games,including more than 200 at UMass. A member of the U.S. Football Writers for more than twenty years, Page votes annually in the Heisman Trophy poll.

He is also a past president of the Western Mass. Chapter of the Football Hall of Fame.

NUMMO

volume 8 issue 11 3 december 1979

NUMMO is the magic power of the spoken and written word. With each word translated there escapes vapor. Vapor is a form of water. Water is necessary for the existance of all life forces on earth.

The Black News Service strongly believes that our newspaper will speak the truths of the protractive struggle of black people. Only through the truth can we, as a people develop a clear and precise knowledge of the world and its perplexities. When we receive knowledge, it is our duty to use it and share it with you, our fellow brothers and sisters.

It is through this exchange of written information which you, the people transfer the spoken word into power. Then together we will surely become the controllers of our creative life forces, our destiny.

"I am, because we are; and since we are, therefore I am."

America Held Hostage

By Tony Crayton

It's been over ten years since America was embroiled in an international crisis of the proportion it's experiencing now with Iran. The news is totally dominated by news reports, special announcements and endless commentary with the same general theme: American is outraged because it has Americans held Hostage in Iran.

The President of the United States has acted as quickly and decisively as the situation allowed. He has ordered the Immigration authorities to "interview" Iranian students living in America and to deport any found in violation of the law. He has even ordered a buildup of naval forces to steam toward Iran and get in hitting distance. As far as Carter is concerned "there is no civilized country on earth which has not condemned the seizure and holding of the hostages by Iran."

The most effective thing the Carter Administration has done, has been to "create" another crisis. The world now is held hostage by Carter's impotent attempt to show that America is not militarily sterile, and that he is not president that the polls suggest. Carter has created another crisis! Each time it brings us closer to nuclear annihilation while we ring and "say something good about America." There are Americans held hostage, but its us here not in Iran. Our minds have been kidnapped and brainwashed into accepting another dangerous "comedy" crisis.

On September 4, Senator Frank Church lead a bogus block of conservatives to postpone hearings on the nuclear arms treaty because of a discovery of a Soviet combat brigade" in Cuba. September 6, The Senate Select Committee announced hearings to determine if there was an "intelligence failure" by the United States in detecting a Soviet Brigade in Cuba. The Administration tried to act as if they did not know anything about it. What they did know was that the SALT II talks were in trouble in the Senate and Carter was in trouble with the people.

The Soviet brigade crisis was created by the Carter Administration and made America the laughing stock of the world. There were 2,000 American Troops on Cuban soil for years. Cuba has no troops on American soil.America's C.I.A. trained, and equipped and supported, with the American navy and airforce, an invasion of Cuba,they invaded and lost. Cuba has never made military assaults against America. The brigade crisis was a vicious fabrication. As far back as July 18, Senator Stone had met with Vice-President Mondale

TURN TO PAGE 7

INTERVIEW WITH SHEILA JOHNSON

Editor note:
Sheila Johnson is 24 years old, received her B.A. in History and her M.S.L.S. (Masters) from Atlanta University school of Library Service. Sheila one of the three Black woman arrested September 29, 1979, st Russell's liquor store on charges of disorderly conduct.

N.N.
Are you satisfied with the outcome of the trial?
Sheila
no
Why not?
Sheila
I'm not satisfied with the outcome of the trial because Ada, Gina and myself, all three should have received the not guilty verdict.
N.N.
What was the charge?
Sheila
Disorderly conduct.
N.N.
Was there disorderly conduct?
Sheila
Well, basicly the judge claimed that Gina was disorderly for two reason: one, because she cursed, she cursed loudly. They seem to have problems with words like fuck, the mother fucker, which in itself seems very racist and very sexist, because the judge is making some kind of moral judgement about the language used. He is using his standards, we don't know who's standards, to say which words that he believes are illegal. He obviously has no understanding of our language, no understanding of our culture.
Second: Mr. Russell claims that these words upset him. Yet the police cursed. They said hell, dam, shit, bullshit, bitch. He had no problem with those words. Even in court, Mr. Russell himself said. "All hell broke loose." Why is it acceptable that white men use these words and not acceptable for black women. There is something very racist or very sexist about that. Its a judgement that we have problems with. And also, Gina supposedly used fighting words come on, you want to hit me mother fucker, hit me. What is this: Is this what you convict a person on for disorderly conduct. They don't take into consideration the circumstances under which this happened, or as the lawyer say "the state of mind" of the person. So I have real problems with that.
N.N.
Do you think your lawyer could have done better?
Sheila
No, I think the lawyer did what they could. The other thing I think its important for people to understand is the legal system. People were very obtimistic that we would be exonerated, or that facts would be cleared up, but thats not possible in this legal system.
N.N.
Why not?
Sheila
I think when people came to the trial they really began to see how technical, how specific, just the law is in itself and how you defend yourself. Somethings still puzzles me but people don't understand it even. When they say: "well go sue," they just don't understand what is or is not possible under our legal system. Which is why I can really understand why there are lawyers, why there are a small segment of our population which are lawyers. Because its very very complicated. And its even more complicated when it comes to issues which are a concern to us. When you look historically like Brown vs Board of Education, when people say why is that such a landmark decision. It was always so simple to us, it was always so right was always so just. Now I can look back and see how monumental it really was, to be able to win a simple case like that. You know, in court we're still talking about it now. Send us to court, talking about 'well fight this' and here we are, 25 years later still dealing with Brown vs the Board of Education. This legal system is complicated.
N.N.
Do you feel the legal system can be used for or against a givin constituency at will?
Sheila
Oh, yes.
N.N.
At what level?
Sheila
At every level, from choosing your attorney to the kind of judge you get, the prejudice of the judge, if you go to the jury, the kind of jury you get, the motives of the prosecuter, he might be building a career to be District Attorney. I mean at every single level, can be used for or against. The point I'm trying to make is, people have to understand that, perhaps you may win small victories in court, but the struggle does not end there, because you run the risk of not getting the victory that you wanted, which we did not. One person was exonerated. The other two are guilty submission of facts, continued without a finding, which doesn't mean anything. You run that risk, or you run the risk of still winning, so what if we had all been found innocent, in the eyes of the court the judge says this man made an illegal arrest, this man had no reason to do this, he should have never put his hands on me, nevertheless I still innocent. The police officer is still on the force of Amherst department. He's still free, to do whatever he pleases. So I had a small victory in court, but my victory has not changed what the problem was. Our people have to understand that. Even if I sue, people say sue, okay, maybe you'll get some money, maybe you'll get some bucks, but, maybe they were exposing racism and sexism, but its not the end of the problem and I think people really looked to the trial as the mystical answer to all of this, well it's not.
N.N.
What about the police brutaity?we find it hard that you all could in anyway be considered a threat to the police, that they consideredit necessary that four large police to forsibly arrest you.
Sheila
Exactly I agree, but that issue was not dealt with because it considered immaterial to this particular trial. People say 'well why was this not dealth with,' well the legal technicalities is, after the arrest, nothing else counts in terms of our charges of disorderly conduct. Pebpdonnderstand this. Our trial doesn't deal with that. It is like thats after the fact, regardless. Its a legal technicality. People have to understand the law. Its an important issue. As far as I'm concerned I've done my service. Let the community deal with it because I've done my service I spoke up. I fought it. I've struggled. What's it to the community. Is this acceptable to the black community that the police treat black women like this. Hell no! They have no reason to do this. Besides the fact that none of us attacted them. Even if any of us tried to attack them, Sargent O'Tools is 300 pounds. What could Ada have done to him. What could she have physically done to him that unacceptable but thats what happens. The community can deal this is not my community. I'm getting the hell out. Its important.
N.N.
Do you plan to make a civil suit? Do you have any idea that Ada or Gina plan to make a civil suit?
Sheila
I don't think so, but I don't know and I can't speak for them. Personally, I've been speaking to lawyers in the local area and I have some friends in Washington.
Was Russell's testimony inconsistant?
Sheila
Not only was it inconsistant, people got real messages from this man. He could give no reason why he never walked up to me and asked what the problem was. Richard Howland's closing statement was excellent. There were three black women in the store, and at every instance when somebody tried to find out what was happening did anybody ever ask them? White male Russell asked white male clerk. White policeman asked white Russell ask white clerk. All white males discussed this problem. No one talked to these three black women. Would you not think if you were the black women in this store that you were being treated differently because of your color and because of your sex. Here we are in the middle of a problem and three white males never bother to consult us about it. And the

TURN TO PAGE 8

Return To Sanity

By Hassan Al Jaur Ibn Saud.

Overview of exchanging persons between nations

Unfortunate consequences will arise for Americans, Iranians, and the world's population if the current insanity continues between Rockerfeller-Kissinger-Nixon (alias the American people) and the Islamic Nation of Iran.

With over nine billion dollars owned by the Islamic Nation of Iran frozen in U.S. banks, Iranians may face harsh food supply problems. Even though the U.S. has about 375 million barrels of oil in reserve, shortages during winter months may result. The 700,000 to 900,000 barrels of Iranian crude cut off from the U.S. daily need for 20 million barrels of imported crude will not find its way into the world oil supply. Certain European countries will not be able to adjust to reduced shipments from Iran. Less industrialized nations will be forced to pay higher prices for oil from the spot market. American tax dollars are being wasted since military action from U.S. carriers located in the Indian Ocean and the Arabian Gulf would be extreme. The daily costs to maintain these vessels smack of escalation of the undeclared war in Vietnam. Worst still, Saudi Arabia provides the bulk of U.S. oil imports. Even if the Saudi goverment refuses to assist Iran; nevertheless, any armed conflict will possibly result in P.L.O. intervention in behalf of Iran. Therin the world's oil supply will be hampered. Economic choas will possibly ensue. As the U.S.'s 100 day reserve will be tapped by its allies as well as greater demand from military operation; jets, ships, personnel vehicals . Ultimaltely, the oil fields could be destroyed beyond near term repair.

Since Middle Eastern countries are not oil dependent and have survived for many thousands of years without Western technology, these countries will fair better than the Western block nations. This senseless pending catastrophy arising from the array of insane anti-Shah-pro-Shah tactics can be avoided. Deeper matters are at stake. Saving face lies at the heart of the escalating psychology-economic warfare that may explode beyond mere mortals control.

How can this crisis be resolved without violating Iran's or Rockerfeller-Nixon-Kissinger's objectives and principals?

Putting aside the anti-American cat-call from Iran, as nothing more than rethoric for domestic consumption. Putting aside the U.S. macho-man illusion, as nothing more than Carter's attempt to display leadership qualities. Instead, consider the actual and narrower issue. How can the U.S. return the ex-Shah (alleged Iranian criminal), and how can Iran return American (alleged ''spies'')?

Simple. Exchange 50 Americans for one Iranian criminal to avert an international war. In the past the U.S. has done just that without using anti-blackmail posturing to avoid a solution.

To put this in context: If the American James Hill had actually high-jacked an American Airlines 707 jet worth 25,000,000 dollars. And in the process killed several of the 20 American passengers on board in route to Iran. The U.S. government would have applied diplomatic, economic and psychological pressure to compel Iran to return an American citizen subject to criminal prosecution. Such would be so even if Iran had granted James Hill a visa for humanitarian reasons. The plane valued at 25,000,000 dollars would also be returned. Likewise for the ex-Shah. Unless ex-President Nixon, ex-Secretary of State Kissinger, and ex-Trilateral Commission founder David Rockerfeller make foreign policy for the U.S.

There is a history of exchanging persons between nations as part of international law-tradition. Most recently, the U.S. returned a Russian crewman who jumped ship in New York harbor and had boarded a U.S. Coast Guard cutter. That Russian "friend" wanted a visa for humanitarian reasons. He did not want to return to Russia because of political conditions there. Yet, under Russian pressure, the Russian crewman was exchanged for a U.S. citizen held in Russia. The Russian crewman had to face a court trial in Russia, his fate was certain in the minds of millions of Americans.

Gerry Powers, an American U-2 spy, was captured in Russia. He was put on trial. Had an American Havard lawyer defend him, was nevertheless found guilty. His freedom ws secured by the U.S. through an exchange for several Russian held in the U.S.

During and after the undeclared war in Vietnam, prisoner exchanges occured with customary regularity.

The U.S. embassy in Russia was teechnically invaded by Russians via supersensitive detection devices powered by microwaves. One ambassador and several key embassy employees, as a direct result of the eavedropping, contracted terminal cancer. All suffered a slow and painful death. The U.S. government did not: establish an embargo, increase military activity over Russian airspace, or freeze formidible Russian owned assets in the U.S. Moreover, the U.S. mass media did not appeal to jingoist sentiments to prop-up extremist-paid agitators' reactions against Russian students, the Russian embassy, or discontinue cultural-scientific exchanges. Russian nationals were not deported. However, the deaths of U.S. embassy personnel was more anti-American than anything the Iranians have done. Instead, the U.S. and Russia exchanged persons held. As a final example, Russian so-called disodents are customarily exchanged between the U.S. and Russia. None consider this flow of persons as blackmail. This is an established practice among nations.

Such an exchange would not encourage others to take over U.S. embassies to extract demands. Here we have a unique set of circumstances. Military powerful U.S. confronting an Islamically unified nation that is super-resource rich. No other nations have a like power base. Rarely again will the host nations support admission of a criminal against the wishes of that criminal's home nation. Rarely again will the host nation support the takeover of another nation's embassy. Thus, this exceptional situation leading to a world war can be resolved without violating future security.

Exchange the ex-Shah for 50 American.

Our combined objective should be: NOT ONE DROP OF AMERICAN OR IRANIAN BLOOD TO PROTECT OR TO ASSURE THE RIGHTFUL RETURN OF THE IRANIAN CRIMINAL.

For it is insane to allow mere mortals to hold the world's 4 billion plus population hostage to the threat of global destruction.

RAPE

James Lewis, Jr,

According to the Federal Beauru of Investigation (FBI) rape is the most under reported crime in the United States. One rape is reported for every 10 to 20 rapes that occur.

There are many reasons rape is rarely reported. FBI reports that in 57 percent of rapes, the victim knew the rapist. Rapist usually do not go to jail for their crime. The national conviction rate for rape is less then 15 percent.

Historically and even presently, the woman is on trial for the rape crime, not the rapist or the person charged with the crime. The question is whether or not the victim asked to be raped. The trials are emotionally strenuous to a degree uncomprended in psychology. In New York City the conviction rate for rape charges is 2 percent, and in Chicago, the conviction rate is 5 percent.

The legal system makes it hard to prosecute the rapist. The social pressure of society blames the victim, it questions whether the woman caused the occurance of the rape. Because of the overwhelming pressure and the unlikely hood of conviction woman are reluctant to report the crime.

Another problem is the myth of crying rape. The statistics show that only 4 percent of reported rapes are "cry rapes", the same percentage for murder, robbery and assault.

According to Donna Meeks, rape counselor Everywomans Center, UMass, due to the social pressure and bias of our society and legal system about rape, women often blame themselves for the crime, women feel that they are fo blame.

This cannot be true because rape is a crime of violence not sex very similar to murder. It goes against the basic instincts of self preservation for women to want rape, or to in anyway solicit rape.

Interacial rape statistics show that 4 percent of the men raping white women are black men, while 8 percent of the men raping black women are white men.

On campus, 62 percent of the rape at UMass occurs in co-educational dormatories, 20 percent occur in academic or facilitative buildings like the library. Eighteen percent of the rapes occur outside. These

TURN TO PAGE 7

Long Tall Dexter Rides Again

By Gary Lee

On Tuesday night November 27, the Dexter Gordon Quartet gave an inspiring performance at Buckley Recital Hall in a concert sponsored by the Straight Ahead Committee of Amherst College. The group, consisted of Rufus Reid on bass, Eddie Gladden on percussions, Kirk Lightsey on piano, and long Tall Dexter on tenor saxophone. With the exception of Mr. Lightsey (who replaced George Cables) these musicians have been together since Dexter's triumphant return to the U.S. in 1975 which ended a twenty-year exile (of sorts) in Europe.

The group's sound was intensely vibrant, extremely tight, and the solos were quite imaginative. The quartet delighted the capacity crowd of jazz enthusiasts with a varied slate of orginal and standard rendition of "Tangerine." The crowd rose to its feet cheering after Mr. Lightsey's piano solo. A particular solo by Rufus Reid featured his innovative approach to using the bow, an integral part of playing a contrabasse. Mr. Gladden played two long drum solos; one which left me awestruck as he got down on the cymbals. Not to be outdone Dex displayed a unique interpretation of tunes such as "Easy Living" (Billie Holiday), "Tanya" (Donald Byrd), "Tivoli" (A.D.G. orginal) and the well-known "As Time Goes By." During his solos Dex used many melodic riffs which included; "Popeye the Sailor Man," "Three Blind Mice," "Mary had a Little Lamb," as well as "Somewhere over the Rainbow. These were used to communicate his massive knowledge of the intricacies of music as well as his charming sense of humor.

Dexter Gordon has as intimate, charismatic stage prescence all his own. Put bluntly he is a clown, often wandering off or around the stcge between solos. He possesses a rich baritone voice which he uses to recite poetry or tell a story as a way of introducing the group members or a song. After finishing a solo or song Dex will hold his horn up to the crowd and the heavens as his way of thanking "The Force." After seeing this Quartet it is readily apparent that ''Be-bop is the music of the future" and the "Sophistaticated giant" is leading the way.

The Origins of Ransom

By Zoe Rita Anglessey

The hospital is such a cozy fortress with the top floor outfitted as an absolutely raid-proof suite fully catered and as high up as one can get.

The shuttle from Cortes's resort to New York received D.C. blessings in accordance with the Doctor's orders and banking from the bankers while security was provided by vets from the gang green units known for their win-loss record against free-standing domiones their scoring body counts and a steady supply of orphans
young enough to be lullabied into the rank of somebody's holy crusade.

It takes bravery to see through this masquerade to choose to introduce themselves as workers to the old womyn who never ages.
She is well known for taking in one generation
after another.

With no experience making a stone's throw with ammunition at targets of heart nor with feelings of satisfaction in guilt from hunting down barefoot enemies for medals and money--
they who refuse often end up in a ditch of earth robbed of their vital signs their youthful wonder their underdeveloped hopes their stunted growth.

Along with the necessary hit and misses their hearts' worth
will add up do count so much so that the probing lens of history turns up indelible stories written between boldface type.
The old womyn with a reading glass on her lap explains: it takes more than epitaphs to build or breathe.

Victor from an urban tropicalization and Mr. Boom Boom who grooves
(the two of them though are never so removed as to not cause a scence and in various places this amounts to insurrection) they riffed off a wiggy portrait that put down long fuller brush eyebrows for sweeping the country clean of revolutionaries (supposedly) like faithfully dusting their caskets once a day for this was long eyebrow's idea of a well-kept national monument
but his eyebrows also served the personal need to conceal his face in public
(wanted dead or alive).

But that was all prior to the x-rays and the eviction of the false blond princess am empress with claws and scaled eyelids who thrills to bed down with his highness Long Eyebrows
under a brocaded comforter filled with cancerous fluff
and embroidered in rosebud chancres.

She smiles at flashbulbs to camouflage her own venereal affliction making sutures a status symbols along with praise for the international epidemic of bedscores in her case contracted by sleeping with him hiim the favorite of British intelligence and Kermit "Kim"
a seventh cousin of FDR
but closer in kind to Big Stick and at the time in the early fifties
the Dulles Brothers' main man in Teheran.
And so it was Kermit "Kim" and the likes who prompted the royal lot to snack on Kurds and caviar
while Gulf Oil pumped.

Uh huh there is no antidote nor operation sufficient in remission to stop the anti-decorum of sacred hungers or reverant blood year after year sprayed automatically against stucco
to satisfy religion's stomach craving crushing skulls
and to pacify the dollar, gold and oil cults.

The despots of both versions deny a finite lifespan for their business and disguise with beatitudes and ritual even with elections and incense their putrid dependence upon the confederacy between nowdays slavery and the veil.

Who are these two-faced birds anyways ordained by some law from one book or a mothballed constitution passed down for the benefit of a handful in whose names zombis are sanctified by kneeling over ungrateful graves or by a payoff in hefty chenks and drinks on the house:

But i tell you
anyone with a nose
can smell the smear of terror from one end to the other.

SPACE RESEARCH- Still Arming Apartheid

In January of this year, Southern Africa detailed an arms smuggling scheme involving the shipment of 155mm artillery shells to South Africa by the Space Research Corporation. At that time, it was reported that the company, based on a 10,000-acre site straddling the Vermont-Canada border and incorporated in both Canada and the US, had been involved in at least three major clandestine shipments to South Africa, twc via Antigua in the Caribbean, and one via Spain. The illegal shipments, originally revealed in a press conference by Joshua Nkomo in a 1977 visit to Canada, were further documented through the efforts of the Antigua Workers Union, and by a well-researched TV documentary put together by the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation in coordination with the BBC. The documentary used port documents, shipping intelligence, eyewitness accounts by Antiguan dockworkers, and careful appraisals of government documents to substantiate its charges against Space Research.

Although an investigation by a Vermont grand jury has yet to come to a decision, further evidence of the scope of Space Research's smuggling to South Africa, and of the complicity of US government officials, has surfaced over the past nine months. The Canadian government is also investigating the company, but Southern Africa was unable to reach government officials to determine what stage that investigation has reached.

Providing Technology

Research by reporters Sam Hemingway and William Malone of the Burlington Free Press has demonstrated that Space Research's collaboration with South Africa went beyond selling an estimated 53,000 extended-range artillery shells. Space Research also provided the technology and expertise necessary for South Africa to develop a new, extended-range 155mm howitzer. Through interviews with company employees, Hemingway and Malone determined that at least 12 Space Research employees had visited South Africa in the fall of 1977 to participate in testing exercises at Schmidt's Drift Range, a military base 60 miles west of Kimberley. Chief among the visitors was Steve Adams, who had served as project manager in the company's development of its special 155mm artillery shell, which has a range one-and-a-half times that of conventional shells. (Adams has since left Space Research. He is now working with Cementation Engineering, Ltd. of Johannesburg, one of two South African firms that received artillery testing equipment from Space Research.)

Other evidence of Space Research's role in the development of South Africa's 155mm howitzer came from the US patent office in Washington, which showed that the firm had obtained a patent from South Africa for its extended-range shell, a move which is generally too expensive to take unless actual exports are expected. In addition, the Free Press reporters obtained airline and other documents showing that, beginning in October 1976, Space Research sent more than a dozen shipments of artillery testing equipment from Mirabel airport in Montreal to South Africa. Company employees involved in the testing at Schmidt's Drift confirmed the use of various instruments for gauging velocity, pressure, and the interior ballistics of the gun at the test site.

Based on this evidence, Prime Minister Pieter Botha's assertion this April that South Africa had developed its own 155mm howitzer "in record time" without outside help is highly questionable.

Washington Complicity

There is also evidence to suggest US government complicity. Based on leaks from sources close to the Vermont grand jury investigation, a Boston Globe article in late August asserts that on at least three occasions in December 1977 and January 1978 U.S. Navy ships were used to ferry Space Research shells to Antigua, shells which were then transferred to another vessel and carried on to South Africa.

Even more damning evidence of US government laxity in enforcing the arms embargo (if not outright encouragement of violations) comes from the revelation, again from the Burlington Free Press, that the US Department of Defense circumvented its normal regulations to allow 50,000 155mm shell-forgings (shell casings which have yet to be armed with explosive material) to be produced for Space Research at a US Army arsenal in Scranton, Pennsylvania. The procedure used was based on an earlier request from Retired Lt. Gen. Arthur Trudeau, a Space Research director and former head of Army research and development, under which Space Research was allowed to rent the Scranton facility to produce 15,000 shells for Israel. Although Defense Department procurement regulations permit the use of government facilities by a private contractor only when such use is provided "rent-free" to a company "certifying that it is acting on behalf of a foreign government," Space Research did not get rent-free use of the plant, did not register with the Justice Department as an agent of Israel, and did not contract to make the sale (which exceeded $40,000) under the Foreign Military Sales Act.

These technical irregularities in favor of Space Research pale in comparison to the treatment of its next request: 50,000 shell-forgings from the Scranton arsenal, made on April 30, 1976, again allegedly for Israel. Department of Defense documents obtained by the Burlington Free Press reporters show that this request was confirmed by telephone within four days without even checking to see if the company had applied for a license from the State Department to export the shells to Israel. No such license exists for the shells, just as there is obviously no license for any of the estimated 53,000 155mm shells that Space Research shipped to South Africa.

The US government attitude to this appears to be one of calculated indifference. "The boredom in Washington was thundering. Much too loud," a US diplomat told the International Herald Tribune in August. The grand jury investigation has dragged on for close to a year, often meeting no more than once every three weeks. Despite evidence of government complicity, the Justice Department stated as recently as September that it has no plans to investigate the Pentagon's role in the shipments.

The artillery shells and howitzers provided to South Africa by Space Research are not only meant to be used by Pretoria's army in maintaining domestic control. South Africa also has used the material in attacks on neighboring states. Hardly a week has passed in the last year when Angola has not been attacked by bombing, artillery fire, or ground attack. In a recent trip to Angola, Prexy Nesbitt of the Africa Project of the Institute for Policy Studies saw shells that fit the description of those designed by Space Research. They had been fired on a SWAPO refugee camp inside Angola.

Refugees Swamp Botswana Camp

by Rebecca Reiss and Michael Fleshman

The situation facing Zimbabwean refugees has never been more serious. Thousands are fleeing to neighboring Mozambique and Zambia, where they lack adequate facilities and are the targets of brutal attacks by the Smith-Muzorewa regime. Additional thousands are seeking refuge in Botswana.

Refugee conditions for an estimated 20,000 Zimabwbeans in Botswana have received little media attention for several reasons. Botswana has not thus far been regularly subject to vicious raids by Rhodesian security forces as have Mozambique and Zambia. Furthermore, until recently, Botswana housed only transit not permanent refugee camps. Refugees who had escaped Smith's forces were either sent on to Zambia via chartered airline or by ferry across the Zambezi River, which forms the border between Zambia and Botswana.

In the past year the situation has changed. In 1978, after coming under heavy British political pressure, a European charter airline cancelled its agreement to airlift the refugees to Zambia. Early this year the Rodesians destroyed the Zambezi ferry and since then the relocation of Zimbabweans from Botswana to Zambia has been virtually halted. Even commercial air traffic between Zambia and Botswana was brought to a standstill this summer, when Air Botswana's only two pilots were arrested in Zambia and charged with spying for Rhodesia. Commercial flights have resumed, but do not provide a feasible way to transport thousands of refugees.

1000 a Month

As an estimated 600-1000 Zimbabweans are still coming across the border each month, the Botswana government and refugee relief organizations are being forced to convert the transit camps into permanent facilities. This conversion has been slow and difficult as a result of drastic shortages of food, shelter, and clothing.

The camps are desperately overcrowded. According to UN sources the Botswana refugee population, quoted conservatively at 20,000, has tripled since 1976, and more than 8000 refugees have already reached the camps this year.

For a growing boy in Francistown, bread is a meagre meal.

Three Camps Open

The government of Botswana now operates three camps for Zimbabwean refugees, one near Francistown, one at Selibi-Pikwe, and one in Dukwe. Francistown camp was built in 1975 for a transient population of 250. It currently houses 5,000 men—men and women live in separate camps—in an area the size of two football fields.

The Francistown camp is so crowded that even sleeping must be done in shifts since there is no room for all its residents to lie down at the same time. Sanitation and housing facilities are grossly inadequate; most men have only a blanket to protect them from the frigid Francistown nights.

Living conditions at the Dukwe camp, which houses 10,000 people, are somewhat better. There the residents—mostly women and children—are benefiting from an experimental, self-help program which is funded by the Botswana Council of Refugees (BCR). The BCR, established by the Botswana government, is funded primarily by the United Nations High Commissioner for Refugees (UNHCR), but also receives important assistance from the Red Cross, which provides a medical team at each camp, Lutheran World Services, and other local and international agencies.

The Dukwe projects, which include communal food cultivation, tailoring, baking, and carpentry are designed to help the refugees become economically self-sufficient. These skills will be useful when the refugees return home to rebuild a war-torn Zimbabwe. But even Dukwe's ambitious program is severely hampered by shortages of skilled teachers, tools, and raw materials.

Although local officials are understandably reluctant to discuss details it seems generally true that prior to 1976 Zimbabweans entering Botswana were often young, active or potentially active participants in the liberation struggle, in transit to Zambia. Since then the war has engulfed the general population and now a diverse mix of peasants, students, and urban dwellers is fleeing the crossfire, into Botswana. Many of today's refugees are skilled farmers and artisans, but they lack the tools and materials with which to work. Those who came to join the liberation struggle are also frustrated because the Patriotic Front does not operate militarily from Botswana, and they are now trapped in the camps.

Shaking Morale

An official at the Botswana Council for Refugees in Francistown talked to us about the psychological difficulties facing the Zimbabweans. "Life is frustrating for the refugees," he said. "They wake up in the morning and just sit. They only eat one or two meals a day and just sit." Feelings of despondency and helplessness are common, and more effort is now being made to involve the refugees in meeting their own needs. This point was particularly emphasized to us by ZAPU representatives in Botswana.

For historical and geographic reasons many Zimbabwean refugees coming into Botswana have been adherents of the ZAPU wing of the Patriotic Front. ZAPU would like a stronger role in administering the refugee camps, which are run by the Botswana government and international relief agencies. This differs sharply from Zambia, where ZAPU plays a central part in administering the permanent camps, which have dormitories, schools, hospitals and agricultural projects.

A Sensitive Point

The issue of ZAPU's role in Botswana is a delicate one. In Francistown ZAPU representative Albert Ndlovu acknowledged that given Botswana's geographic location and economic dependence on South Africa and Rhodesia, "for Botswana to let us—ZAPU—operate militarily at this point would be suicide." And indeed it would be. Even the current situation creates serious tensions. Botswana imports most of its food and virtually all its manufactured goods from its white-ruled neighbors. Rhodesia Railways controls and operates Botswana's entire rail system and could easily paralyze the transport network.

The question of this economic dependence on the white minority regimes was the subject of a front-line "economic summit" held in Tanzania this summer. Botswana President Seretse Khama took the lead in a call for increased economic cooperation between independent African states. But Botswana is likely to remain economically dependent on its neighbors for years to come, which makes the outcome of the struggle for Zimbabwe particularly important for it. Meanwhile the burden of maintaining the growing Zimbabwean refugee population is becoming more serious every day.

Special Report on Tenants Rights

UMASS FAMILY HOUSING HITS AGAIN

11.55 % Rent Increase and 0.00 % Service Improvements

By:
Jose G. Trejo .
Lucy Ferrer
and Mariano Gutierrez.

Students v/s Administration

The yearly rent increases in UMass Family Housing; Lincoln, University and North Village apartments, have been the target of many criticisms from the student-tenants and their governments. The Administration systematicaly have been approving all these increases every year, but doing very little to improve the deteriorated services in such complexes. The students have been outraged at the Administration irresponsibility to address their demands, and last year in September, a rent-strike broke out with the aim to offset the increase. However, Family Housing threatened to evict the striking tenants and the rent-strike was offset instead of the increase.

This year, the picture still looks grim for the frustrated tenants because Family Housing is proposing another 11.55 percent hike for fiscal year 1981. Certainly, Family Housing has the Administration support and it seems that they are going to get away with it, without really addressing the tenant's claims and problems in construction flaws, health and safety inequities, labor waste and mismanagement and lack of community space among other claims.

It is clear however, that this is a typical conflict of interests between the students represented by their governments and the Administration's burocratic machinery. Hence, the objectives of this report are: a) to provide a broad range of information to the public by presenting the prespective views of the problem from both sides, b) to analyse the conflicting objectives, defining the overall probem, and c) to search for alternative solutions to the problem, giving recomendations to both sides.

STUDENTS

1-. Graduate Student Senate. Finance Committee Chair: Gary Cridler-Smith.
2-. Student Government Association. SCERA Member: Al Wallace.
3-. North Village Tenants Association. Co-President: Jose Trejo.
4-. Other tenants. (See interviews).

ADMINISTRATION

1-. Program and Budget Council. Chair: David A. Booth.
2-. Residential Resource Management. Assistant Director in Budgeting and Finance: Ann Kosky.
3-. Family Housing. Program Coordinator: Robert Roy.
4-. Physical Plant. (no direct response).

Conflicting Objetives

Construction Flaws and Deterioration

The NVTA and individual tenants claim the existence of construction flaws in North Village; flat roofs that leak constantly, poor ventilation that causes a "condensation" problem where 90 percent of the bathroom fans have continuous leaks. Lincoln and University apartments need paint jobs and some remodeling in roten kitchen furniture. This also creates an excelent enviroment for cockroache breeding which compounds this problem into a health and safety hazard. Broken windows that do not close and causes heat leaks and waste of energy. Lack of spare parts to make repairs causes long delays for the job to get done and waste of labor and materials.

SGA representative Al Wallace said that " There is a list of coded repairs that have to be done in the complexes. First, the restore to the original condition, repairs that have to be done now, otherwise will cost much more later. Second, Code compliance, it could be improvements in this aspect, specially in health and safety. And third, modernization, but this is unlikely right now.

RRM Assistant Director stated " I don't know, but what I do know is from a copy of a study done in 1975. They studied the condensation problem in North Village and they also suggested that we put peak roofs instead of flat roofs. The cost estimated in 1975 was $ 575,000 to do all the apartments. There is no way that we intent to raise the rent to pay for that, it is too much. But yes we are aware of that problem (of construction flaws)".

Maintenance Mismanagement

Tenants have always expressed that a great deal of waste is done in labor an materials by the Physical Plant trades. They said that it takes too many people for too long to do a minor job repair. It's logical that trades aren't in their prime of their life time, but the skyrocketing cost in labor materials and utilities is drainig the tenants pockets, and they are looking for cost reductions and waste cuts.

The GSS representative Gary Cridler-Smith feels that " the housing people have no effective way of monitoring the quality of work that has been done by Physical Plant".

RRM Ann Kosky responded that " in the past it was not considered this office's resposibility to check out the effectiveness of the work done by Physical Plant. It was inapropiate for us to question another arm of the University."

FH Rob Roy declared that " now we look into the report and look for great discrepancies, and we haven't found any big discrepancies on such reports so far. But we are trying to get more feed back from Physical Plant to provide us with the work sheet for that particualar apartment and that particular trade rather than waiting for the job report, we will get an immediate job report.

PBC Chair: David Booth expressed in a memorandum on Nov 29, that " it may well be that the time has come when the relationship of Physical Plant to Family Housing should be re-examined."

Lack of Community Space

The NVTA is asking a permanent space in the complex, to organize their meeting and activities to raise funds and protect tenants rights. The need for a central place to build a community environment in the complexes is essential to their organization survival. The need for a common place to exchange ideas and information through a bulletin board and social gathering has been one of the main request by the tenants association because it is vital to their existence.

Family Housing however, has refused to provide some permanent space. Ann Kosley said about this: "that's been a problem for a long time, we asked for money in our state budget but we didn't get any. I don't know how else we can do it.

UNIVERSITY OF MASSACHUSETTS
AMHERST • BOSTON • WORCESTER

UNIVERSITY HEALTH SERVICES
UNIVERSITY OF MASSACHUSETTS
AMHERST, MASSACHUSETTS 01003
(413) 549-2671

November 7, 1979

To Whom It May Concern:

I saw 3-month old Elena Suarez on 11/4/79. She had had an episode of cyanosis and other symptoms, including low grade fever and intestinal upset, after treatment of her family's apartment for cockroaches. Her nursing mother had had intestinal symptoms also.

I feel there are 2 explanations possible for her illness.

1. Reaction to treatment of the cockroaches
2. Intestinal flu, possibly transmitted by cockroaches.

I strongly suggest that every means be taken to rid the apartment house of roaches, which can transmit disease.

Babies under a year of age should be out of the environment for 24 hours after extermination, as should pregnant or lactating women.

Sincerely,

Laura Nathanson, M.D.

Laura Nathanson, M.D.
Staff Physician
University Health Services
University of Massachusetts
Amherst, Massachusetts

LN/vao

Health and Safety Inequities

Many tenants specially in Lincoln Apartments expressed a great concern about the cockroach problem there. But nobody has suffered as Jose Suarez and his family have. Despite many fumgation done in his Lincoln apartment, conckroaches never disappeared. One day he was told by Family Housing to spray boric acid to get rid of them. But his wife and daughter got sick from the insecticide exposure and the disease transmitted by the roaches. (see letters from Health Services). So they had to leave the apartment for some time after his daughter was sent to the hospital for treatment. He incurred many expenses due to this problem and Family Housing did not accept any responsibility for this problem besides the painting job they recently did to his apartment. Jose Suarez now is seeking legal advise to pursue the matter in the court. His dillema is; whether to pay the hospital and hotel expenses or to pay past due rent of his cockroach infested apartment that caused his daughter illness, because he can not afford to pay for both.

During the summer in North Village, insecticide spraying was being done without any warning to the tenants. This caused a pregnant woman to be sprayed on her face when she looked at the window. Her illness was minor, but it could have been worse, these chemicals are known to be health hazard to pregnant women.

Two years ago in North Village, Nagi Kawasaki a 2 year old Japanese girl died from drowning in a swamp that existed in the back of the complex. Despite warnings to Family Housing about the swamp and the need of a fence to prevent kids from going there, nothing was done before her death. It was a shocking experience to find out that our little neighbor girl had died 30 feet away from her apartment and probable due to Family Housing negligence. They were told before that a fence was needed. Arguing lack of funds, it was not until Nagi died that the fence was put there. They could have saved Nagi's life had they been on top of their job.

During our tour of the complexes to take pictures we found two banned trash-cans in North Village and one in Lincoln Apartment. Such trash-cans are hazardous to children due to a defect in the slope of the disposal side. The angle is too large that if a little kid hangs on to it, it will tilt over and possibly trap the kid under it. Television have warned that such trash-cans have been recalled and should be fixed by placing a extension in the lower roller to keep them for tilting. The fact that such thing still exist despite public warnings shows negligence in Family Housing and Health and Safety.

When we asked Family Housing about the deterioration of quality of life in North Village they said that it was just an opinion. They do not believe there is any problem in this issue.

Rent Increase Failures

The tenants always argued against rent increases that did not provide funds to improve services to restore to original conditions all the dwellings, and to moderize and remodel some of the apartment that are about to become a health hazard. No money was put into this problem. Rent only covers inflation and cost increase in overhead from Physical Plant. Such skyrocketing increases in labor and materials from Physical Plant are the result of an audit made by an external firm of accountants named Peat, Marwick and Mitchell. Such increases were decided by the Vice Chancellor for Student Affairs Dennis Madson and the Vice Channcellor George Beatty. Ann Kosley expressed that the fee increases does not allow for any new programs. "The fee increases only cover existing services at the same level, there is no increase in services. We have to face reality, it isn't a plesant picture but that is what it is."

The PBC Chair David Boothe said in his memo on November 29, "It is beyond the Council's capacity to evaluate each of the increase proposed to justify whether particular dollar amounts are justified or not. The recent inflationary and other increase in cost propos ed for involved inproviding Family Housing probably justify the propsed fee increases. At the same time such increase may be expected to renew pressure from tenants for better preventative and general maintenance."

GSS Finance Committee Chair Gary Credler-Smith said, "that they don't think the increase is justified as it stands now. We want to see some improvements in regard to control over Physical Plant. We aren't saying that Physical Plant is ripping Housing off, we're just saying that it might be a lot of shady work being done according to the tenants reports. Because all this kind of irregularities we think it should be looked at more closely before we recommend any increase. They have not justified the increase at this point."

SGA Al Wallace inquired about how much of they increase is really going to take care of the cost to restore the apartment to the orginal condition: "Roof leaking ventilation etc. if some of the repairs aren't done in X amount of years the original estimated cost is going to be doubled or triples dues to inflation alone. Where isthe money is going to come from: Rent increase: So as a committee we support some kind of rent increase due to inflation, but we can't give full support if they aren't doing anything to haold down cost in they future. Which is evident that they are not at this point."

Consolidated Family Housing

Rental Rate Schedule - Monthly

Apartment Type	#Units	Actual FY 79	Budgeted FY 80	Requested FY 81
North Village
1 Bedroom	120	$194.50	$210.00	$226.00
2 Bedroom	120	214.50	232.00	251.00
University
Studio	11	136.00	147.00	169.00
1 Bedroom (Eff.)	6	162.50	176.00	197.00
1 Bedroom	6	184.00	199.00	219.00
2 Bedroom (Eff.)	6	189.00	204.00	228.00
2 Bedroom	18	210.00	227.00	250.00
3 Bedroom	3	231.50	250.00	279.00
Lincoln
Studio	24	141.50	153.00	173.00
1 Bedroom	65	157.00	170.00	195.00
2 Bedroom	16	157.00	170.00	198.00

Problem Definition

The yearly rent increases proposed by Family Housing, are not only painfully draining the students purchasing power from other essential goods like food and clothing, but again, are failing to address the root of the problem: The high cost to repair faulty construction, improper cost management, wasteful and inefficient maintenace, insuficient security and health safety, and lack of community space. This yearly rent increases can not keep-up forever supporting the overwhelming load from these costly problems that have been compounded every year by irresponsibility to address the Therefore, it is safe to conclude that unless some action is taken the whole Family Housing system will eventually collapse due to its own weight and obviously the students will be the ones who will suffer the most in this tragedy.

Alternative Solutions

Not many solutions have been found to alleviate this problem, on one hand the Administration does not have extra funds to make any improvements. S.G.A is working on two alternatives.

S.G.A all Wallace mentioned that "the UMass Building authority has about $200,000 dollars in excess construction funds." They are going to make a legal case and ask for a request of this funds.

SGA "A possible refinance of the funds bonds of the debt service, and if this bonds are refinanced, this could generate more money to improve the whole system. It will make the payments much more into the future, but also will keep cost down in the present, and that's what is most important right now."

NVTA want to have more input in the selection of the Resident Managers and the supervision of maintenance and services. They feel that a community space and the remodeling of the apartments will enhace the community environment and will promote more occupancy. But they also expressed that if nothing is done to address their demands, they might go on a rent-strike again. RRM, FH and PBC have offered no solutions.

As a conclusion of this report, we can say that something has to be done to address the tenants demands, otherwise they will continue suffering the ineffectiveness of Physical Plant, Residential Resource Management, Family Housing, the Program and Budget counsel and the whole administration aparatus. It not fair to have the students foot the bill from such failures.

We hope we have enlightened a little more people of the problem, and as students we feel we are doing something to alleviate it. Now, it is up to the administration to do their part.

asian affairs

平等團結

EQUALITY UNITY

AND THE SOUL SHALL DANCE...

Emiko (Kitty Mei-Mei Chen) struggles with her husband, Oka.

The Pan Asian Repertory Theater Company

by Richard Mei, Jr.

The Pan Asian Repertory Theater was founded in 1977 and it is the only profession Asian theater company of its kind on the East Coast. Tisa Chang is the founder of Pan Asian and she is also its artistic director.

Arranged by Roberta Uno of the Student Activities Office via the Third World Theater Series, Tisa brought her company to UMass last week for a special one night-only performance of "And The Soul Shall Dance," which had previously been running at New York's LaMama Theater.

Tisa, who has been in theater for seventeen years as an actress, dancer and director of plays on and off-Broadway (as well as off-off Broadway) is a dynamic woman with ambitious optimistic ideas for Asians and other Third World peoples in the field of theater.

When she began her career in the theater in 1962, Tisa saw and experienced first hand, the difficulties and greater hardships that existed for Asians working in the theater, such as closed doors and limited opportunities. In addition, as an Asian, she had to work three times harder than other White performers to break the barriers in order to get ahead. In 1973, Tisa decided that Asians should initiate their own productions, and to write, direct, act and produce their own works, while providing opportunities for Asian artists who have been until then, severely restrained with regards to their artist talents. From the 1930's to the 1960's, Asians have been type casted into racist and stereotyped roles. (Even these were few and hard to come by). Beginning with the Chinese Theater Group and then creating Pan Asian Rep, Tisa has been creative in producing plays by traditional Chinese and rising Asian-American writers as well as classic Shakespeare, featuring the talents of all Asian casts.

Productions since 1973 include: "Return of the Phoenix" (adapted from the Peking Opera); "Ghost and Goddesses" (based on a short tale by Pu Sung-ling); "A Mid Summer's Night Dream" (a bi-lingual version set in 1000 B.C. China); "Hotel Paradiso" by Feydeau; the Yuan dynasty classic "Orphan of Chao;" a revival of "The Legend of Wu Chang;" "Thunderstorm" by China's foremost writer of the 1930's, Tsao Yu; "The Dowager" (Last Empress of China) by Ernest Abuba; and "The Servant of Two Masters."

In attempting to increase opportunities for Asian-Americans and to expand their range as fully as possible in the mainstream of American theater, Tisa is also offering viable alternatives to the general theater-going public while hopefully raising the consciousness of the existing mentality. Dispelling beliefs and images that people have of Asians is also part of her work. For instance, in the revival of "The Legend of Wu Chang," Tisa sorted out the original play and eliminated the Chinese character stereotypes that she felt are just no longer believable. Pan Asian also distinguishes itself by its use of music and movement of Asian origins in order to explore new theatrical forms.

The works have not gone by unnoticed, either. Tisa and Pan Asian have received attention from Lincoln Center, CBS-TV as well as positive reviews from the New York Times and the New York Post.

Today, the world is more receptive to Third World voices and something like the UMass Third World Theater Series is a big plus in establishing artists with different backgrounds and ideas. Talented Asian playwrights, actors, designers and technicians are out there, they just need the support of groups such as Pan Asian Rep for the exposure that they sorely need, and Pan Asian in turn, needs the support of the Asian communities. Like anything else, the efforts of Tisa and other Asians who are establishing themselves in the arts, requires dedication. Theater is not an easy occupation for anyone. But, according to Tisa, "Asians have alway worked harder in everything that they do." Theater and television, she feels, are the perfect mediums to reach many people, which can say so much in an eloquent sense. She is optimistic for the opportunities for Asian artists and her company in the 1980's, which is something that we can all look forward to.

Play Review

by Diane Soo-hoo

On the night of Friday, November 30, an almost full capacity audience in Bowker Auditorium shared in the poignant experiences of two Japanese immigrant families living in the 'deserts' of California. Wakako Yamauchi's 'And The Soul Shall Dance', written and directed by Asian Americans, also included an all Asian American cast making this the first Asian American production this semester at U. Mass. The Pan Asian Repertory Theater, is a professional Asian American Acting Company coming out of New York's Greenwich Village.

The play, while depicting the lives of two Japanese immigrant farming families living in California in 1935, focused on the hardships and trials these two families experienced at a time when farming was their substance, and a good crop meant food and clothing for the next year. As Hanna, an Issei (first generation) Japanese mother tells her neighbor's newly-arrived immigrant daughter, Kiyoko, 'Endure, you must endure.' They have come to America to find a better life and instead are faced with new difficulties always with the dream of returning to Japan.

'And The Soul Shall Dance' is a powerful and moving play portraying much emotion as the two families, in their own ways, adapt to the difficulties of living in a new country. Their neighbor's wife, Emiko, played by Kitty Mei-Mei Chen, gave a dynamic performance of a woman, alone in her struggles to adapt to life in America. The entire cast made up of various Asian ethnic groups, gave a very convincing portrayal of Japanese immigrant life, holding the audiences spell bound attention through the entire performance. Following the play was a reception for the cast sponsored by the Student Activities Office.

A very special thanks to the Pan Asian Repertory Theater for coming to U. Mass. and making their performance a part of the University's Third World Theater Series.

Start your Mondays with Asian Affairs...

news and events concerning the Asian and Asian-American communities.

CAN IT BE DONE?

by Barron Roland

There was a point and time, during this semester, when I felt there was a definite communication gap between the black females and black males, on this campus. I still feel this is the case, however the lack of communication between each and every black individual seems to be more prominent than just gender.

We as a people are strong. Through the hundreds of years of pressure, we all know of, we have fought and stuck together, to gain our rights, respect, and freedom.

We have come a long way, but now it is time to reevaluate our situation.

We have had leaders in our time that had visions of means to improve our condition. They made it known to the public what they wanted and what they felt was right. All we had to do was support these people and progress was made.

At the W.E.B.DuBois dedication, held in Tarringham, Massachusetts, Julian Bond, Senator of Georgia, said, "We are all looking for one leader. It will take more than that, now. We have to work together, move together, and demand our respect together."

Now, I ask, "How do we do this ?" Are we not in college ? Some of us are the first in the family to make such an accomplishment. Don't you feel this is an accomplishment ? Don't take it for granted.

In this enviroment, there exists many factors here that can cause pressures that many of us are unfamiliar with.

Racism in the classrooms, dorms, and even off campus.

If we stand alone as individuals, we can become weak and lose the battle. This doesn't have to be the case. With a little more effort on everyone's part, this experience at UMass can go alot smoother. There are many opportunities here to learn about people, this society, and ourselves.

We must be free among ourselves. We must talk to each other. Be sincere. Ask about our courses. Talk about what we learned in some of our classes. See how it applies to our everyday life.

It's not difficult to communicate. It just takes effort. Some feel if they are among their "hangin' buddies" that that's no time to talk about school. Why not ? it's the perfect time. Why waste it.

I understand everyone deals with their problems differently. I don't expect everyone to run out and spill their guts out to every black individual they see, either. Just acknowledge each other, in passing, is sometimes enough.

"Socializing" every night, like some of us, may result in other problems which one may never find the solution to. And if one does, it may be too late.

In conclusion, stay aware of our situation. Try a little harder in avoiding putting on an image. No one person has all their stuff together. Talk a little, not about the latest rhymes but the latest understanding(news). It can be done. PEACE

PHOTO OF THE WEEK

The spotlight is on brother Gary"Giz" Roderick Williams for Photo-of-the-Week. Giz is one of few blacks presently enrolled in the engineering program at UMass. He is also a coordinator of the Malcolm X Center. The fight has just begun brother; keep pushing.

Photo by Barron Roland

THE ANSWER...

by Barron Roland

This excerpt from my journal, which is kept for Miki Wynder's Black Rhetoric 152.

JOURNAL SEPTEMBER 9, 1979

Yesterday, there was a dorm bar-b-que for the uppper floors of my dorm. I am not aware of how many Third World students that live on the upper floors or the whole dorm, for that matter; however I am the only non-white student on my floor, therefore I have a white roommate. Hopefully, you can see my situation.

I was in one of the rooms of the students on my floor; when two o'clock in the afternoon came he said, "Hey, Barron where's the bar-b-que?" I told him where it was but I also told him, "I forgot all about that. I wasn't planning on going." If I had remembered I would have made myself very scarceduring that time, to avoid peer pressure.

So, I went to the picnic, hoping and even praying that there would be someone of color, other than myself, at this event. Unfortunately, I was the only one.

I started playing frisbee, then a little softball and ultimately, touch football.

I felt as though a thousand eyes were on me. I had a good reason to, because everyone at this event was looking at me at one time or another. I received all kinds of attention and everytime I got at bat there was actually silence, with everyone looking to see what I was about to do.

I felt like a minority. The fact is, I am, but I would like to know how long will it be before a person can be observed as a man, a person, an individual, a human being? "A question, man, particularly the Black man, has asked for centuries. The answer..."

America Held Hostage

CONT. FROM PAGE 1

about it. The issue was a violent insult to the American public. They were treated as if they were stupid enough to accept the fear that Carter attempted to engender in then over Cuba.

They also timed the disclosure to coincide with the opening of the sixth Conference of Non-Aligned Nations in Havana, Cuba on September 4.

The Carter response was a pathetic spectacle before the world. He demanded assurances from the Soviet Union that no Soviet unit in Cuba be "used as a combat force to threaten the security of the United States or any other nation in this hemisphere." He then set up a full time Caribean Joint Task force Headquartered at Key West, Florida, and held a mock invasion of Cuba at Guantanamo Bay. Sound familiar:

A false crisis was percipitated for political reasons that endangered the entire world, and now Iran.

It would appear from the media that as soon as the Shah entered America for questionable medical needs, the Embassy was taken over. Americans were held hostage.

The Embassy takeover was not a fanatical terrovist disreguard for international law. It was the direct result of the State Department and Carter's flagrant disregard for Iranian concerns over the Shah.

A State Department messenger boy named Laingen, met with Bazargan (then Prime Minister) and Dr. Yazdi, in an effort to subvert the power of the "radical forces" drawing their backing from Ayatollah Khomeini. He was accompanied by Henry Precht, the State Department's Officer for Iran and the meetings were held twice on October 21 and 22 (N.Y. Times 11-18-79). Each time the Iranians protested the American decision to allow the Shah entry into the United States. Needless to say the American ignored them. The Administration was warned months earlier by the C.I.A. and the American Embassy in Iran that the Shah's entry reinforced the doors with additional steel and added more marine guards.

Again the protests were made to the United States by the Iranian Government on October 26, 30, 31 and November 1. The C.I.A. was also aware of an alleged Khomeini speech that called for a November 4th expansion of attacks against the U.S., to force them to return the Shah. The Government did nothing to evacuate the embassy or negotiate a compromise on the Shah. November 4th the embassy fell to the Iranian people.

The rationale that the Iranians were given for the Shah's entry, for a supposed illness, was also a questionable matter that the Iranians had stated October 21st, as unacceptable. The diagnostic and medical treatment could have easily been done without his entry into the United States. Boston Globe reporter Richard Knox reported on the Front page (November 24) that the treatment could have been gotten elsewhere. The clinical chief at the National Cancer Institute said that Mexico could have easily treated him and possesed the equipment. So also does Princess Margaret Hospital in Toronto Canada.

Harvard-Affiliated Sidney Faber Cancer Institute in Boston also stated the doubtfulness of the need of the Shah to come to America. They stated that Mexico could have easily provided the treatment and that the New York hospital-Cornell University Medical Center was clearly not the best known center for the treatment of the Diffuse histioeytic lymphoma that the Shah has. So why here?

RAPE

statistics come from the sexual violence survey sponsored by the Everywomens Center Spring, 1979. Donna Meeks, rape counselor said her feeling is that rapes are more common, and only one in 20 are reported.

The problems of reporting rape are due to the prevailing social attitudes and biases, ignorance and myths about rape. An even deeper problem of reporting is the sexual molestation of young girls by men.

This is a new field in terms of research, but is more common than child battering. The children's division of the American Human Association produced a study done in Brooklyn and the Bronx, New York City, 1969. It revealed that 10 girls are molested for every boy, 97 percent of the offenders are male, and 75 percent of the offenders are known to the child, someone who the child knew and trusted.

In a book titled "Conspiracy of Silence" by Sandra Butler, 1979, a questionair by psycologist Judson T. Landis to 1,800 college students showed that one third of the women had been sexually abused. Psycologist say rape damages the sense of trust in the woman, and that the support group is very important. The victim goes through something called a rape trama syndrome, a reaction very parallel to the reaction of the death of someone very close. When rape occurs, the rapist does not see the person, the character or the individual, the victim is simply the object.

In conclusion, since women are the principle victim of rape and molestation, and since the crime is rarely reported and even lessly is a conviction ever reached, and since the social and legal pressure is to blame the woman, the victim, it is important for the women to attend the rape support group meeting this Tuesday evening, 7:30, Everywomens Center, as advertised on P. 8, Nummo News.

Three Black Women on B·M·C·P·

On Tuesday, December 4, 1979, Sheila Johnson, Gina Stevens and Ada Griffin will be quest speakers on Kahlil's radio program, WMUA Black Mass Communication Project (BMCP) 91.6 F.M. at 10:30 pm.

This will be a discussion, interview and call in concerning the atlercation that occured at Russell's liquor store September 29, 1979, Amherst.

ASIAN ART EXHIBIT

Northampton, Ma - Service Organizations of Smith College (SOS) will sponsor an exhibition and sale of original Oriental art Friday, December 7, frin 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. in Davis ballroom at the college.

The sale, organized by Marson Ltd. of Baltimore, will offer some 500 pieces from Japan, China, India, Tibet, Nepal, and Thailand, the oldest of which date back to the 18th and 19th century.

On display will be Chinese woodcuts, Indian miniature paintings, and manuscripts and master works by such artists as Hiroshige, Kuniyoshi, and Kunisada.

The modern pieces consist of a large group of original woodcuts, etching, lithographs, serigraphs, and mezzotints created by such artists as Saito, Azechi, Mori, Katsuda, and Maki.

The exhibition and sale will be open to the public.

AUDITIONS FOR PURLIE

The Amherst Masquers host auditions for Purlie, a musical comedy based on the play Purlie Victorious by Ossie Davis. There are roles for Black men, White men, and Black women. Auditions will be held on December 3, 4, and 5th at Kirby Theater, Amherst College, at 6:00 p.m. Auditions will be held in three parts : singing, dancing, and acting, so please come as close to six as possible. Please bring an audition song; accompanist will be provided. Performance dates are January 25, 26, 27 and February 1, 2, and 3rd in Kirby Theater. Directed by Prof. Walter Boughton. personal scripts available at Kirby Theater.

RAPE SUPPORT GROUP

There will be a support group for rape victims beginning on Tuesday evening, December 4th at Every Women's Center. The group will meet 7:30 p.m and 9 p.m. for ten weeks. For further information contact Myra Hindus at 545-0883 or Lin Morris at 256-0569.

A support group for women who have been victims of domestic violence will begin in January at Every Woman's Center. For further information contact Myra Hindus at 545-0883

ALPHA PHI ALPHA

All Alpha brothers interested in Alpha Phi Alpha, the first Black fraternity at UMass, will be holding an interest meeting on Sunday December 9, 1979 in New Africa House at 7;00 p.m. Contact Ken Maham or Darwin Davis if you have any questions. All brothers are welcome. For more information call Ken Maham at 546-6986 or Darwin Davis at 546-6929. .

Globe Santa

The UMass Globe Santa Fund Raiser will hold its first meeting Tuesday, 7:00 pm. room 803. Globe Santa is sponsored by the Boston Globe and the benefitlaries are the lower income families of the Greater Boston area in the form of Christmas presents.

Janet Brown at Smith

Northampton, MA - Janet Brown of the Environmental Defense Fund, Washington, D.C., will speak about "Political Power: Women in Science and Technology" Monday (November 26) at 7:30 p.m. in Seelye 10 at Smith College.

Ms. Brown, who until recently was program head of the office of opportunities in science of the American Association for the Advancement of Science, was educated at Smith, Yale University, and the American University.

She also serves as a commissioner and member of the executive committee of the Scientific Manpower Commissioner and member of the executive committee of the Scientific Commission, Washington D.C., a member of the Secretary's Advisory Committee of the Rights and Responsibilities of Women of the Federal Department of Health, Education and Welfare, and a consultant for the directorate for science education of the National Science Foundation.

The lecture, one in a series on women in science, will be open free to the public.

ALBUMS! ALBUMS! ALBUMS!

NUMMO NEWS RECORD RAFFLE!

TWENTY-FIVE ALBUMS OF YOUR CHOICE!

1 ST PRIZE 15 ALBUMS
2 ND PRIZE 7 ALBUMS
3 RD PRIZE 3 ALBUMS

double albums count as 2 albums

drawing: friday 7 december 1979

drawing by an independent drawing committee

TICKETS WILL BE SOLD IN UNION RECORDS UNLIMITED
CAMPUS CENTER CONCOURSE NEW AFRICA HOUSE
AND BY ROVING TICKET SELLERS
TICKETS $1·00

DON·T MISS YOUR CHANCE TO WIN!

NUMMO NEWS IN CONJUNCTION WITH UNION RECORD UNLIMITED

Smith Fast for Cambodia

Northampton, Ma.-Nearly 2,000 Smith College students have up to participate in a fast December 4 to raise money to send food to the starving people of Cambodia.

Some 84 percent of board-paying Smith students, including 100 percent of four of the college's dormitories, will give up dinner that day so that Smith can send the money it would otherwise pay for the raw food for the meal to the American Friends Service Committee-OXFAM American Cambodia Relief Fund.

The fast has been organized by two Smith seniors, Margaret Dyer of Shaker Heights, Ohio and Lisa Romasco of Guilford, Connecticut, co-chairs of special fundraising for Service Organizations of Smith (SOS), with the cooperation of Smith's food services depart-ment.

The students also have arranged several special exhibitions and programs related to the fast. Displays offering illustrations and information about the Cambodian situation have been placed in a number of central locations on the campus, and a film, "3900 Million and One," depicting cultural conflicts in the family lives of Indian villagers caused by economic development, will be shown during the dinner hour on Tuesday.

James Matlack, a member of the American Friends Service Committee who recently returned from Cambodia, will discuss the "Crisis in Cambodia," Monday, December 3, at 4 p.m. in a public lecture in McConnell Hall auditorium of the Clark Science Center.

SOS representatives will be present at tables in various campus locations on Tuesday to accept donations from members of the Smith community and others who wish to add to the $2,000 that the fast is expected to generate for the Cambodia relief fund.

CONT. FROM PAGE 1

police officers are going to arrest us not bothering to find out what the problem is. Clearly, these people said this on the stand. This is testimony, public record.

N.N.

What kinds of conclusion have you come up with about America of its legal system as a result of this experience.

Sheila

America is rotten to the core.

Christian Workshop

A Christian worship service, sponsored by the Black Christian Crusade, composed of students from the Five College area, will be held at three p.m. on Sunday, December 9,1979 at Wesley Methodist Church on North Pleasant Street in Amherst. All are invited to attend. three p.m. on Sunday, the GRADUATE STUDENT SENATE announces the creation of the Guarantee Loan Fund Service. The Loan Fund has been started to enable student groups to borrow funds to be used as initial capital for "money making" projects. Application forms may be picked up at the Graduate Student Senate office, 919 Campus Center. Approval of applications will be based on the project's financial feasibility and its impact upon the graduate student body.

Nummo is editorially independent of the Massachusetts Daily Collegian. It exists due to the prior struggles of Black students to obtain coverage of Third World News.

Let ME help ease your pain of Christmas Shopping...

Seasons Greetings

An Alternative to Christmas

About 13 years ago, Dr. Ron Karenga borrowed from African traditions, mixed them with the black experience in America and created Kwanza, a seven-day holiday which begins Dec. 26 and ends on New Year's Day.

Kwanza, an African first fruit celebration, is a symbolic event using black, red and green to represent black people, their continuing struggle and green for land and hope. Each of the seven days celebrates the black value system in America.

The seven principles are:

Unity—to strive for and maintain unity in the family, community, nation and race.

Self-determination—creating and speaking for oneself rather than to allow others to speak for you.

Collective work and responsibility—building and maintaining a community to solve each other's problems collectively.

Cooperative Economics—building and maintaining black stores and other businesses to profit from them collectively.

Purpose—building and developing black community to restore black people to their traditional greatness.

Creativity—to do as much as one can to leave the community more beautiful and beneficial than when one inherited it.

Faith—to believe in the black community, parents, teachers , leaders and the righteousness and victory of the black struggle.

Gifts are given on the seventh day, mostly to children, representing parents' satisfaction that their children have achieved and grown in a manner that gives honor to the family. Creativity and moderate spending are guidelines in the selection of gifts. Gifts should be expressions of giving oneself and commitment to education as a liberating force.

Plans are underway in the UMass Office of Third World Affairs for a Kwanza celebration here.

Editor's note: The information in this article was taken from the December issue of Essence magazine.

Area stores are gearing up for Christmas.
Staff Photo by Jim Mahoney

Hampshire Business Machines, Inc.
Holiday Super Special
Air Clean & Oil all portable typewriters including ribbon
$13.50
(Adjustment slightly higher)
only with this coupon
5 Pray St., Amherst
Tel. (413) 549-6177

Provincetown Portrait Artists
at the Hampshire Mall in Cafe Square
For the Christmas gift, the forever gift, that only you can give—come see us. Full color pastels from $20.00 make your appointment early!

Fred J Houck Jeweler
First Choice For Christmas.
For that very special person on the top of your list - choose the finest of writing instruments. In gold filled, sterling silver or solid 14 karat gold.
From $16.00
CROSS®
SINCE 1846
AGS
During X-mas hours Mon - Fri 9 am - 8 pm Sat. 9-5:30 p.m.
65 North Pleasant St. Amherst, Mass. 253-7615

The Season's Best
maxell® UD XL I 3/- UD XL II
90-MINUTE BLANK CASSETTES
Now Only $3.49 each
Limit 12 Per Customer
MANUFACTURER'S LIST PRICE $7.25 special bonus!
maxell presents... ROCK, JAZZ & CLASSICAL
Buy 3 UD-XL 90 Cassettes and get one of these Limited Edition Stereo Albums FREE!
record village
Hampshire Mall (Hadley) Hours M-S 10 A.M.-10 P.M. Sundays 12-5

Knowles Flowers
172 N. Pleasant, 253-3805
Holiday Plants & Flowers
Mistletoe & Holly
FTD Service for your out of town gifts
Daily Local Deliveries
OPEN Mon.-Sat. 8:30-5 p.m.

Inquiring Photographer

by Ken GrandPre

Q. How do you plan to spend your holiday vacation ?

MIKE WARE
Sophomore—CASIAC major

At my house we celebrate the Swedish Christmas. This entails opening all our presents on Christmas Ever. After Christmas I will be going on a retreat for the Campus Crusade for Christ in Philadelphia. After this I will be singing and playing guitar in a friend's wedding. For the remainder of intercession I plan to work delivering auto body parts.

AL OICKLE
News Editorial Advisor

I have seven kids and look forward to having them home with me and my wife in celebration of Christmas. I also hope to be working with a team of Collegian journalists on a special intercession project. I will also be taking an early retirement from the Greenfield Recorder during the year. I look forward to the excitement of choosing a new career.

JEFF BIANCHI
Sophomore—Economics major

I will be spending Christmas at home with my family. I will be going to Times Square for New Year's Eve, as I do every year. After this I am going to Key West Florida with a friend where will be waiting on tables. I plan to also get drunk quite a bit, and finish an incomplete from last year.

MARK LUSSIER
Junior—Fisheries Bio. major

I will be staying in the area to work full time at Eastern Mountain Sports. For a couple of days over intercession, my brother and I are going to the White Mountains to do some ice climbing. If there isn't enough ice, we will probably go skiing instead.

BEAUTIFUL HANDMADE WOOL OR ACRYLIC AFAFHANS HEIRLOOM QUALITY
Perfect for wedding, house-warming, birthday, Christmas or retiring gift.
Why not one for yourself, you certainly are worth it!
Prices start at $55.00 to $225.00 limited number
Fran Kulas 584-4755

HOWARD WASHBURN
Campus Center Maintenance

I am spending Christmas with my family. I look forward to playing Santa Claus for my cousin's kids. The rest of intercession I will be working, doing jobs that we are unable to do while classes are in session.

SUSIE LAWLOR
Senior—Nursing major

I will spend Christmas at home in Dorchester with my family. On New Year's Eve I will be at Eastover, Mass. For the remainder of intercession I will be waitressing in Dorchester, and studying for the State Nursing Boards.

"Don't you know everyone goes to Bell's? Come and see why our pizza sells!"
We now serve large size pizzas!
★ Pizza
★ Subs
★ Spaghetti
★ Salads
11 AM-1 PM
65 University Drive
549-1311

Gifts

For the Sports Fan ....

To make this holiday season a merry one for that athletic supporter in your life there exists a multitude of sports memorabilia and paraphanalia to be given as gifts.

You can choose virtually anything from an official Jose Cruz button (on sale for 99 cents), the autobiography of Bob Bailey, and just about anything you can think of with an Oakland A's logo except Charlie O. (the mule, not Finley).

A book might be a good idea to place under the tree of the literate sports fan. New and interesting are Halas by Halas, ($12.95) the autobiography of the crusty old genius of the Chicago Bears. Other suggestions are The Picture History of the Boston Red Sox ($20.00), Inner Tennis ($8.95), a tome for the elite among you, and The Olympic Winter Games at Lake Placid-1980 ($9.95) a preview of the upcoming extravaganza put out by the United States Olympic Committee.

And for that sports fan pinching pennies like Sullivan and LeRoux, a paperback is in order. A Date In Boston Red Sox History, listing everything from the date that Lu Clinton hit for the cycle to Johnny Pesky's birthday sells at a mere $8.95. If the person on your gift list enjoys starting arguments in bars, there is The Guinness Book of Sports Records at $2.25.

Then there is of course, the always popular and venerable, the 2000 page Baseball Encyclopedia at $25.00. Hernia belt is extra.

All the way back in September every magazine from Sports, Sports Illustrated, Sporting News, Inside Sports, even wrestling magazines, began inserting those annoying little cards in between pages imploring you to give a subscription to their fine publication as a holiday gift.

For those of you who want to look like your favorite athlete (or want someone else to look like your favorite athlete), be it Jim Rice, Eddie Hare, or Alfredo Griffin, a visit to the Sport Shack at the Hampshire Mall might be in order. They carry just about everything from team pennants ($1.50), Superstripe caps ($6.99), team jerseys for most pro football, baseball, and major college squads, Red Sox hair dryers, yearbooks, and even Mets shampoo.

Fenton's sporting goods store on Main St. might be a good place to shop for the more serious and adventurous athlete. Think of the job when, on Christmas morn, the person on your gift giving list has his or her skates harpened or racquet restrung. Fenton's is an especially good place to shop for a hockey player. (A Koho makes a perfect gift).

There's always the option of giving tickets to games, the quick way out of a tight gift giving situation. Treat someone to the pleasure of a Bruins contest, and put them in the back row of the Stadium where they can see one net, half the ice and a few players even. If your not up to Boston, take in a Whalers game at Springfield. Both ticket prices start in the $5-$6 price range.

A ticket to see the new and exciting Celtics might be interesting and less expensive. Besides, you get to see Don Chaney! Your best bet in town might be a seasons ticket to see the Minutemen play basketball in the luxurious Curry Hicks Cage. The price? Around $30 or so.

And yes, Virginia, there is a Santa Claus (until spring when he turns into Don Zimmer).

Calvin Ice Cream

Home of the 35c Ice Cream Cone
Milkshakes Sundaes
Half-Gallons
Hours: Mon-Wed 12-5 Thurs-Sat 12-10

Calvin Ice Cream Shop
233 N. Pleasant St.
Carriage Shops
549-6938

©1979 JCPenney Co., Inc

The JCPenney Classic
...on Florida's Suncoast

Watch the pros from the LPGA and PGA Tour on CBS, Dec. 8th and 9th.

This is JCPenney

.... and the Woman Reader

By LISA CAPONE
Collegian Staff

As the Holidays approach, many people find themselves in a quandry about those remaining gifts that need to be bought. What to do about "the man who has everything?" Or, better yet, in this time of changing values, what to do with the feminist who is apathetic about perfume, pearls, cosmetics, and other typically "feminine" gifts?

This year, it seems, the gift industry has not forgotten the feminists on your shopping list. Here are several attractive options, conveniently all available in the University store.

Since everyone will have more time for leisure reading during intersession, why not indulge your female friends in a book or two? The University Store carries many new titles, dealing with everything from women's history to how to succeed in the corporate world. Some interesting ones are: Effectiveness Training for Women, by Linda Adams, Wyden Books, $10.95; Dreamers and Dealers: An Intimate Appraisal of the Woman's Movement by Leah Fritz, Beacon Press, $12.95; Female Sexual Slavery by kathleen Barry, PRENTICE Hall, $10.95; Back to Business: A Woman's Guide to Re-entering the Job Market by Lucia Mouat, Sovereign Books, $7.95; On Lies, Secrets, and Silence; Selected Prose 1966-1978 by Adrienne Rich, Norton & Company, $13.95; Beyond Sugar and Spice: How Women Grow, Learn, and Thrive by Caryl Rivers, Rosalind Barnett, and Grace Baruch, GP. Putnam and Sons, $10.95; Wage Earning Women: Industrial Work and Family Life in the United States, 1900-1930 by Leslie Woodcock Tentler, Oxford University Press, $14.95; Lying In: A History of Childbirth in America by Richard W. Wertz and Dorothy C. Wertz, Schocken Books, $4.95.

If the women on your list only have time for occasional reading, a magazine subscription may be the answer. Twelve issues of "MS Magazine," "Women's Sports," or "Working Women" sell for $10, $12.50, and $12, respectively.

If all else fails, a traditional gift of home-made breads or candies is inexpensive, and still appreciated by everyone.

adventura travel
549-1256
Airline Tickets
Amherst
Carriage Shops

SAVE-ON-TIRES
ROUTE 9 HADLEY, MA.
2 MILES FROM NORTHAMPTON OR AMHERST

MICHELIN - GOODYEAR - LEE - SEIBERLING - B.F. GOODRICH - ARMSTRONG - CONTINENTAL - PLUS OTHER MAJOR BRANDS. SUPERSEDES ALL OTHER ADS.

Cash & Carry — TIRE SALE — Cash & Carry
COMPARE OUR PRICES BEFORE YOU PURCHASE ELSEWHERE

Wholesale to the Public
We can arrange to have your tires mounted:

CONSUMER NOTE

When comparing prices, make sure you also compare quality grades. Effective April 1979 the N.H.T.S.A. graded regular bias-ply tires (standard = 100) as follows:

Name;	Grading*
B.F. Goodrich (H.T.)	110
Firestone (DLC)	80
Zenith (PE 78)	80
Woolco (All American)	70
Sears (Guardsman)	60
K-Mart (KM-50)	50

*the higher the No. the longer the tire will last

BIAS PLY SNOWS — QUALITY GRADINGS 80 OR HIGHER

SIZE	TYPE	PRICE
600X12	Alliance Bk	25.95
A78x13	Goodyear Bk	21.95
B78x13	Zenith Bk	25.95
C78x14	B.F.G. Bk	28.95
E78x14	Zenith Bk	28.95
F78x14	Zenith Bk	29.95
F78X14	Pe BFG Bk	34.95
G78x15	BFG Bk.	36.95
G78x14	Zenith Bk	31.95
H78x14	Zenith Bk	32.95
560x15	Zenith Bk	23.95
H78x15	BFG Bk.	38.95
G78x15	Zenith Bk	31.95
H78x15	Zenith Bk	32.95
L78x15	BFG Belt w/s	46.95

STEEL BELTED RADIAL SNOWS

SIZE	TYPE	PRICE
185/75X13	Global All Sea. Wht	38.00
175/80X13	BFGXTP wt	46.00
195/75X14	globalallsea	43.00
195/75X14	BFG XTPwt	53.00
205/75X14	Zenith wt	55.00
205/75X14	BFGXTP wt	49.00
215/75X14	BFGXTP wt	56.00
225/75X14	BFGXTP wt	59.00
215/75X15	Glob. All Sea. Wht.	49.00
215/75x15	Zenith wht.	54.00
225/75X15	Zenith wht	56.00
235/75X15	Zenith wht	61.00
155X15	Phoenix Bk.	32.95
P165/75x13	Tiempo Bk.	39.00
CR78X15 (175X15)	Goodyr. RayBeltBk.	41.50

ALL PRICES PLUS F.E.T. TAX & SALES TAX.

CASH AND CARRY VISA OR MASTER CHARGE

OPEN MON. FRI. 9:30 A.M. TO 5:30 P.M. SAT. 9:30 A.M. TO 3 P.M.

586-2544

The Chanuka Celebration

The evening of December 14 marks the onset of Chanukah, the eight-day Jewish holiday commemorating the successful rebellion of the Jews against Antiochus, the tyrannical Greek ruler of Judea, around 186 B.C.E.

The Jews, led by a group known as the Maccabees, waged guerilla warfare to regain their independence from Antiochus, who had prohibited them from practicing their religion and from determining their own fate. They also fought against foreign influence that had spread among their countrymen.

When the temple had been liberated and rededicated, there remained only enough pure oil to last one day. Tradition has it that miraculously the fire burned for eight days until fresh supplies of oil could be provided.

Chanukah is thus also known as the "Festival of Lights", symbolizing freedom and liberation from oppression.

Jews the world over will celebrate the holiday by lighting a "Menorah", an eight arm candlestick that symbolizes the eight days the oiled burned. Traditional foods such as potato pancakes, called "latkes" are eaten, Chanukah games are played and traditional songs are sung. Gifts may also be exchanged.

The UMass Hillel, in the Student Union, will be selling menorahs, candles and dreidels, (Chanukah tops) as well as the first and second Jewish Catalogue books as part of a do-it-yourself Chanukah. The Hillel also has pamphlets listing various books to give as gifts.

pandas
Sweaters
Hats Shawls Scarves
KITES
for flying and decorating
Weavings
Pottery
Rugs
new location
100 Main St.
Northampton 584-3958

MUSICAL INSTRUMENTS
NEW & USED
DOWNTOWN SOUNDS
REPAIRS—INSTRUCTION
21 PLEASANT ST. NORTHAMPTON
586-0998

"The Ultimate in Hair Design"
Ye Curling Iron
239 Triangle St., Amherst
549-4412
3 Hair Cutting Competion Winners on Our Staff!

CAMPUS TRAVEL CENTER
CENTER UNIV OF MASS
AMHERST, MASS 01003 413-545-0500

Book your reservations
NOW for INTERSESSION and SPRING BREAK
at:
CAMPUS TRAVEL CENTER

John & Rudy's
AG Store
Rt. 116 Sunderland 665-2010
"at the center of town"

All types of Beers, Wines, & Champagnes
Full line of Fresh Fish, Lobsters, Steaming Clams, Oysters and Custom Cut Meats
We Accept Food Stamps

OPEN 8 A.M. 6 P.M. DAILY
Til 8 P.M. Fri. 8 A.M. 11 A.M. Su

A Christmas Checklist

Plan ahead now so you won't forget anyone or anything!

- ☐ Special cards for special people
- ☐ Boxed cards
- ☐ Moneyholders
- ☐ Gift Wrap
- ☐ Ribbon & Yarn
- ☐ Gift Tags
- ☐ Gift Decorations
- ☐ Parcel Post Wrap
- ☐ Partyware
- ☐ Invitations
- ☐ Stocking Stuffers
- ☐ Candles
- ☐ Thank You Notes

American Greetings
Creative excellence is an American tradition.
your Christmas store campus center/univ. of mass.
the UNIVERSITY STORE

30-60% OFF
WOW! EVERYTHING IN STORE
All our Cheenos, Jeans, Cords, Shirts, & Sweaters!
Pocket the Difference!
You must Save 30% —
You can Save up to 60%
WHILE SUPPLY LASTS — HURRY!
THE PLACE FOR Levi's
WEARHOUSE
AMHERST AND HADLEY STORES ONLY!

BUTLERS

HOLIDAY SPECIAL!

20% off GROUP OF DRESS SHOES

Limited time only

Shown. 17.60 Reg. $21.99

All merchandise guaranteed

HOLYOKE MALL

DIAMONDS & GOLD

BUY NOW AT OLD PRICES

SAVE 15% to 50%

Even though diamond and gold prices have increased 15% to 50% in recent months, The Diamond People have not yet increased prices on 14K gold and diamond jewelry. While existing stocks last, we bring you diamonds and real 14K gold jewelry at old prices.

JOIN THE DIAMOND & GOLD RUSH FOR SENSATIONAL VALUES

KAY JEWELERS®
THE DIAMOND PEOPLE

10% Kay Jewelers 10% Discount for all Faculty & Students

The Tannery Saddle Shp Ltd.

59 Elm St. So. Deerfield
(Behind Hotel Warren)
665-3220
Mon.Fri. 9-8 Sat. 9-5
Closed Sundays
Visa Mastercharge
English Riding Apparel

Western Boots
Shirts
Hats
Leather Belts
Vests
Hats
Silver Jewelry

Books on Horses and Riding

MCAT

LSAT • MCAT • GRE
GRE PSYCH • GRE BIO
GMAT • DAT • OCAT • PCAT
VAT MAT SAT TOEFL
NAT'L MED BDS
ECFMG • FLEX • VQE
NDB • NPB I • NLE

Stanley H KAPLAN
EDUCATIONAL CENTER
Test Preparation Specialists Since 1938
For information, Please Call:
253-5108

STUDENT

University of Massachusetts
Amherst, Massachusetts 01003

STUDENT SPECIALS
with
University of Massachusetts I.D.

CARLSON'S CLOTHING INC.
68 Main Street Phone 413-584-3175
Northampton, Mass. 01060

1 X 2

Who said that a small ad doesn't work? You're reading this one aren't you?

The Shop Shop says
Happy Holidays
Fine Yarns
Needlecraft Supplies
HANDMADE GIFT ITEMS

The Carriage Shops 549-6106

Lizottes Tobacco
76 Main St.
Northampton, MA
Tel. 584-2812

Complete Line of Imported Cigarettes!
Tobacco Products
Magazines
Confections

20% off on all Pipes
Pipe Stands
& Humidores in stock!

ESKIL'S CLOG SHOP

Put Clogs on your Christmas List!

7 Pleasant Street
Northampton 586-0998

201
Student Union
545-0400

Open Saturdays 10-5
Weekdays 10-5

End of Semester/Christmas

CLEARANCE SALE

December 3 - 14

All 5.98 albums our price	3.65
7.98	4.79
8.98	5.39
9.98	5.99
10.98	6.59
11.98	7.19
12.98	7.79
13.98	8.29
14.98	8.85
15.98	9.49

Your Student-Run Record Store

THE CR[illegible]SMEN ARE BACK AGAIN THIS CHRISTMAS AT THE HAMPSHIRE MALL

LEATHER	JEWELRY	CANDLES
Belts	Earrings	Sand cast Planters
Buckles	Rings	Redwood Candles
Bags	Bracelets	Hand carved Candles

10% OFF WITH THIS AD
THRU 12/15/79
LEATHER NEXT TO PEWTER POT

GOODS FROM THE WOODS

for Christmas

- 7-pc. train set $12.25
- rocking horses from $19.80
- monoplane & many other toys from $19 up
- incredible variety of quality household items

BOWL & BOARD
96 main st.
northampton, mass 01060
(413) 586-5476

Your ad reaches 25,000 readers daily in the COLLEGIAN!

SPORT SHACK

UMass Wastebaskets
Minutemen
Ceramic Mugs
Ceramic Banks
All
Major
Logos
Hampshire Mall (Hadley)

$10.00 Precision Haircut, including shampoo and blow dry styling

GREAT EXPECTATIONS
Name
In the amount of $ Date
Shop No Shop Address
Mgr. Sig.

here's a gift that goes to someone's head

Hampshire Mall
Rt. 9 Hadley, Mass
No appointment — ever

creative gifts DINOSAURS

...are our newest stretched wall panels.

Soft-sculpture kits make Imaginative Holiday Gifts!

HOLIDAY HOURS

EARTHWARES
FABRIC & YARN
103 N. PLEASANT ST. AMHERST (413) 256-8810

Our Gift to You

$65 OFF

Handsome Jacket
of the Finest Leather
A Perfect Gift

Reg. $190
Only $125

All Types of Jackets for Men & Women

Handbags (over 200) - Wallets

Belts - Hats - Shoes

FRYE & TIMBERLAND BOOTS

Heartfelt Leather

103 N. Pleasant St., Amherst
Downtown Amherst
10-6:00 Mon. Sat. 253-5135

INTERNATIONAL GALLERIES

CHRISTMAS SPECIAL

10% off any custom framed orders thru Dec. 15th

Art Prints & Posters

Amherst Carriage shops 549-1398

Across-The-Board Imports

Imported
Hand Crafted
Onyx Chess Boards

*2 styles - Aztec & English
*Large selection
*Assorted Colors

Available at Hampshire Mall
Cafe Square
Under The Pewter Pot

TICKETRON
•Allman Bros.-Spfld.
•Holly Near-UMass
•Aerosmith-Spfld.
•Broadway Shows
•Tickets make great gifts

HAMP PLAZA • North King St. • N'hampton
1 586-5882

Holiday Hours
10 a.m.-10 p.m. Mon.-Sat.
12 noon-5 p.m. Sun.

The Valley's Most Complete Record and Tape Store
Rock - Jazz - Folk - Women's Music - Country - Classical Comedy-Children's-Imports-International-Reggae-Easy Listening
Many Accessories - Blank Tapes from Maxell-TDX-Memorex

GIFT CERTIFICATES AVAILABLE

One Coupon per Customer

$2.00

COUPON

Two Dollars Off

any regular priced code R-S & T

Limit 2 Albums offer expires Dec. 24th
Our Reg Price
R-$6.49
S-$6.49
T-$6.99

$2.00

I would like to extend a heartfelt thanks to Faye and the whole Graphics staff for making this shopper possible

Kenneth A. Szanto Jr.

Hot Feet
SHOE STORES

VERY SPECIAL!

This Wednesday
thru Saturday only

The wild, wild westerns! Soft leather pull-on boot with two-tone fancy stitching tops off a stacked leather-covered heel and leather sole. In brick, from Zodiac by Encore.
Reg. $90
71.90

Zodiac

All merchandise guaranteed.

Holyoke Mall at Ingleside

Keepsake
Registered Diamond Rings

Christmas is the perfect time to seal your promise of love with a Keepsake diamond engagement ring. Each Keepsake center diamond is guaranteed in writing, forever, for perfect clarity, correct cut and fine white color.

Keepsake—the perfect way to show your love, when it's for keeps.

Lay away now for Christmas. VISA American Express, Master Charge

Marcous
Keepsake Diamond Center
Hampshire Mall

Rings from $200 to $10,000 Trade Mark Reg

Look your Best for the Holidays!
Come to The Aristocrat for your Designer Cut

The Aristocrat
HAIR CARE SPECIALIST
17A Montague Rd. No. Amherst, MA
Open Evenings (413)-549-6255

GUNNE'S GALORE

THOMPSONS
Main St. Amherst Center

Come and see our Weekly Inflation Fighting bargains in both Men's & Women's Depts.

CONTACTS FOR CHRISTMAS

$89 pr

Reg. 99.00
Bausch & Lomb
American Optical

- 1 hour service in most cases
- Highest quality FDA approved lenses
- Largest inventory of soft contact lenses anywhere

Designer eyewear 1/2 price

Buy any two pair & receive 50% discount on the lower priced pair when purchased together.

American Vision Centers
NEW YORK • CHICAGO • BALTIMORE
Hampshire Mall
Hadley, Mass.
(413) 584-7958

SECRET SANTA

GREAT GIFTS - GREAT PRICES
Hundreds of 25c to $25 gifts

Tree Ornaments - Cards
Blouses - Shirts - Belts
Wallets - Posters - Mugs

Scarves - Boxes - Tins
Jewelry - Crystals - Prints

20% OFF
Tea Sets - Rugs
Bedspreads
through Dec. 6

THE MERCANTILE
AMHERST CARRIAGE SHOPS

Listen to what your money can buy at Tech Hifi.

What makes Tech Hifi the best place to buy stereo?

It's our unique combination of knowledgeable salespeople, soundrooms you can play in, a great selection of quality brands, and important extra guarantees, like our 90-Day Full Credit Trade, 60-Day Defective Exchange, and 7-Day Moneyback Guarantee. This is a combination you won't find in any appliance or department store.

Best of all, thanks to the buying power of the 72 Tech Hifi stores, we can guarantee you the lowest price. You'll get our 30-Day Price Protection Guarantee in writing, right on your sales slip.

On this page is just a small sample of our special Christmas "packages". Each is selected for optimum performance and value.

This week, come play any of the many special Christmas packages on display in our soundrooms. And listen to what your money can buy at Tech Hifi.

While you're at Tech Hifi, ask for your free copy of The 1980 Hifi Book. It has 128 pages in full color filled with information you should know about the latest in stereo.

$599
KENWOOD

Here's a beautifully-matched, high-performance Kenwood component system. And Tech Hifi's $599 Christmas package price includes the handsome walnut vinyl rack pictured! This system has a Kenwood KA5700 amplifier with 40 watts per channel (8 ohms, 20-20kHz.) at only 0.04% distortion. This amplifier has dual power meters, dual tape monitors, and a subsonic filter. The tuner is a fine-performing Kenwood KT5500, while the turntable is a Kenwood KD1500, with automatic shutoff and a Pickering cartridge. The loudspeakers are accurate, wide-range Kenwood LS-300's.

$199
TDC KENWOOD Philips

Tech Hifi's $199 package is your best introduction to component stereo. You'll get better sound than the similarly-priced "compact" systems you find in department stores. And you'll get all of Tech Hifi's great guarantees. This system has a TDC 1500 am/fm stereo receiver, Kenwood LS-100 speakers, and a fully-equipped Collaro 1251 automatic turntable by Philips.

$299
Technics PIONEER BSR ADC

Our $299 system combines great-sounding components at a budget-pleasing price. The receiver is Technics' popular SA80. It drives a pair of Pioneer XD6 loudspeakers. Thanks to modern, vented design, XD6's deliver both deep bass and high efficiency. Finally, you get a brand-new BSR Mark Va automatic turntable with belt drive. It comes complete with an ADC cartridge.

VISA

tech hifi
Quality components at the right price.

master charge

15 East Pleasant St., Amherst 253-3100

Stores also throughout Massachusetts, Connecticut, Rhode Island, New Hampshire, Vermont, New York, New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Michigan and Ohio.

Seasonal Delights and Little Bites

Lisa's Mom's cookies

2 cups unsifted flour
3/4 cup sugar
1 1/2 tsp. baking powder
1/4 tsp. salt
2/3 cup shortening
2 egg yolks
1/4 cup milk
1 tsp. vanilla
1/3 cup sesame seeds

Preheat oven to 375 degrees. Grease cookie sheets. Sift flour, sugar, bakikng powder, and salt into bowl. With pastry blender, cut shortening until mixture resembles coarse crumbs. Add egg yolk, milk and vanilla. With fork, mix just until dough holds together. Knead several times until smooth. For each cookie shape rounded Tbsp. of dough into small oval loaf. Roll in seeds, coating completely. Place on sheet and bake for 15-20 minutes or until brown. Let cool on wire rack. Makes 2 1/2 dozen.

Potato Latkes

2 cups grated raw potatoes (4-5 large)
1 medium onion, grated
1 1/2 tsp. salt
dash of pepper
1/4 cup matzoh meal
2 eggs
peanut oil for frying

Pare vegetables and grate. If a food blender or grinder is available it can be used instead. Add eggs, salt, pepper and matzoh meal. Drop by tablespoonfuls into hot peanut oil that is almost deep enough to cover the pancakes. Fry at moderate heat ujntil browned on both sides. Drain on absorbent paper, serve hot with sour cream or apple sauce.

Shrimp Butter Dip

8 ox. cream cheese
1 1/2 sticks of butter juice of one lemon
2 cans of small shrimp
4 Tbsp. mayonnaise
1 Tbsp. minced onion
dash salt, parseley, celery salt and garlic salt

Let butter and cream cheese soften. Blend all and chill. Serve chilled.

Quick and Easy Fruit Cake

3 cups Jiffy mix
1 28 oz. can ready to use mincemeat
3 eggs
1/3 cup milk
3 Tbsp. vegetable oil
2 cups mixed candied fruit small jar red and green candied cherries small jar candied pineapple
1 cup coarsely chopped walnuts
1/4 cup light corn syrup
1 Tbsp. rum or sherry

Preheat oven to 325 degrees. Grease and flour fluted tube pan. Combine baking mix, mincemeat, eggs, milk, oil, candied fruit and nuts. Mix well. Turn into pan. Bake 1 hour and 10-15 minutes, or until toothpick comes out clean. Cool 15 minutes, turn out of pan. Cool thoroughly. In small bowl, mix liquor and oil. Brush over cake and garnish with glazed cherries and/or walnuts.

Fine Selection of Gift Items as low as $2.69

Come and Browse

Wines from all over the world

Over 50 different types of beers

VERMONT CHEESE $2.49
Cheese gift selections made to order

BENS
Route 116
Sunderland

FREE!

Plastic Storage Box with 6 Maxell UDC 90's six for $19.80

SOUND & MUSIC
"Good Advice - Honest Price"
90-92 King Street (Rte. 5) Northampton
Thursday & Friday 'til 9
Mon.-Sat. 10-5
584-9547

STITCH 'N TIME

A full line of needlepoint supplies including persian yarn, D.M.C., canvas, home grown knitting wool and a variety of unusual accessories

21A College Street
South Hadley,
Mass. 01075
Tel (413) 532-1967

Custom designs specializing in plants, flowers, vegetables, and herbs or anything else in the whole world.

handpainted needlepoint designs by susan herman needle plant studio store

57 King St., Northampton
(next to Friendly's)

Special 100% wool navy crewneck
$40 value $18.50
while they last
excellent parking in front of store

Amherst Tennis Academy
& Racquet Sports Unlimited
Rte. 116 Sunderland

CHRISTMAS SALE

*Purchase any Snauwaert Tennis or Squash Frame and we will string w/Snauwaert gut at no charge ($30.00 value)(and we will throw in a Snauwaert T-shirt & wristband)

*Purchase any other frame and will will string with nylon at no charge

OPEN 8 A.M. - 10 P.M.
7 days a week
545-4545

STADIUM
U. Mass. Amherst
SPECIALS SPECIALS
LIQUORS

University Drive
Amherst
10 A.M.-11 P.M.
253-5595

KEGS-BEER WINE-LIQUORS

Bud 12 oz. cans, bottles..... $7.49 case $2.10 six
Miller 12 oz. cans, bottles.... $7.49 case $2.10 six
Amaretto di Saronna..... $9.99 23 oz.
$5.25 12 oz.
Martini & Rossi Asti Spumante..... $6.49 750 ml
Harvey's Bristol Cream..... $6.79 750 ml
Great Western Champagne. $4.99 750 ml
Gallo Chenin Blanc French Columbard $3.95 1.5l
Savignon Blanc Rose..... $2.49 750 ml
Southern Comfort... $7.95 qt $6.59 fifth
Seagrams 7 $11.89 1.75 l $6.95 qt $5.69 750 m
Seagrams VO..... $6.89 750 ml

10 A.M.-11 P.M. 253-5595

Collect a Set!

Purchase a Medium Size Soft Drink for 65c
Enjoy Coca-Cola
and Keep the Glass!

Available at:
Campus Center Food Service
Coffee Shop,
Bluewall Cafeteria
and Hatch Cafeteria

THE SPORT STORE
Holiday Pleasures...
Giving Warm Things

VESTS
JACKETS
POPOVERS

MATERIALS
SIERRA CLOTH
9 oz. HOLLOWFILL II
1 cm - 2cm THINSULATE
GORE-TEX
TALON ZIPPERS

Manufactured Using Hand Crafted Techniques; One Person Assembles the Entire Garment; Lifetime Guarantee Against Defects in Material and Construction.

alti wear
Try Some On...
178a North Pleasant Street Amherst 253-2719
mon.-wed. 10-6 thurs. & fri. 10-8 sat. 10-6

"Red Hot Lovers"
You could spend more than $2.00 for lunch here.
But it might buy you more than you can eat.
Redeem this heart for a FREE COKE with each food purchase.
THE GREAT AMERICAN HOT DOG
The Red Hot Connection
Mon.-Sat. 11 a.m.-8 p.m. Sun. 2 p.m.-8 p.m.
THE GREAT AMERICAN HOT DOG PLACE
52 Center St., Northampton
Carry out service:
586-3306

INNER SPACE

SHOPPER'S SPECIAL
10% OFF
•Mirrors
•4 foot bongs
•Rolling trays
•Sterling silver
•Imported stash boxes
English Tin Stash Boxes only $4.00
57 E. Pleasant St.
(front room at Paul's Furniture Emporium)

THORNES
A MARKETPLACE
150 Main St., Northampton,

150 artistree

our gifts will grow on you fine arts, crafts, handmade jewelry & beads
THORNES MARKET • 2ND FLOOR
NORTHAMPTOB • 586-0256

unique gifts and jewelry just us
Mitsuko Hashimoto
Designer & Goldsmith
150 MAIN STREET (413) 586-6424
NORTHAMPTON, MASS. 01060

FANTASTIC
Antique linens & laces, vintage clothing, baubles
& original designs in lingerie more country roads
2nd floor of Thornes

MAIN STREET
RECORDS
Massachusetts's largest selection of domestic and imported New Wave
586-5726
150 Main Street
Northampton
2nd floor - Thornes Market

Beyond Words
Bookshop
"A Place for the Timeless Present"
Rainbows, Unicorns,
Incense, Crystals,
Stationary, Chanukah
& Christmas Cards,
Over 50 different Calendars
& Engagement Books
& loads of other very special books & gifts.
Thornes Market 150 Main St.
Northampton 586-6304

MULBERRY TREE
TOYS & QUILTS
WE'VE EXPANDED!
Very Special gifts for little Folks! Books, toys
stuffed animals,
baby gifts and
kids clothes.
THORNES MARKETPLACE
NORTHAMPTON 586-4027

FIFINELLA'S
Inspirational fabrics
Smashing silks and satins for the Holidays
and
Great Christmas Gift Ideas gift certificates always available
THORNES MARKET 150 MAIN STREET, NORTHAMPTON

NEFERTITI'S
POTIONS FOR FACE AND BODY
HOLIDAY SPARKLE!
We've got gift certificates, gift assortments and stocking stuffers, too.
THORNES MARKET / 150 MAIN ST. / NORTHAMPTON / 584-0906

MASSACHUSETTS DAILY VOLUME CIX, ISSUE 61 Tuesday, December 4, 1979

Collegian

1979, Massachusetts Daily Collegian

Student Newspaper of the University of Massachusetts/Amherst, Ma. 01003 (413)545-3500

Iranian stalemate drags on

Visa checks may violate Bill of Rights

By MARGARET GENTRY
Associated Press

WASHINGTON — The Carter administration's push to deport Iranians has set off an intense debate over the constitutionality of enforcing immigration laws more strictly against one nationality than against others.

Civil libertarians argue that the administration move violates the constitutional guarantee of equal protection of the laws. They say the Bill of Rights applies as much to aliens as to American citizens.

Administration officials reply with a long string of Supreme Court decisions supporting deportation of aliens who have violated the terms of their visas.

The officials argue that they are acting only against those Iranians who have violated immigration laws. They concede, however, that millions of persons from other nations face no immediate risk of deportation despite the same sort of violations.

Some experts outside of government say the debate raises questions never directly presented to the courts — and thus, still unsettled in the law. That may change, however.

Two suits alleging the deportation move discriminates against Iranians have been filed — one by three Iranian students, the other by the Confederation of Iranian students. A hearing on the two legal actions is scheduled Tuesday in U.S. District Court in Washington.

The debate began Nov. 10 when President Carter ordered a review of the immigration status of some 50,500 Iranian students in the United States. It was one of the first steps in the administration's efforts to break the siege of the U.S. Embassy in Tehran and free the Americans being held hostage there.

Complying with Carter's order, immigration authorities have told Iranian students to report for questioning by Dec. 14, and they have taken steps to deport those found in violation of their visas.

The student visas allow temporary U.S. residence and require enrollment in a college or recognized institution. Those holding student visas may not work full-time.

Immigration Service spokesman Verne Jervis said Friday that 29,800 Iranian students have been questioned and that 23,500 were complying with the visa terms. They are safe from deportation, he said.

But Jervis said 4,000 have violated the rules, most by staying longer than the visa allowed, and that the others' situations are unclear and being re-evaluated.

He added that 458 of those in violation have agreed to leave the United States voluntarily, and 26 have left already. The deportation machinery is gearing up against the other violators.

Iran appoints the Ayatollah life-long ruler

By ALEX EFTY
Associated Press

TEHRAN, Iran — The Iranian people, in a vast show of support for the Moslem elder who has made the holding of American hostages part of a holy crusade, voted overwhelmingly yesterday to make Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini their political overlord for life.

The Khomeini regime, meanwhile, stepped up public readiness for an eventual U.S. military attack, expected by many Iranians. It posted more guards at the U.S. Embassy, where 50 Americans entered their 30th day of captivity in the hands of Moslem militants demanding that the United States hand over the deposed Shah of Iran.

For the first time, some of the guards were dressed in green army fatigues and boots.

In an unexplained development, an ambulance was seen moving from point to point within the embassy compound. A student spokesman contacted by telephone said the hostages were "all well" but would not say why the ambulance went to the embassy.

At U.N. headquarters in New York, the Security Council was still seeking diplomatic ways out of the month-long U.S.-Iran crisis. Among the alternatives under consideration was launching of an international inquiry into the ex-shah's regime, and sending a Council mediation mission to Iran.

Initial returns of a two-day referendum that ended yesterday showed Iranians voting 60-to-1 in favor of a new constitution that Khomeini's political critics say will make him a theocratic dictator.

Though final official results will not be announced until later in the week, Iranian voters obviously did what the Islamic leadership had urged in the non-secret, yes-or-no balloting.

Reporters saw bearded, turbaned mullahs — Moslem priests — seated in front of ballot boxes at several polling stations instructing people to "vote yes only."

In other developments:

—A pro-government newspaper in Panama said Shah Mohammad Reza Pahlavi, recuperating from medical treatment at a Texas Air Force base, would be given asylum in that Central American nation. But Panamanian government officials denied it.

—Western diplomatic sources and a Beirut newspaper reported that Saudi Arabian troops put down pro-Iranian demonstrations by thousands of Shiite Moslems last week in eastern Saudi Arabia, and several protesters were killed or wounded.

—A bomb blast slightly damaged the exterior of the Frankfurt, West Germany, branch of the Morgan Guaranty Trust Co.

Anti-Khomeini sentiment is expressed on the windows of this car spotted Saturday outside John Adams Tower in the Southwest Residential Area. (Staff photo by J. Ferrarone)

Other Iran-related incidents on campus included a Nov. 27 debate in front of the Student Union Building between Revolutionary Youth Brigade members supporting the Shah's return to Iran and opposed onlookers. In a Nov. 28 incident, RCYB members debated with onlookers shouting, "America—love it or leave it!"

Campus anti-Semitism discussed with Koffler

By ED LEVINE
Collegian Staff

Jewish UMass faculty members concerned about on-campus anti-Semitism met with Chancellor Henry Koffler to discuss their concerns yesterday, said Art Clifford of the UMass News Bureau.

About 35 members of the Jewish Faculty Interest Group met for approximately an hour with Koffler, who agreed to address the Faculty Senate Thursday at 3:30 about their concerns, Clifford said. Although Koffler and the faculty members have agreed not to discuss the details of the meeting, Clifford said there was "agreement on both sides concerning the seriousness of the matter."

The professors met two weeks ago to discuss the situation among themselves. Although Collegian reporters were invited to the meeting, Haim B. Gunner, group chairperson of the Environmental Science Department asked all press members to leave before the meeting began.

In a press release prior to the first meeting, Gunner and other group members stated their purpose was to "combat anti-Semitism on the Amherst campus of the University," and cited the "regular appearance of anti-Semitic articles and editorials" in the Collegian and Nummo News as contributing to "a climate in which Jewish students live in intimidation and fear."

The press release also referred to the distribution of a pamphlet entitled "Masters of the Media" by members of the Iranian Muslim Students Association as contributing to the problem. The pamphlet, a reprint from a newspaper entitled the National Vanguard, stated that Jews control the American media and have "distorted reports of the oppression of the Palestinians."

None of the Jewish faculty members could be reached for comment following both meetings. Koffler could not be reached for comment last night either.

Iran shadows Carter campaign

By BROOKS JACKSON
Associated Press

WASHINGTON — President Carter plans to keep his re-election announcement today a low-key affair because of the Iran crisis, but campaign aides are pushing hard to raise $2 million this week in a coastto-coast series of fundraisers.

Carter plans to make the announcement sometime during the day, probably at the White House. He will then attend a fundraising dinner tonight at a Washington hotel. He already has recorded a fiveminute television announcement to be broadcast at 8:55 p.m. EST today on the CBS network. The campaign paid for the air time.

Campaign aides say they have organized nearly 2,800 "grassroots" receptions around the country to coincide with the announcement. The parties, mostly in private homes, are intended to raise money, distribute campaign material and get volunteer workers moving.

Also keyed to the announcement are large fundraising dinners during the week in Washington and 11 other cities.

Carter originally had planned to make a six-state campaign swing starting tomorrow, including appearances at fundraising dinners in New York, Chicago, Atlanta and Austin, Texas. But he canceled those travel plans because of the Iran crisis.

The fundraising efforts themselves, however, are going ahead full steam even without Carter's personal presence.

Campaign aide Lee Kling said he would be "very comfortable" if the week's activities produced $2 million in fresh donations for the campaign, which already has raised and spent roughly $3 million. Kling said the campaign also stands to receive $1 million in federal subsidies next month under the law providing partial government financing of presidential campaigns.

Today's announcement is little more than a formality because the president's desire for a second term has never really been in doubt.

Carter's re-election campaign is far better financed and better staffed than was his comefrom-nowhere 1976 election campaign.

Four years ago, Carter was still a little-known former governor of Georgia with a campaign staff of 40 or 50 people and no real nationwide organization.

This time Carter was still something of an underdog, having at one time trailed Sen. Edward M. Kennedy among Democratic voters by a 2-1 margin in opinion polls.

But the momentum has, for the moment at least, shifted to Carter because of Kennedy's badly reviewed appearances in several television interviews and because of widespread public support for the president's handling of the Iran crisis.

Last week an AP-NBC News poll showed 65 percent of those questioned supported Carter's handling of the Iran situation. And a Louis Harris-ABC poll taken after the first week of the embassy seige showed Kennedy's lead over Carter beginning to slip on a number of specific issues.

To reporters who cover his daily activities, Carter appears as a Bible-reading moralist, a sober and faithful husband, and a man who is honest to the point of being dull. There are no incidents even remotely resembling Chappaquiddick in Carter's past.

But questions continue to swirl around his associates, Lance and Jordan, men Carter chose to be among the most powerful in government.

Publicity over Lance's past banking activities forced him to quit as Carter's top budget manager during the first year of Carter's term. He was indicted last May on 22 counts of conspiracy, misapplication of National Bank of Georgia funds and falsifying personal financial statements and bank records. The indictment charges Lance continued his allegedly illegal activities even after taking office as head of OMB.

Lance pleaded innocent and called the charges "ridiculous." But whatever the outcome of his trial, it is sure to produce many days of courtroom testimony about Lance's banking activities. That in turn will keep alive all the old questions about Carter's judgment in picking such a man be the government's chief budget officer.

Jordan is far from facing indictment; if not for the strictures of a new Ethics in Government Act, the investigation of him would likely have been dropped by now.

A young Iranian demonstrator outside the U.S. Embassy in Tehran, where armed students hold 49 Americans hostage, carries a sign yesterday calling President Carter a donkey. At least she got the symbol of his party right! (AP Laserphoto)

11 crushed to death at 'Who' gate crash

By BILL VALE
Associated Press

CINCINNATI — Panicked fans stampeded their way into a rock concert by "The Who" last night, and Fire Chief Burt Luganani said at least 11 people were killed in the crush.

A number of persons were injured and were taken by ambulance to at least four hospitals. The number of injured was not immediately known.

Ray Schwertman, a 49-yearold usher, said the crowd surged into the 17,000-seat Riverfront Coliseum just before the gates were to open at 7 p.m.

"First, they threw a bottle through a window in the door. Then they pushed through the hole, making it bigger. Three or four of us tried to hold them back, but it was no use.

"We couldn't hold them back.... They carried in one boy and laid him on a table and he died. Others were laying out on the plaza," said Schwertman.

"I've never seen anything like it," Luganani said. "I can't even tell you what killed them."

The concert, which was sold out, went on as scheduled after the victims were taken away.

And 15-year-old Suzanne Sudrack said: "You could see people getting hurt. People were flailing elbows and smashing noses. Concertgoer Michael Jordan, 17, said: "I was in the middle. It was crazy. You had to fight to save your life."

You could see people going down."

Cincinnati Public Safety director Richard Castellini said the victims were apparently trampled or suffocated.

The coliseum where the incident occurred is the site of most rock concerts in Cincinnati, including recent appearances by the "Beach Boys," Rod Stewart, and "Fleetwood Mac."

"The Who" is among the oldest surviving British rock groups, and is featured in the recently released film, "Quadrophenia." The group wrote the rock opera "Tommy," which also became a movie.

They were among the first to smash their guitars duringperformances on stage — a practice later picked up bymany other performers and groups.

"The Who," a four-member group popular in the UnitedStates for 16 years, is led by Peter Townshend and RogerDaltrey. One of the group's original members, drummerKeith Moon, died from an overdose of sleeping pills inSeptember, 1978, at age 31.

The band's albums have included "Who's Next" and"Who by Numbers." The group also recorded"Quadropenhia" and "Tommy" as albums.

DIGEST

Military trial scheduled for Korean assassination

SEOUL, South Korea [AP]— The military trial of former intelligence chief Kim Jae-kyu and seven others charged with the assassination of President Park Chung-hee will begin today, the martial law command announced.

Acting President Choi Kyuhah meanwhile accepted a draft to be a candidate in Thursday's election of Park's successor. Choi, 60, a career diplomat who was premier under Park, is expected to be the only candidate before the 2,560- member electoral college. He will need a simple majority of 1,281 votes to win.

The martial law command named Lt. Gen. Kim Yung-sun as presiding judge and appointed a jury of four generals and a legal officer to hear the case against the eight defendants.

Cleanup effort clears New England's rivers

BOSTON[AP]— More than half the 6,798 miles of major rivers in New England are suitable for swimming and fishing because of cleanup efforts this decade, reports the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency.

The EPA also predicted yesterday that by 1983, 85 percent of major river waters in the six states will be suitable for all recreation, including swimming.

"We have turned the corner in New England as far as water pollution control is concerned," said EPA Regional Administrator William R. Adams Jr. in a forward to the agency's annual report on environmental quality in New England.

Large-caliber bullet holes pierce the driver's window of the U.S. Navy bus that was ambushed yesterday by terrorists in Puerto Rico. Officials say two soldiers are dead and 10 more wounded in the attack, which took place about 10 miles west of San Juan. (AP Laserphoto)

Firms refund disability owed pregnant workers

BOSTON[AP]— Women who left work because they were pregnant have received a total of more than $500,000 in salary refunds as a result of a survey by the attorney general's office of employment practices.

Assistant Attorney General Paula Gold said the restitutions were made by 80 firms in Massachusetts after her office examined records of the state's top 200 firms.

Hostages beyond help history professor fears

WILLIAMSTOWN, Mass. [AP]— A Williams College historian who has studied and lectured on terrorism says he thinks the 50 hostages being held at the U.S. embassy in Tehran probably will be killed or harmed by those holding them.

James B. Wood, who has taught a course called "Terrorism in Historical Perspective," said even returning the shah to Iran would not ensure the hostages' safety.

Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini has changed his explanation of why they're being held "five or six times," Wood said, and assurances from the elderly holy man cannot be counted on.

The shah's son, Reza Pahlavi, is a special student at the liberal arts college.

§The Iranians holding the hostages "are acting on their own," Wood said. "That is dangerous. The hostages are considered expendable."

§Wood predicted that within a week, "if there's no movement, if we've exhausted all our peaceful means, then Carter will have to resort to military pressure or issue an ultimatum.

A Distinctive Writing Pleasure

Give the pen that is the master of distinctive penmanship. The Cross soft tip in select and precious metals.

CROSS SINCE 1846

soft tip pens

at the Christmas store

campus center/umass the UNIVERSITY STORE

Northwood Apartments resident Bob Rabinowitz leans over a pool table in the game room, across from the Hatch last night, in an attempt to nail down a win. (Staff photo by J. Ferrarone)

More men utilize job service

By LINDA PLAUT
Collegian Staff

Five times as many male undergraduates as female applied for on-campus career recruitment interviews in October, according to UMass Placement Service data. Of 1,234 interviewed, 206 were females.

The relatively low turn-out of women interviewed may reflect disproportionate male/female enrollments within those academic majors most frequently sought by "on-campus" recruiters, said Director Arthur L. Hilson. Students with degrees in physics, business/math and engineering are in the highest demand, he said.

Hilson said job applicants are asked to declare majors when they register with the service.

Hilson has been director since June 1978. At that time, approximately 300 firms were affiliated with the placement service. Currently, over 400 firms interview UMass graduates and undergraduates. Hilson's goal is to have 500 corporations interviewing by 1981.

The service may eventually charge a $10 placement fee. This fee would pay the rental, maintenance and supplies for the Job/Employee Matching System and two people necessary to run the machine, Hilson said. The computer was acquired with trust fund monies and costs $47,000.00 yearly to run.

The service is located in Hampshire House in the Southwest Residential Area, where recent renovations have cost $13,000. Hilson said the service is now running in the red, he said adding that level funding has caused a deficit in the service's budget. Three full-time staff employees are paid through monies from the Comprehensive Employment and Training Act program (CETA), Hilson said, since the University cannot afford to pay them.

Such information may add perspective to the service's statistics, Hilson said. No data is available on the number of students who actually find employment through the service, he said.

Two women using the service complained about sexist treatiment by recruiters, Hilson said. In one incident he said, a male interviewer said he felt the women's impression that he was sexist was inaccurate. The interviewer later told Hilson he had felt very positive about the applicant, Hilson said.

The other incident involved an interviewer for a chemical engineering firm. The interviewer wrote on a form that a female applicant did not have any sense of direction and could not communicate, Hilson said. He interviewed ten men for the same position and wrote nothing negative about any of them, Hilson said.

Christmas spirit hampered

Fire safety prohibits trees

By SEAN HARVEY
Collegian Staff

UMass Fire Safety Office workers in a few weeks will check dormitories and confiscate any live Christmas trees they find, officer Keith E. Hoyle announced yesterday.

State and University regulations outlaw any flammable or combustible decorations, such as paper or plastic, in University buildings, Hoyle said. Hoyle is relying on dormitory heads of residence to enforce these laws, he said.

Law requires decorations be fire-retardant, Hoyle said. Candles are allowed with three restrictions, he said. They must be in a sturdy base, surrounded by a non-combustible covering, such as glass, and they must be extinguished when residents leave their rooms, he said.

Brian Cummings, Head of Residence in John Adams Upper dormitory in the Southwest Residential Area said specific checks will not be made for fire hazards. If a tree is reported as hazardous, it is usually reported by the resident assistant of a floor, Cummings said.

"Candles are a problem" year round, said Cummings and Cashin Head of Residence Daniel Fitzgibbons. Fitzgibbons said candles caused fires in Cashin last year, Field House two years ago and Cance House three or four years ago.

"It is much easier to check for fire hazards in the more traditional dorms than it is in Sylvan because students are in suites," Fitzgibbons said. "People in dorms where fires have occurred are usually much more conscious of fire hazards," he added.

Graduate student Marjorie VanCleef studies on floor 17 of the main University library. The 28-floor library opened yesterday for limited use for the first time since August 30. University officials closed the library because of its construction problems. The library is open to faculty and graduate students as well as undergraduates who express a "demonstrative need" to use the facility, said Chancellor Henry Koffler. (Staff photo by Carolyn Casey)

UMies join Globe Santa

Hoping to double the amount collected last year, UMass students will seek to raise money again this year for the annual Globe Santa Christmas program for disadvantaged children.

Students hope to collect $5,000 by Christmas, organizer Michael B. Cohen said yesterday.

"As happens every year around this time, the world prepares for one of the few seasons in which 'Goodwill towards men' becomes closer to a reality," Cohen said. "This is a special time of the year because of the sense of warmth and hope that exists everywhere. For most of us it will be a time of relaxation, shopping, and good cheer, culminating in an evening of fun, food, and presents.."

But not everybody is so fortunate. This year, like every year, some children will go hungry and wake up to an empty stocking. The UMass group is seeking to prevent such disappointments. This is the second year of the program.

The Boston Globe* is sponsoring Globe Santa, a program which acts as a pipeline between those who care and the forgotten children in the Boston area. Donations are solicited, which in turn buy Christmas toys and trimmings for the youngsters. The UMass students are asking help in making posters, staffing tables on the Campus Center Concourse, and collecting door-to-door. Organizers have scheduled a meeting for tonight in CC 803 for those interested. Organizers can be reached at 549-6920 or 253-9074.

"We are asking for your help in the UMass campaign to bring the spirit of warmth, kindness and hope to those otherwise forgotten children," Cohen said.

Ads to aid Cambodia

Two UMass students are organizing programs to aid Cambodian refugees through the American Friends Committee. Their campaign includes a donation from the Collegian through short holiday messages.

The students, Julie Myers and Chris Ross, both Coolidge Tower residents, approached the Collegian Board of Directors Sunday, asking for their cooperation. The board voted unanimously to donate the profits of one page of holiday messages.

Ross and Myers suggested the short messages, similar to Collegian Valentine messages, be used in lieu of "secret santa" gifts or as clues.

The Quaker committee was the first group to provide medical aid in Vietnam during the war, and was founded in 1917. In a letter to the Collegian, the two wrote that the situation in Cambodia has reached a crisis stage

Around campus

Utilities representative, student to debate nukes

UMass graduate student Mark Anderson will debate Bill Semanie, a Northeast Utilities representative, on the subject of nuclear power tonight at 7:30 in Morrill Auditorium.

The debate, sponsored by the UMass chapter of the Student Coalition Against Nukes Nationwide, will be moderated by UMass political science professor Kenneth Dolbeare. The topic will be; should Nuclear Power Be Used as a Source of Energy?

Female theater group to perform this month

The Women's Community Theatre will present three one-act plays December 8, 9, 15, and 16 at 8 p.m. at the Munson Library in South Amherst. The plays are produced and staged by area women ranging in age from 14 to 40.

The three plays are entitled, "Ten Years After," "The Notorious McCorkle Sisters," and "American War Mothers." There will be a closed performance for women only on Dec.. 8. Admission for all performances is $3 at the door.

"Awareness" floor topic of session tomorrow

An informational meeting for students investigating the possibility of living on the Social Awareness Corridor of Brett Dormitory in the Central Residential area is scheduled for tomorrow at 8 p.m. in the third floor kitchenette in the dormitory. The corridor according to dorm officials, offers an "alternative living situation," with "respect" as the main concept for the floor.

Health Board to meet for last time this term

The Student Health Advisory Board will hold its last meeting of the semester tomorrow at 6:30 p.m. in the Employees Lounge of the University Health Services.

Panel plans discussion of social awareness core

The fourth and final panel in the Orchard Hill "Issues in Higher Education" series will be held tomorrow at 7:30 p.m. in the Main lounge of Field House in the Orchard Hill Residential Area. The topic will be "Academic Requirements for the 1980's." The proposed "G-Core," a social awareness course requirement, is one of the topics to be discussed. Deans and administrators from UMass and other colleges will also discuss graduation requirements, whether there is a common body of knowledge that all educated people should share, and graduate requirements.

Junior Monique Gelineau shows her skill at breaking boards for a crowd at the Student Union Ballroom in the Student Union Building. She was part of a karate demonstration held last night. (Staff photo by Ben Marsden)

Board of Ed money arrives for scholarships

Board of Higher Education scholarship money for the fall semester is now available at the Bursar's office in the Whitmore Administration Building. Students who have been awarded these funds should pick up the money at their earliest convenience, a memorandum from the office states.

Workshop offers info on men's sexual health

The University Health Services will present a workshop on Men's Awareness of Sexual Health tonight at 7 in room 304 in the Health Center. The program, open to all men, is offered by male students trained through the Health Education Division of the on-campus Peer Sexuality Program.

Health issues and concerns of men, including contraceptive methods, the sexual response cycle and testicular self-examination and cancer of the testes will be discussed. No pre-registration is needed and more information can be obtained through the Health Education Department of the services.

Colloquium deals with changing female image

"Changing Images of Medieval Women," a colloquium offered by the Comparative Literature department, is scheduled for today at noon in the third floor lounge of Herter Hall.

Featured speakers will be Sr. Jane Morrissey of the Elms College English Department and Arlene McCrea of the UMass Comparative Literature Department. Refreshments will be served.

Counselors needed for summer job positions

Applications are being accepted for student counselor positions in the 1980 New Student's Program. Training sessions for the 30 selected counselors are scheduled for late next semester and the week of May 27 through May 30.

Eleven sessions for first-year students are held during the nine-week period from June 1 to July 22, with five transfer programs.

Positions are full time and require residence in assigned residence halls, according to a directive from the program office. Counselors cannot take summer school courses, it said. Interested students may obtain applications from the Student Development and Counseling Center, 123 Berkshire House in the Southwest Residential Area. The deadline for applications is February 8, 1980. Selections will be announced during the 1980 spring break.

The directive also stated a media specialist is needed with a working knowledge of slide and movie projections and sound and public address systems.

Amherst shops extend hours for holidays

The downtown council of the Amherst Chamber of Commerce announced extended business hours for the holiday season. Evening openings will be every night until 8 p.m. on Monday through Friday for the two weeks prior to Christmas, starting Dec. 7 and continuing through the 21st. Sunday hours will be 1 p.m. to 5 p.m. on Dec. 9, 16 and 23. The announcement stated that "most" local shops will be expanding their hours.

The Massachusetts Daily Collegian (USPS 333-220) is published daily Monday through Friday excluding January, June, July, and August, for $15 at 113 Campus Center, University of Massachusetts, Amherst, MA 01003. Second class postage paid at Amherst, Mass. Postmaster: Send address changes to Massachusetts Daily Collegian, 113 Campus Center, University of Massachusetts, Amherst, MA 01003.

Just Bring Your Guest List
We Do the Rest
THE BEST

The Top of the Campus Restaurant has an idea to eliminate some of the hustle and bustle surrounding the holiday season. Allow us the pleasure of hosting your holiday parties. We offer a resonably priced menu with personalized service and careful attention to every detail. Our Dining Room offers the finest panoramic view of the surrounding valley. You will never have to brave the elements because the Campus Center is attached to its own indoor parking garage and we will validate your parking ticket. We have the capability to accomodate any size party, from two to two hundred.

If your schedule is hectic and you would like to entertain your guests in a fashion comparable to your own home, please call us now, to find out how simple entertaining can be. Call Ralph Johnson, TOC Manager at 549-6000 extension 639.

TOP of the CAMPUS

Murray D. Lincoln Campus Center
University of Massachusetts
Amherst, Massachusetts 01003
413-549-6000 x639

T-SHIRTS
SPECIAL OFFER
10% Commission Available to anyone for a new order
Valley Silkscreen
Haydenville 268-7800

AMC AMERICAN MULTI CINEMA
ADULTS $2.75 STUDENTS & SR. CITIZENS with AMC CARD $2.25 TWI-LITE SHOW $1.50 - Special Engagements Excluded
Twi-Lite Show - Limited to Seating
TIMES SHOWN FOR TODAY ONLY

HAMPSHIRE 4 — 584-7550 HAMP. MALL ON CAFE SQ.—RT. 9, HADLEY, MASS.
Apocalypse Now (5:30 @$1.50) 8:30 R
National Lampoon's ANIMAL HOUSE (6:00 @ $1.50) 8:45 R
Dinner & Movie $5.00 Have dinner at the Pewter Pot Restaurant on Cafe Square in the Hampshire Mall and see one of the 8 movies listed here for only $5.00. Call for details.
STARTING OVER (6:00 @ $1.50)
FIDDLER ON THE ROOF (5:30 @ $1.50) 8:30* G
* no 8:30 show Weds

MOUNTAIN FARMS 4 — 584-9153 MOUNTAIN FARMS MALL ROUTE 9-HADLEY, MASS.
A temptingly tasteful comedy "10" (6:00 @ $1.50) 8:15 R
AL PACINO AND JUSTICE FOR ALL (6:00 @ $1.50) 8:15 R
Honk if you love Brian. MONTY PYTHON'S LIFE OF BRIAN (6:15 @ $1.50) 8:30 R
MICHAEL DOUGLAS SUSAN ANSPACH RUNNING (6:15 @ $1.50) 8:30 PG

Editorial/Opinion

Jimmy steals Teddy's wind

by Elved Owens

President Carter took a calculated risk in holding a live press conference at a time when the Iranian situation is still critical.

If he had been hesitant or too aggressive or too conciliatory he would have worsened the crisis as well as doing serious damage to his own political reputation. As it turned out, he gave an impressive performance, both cool and articulate. And as far as his reputation is concerned it heightened my feeling—non-existent a few months ago—that Teddy Kennedy will be no match for him in the race for the Democratic nomination.

The recent filmed interviews with Kennedy have been, by the most sympathetic of standards, disastrous. The circumstances of the interviews were relaxed—nothing like as demanding as a live televised press conference—and the trickiest questions (on Chappaquiddick) were highly predictable. If Kennedy believes that it makes a better, more candid impression not to appear too well prepared for questions on Chappaquiddick then the ploy has been taken way too far. He is slow, hesitant, unconvincing and inarticulate; serious disabilities for a man aiming for the White House and surprising ones for such a veteran politician.

When he is reading from a prepared text a very different Kennedy emerges: Forceful and eloquent. Robbed of his speechwriters and a podium, however, he doesn't appear to have a spontaneous thought in his head, and unless some miraculous transformation takes place, the electorate will soon be struck by the awful realization: This particular Kennedy is dull. That would be an especially ironic epitaph for a candidate who has sought to make dynamic leadership a prime plank of his platform.

Of course, the possibility of a miraculous transformation can't be ruled out if only because something like a transformation has occurred to Jimmy Carter. Whilst he will never be remembered as the most eloquent President, on the showing of last week's press conference he will be more than able to talk Kennedy into the ground in the forthcoming election debate.

Not only is Kennedy a poor impromptu speaker; he will also have the problem of debating against an incumbent whose policies, as the voting records show, he has largely supported. Carter will have to defend his record, which will be difficult enough, but Kennedy will have to explain his record, which runs counter to what one would expect from a challenger for the Presidency. As a Carter foe Kennedy is something of a Pretender.

If anything spoils Carter's new poise it will be outside events, particularly in Iran. If the hostages are killed or injured the President is almost obligated to respond militarily, with all the risks of escalation that involves. But significantly, if Khomeini relents (possibly because the kidnapping will have served its purpose as a political rallying-point) and the hostages are freed there will be just as much pressure on the President to take some kind of initiative. Otherwise the cry: "He let them get away with it" will follow him to his political grave.

Carter's problems are mainly external, Kennedy's mainly internal. Carter is confronted by a thousand enemies in all sorts of guises. But at the moment it appears that Kennedy's most lethal enemy is himself.

Elved Owens is a Collegian columnist.

Bagli one, Prez zero

To the Editor:

Charli Bagli's editorial "Carter: Banking on Confusion" which appeared in the November 29 Collegian, is the most clearly thought out, informative and reasonable explanation of the Iranian situation to appear on campus. Thank you, Charli, for putting this crisis in its proper perspective.

Carolyn Asbury

To Prez: Applause

I am writing in response to the Nov. 29 column by Charlie Bagli. He argues that rather than be angry at the Iranians who are holding Americans hostage we should direct our anger at our own government which made the ill fated decision to admit the Shah into the U.S. for medical treatment.

I disagree.

Whether the decision was wise is not the issue here. The issue is whether or not we submit to the demands of a group holding hostages. If we give in to their demands as Mr. Bagli suggests, we are declaring open season on Americans the world over. Any group with a gripe against the American government may follow Iran's example and threaten the lives of random Americans in the hope of achieving their aims.

Even if we could return the Shah, to do so would be a grave mistake with far reaching repurcussions. If the Iranians want him so badly, let them find a way to get him without holding innocent lives in the balance.

Steve Kahn
Sunderland

'Fear turns to anger'

by Debbie Wallace

Obscene phone calls, verbal harrassment on the street and threats of being raped once instilled in me a great fear. Now the fear has turned to anger as I am continually confronted by verbal harrassment, sexist television commercials, and groups of men who reduce women to objects in their conversations.

I was not always a feminist. While I have believed that women are as intelligent as men, I once thought that sexist remarks and cat-calls from men on the street were normal. I never thought it was wrong for women to be pampered or restricted because they were women. Yet, when my parents justified my high school curfew by saying I could get raped, or pregnant, and that the streets were not safe (especially for women) I began to see the inequality between the sexes. I once readily accepted the fact that women could not do dangerous jobs, and that few women ever aspired to be great thinkers or politicians.

Yet, the more I have been exposed to verbal harrassment and presented with the argument that women have to be "extra careful," the more I am convinced that in 1979 if you are not a feminist (man or woman), you are living in pre-historic times.

When I walk down the street I do not appreciate being shouted at, cajoled, or whistled at by men. This may be a compliment to some women—I think it is demeaning. I do not like being reduced to an object, and I become very angry when a man expresses his like or dislike by calling to me or shouting, therefore reducing me to an object without mind, soul, or intelligence.

I do not think it is a compliment when a man whistles at me from his car, or stares at me from his truck. I am not a museum piece to be studied, or a spectacle to be gaped at. A man's sincere smile would be sufficient.

Obscene phone calls are another form of verbal harrassment that now make me angry. Anyone who makes obscene phone calls to women needs emotional counseling. I have received many obscene phone calls while living in a dormitory, at 3 a.m. or some other ungodly hour when I was asleep. This kind is typically done by men. The police are reluctant to put tracers on the calls unless the caller persists, so once again women grin and bear the abuse. But, I am not grinning. I am becoming increasingly angry each time a man reduces me to a sex object.

While listening to some men talking last weekend I was offended, not by the swear words men often apologize for saying in the company of ladies, but for the demeaning ways they referred to sexual intercourse. I do not often hear women talk about men in terms of "pricks," "balls," or say their lover "came too quickly," in a sarcastic joking manner. Yet, men often reduce women to their body parts.

I am not a bleeding heart feminist. I believe in the aspects of the feminist cause that make people look at their behavior and change it, if it offends half of the world's population. I do not condone censorship of pornography or of anything—Yet, I think people need to look at why they need to view pictures of women or men that exploit them, and define them as something to watch like one watches an animal in a cage.

When I visit friends in various dormitories I become angry when I see posters of the Dallas Cowboy Cheerleaders, or other half naked women. I begin to wonder how these men view women. I can guess that these men get pleasure out of viewing a woman as just a body. I do not often see women displaying pictures of naked men on their walls. Women do not need to see men as objects.

I have become more aware of the stereotyping of women since I have become increasingly angry at the abuse of women. While watching new television programs and commercials I am still confronted with the long legged panty hose clad women on the go, or the housewife buying toilet paper, mops, food, dishwashing liquid and doing her laundry. There are a few token men who are able to make a can of Campbell's soup (to help out their wives). When is society going to realize that women do not cook and clean all day? In reality, some men are taking an equal part in child care, and in domestic responsibility. We are constantly bombarded with various types of media that reinforce the myth that women are sex objects or homemakers. Open your eyes to the women in your classes, your female professors, your mothers, and all of the women mayors and elected officials. I am angry! I will not allow any man to view women as weak,or helpless. I will walk around late at night, and I will be angry until men realize that men continually abuse women verbally and physically. Women are not going to allow this harrassment to continue.

Debbie Wallace is Associate Women's Editor of the Collegian.

Letters

Moran: 'The 4th world'

To the Editor:

Regarding Jim Moran's November 26 editorial entitled, 'Plenty of Things That Require Plenty Awareness,' it is nice to know that he has passed by the First, Second, and Third Worlds and has subsequently entered the Fourth. But what of your Fourth World, Mr. Moran? What is it comprised of? Apathy? Cynicism? YOU will be surprised to know that even your world, your group, has factions. There is a faction that doesn't care about increased lighting on this campus, there is another faction that will do nothing about dorm conditions, and yet another that stands by while our fees are increased.

This must give you a real feeling of pride (God knows your editorials can't give it to you).

Maybe it's time you started attacking the problems the University and it's students face, rather than attack those people who are trying to solve those problems.

Pam Malumphy

Letters Policy

Due to space limitations, letters to the editor should be written as brief as is humanly possible. They should be TYPED at 67 characters across and triple spaced.

Holly Near to play FAC

By DAVID LaCHANCE
Collegian Staff

Singer-songwriter Holly Near will perform at the Fine Arts Center on December 11 at 8 p.m. in a concert to benefit the UMass Student Coalition Against Nukes Nationwide.

Near, 30, has been performing since she was seven. Through her music and writings she has supported women's cultural organizations, political groups and schools. She worked with Jane Fonda in the Free the Army Show in 1971, traveling through Southeast Asia entertaining anti-war GI's, and again in the Indochina Peace Campaign, during which she developed a nationwide following.

Near's credits include performances in "Slaughterhouse Five," the New York production of "Hair" and appearances on "All in the Family," "Room 222" and "The David Susskind Show." She has also recorded four albums with Redwood Records, owned and operated by women and has sung in albums by Cris Williamson and Meg Christian.

Appearing with Near will be J.T. Thomas, who writes musicals for performing children and teen-agers. Also appearing will be Susan Freundlich, a creative interpreter for the hearing impaired.

Child care will be provided during the concert by volunteers from SCANN, who can be reached at 546-1248.

The concert is part of a twenty-five city tour for a Nuclear Free Future, a nation-wide effort to benefit groups opposed to nuclear power. This show is being produced by the Union Program Council.

Bette Midler and Alan Bates

'The Rose'- a smash

By JIM MORAN
Collegian Staff

Rock singer Neil Young's philosophy -- that it's better to "burn out than fade away" -- is personified in the form of "The Rose," 20th Century Fox's stunning film about the suffering stardom of a late 1960's blues-rocker singer.

The film, which stars Bette Midler, has received much popular hype as the "long-awaited" biography of the late Janis Joplin. There are certain elements of Joplin's stage presence and self-destructiveness here, to be sure. But the movie is not so much about any "one" personality, than it is a compostie of fast-living sixties' superstars, -- Jim Morrison and Jimi Hendrix, among others.

"The Rose" opens with its epilogue, or, if you like, the rest of the film is a flashback. The setting is the childhood home of "The Rose," with her parents and a concert roadie (who "The Rose" had kidnapped from the Army) looking through some old belongings of the star, a collage of Life magazine covers decorating the wall of the garage. Then the story unfolds, through flawed romances, through excessive "bouts with the bottle" and plenty of good concert footage.

Humor makes its way through this rather undeveloped plot, as when Midler searches for her lover Dyer (Frederic Forrest) in a men's bathhouse, making light of all the middle-aged anatomies she discovers along the way. There is also a great scene at a gay nightclub, where "The Rose" is impersonated by a male, and she boogies with the drag queens all night. There is also one moment, before one of her concerts, when her promoter warns her to behave, to not utter a certain profanity. "The Rose" responds in character: "Hello motherf---ers!"

As the movie continues it becomes clear that "The Rose" is on a one-way path, and there are some very touching moments, most notable of which is the protagonist's visit to her hometown at the film's end.

Alan Bates is convincing as Rudge, "The Rose's" manager, but the events leading up to their strained business and personal relationship is vague. Midler is flawless as the lead, constantly acting campy, suffering all along, and doing a bang-up job with such songs as "Midnight in Memphis," a cover of Bob Seger's "Fire Down Below," and the old blueser, "When a Man Loves a Woman."

Four rock bands, plus Midler's terrific performance, make "The Rose" a must-see for the holiday season. The film will be opening at the Hampshire Four cinemas the week of December 21, and will be coming to a theater near you soon.

Mortar Board presents:
Representative James Collins speaking on
"WHAT THE FUTURE HOLDS FOR US AT UMASS"
Date: Wednesday Dec. 5, 1979
Time: 8:00 P.M.
Where: Memorial Alumni Hall (upstairs)
ALL STUDENTS WELCOME

NEED A JOB NEXT SEMESTER?
THE MASS DAILY COLLEGIAN is looking to fill the following positions:
*ADVERTISING REPRESENTATIVES (CAR REQUIRED)
*DELIVERY PERSON (CAR REQUIRED)
*GRAPHICS PEOPLE
FOR FURTHER INFORMATION, STOP BY THE COLLEGIAN OFFICE 113 CAMPUS CENTER OR CALL 545-3500
PLEASE APPLY BY 3 P.M. DECEMBER 11

Considering a Graduate Career ?
Come to Boston !
Boston University Graduate School
UNIVERSITAS BOSTONIENSIS 1839
The Graduate School of Arts and Sciences at Boston University offers a rich selection of advanced programs of study leading to the M.A. and Ph.D. degrees. Located in the Boston/Cambridge environment, Boston University offers its students a unique blend of scholarly, cultural and social opportunities.
Financial assistance includes teaching fellowships, graduate scholarships, graduate and research assistantships, and work-study awards.
For program information and application materials contact:
Admissions Coordinator
Graduate School (Arts and Sciences)
Boston University
705 Commonwealth Avenue
Boston, MA 02215
Boston University admits students regardless of their race, color, national origin, religion, sex, age, handicap, and veteran status to all of its programs and activities. A copy of the University's complete policy on discrimination is printed in the University catalogue and may be obtained from the Affirmative Action Officer, 19 Deerfield Street, Boston, MA 02215 (617-353-4478).
Degree Programs
Afro-American Studies
American and New England Studies
Anthropology
Archaeological Studies
Art History
Astronomy
Biochemistry
Biology
Chemistry
Classical Studies
Creative Writing
Economics
English
Geography
Geology
History
Interdisciplinary Studies
Language Behavior
Mathematics
Medical Sciences
(Anatomy, Biochemistry, Microbiology, Pathology, Pharmacology, Physiology)
Modern Languages (French, Spanish)
Music
Philosophy
Physics
Political Science
Preservation Studies
Psychology
Sociology
Theological & Religious Studies

University & Office Supplies
Large Selection of Christmas Cards
A.J. Hastings Inc.
newsdealer & stationer
45 S. Pleasant St., Amherst

A REAL VACATION FOR CHRISTMAS
Do you feel tired after your holidays? Do you overtax your body during your holidays instead of finding peace? Think of your jangled nerves, stiff spine, rounded shoulders, and ill ventilated lungs, coated with tar and nicotine; the result is shallow breathing, poor concentration and very little will power.
What you need is a yoga winter vacation at our Yoga Camp on 250 acres of the Laurentian Mountains. Our daily schedule includes proper exercise, proper breathing, proper diet, proper relaxation, and positive thinking and meditation. We have day/night downhill skiing, cross-country skiing with instruction and our own sauna.
Join us for an eleven-day yoga intensive personally conducted by Swami Vishnu Devananda, author of the million copy bestseller "The Complete Illustrated Book of Yoga."
DEC. 22 - JAN 2, $125 or $12.50 per day thru the Winter.
For free ill. brochure call or write to:
SIVANANDA ASHRAM YOGA CAMP
8th Avenue, Val Morin, P.Q. J0T 2R0
(819) 322-3226 New York (212) 255-4560
Washington (202) 331-9642 Chicago (312) 878-2468
Name _____ L
Address _____ Zip Code _____
Send me free illustrated YOGA Handbook ☐
Enclosed is $25 deposit for the following dates _____ to _____ or 11-day intensive ☐

McCord and Sharpe mix magic

By DOUG GESLER
Collegian Staff

Wednesday night at 8:30 the Iron Horse Coffee House in Northampton will provide Pioneer Valley listeners with what promises to be a uniquely beautiful performance.

Vocalist Semenya McCord and bassist Avery Sharpe will be working in a diversity of musical veins, most readily recognized as soul and jazz, though certainly including the influence of blues, gospel and more classical African traditions. Although McCord and Sharpe have worked together in various settings and musical combinations, this will be the first time the two have performed as a duo for an entire show.

Not only will the audience have the opportunity to hear McCord's voice and Sharpe's acutely-rhythmic bass-work in an intimate setting, but solo work by each should provide lovely moments. Besides performing a number of jazz and soul standards, the two will also do original pieces.

Both musicians have been associated with UMass at different points in their careers. Currently, Sharpe is a graduate student in Music Performance. He often perfomrs outside the area as well including a recent two-week European tour with saxaphonist Archie Shepp, of the UMass Afro-American Department. Some of the tour was recorded and will be put into European record release early next year. This January, Shepp will return to Europe, with Sharpe and others, for an extended tour.

Sharpe's earliest connections with UMass include time spent studying under bassist Reggie Workman. It was during this period that Sharpe first began intensive work with the acoustic bass, although he said in an interview the electric bass remains important in his musicianship. Also of great help and influence in the early days, was Dr. Horace C. Boyer of the UMass Music Department with whom Sharpe is still closely affiliated. Other figures which Sharpe cites as important to his musical growth include Charles Greenlee, Fred Tillis and Max Roach.

Avery Sharpe

Vocalist McCord's relation to the University was a brief, although intense one. She was enrolled in Continuing Education in 1974 and 1975 when she studied Afro-American Vocal Techniques, The Black Musician in the Theatre and Jazz Arranging and Composition. She performed in the Voices of New Africa House Workshop Choir under Dr. Boyer's direction and also composed 17 pieces for their spring 1977 musical, "Tomorrow Has Been Here and Gone."

Among McCord's first public appearances were her performances with the jazz quintet, The Unity Ensemble in 1975. Since that time she has played with numerous people including the jazz-fusion group Sunlight 'n' Shade (of which Sharpe was a member), which performed in such diverse settings as Third World rallies and prominent clubs, such as Lulu White's of Boston and Sandy's Jazz Revival of Beverly.

It was her work with Archie Shepp which first brought McCord deserved national acclaim. He recorded original pieces of her's including "There's a Trumpet In My Soul," and "Song for Mozambique." She sang the lead on both occasions.

Last spring McCord and Sharpe, with his Trio, were featured in "The Boston Globe Jazz Festival's Tribute to Parker, Coltrane & Mingus." These two musicians have performed together live since the summer. The chance to see them should not be missed.

GRADUATE STUDENTS!
DISSERTATION AND THESIS BINDING
PERFECT BINDING:
1.00 SOFTCOVER
8.00 HARDCOVER (18.00 at book binderies)
THE COPY CENTER
Hours: 8 a.m.-6 p.m., Mon.-Fri.
32 Pleasant St.
(across from Pleasant St. Theater)
Northampton 584-0117

LSAT GMAT GRE
Class Maximum
12 students
course materials updated after each exam
specialist instructors
38 hour course
test prep services
575 boylston st.
boston, mass. 02116
call 266-5082 collect for info on amherst classes
tps

IT'S NOW OR NEVER
sign up for
SUGARBUSH SKI & PARTY WEEK
JAN. 20-25
$135 includes EVERYTHING
Sign up in the Ski Club Office CC 106
Final Payments Due Immediately
UMASS SKI CLUB

Noreste, Admissions
January '80 and August '80 applicants. 4-year fully recognized and established Mexican Medical School, with several hundred American students enrolled. Use English language textbooks and exams in English. School combines quality education, small classes experienced teachers, modern facilities.
Universidad Del Noreste
120 East 41 St.
NY, NY 10017
(212) 594-6589
or 232-3784

whole wheat PIZZA FACTORY
Introduces:
THE WORKS
Pepperoni, Onions, Mushrooms, GreenPeppers and Sausage
Regularly $8.00
From 5:00 - 10:00 only
7 days
$2.00 off
363 Main St. 256-8587

DESIGNER STYLES AT LOW FACTORY PRICES!
JAN'S AT LESNOWS
COATS-RAINWEAR-SWEATERS-DRESSES-SPORTSWEAR-DESIGNER JEANS-SUITS

148 Pleasant St., Easthampton, Mass.
OPEN: Wed., Thurs., Fri., 11 a.m. to 9 p.m.
OPEN Saturday & Sunday 11 a.m. to 6 p.m.
Phone for Easy Directions 527-0782

SNOW POLICY

Where you can and cannot park

The major objective of snow removal activities at times of severe storms is to make it possible to hold classses and conduct all University activities in as normal a way as possible. Since a large number of the faculty, staff, and student population normally brings cars onto campus, it is important for all concerned to understand clearly what policies and procedures will be followed in the event of a severe storm that temporarily limits parking capacity on campus.

Classes and all other scheduled activities on campus will be held as usual unless a specific announcement is made to the contrary beginning at 6:00 a.m. and continued periodically on the day in question. Such announcements will be made on radio stations WTTT-Amherst 1430 AM, WHMP-Northampton 1400 AM, WHAI-Greenfield 1240 AM, WARE-Ware 1250 AM, WCAT-Orange 1390 AM, WHYN-Springfield 560 AM, WFCR-Amherst 88.5 FM, WTIC-Hartford 1080 AM, WACE-Springfield 730 AM, WTAG-Worcester 580 AM, WSPR-Springfield 1270 AM, and WMUA-Amherst 91.1 FM. It is important that you stay tuned to your radio for additional information in the event of a change. DO NOT CALL THE UNIVERSITY FOR THIS INFORMATION.

Every effort will be made to keep the bus service operation. Snow day schedule changes will be announced on WTTT-AM and WMUA-FM. Call 5-2086 for operating schedules during snow storms

Where you CAN park overnight during snow season (12-1 to 4-1)

P Lot at Stadium -- back of lot only
P Lots at Fraternity/Sorority Park & behind Lot 25
Lot 21 (except Two North Rows)
Lot 22
Lot 24
Lot 25 (North of roadway to P lot only)
Lot 28
Lot 32 (West of Lincoln Avenue only)
Lot 41
Lot 42
Lot 43
Thatcher Way (East side only)
Lot 44
Lot 46
Lot 49
Lot 50

Where you CANNOT park overnight during snow season (12-1 to 4-1)

Stadium P Lot (Front Section)
Lot 21 (Two North Rows)
Lot 25 (South of Roadway to P Lot)
Lot 26
Lot 31
Lot 32 (East of Lincoln Avenue)
Lot 34
Lot 40
Lot 45
Lot 47 (except for HOR & HP)
Lot 62
Lot 63
Lot 64
Lot 65
Lot 66
Lot 71
Any Campus Roadway (including Southwest Horseshoe)
Any Parking Meter

If you believe you were improperly issued a ticket for violation of snow regulations, you may appeal it, within 7 days from its date of issue, to the Parking Appeals Board, Dickinson Hall.

Snow regulations will be enforced December 1 to April 1 regardless of weather conditions.

To place a Collegian Classified
•Come to Collegian Office CC 113
•8:45 to 3:45 Mon-Fri
•Classified deadline is 3:45 two days prior to publication day

Collegian Classifieds

Collegian Classified Rates
•15c per word
•Student rate 10c per word
•Cash in advance
•5 consecutive days 5 % discount
•Phone number FREE

AUDIO

Theatrix Rents Mirror balls and other Disco supplies. Lights for sale, new and used 323-7160

Heathkit 200 watt Amplifier—$500 Gavin II Band Equalizer-$150 546-8814

Kenwood Amp & pioneer Tuner Both in excel cond. $65 each or $120 for both John 549-4130

OHM L's New, walnut, 3 way, best offer 546-5738

AUTO FOR SALE

Fix your own car The student Auto Workshop has tools, space and friendly mechanics to help you maintain your automobile. Tues, Wed, Thurs 3-9 p.m. Sat 10-5 Lower Level CC Gargae 545-0673

1974 Toyota Celica exceptional condition, best offer 546-9826

78 Toyota Corrila 19,000 miles 30+ mpg, many extras $3300 or BO Call Mike 367-2695 after 6 pm

1972 Chevy wagon best offer 253-9498 after 5

78 T-bird mint must be seen Paul 546-8220

71 Buick Electra 225 great shape, runs like a charm, negotiable, call Ted 545-2735

74 Gran Torino good cond, original owner 323-7613

1979 Chevy Chevette 4 speed, 4 door, excellent condition & gas mileage asking $3,900 need $ for tuition 546-6415

68 Dodge Mail Truck needs brake work, converted to camper, best offer 256-0709

1970 Challenger good engine, rusty, sticker $175 call Chai 665-7195

1974 Fiat 128 4 dr. Std, new brakes, tires, & rack & pinion excel engine $1300 253-3313

ENTERTAINMENT

Soundsystem for Hire perfect for bands, discos, coffeehouses Rick 584-4105

FOR RENT

One Bedroom Apartment available Jan. 1 one mile from Campus , no pets $235 includes all & wood for fireplace!!! call 549-6551 after 5:00

2 bedroom Belchertown no bus, utilities included 253-3081 5-7 P.M.

Cheap 1 bedrm in Nhampt Apt close to center and bus , available Jan 1 66.25+ (gas heat) call Patty 586-2769 keep trying

Jan 1st 1 bedroom in house in Belchertown $90 a month + utilities and security. Right on bus route. 3 miles to Campus 256-8412

3 bedrm house N. Amherst avail Jan 1 must assume lease call 549-6924 or 549-5449

No Amherst House 4 to 5 bedroom, wood & electric heat, 7 acres, pets welcome. $550/mo. 549-6032

FOR SALE

Portrait Drawing Dennis Delap, 256-8732

Portraits Profile-$7, full face-$10, color-$20, pets in color-$15 Deborah Pompano 549-4634

Irish Harps various sizes, easy to play. Sylvia Woods. Box 29521, Los Angeles, CA 90029

Men's Nordica Ski Boots nearly new, great condition, size 13m $40 or best price call Julie 549-2664 or 545-3500

Give Greenpeace Seals, Whales T-shirts, necklaces, pins STORM 586-3959

Bed and other bedroom furniture (Cabinets, Desks, etc) must sell, will take best offer! Ron 549-6803

United Airlines ½ fare coupon expires Dec. 15th call 546-4161

G-78-15 Snows $40 586-8008 nites

Downhill Ski Boots Munari mens 6 ladies 7 only worn once yellow, boot carrier, $75 or BO 549-0825 evenings

Scott Superhot boots $60 call 6-7550

Downhill Blizzard Skiis 150 cm, with Tyrolia Super Click Bindings, excellent condition $75.00 or BO call Nettie 546-8114

Womens Head Ski Parka down, size sm. $50 549-0219

Texas Instrument Calculator: SR-52 Programmable, excellent condition, $50.00 call Don Phone: 546-6980 503 Grayson House

Small Manual royal Typewriter works fine $25 665-7060

American Airlines half fare coupon 253-3194

Drumers: one pr. "14" Avedis Zildjian Hi-Hat Cymbals, perfect condition! $90.00 call Mike 546-7760

For Sale 25" Raleigh Competition 4 yr. old $1250 call Mark 546-7901

'77 Puch Moped Runs great! Cheap transportation, low maintainence 546-6353

Two Snowtires JR78-15 Firestone with rims like new $50. each 549-2671 ext. 126 253-3650

FOUND

Woman's Gold Watch on Commonwealth about 3 weeks ago 546-7951

FRIENDS OF BETH AVERY

Oregon is fun
And yes, the rain is here
All the people run
Both far and near
I like it a lot
but it's not the same
'cuz my friends at UMass have infinite fame.
I love and miss you all
see you on the 14th.
Love, Beth Avery

HELP WANTED

Overseas Jobs—Summer/year round. Europe, S. America, Australia, Asia, etc. All fields, $500-$1,200 monthly, expenses paid. Sightseeing, free information write: IJC, Box 52-MC, Corona Del Mar, CA. 92625

Resident Manager/Handyman experienced responsible person or couple. Newly renovated building central Amherst. 549-6478

Seeking persons for 2-3 hours colr-vision testing, especially persons with colr-vision deficiencies. Psychology/Mt. Holyoke 586-3100 x2086

Cook needed for Sorority from 1/29-5/27 prior experience cooking for large groups preferred call Lisa or Jenny 549-1030

Dorm residents earn $$ helping out The Bagel connection call 253-5184

LEGAL SERVICES

Attorney Jason R. Rosenthal General Practice Legal Representation for the Amherst, Mass community by apt. only days 584-4285 evenings 253-7617

LOST

Reward!! Notebook lost in Has 230 11/19 very important-red, course, section, my name all on cover. If found, please call 323-4912 or return to History Dept. Office in Herter Hall 6th floor

Lost glasses & case call 6-5803

Black puppy 13 weeks old white chest and front paws. Wearing flea collar. Name is Abbey 253-9611

Eye glasses on 2nd floor of GRC, desparate, reward 6-6797

PERSONALS

Daytona Beach in March—Peter Pan World Travel Agents MC130223 are offering sensational sunshine and sand during your spring break of March 15-22. Don't get caught without a seat! Includes: 8 days, round trip bus and accommodations, only 1 block from the boardwalk. Double occupancy all for only $299! Please call S. Rayner at 256-0675 or J. Hyde at 1-773-3854 Deposit required immediately-call now

Photographers: UMass Photo Co-op recruitment meeting Thursday, Dec. 6th 7:00 SBA Room 101

Dummies of Kappa Sigma we think you're great

Charismatic Bible Study and Prayer Tuesday December 4th Campus Center 911-915 at 8 pm all students welcome

Whales too big? Seals too cute? Join Friends of the Earthworm! Membership card, button, worm creed, fact sheet, pet plans. $5.00 Uncle Sol's Farm, Box 78129, Seattle, WA 98178. A profit organization

Sporting Goods Co-op Christmas Sale This week and next Open M-F 10-3

Florida in January! Bicycle with UMass Bicycle Club, meeting Thursday Dec. 6 7:00 P.M. Bicycle Coop call Chris 253-9336

Puddlejumpers Last Christmas' biggest sensation is back! The perfect Secret Santa gift has returned just in time to the Campus Center. Still at last year's CHEAP price! When you walk through the Concourse watch the skies above you!!!

Ruth—Happy Birthday roomie!!

Mari sunshine: Happy Birthday! Please excuse message-no peak English. Love and XXX's. L

Eat a bowl of Junior and go nutty

Mike with the gorgeous brown eyes—you make swrhet worth going to. Hope we get to know each other soon because time's running out. D.

Is your bod sore? Get a massage! strictly for relaxation purposes amateur masseuses No Weirdos! by appointment only call 6-8175

Hang with a hag today!

Oh denise—you're just no good—love A.

Happy Birthday Ruth in 437, from your ex-roomie

RIDE WANTED

Need a ride to Florida??? We are heading South end of December. Call 546-6143

ROOMMATE WANTED

Woman wanted to share bedroom in Sunderland Apt $90/mo 665-7795

Two females to share one bedroom in Brittany Manor Apt. $90 starting Jan. call 253-7132

Male for own bedroom in Swiss Village $110 per 256-8616

4th Woman for apt in house. Short walk to UM and town 253-2730

Female to share Brittany Manor apt 253-5961

1 or 2 female non-smokers for 1 bdrm in 2 bdrm apt Liz or Karen 256-6771

Male to share Brittany manor Apt. 256-0214

Reasonable female to share quiet 3 bedroom apartment in Puffton Jan-Aug, own room $113 mo call Debby 549-6371

Female wanted to share furnished Amherst house. Own room. Utilities included. Call Sue 256-8271

One or two women for large room in Brandywine Apt. starting Jan call 549-3809

To sublet female wanted to share room in Puffton Apt. Jan-June 78.75/month call 549-6158

Female student seeking own room in house or apartment for Spring near campus or bus route Debbie 256-8754

Male to share Southwood two bedroom apartment call nights 546-1478

ROOM WANTED

Looking to sublet one bedroom apt in or near Amherst beginning Jan 1 Call 253-2265 evenings

Female seeking own room for Spring near campus or bus 549-1347

SECURITY DEPOSIT PROBLEMS?

Have any questions about your security deposit? Do you think monies were unfairly deducted for repairs or cleaning? Did you get 5% interest? Do you know where your money is being held? Call the Security Deposit Task Force at UMass Legal Services 545-1995 or Off Campus Housing 545-0865

TO SUBLET

One bedroom apartment to sublet Colonial Village call 253-5200

3 bedroom apt Presidential call 549-6617

TRAVEL

Daytona Beach in March—enjoy the sun and sand during Spring Break March 16-23. Includes: 8 days; round trip bus from Umass; airfare and accommodations on Daytona Beach. Four to a room-bring friends! All for only $329.00! Please call M. Provost at 253-5794 Deposit required immediately

WANTED

Fast Immediate Cash for gold-school rings-diamonds-silver Jeff anytime 527-7078 586-0180

I need WHO tickets call Jeff 323-7178

WANTED TO RENT

2 bedroom apt wanted for Spring sem starting Jan call 546-6368 546-6329

2 or 3 bedroom apt wanted for Spring sem call 546-5503

I need a room only for the month of January. Female, non smoker. Please call 546-8237

2 or 3 bedroom apt for Spring semester call 546-4902 or 546-6711

Two bedroom apartment wanted near UMass or on bus route. Call Sue 256-8271

WORCESTER AREA

Earn $400 during semester break 18 or over, car necessary, call noon to 3 today 546-9310

Aluminum Foil by Steve Lafler

Nuke the Whale by Danny Guidera

Beasts by Rob Ranney

Norma B. by M.J. Galper

Doonesbury by Garry Trudeau

TODAY'S CROSSWORD PUZZLE

UNITED Feature Syndicate
Monday's Puzzle Solved

ACROSS
1 Snarl
5 Paint
10 Ragout
14 European river
15 Singly
16 Lifted
17 Gargantuan
19 Jejune
20 Firecracker
21 Some horses
23 Nip
25 Rim
27 Climbing shrub
30 Overcoat
34 — and crafts
35 Gab
37 Macaw
38 Golf prop
39 Worried
41 Resin
42 Comp. pt.
43 Resume
44 Rambler, e.g.
45 Occupancy fee
47 Small fish
50 Hasten
51 Scout group
52 Common
56 Attends
60 Particle
61 French composer
64 Halt
65 Witch of —
66 Confined
67 Crags
68 Moon goddess
60 Springs

DOWN
1 Pant
2 Man's nickname
3 In — —; Routinized
4 Meals
5 Frankness
6 Antique
7 Card game
8 Burden
9 Determined
10 Music signs
11 Cleaved
12 Bad
13 Marries
18 Sea bird
22 Angered
24 Mature
25 Sharpest
27 Sprinkle
28 A Horae
29 Jan —: Dutch painter
31 Claw
32 Efface
33 Speeds
36 Fighting: 2 words
39 Weak
40 Set free
44 Sustaining walls
46 Loud noises
48 Speakers' platforms
49 Executes
52 Over
53 Man's name
54 Needy
55 Hindu queen
57 Exec. abbr.
58 Sicilian resort
59 Super jets: Abbr.
62 Crete peak
63 No: Fr.

DC menu

LUNCH
Open Faced Roast Beef Sandwich
Fiesta Rice and Cheese

BASICS LUNCH
The Salad Sandwich
Fiesta Rice and Cheese

DINNER
Salisbury Steak/Mushroom Sauce
Eggplant Parmigiana

BASICS DINNER
Cheese Nut Loaf
Eggplant Parmigiana

EARTHFOODS

Ratatouilli with cheese
Green salad
Minestrone soup
Corn bread

Custom-Made
In Our Store
Cake'n Ice Cream Cakes

Your choice of
31-derful flavors

BASKIN-ROBBINS
ICE CREAM STORE 31

28 Main St. Amherst 253-9774
across from Town Hall
on the BN/BR bus routes

MOVIE LISTINGS

Academy Of Music
Seduction of Joe Tynan
7:00 9:00

Hampshire 4
Fiddler on the Roof
5:30 8:30
Animal House
6:00 8:45
Starting Over
6:00 8:45
Apocalypse Now
5:30 8:30

Mt. Farms 4
Life of Brian
6:15 8:30
And Justice For All
6:00 8:15
"10"
6:00 8:15
Running
5:15 7:45 10:15

Holyoke 1-8
Muppet Movie
1:10 3:15 5:20 7:25 9:30
Stranger Calls
1:00 3:00 5:00 7:20 9:30
Onion Field
1:45 4:20 7:30 10:00
French Postcards
1:35 3:35 5:40 7:40 9:45
Skatetown U.S.A.
1:00 3:05 5:10 7:15 9:20
Young Frankenstein
3:15 7:40
Silverstreak
1:05 5:30 9:30
Arabian Adventure
2:30 4:40 7:00 9:05
Andrea
2:50 4:45 7:00 9:00

Pleasant St. Cinema
The Wrong Move
6:00 8:00 10:00

Showcase 1-8
Animal House
2:00 7:20 9:30
Fiddler on the Roof
2:00 7:15 10:10
Fish. . .Pittsburg
2:00 7:15 9:30
"10"
2:00 7:00 9:30
Starting Over
2:00 7:15 9:30
Apocalypse Now
1:30 7:10 10:10
Luna
2:00 7:30 10:15
And Justice For All
2:00 7:20 9:25

Shah joins ten fallen rulers

By JAMES F. SMITH
Associated Press

The ill and exiled Shah of Iran lies in a Texas hospital bed, his fate riveting world attention because of 50 Americans held hostage in his name.

But the 10 other rulers who tumbled from power this year have all but vanished.

Since the beginning of the year, the mighty have fallen at the rate of one a month. The countries they ruled span the globe. Many of their names now stand for terror, torture and corruption: Pol Pot, Somoza Mohammad Reza Pahlevi fled Iran Jan. 16 in the face of a revolution fanned by the religious fervor of Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini.

He went to Egypt, then to Morocco, then to the Bahamas. It seemed he was welcome nowhere. Finally, with the help of Henry Kissinger, the 60-year-old shah and his family settled in Mexico on June 10.

He lived in splendor in the mountain resort town of Cuernavaca at Riveroll House, which has rented for $13,500 a month. The estate has a large swimming pool and is staffed by six cooks, five gardeners and two maids.

But the shah will not be returning to those sumptuous surroundings when he leaves the Air Force hospital in San Antonio, where he went Sunday. He had been recuperating in a New York hospital after having gallstones removed and receiving cancer treatment.

On Nov. 29, the Mexican government announced it would not renew his six-month tourist visa, which expires Dec. 9. Egyptian President Anwar Sadat has offered the shah asylum.

"Whosoever exalteth himself shall be humbled..."
Luke 14:11

Khomeini supports the students who took over the U.S. Embassy in Tehran on Nov. 4 and took 63 American hostages, 13 of whom have been released. The students are demanding the shah be sent to Iran, and where he goes next could determine what happens to the hostages.

The toll of the world's despots began on Jan. 8, when Cambodian rebels backed by Vietnamese forces seized the capital of Phnom Penh and ousted Pol Pot, whose government is believed to have killed between 1.2 million and 4 million Cambodians.

With Chinese help, Pol Pot still fights against the Vietnam-backed regime now in Phnom Penh. That regime condemned him to death in absentia in August. No one is certain Pol Pot is still alive, but Western sources say he has withdrawn into the Cardamon Mountains of southwestern Cambodia.

-March 13: Prime Minister Eric Gairy of Grenada, accused by his opponents of murder and fraud, learned while visiting in New York that he had been ousted in a coup.

-April 11: Idi Amin, Ugandan "president for life," fled Kampala just ahead of Tanzanian troops and Ugandan rebels. Amin is accused of killing 200,000 people during his eight-year rule.

In May, Amin told a Philippines magazine that he lived in a villa in Tripoli, Libya, surrounded by 50 bodyguards, perhaps under house arrest. He attacked Western media for portraying him as "an impoverished ape. ...Whether they agree or not, this face is the most beautiful in the world. My mother and wives tell me so."

-June 4: Junior air force officers in Ghana overthrew the 7-year-old military government of Lt. Gen. Fred Akuffo.

-July 17: Anastasio Somoza, 53, whose family had ruled Nicaragua since the 1930s, resigned the presidency and fled. Months of fighting between his National Gurad troops and Sandinista rebels left between 40,000 and 50,000 dead, 200,000 injured, and made refugees of one-fourth of Nicaragua's 2.5 million people.

Somoza settled in Asuncion, Paraguay, with servants, three Mercedes and a swimming pool. Somoza says he wants to be a farmer. He has looked at property in Villarica—a mansion where another exile lived in the 1950s—Argentine dictator Juan Peron.

-Aug. 8: Francisco Macias Nguema Giyogo—who in a decade of terror in Equatorial Guinea killed tens of thousands, including almost all the country's intellectuals—fell to a military coup. He fled but was captured in a village several days later. He was executed Sept. 29 after a trial held in a decrepit movie theater whose last show had been "Cry of Death."

-Sept. 14: Afghanistan President Nur Mohammed Taraki, whose pro-Soviet government was dogged by a bloody Moslem rebellion, was fatally wounded in a palace shootout in Kabul. He was thought missing until October when an Afghanistan radio broadcast said he was buried in the family graveyard.

-Sept. 21: Jean Bedel Bokassa of the Central African Republic—who in 1976 proclaimed himself Emperor Bokassa I of the Central African Empire—was driven from power with French help. Bokassa, 58, implemented such medieval punishments as cutting off ears and clubbing criminals of death. He was accused of ordering the slaughter of 100 children who protested wearing school uniforms.

Bokassa was granted asylum in Ivory Coast, which has refused to extradite him on charges of embezzlement, mass murder and cannibalism.

THE LIVING SPIRIT LIVES ON

The New School's Graduate Faculty of Political and Social Science began in the early 1930's as The University in Exile, a haven for European scholars driven from their homelands by tyranny and persecution. In 1937, Thomas Mann suggested that this faculty of exiles adopt as its motto "To the Living Spirit," which was the inscription on a plaque removed by the Nazis from the Great Hall at the University of Heidelberg.

Today, more than four decades later, The Graduate Faculty continues its commitment to "The Living Spirit"—the spirit of free and rigorous intellectual inquiry. The Graduate Faculty provides students with a rich understanding of the historical and theoretical foundations of their disciplines, while also emphasizing the interdisciplinary nature of all the social sciences, and indeed, of all human knowledge. The aim of The Graduate Faculty is to develop scholars and practitioners with the capacity to create as well as impart knowledge. Thousands of alumni who now serve on college and university faculties, and in leadership roles in government, bear its unique stamp.

Once known as "The Little Heidelberg on 12th Street," the Graduate Faculty is now a community of more than two thousands students and faculty members from all over the world, housed in its own modern building in Greenwich Village. Its founders and past faculty—Hannah Arendt, Alvin Johnson, Max Wertheimer, Claude Levi-Strauss, Horace Kallen, Hans Jonas, Paul Douglas, Jacques Maritain, Gerhard Colm, Max Ascoli, Leo Strauss, Arnold Brecht, and many others—have left a magnificent legacy of intellectual distinction and courage.

Their work is now carried on by the present faculty which includes such distinguished scholars as Robert Heilbroner, Hans Morgenthau, Saul Padover, Leon Festinger, David Gordon, Stanley Diamond, Mary Henle and Michael Harner. Through its faculty and noted scholarly journal, Social Research, The Graduate Faculty maintains its historic ties to the international academic community.

We invite your interest in joining this distinguished community in the Spring or Fall of 1980. At this time, we are accepting applications for graduate programs in Anthropology, Economics, Philosophy, Political Science, Psychology, Sociology, and Liberal Studies.

Areas of study include:

Psychology
- M.A. and Ph.D. in Personality
- Experimental and Social Psychology
- M.A. in Mental Health Services
- Ph.D. in Clinical Psychology

Sociology
- Sociological Theory
- Social and Cultural Processes
- Institutional and Organizational Analysis
- Methods of Social Research
- Peoples and Cultures of the City

Economics
- Political Economy
- Planning and Development
- Industrial Organization and International Trade
- Labor Economics

Anthropology
- Cultural Anthropology
- Ecological and Economic Anthropology
- Cosmology
- Nationalities
- Medical Anthropology

Philosophy
- History of Philosophy
- Continental Philosophy Phenomenology
- Existentialism
- Hermeneutics
- Political Philosophy

Political Science
- American Government
- Comparative Government
- International Relations
- Political Philosophy

Master of Arts in Liberal Studies
An interdisciplinary master's program for generalists rather than specialists, M.A.L.S. was begun at The New School more than ten years ago with initial support from the Ford Foundation. The flexible curriculum examines and interrelates the central ideas of all the social science disciplines, including literature and the arts, and also provides special concentrations and individual study in accordance with the student's special interests

Opportunities are available for financial aid and for part-time study on a degree or non-degree basis. Graduate credits earned while in non-degree status may be applied towards a degree at a later date. All classes—day, evening and weekend—are held in the Albert List Academic Center, Fifth Avenue at 13th Street, convenient to all public transportation including PATH service from New Jersey.

For additional information, or to arrange for a visit and interview, call (212) 741-5710, or mail the coupon.

25

The Graduate Faculty
NEW SCHOOL FOR SOCIAL RESEARCH

Office of Admissions
65 Fifth Avenue
New York, N.Y. 10003

Please send me the Graduate Faculty bulletin and application for admission. I am particularly interested in the following program(s):

☐ Anthropology ☐ Medical Anthropology ☐ Economics ☐ Philosophy ☐ Political Science ☐ Psychology ☐ Mental Health Services ☐ Clinical Psychology ☐ Sociology ☐ Master of Arts in Liberal Studies

Name_____
Address_____
City_____
State_____ Zip_____
Phone_____

The UMass Photo Co-op
ANNOUNCES:
RECRUITMENT FOR NEXT SEMESTER
POSITIONS AVAILABLE IN:
INVENTORY CONTROL
MARKETING
ACCOUNTING
COLLECTION
PERSONNEL
RECRUITMENT
SALES
MEETING: DEC. 6 7:00 SBA 101
COME AND LEARN ABOUT US

W. S. Associates
Minority Employment Counseling and Career Development
A UNIQUE EXPERIENCE FOR THOSE WHO WANT TO SUCESSFULLY COMPETE IN THE COMPETITIVE JOB MARKET.
By Appointment Only
413-739-9245 6:00 P.M.-8:00 P.M.

SEND A MESSAGE TO JIMMY... wear a TEDDY-T!

BLUE AND RED ON LIGHT BLUE, YELLOW, OR WHITE
SIZES
MEN'S S, M, L, XL, XXL / WOMEN'S S, M, L
MEN'S $7.00 ($8.00 for XXL) + S&H Handling*
WOMEN'S $7.50 + S&H Handling*
California Residents add 6% Sales Tax
*4 to 6 Week Delivery!
Send Check or Money Order (U.S. only) to
DAY ENTERPRISES
1899 Ocean Avenue
SAN FRANCISCO, CA 94127

ANTI-NUKE? SAY IT LOUD!

BLACK AND RED ON YELLOW T-SHIRT
SIZES
MEN'S S, M, L, LX, XXL / WOMEN'S S, M, L
MEN'S $8.00 (XXL $9.00) + S&H Handling*
WOMEN'S $8.00 + S&H Handling*
California Residents add 6% Sales Tax
*4 to 6 Week Delivery!
*$1.00 will be donated to ANTI-NUKE Movement Committee
Send Check or Money Order (U.S. only) to
DAY ENTERPRISES
1899 Ocean Avenue
SAN FRANCISCO, CA 94127

Bart Connor of the United States performs during the 20th World Gymnastics Championships held in Forth Worth, Texas in the vault exercise of the Men's Compulsories yesterday.

Mermen fall to BU

By SCOTT SOLOMON
Collegian Staff

On the strength of 11 first place victories in 13 events, the Boston University Terriers defeated the UMass varsity swimmers, 80-33 in the season opener for the Minutemen Saturday in Boston.

Six B.U. swimmers are on full scholarship, which made things difficult for UMass. "We came up against a barn burner," said Coach Russ Yarworth. "They have six guys on full scholarship and we just can't compete with anything like that."

With the exception of Tom Dundon, who took first place in the 50-yard freestyle event (22:58) the Minutemen were, as Yarworth put it, "flat." "I think they were shocked after the first two events," he said.

Yarworth praised the performance of Dan Anthony, who placed third in the one-meter dive, behind Don Bonasia and Australia's Mark Graham of B.U. "That can be attributed to the work of (UMass) diving coach Bruce Parsons," commented Yarworth.

The Minutemen were in top form in the 400-yard freestyle relay as they finished first, paced by the team of Steve Samuel, Mike Boucher, John Sleeman, and Tom Dundon.

This afternoon UMass will host Tufts University at 4:00 p.m., in a meet which will again be a test for the Minutemen.

This is the famous Budweiser beer. We know of no brand produced by any other brewer which costs so much to brew and age. Our exclusive Beechwood Aging produces a taste so smooth and drinkability you will find in no other beer at any price.

THE WORLD'S RENOWNED
BUDWEISER LAGER BEER
AMERICA'S FINEST

Budweiser®
KING OF BEERS®
ATHLETE OF THE WEEK

GENUINE GENUINE

Sophomore All-American Judy Strong scored five goals in the national field hockey tournament at Princeton, N.J. last week to help the Minutewomen to a fourth place finish. Strong earns Budweiser Athlete of the Week for her efforts. (Staff photo by Pat McCarthy)

this Bud's for you!

Sports notices

RUGBY CLUB—The Rugby club will hold a meeting this Thursday, Dec. 6 at 7:00 p.m. in the commuter lounge of the Student Union Building. Members should bring money for banquet tickets; $7.00 a couple.

Russ Burgess
"ESP and Hypnotism in Action"
FREEevent
sponsored by C.C.P.C.
Wednesday, Dec. 5 8 p.m. SUD

The UMass Music Theatre Guild
is now accepting staff applications for the Spring '80 Production of APPLAUSE
Needed are:
Producer
Director Music Director Choreographer
Stage Manager Tech director Master Electrician
Costume, Set, Lighting, Designers Master Carpenter
Publicity Director
For more info call Mark at 546-9051

Live Entertainment with STEVE SPELMAN

Tuesday
Dec. 4 9-12
NO COVER
50c DRAFT BEERS
549-5713
55 University Drive

The Student Senate Budgets Committee is accepting proposals for funding in FY '81. All R.S.O. groups seeking S.A.T.F. monies should submit their proposals no later than December 14, 1979 at 5:00 p.m. in the Senate Office, Rm. 420 of the Student Union Building.

Information packets were put in your mail boxes by the end of the week.

USC tailback Charles White, the second leading rusher in college history, puts his arm around the Heisman Trophy won by O.J. Simpson in 1968 after he was announced the 1979 Heisman winner yesterday in Los Angeles. (AP Laserphoto)

USC's White named 1979 Heisman winner

By HERSCHEL NISSENSON
Associated Press

NEW YORK — Southern California tailback Charles White, who once said he wanted to win several Heisman Trophies, settled for one yesterday when he was named the 1979 Heisman winner as "the outstanding college football player in the United States."

White, who finished fourth in the voting a year ago, led the nation in rushing with 1,803 yards and became college football's second leading career ground-gainer with 5,598 regular-season yards to 6,082 for Tony Dorsett of Pittsburgh. He easily outdistanced the 1978 Heisman winner, Oklahoma running back Billy Sims, in the voting.

"When I was a freshman, I told a writer I was anxious to win two or three of them (Heismans)," White said. "But, boy, was I talking out of my head. I was immature. I was young and scared then and just learning what it takes to be a football player.

"I know I set my goals too high. Gary Jeter (a Southern Cal tackle) showed me. I was a second-string back and he was first-string on defense and he welcomed me in a scrimmage. Oh, how he welcomed me."

White received 453 first-place votes, 144 seconds and 48 thirds for 1,695 points on a 3-2-1 basis. Sims, Oklahoma's brilliant running back, had 773 points on 82 firsts, 180 seconds and 167 thirds.

"I was surprised," White said. "I really felt Billy showed a strong comeback, especially the game against Nebraska. I watched the first half and Billy Sims ... that's all I was thinking about."

Sims rushed for 247 yards against Nebraska on Nov.24 in a game televised to most of the country. A week earlier, he gained a career-high 282 yards against Missouri, but the surge came too late to overcome the lead White built up during the season when he set a national record by gaining 1,090 yards in five consecutive games, including 261 in a nationally televised contest against Notre Dame.

The 1,050 Heisman voters — 175 in each of six geographical regions — were required to have their ballots in by last Friday at 9 a.m., EST.

White, a 6-foot, 185-pounder from San Fernando, Calif., carried every district — the Northeast, Mid-Atlantic, South, MidWest, Southwest and Far West.

UMass Minuteman Tom Witkos (42) shows the form he used to score 14 points during last night's UMass loss to the University of Toledo. (Collegian File Photo)

Collegian Sports

Toledo edges cagers

By STEVE ZACK
Collegian Staff

TOLEDO, OHIO—The Minutemen may have been made a 22.5 point underdog by the oddsmakers, but they battled the nationally ranked University of Toledo throughout last night's ballgame only to come out on the short end of an 84-74 score. The key to the ballgame was the fact that Toledo made 19 trips to the foul-line in the second half, connecting on 13 of the attempts, while the Minutemen went to the line exactly zero times in that 2nd half.

Toledo's Jim Swaney led all scorers with 28 points. UMass' Curtis Phauls led the Minutemen with 21 points and led all rebounders with nine.

The team's battled tightly throughout the first half. Toledo took an early five-point lead at 6-1, but the Minutemen quickly cut it to one point, 8-7, when Tom Witkos (who scored 14 points) laid one in on a pass from Dan Wright.

Midway through the period Toledo opened up a ten-point lead, 26-16 but the Minutemen managed to cut it down to five, 41-36 at halftime.

Toledo is now 1-1, while UMass' record falls to 0-2.

Schmautz to be traded

BOSTON (AP)— Winger Bobby Schmautz, publicly critical of Boston Bruins Coach Fred Creighton, was ordered sent home Monday by the National Hockey League team and will be traded as soon as possible.

A statement from General Manager Harry Sinden came after Schmautz was quoted as saying Creighton's system "is not conducive to winning hockey...We're not getting enough ice time."

Creighton told reporters that the decision to deal Schmautz resulted from cumulative problems. Schmautz, Sinden said, "has requested in the past that he be traded and we will make every effort to accommodate him."

Sinden, in Florida for a meeting of the NHL Board of Governors, said Schmautz will not accompany the team on its road games this week in Philadelphia and Long Island.

Schmautz claimed to be speaking for other players when he criticized Creighton.

Jim Degnim

Boxing, is it sport?

Willie Classen is dead. He shouldn't be.

The 29-year-old middleweight boxer was knocked out in the tenth round Nov. 23 by Willie Scypion at Madison Square Garden's Felt Forum. He went into a coma and never regained consciousness. He died last Wednesday of a brain hemorrhage.

The fight should have stopped after the ninth round when Classen suffered considerable punishment. According to the New York Post, Scypion said that Classen was "out on his feet" when he took a standing eight-count in the ninth. "I looked at the referee (Lew Eskin) several times in that round," Scypion said, "but he wouldn't stop the fight."

At the start of round ten, Classen was barely able to stagger out of his corner. He couldn't even raise his gloves. Scypion knocked him through the ropes just 12 seconds into the round. Classen was taken away on a stretcher.

Somebody is at fault. It's easy to blame Eskin but I hesitate to because of the referee's low position in the hierarchy of organized boxing. Still, he let the bout continue when (films show) that it was obvious that Classen was unable to defend himself.

Scypion can't be faulted. He was only doing what boxers are trained to do: keep punching until the fight is stopped or your opponent is knocked out.

This isn't a plea from an anti-boxing fanatic to abolish the sport. But something must be done to ensure that fighters aren't subjected to brutal beatings like the one which killed Classen. When one guy has degenerated into nothing but a punching bag, end the fight.

Now there are those who will rush to the defense of this macho display that calls itself a sport. "This is one isolated incident," they'll say, "and besides, look at all the deaths in football."

True, it is rare for a boxer to die as a result of injuries from a match, but many, many fighters feel long-term ill effects. Physicians have documented a phenomenon known as "cauliflower brain," which is attributed to repeated blows to the head. This mentally impairs, to varying degrees, many boxers and ex-boxers.

Arguing that deaths occur in other sports and are just a regrettable by-product of athletics is senseless. In football (or hockey or any other game where people have died) violence is used to achieve a higher goal; it's instrumental. You tackle a player to prevent him from crossing the goal line.

(The two pro football deaths since 1968, those of Chuck Hughes and J.V. Cain, were both by heart attack, caused by exertion, not by contact with another player.)

Boxing is different. The only goal of the sport is to hurt your foe, punch his lights out.

For this reason, it is imperative that officials take precautions to ensure that only individuals with high character and some reverence for human life be certified as trainers and cornermen.

Marco Minuto, Classen's manager whose background has come under question since his fighter's death, reportedly pushed Classen out for the fatal tenth round. While this is a common practice for cornermen, it's also the type of thing that more stringent screening of handlers would head off.

There has been some speculation that the fight was fixed, and that Classen had to go the full ten rounds in order for him and his people to collect. This may or may not be true, but boxing has always been a crooked sport with underworld ties. And while people can't expect to clean up the sport, at least we can keep the Willie Classens of this world alive to collect for taking a dive.

Surprisingly, several politicians are pushing for further investigations into the fight. A hearing held by the NY State Boxing Commission the day after the fight, cleared all officials connected with the fight of any wrongdoing.

But since then, New York Gov. Hugh Carey has ordered the state's Athletic Commission to investigate the bout. NY State Senator Roy Goodman (R—Manhatten), a mayoral candidate last year, is also taking a hard line, spurring further inquiries. And U.S. Rep. Edward Beard (D—Rhode Island), sponsor of a bill to establish a federal boxing board, flew to New York Saturday to look into the controversial fight.

Willie Classen: another victim of an alleged "sport" which consumes its participants as no other does. Boxing is violent, therein lies its appeal, but it needn't be fatal.

MASSACHUSETTS DAILY VOLUME CIX, ISSUE 62 Wednesday, December 5, 1979

Collegian

1979, Massachusetts Daily Collegian

Student Newspaper of the University of Massachusetts/Amherst, Ma. 01003 (413)545-3500

UNanimous

The 15 members of the United Nations Security Council raise their hands unanimously yesterday, as they urgently call on Iran to immediately release the American hostages being held in Tehran. (AP Laserphoto)

Security Council urges release of 'Tehran 50'

By MAUREEN JOHNSON
Associated Press

TEHRAN, Iran — The month-old U.S. Embassy crisis took a sudden grim turn yesterday as Iran's foreign minister declared the American hostages would be put on trial and their Moslem militant captors were reported to have threatened to shoot them if they did not "cooperate."

At an emergency U.N. Security Council session in New York, the 15 members unanimously passed a resolution urging Iran to release the 50 hostages immediately and appealing to both Iran and the United States "to exercise the utmost restraint" in the critical situation.

Pentagon officials reported a six-ship Navy force led by the aircraft carrier Kitty Hawk has reached the Arabian Sea area, joining another U.S. carrier force. This put the ships, carrying more than 135 planes, within reach of the entrance of the Persian Gulf.

President Carter has warned Iran of "extremely grave" consequences if the hostages are harmed, and U.S. officials say a trial of the diplomats would be an even more grievous violation of international law than the hostage seizure itself.

The report of threats to shoot hostages came from a White House official in Washington.

The official, who asked not to be named, said the hostages "have been threatened with execution if they fail to cooperate with their captors." He said it could be assumed "I don't mean cooperation just ... in routine matters."

The warning of an upcoming trial of the hostages as "spies" came from Iran's acting foreign minister, Sadegh Ghotbzadeh.

Iranian television said he told a French interviewer that the American captives would be tried "for sure."

Whether the hostages will be punished according to the verdict — they could be sentenced to death — would depend on Iran's leader, Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini, who could overrule the sentence "if the United States extradites the shah," Ghotbzadeh reportedly said.

The Iranian account of the interview with the French newspaper Le Figaro differed slightly from the version published by Le Figaro. In that, Ghotbzadeh says such halfway measures as an international investigation of ousted Shah Mohammad Reza Pahlavi's regime would not settle the crisis.

"Thus the hostages will be tried?" he was asked.

"Yes."

Previously, Iran threatened to try the hostages on espionage charges only if Carter stuck to his refusal to send back the shah.

Campus debate spurs anti-nuke sentiment

By JEFF BAKER
Collegian Staff

A capacity Morrill Auditorium audience witnessed a marked philosophical contrast on nuclear energy last night in a debate entitled, "Should nuclear power be used as a source of energy?"

Arguing for nuclear power was silver-haired Bill Semanie, public relations man for Northeast Utilities, Co., while the vocal anti-nuclear forces were represented by bearded, pony-tailed Mark Anderson of the Student Coalition Against Nukes Nationwide.

The debate opened with moderator Ken Dolbeare, a UMass political science professor, welcoming the participants and the crowd and laying the ground rules for the debate. Each speaker was allowed a fifteen-minute opening statement followed by a ten-minute spontaneous rebuttal. Questions were taken from the audience.

Semanie opened his remarks by joking that the ovation he received would be his only one of the evening. He then went into a carefully prepared address, declaring that the nuclear industry "is hanging by a political thread" and can survive only if all relevent economic, safety and environmental factors are considered. Semanie stressed nuclear power is cheaper and more available than either coal or oil. He said 58% of Northeast Utitilities' 1978 power was nuclear generated, at a 40% cost advantage over coal. He also pointed to the nuclear industry's "proven safety record" of no deaths or injuries in 22 years of operation. Semanie concluded his presentation by stating that alternate technologies such as hydroelectric and solar power are technologically ready but not cost effective for generating consumer power.

Anderson of SCANN then took the podium to sustained applause from the predominantly anti-nuclear crowd. He incorporated some rebuttal in his prepared remarks, chiding Semanie for his safety contentions by pointing out that an Oklahoma jury found the Kerr-McGee corporation legally responsible for the death of employee Karen Silkwood, who was killed while attempting to deliver evidence of the plant's nuclear safety violations. He then challenged many of

TURN TO PAGE 6

One of several gunshot holes in the 19th floor lounge window in John Adams dormitory in Southwest. (Staff photo by Ben Marsden)

JA sniper triggers campus police probe

By NORM WHITEHURST
Collegian Staff

UMass Police are investigating an apparent sniping incident which left a lounge window in John Adams Dormitory in Southwest Residential Area riddled with "bullet" holes sometime yesterday morning.

As many as ten holes were reported to have damaged the glass on the 19th floor lounge but none penetrated, according to Allyson Hopkins, co-head of residence of John Adams upper. There was no one in the lounge at the time of the incident.

The shooting occurred sometime after 2 a.m. Hopkins said. The holes were discovered by a janitor around noon and reported by tower personnel.

There was no bullets or slugs found in the room and no damage to any other floors, said Hopkins.

UMass Director of Security Gerald O'Neil said campus police are working on a theory which links the shots to John Quincy Adams Dormitory, across from John Adams.

According to O'Neil, the shots were fired from a low caliber weapon, possiblya BB gun or a sling-shot. "But," he added, "we have little to go on at this point. There are no suspects yet."

UMass Patrolman Douglas Wilson is investigating the shooting.

A similar incident occurred in the lounge of Gorman Dormity in Central Residential ARea over a month ago. In that shooting, two holes were put through the lounge window by a low-caliber weapon, Assistant Cluster Coordinator Fred Winer said. There are still no suspects in that case, he said.

It is unknown whether the John Adams and Gorman shootings are related at this time, according to a police spokesman.

'Who' tour reviewed after deaths

CINCINNATI (AP) — The youngest to die were two 15-year-old girls; the oldest, a man of 22. All but two Kentucky residents were from Ohio. And one was the mother of two small children.

The 11 shared a common fate—death under the feet of thousands of stampeding rock fans trying to get seats at a concert by "The Who" at Riverfront Coliseum on Monday night.

A survivor, Diana Cubert, recalled yesterday from her hospital bed the nightmare of people losing their footing and being trampled.

"I thought I was dead," the 20-year-old woman said. "I didn't think they were going to get me out.

"I lay there at least 15 to 20 minutes. All the time there were people walking over me," Cubert said, adding that she saw people being passed out over the heads of the crowd.

"I thought they were just passed out, but they might have already been dead," she said.

The stampede in Cincinnati caused the Providence Civic Center yesterday to cancel the Dec. 17 performance by The Who.

Mayor Vincent A. Cianci Jr. and Safety Commissioner Sanford H. Gorodetsky already have said they would be unable to provide enough police to guarantee security during the concert at the city-owned arena.

Charles Toomey, executive director of the facility, said the cancellation would cost the city its $12,000 share of the concert revenues.

"If we had known last week when the permit was granted what we know now, we never would have allowed the performance," said Christopher Antonelli, chairman of the Civic Center Authority.

But officials of the New Haven Coliseum said yesterday they had no plans for security for the Who's Dec. 15 concert there.

They said all the tickets for the concert were for specific seats, and have been sold.

In Boston, the city licensing commission will hold a hearing today to decide whether to allow the group to perform in the city Dec. 15.

Richard J. Sinnett, who is head of the licensing commission, said the hearing is being held to prevent a similar tragedy, "which the city certainly does not want repeated in Boston."

And in Buffalo last night, The Who went on as scheduled before 17,000 cheering, exuberant fans after the group's lead singer dedicated the performance to the 11 young people killed one night earlier.

"You all know what happened yesterday," singer Roger Daltry said from the stage. "There's nothing we can do. We feel totally shattered. But life goes on. We lost a lot of family yesterday—and this show is for them."

DIGEST

State tries to oust oil rigs

BOSTON (AP) — Attorneys for the state of Massachusetts and a conservation group go to court tomorrow, trying yet again to keep drilling rigs out of Georges Bank, one of the world's richest fishing grounds.

The attorney general's office and the Conservation Law Foundation of New England will ask the U.S. 1st Circuit Court of Appeals for an injunction against the sale of 116 offshore oil lease tracts, scheduled for Dec. 18, in a replay of court action early last month.

The two groups won an 11th hour delay of the lease sales on Nov. 6 when Supreme Court Justice William Brennan ordered a temporary halt in bidding procedures then taking place at a Providence, R.I., hotel.

The rest of the high court later vacated that order, but the interruption required the lease sale to be rescheduled.

Begin's coalition threatened

JERUSALEM (AP) — Israeli Prime Minister Menachem Begin's shaky coalition was threatened on two fronts yesterday as West Bank settlers debated a government evacuation order and an Orthodox religious party demanded tighter abortion laws.

The settlers, after round-the-clock discussion, submitted their response to a government demand they unconditionally evacuate Elon Moreh, which was declared illegal by the Israeli Supreme Court. They refused to release their answer until a written version was in Begin's hands.

Israeli army radio quoted Elon Moreh leader Benny Katzover as saying "the spirit of the decision is to voluntarily evacuate" the settlement without conditions. However, Israel Radio said the settlers would not move without compromise from Begin.

Quebec minister of state for economic development Bernard Landry says the province has a "trump card" in the energy game. Landry says the James Bay hydroelectric power project will be more and more valuable as oil prices relax. (AP Laserphoto)

Taiwan treaty seen by SC

WASHINGTON (AP) — A constitutional showdown over President Carter's authority to end a 25-year-old defense treaty with Taiwan reached the Supreme Court yesterday.

Lawyers representing Sen. Barry Goldwater, R-Ariz., and 24 other current and former members of Congress urged the court to rule that Carter has no such authority.

The president ended the treaty with Taiwan effective Jan. 1 as part of the administration's program to resume normal diplomatic relations with mainland China.

Goldwater and the others sued Carter, contending no treaty could be ended without approval of two-thirds of the Senate or a majority of both houses of Congress.

Iran spurs Arab gas walkout

KUWAIT (AP) — Saudi Arabia's oil minister walked out of a meeting of Arab oil ministers yesterday to protest attempts by Syria and Libya to introduce a resolution of support for Iran in its dispute with the United States, conference sources said. The Kuwait government said he did not walk out.

Sheik Ahmed Zaki Yamani left the hall soon after a meeting of nine members of the Organization of Arab Petroleum Exporting Countries opened here, the sources said. He reportedly returned to his country.

The sources, who asked not to be identified, said Yamani objected to the attempt to introduce the resolution, saying "OPEC is an economic and not a political organization."

The Massachusetts Daily Collegian (USPS 333-220) is published daily Monday through Friday excluding January, June, July, and August, for $15 at 113 Campus Center, University of Massachusetts, Amherst, MA 01003. Second class postage paid at Amherst, Mass. Postmaster: Send address changes to Massachusetts Daily Collegian, 113 Campus Center, University of Massachusetts, Amherst, MA 01003.

We have a good selection of beautiful FRAMES silver • oak black • walnut gold • teak popular sizes complete with glass and mat perfect for prints & photos at the art store within a store

ALL FRAMES AT DISCOUNT PRICES

campus center/umass
the UNIVERSITY STORE

GIVE-A-BOOK CERTIFICATE
a totally new nationwide idea for giving books

select a thoughtful greeting card you can personalize purchase and enclose a "give-a-book" certificate in the amount of your choice

"give-a-book" certificate redeemable at any participating book store

let them choose their own perfect gift

the UNIVERSITY STORE
campus center/umass

Holiday BOOK FAIR

Encyclopedia of Chinese Food & Cooking One of the most complete Chinese Cookbooks ever published. 1,000 major recipes from all over China. Styles incl. Mandarin, Sezechuan, Cantonese, Hunan, Shantung, Shanghai, and Fukien. Orig. Pub at $17.50 New complete edition only $7.98

Creative Cooking For Two Hundreds of tantalizing, quick and easy recipes specially adapted for the two of you. Will save you money and time and there will be no waste. Everything from appetizers to deserts. only $4.98

Italian Cooking Loads of easy to make, zesty and inspired Italian specialties. Incl. Sicilian Sausage Soup, Conelloni Venetian Style, Milanese Veal Rolls and more. only $2.98

Chinese Cooking Scores of exotic, easy-to-prepare, tantalizing recipes. Incl. Chinese Stuffed Mushrooms, Spareribs with Fresh Peppers, Peking Duck, Shrimp with Cucumber and more only $2.98

Also Art of Cooking, Polish Cooking, Creative Wok Cooking and dozens more!

on special tables
in book dept. quan. limited

the holiday store
campus center/umass
the UNIVERSITY STORE

The Blue wall Announces the return of

Ray Boston
Thursday,
December 6

TOC STicker & Valid ID required to purchase alcohol

Student group books bands for area parties

By ED LEVINE
Collegian Staff

If your group or dorm is having trouble finding entertainment for its next party or concert, try the Union Program Council Advisory Committee. They might not be able to bring in the Rolling Stones, but...

The advisory committee is designed to assist student groups in organizing various functions, said committee co-chairpersons Sandy Grieco and Marshall Weinberg.

"We'll go out and search for a band," Weinberg said. "Since we have direct access to bands we can get them cheaper and easier than most students can. We're acting as a middle man, so groups don't have to go through agencies. Our service is free."

In addition, the committee also advises students how to deal with payments through the Recognized Student Organization system and how to schedule facilities, and informs them of Campus Center and alcohol policies, Grieco said.

In past years the council has assisted in organizing dorm semi-formals, parties, coffee houses, and various area spring concerts. "We just help produce the show," Weinberg said. "It's still the sponsors show. We take no credit."

The advisory committee is located in the UPC offices in room 406 of the Student Union building.

The UPC is the organizaiton responsible for producing concerts on campus. The group schedules shows throughout the year, in various locations such as the Fine Arts Center Concert Hall, Bowker Auditorium, the Hatch, and the Blue Wall. It also produces the annual spring concert in Alumni Stadium.

In the past, UPC has presented such artists as the Grateful Dead, Talking Heads, Patti Smith, Bonnie Raitt, Elvis Costello, The Kinks, and others.

Women athletes receive less aid

By DIANE CLEHANE
Collegian Staff

Only 15 percent of an estimated $261,000 available for athletic scholarships in 1979 was awarded to women athletes, according to Bob O'Connell, associate director of athletics at UMass.

Figures for the 1979 athletic scholarships show that while only two men's teams had available scholarship funds, men's total $225,000 in scholarships is more than six time the amount of aid available to women athletes at UMass.

O'Connell explained that 85 percent of the scholarship budget available for men on the football team and basketball team is a matter of academic priority. "The football team has a larger scholarship allowance because it brings in the largest amount of revenue to the budget," he said..

The two women's teams that have available scholarship funds—gymnastics and basketball—receive $23,000 and $18,000 respectively. They are allotted these funds in hopes of bringing new revenue in to the athletic department which is necessary to expand the scholarship program, O'Connell said.

O'Connell said funds for women's teams are increasing, while the available funds for men's scholarships are declining. This trend is illustrated by the actions of the athletic department in its reduction from eight to two men's teams now eligible to receive scholarships.

1974 was the first year UMass women athletes received athletic scholarships. O'Connell said this was the decision of the Association of Intercollegiate Athletics for Women. "The organization, not the school, decided that up until that point women were not allowed to receive athletic scholarships." O'Connell said.

The scholarships awarded to both men and women athletes are granted through the Athletic Office. The Office of Financial Aid is separate from that office in determining students' needs, O'Connell said. O'Connell said criteria for admission to UMass does not differ between men and women athletes, or between athletes and non-athletes. No renovations in the UMass athletic scholarship program are projected in the future, according to O'Connell.

University Dancer Nancy Billings performs an arabesque during last night's dance concert in Hampden Dining Commons in Southwest. This move was from Sunset, a piece choreographed by Richard Jones. (Staff photo by Doug Paulding)

Foreign students visit

By ED LEVINE
Collegian Staff

Students from six foreign nations will be visiting the campus today and will speak before the Undergraduate Student Senate tonight on student unionization and disarmament.

Students from India, France, Bulgaria, Jamaica, West Germany and the United Kingdom will speak, said David Barenberg, former senate speaker. The students are currently on tour addressing both issues at universities across the nation, he said.

"They will be addressing the role of student unionization particularly as it relates to disarmament efforts," Barenberg said. "Student unions are strong in Europe. In the United Kingdom the National Union of Students is the third largest union in the nation. They have a large block of voters and carry a lot of weight in social as well as educational issues.'

Joel Weissman, Student Government Association co-director of communications, said although student unions are currently non-existent in the United States, student unionizaton is a goal the SGA and other student groups are working towards. Student unions would provide for collective bargaining to settle disputes such as tuition and fee hikes with university administrators, he said.

The foreign visitors will address the Student Senate at its regular meeting at 8 p.m. in room 163 of the Campus Center.

THE ARK
(Episcopal Church at UMass)

Sundays at The Ark — 6:00 PM supper (potluck); 7:00 PM Bible Study, Prayer, Eucharist
Wednesdays — 1:05 PM At Newman
Rev. Ian Montgomery 758 N. Pleasant 549-5929

The UMass Photo Co-op
ANNOUNCES:
RECRUITMENT FOR NEXT SEMESTER
POSITIONS AVAILABLE IN:
INVENTORY CONTROL
MARKETING
ACCOUNTING
COLLECTION
PERSONNEL
RECRUITMENT
SALES
MEETING: DEC. 6 7:00 SBA 101
COME AND LEARN ABOUT US

SEND A MESSAGE TO JIMMY... wear a TEDDY-T!
I'm Ready for Teddy
BLUE AND RED ON LIGHT BLUE, YELLOW, OR WHITE
SIZES
MEN'S: S, M, L, XL, XXL / WOMEN'S: S, M, L
MEN'S: $7.00 ($8.00 for XXL) + S&H Handling*
WOMEN'S: $7.50 + S&H Handling*
California Residents add 6% Sales Tax
(A U.S. Mass Donee)
Send Check or Money Order (U.S. only) to:
DAY ENTERPRISES
1001 KEARNY STREET
SAN FRANCISCO, CA 94133

ANTI-NUKE? SAY IT LOUD!
NO NUKES
IS GOOD NUKES
BLACK AND RED ON YELLOW T-SHIRT
SIZES
MEN'S: S, M, L, LX, XXL / WOMEN'S: S, M, L
MEN'S: $8.00 (XXL $8.50) + S&H Handling*
WOMEN'S: $8.50 + S&H Handling*
California Residents add 6% Sales Tax
(A U.S. Mass Donee)
*$1.00 will be donated to ANTI-NUKE Movement Committee
Send Check or Money Order (U.S. only) to:
DAY ENTERPRISES
1001 KEARNY STREET
SAN FRANCISCO, CA 94133

Best deal in Town?
Bluewall Happy Hour

Featuring Shirts, Hats & Jackets with All Major Logos
SPORT SHACK
Red Sox
Patriots
Yankees
Cowboys
Hampshire Mall, Hadley, Mass.

WEDNESDAY NITE COUPON

$1.00 off items listed valid on Wed night 5-9 pm only

$1.00 off on the following items with this coupon

☐Paperback Books. $1.00 off any boxed set of paperbacks. We have sets for anyone's interests.

☐UMass Imprinted Shirt. $1.00 off any UMass shirt.

☐Wall Calendars. $1.00 off any decorative wall calendar. Dozens of styles. Minimum price for coupon $4.95

Remember! You can redeem the coupon on Wednesday night, Dec. 5 between 5 pm - 9 pm only.

campus center/umass
the UNIVERSITY STORE

Black Affairs

Course taught on racial holocausts

Terrell Evans
Black Affairs Staff

"Black, Indians, and Jews; Racial Holocausts in Western History," will be the title of a new course that will be taught next semester by professor William Strickland of the UMass Afro-American studies department. A lot of attention has been focused on Jewish History, but I want to look at the West Indian and Black experience in North America during the period of European Colonization.

"We will look at it terms of Western History itself, and get a wider perspective on the practice of genocide in western History," Strickland said. The books he selects cover a historical/political approach and point that the Jewish Holocaust isn't the only Holocaust in western history.

"One of the questions we want to address is why the West is so guilty about what happened to the Jews, when it continually ignores the slaughter of millions of other people," he said. For example, millions of Blacks were killed during slave trade and slavery. And even the Third Reich, persecuted homosexuals, retarded people and Russians, but it is ignored. The same feelings are not there."

The books are, "Conquest of New Spain," by Bernal Diaz the writings of one of the original Conquistadors. "Adventures of an African Slaver," by Captain Canoe who was a slave trader for twenty years. "Red, White and Black," which is exams the relations of Indians, Black and Europeans in colonial times. "Harvest of Hate," by Leon Poliakof, "Uncle Tom's Children," by Richard Wright and "The Voyage of the Damned."

The course will meet twice weekly on Tuesday and Thursday and is intended for students who want to do serious work.

Hanna (center) played by Judy Canon Ott, assists a neighbor's daughter, Kiyoko (right) played by Gerri Igarashi in coping with America while Masako (left) played by Ann Oshita looks on, in "The Soul Shall Dance," Friday night in Bowker Auditorium. Photo by Ed Cohen.

Food for thought

Toward another semester...

The ending of this semester, would normally remind us of finals, the upcoming holiday, and a hopeful return to UMass for the Spring term. We would also take note of our Fall attributions. But like most end-of-the-year evaluations we are being pressed for time. First, the Student Senate Budget Committee has requested all groups to forward their 1980-81 budget request (rationale and allocations) by December 15th. Second, although a few individuals have met to brainstorm Black History Month, there is a tremendous amount of work uncompleted.

Ideally, the academic pressures at UMass are enough to drain one's program. But community organizers will be piecing together their budget allocations and rationales for the 1980-81 school year because the Senate's mandates will require this task to be performed. Although, this is an annual process, it is one that causes the community a big headache. Usually, the notable hassles affiliated with the budgets are late hiring of staff (backlogs programs), slow community support for programs, and inconsistent action by representatives (this relates to the lack of external communication).

Although these problems are present, we have to take note of their historical traits. In understanding this analysis, we should have the necessary information for future budgetary processes. Another point is that the Office of Third World Affairs has placed a high priority on budgets procedures. Thus, interested people should contact this office (located in 308 Student Union Bldg.; 5-2517) for future developments.

The aspirations of budgetary procedures have a direct influence on the makeup of future programs. One in particular the Black History program for the month of February. Within the past week, a meeting was held in the Malcolm X Center to discuss this program. The major highlights expressed were the gathering of dates, political and educational events, and activities sponsored by our neighboring colleges. The group was informed of various dates for the Ballroom, Campus Center Auditorium, and Bowker Auditorium. Alternative spots worth consideration would be Mahar Aud., and Hampden Dining Commons. Other areas of discussion mentioned were an Alumni program, internal lecture series, and guest speakers for major presentations. Though the group did not dwell on specific programs in the areas mentioned, nor ideas on music or social events, there was a strong fleling that future meetings would bring these areas out. One last note, is the division of labor. The group for temporary purposes only, decided that certain individuals would handle specific skills. But with expectations that a strong community support base will come forth, the Ad Hoc committee would have no problems in redefining its goals.

In conclusion, the preparation for next semester will enhance the community on a number of levels. First, the present planning of activities for the Spring Semester will help sustain funding for the budget crunch in future years. Second, representatives in the various committees would appreciate support from other bodies in the community. Last, the positive aspects of the Fall Semester have to be weighed carefully against the negative elements, because our present situation can not deal with the nonsense of the past. We are a united force for our future community or not?

Earl Brown

Alpha Phi Alpha plans 'smoker'

KAREN THOMAS
Black Affairs Staff

In Spring 1979 five UMass men became Alpha Phi Alpha brothers. Alpha Phi Alpha is the first and only black fraternity here on the UMass campus.

Three of the original five members are not here this semester; two have graduated and one is away for the term. The two remaining members, Darwin Davis and Ken (KK) Mahan are striving to form a National charter at UMass.

"We don't have a chapter up here. We need seven brothers for the chapter. It makes us inactive. We wouldn't be recognized nationally," said Davis.

The two Alpha brothers said that next semester they plan to be more active and gain enough members in the five-college area to form a chapter. On Sunday, December 9 at 7 p.m. at Yvonne's restaurant the Alphas will have their first 'smoker.'

"A smoker is an interest meeting. It lets people know what we're all about," said Mahan.

Alpha Phi Alpha Fraternity, Inc. is the first and largest Black letter Greek organization. It was started by seven black men on December 4, 1906 at Cornell University. The group dedicated itself to the goals of scholarship, leadership and uplifting mankind through service.

In 1920 it undertook its first major nationwide project "Go-to-High-School-Go-to-College-Program." The program was aimed at encouraging and assisting young blacks in continuing their education. The fraternity is presently making contributions to the United Negro College Fund, the National Urban League and the NAACP.

Today the Alpha Phi Alpha Fraternity is multi-racial with 545 college and alumni chapters located throughout the United States, Europe, Africa and the Virgin Islands.

"When you join Alpha its like being part of worldwide family. The feeling cannot be described upon meeting another Alpha," said Mahan. The pledging last year was conducted by the Theta Iota Lambda Chapter of Springfield here on the UMass campus. The pledging period lasts for six weeks and there are basically three requirements.

The pledging last year was conducted by the Theta Iota Lambda Chapter of Springfield here on the UMass campus. The pledging period lasts for six weeks and ther are basically three requirements.

The pledgers must have a cum of 2.0 or better, they must complete a community project and they must learn the history of the Alphas. Once one becomes and Alpha one goal is to keep one's cum over 3.0.

"We do not haze pledgers as white fraternities do. We do not degrade brothers in public and we do not use brutality in pledging," said Davis.

The term hazing refers to the use of a wooden paddle on the pledgers during the pledge week period. The wooden paddle is extinct. The fraternity has outlawed it.

Davis and Mahan listed some of the goals of the fraternity on campus.

"We want to unify the black community and serve as a resource center," said Mahan. The Alphas are also interested in helping the formation of black sororities on campus.

"We look forward to working with Alpha Kappa Alpha and Delta Sigma Theta. We also want other black fraternities so that we can form a Black Greek system," said Davis.

"We want all brothers to come out to our smoker," said Mahan.

Announcements

Cornrowwing, Facials, Hot oil Treatments and a variety of other things for the hair and face, By Lucinda. Our Shop, New Africa House. For Appointment come in Mon.-Fri. 9:00-5:00.

ATTENTION

The Graduate Student Senate is accepting applications for Line Item Funding from Student groups for fiscal year 1981.

Deadline is February 8, 1980. For more information and to pick up you application forms please contact GSS Treasurer, Tiziana Rota. Graduate Student Senate, 919 Campus Center, 545-0970/545-2896.

The Student Senate Budgets Committee is accepting proposals for funding in FY '81. All R.S.O. groups seeking S.A.T.F. monies should submit their proposals no later than December 14, 1979 at 5:00 p.m. in the Senate Office, Rm. 420 of the Student Union Building.

Information packets were put in your mail boxes by the end of the week.

Editorial/Opinion

'WHERE TO? MEXICO?'

Letters

Field dormitory says house too hot to study in

To the Editor

I would like to comment on the heating situation here at UMass. As the cost of heating buildings rises, one would think that conservative steps would be taken to save money on heating oil. Instead, every building here at UMass appears not to be concerned with conserving oil. The temperature in the buildings is exceedingly high.

Places like Morrill Science Library, the Graduate Towers, dormitories, Dining Commons and many other buildings feel like ovens with the heat on as high as they have it. The effect on the students is a negative one. Drowsiness and inability to concentrate are the main effects on the students.

I think that the University should be in compliance with President Carter's energy policy in keeping the thermostats at 65 degrees. I hope that steps will be taken to alleviate this problem.

THIRD FLOOR,
Field Dormitory

'Fine work does not go by unappreciated'

To the Editor:

Just a quick note to let you know that all your fine work does not go by unappreciated. Thursday's (Nov. 29) front page was great. The Rich Newman photo—Intense. Also, Steve Thomas' feature photo, and Jeff Stein's article on FX was interesting. The comics are fun to read again!! Danny Guidera was a great choice to add to the page, and Rob Ranney is funny again. Steve Lafler still gives great cake. One final note on Lynner, Steve Zack, B Sharp!

Stephen Garfield
Amherst

Squirrel tells all there is to know—sometimes

To the Editor

On my way to class this morning I noticed one of the many campus squirrels. He let me come very close to him before he started chattering loudly. Since I was early for class, I started watching him. Look at him, I though to myself, look how simple an animal he is. I'll say one thing for him though, he is a good worker. He's been storing nuts and seeds for a good three weeks, while I study for tests and quizzes the night before. Why doesn't he stop chattering so loudly? What's he trying to say? I wonder if he saw what happened Friday night?

I wonder if he saw me catch the kid who pulled the fire-alarm in Moore house. I'm disgusted with myself for not doing anything about it. In a way, the squirrel is lucky. He has no choices to make; no right or wrong. He doesn't have to worry about peer pressure or grades. I wonder if he saw me party all week-end when I should have been studying for my chemistry exam.

His chattering makes me feel guilty. I begin to feel uncomfortable standing in front of him so I shrug my shoulders and continue on my way. What a simple animal, I say to myself, chattering at me for no reason. But the joke is on me because he's not chattering. He's laughing.

Michael Zona
Pierpont

OXFAM has raised $3,844 on campus

To the Editor

A full week ago the UMass Hunger Task Force delivered in person a Press Release reporting on the excellent results of the Fast For A World Harvest at UMass. One would think that good news involving a compassionate act by over 5,000 persons of the UMass community and raising over $5,200 would be deemed news by the Collegian. Judging by the number of people who have asked me about the results there are many out there who are anxious to hear. In view of the fine coverage before the Fast, it is puzzling and discouraging not to see the results published.

In any case, let me take this opportunity to thank the 4,014 students who skipped dinner on Nov. 15, raising $3,844 and the countless others whose checks and cash contributions we have been able to send directly to OXFAM. UMass can be proud of this strong response. The Hunger Task Force hopes that many who have contributed will continue to stop by the Hunger table in the Campus Center Concourse and continue to contribute and to learn more about the root causes of world hunger.

F. Peter Sabey
UCF Campus Chaplain
UMass Hunger Task Force Coorinator

Students find flies in DC's OJ

To the Editor:

Regretfully, we have to inform the students of the University of Massachusetts/Amherst, about the dangers of eating food in the dining commons. Last Thursday, November 29th, we were welcomed to breakfast by Orange Juice a la FLY(S). We not only find the sight of bugs in our juice grotesque, but we feel that other unsanitary conditions exist in the kitchens at UMass. We are asking that other such conditions of similar nature become known, so change for the better can take place. Of course it is hard to please 24,000 people but to ask for sanitary food is not too much... And on top of this the University wants to raise the costs of meal plans!!!!

Robert Strongin
Michael Smargon
Irene Leff
Scott Anderson
Steve Whittemore
Julie Robbins
Nancy Neuberger

CC's 'daily eyesore': Newsstand solution

To the Editor

In light of both the criticisms and the financial difficulties the Collegian has had to face of late, the following alternative becomes more and more appealing: The Collegian should start charging a small newstand price to the community. First of all the paper would be more independent both politically and economically. Finally, the daily eyesore of abandoned newspapers would be diminished, improving the appearance of such places as the Campus Center.

Don Schneier
Prince House

Vet on Vietnam: Fonda no hero

To the Editor

In response to Joe Gannon's letter of December 3, 1979, I was sick to my stomach when he called Jane Fonda et al, "heroes of Vietnam." You, Mr. Gannon, have to face reality. I serve for four years in the Marines and saw what your so-called "heroes of Vietnam" did to the U.S. Marine Corps. Because the truth is, heroes of this type helped turn a combat unti into a glorified Boy Scout camp.

As for Mr. Wither, and Mr. Collins, (he helped write it too), they both have my vote as spokesmen for UMass Veterans. Having both served in Vietnam being qualification enough. Also, I feel that any person that served in Vietnam has beliefs like these two Vietnam Veterans are heroes in my book.

So, Mr. Gannon, go and ask your "heroes of Vietnam" for support in helping the people fleeing Vietnam. I believe they're economically stable with U.S. dollars.

Jason Logan
UMass Veteran

The roles of women changing?

by James Lewis

Recent times reveal social upheaval and changing sex roles. The other night I was watching the "Tomorrow Show" with Tom Snyder and they were discussing some of the problems with sexuality. Weird! Problems!

Orgasm is receiving so much attention because 50 percent of the women don't have orgasm. Psychologist want to know why. Everyone wants to know why, but much more so men than women.

What men tend to forget is that women are oppressed people. They could not vote until 1920. They were not allowed to speak in public in the 1800's. The first school for women was Mt. Holyoke, and it was years before it was clear that Mt. Holyoke was a learning institution. At the time, this was a defiant assertion to society that women had minds. Women were generally considered inferior intellectually and to blame for all the problems of mankind. Charles Darwin's theory did not really begin to take effect until the late 1800's and the early 1900's.

Women were not allowed to own land, except in the rarest occasions. Women were and are battered as housewives, and there are few laws that protect the woman from her husband. There are countless cases where women have resorted to self defense to keep from being killed by her husband. When the police were called in, (neighbors hear hysterics and screaming) police inform the women that they cannot arrest a man for beating his wife, or sometimes, attempted murder.

Women are hardly ever allowed to become senators, presidents, representatives, or allowed into positions of authority or control. They have been kept economically dependent on men for their food, shelter, medicine, clothes and cast. The real power, the control is with the economy, and women are not in control of that. As an income group, women barely make more than half of what men make.

Women get raped by men and it is rarely reported because courts rarely convict rapists and the cast of society blames the woman as victim.

The identity of women generally by society has always been morally degrading, to say the least. A person cannot go to a news stand without seeing photographs of naked women, magazines of naked women. These are as available as food. A person can't turn on a television set, look for literature, or buy a magazine without seeing somewhere naked female bodies. In every major city in the downtown areas at all hours of the day or night anyone can find prostitutes patrolling the streets selling their produce to clergy and businessmen. In all the major cities are nude female dancers in bars or nightclubs, and finding a whore house is as easy as finding a joint (marijuana), with all kinds of women ranging from age 11 to age 60.

The perversion is tremendous. Little girls are increasingly being molested by men, and it is a subject with little past research, but the more they study, the more common they find it. Because the subject is being raised, more women are coming up and admitting that the experience has happened to them.

Biologists agree that the sex drive is determined by the male hormones in both men and women called androgynes, a hormone men have 10 times more of. That may be once reason why half the women don't have orgasm. Another reason may be that women and men are programmed differently, men being brought up to want it so badly as to justify its decency but women brought up to believe it can cause pregnancy.

Another thing people are reluctant to consider is the true role of women. Women represent a higher order of evolution, the highest form of evolution on earth. Since man is the most intelligent animal, women represent the highest degree of specialization. For the most part, it is understood that sex is usually negated in the more spiritual leaders of the past. Mahandus Gandi says that when one reaches the higher planes of enlightenment, one doesn't need it.

Or maybe, very simply, women cannot be forced to do and feel something at the will of someone else. Maybe the orgasm rate will never change so long as women do not control their own economy and sex role.

They are still not liberated. Maybe they do have feelings but on their own grounds, not on anyone elses'.

James Lewis is a Collegian column

You'll wish you'd seen it

Campus comedy revue excellent

By DEBBIE WALLACE
Collegian Staff

"Now You See It, Wish You'd Seen It Last Semester," a musical comedy revue written, produced and narrated by UMass student Peter Tolan, is a satire on UMass life guaranteed to draw laughter.

The revue is an excellent blend of skits and musical numbers which highlight the talents of ten UMass students and one Smith College student. It takes a cynical look at problems plaguing UMass students and life in the five-college area, spiced with surprises for the audience and the cast.

The musical numbers incorporated both melodic voices and synchronized dance steps. "Into Vandalism Now," one of the musical numbers stemming from Tolan's idea of a musical newspaper featured Tracey E. Heil, Nancy E. Miller, and Johanna Sherwood, whose voices blended well in the hilarious lyrics.

Most noteworthy was Bob Stack's solo "Everything's Coming Up Roses," from the musical "Gypsy." Stack's voice and gestures qualify him as a superb performer.

Not all the material in the revue was as humorous as intended, as some of Tolan's jokes and quips fell flat, but the more clever skits made up for any lag. A show that "Never quite made it to Hollywood" according to Tolan, was a take-off on "A Chorus Line" entitled "A Baby Line," substituting children for dancers, was extremely clever.

Other excellent bits included a three-part series on identificaiton checks at "Mussell's Liquors," an amusing look at the PVTA, and the outstanding "Five-College Ballet," a sterotypical look at the five-colleges in movement.

All material in the revue is new except for the slide show presentation which was almost identical to that in last semester's revue, "Now You See It, Wish You Didn't." If you saw Tolan's last revue, you are in for another overall hilarious evening. If this is your first introduction to the humor of Peter Tolan, you'll be glad you made his acquaintance.

"Now You See It, Wish You'd Seen It Last Semester" will be presented next Tuesday, and Wednesday at 8 p.m. in Bowker Auditorium. Tickets are available at Bowker box office for $1.50 from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. daily and before performances.

Houseplant help starts next spring

By MARYANNE MICCHELLI
Collegian Staff

Beginning next semester, dormitory students will have the opportunity to take advantage of free professional advice on care of their houseplants. According to Cathy Carroll, coordinator of horticulture at the Coop Extension Service of the Department of Plant and Soil Science, the idea began as a response to calls from a number of dormitories in Southwest and Orchard Hill Residential Areas who had heard about the Service.

Carroll said that the extension service originated in the early 1900s, in the form of the department bringing its research to the public—sending agents to farmers, for example. Over the years the concept has broadened to include home horticulture, care of lawns and shrubbery, and 4-H activities for the youth community.

The houseplant clinics, Carroll said, will be advertised in more detail next semester and will be conducted by a horticulturist affiliated with the extension service. They will take place within the residence halls. Specific topics may include "indoor plant care problems, propogating houseplants, insects and disease." There will be no charge to participating dorms, and free publication materials will be distributed at the clinics.

Carroll said to schedule a clinic, a residential assistant or head of residence can contact the Department of Plant and Soil Science Coop Extension Service, which is located in French Hall. She said she is confident there is a substantial market at UMass for such a program.

Around campus

Student innocent in phone call charges

Charges for annoying phone calls pressed against UMass student Richard B. Steele Jr., as reported in the Nov. 8 Collegian, were dropped Nov. 21 in Northampton District Court. The court also found Steele, 21, innocent of charges pressed for assault and battery, which were submitted due to lack of evidence.

'Jaws of Life' raffle nets $300 for town

About $300 for the "Jaws of Life" fund was raised by a campus-wide raffle coordinated by student senator from Crampton Dormitory Maureen Harrell, as part of a town effort to raise the $7,500 necessary to purchase the life-saving hydraulic rescue device.

Harrell said she had hoped to raise about $2,000 for the fund and attributed the smaller amount to competition on the Campus Center Concourse and students spending money in Christmas shopping instead.

Amherst College holds auditions for "Purlie"

Today is the last day the Amherst College Masquers will hold auditions for "Purlie," a musical comedy by Ossie Davis, Phillip Rose and Peter Udell to be presented Jan. 25, 26, 27 and Feb. 1, 2, 3 in Kirby Theatre.

Auditions are at 6 p.m. at Kirby Theatre. Those auditioning should bring a song to sing and be prepared to dance. An accompanist will be provided.

Roles are available for 8-12 black and white men and 8-12 black women.

Health Services seeks recruits for peer sex

Peer Sexuality Education is recruiting students for a three-semester program starting Spring, 1980. Each semester consists of a three-credit course and some outreach/education work.

Music Dept. sponsors concert—

The UMass University Chorus will perform tonight at 8 in Bowker Auditorium. Sponsored by the Department of Music and Dance, the concert is free and open to the public.

★ Nuke debate

CONT. FROM PAGE 1

Semanie's statistics and traced the nuclear industry's "deplorable" safety record. Anderson concluded saying the government and utilities promoted nuclear power as means of maintaining control and profit. He asked whether the audience wanted "profits and expenses for a few or to stand up for cheap, decentralized energy."

The rebuttal and question-and-answer sessions produced disagreements between the panelists on every point, particularly on nuclear waste storage and alternative energy sources. Anderson drew a laugh when he compared current storage plans to "someone jumping off a building and trying to learn to fly on the way down." Many in the audience groaned as Semanie began to lecture and evade the questioners.

ONLY ON WEDNESDAY SPECIAL

ONE DAY ONLY

6.99

MEN'S ASTOR ONE SWEATERS

Reg. 14.00. Great collection of popular crewneck and v-neck styles. Easy-care 100% acrylics or wool/acrylic blends, S-M-L-XL.

MEN'S, ALL STORES

DENBY'S
we can be your store
Hampshire Mall (Hadley) * Holyoke Mall (Ingleside)

The Blue Wall HAPPY HOUR
Presents:

STEVE SPELMAN

3:30 - 6:30
Wednesday & Friday

TOC Sticker & Valid ID required to purchase alcohol

Russ Burgess
"ESP and Hypnotism in Action"

FREE event sponsored by CCPC
Wednesday, Dec. 5, 1979 SUB
8 P.M.

T.O.C. Lounge Presents:
Dave Simons & Mark Wilding

Wednesday, December 5
TOC Sticker & Valid ID
required to purchase alcohol

Double manufacturers' Coupons
Finast
Double Manufacturers' Coupon Offer available thru Dec. 8, 1979 in Hadley Finast

Fresh Perdue Chicken Breasts
Whole 99¢ lb.
Chicken Breast Boneless, Skinless lb. $1.79

DINNER BELL Sliced Bacon
Regular or Thick Sliced 1 lb. pkg. $1

Farm Fresh Chicken Qtrs.
Leg w/Back 59¢ lb. Breast w/Wing 65¢ lb.

Boneless London Broil
USDA Choice Beef Chuck $1.99 lb.

Turkey Ham
half pound 89¢
Available Only in Stores with Service Deli!

Calif. Navel Oranges
First of the Season! 4 lb. bag $1.39

Canada Dry Ginger Ale or Club Soda quart bottle 39¢

Green Giant Sweet Corn
Whole Kernel or Cream Style 3 17 oz. cans $1

Nescafe Instant Coffee
10 oz. jar $3.99

Finast Bleach
2 one gallon plastic jugs $1

Parkay Margarine
Qtrs. 2 1 lb. pkgs. $1

Finast Orange Juice
Frozen 3 6 oz. cans $1

Ocean Spray Cranberry Juice Cocktail
48 oz. bottle $1

Redpack Tomato Sauce
3 15 oz. cans $1

For the Best in Spirits . . . Visit our Beer & Wine Shoppe!

Falstaff Premium Beer
Case of 24 12 oz. cans $5.49

Millers Lite Beer
Case of 24 12 oz. cans $6.95

Gallo Varie-tals
Chenen Blanc • San Vignon Blanc • Combard Rose 25.4 oz. btl. $1.99

Beer and Wine Prices effective Finast of Hadley
Prices effective Sun., Dec. 2 thru Sat., Dec. 8, 1979 at Finast Supermarkets Only!
We reserve the right to limit quantities. Not responsible for typographical errors.
Illustrations are for design purposes only and do not necessarily depict products on sale.

STUDENT
University of Massachusetts
Amherst, Massachusetts 01003
STUDENT SPECIALS
with
University of Massachusetts
I.D.
CARLSON'S CLOTHING, INC.
68 Main Street Phone 413-584-3175
Northampton, Mass. 01060

...a new life style

Personal Growth...Professional Development

AN AIR FORCE PHYSICIAN....
thru medical scholarships
All tuition and fees plus $400 per month through our Health Professions Scholarship Program.

AN AIR FORCE NURSE....
.....We offer more
An Internship Program to provide excellent transition from beginning practitioner to fully qualified professional nurse.

AN AIR FORCE OFFICER....
The junior executive
Immediate management responsibilities in over 50 career fields, including Science & Engineering.

Advanced education and training throughout your career.

Call (203) 432-2384
or write to:
3516th OFFICER RECRUITMENT DIRECTOR
122 WEST MAIN ST. MILFORD, CT. 06460
NAME
ADDRESS
CITY
STATE ZIP
PHONE
THE BEST TIME TO CALL ME IS PHYSICIAN NURSING OFFICER

AIR FORCE
A great way of life.

Budweiser

Employment prospects bright for women

By SUSAN HOROWITZ
Collegian Staff

The prospect of job hunting upon graduation from any university is a frightening thought to most students. Unless, of course, you are a female concentrating in one of several fields which currently seem to be "hot" for women. Such fields as marketing, accounting, insurance and engineering are particularly accessible for women now according to Arthur L. Hilson, Director of the UMass Placement Service.

UMass senior Sally Towne is optimistic about her future. Not only has Towne been an Engineering major for three years, but this year, she is co-president of The American Institute of Chemical Engineers.

The A.I.Ch.E. at UMass is a student chapter of a national professional organization to which all Chemical Engineering Majors belong, according to Towne. One of its main purposes is to help fellow engineering students with academic problems, career choices, and moral support. Tutoring is available and not operating strictly on a business level, Towne said. The A.I.Ch.E. also offers social opportunities to its 150 members, who are mostly men.

Together with co-president Mike Berard, Towne functions primarily, by structuring the campus chapter's functions and acting as facilitator during meetings.

When asked if it is difficult to be a women in a male-dominated field, Town said initially it took a small amount of adjusting, but she became very comfortable in classes consisting mainly of men. Towne commented that courses taken outside of the engineering field seem a bit strange because of the equal ratio of men to women.

Towne said there is not much competition within her class. Instead there is a great deal of togetherness, she noted. Rather than competing with each other, creating a men and women work for and with each other, creating a nice balance. Women definitely equal or surpass men academically in the engineering department, she said. Of the top five or six ranked students in Towne's class, four are women, she said.

Last year Towne was employed at I.B.M. where she worked in pollution control, tested air pollution levels, and helped to run the waste water treatment plant in Burlington, Vermont.

Towne has been granted interviews with General Electric in Philadelphia to work in solar energy, and State Energy in Albany, to do energy conservation projects. Towne said she has several other interview possibilities lined up. She said she has an opportunity to be making $20,000-$22,000 a year after graduation.

Collegian Classifieds

To place a Collegian Classified
•Come to Collegian Office CC 113
•8:45 to 3:45 Mon-Fri
•Classified deadline is 3:45 two days prior to publication day

Collegian Classified Rates
•15c per word
•Student rate 10c per word
•Cash in advance
•5 consecutive days 5 % discount
•Phone number FREE

AUDIO

Theatrix Rents Mirror balls and other Disco supplies. Lights for sale; new and used 323-7160

Heathkit 200 watt Amplifier—$500 Gavin II Band Equalizer-$150 546-8874

Kenwood Amp & pioneer Tuner Both in excel cond. $65 each or $120 for both John 549-4130

OHM L's New, walnut, 3 way, best offer 546-5738

AUTO FOR SALE

Fix your own car The Student Auto Workshop has tools, space and friendly mechanics to help you maintain your automobile. Tues, Wed, Thurs 3-9 p.m. Sat 10-5 Lower Level CC Gargae 545-0673

1972 Chevy wagon best offer 253-9498 after 5

78 T-bird mint must be seen Paul 546-8220

71 Buick Electra 225 great shape, runs like a charm, negotiable, call Ted 545-2735

74 Gran Torino good cond, original owner 323-7613

1979 Chevy Chevette 4 speed, 4 door, excellent condition & gas mileage asking $3,900 need $ for tuition 546-6415

68 Dodge Mail Truck needs brake work, converted to camper, best offer 256-0709

1970 Challenger good engine, rusty, sticker $175 call Chai 665-7195

1974 Fiat 128 4 dr. Std, new brakes, tires, & rack & pinion excel engine $1300 253-3313

1971 VW Van runs well 950 or BO 253-2664

1968 Volvo 144 v. good cond., many new parts, minor elec. prob. $800/BO John 665-4395

ENTERTAINMENT

Soundsystem for Hire perfect for bands, discos, coffeehouses Rick 584-4105

FOR RENT

One Bedroom Apartment available Jan. 1 one mile from Campus , no pets $235 includes all & wood for fireplace!!! call 549-6551 after 5:00

2 bedroom Belchertown no bus, utilities included 253-3081 5-7 P.M.

Cheap 1 bedrm in Nhampt Apt close to center and bus , available Jan 1 66.25+ (gas heat) call Patty 586-2769 keep trying

Jan 1st 1 bedroom in house in Belchertown $90 a month + utilities and security. Right on bus route. 3 miles to Campus 256-8412

3 bedrm house N. Amherst avail Jan 1 must assume lease call 549-6924 or 549-5449

No Amherst House 4 to 5 bedroom, wood & electric heat, 7 acres, pets welcome. $550/mo. 549-6032

Couple seeks 2 bedrooms in house or apt. beginning January call 253-7961 Brenda

Females wanted for 2 bedrms in 3 bedrm twnhse (Southwood) call 256-0342

1 or 2 bedroom apartment near campus and bus. Starting Jan. 1 call 256-0329 (keep trying)

FOR SALE

Portrait Drawing Dennis Delap, 256-8732

Portraits Profile-$7, full face-$10, color-$20, pets in color-$15 Deborah Pompano 549-4634

Give Greenpeace Seals, Whales T-shirts, necklaces, pins STORM 586-3959

United Airlines ½ fare coupon expires Dec. 15th call 546-4161

G-78-15 Snows $40 586-8008 nites

Womens Head Ski Parka down, size sm. $50 549-0219

Texas Instrument Calculator: SR-52 Programmable, excellent condition, $50.00 call Don Phone: 546-6980 503 Grayson House

Small Manual royal Typewriter works fine $25 665-7060

American Airlines half fare coupon 253-3194

Drumers: one pr. "14" Avedis Zildjian Hi-Hat Cymbals, perfect condition! $90.00 call Mike 546-7760

For Sale 25" Raleigh Competition 4 yr. old $ 250 call Mark 546-7901

'77 Puch Moped Runs great! Cheap transportation, low maintainence 546-6353

Two Snowtires JR78-15 Firestone with rims like new $50. each 549-2671 ext. 126 253-3650

United half-fare coupon 253-3877 evenings

Pioneer Cassette Deck $100., Sewing Machine $50.00, Phillips Turntable $35.00, Panasonic Tape Recorder $35.00 6-9303

2 United Airlines half fare coupons, best offer, Steve 545-2627

Student Ceramic Sale Dec. 7 8:30 to 6:30 Dec. 8 8:30 to 1:30 Munson Annex UMass

Olin Mark I Skis 160 cm, Salomon bindings—$125 or BO Ladies Nordica boots size 8—$50 or BO Great Condition! call 546-8453

4 145x13 Kleber Steel Radials mounted & balanced on Fiat rims, brand new—$100 665-7555

Hiking boots size 6, almost new. Best offer. call 256-0329 (keep trying)

"Rosewood & Silver" A very beautiful & soothing classical guitar & flute album. An excellent gift for the holidays! Only $5. Orders by phone 253-5195

FOUND

Woman's Gold Watch on Commonwealth about 3 weeks ago 546-7951

HELP WANTED

Overseas Jobs—Summer/year round. Europe, S. America, Australia, Asia, etc. All fields, $500-$1,200 monthly, expenses paid. Sightseeing, free information write: IJC, Box 52-MC, Corona Del Mar, CA. 92625

Cook needed for Sorority from 1/29-5/27 prior experience cooking for large groups preferred call Lisa or Jenny 549-1030

Sorority needs houseparents to start February. Call 545-0527 ask for Sarah

Men! Women! Jobs! Cruiseships! Sailing expeditions! No experience. Summer. Career. Good pay! Europe! South Pacific, Bahamas, World! Send $4.95 for Application/Info/Jobs to Cruiseworld 161, Box 60129, Sacramento, CA 95860

Jobs! Lake Tahoe California! Little exp. Fantastic tips! Pay! $1600-$3800 summer. Thousands needed. Casino's, Restaurants, Ranches, Cruisers, Rafting, etc. Send $4.95 for Application/Info/Referrals. Lakeworld Box 60129, Sacto, CA 95860

LEGAL SERVICES

Attorney Jason R. Rosenthal General Practice Legal Representation for the Amherst, Mass community by apt. only days 584-4285 evenings 253-7617

LOST

Reward!! Notebook lost in Has 230 11/19 very important-red, course, section, my name all on cover. If found, please call 323-4912 or return to History Dept. Office in Herter Hall 6th floor

Lost glasses & case call 6-5803

Eye glasses on 2nd floor of GRC, desparate, reward 6-6797

Lost: UMass Notebook plain. Contains info on Architecture. call Kathleen 586-5221 Reward

Lost 12/2 valuable Passport and checkbook under name of Judith Caunter. If found please call Bob 6-7596

PERSONALS

Daytona Beach in March—Peter Pan World Travel Agents MC130223 are offering sensational sunshine and sand during your spring break of March 15-22. Don't get caught without a seat! Includes: 8 days, round trip bus and accommodations, only 1 block from the boardwalk. Double occupancy all for only $299! Please call S. Rayner at 256-0675 or J. Hyde at 1-773-3854 Deposit required immediately-call now

Photographers: UMass Photo Co-op recruitment meeting Thursday, Dec. 6th 7:00 SBA Room 101

Whales too big? Seals too cute? Join Friends of the Earthworm! Membership card, button, worm creed, fact sheet, pet plans. $5.00 Uncle Sol's Farm, Box 78129, Seattle, WA 98178. A profit organization

Sporting Goods Co-op Christmas Sale This week and next Open M-F 10-3

Florida in January! Bicycle with UMass Bicycle Club, meeting Thursday Dec. 6 7:00 P.M. Bicycle Coop call Chris 253-9336

Puddlejumpers**********
Last Christmas' biggest sensation is back! The perfect Secret Santa gift has returned just in time to the Campus Center. Still at last year's CHEAP price! When you walk through the Concourse watch the skies above you!!!

Eat a bowl of Junior and go nutty

Is your bod sore? Get a massage! strictly for relaxation purposes amateur masseuses No Weirdos! by appointment only call 6-8175

Hang with a hag today!

Pegs, Cav, Debs, Klink, Laura and Everybody--Thanx for a great birthday!

Bahamas - Intersession $319 1 week all inclusive call today 6-8365

Wendy a coed frat sure is great we play secret Santa and dance all night. who am I? Call house for next clue 253-9987

Attention: Political Science Assoc. meeting this Thursday - 7:00 - at Thompson 6th floor lounge. All members and interested students please attend.

WE WILL PAY YOUR RENT OVER CHRISTMAS BREAK 2 women need 2 bedroom house or apt for Dec 20 to Jan 28 call 546-4183

Research papers/data needed concerning male canine behavior. Also on Shepard breed. Will pay. Call Donna eves 6-6403

Mark, everyone's dying to see your closet!

Matti—Hugging is one thing but strangling is another. Work on your technique so next time I won't have to use my teeth! C.P.

Clint Eastwood in "High Plains Drifter" SUB Thursday Dec. 6 7, 9, 11 $1.00

Philosophical Freddie says: Why do we do it? Because UMMMB is THERE!!!

PETER B: The semester isn't over YET! WE still have time for XXXX

Anne—congratulations! You deserve it. Love, Jackie

Hey big brown eyes I love you so cute

Joanne, I gave you my hat at Brown X-mas Party. care to get together without shouting? Kevin 6-5856

To G.D. of Phi Mu Delta Do you like Pina Coladas, "into" drinking champagne? If you are then I'll meet you at midnight Wednesday at the Pub, and there we'll toast to champagne.

RIDE WANTED

Need a ride to Florida??? We are heading South end of December. Call 546-6143

Ride needed to Colorado after X-mas for two 256-0468

ROOMMATE WANTED

Two females to share one bedroom in Brittany Manor Apt. $90 starting Jan. call 253-7132

4th Woman for apt in house. Short walk to UM and town 253-2730

1 or 2 female non-smokers for 1 bdrm in 2 bdrm apt Liz or Karen 256-6771

Male to share Brittany manor Apt. 256-0214

Responsible female to share quiet 3 bedroom apartment in Puffton Jan-Aug, own room $113 mo call Debby 549-6371

Female wanted to share furnished Amherst house. Own room. Utilities included. Call Sue 256-8271

One or two women for large room in Brandywine Apt. starting Jan call 549-3809

To sublet female wanted to share room in Puffton Apt. Jan-June 78.75/month call 549-6158

Female student seeking own room in house or apartment for Spring near campus or bus route Debbie 256-8754

Male to share Southwood two bedroom apartment call nights 546-1478

Roommate needed to share 2 bdroom Puffton Village. Own bathrm, pool, tennis, 5 min to campus. Rent $110-$145 negotiable call Geoffrey 549-3616

Female to share room with another 256-6948

Fenale roommate (preferably student) to share three bedroom apt. nice location 120+ available Dec or Jan 549-0029

Fem Grad own rm in 2 rm apt, bus route 2532742 nights

Female for Brittany Manor apt. Rent 71.50/month call 253-2858

Available immediately: Bedroom in 3 bedroom house in Amherst ½ mile to UMass campus on bus route NO LEASE! $100 + utilities call 253-5324

Woman needed to share 2 bedroom No. Amherst apt. call 549-6635

ROOM WANTED

Two roommates looking for own rooms in a house or apt. Please call 549-6152

SECURITY DEPOSIT PROBLEMS?

Have any questions about your security deposit? Do you think monies were unfairly deducted for repairs or cleaning? Did you get 5% interest? Do you know where your money is being held? Call the Security Deposit Task Force at UMass Legal Services 545-1995 or Off Campus Housing 545-0865

TO SUBLET

3 bedroom apt Presidential call 549-6617

One bedroom in Puffton Village call Al 549-1421

WANTED

Fast Immediate Cash for gold-school rings-diamonds-silver Jeff anytime 527-7078 586-0180

WANTED TO RENT

2 bedroom apt wanted for Spring sem starting Jan call 546-6368 546-6329

2 or 3 bedroom apt for Spring semester call 546-4902 or 546-6711

Two bedroom apartment wanted near UMass or on bus route. Call Sue 256-8271

WORCESTER AREA

Earn $400 during semester break 18 or over, car necessary, call noon to 3 today 546-9310

Aluminum Foil by Steve Lafler

Nuke the Whale by Danny Guidera

Beasts by Rob Ranney

Norma B. by M.J. Galper

Doonesbury by Garry Trudeau

TODAY'S CROSSWORD PUZZLE

ACROSS
1 Stems
5 Ration
10 Fissure
14 Issue
15 Paths
16 Hibernia
17 Virtuous
19 Young animal
20 Examine
21 Proposed one
23 Ontario and Michigan
25 Cuff
26 Calm
29 True copies
34 Doit
35 Partially: Prefix
37 Obstruct
38 Carpet
39 Walks
41 Double: Prefix
42 Model
44 Brain canal
45 Downpour
46 Cantankerous
48 Warns
50 Be in debt
51 Cordage fiber
53 Lauds
57 Lasting
61 Disembark
62 Deep respect
64 Erstwhile
65 Uneven
66 Hypothetical force
67 Multi-colored
68 Types
69 Lairs

DOWN
1 Lesser: Prefix
2 Egyptian god
3 Russian villages
4 Attached in a way
5 Cleverest
6 Speed
7 Emmet
8 Control
9 Accompany
10 Chef's formulas
11 Press
12 Length unit
13 Poker stake
18 Tilt
22 Female horses
24 Jews, e.g.
26 Money of a sort
27 Evade
28 Man's name
30 Facet
31 Essence
32 Namely: 2 words
33 Gyrates
36 Greek goddess
39 Lots
40 Deletions
43 Shunned
45 Akin
47 Stewards
49 Byron title
52 That is: Latin
53 Drop
54 Hindu queen
55 Noun suffix
56 Watery: Comb. form
58 Ill temper
59 Grebe
60 Stops
63 Conjunction

UNITED Feature Syndicate
Tuesday's Puzzle Solved

G	N	A	R		C	O	L	O	R		S	T	E	W
A	R	E		A	L	O	N	E		N	O	V	E
S	T	U	P	E	N	D	O	U	S		A	R	I	D
P	E	T	A	R	D			S	O	A	R	E	L	S
			S	N	O	R	T		L	I	P
W	I	S	T	E	R	I	A		U	L	S	T	E	R
A	R	T	S			P	R	A	T	S		A	R	/
T	E	E		P	R	E	T	T	E	D		L	A	C
E	M	E		R	E	S	E	W		C	O	S	E
R	E	N	T	A	L		S	A	R	D	I	N	E	S
			H	I	E		T	R	O	O	P
P	O	P	U	L	A	R		S	E	R	V	E	S
A	T	O	M		S	A	M	P	S	A	E	N	S
S	T	O	P		E	N	D	O	R		P	E	N	T
T	O	R	S		D	I	A	N	A		S	P	A	S

DC menu

LUNCH
Beef Ravioli/Tomato Sauce
Clam Roll/Tartar and Cocktail Sauces

BASICS LUNCH
Clam Roll/Tartar and Cocktail Sauces
Cheese Ravioli/Tomato Sauce

DINNER
Fried Cod/Tartar Sauce
Oriental Stew
Cold Cut Plate/Potato Salad
CHEESE BUFFET

BASICS DINNER
Fried Cod/Tartar Sauce
Sweet and Sour Tofu
CHEESE BUFFET

EARTHFOODS
Stuffed squash
Onion-miso soup
Cole slaw
Bran muffins

MOVIE LISTINGS

Academy Of Music
Murder on the Orient Express 7:00 9:15
Hampshire 4
Fiddler on the Roof 5:30
Animal House 6:00 8:45
Starting Over 6:00 8:45
Apocalypse Now 5:30 8:30
Mt. Farms 4
Life of Brian 6:15 8:30
And Justice For All 6:00 8:15
"10" 6:00 8:15
Running 6:15 8:30
Holyoke 1-8
Muppet Movie 1:10 3:15 5:20 7:25 9:30
Stranger Calls 1:00 3:00 5:00 7:20 9:30
Onion Field 1:45 4:20 7:30 10:00
French Postcards 1:35 3:35 5:40 7:40 9:45
Skatetown U.S.A.
1:00 3:05 5:10 7:15 9:20
Young Frankenstein 3:15 7:40
Silverstreak 1:05 5:30 9:30
Arabian Adventure 2:30 4:40 7:00 9:05
Andrea
2:50 4:45 7:00 9:00
Pleasant St. Cinema
PeepingTom 6:00 8:00 10:00
Showcase 1-8
Animal House 2:00 7:00 9:30
Fiddler on the Roof 2:00 7:00 9:50
Fish. . .Pittsburg 2:00 7:15 9:40
"10" 2:00 7:00 9:30
Starting Over 2:00 7:05 9:15
Apocalypse Now 1:30 7:10 10:10
Luna 2:00 7:00 9:40
And Justice For All 2:00 7:00 9:25

Entertainment

A ROCK'N'ROLL'EM HIGH COMEDY

A film by PROCTOR & BERGMAN
Of FIRESIGN THEATER
Music by BILLY PRESTON · THE TUBES
BADAZZ · BUDGIE · HEAD EAST · RICHARD THIESS
STARTS FRIDAY
584-9153 MOUNTAIN FARMS 4 ROUTE 9-HADLEY
PG

UMass Ski Club
Sugarbush &
Sugarbush North &
Ski & Party Week
Jan 20-26
★ Interchangeable lift ticket 5½ days
★ Lodging
★ Meals
★ Shuttle bus between areas
★ Beer & wine party
any questions call
Ski Club Office
CC 106
545-3437
$135 Total

RAFFLE!
Free Sugarbush Ski Week
Value $135.00 (one person)
coupons must be delivered to Ski Club Office CC 106 or at Ski Club meetings
Name _____
Address _____
Phone _____
Drawing Held - Dec. 12th

The Hungry-U
Wednesday
Dinner Specials
Manicotti Dinner for 2 $4.95
Lasagne dinner for 2 $5.95
Veal Parmesan for 2 $5.95
549-5713
55 University Dr.

ACADEMY of MUSIC
Northampton
Only Area Showing
Now, Ends Thurs.
at 7:00 & 9:15
"Movie magic! The most entertaining evening of the year!" — CBS-TV
ALBERT FINNEY
LAUREN BACALL
MARTIN BALSAM
INGRID BERGMAN
JACQUELINE BISSET
JEAN PIERRE CASSEL
SEAN CONNERY
PG
AGATHA CHRISTIE'S
MURDER ON THE ORIENT EXPRESS
AT THE GATES OF SMITH COLLEGE

Relax!
at the TOC
Happy Hour 4-6

S.U.B.
7, 9, 11 pm
Thursday
DEC. 6
Clint Eastwood
— in —
HIGH PLAINS DRIFTER
"They'd never forget the day he drifted into town"

The BLUEWALL Presents
DISCO
Wednesday,
December 5, 1979
HAPPY HOUR ALL NIGHT LONG
Under 20's Welcome!
9:30 pm-12:30 am
This Week: J.C. The Mover
T.O.C. Sticker and Valid I.D. Required to Purchase Alcohol

Or Would You Rather Be Studying

AMERICAN MULTI CINEMA
ADULTS $2.75 STUDENTS & SR. CITIZENS with AMC CARD $2.25 TWI-LITE SHOW $1.50 - Special Engagements Excluded Twi-Lite Show - Limited to Seating
TIMES SHOWN FOR TODAY ONLY

HAMPSHIRE 4
584-7550 HAMP. MALL ON CAFE SQ.—RT. 9, HADLEY, MASS.
Apocalypse Now (5:30 @$1.50) 8:30 R
NATIONAL LAMPOON'S ANIMAL HOUSE (6:00 @ $1.50) 8:45 R
Dinner & Movie $5.00 Have dinner at the Pewter Pot Restaurant on Cafe Square in the Hampshire Mall and see one of the 8 movies listed here for only $5.00. Call for details.
STARTING OVER (6:00 @ $1.50)
FIDDLER ON THE ROOF (5:30 @ $1.50) 8:30* G
* no 8:30 show Weds

MOUNTAIN FARMS 4
584-9153 MOUNTAIN FARMS MALL ROUTE 9-HADLEY, MASS.
A temptingly tasteful comedy "10" (6:00 @ $1.50) 8:15 R
AL PACINO AND JUSTICE FOR ALL (6:00 @ $1.50) 8:15 R
Honk if you love Brian. MONTY PYTHON'S LIFE OF BRIAN (6:15 @ $1.50) 8:30 R
MICHAEL DOUGLAS SUSAN ANSPACH RUNNING (6:15 @ $1.50) 8:30 PG

Minnesota Vikings defensive end Jim Marshall announced that he is retiring effective at the end of this season, his twentieth in the NFL. (AP Laserphoto)

Lamb scores personal high as gymnasts defeat Lowell

By BOB MITCHELL
Collegian Staff

Co-captain Bob Lamb compiled a 45.8, his highest all-around score ever, in leading the UMass men's gymnastics team to a narrow 226.45 to 215.85 triumph over the University of Lowell, Monday night at Lowell.

Lamb finished third in both floor exercies and horizontal bar competition scoring 8.55 and 8.1 respectively. But his best event of the evning was vaulting, in which he received an 8.8 from the two man judging team.

The Minutemen took five out of six events from Lowell, losing only in the parallel bars competition by a slim margin, 36.15 to 36.0. The floor exercise and horizontal bar events were the two brightest spots for the gymnasts, with UMass competitors finishing in the top three spots in both events. Junior specialists Steve Craig and David Buegler, who both rearranged their routines to avoid any injuries on the hard Lowell mat, led the way on the floor finishing first and second respectively. Craig earned an outstanding 9.0 and Buegler compiled an 8.95, while Lamb finished third. This gave UMass the win in this event.

Senior co-captain Hugh O'Neall, normally an all around competitor, became ill the night before the meet and was forced to limit himself to strictly parallel bar and horizontal bar competition. O'Neall, however, came through in the clutch for the Minutemen, scoring an 8.85 on the horizontal bar to finish first in the event ahead of teammates Frank Cohen and Bob Lamb. This gave UMass their second event victory.

David Felleman scored 8.45 and Walt Buchwald earned 7.95 for the Minutemen in ring competition, to give the team their third win, a slim one, 37.5 to 37.4. For Felleman the score was good enough for a second place finish in the event. UMass coach Roy Johnson praised Buchwald for what he called "a good clean ring set."

In the vaulting competition, Lamb and Craig both scored 8.8, and Buegler earned 8.7 to give UMass their fourth event. Senior all-around Bob Donahue and junior specialist Tim Barry scored 7.05 and 6.55 respectively in the pommel horse event to lead the squad to its fifth and final individual event win.

"I was surprised that we did as well as we did, because our practices had not indicated the high score," said Johnson of the meet. "I anticipated a closer meet against Lowell, because often the judges don't see the difference between our floor team and the other floor teams in the area; I think the judges did a good job scoring this event, as well as the others."

The Minutemen gymnasts now focus on Saturday's meet at Army, when they will go up against the Cadets in a dual meet.

"The guys are keyed up for Army, and by working on our weak points I think we can knock them off," said Johnson.

Sox quit on Palmer; Chlebek re-signed

TORONTO (AP) — The Boston Red Sox formally withdrew yesterday from trade talks involving veteran right-hander Jim Palmer of the Baltimore Orioles.

"The couple of players they wanted from us was a little too much," Boston General Manager Haywood Sullivan said. "We'd love to have Palmer. So would any club. But for us to give up the players they wanted would be a move sideways, possibly even bad."

Sullivan said that Baltimore General Manager Hank Peters agreed that the loss of the two players coveted by the Orioles could hurt the Red Sox.

"We also agreed that we wouldn't talk about Palmer anymore," Sullivan said.

NEWTON, Mass. (AP) — A year after he was fired and rehired on the same day by Boston College, Coach Ed Chlebek was given a new two-year football contract yesterday by Athletic Director William J. Flynn.

Chlebek, who completed his second year at Boston College with a 5-6 record, salvaged his job when the Eagles won four of their last five games, including victories over Syracuse and traditional rivals Massachusetts and Holy Cross.

A year ago, Chlebek finished with an 0-11 record, worst among major college teams in the country. Flynn fired Chlebek, but agreed to let him have another chance when players made a plea on the coach's behalf.

As recently as last month, there were rumors that Chlebek would be released.

Sports notices

HANG-GLIDING: Club party this Fri. nite at Ron's apt. Call him for details. Also, very important meeting on Mon., Dec. 10. Last meeting of semester. Elections for new president and secretary. Please attend. Remember, hang-gliders come with the wind!

FAMILY HOUSING
has openings in:
Lincoln Apts. Studios-$153.00/mo.
North Village apts. 1 bdrms-$210.00/mo
ALL UTILITIES INCLUDED
For information call:
Family Housing
103 Berkshire House 545-3115

PRECISION HAIRCUTS

Includes:
FIRST—a professional consultation
SECOND—a precision style cut selected individually just for you
THIRD—our stylists will show you how to take care of your hair
All for $5.50
with this coupon only
With personal style cut, shampoo and blow dry $8.00, long hair slightly more.
With this coupon only,
limited to new customers only
Try our special deluxe FACIAL TREATMENT now $8. reg.$12
Styles by Deborah I & II
65 University Dr. Amherst, MA 549-5610
Shrimack
62 Main St. Easthampton, MA 527-2411

To Serve Studying Students
the Campus Center will provide
food service in
THE HATCH CAFETERIA
in the evenings
Monday-Friday 5:00 pm-10:00 pm
On a Trial Basis

IMPORTS LTD.
Specilaizing in Foreign Car Repairs
working also with exotics
251 Russell St.
Rte. 9
Hadley, MA
584-6927

SNOW TIRES SAVE ½
Firestone Retreads have the same width, depth, design and rubber as new tires —only at ½ the cost.
FREE replacement if they EVER fail for ANY reason.
Regular $15.00 up
Radials $19.50 up
exchange plus tax
LEON'S TIRES
291 FEDERAL STREET
(next to McDonald's)
GREENFIELD, 773-8315

Custom-Made
In Our Store
Cake'n Ice Cream Cakes
Your choice of
31-derful flavors
BASKIN-ROBBINS
ICE CREAM STORE
28 Main St. Amherst 253-9774
across from Town Hall
on the BN/BR bus routes

INFLATION-FIGHTER SPECIAL
ON KODACOLOR DEVELOPING AND PRINTING!

12 Exposure Develop & Print @ $2.49
20 Exposure Develop & Print @ $3.69
24 Exposure Develop & Print @ $3.99
36 Exposure Develop & Print @ $5.99
at the tobacco/film counter
SNAP UP THE SAVINGS!
OFFER EXPIRES DECEMBER 31
campus center/umass
the UNIVERSITY STORE

THE "GREAT AMERICAN"
IS COMING!

Coach's "dream team" shoots for the top

By DANNY GUIDERA
Collegian Staff

Women's basketball head coach Mary Ann Ozdarski doesn't want much, just for the Minutewomen to take the number one spot in New England. And who knows where she will take them from there.

"That goal is attainable, it's a reasonable, realistic goal," said Ozdarski. She stressed the Minutewomen's "total team attitude" as an important factor in reaching supremacy in New England (and Eastern) women's basketball.

"We're number one in New England as of now," said Ozdarski, "there's no poll to prove us wrong." Going into last season she said that many teams did not realize how strong the Minutewomen were. Now, she said teams will try to play "spoilers" to knock the hoopsters (who reached the semi-finals in the Eastern Association of Intercollegiate Athletics for Women finals) out of contention for the top spot.

"We are going to be very tough to beat if we play consistently," said Ozdarski.

The Minutewomen started off in the right direction by downing Harvard 83-69 last week in the season opener at Cambridge, rallying back to win when they had trailed by as much as four in the second half.

"We got ahead and stayed ahead," said assistant coach Steve Jefferson after the game, "we struggled back when we had every opportunity to fold."

Superstar guard Sue Peters: "She'll be more of a stand-out than last year," said Coach Mary Ann Odzarski. (Collegian File Photo)

Such as the case of Minutewomen basketball this season, according to Ozdarski. It is a team that is counting on her skill, consistency, heart, and a lot of hard work to turn her visions into reality.

"This is the most gutsy ballclub I've ever had," said Ozdarski, "and I'm not saying that lightly. This team is a coach's dream—fourteen kids, fourteen great attitudes."

Ozdarski takes a young team into the 1979-80 season. The Minutewomen will field seven newcomers (six freshman; one sophomore transfer). However, she does not think the team will be hurt by inexperience.

"They've really matured since September, since the start of practice, since the first game." She also said that the upperclassmen on the team had a great deal to do with the freshmen's development. "The three seniors on the team helped tremendously," she said.

The impetus for consistent play and scoring punch will come from senior co-captain Sue Peters, who is playing her fourth season in the Minutewomen backcourt.

"I guess just about everything has been written on Sue," said Ozdarski, "She's the team's best passer, best shooter, the fastest." Ozdarski said Peters could be counted on to have an even better season than last year, if that were possible, when she averaged 23.4 points per game.

"I don't know if she'll score some points, but she's playing a better basketball game," Ozdarski said. "Anyone playing with Sue will benefit. The kids really look to her."

Center Julie Ready, the other co-captain has "just done an outstanding job," Ozdarski said. "She's worked with Steve Jefferson to improve her game. She does all the right things." Ozdarski said of the 6'2" junior who will be handling most of the team's rebounding chores.

The coach now turned to the 'hear and soul' of the team, sophomore forward Tricia Corcoran.

"Tricia's probably the most vital player on our team," said Ozdarski. She does all the little things well and makes very few mistakes. She is the clog of this team. There's a key player on every team—Tricia is that player here."

"She's so sound in everything she does, she's like the Rock of Gibraltar," Ozdarski said.

One sour note that dampens this season is the loss of power-forward Maura Supinski. The 5'10 senior tore cartilidge in her leg in a scrimmage earlier and will be out for the rest of the season, hence, her UMass career.

"Maura worked very, very hard in the program for three years," said Azdarski. "It (her loss) is a sad situation for the whole team."

Trying to pick up some of Supinski's rebounding duties will be junior Ginger Legare. Ozdarski praised the 6'1" forward's recent performance in which she scored 16 points and pulled down a team-high rebounds.

"Ginger played outstanding against Harvard. I've never seen her play so well," said Ozdarski.

Starting in the same backcourt with a superstar like Peters is not an easy task, especially for a sophomore. Nevertheless, Ozdarski commented on the steadiness of 5'4" Sherry Collins in handling her role.

"Sherry has matured as an individual and a player in one year," said Ozdarski. She also said that she was quite impressed with Collins' confidence and skill.

Although senior Jen Parker saw limited action during the Harvard game, Ozdarski said that the sharp-shooting forward will "definitely be seeing more playing time" as the season progresses. Parker is one of the Minutewomen's "key personnel," said Ozdarski.

Ozdarski is very high on her newcomers, particularly freshman forward Val DePaolo. She described the 5'8" DePaolo as the "sparkplug" of the team during the Harvard game.

"She creates movement, she picked us right up," said Ozdarski, "no question about it."

Julie Ready's sister Martha, a transfer from Massasoit Community College will back up her sister at center. Ozdarski noted that the 6'3" sophomore "needed playing time, but she's still far ahead of our expectations."

Freshmen Sue CArey, Tara Heinzmann, and Judith Kelliher are all walk-ons to this year's Minutewomen (as were Jen Parker, Julie Ready, Sherry Collins, and Ginger Legere). Ozdarski said that Carey was going to be an "outstanding basketball player, no question in our minds." She called forward Heinzmann "a pleasant surprise" and a player with "an awful lot of undeveloped skill and a tremendous attitude."

Ozdarski praised Kelleher as a player with "a heart sixteen miles wide. She really knows the value of hard work."

Currently on the sidelines are guard Marlene Susienka (sprained ankle and bone chip) and forward Robin McElfresh (injured knee), both freshman.

Susienka, who is being groomed for the guard position when Sue Peters graduates has "potential coming out of her ears," according to Ozdarski. And of McElfresh, Ozdarski said, "She's a good outside shooter, you might say a perimeter specialist."

Ozdarski looks forward to an even stronger Minutewomen team once Susienka and McElfresh return to play.

"With the kind of people here at Massachusetts and their skill, their understanding of the game, it'll be a very exciting season," Ozdarski said.

Minutewoman coach Mary Ann Ozdarski, now in her fourth year and boasting a better than .700 winning percentage: "This team is a coach's dream." (Collegian File Photo)

Mark Marchand

All in a day's work

As the semester winds towards its inevitable end, we sports columnists who find ourselves graduating sometimes fall into some very nostalgic habits. One of the habits is the recalling of peculiar incidents that have happened to the reporter and his colleagues in the line of duty, i.e. trying to come back to the Collegian with a coherent report as to what happened in the event we covered.

Myself and Steve Zack, both wrapping up our term as co-sports editors, have a list of such incidents that is probably unparalleled in the college sports writer's world. Most of these bizarre happenings seemed to have occured while on the football beat. Both this year's and last year's football beats have had their own peculiar touch added to each contest.

Take, for instance, the "mad dash up to the press box" tradition that was started during last year's opening Minuteman contest at Alumni Stadium and was originated by none other than Steve Zack. Since then, it has been beyond our power to get to a game earlier than one minute before kick-off. It hasn't seemed to matter if we arrived in Boston or wherever the game was taking place the night before; we always end up racing up the steps to the press box and hyperventilating for the first 10 minutes of the game.

A lot of the incidents that have occured seem to have taken place while using my infamous Ford Pinto to cover away games. One of the best examples of this was last year's Harvard-UMass game in Cambridge. Enroute to our hotel the night before, an 18-wheel Mack truck decided to play bumper-car with my Pinto on the Mass Pike when the driver didn't take too kindly to my suddenly merging into his lane because of construction. After nudging the back end of my car at 45 miles per hour at least five times (remember folks, in a Pinto) and thoroughly scaring the hell out of myself and the other four people in the car, the driver finally took pity and let us merge.

The next day, while we were trying to locate Harvard Stadium in Cambridge, Zack and myself were at the unfortunate mercy of an unnamed female photographer who claimed to know her way around. Our confidence was quickly diminished when she pulled a few stunts like telling us to go straight at a "Y" and trying to pin down our location by smelling where Schraft's candy factory was. Needless to say, the time was ripe for another one of our late dashes up to the press box.

Another automobile incident that didn't involve my Pinto happened the morning of the New Hampshire game this season. Using our now crippled Collegian Staff car, Danny Guidera found himself playing lacrosse with a blinking red light on route 202 in Pelham when he should have been gassing the car up at 7:00 a.m. The funniest part about the whole matter was the Pelham police officer who observed the car suspended atop the now horizontal flashing red light and said, "ya have an accident?"

Unrelated hysterics include some of the press boxes that we've covered games from. The Boston University press box was the best example. Not only did we catch pneumonia from the leaky roof, but a trip to the bathroom was a trek down the stands, through the field, and up three flights of the neighboring Case Center. Quite a feat considering the fact that the game was played in pouring rain. Then there's the open-air press boxes like the one at UConn in Storrs, Conn. The icy blasts of wind that invaded the box made it difficult to write, let alone consume the free food offered.

Hey, all in a day's work.

MOUNTAIN FARMS MALL

Almys

Wonderful World of Christmas Values

ALMY'S HAS THE RIGHT TOY SELECTION FOR CHRISTMAS GIVING. A WIDE SELECTION OF POPULAR TOYS AT SMART CHRISTMAS PRICES. CHOOSE FROM ALL THESE FAMOUS NAMES.

Ideal
Milton Bradley
Fisher Price
Revell
Lego
Parker Bros.
Tyco

and Many More...

USE YOUR MASTERCHARGE, VISA OR ALMY'S CHARGE

MT. FARMS MALL, RT. 9, HADLEY

HOURS 10 AM to 10 PM Mon. - Sat., 12 to 5 PM Sunday

ON STAGE

DUNGEONS & DRAGONS FANTASY GAMES

BOOKS OF ALL PUBLISHERS

PERSONAL ATTENTION TO SPECIAL ORDERS

PAPERBACK BOOKSMITH
Mtn. Farms Mall
Hadley, MA 01035
(413) 584-2045
Mon.-Sat. 10:00-9:30

Science Fiction Games
Available For All Age Groups

A MALL FULL OF IDEAS!!!

KIDS DON'T MISS THE SATURDAYS OF CHRISTMAS FUN

11am to 3 pm EVERY SATURDAY FROM NOW 'TIL CHRISTMAS

Lexington Gardens announces . . .

20-50% Off

ALL OUR MERCHANDISE!

EVERYTHING!

MOUNTAIN FARMS MALL
Route 9, Hadley, Mass. Phone: 586-3309
Mon.–Sat. 10 to 10, Sunday 12 to 5.
10% Senior Citizen Discounts on regularly priced items.

master charge
VISA

Almy's

Wonderful World of Christmas Values

HOUSEHOLD FURNISHINGS

Presto,
Revere,
Eveready,
Wearever,
Farberware,
Rubbermaid,
General Electric

DOMESTICS

Harvey,
Martex,
Fieldcrest,
Burlington,
Springmaid,
Cannon Mills

USE YOUR MASTERCHARGE, VISA OR ALMY'S CHARGE

MT. FARMS MALL, RT. 9, HADLEY

HOURS: 10 AM to 10 PM Mon. - Sat., 12 to 5 PM Sunday

WOOLCO

ON STAGE

20% to 50% OFF
ALL MERCHANDISE

ON STAGE

Mtn. Farms Mall Hadley, MA
We accept M/C, Visa, A/E, LayAway
HOURS 10-10 M-S Sun. 12-5

D&L

HOLLY DAYS SALE

SAVE TODAY THRU SUNDAY! AT D&L, MT. FARMS MALL

39.97
MISSES' HOLIDAY VELVETEEN BLAZERS

Reg. $55. Beautifully classic cotton velveteen blazers in your choice of jeweled holiday colors: Wine, navy, chocolate brown or black. Just right for tuning any outfit into a dressy holiday look! Sizes 8 to 18.

109.97
GIVE HER A LUXURIOUS FASHION FUR TRIM!

Reg. $140-$145. Warm wool blend or nylon coats, trimmed with thick, soft rabbit or opossum, now at D&L savings! Choose from several styles and colors in misses and petite sizes, too!

9.99
A VERY SPECIAL GROUP OF JUNIOR SWEATERS

Current prices, 11.97-16.97. A pretty batch of gift-ready sweaters in crews, U-necks and more, including solid tones, stripes, brights, sizes SML.

9.99
SPECIAL GROUP! JUNIOR PANTS

Current prices, 11.97-19.97. Fantastic savings on wool blends, gabs, basic polys and more, in all the colors and styles you need now. Sizes 5 to 13.

D&L, MOUNTAIN FARMS MALL Open Every night 'til Christmas, Sundays 12 to 5 p.m.

GATEPOST

WOOLCO

Almys

Wonderful World of Christmas Values

COSMETICS AND HEALTH AIDS

Revlon,
Cover Girl,
Max Factor,
Charles of the Ritz

USE YOUR MASTERCHARGE, VISA OR ALMY'S CHARGE

MT. FARMS MALL, RT. 9, HADLEY

HOURS: 10 AM to 10 PM Mon. - Sat., 12 to 5 PM Sunday

Visit

JUST FUN

"The best games in town"

Offers you our Christmas Gift Certificate Special

Get $7 worth of play for $5

This is for a limited time only so...Hurry on down!

And ask about our Group & Party Rates that offer you substantial discounts at Just Fun.

Mountain Farms Mall • Hadley

COUPON

Gatepost

Basics for He & She

...Still Preppie after all these years...

featuring Chinos for Men, Women & Kids in twill & corduroy

Fair Isle Sweaters
Bermuda Bags
Button Down Oxfords
Down Vests

"TICKET TO SAVINGS"

SAVE $5 DOLLARS ON ANY $20 PURCHASE WITH THIS TICKET.

Woolco — Christmas Gifts for Kids

We want to be your favorite store

PRICES EFFECTIVE THRU SUNDAY DEC. 9

YOUR CHOICE 5.88 LIMIT 1

Digital Derby Auto Racing
Steer and shift. Race against other cars. With timer & lap counter.
13.88 REG. 17.97 LIMIT 1

ELECTRONIC "SENSOR"
New Scrabble® brand electronic word game for 2 players.
29.88 REG. 39.95 LIMIT 1

Sit'n Spin
SPINS 'ROUND & ROUND AS A MERRY-GO-ROUND! "TURN" WHEEL AND 'ROUND YOU GO! Lets kids spin 'round and 'round at their own speed. Rugged, lightweight, portable. Stays in one place; one or two can play . . . indoors or out. NO MOTOR. NO BATTERIES.
7.88 LIMIT 1

LAKESIDE
Computer Perfection
ELECTRONIC GAME

Four different electronic games requiring different levels of skill. Play against the computer or compete with a friend. (Batteries not included)
23.88 REG. 39.97 LIMIT 1

TOMY'S BLIP
Digital game that's almost like Pong. Battery not included. Sorry no rainchecks.
8.88 LIMIT 1 REG. 12.66

Fisher-Price Trucks

302 DUMP TRUCK
315 CEMENT MIXER
11.44 LIMIT 1

FISHER-PRICE

Daredevil Sport Van
A California style customized van, equipped with three complete "daredevil" toys.
11.88 REG. 14.97

FISHER-PRICE
Talk-To-Me Player & Book
A revolutionary new audio visual concept featuring a small, hand-held battery operated record player that enables story books to come to life with voices and sounds.
18.66 LIMIT 1

Fisher-Price!

DOLL HOUSE
To furnish, decorate and live with happily ever after. Choice of 8 furniture sets sold separately.
18.88

Fisher-Price MUPPET Toys

SALE 9.88 REG. 12.97 LIMIT 1

Marx RALLY BIG WHEEL
With built-in timer! As you cross the finish line, push the timer and read off the elapsed time.
14.88

Great Learning Tool for Children!
BUDDY L "EASY WRITER"™
Typewriter
16.88
Great learning tool for kids! Easy action universal keyboard with 32 keys, die cast type heads, carriage return and line advance lever.

THE FARMER'S DAYS
SEE 'N SAY TALKING TOYS
Versatile units in the popular SEE 'N SAY line. Durable units with easy carrying handle and are self-standing. Character related phrases are repeated at random or by specific selection as the 3-D pointer is positioned at the desired selection.
7.88 REG. 9.88 LIMIT 1

IDEAL
MANIAC™
- 4 challenges in one:
- For 2 to 4 players.
- 4 "C" batteries not included.
- Ages 8 and up.

29.88 REG. 39.97 LIMIT 1

IDEAL
EVIL KNIEVEL CYCLE
3.44 LIMIT 1
3 piece set comes with stunt cycle, figure and energizer. REG. 3.97

Mountain Farms Mall Rte. 9, Hadley
MON.-THURS. & SAT. 10a.m.-10p.m. FRI. 10a.m.-11p.m. SUN. 12 noon-5p.m.

Woolco — CHRISTMAS VALUES

THAT SAY, MAKE US YOUR CHRISTMAS STORE

We want to be your favorite store

PRICES EFFECTIVE THRU SUNDAY DEC. 9

Jam Car Sprint Racing Toy
38.88
Electric lighted blazers on a slotless track. Real passing, race sounds, 2'x5'x9" self-locking tack. U.L. approved.
LIMIT 1

general electric toast-r-oven
Toasts all types of bread, bakes. W/top browning setting.
REG. 46.97 SALE PRICE 39.00
Rebate $5 YOUR PRICE 34.00 LIMIT 1

25% OFF
LADIES & CHILDREN'S COATS
SALE ITEMS NOT INCLUDED

Floral Printed Thermal Underwear
Warmth without weight! Delicate flowers on white background. Ribbed cuffs & bottoms. Sizes S-XL.
2.99

SAVE NOW
children's hot cycle
14.88
Heavy duty polyethylene cycle is pedal powered by kids. Has click - motor sound, adjustable bucket seat.

Play-Doh

AMERICA'S FAVORITE MODELING COMPOUND
Clean; Pliable; Colors blend; Non-toxic; will not stain hands or clothing. Air dries for permanent objects. Red, Blue, Yellow, White. Hours of creative fun — ages 6 and under.
88¢
Four-Pak with color blending chart

CUDDLE FLUFF STUFFED ANIMALS
YOUR CHOICE 9.88
Choose from assorted bears and dogs a child can really cuddle up with.

16-pc. brown dripware starter set serves 4

12.88 Woolco price
Brown set includes 4 each: 10" dinner plates, soup / cereal bowls, 7" salad / dessert plates and 8 oz. coffee mugs.

Mr. Coffee
29.97
Sale Price 25.00
Rebate 2.00
Final
23.00
Auto coffee brewing system
New coffee saver.
Mr. Coffee filters (100 ct) 88¢

"EAT TO THE BEAT" RECORD
4.66 LIMIT 1

FLEETWOOD MAC RECORD TUSK
8.88
REG. 10.99 LIMIT 1

"ONE VOICE" "THE LONG RUN"
RECORDS
4.66 LIMIT 1

"CORNERSTONE" RECORD
4.66 LIMIT 1

Aurora AFX Twister Model Motoring Road Race Set
12.88 LIMIT 1
Reg. 15.97
2 magna-traction HO-scale cars with variable speed controls race over a 8½' figure-8 slotted track. Exclusive lap counter. U.L.

MATTEL/TOYS

DRIVE COMMAND RADIO CONTROL VEHICLES
Individual frequency permits competition racing™ Steering wheel control! Left, right or straight ahead! Remote starts and gradual stops! Fully assembled. Each vehicle uses two 9-volt transistor batteries and two AA batteries, not included.
Transmitter ranges for all DRIVE COMMAND Vehicles: Up to 30 feet indoors! Up to 50 feet outdoors!
LANCIA STRATOS Competition Racer 27.145 MHz
19.88
© Mattel, Inc. 1979

BARBIE PERFUME MAKER
10.88 LIMIT 1
The perfume maker requires assembly and comes with 5 non-toxic colored perfume sticks. All the accessories needed to make play perfume.

AGGRAVATION
3.88 LIMIT 1

Kaufman Sorel Artic Pac Boots
21.88

Keep your feet warm with these sorel hunting boots. Come with liner. 7-12.
Premium Pac Boots 30.88

Mountain Farms Mall Rte. 9, Hadley
MON.-THURS & SAT. 10a.m.-10p.m. FRI. 10a.m.-11p.m. SUN. 12 noon-5 p.m.

LEXINGTON GARDENS

GNC General Nutrition Centers

ONLY THE WORLD'S LARGEST HEALTH FOOD CHAIN OFFERS YOU THE BEST VALUES IN TOWN

GNC PENNY 1¢ SALE

Vitamin A Capsules No. 42	100-$1.39	2/$1.40
Vitamin B-6 Tablets 50 mg. No. 1008	100-$1.90	2/$1.91
Garlic Capsules No. 370	100-$1.79	2/$1.80
Desiccated Liver Tablets No. 48	100-$1.89	2/$1.90
Vitamin D Capsules No. 635	100-$1.59	2/$1.60
Alfalfa Tablets No. 52	100-$.99	2/$1.00
Genadec Tablets No. 16	120-$4.99	2/$5.00
Tryptophane 100 mg. Tablets No. 631	100-$9.95	2/$9.96
Bone Meal Tablets No. 677	500-$4.99	2/$5.00

GNC PENNY SALE

EXP. 12/1/79

Cold and Sniffle Season's Here!

Vitamin C Discounts

Vitamin E 400 I.U. No. 991	$1.99 100	Vitamin C 500 mg. Ascorbic Acid No. 37	$.99c 100 1 Gram-100 $1.98
Chewable Vitamin C with Acerola	100mg. Tablets No. 923 100-$3.95	2/$3.96
Time Release Vitamin C 1500mg No. 175	$3.29 30 $7.99-90	Big 50 B-Complex No. 177	$4.99 100
Lysine 312mg. No. 102	$3.50 100	Half Gram Vitamin C with Rose Hips No. 964	$2.25 100 $3.25-250
300mg. Tablets No. 924 100-$6.95	2/$6.96	One Gram Vitamin C with Rose Hips No. 992	$3.99 100 $9.79-250
NEW! Unsalted Zesty Sunflower Seeds	99c 10 oz.	95% Protein Supreme	$4.99 1 lb.
500mg. Tablets No. 925 100-$8.95	2/$8.96	Time-Release Vitamin C 1000 mg. No. 173	$6.29 100
One Gram Vitamin C with Lemon Bioflavonoids No. 964	$6.19 100	Citrus Bioflavonoids Complex 1000mg No. 569	$4.99 100
C-Trate Vitamin C Crystals No. 494	$6.79 8 oz. $3.99-16.2 oz.	Safflower Oil	$1.99 32 oz.

GNC SPECIAL FEATURE
Peanut Butter Jamboree
100% Natural Peanut Butter
NOW 89c 1 lb.
NO LIMIT

•MT. FARMS MALL
•HOLYOKE MALL at Ingleside
•BAYSTATE WEST
•FAIRFIELD MALL
•HAMPSHIRE MALL
•WESTFARMS MALL

GNC SPECIAL FEATURE
Golden harvest
Trail Mixes
Choose from Wilderness Pack, Nutty Carob Delight, Tropical Fruit Mix
2/$1.39 4 oz.
MIX OR MATCH

Almys

Wonderful World of Christmas Values

FOR CHILDREN & INFANTS

Carters,
Osh-Kosh,
Health-Tex,
Buster Brown,
Levi, Wrangler.

USE YOUR MASTERCHARGE, VISA OR ALMY'S CHARGE

MT. FARMS MALL, RT. 9, HADLEY

HOURS: 10 AM to 10 PM Mon. - Sat., 12 to 5 PM Sunday

THE JEWEL BOX

20% OFF

ENTIRE STOCK
(THRU DEC. 15)
WITH THIS AD

TIGER EYE	RHODOCHROSITE
BLACK ONYX	BLUE LACE
CARNELIAN	MOTHER of PEARL
JADE	ABALONE
MALACHITE	PANNA SHELL

GOLD FILLED - 14K - STERLING SILVER

MT. FARMS MALL
HADLEY, MASS.

photo lab1

OLYMPUS OM-10
$239.95
W-filter
Roll of Film

•35% smaller & lighter
•bigger, brighter view finder
•through-the-lens metering

Canon AE-1

Canon AE-1 Body
50mm f1.8 Canon SC lens

1-Roll Film
1-Filter
$274.17

NIKON FM
$312.16

Rain checks available on cameras with deposit

THE AREA'S CAMERA STORE

•FAST PASSPORTS
•CAMERA REPAIRS
•WE BUY USED CAMERAS

KODACHROME 135-20
$2.09

FREE Photo with Santa for kids under 10.
Adults, kids over 10 - $1.39.
Santas hours:
Fri. 4-8:30, Sat. 11-8:30,
Photographer:
Fri. 6-8 p.m., Sat. 1-4 pm.

photo lab1
mountain farms mall
hadley, mass 01035
413-584-4403

Almys

Wonderful World of Christmas Values

FOR WOMEN & JUNIORS

Danskin,
Devon,
London Fog,
Fire Islander,
Cricket Lange,
Maidenform

USE YOUR MASTERCHARGE, VISA OR ALMY'S CHARGE

MT. FARMS MALL, RT. 9, HADLEY

HOURS: 10 AM to 10 PM Mon. - Sat., 12 to 5 PM Sunday

KAY·BEE is where the fun starts!

KAY·BEE offers the alternative to the Christmas "Rat-Race".

We are full-time-year-round toy specialists.

We are fully stocked with an immense variety of toys, dolls, games, hobbies, HO trains, road-racing, doll house miniatures, and much, much, more . . . with large selections in all categories.

And we have people to help you with your purchases . . . people who take your fun seriously.

Shopping for toys should be one of the joys of Christmas.

KAY·BEE
Toy & Hobby Shops · We take your fun seriously.®

Mountain Farms Mall,
Eastfield Mall, Fairfield Mall, Hampshire Mall, Holyoke Mall and other major shopping centers.

DAVID'S DISCO

We are now booking Christmas and New Years Parties

Come dine with us in our spacious dining room, then dance the night away to the sounds of our dynamite DJs!

Call and arrange your own menu with our chef!

• dress to impress!

mt. farms mall · hadley · exit 19 off 91 · 586-1878

Holiday Gift Ideas
Little pro travel hairdryer, $14.
Pro Curl Touch-up, $12.
Pro Style curling iron, $8.

REGIS HAIRSTYLISTS
MOUNTAIN FARMS MALL, Route 9, Hadley
584-0111

ALMY'S

SALE

guys & gals
Chinos now
$10.90
Reg. $13.50

waist sizes 25 thru 36
10 different colors
Mountain Farms Mall
Hadley, MA
586-4458

the gap

WHITE CAT

SKI & TENNIS LTD.

TUNE-UPS ON MOHN MACHINE	SKATE SHARPENING
BINDINGS EXPERTLY MOUNTED	Ski Maintenance

OPEN DAILY 5 P.M. to 8 P.M.

KAY BEE

D&L

CONFUSED?

DON'T BE

There's Only One
Gloria Stevens

INTRODUCTORY OFFER
6 WEEKS OF UNLIMITED VISITS $25

•Fun Exercise Plan •Diets Compiled Exclusively by Our Dietician
•No Disrobing •Individual Programming •No Contracts to Sign
•Physicians' Inquiries Invited about Our MED Method

Gloria Stevens® FIGURE SALONS

America's Fastest Growing System of Franchised Figure Salons Exclusively for Women
It's All Of Us.
MOUNTAIN FARMS MALL, HADLEY 584-0105
MON. - FRI. 9 to 9 • SATURDAYS 9 to 3

BURGER KING

'EVENING SPECIAL'

Coupon valid after 5:00 PM only.
Good every day until Dec. 15, 1979.

Buy one WHOPPER JUNIOR® sandwich, get another WHOPPER JUNIOR free.

Please present this coupon before ordering. Limit one per customer. Void where prohibited by law.

This offer expires December 15, 1979.

Good only at:
Rt. 9, Hadley, Mass.

BURGER KING

Sock It To The Kids

There'll be fun galore on

THE SATURDAYS OF CHRISTMAS

at Mountain Farms Mall!

- December 8
- December 15
- December 22

Saturdays...11a.m. to 3 p.m....we'll have Christmas parties for children...with trim-a-tree contests...puppet shows... gymnastic and dance exhibitions...concerts...movies...and surprises! All parties will be chaperoned. Join in the fun!

MOUNTAIN FARMS MALL

Route 9 Hadley

Watch us change...watch us grow in 1980!

D&L

PHOTO LAB I

WHY NAUTILUS WORKS

The basic principle which applies to all productive exercise is resistance. If resistance is properly applied to the body, it will respond by toning up. Nautilus takes the principle of resistance & applies it directly to the body part without undue stress on joints, muscles, tendons or liqaments, thereby increasing your overall fitness level.

LET NAUTILUS WORK FOR YOU!

MTN. FARMS MALL

NAUTILUS

584-1880

Almys

Wonderful World of Christmas Values

FOR MEN

Arrow,
Buxton,
Farah,
Interwoven,
Levi, Wrangler

USE YOUR MASTERCHARGE, VISA OR ALMY'S CHARGE

MT. FARMS MALL, RT. 9, HADLEY

HOURS: 10 AM to 10 PM Mon. - Sat., 12 to 5 PM Sunday

Woolco
We want to be your favorite store

GIFT SELECTIONS

PRICES EFFECTIVE THRU SUNDAY DEC. 9

WEAREVER
Heavy Gauge Premium Silverstone

Open Stock Cookware

SAVE 2.52 — 7.47 8 Fry Pan Reg. 9.99
SAVE 3.02 — 11.97 12 Fry Pan Reg. 14.99
SAVE 3.11 — 8.88 10 Fry Pan Reg. 11.99
LIMIT 1

Smith-Corona Courier® typewriter
69.88
Portable with 84-character keyboard, wide carriage, 10-space tabulator, positions for 2-color ribbon & stencils. Weighs 11 lbs. in case.
LIMIT 1

kodak ektra 1 CAMERA OUTFIT
15.88
REG. 20.99
LIMIT 1
- Just aim and shoot
- Complete with Kodacolor II film, flipflash, wrist strap, instructions

Criterion 6-Function Watches or Tank Watches

Your Choice
11.96
Men's & Ladies watches. Smart Design.

kingspoint am/fm STEREO SYSTEM
- AM/FM stereo receiver
- Built-in 8-track player and record changer
- 17½" high speakers
- Vinyl veneer cabinet

99.00
REG. 129.00

LIMIT 1
14-KT. GOLD STATUS CHAINS
25% OFF Regular Prices
Our entire collection of fine gold 15" neck chains and bracelet chains are on sale at 25% less than their regular prices for a limited time. Hurry in and save!

30% OFF
SEIKO WATCHES REG. $95 to $145
SALE 66.50 to 101.50

McCulloch Chain Saws
14" sprocket tip bar with chain ONLY 310 — 119.88 Reg. 159.95
16" sprocket tip bar with chain ONLY 610 — 185.00 Reg. 239.95
Wrap around chain brake/hand guard, automatic and handle oiling, antivibration system and solid state electronic ignition cuts logs up to 28" in diameter.
PLUS A $21.95 CARRYING CASE- FREE!

MOPO MATIC SALE 6.99
REG. 9.99

Top 45's RPM Records
88¢
Top artists. Top 110 hits.
LIMIT 1

10-GALLON AQUARIUM SET
10 gal tank, pump, filter, sm chem lab, sm. food, thermometer, books. 2 tropical fish 1.37 2 guppies, 69¢ 2 guppies with bowl & food 1.94
9.88
LIMIT 1 Reg. 14.87

Unisonic. CALCULATOR 227
Super-thin pocket calculator the size of a credit card. Liquid crystal readout.
12.66

Talking Viewmaster gift-pak
10.88

All sound to 3-D viewing pleasure. 6 talking Viewmaster reels in storage can.
gaf

Kenner Star Wars Action Figures 1.68
Collect all 21 of these Star Wars action figures.

Change It! AT WOOLCO

Mountain Farms Mall Rte. 9, Hadley
MON.-THURS. & SAT. 10 a.m.-10 p.m. FRI. 10a.m.-11p.m. SUN. 12 noon-5p.m.

BUY WITH CONFIDENCE! SATISFACTION GUARANTEED!

MASSACHUSETTS DAILY Collegian — Thursday, December 6, 1979 — VOLUME CIX, ISSUE 63

1979, Massachusetts Daily Collegian

Student Newspaper of the University of Massachusetts/Amherst, Ma. 01003 (413)545-3500

Board of Governors Program Council co-president Jim Rocha holds a piece of paper (inset) sent to him one week ago by hynotist Russ Burgess predicting a headline in yesterday's Amherst Record, which Burgess triumphantly displays. Burgess, a parapsychologist experimenting with ESP, performed feats of ESP and hypnotized members of the crowd of about 300 in the Student Union Ballroom last night. (Staff photo by Richard Newman.)

UM hikes limit for out-of-staters

By SEAN HARVEY
Collegian Staff

The UMass Board of Trustees yesterday unanimously voted to increase the University's limit for out-of-state undergraduate students from a maximum of five to 15 percent.

Qualified in-state students applying for admission to UMass will not be affected by the action, UMass officials said, since they will continue to be given preference over out-of-state students.

"I'm very pleased with the trustees' action," said Deirdre L. Kedesdy, Director of Freshman Admissions. "In the past, because of the limited number of places, we have had to turn away many highly qualified out-of-state students. I don't see that this action will deny access to any qualified in-state student."

The motion was proposed by trustee member Earline Shearer, who also serves as chair of the Student Affairs Committee.

The change in the out-of-state student limit was made in response to changes in the University's admission needs. In 1957, when the five percent limit was established by the trustees, UMass was less well-known outside the Commonwealth and was better able to accommodate most out-of-state students who applied. However this is no longer the case because of the growth in size, reputation and quality of UMass according to officials.

The primary responsibility for providing Massachusetts with public higher education no longer rests primarily with UMass-Amherst because since 1957 Massachusetts has developed an effective network of community colleges, state colleges and several universities, including the UMass campus in Boston, they said.

'In the past...we've had to turn away many qualified out-of-state students.'
—Admissions Director Deidre Kedesdy

Massachusetts has one of the lowest out-of-state student limits in the country as compared to the University of New Hampshire's 36 percent, University of Rhode Island's 27.3 percent and the University of Michigan's 20 percent. The change will make the Commonwealth more hospitable to outstanding students from other states, and because they pay higher tuition, the state's general economy will benefit, officials noted.

Trustees debate degree for Andrew Young

By GAYLE YOUNG
Special to the Collegian

BOSTON—After hours of deliberation behind closed doors, members of the UMass Board of Trustees refused to say yesterday if they had awarded a degree to the former United Nation Ambassador Andrew Young, or if they had given the honor to someone less controversial.

The Boston Globe reported Tuesday that the trustees were bitterly divided over whether to offer an honorary degree to Young, a candidate proposed by former UMass-Amherst Chancellor Randolph W. Bromery. Honorary degree deliberations are traditionally kept in strictest confidence and trustees were visibly upset yesterday that the information on Young had been leaked to the press. Throughout the day-long board meetings at the UMass-Boston campus, there was discreet speculation as to who the offending trustee or board official might be.

After a two-hour-long executive session, in which honorary degrees and collective bargaining were discussed, the trustees convened to an open board session and voted unanimously to raise the maximum percentage of out-of-state students from five percent to 15. See story this page.

UMass-Amherst Chancellor Henry Koffler reported to the trustees that the University Library was opened for limited access Monday and said its fire safety permit allowed 3,100 persons to occupy the structure at a given time. Koffler said the administration would "look into" giving undergraduates access to the library after student trustee Richard LaVoice suggested that a 3,100 occupancy was normal for the library.

Trustees then voted to establish an Equine Center at Tilson Farm on the UMass-Amherst campus. Trustee Haskell Kassler, chair of the Building and Grounds Committee, said the land was "ideally" situated for the center, which he said would not require additional costs.

A proposal that would have the student activity trust fund on the Amherst campus (SATF) listed on the fiscal year 1980 budget as a total sum rather than a set $16 per student fee was also passed by the trustees. LaVoice, who is co-president of the Student Government Association, said the switch would allow students greater leeway in distributing the SATF. The proposal, which also allows students to use an outside accounting system rather than the administration's, was worked out at a Trustee Budget and Finance Committee meeting last Wednesday. Student leaders called the proposal a "victory" against the administration, which they say is trying to exert control over the SATF.

Trustees also created a masters program in Geography at UMass-Amherst, which no other public school offers.

UMass-Amherst Prof. Robert Grover, from the veterinary and animal science department, was named professor emeritus by the trustees. "He is a man of great distinction," said board Chairman Robert Healey.

Collins advocates resistance to budget cuts in higher ed

By JOAN McKENZIE
Collegian Staff

"We have to stop this Pepsi-generation approach to higher education; the belief that when people reach the age of 30 they will not need the resources of a public institute of higher learning," said James Collins, Amherst Representative of the Massachusetts Legislature.

Collins, the recipient of the Mortar Board Senior Honor Society award for his dedication to UMass, lectured to 20 people, including Dean of Students William Field, at Memorial Hall last night. The board, a Recognized Student Organization, honors outstanding dedication and leadership.

"He has a firm committment to the budgeting of UMass, and is interested in promoting low-cost, quality education," said Patricia Dohrmann, a member of the board.

Collins, a UMass graduate who has served seven years in the legislature, directed his speech to three topics: if and why the University receives inadequate funding, how the legislature views the University, and the role of public education in the future.

"There is the belief that the amount of funding for public education should be cut in the upcoming years due to a decrease in the birth rate," said Collins. "In the next 10 to 15 years there will be a decrease in the amount of 18-24 year olds," he said.

Collins said he thinks a cut in the funding for higher education would result in a poor quality of life for all and called on students for help. "I think it is important to realize that we are all going to have to bond together to insure a positive future of the quality of higher education," he said.

Collins spoke of the dangers involved in the division of universities of higher public education. "Public education is our own disunity. There are five segments of higher education in Massachusetts, consisting of 100,000 students. When budgeting for the universities comes around, each of the campuses begin to compete with each other."

Collins urged the joint effort of all public universities to face upcoming budget cuts for next year. "This budget year will be more difficult due to a potential shortfall revenue," he said.

"There is a proposal to divide UMass into separate universities at Boston and Amherst. If this is done, before not too long we will see the graduate school flowing down to Boston, instead of here where it belongs—a University is not an institute of higher education without a graduate school," Collins said.

Collins also spoke of the dangers of internal division. "If students are fighting against the administration, if there is division within ourselves, we cannot expect to go to Boston and have the legislature fight for us. It is not inaccurate articles such as that in Boston Magazine which affect credibility, it is the conflicts, and the demonstrations that arise over a period of time.

"Quality public education is the highest untapped resource," Collins said. "Students should register to vote, keep abreast on issues and write to legislatures.

"Only four percent of the state's budget goes to higher education, and that's not enough to do the job," he said.

"Quality higher public education is more than a space in a classroom, it's a commitment by the Massachusetts Legislature to it's people," Collins said.

State Representative James Collins, D-Amherst, speaks of the funding of public higher education in Memorial Hall last night. A UMass graduate, Collins was honored by the campus Mortar Board Society. (Staff photo by Steve Thomas)

Iran militants reject UN plea for hostages

By the Associated Press

WASHINGTON — Iranian militants occupying the U.S. Embassy in Tehran yesterday rejected as "worthless" the United Nations resolution calling for the release of the 50 American hostages.

But Iran's government radio said the UN action has left open the door to negotiation. This is being interpreted by American officials as an attempt to continue communications.

Also yesterday, Secretary of State Cyrus Vance charged that the American hostages are being held under "inhumane conditions." He demanded that Iran permit doctors and neutral observers to check the hostages' condition each day, to make sure none have been injured or killed.

Vance briefed members of the Senate on the crisis for two hours yesterday and proposed that a group of ambassadors in Tehran be given daily access to the hostages.

Vance also personally expressed his displeasure to Soviet ambassador Anatoly Dobrynin over the Kremlin's charge that the United States is turning the hostage-taking in Tehran into one of the most serious international conflicts since World War Two.

In a newspaper commentary, the Soviets accused the United States of applying "crude military and political pressure" on Iran. U.S. Department spokesman Hodding Carter called the commentary "deplorable."

The charge in Pravda came just 24 hours after the Soviets voted for a United Nations Security Council resolution demanding the return of the hostages.

In related matters, President Carter met with American Moslem leaders yesterday afternoon to give his assurance that the United States has not become hostile to the Islamic faith because of the Iranian crisis. Afterwards, one leader said he was "almost assured" that the president would not take military actions against Iran.

However, the White House says Carter's position remains the same: Iran should expect grave consequences if any American hostage is harmed—and that could include military action.

The United States has dispatched a high-level team of economic officials to European capitals to talk about the Iranian crisis. The state department says it is part of a plan to pressure Iran to release the 50 Americans it has held captive for over a month. On the to-be-visited list are Iran's major trading partners and oil customers.

Meanwhile in this country, the Shah is reported up and around, enjoying the weather on the grounds of Lackland Air Force Base in Texas. Sources say so far this week, he's taken a stroll along the base golf course and watched his wife play tennis. The shah is under the protection of 62 security guards.

TEHRAN, Iran--Unidentified American hostage held by Iranian students in U.S. embassy is shown herre keeping fit with exercises in embassy grounds this week. (AP Laserphoto)

Angry judge suggests dumping parole board

BROCKTON (AP) — The rapist before him for sentencing had been convicted of the same crime twice, and the judge did not trust the state to keep him behind bars.

Judge Roger Donahue's suggested solution? Abolish the Parole Board.

As he sentenced Ronald DeWolfe to a life term in Walpole state prison for raping a 13-year-old girl, the Plymouth Superior Court judge said: "The Parole Board should be eliminated, or the power of sentencing should be taken from Superior Court judges. The Parole Board is letting people out after they have served less than onethird of the sentence.

"Once the question of incarceration passes to the executive branch, a judge's sentence can become meaningless. This makes sentencing an exercise in futility."

The judge made his comments Tuesday after Assistant District Attorney John F. Doherty recommended a 45-to-60 year sentence for DeWolfe in Walpole.

"I have never been so disgusted with a criminal before," the judge said. "They should lock this guy up and throw away the key."

DIGEST

Rhodesian agreement reached

LONDON (AP) — Britain, the Zimbabwe Rhodesian government and the guerrillas fighting it reached agreement today on a cease-fire, British Foreign Secretary Lord Carrington announced, clearing the way for elections and an end to seven years of war.

Carrington spoke to reporters after a 15-minute plenary session with representatives of the Patriotic Front guerrilla forces and delegates of Prime Minister Abel Muzorewa's Salisbury government.

He said some details of a cease-fire agreement remained to be worked out but he hoped the momentum could be maintained to wind up the 13-weekold conference within the next few days.

Earlier, a spokesman for Commonwealth Secretary-General Shridath Ramphal, who helped resolve the cease-fire dispute, told The Associated Press of the accord after Patriotic Front leaders Joshua Nkomo and Robert Mugabe met with Carrington for an hour.

Oil drilling battle continues

BOSTON (AP)- The Massachusetts Attorney General's office squares off with federal lawyers today in the latest round of debate over proposed offshore oil exploration in the Georges Bank fishing grounds.

Massachusetts, joined by the state of Maine and the Conservation Law Foundation of New England, has asked the U.S. 1st Circuit Court of Appeals to halt the sale of 116 offshore tracts, scheduled for Dec. 18 in Providence, R.I.

The hearing before the two-judge panel on the request for an injunction is expected to be a much briefer version of court action early last month, which won a last-minute delay in the auction originally scheduled for that time.

BUFFALO, N.Y.—Security guards at Buffalo Memorial Auditorium check "The Who" concert goers Tuesday night. Boston, assured by the city police that they can handle crowds at a Dec. 16 "Who" concert, granted a license for the concert yesterday. Both actions followed a stampede at a "Who" concert in Cincinnati Monday night that killed 11 persons. (AP Laserphoto)

No tax break without wedding

RICHMOND, Va. (AP) — A federal appeals court said today a taxpayer living with an unmarried woman cannot claim her as a dependent on his federal income tax in states where such cohabitation is illegal.

The 4th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals upheld a U.S. Tax Court decision affirming a $128 additional tax assessment against Nevitt F. Ensminger.

Ensminger lives in North Carolina, where it is against the law for a man and a woman to live together without being married.

Ensminger claimed a dependency deduction on his 1974 federal tax return for the support of a 21-year-old woman who lived with him.

Ted vows civil rights support

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, recalling his two slain brothers' commitment to civil rights, told blacks in the inner city of the nation's capital yesterday that "I come here because I share your vision for yourselves."

Speaking in a Baptist church in an area of Washington heavily damaged by riots in 1968, Kennedy said the vision of equality "is not new for me or for my family."

In a prepared text distributed to reporters, Kennedy mentioned the support his brothers, John and Robert, had given to the civil rights movement of the 1960s. He skipped the remarks when he spoke, however.

The Massachusetts Daily Collegian (USPS 333-220) is published daily Monday through Friday excluding January, June, July, and August, for $15 at 113 Campus Center, University of Massachusetts, Amherst, MA 01003. Second class postage paid at Amherst, Mass. Postmaster: Send address changes to Massachusetts Daily Collegian, 113 Campus Center, University of Massachusetts, Amherst, MA 01003.

Positions Available

The Collegian has openings for the following positions for Spring semester:

 assistant managing editors
 copy editors
 lay-out technicians

see Julie Eagle in Rm 113 CC or call 545-3500

The Collegian is an equal opportunity employer

Foreign students :

'Fighting for education requires a unified force'

Srinivasan Kunalan, vice president of the International Union France last night at the Undergraduate Student Senate meeting, of Students, speaks of the formation of students movements (Staff photo by Steve Thomas) with Sebastien Bachollet of the National Union of Students of

Seeking worldwide organization

By ED LEVINE
Collegian Staff

Students from foreign nations visited UMass yesterday and addressed the Undergraduate Student Senate last night on the issues of student unionization and disarmament.

Sebastien Bachollet, representing the National Union of Students of France and Srinivasan Kunalan, from India, vice president of the International Union of Students, spoke at the Student Senate meeting last night. Earlier in the day the two were accompanied by representatives from Liberia and Bulgaria, who, due to commitments at another university, could not address the senate.

Currently on tour addressing universities across the nation, the students spoke of student unionization last night. "Fighting for education requires a unified force," Kunalan told the senate, "we want to help improve international cooperation between student unions all over the world. We're developing a worldwide campaign saying that education is a right, not a privilege."

Kunalan said education is continuing to be viewed as privilege worldwide, and "developing an elite." He also said money going towards defense spending should be used for educational spending instead. "The struggle for peace and disarmament should become the struggle of students," he said.

"We are trying to double up the International student and peace movements," Kunalan said. "The next war would mean a nuclear holocaust and we all know what that means." He said the SALT II treaty should be given "true significance" and said it "will help in efforts of confidence building in the world."

Bachollet said student unions in France exist in every university. "We are organized in each university and in each department of studies," he said. "At the national level we are organized as a congress who elect a national bureau and a president."

Education is considered a national problem in France since the nation has only public universities, said Bachollet, who also urged American students to become involved in the disarmament efforts. "Students of this country can help our movement and the international student movement to help support SALT II," he said.

The student union of India was formed in 1936 to fight for India's independence from Great Britain, as well as educational issues, Kunalan said. "Ours is an independent organization which exists in most colleges and universities," he said. "The union works to get things from administrations. Now we are fighting for uniform education. Certain universities do not recognize degrees of other universities and this can block a student's progress."

Senate votes down fee hikes

By ED LEVINE
Collegian Staff

The Undergraduate Student Senate unanimously voted to condemn proposed increases for three university fees last night.

The senate rejected fee increases for housing, boarding halls, and athletics. The fees, proposed by the administration, would take effect next fall if passed.

"There were a few things budgeted for the residence halls we didn't think needed to be included," said Senator Robert Cleary, chairperson of the senate Rents and Fees Committee, which recommended the rejections to the senate. Cleary said his committee is recommending a lower increase—between $75 and $90. He said the original proposal was for $120.

The proposed increase in boarding hall fees, which go to the dining commons, was rejected because of "discrepancies" in the figures provided by Food Services, which requested the increase, Cleary said. He also said his committee disputed a proposed loan of $300,000 to the Campus Center from the Boarding Hall Trust Fund.

The athletic fee increase was rejected, said Cleary, "because we suspect poor management, and question why they didn't increase the fee gradually rather than waiting until now."

Cleary said the sentiments of the senate would be passed on to Provost Jeremiah M. Allen, Vice Chancellor for Student Affairs Dennis L. Madson, and Vice Chancellor for Administration and Finance George Beatty Jr. He said they would review the recommendation of the senate, as well as other groups, and determine the fate of the proposed increases along with other administrators.

Club serves up veggies, good vibes

By JOYCE C. MONROE
Collegian Staff

No neon lights blaze to brighten the entrance to this meeting place for women only, that rises out of the pavement of Masonic Street in Northampton. The Common Women Club radiates a different glow.

"Energizing," is the word used by one member of the four-woman team which cooperatively manages The Common Women to describe her work. "Providing a space for women," is their shared goal, they said.

Kate, Pat, Beth and Kyneret, the co-op managers, are dedicated to providing a vegetarian food service, serving as a "clearinghouse for information," and sponsoring cultural events for community women, according to Kate.

The Common Womon does not focus its attention solely on students, but on the whole women's community. Yet, they close their doors for the summer and they depend on women affiliated with area colleges to support the food service which is open to club members and their guests. The Common Womon re-opened for the season Oct. 31.

By providing the food service for members only, and accepting only women as members, the Common Womon, which celebrates its third birthday on December 19, avoids violating equal rights laws.

Members set their own dues, according to Kate, so that the club does "impose an economic restriction." She said that a wide variety of women are members.

One may wonder, what do a bunch of women talk about over a vegetarian meal? Everything. Under the artworks of area women that hang on the dining room walls, conversations range from politics to poetry. An ocean of comments and the tide of commitment blend with the background music provided by women musicians. An occasional, "This is delicious," rises above the mellow din.

The vegetarian creations served are often found in the pages of one of many cookbooks that line a wooden shelf in the kitchen.

"But we are beginning to experiment," Kate said, "and we know now that we can create our own recipes."

Kate and Beth, both former chefs, agree that they work well together.

"I can't imagine ever having a better job," Beth comments over a huge cabbage. Rows of herbs and spices line the shelves behind her.

The food service provided by The Common Womon is what Kate terms "the business end of it." It is, more accurately, the beginning, providing an income for the four women, and enabling them to sponsor other services and events.

Membership dues are primarily channeled into producing a weekly newsletter, Kate said.

It's important to "make the business end of it work" for The Common Womon to be a complete success, according to Kate. "Originally, the primary function of the club was the food," she said, "but since then, the functions of the space have expanded."

Since the Valley Women's Union folded, Kate added, The Common Womon has "assumed a role as a women's center."

Receiving a variety of information through the mail (which used to be sent to the Valley Women's Union) and drawing on expertise the co-op managers are quite able to inform women who call the club.

"We know what is available or who to call," says Kate. "Sharing is important to us."

Throughout the past three years, women have shared their skills in an effort to make the Common Womon a success. Many different women have managed the club's services in the past.

This year, Beth is the main chef, Kate cooks, plans menus and works on the newsletter. Pat does bookkeeping and maintenance (anything from a leaky pipe to a new paint job) and Kyneret, a CETA Youth Program employee, helps with the food service and is learning to do bookkeeping.

Support from women in the community is helpful and appreciated, Kate says. "They've been very supportive since we reopened on October 31."

Along with a women's dance sponsored weekly at the Northampton Polish-American Club, the Common Womon is planning a variety of future events. Included is a coffee house on December 21, at the Unitarian Church in Northampton where several women musicians will perform.

As The Common Womon asserts its role in the community, providing somewhere for women to grow and explore in, it becomes "more and more important that this place continues to exist," according to Kate.

"We would love to be able to have any woman come here to enjoy the food service, but legally we must limit it to members and their guests," she said.

However, the cultural events and dances are open to all women. Any woman interested in membership is encourages to sample vegetarian dining in a feminist atmosphere as a guest of the staff.

In short, The Common Womon has been designed for the common woman. The club takes its name from a poem by Judy Grahn:

For all the world we didn't know we held in common all along the common womon is as common as the hest of bread and will rise..

A young Amherst shopper takes a shortcut yesterday through the downtown district while catching up on his holiday shopping. (Staff photo by Richard Newman.)

WISH SOMEONE A HAPPY HOLIDAY!
If there's someone on your list
that's a little special,
here's your chance to let them know it!

The COLLEGIAN will publish Holiday Messages in our December 14th issue.

Your message of 20 words or less will be printed in the COLLEGIAN for $1.00 if it is handwritten $.75 if it is typed.

Stop by the COLLEGIAN office now thru December 12

12 ½% of proceeds will be donated to the American Friends Committee for aid to Cambodian refugees.

PELOTON SPORTS

BIKE LIQUIDATION

MODEL	SP	SIZE	COLOR	PEL	RETAIL	30% Sale Price
Rosa Eurosport	10sp	20"	Red	4089	$134.95	93.07
Centurion Omega	10sp	25"	Red	4154	$184.95	129.47
Centurion Omega	10sp	25"	Tan	4157.	$184.95	129.47
Centurion Omega	10sp	23"	Blue	4151	$184.95	129.42
Centurion Omega	10sp	25"	Red	4140	$184.95	129.47
Centurion Custom	10sp	25"	Silver	4123	$149.00	104.30
Centurion Omega	10sp	25"	Red	4142	$184.95	129.47
Centurion Custom	10sp	25"	Silver	4122	$149.00	[illegible]
Centurion Omega	10sp	25"	Tan	4125	$184.95	129.47
Centurion Omega	10sp	23"	Red	4150	[illegible]	129.47
Centurion Omega	10sp	25"	Tan	[illegible]	$184.95	129.47
Centurion Omega	10sp	25"	[illegible]	[illegible]1	$184.95	129.47
Centurion Custom	10sp	25"	[illegible]	4127	$149.00	104.30
Centurion Custom	10sp	[illegible]	Silver	4120	$149.00	104.30
Centurion Omega	[illegible]	25"	Tan	4124	$184.95	129.47
Centurion Cus[illegible]	10sp	25"	Silver	4129	$149.00	104.30
Centuri[illegible]	10sp	23"	Red	4167	$184.95	129.47
[illegible] Omega	10sp	25"	Tan	4119	$184.95	129.47
[illegible]rion Omega	10sp	25"	Red	4150	$184.95	129.47
Centurion Omega	10sp	23"	Red	4160	$184.95	129.47
Centurion Omega	10sp	23"	Tan	4153	$184.95	129.47
Centurion Custom	10sp	25"	Silver	4121	$149.00	104.30
Centurion Omega	10sp	25"	Red	4136	$184.95	129.47
Moto. Le Champion	24"	10sp	Lilac	4112	$595.00	416.50
Peugeot UO9	10sp	19"	Red	3510	$212.00	148.40
Peugeot UO9	10sp	19"	Black	3508	$212.00	148.40
Peugeot UO9	10sp	19"	Black	3509	$212.00	148.40
AD Superleicht	10sp	21"	Beige		$850.00	595.00

The Peloton Pros have been informed by the bank they must liquidate every bicycle in stock. All bikes are marked off 30% today! This countdown of discounts will continue until Christmas or all our bicycles are gone. This is just a partial list. There are specials onaccessories too!!

1 East Pleasant Street
Amherst, Mass.
549-6904

15 State Street
Northampton, Mass.
584-1016

Open Sundays 12-5
Mastercharge and Visa accepted

TOYS FOR TOTS

BENEFIT AT

QR DISCO DEC. 7

$1 COVER & GIFT FOR TOT

HERE IS YOUR CHANCE TO HAVE A GOOD TIME AND SUPPORT A WORTHY CAUSE AT THE SAME TIME.

Michael Zerphy and Hilary Chaplain perform as the Royal Jesters for the Madrigal Dinners this week and next in the Campus Center auditorium. (Staff photo by Steve Thomas)

Wimpout tournament planned

There will be a Southwest Cosmic Wimpout Tournament tomorrow night at 7:30 in Hampden Student Center. This is the fourth of five area tournaments on campus sponsored by the Cosmic Wimpout and the area governments. The Sylvan tournament will be Dec. 12 in the Hatch and will feature the music of Martian Highway.

Forum to discuss Iran crisis

A forum tonight at 7:30 in Mahar Auditorium will discuss the history of U.S. intervention and foreign policy in Iran; Islam, and its relationship to the current crisis in Iran; and the question of deportation and civil liberties of Iranian students in the U.S.

To Serve Studying Students the Campus Center will provide food service in THE HATCH CAFETERIA in the evenings Monday-Friday 5:00 pm-10:00 pm

On a Trial Basis

The Amherst Music House & Guitar Workshop
Amherst Carriage Shops 549-1728

SAVE 40%
OFF RETAIL PRICE ON NEW GIBSON, GUILD OVATION, YAMAHA, GUITARS
with this coupon

The
BAR - B - Q
Rte. 116 Sunderland

Now Serving Draft Beers & Wines

Southern Style Barbeque Chicken & Ribs

Seafoods & Sandwiches

Complete Dinners from $2.50 to $3.95

We Deliver
$5.00 minimum
253-9932

Pumps are back!

Bolles Shoes
8 Main St., Amherst

THE HEBREW UNIVERSITY OF JERUSALEM
1980/81 PROGRAMS FOR AMERICAN STUDENTS

☐ ONE YEAR PROGRAM—for college sophomores and juniors.
☐ REGULAR STUDIES—for college transfer students toward B.A. and B.Sc. degrees.
☐ GRADUATE STUDIES—Master's, Doctoral and Visiting Graduate programs.
☐ SUMMER COURSES—given in English.

PLEASE CHECK DESIRED PROGRAM

For Application and Information, write:
Office of Academic Affairs
American Friends of the Hebrew University
1140 Avenue of the Americas, New York, NY 10036 (212) 840-5820

31

Name
Address
City/State/Zip

TACO VILLA
Sick of Pizzas & Burgers?
Located in Downtown Amherst and Northampton

SECRET SANTA
Great Gifts - Great Prices
Stocking Stuffers
Hundreds of 25c to $10 items
CARDS Daily 10 am-6 pm Sunday 12-5 pm
THE MERCANTILE
AMHERST CARRIAGE SHOPS

BlueWall Presents

Ray Boston

9:30 - 12:30
Thursday December 6
$1.00 cover

TOC sticker and valid ID required to purchase alcohol

Join Bugs Bunny, Porky Pig and Elmer Fudd at

Time Out

TWO TV's
A REAL FUN PLACE

Free Popcorn
Amherst's Biggest Little Bar
37 N. Pleasant St.

Healthy mind—healthy body, study says

By DANIEL Q. HANEY
Associated Press

BOSTON — A study that followed men for almost four decades concludes that good mental health keeps people physically well and helps them age more slowly.

The study, conducted by a Harvard psychiatrist, suggests that being able to cope with daily stress is an important part of staying healthy. Young men who grew up to be poorly adjusted adults were far more likely to fall seriously ill or die in their middle years, the study showed.

"Poor mental health predicted health deterioration even over as short a period as five years," the report said.

The study, written by Dr. George E. Vaillant, was published in today's New England Journal of Medicine.

"People who cope with stress gracefully are still in good health at age 55," Vaillant said in an interview. "And people who, when they are under stress, act as though they were psychiatrically ill age much more rapidly."

The study followed 204 men who were students at Harvard in the early 1940s. Psychiatrists evalated their "adult adjustment" by scoring them on such factors as their job success, the happiness of their marriages and the number of vacations they took.

Of the 59 men who had the best mental health between the ages of 21 and 46, only two became chronically ill or died by age 53. However, of the 48 who had the worst mental health, 18 were seriously sick or dead by that age, the study showed.

The men judged to be the most poorly adjusted mentally, suffered from heart attacks, cancer, trauma, emphysema, back problems, coronary heart disease and high blood pressure, or committed suicide. In the well adjusted group, one man died of a heart attack and another suffered from heart disease.

"Chronic anxiety, depression and emotional maladjustment, measured in a variety of ways, predicted early aging, defined by irreversable deterioration of health," Vaillant wrote. "Put differently, the data suggest that positive mental health significantly retards irreversible midlife decline in physical health."

Overall, the Harvard men were healthier than average. But in the interview, Vaillant said he is repeating the experiment on men who live in the inner city, and it looks as though the results will be similar.

Miller. . .$7.49 N.R. case unlimited quantities

Monday thru Thursday

Tuborg.....$6.99 NR case
Old Milwaukee.....$2.99/12 pack
Shaeffer 12 oz. cans.....$6.99 case

C & C LIQUORS

Behind the Police Station
For Off Campus Delivery
253-3091

FAST ECONOMICAL & FREQUENT FREQUENT FREQUENT

TRAILWAYS and PETER PAN offer service to Boston, New york and many other destinations.

TRAILWAYS & PETER PAN BUS LINES

MAKE LIFE SIMPLER FOR YOU.

For Information, Schedules and Prices, Contact:
Campus Center Bus Office - 545-2006, or 549-6000

SUNDAY
Hampshire Mall
Freebus Schedule

Depart Mall	Depart Southwest	Depart Campus Cen.
--	12:30	12:35
12:40	12:45	12:50
1:00	1:05	1:10
1:20	1:30	1:35
1:45	1:50	1:55
2:05	2:10	2:15
2:25	2:30	2:35
2:45	2:50	2:55
--	Break	--
3:35	3:45	3:50
4:00	4:10	4:15
4:20	4:30	4:35
4:45	4:55	5:00
5:05	--	--

Effective
December 2, 9, 16, 1979

whole wheat PIZZA FACTORY

Introduces:

THE WORKS

Pepperoni, Onions, Mushrooms, GreenPeppers and Sausage

Regularly $8.00
From 5:00 - 10:00 only
7 days
$2.00 off
363 Main St. 256-8587

Editorial/Opinion

IRAN:

The news media has created an atmosphere in the U.S.: Reflected hate, or understanding?

Hate?

by Bill Hallisey

We are in deep trouble. One month ago Moslem fanatics stormed our embassy in Tehran, Iran—our private, sacred, and sanctified embassy, and the Administration is doing nothing about it. This is only the beginning; we must act in accordance with our destiny. We must drop The Bomb.

Why must we reserve all our bombs for the Soviets? It's ridiculous—the Soviets have bombs too; they'd just lob a few right back at us. But the Iranians don't have any bombs to throw; they don't even have an operable military establishment. Yet the Administration is just sitting back twiddling its thumbs trying to reason with people who obviously have no intention of acting reasonable. Right now the Iranians are most vulnerable and we must take advantage of this vulnerability before its too late.

We as American taxpayers should not stand for such inaction. How much money have we dished out of our own pockets for the building of nuclear weapons? Too much. How many nuclear bombs have we dropped since the beginning of the arms race? None. What were they made for, aesthetics? No! Bombs were made for dropping and if we don't drop one now we may never get the chance to drop one again!

The President has ordered aircraft carriers into the area. Aircraft carry people and people are not perfect. They have feelings, they make errors, and they die. Bombs are more sophisticated; they have no feelings, they make few mistakes, and they don't die without taking somebody with them.

I hear all this jibberish about American lives being lost in the event of war. Foolishness! Our country has spent years trying to make warfare less personal, yet it still feels obligated to send its boys into battle. How long will we be slaves to tradition? One strategically placed neutron bomb could kill just as many Iranians without threatening the lives of any US military personnel.

Neutron bombs were made for killing people while leaving inanimate objects like buildings, tanks, aircraft, money, and OIL FIELDS intact. The Iranian people are self professed enemies of the United States; their property has nothing against us, so why destroy their property? Obviously we had nothing against their oil—we kinda liked it, but instead of killing Iranian people we killed our oil supply. When will this madness end?

The Ayatollah Khomeini has told his followers that the United States is weak and spineless. We can't allow these poor people to be deluded any longer. Let's be honest with them and ourselves—kill a few thousand before we are forced to wipe out the entire population, if not for humanitarian reasons than for national honor.

The Iranians' obvious lack of understanding in regard to world affairs is demonstrated by their continued threats to put American embassy personnel on trial as spies. Of course they're spies! That's what diplomacy is all about. We can not allow a bunch of ignorant Moslems to make a mockery of international etiquette.

Refusing to negotiate their demands through the appropriate channels, regardless of how ineffective they are, and demanding immediate gratification is childish, representing what I see as a dangerous sort of anal fixation on a cultural level. Holding hostages is cruel, immoral, and, in short, criminal. What right do these people have demanding the extradition of a criminal by acting like a bunch of criminals? What hypocrites! At least the deposed Shah performed his crimes in accordance with established criminal government norms, i.e. economic duress and secret police. Any torturing that took place was done by the police, not the Shah, and you know as well as I do that boys will be boys.

The situation in Iran is just the beginning. Once other little anti-American countries see how easy it is to get away with terrorism they'll be tempted to try it themselves. Look at what happened in Pakistan and Libya. We must make an example out of Iran for the sake of world peace. These potential terrorists will think twice about storming embassies once they witness the horrifics of neutron radiation. Thousands of sick and dying Iranians littering the streets of Tehran is not a pretty thought, but it would be for a higher social purpose. The Japanese got over it; the Iranians will get over it too.

It is our duty as the preservers of world peace, order, and justice that we bomb Iran now. Tell a friend, write a letter to your Congressman, write to the President, but do something before it's too late.

Bill Hallisey is a Collegian guest columnist.

Understanding

by Charli Bagli

When American embassies in poor and developing countries are the target of demonstrations and takeovers it makes you wonder, what is going on? The US government sends billions of dollars in foreign aid to these countries. Why do the citizens of these countries always protest good old Uncle Sam?

One explanation is that the world is populated by raving lunatics intent on biting the hand that feeds them. To some, this argument has merit, but I'm going to operate on the assumption that most of us in this world are 90 percent sane. Therefore, there must be more to "foreign aid" than is immediately apparent.

The image US foreign aid reflects is of feeding the hungry people of the world. In addition, hospitals and schools are built with the aid. All this "taking care of those who can't take care of themselves" is at the American taxpayers' expense.

Eugene Black, former World Bank president and director of Chase Manhattan Bank, described the reality of foreign aid:
"Our foreign aid programs constitute a distinct benefit to American business. The three main benefits are:

1. foreign aid provides substantial and immediate markets for US goods and services;
2. foreign aid stimulates the development of overseas markets for US companies; and
3. foreign aid orients national economies towards a free enterprise system in which US firms can prosper..."

This cozy relationship between big business and US foreign aid programs is established in a few simple ways. For instance, in 1963 President Kennedy revealed that over 80 percent of the foreign aid funds are spent on US products. Loan contracts under aid have always stipulated that all equipment needed to complete a project must be purchased in the United States. In 1968 an "additionality" clause was added that required all aid must be spent in the U.S. It is in this way that "foreign aid provides substantial and immediate markets for U.S. goods and services."

The corportations do fine with the foreign aid but the aid's effect on the recipient country ranges from negligable to devastating. Columbia is a case in point. After seven years of aid, per capita gross national product has risen from $276 to only $296. The number of functional illiterates went up from five to more than six million. The Columbian peso depreciated from $8.50 to the dollar to $16.45. The social structure in the country remained unchanged.

This kind of set up between US foreign aid and US corporations make the developing countries receiving aid ideal dumping grounds for outdated or surplus products of the corporations.

These products however, aren't always archaic computers or tractors. In 1972, 400 Iraquis died and 5,000 were hospitalized after consuming by-products of wheat and barley coated with an organic mercury fungacide, whose use had been banned in the US. After the Dalkon Shield intrauterine device killed at least 17 women in the United States, the manufacturers withdrew it from the domestic market. It was sold overseas after the American recall and is still in common use in some countries.

Part of foreign aid is foreign loans. With increasing aid there is increasing indebtedness. In 1956, the estimated medium and long-term public indebtedness was estimated to be $9.7 billion. By 1967, it was $41.5 billion. Many countries find themselves in the position of paying out more to the United States in interest on past indebtedness than they are receiving aid. This becomes a block to any economic progress.

All in all, foreign aid is trojan horse. It does not improve the lives of the citizens in the developing countries. It does improve, with our taxes, the profit picture of the corporations. In many cases US aid props up foreign dictators.

For these reasons the American embassies and Uncle Sam (not the American people) are the target of the anger and frustration of the people of developing countries. They are not raving lunatics. They are like us, they want to work, develop, and prosper without outside interference.

Charli Bagli is a Collegian columnist.

Letters

Nuke debate: 'Apalled by...'

To the Editor

I attended the Debate on Nuclear Power on Tuesday night in hopes of obtaining any information which might enable me to make a clear and informed decision on the issue.

Let it first be said that I am opposed to Nuclear Power and fear the consequences which might result from its proliferation. I was, however, appalled by the actions of Mr. Anderson. His snide remarks and gestures while Mr. Semanie was speaking detracted from the general spirit of the event.

The widely partisan audience did, after all, make it difficult enough for Mr. Semanie to present his case. It would have been little to ask of Mr. Anderson to have shown his opponent some degree of common courtesy.

I generally doubt the effectiveness of any collective action which has such a person as its spokesman. I feel this is a sad commentary on the anti-nuclear movement, which inherently has a very viable cause.

James Hoodlet
Brett House

Collective says thanx to all

To the Editor

Last Friday night, November 30, the Handicapped Student Collective sponsored an "evening of entertainment." It was a very successful evening, thoroughly enjoyed by all who attended. Due to some electrical problems, the coffeehouse was running almost an hour behind schedule. However, all the performers were very patient and understanding throughout the night. The audience was very respectful of each performer, even though the lounge was filled to capacity at certain times during the night. We would like to thank Rick Hart for letting us rent his excellent sound system for an extra hour when we were running behind schedule.

The collective would also like to sincerely thank all those who performed and submitted the words to their songs for the translators to interpret into sign language for the hearing impaired persons in the audience. We also extend our warmest thanks to the anonymous people who stayed to help clean at the end of the night.

The Handicapped Student Collective is a group of handicapped and non-handicapped students working together to address issues and concerns which affect the quality of life for handicapped, as well as non-handicapped people on campus and in the surrounding community.

The Collective meets every Monday night at 7:15 in the Brett Lounge. Please feel free to stop by and see what we're accomplishing.

Handicapped Student Collective

Pregnancy: No laughing matter

To the Editor:

This commentary is in reference to your comic strip entitled "Norma B" by M.J. Galper. From personal experience, I want to say becoming pregnant when you either don't want a child or are unprepared to handle this responsibility along with going through the traumas that are experienced prior to, during, and after having an abortion are upsetting, frightening, and humiliating.

This is a situation that can not be looked on with humor.

I would like to also point out that the people at Health Services were extremely helpful, warm, and comforting towards me at this time.

I strongly suggest you find another, less offensive subject to base your comic strip on in the future.

Name withheld upon request

My sense of humor back

To the Editor:

I found it! I really thought I had lost it. But, I found it, my sense of humor, that is, at Peter J. Tolan's brilliant music/comedy revue of campus life at UMass and the 5-Colleges, "Now You See It, Wish You'd Seen It Last Semester."

I was refreshed to find that enthusiasm and creativity still abound at this institution, as the talented cast so spiritedly showed us. To laugh at all our much-publicized woes was so needed and healthy!

Without laughter, insanity looms close behind. After participating in the performers' much deserved standing ovation on opening night, I laughed all the way back to my dorm...in Southwest, even. I urge every one of you to take a break amid this last mad rush to finals week. Don't miss this performance!

Peter J. Tolan is a genius of incredible wit.
Peter and friends, thank you.

Katy Halbrook
Melville

Young doctors shun labs for better pay

BOSTON (AP) — Young doctors, intent on making money or treating the poor, are turning away from conducting research, and medical practice may eventually suffer, experts warn.

During the past decade, the number of physicians doing medical research has declined dramatically, according to four papers published in today's New England Journal of Medicine.

"If we cannot attract creative minds into medical research, we may witness a serious slowing of medical progress and a gradual return of medicine to a mere technical craft rather than a scientific and humanistic scholarly art," wrote Drs. Leslie J. DeGroot and Mark Siegler of the University of Chicago.

Dr. James B. Wyngaarden of the Duke University Medical Center noted that while physicians are doing less research, people with Ph.D. degrees in science are doing more.

But physicians, he said, are more capable than Ph.D.s of finding ways to use laboratory data to help care for patients.

"The physician-scientist has a very special role both in posing relevant medical questions and in applying new knowledge to the investigation of disease and the teaching of students," Wyngaarden wrote. "These roles cannot be adequately filled by Ph.D.-scientists."

The doctors noted that between 1973 and 1977, the number of physicians in federally supported research training programs dropped 47 percent. And the number of doctors applying for their first federal research grants fell 40 percent in the decade between 1967 and 1977.

Wyngaarden said that since the Vietnam War, many young doctors have become disenchanted with the search for new medical technology. Instead, they feel that treating the disadvantaged is more important.

Others, he said, are worried about the uncertainty of obtaining money from federal agencies and private foundations to pay for research, or are lured by the "extraordinary incomes" they can earn as medical specialists, Wyngaarden said.

RUSSELL'S LIQUORS
18 Main St. Downtown Amherst 253-5441

Free off-campus delivery

Schlitz..... $6.99 case
12 oz. cans..... 1.99 six
Old Milwaukee..... $2.99
12 pack 12 oz. cans
Tuborg..... $6.99 case
12 oz. NR..... 1.90 six
Costa Do Sol..... $2.25 qt
Portuguese Rose

CHECK THESE PRICES!
Growers Wines
Red, White, Rose
.99 750 ml.
2.99 ½ gal.
4.99 gal.
Budweiser 7.49 case
12 oz. cans and Cold
All our BEER is COLD

NEED A JOB NEXT SEMESTER?
THE MASS DAILY COLLEGIAN is looking to fill the following positions:
*ADVERTISING REPRESENTATIVES (CAR REQUIRED)
*DELIVERY PERSON (CAR REQUIRED)
*GRAPHICS PEOPLE
(Assistant Manager, Proofreaders, Camera, Pasteup, Typesetters)
FOR FURTHER INFORMATION, STOP BY THE COLLEGIAN OFFICE
113 CAMPUS CENTER OR CALL 545-3500
PLEASE APPLY BY 3 P.M. DECEMBER 11

Notices

Thurs.
DEC 6

McNamara House Semi-Formal, 4 p.m.-1 a.m., $5.00 adm., Campus Center Room 1009 (closed).

Film: HIGH PLAINS DRIFTER, sponsored by Grayson House, $1.00 adm., 7, 9, 11 p.m., Student Union Ballroom.

Madrigal Dinners, presented by Food Services, $9.95 adm., 6 p.m., Campus Center Auditorium.

Interfraternity Council Christmas Party, 8 p.m.-12 a.m., Hatch.

A Christian worship service, sponsored by the Black Christian Crusade, composed of students from the Five College area, will be held at three p.m. on Sunday, December 9, at Wesley

Valley Book Shop
used books in good condition
thousands of books in all subjects at low prices
Carriage Shops open
10-5:30 daily Fri. til 8
Sundays in Dec. 1-5

IMPORTS LTD.
Specilaizing in Foreign Car Repairs
working also with exotics
251 Russell St.
Rte. 9
Hadley, MA
584-6927

LSAT GMAT GRE
Class Maximum 12 students
course materials updated after each exam
specialist instructors
38 hour course
test prep services
575 boylston st.
boston, mass. 02116
call 266-5082 collect for info on amherst classes
tps

On Stage
30%-60% OFF
entire stock
On Stage
Mt. Farms Mall
Hadley, Mass.
Hours
Mon.-Sat.
10-10
Sun. 12-5

une
Noreste, Admissions
January '80 and August '80 applicants. 4-year fully recognized and established Mexican Medical School, with several hundred American students enrolled. Use English language textbooks and exams in English. School combines quality education, small classes experienced teachers, modern facilities.
Universidad Del Noreste
120 East 41 St.
NY, NY 10017
(212) 594-6589
or 232-3784

Hardee's®
"BEST EATIN' ALL AROUND!"

Next time you get hungry for something really good to eat, head for Hardee's. And bring a friend and this coupon with you. It'll get you the best eatin' in town, up 'n' down, all around. And lots of it. Hardee's Best Eatin' Special. Two of the biggest, most special tastin' sandwiches you have ever sunk your teeth into. And at a price that's real special, too. So special, you're gonna think Hardee's is downright crazy to charge so little for so much fine eatin'.

THE BEST EATIN' SPECIAL:
TWO DELICIOUS BIG ROAST BEEF SANDWICHES FOR ONLY $1.89.

Good at all participating Hardee's. Please present this coupon before ordering. One coupon per customer, please. Customer must pay any sales tax due on the purchase price. This coupon not good in combination with any other offers.

Hardee's® Coupon expires 12/19/79

© Hardee's Food Systems, Inc. 1979

Hardee's of Hadley 430 Russell St. or any other participating Hardee's Restaurants

NOTICES

Methodist Church on North Pleasant Street in Amherst. All are invited to attend.

The Western Mass. Latin America Solidarity Committee will present a multi-media report panel discussion entitled Nicaragua: The Beginnings of Reconstruction tonight beginning at 7:30 p.m. in Thompson Hall room 102. The program will feature the Western Mas. premiere of a slide show documenting the Nicaraguan Revolution. A panel of participants in the recent National Conference for Nicaragua held in Detroit will discuss the reconstruction and the Nicaraguan government's current request for assistance from the people of the United States. The event will be a fund raiser for the Nicaraguan Literacy Campaign, donations will be requested at the end.

Asian American Student Association will be meeting tonight in the Campus Center at 7:00 p.m. All are welcome to attend.

SCANN Meeting. There will be an important meeting for SCANN'ers tonight at 6:30 in room 203 Morrill Science Center. This will be the last meeting of the semester so there will be much to talk about. NO NUKES!

The People's Gay Alliance will be holding it's weekly meeting tonight at 8 p.m. in CC room 904. New people welcome.

There will be a meeting for the University of Massachusetts Political Science Association/Pi Sigma Alpha Honor Society tonight at 7:00 at Thompson 6th floor lounge. This will be an important session, so would all members and other interested students please attend.

UMASS HUNGER TALK FORCE invites people to stop at the hunger table in the Campus Center Concourse between 9 am & 3 pm. OXFAM "Fast For A World Harvest" T-shirts still available.

PRE-DENTAL MEETING. General Business meeting tonight at 7 pm in room 804-808 in the Campus Center. Topic of discussion include, Financial Aid, Moneymaking ideas, and upcoming speakers. All are welcome!!!

MEDIA WORKSHOP: Documentary Media and Grassroots Social Change. This workshop will include discussion of several political documentaries as well as the process of documentary production in all media. Workshop will be conducted by Robbie Lebser, a local independent, and the producer of Seabrook Calling which was aired over channell 57 last spring. Call the Union Video Center to register or to ask for further information. 545-1336. Date: Saturday, Dec. 8. Place: Campus Center Room 903. Time: 10 a.m.-6 p.m. Cost: $6.00.

Wine and Cheese Party for Legal Studies Majors. The Legal Studies faculty members cordially invite each Legal Studies Major and prospective Legal Studies Majors to attend a wine and cheese party at the University of Massachusetts Faculty Club, today from four to six p.m. We look forward to seeing you there and finding out how the semester has been going.

Fri.

DEC 7

Beaver Harris/Don PUllen and 360 Degrees Concert, presented by Duke Ellington Memorial Series, 8 p.m., $1.50 adm., Student Union Ballroom.

Workshop with Beaver Harris and Don Pulen, 4 p.m., FAC Room 44.

Madrigal Dinners, presented by Food Services, $9.95 adm., 6 p.m., Campus Center Auditorium.

Sabbath Services. 7 p.m. Duke's Room, SU 310.

Overeaters Anonymous, a group for compulsive overeaters, meets on Fri. at the Newman Center, also meets Sun. eve. at 7:30 at the 1st Cong. Church, Main Street in Amherst (use side entrance). Meets in Northampton on Wed. at 8 p.m. at the 1st Cong. Church, Main and Center Streets (Use side entrance).

The TOC has a GREAT Happy Hour 4-6 Mon.-Fri.

It's Now or Never
sign up for the
SUGARBUSH SKI & PARTY WEEK
Jan. 20-25
$135 includes everything
sign up in the CC Concourse
Final Payments Due Immediately
UMASS SKI CLUB

BUDWEISER
KING OF BEERS
— U. MASS. —
BUDWEISER ARM WRESTLING TOURNAMENT
— December 9th —
Student Union Ballroom 1 O'CLOCK
— Featuring: Dan Mason —
Two Time World Super Heavyweight Champion
— Guy Lasorsa —
U.S. Light Heavyweight Champion
Sponsored by UMass Inter-Fraternity Council

VERMONT SKIING
Special service starts Dec.15

Mount Snow VERMONT
51 trails, 13 lifts . . . 3 separate mountain faces
Saturdays R.T.
UMass Adults $25.00 Children $19.75
South Hadley and Northampton Adults $26.00 Children $20.25

STRATTON MT.
Snowmaking systems operating from base to summit
Sundays R.T.
UMass Adults $25.00 Children $19.75
South Hadley and Northampton Adults $26.00 Children $20.25

Rates include round trip transportation (ticket must be purchased in advance) via luxury Peter Pan motorcoach with departures from the Campus Center Circle at the University of Mass. at 7:25 A.M. from South Hadley Town Common at 6:30 A.M. and from the John M. Green Hall, Smith College at 6:50 A.M. and discount on lift ticket when purchased at terminal.

University of Mass. Campus Center Hotel Lobby Amherst, Massachusetts 545-2006 or 549-6000
Mt. Holyoke College Cannon's Pharmacy 25 College Street South Hadley, Massachusetts 533-7115
Smith College Peter Pan Bus Terminal Old South Street Northampton, Massachusetts 586-1030

Peter Pan Bus Lines, Inc.

The rusty nail Inn
Presents

Friday Dec. 7
Doc Watson

Special Guests:
Orin Star & Gary Mahalik

Sat. Dec. 8
Jonathan Edwards

Special Guests:
Mason Darling & Jeannie Stall

Tickets available at all Ticketron outlets & at the door

Fri. Dec. 14
Eilis Hall and the Sailcats

Sat. & Sun. Dec. 15 & 16
LUNA

Rt. 47 Sunderland
Open till 2
665-4937
24 hour taped mesage

UPC PRODUCTIONS & AEC/SCANN present
HOLLY NEAR
with J.T. Thomas & Susan Freundlich
Tuesday, December 11
8 P.M.
Fine Arts Center Concert Hall
Tickets: $4. adult $2. children
General Admission at: TIX, Union Records Unlimited, Handicapped Student Office, Womonfrye Books, Platterpus, Everywoman's Center
For Childcare info call 546-1248

Dastardly Dan's
35 E. PLEASANT ST AMHERST
$2.25 60 OZ. PITCHERS
Sandwich, Chips & Beer For Just $2.25
ROAST BEEF TURKEY HAM & CHEESE

CAPTAINS COURAGEOUS

All shirts light blue
Send to:
Trickiuddic Co.
P.O. Box 669
Nevada City, CA 95959

Just Bring Your Guest List
We Do the Rest
THE BEST

The Top of the Campus Restaurant has an idea to eliminate some of the hustle and bustle surrounding the holiday season. Allow us the pleasure of hosting your holiday parties. We offer a resonably priced menu with personalized service and careful attention to every detail. Our Dining Room offers the finest panoramic view of the surrounding valley. You will never have to brave the elements because the Campus Center is attached to its own indoor parking garage and we will validate your parking ticket. We have the capability to accomodate any size party, from two to two hundred.
If your schedule is hectic and you would like to entertain your guests in a fashion comparable to your own home, please call us now, to find out how simple entertaining can be. Call Ralph Johnson, TOC Manager at 549-6000 extension 639.

TOP of the CAMPUS

Murray D. Lincoln Campus Center
University of Massachusetts
Amherst, Massachusetts 01003
413-549-6000 x639

A REAL VACATION FOR CHRISTMAS

Do you feel tired after your holidays? Do you overtax your body during your holidays instead of finding peace? Think of your jangled nerves, stiff spine, rounded shoulders, and ill ventilated lungs, coated with tar and nicotine; the result is shallow breathing, poor concentration and very little will power.
What you need is a yoga winter vacation at our Yoga Camp on 250 acres of the Laurentian Mountains. Our daily schedule includes proper exercise, proper breathing, proper diet, proper relaxation, and positive thinking and meditation. We have day/night downhill skiing, cross-country skiing with instruction and our own sauna.
Join us for an eleven-day yoga intensive personally conducted by Swami Vishnu Devananda, author of the million copy bestseller "The Complete Illustrated Book of Yoga."
DEC. 22 - JAN 2, $125 or $12.50 per day thru the Winter.

For free ill. brochure call or write to:
SIVANANDA ASHRAM YOGA CAMP
8th Avenue, Val Morin, P.Q. J0T 2R0
(819) 322-3226 New York (212) 255-4560
Washington (202) 331-9642 Chicago (312) 878-2468
Name _____ L
Address _____ Zip Code _____
Send me free illustrated YOGA Handbook ☐
Enclosed is $25 deposit for the following dates _____ to _____ for 11-day intensive ☐

STAEDTLER | MARS
HOLIDAY SPECIAL
BIG SAVINGS ON Drafting Instruments Sets
Mars technical pen sets
Mars 7-pen set
Regularly 35.65 Now 28.50
while supplies last
the UNIVERSITY STORE
the art store within a store
campus center/umass

CALVIN ICE CREAM

HOME OF THE 35c ICE CREAM CONE
Milkshakes Sundaes
Half-Gallons
HOURS: MON-WED 12-5 THURS-SAT 12-10

CALVIN ICE CREAM SHOP
233 N. PLEASANT ST.
CARRIAGE SHOPS
549-6938

S.U.B.
7, 9, 11 pm
Thursday
DEC. 6

Clint Eastwood
— in —
HIGH PLAINS DRIFTER
"They'd never forget the day he drifted into town"

The Hair Shack & Ye Curling Iron present a Hair Cutting Event to benefit Muscular Dystrophy

Wed. December 12 10 a.m. to 4 p.m.
Southwest Hampden Dining Commons

Come with pre-washed hair—have it wet, cut, styled and blown dry all for a $7.00 donation!
No appointment necessary.
Sponsored by Alpha Chi Omega

Collegian Classifieds

To place a Collegian Classified
•Come to Collegian Office CC 113
•8:45 to 3:45 Mon-Fri
•Classified deadline is 3:45 two days prior to publication day

Collegian Classified Rates
•15c per word
•Student rate 10c per word
•Cash in advance
•5 consecutive days 5 % discount
•Phone number FREE

AUDIO

Jensen: Brand new Triaxial Auto Stereo Speakers C9991 discount retail: $80.00; Price: $57.50. Call Rick at night 549-0571

AUTO FOR SALE

Fix your own car The student Auto Workshop has tools, space and friendly mechanics to help you maintain your automobile. Tues, Wed, Thurs 3-9 p.m. Sat 10-5 Lower Level CC Gargae 545-0673

71 Buick Electra 225 great shape, runs like a charm, negotiable, call Ted 545-2735

1979 Chevy Chevette 4 speed, 4 door, excellent condition & gas mileage asking $3,900 need $ for tuition 546-6415

68 Dodge Mail Truck needs brake work, converted to camper, best offer 256-0709

1970 Challenger good engine, rusty, sticker $175 call Chai 665-7195

1974 Fiat 128 4 dr. Std, new brakes, tires, & rack & pinion excel engine $1300 253-3313

1971 VW Van runs well 950 or BO 253-2664

1968 Volvo 144 v. good cond., many new parts, minor elec. prob. $800/BO John 665-4395

1973 Toy. Corolla Wagon runs very well, w/snows $1250 call 665-2322

74 Duster immaculate, must be seen 665-7978

1971 Chevelle Malibu 4 door, 8 cyl., sedan $490 546-6164

ENTERTAINMENT

Soundsystem for Hire perfect for bands, discos, coffeehouses Rick 584-4105

HELP WANTED

Cook needed for Sorority from 1/29-5/27 prior experience cooking for large groups preferred call Lisa or Jenny 549-1030

Sorority needs houseparents to start February. Call 545-0527 ask for Sarah

Wanted: Disgusted Graduate Student who wants to get out of academia. Fast-growing minicomputer company looking for a technical software support/customer service person. Experience not necessary; fascination with learning about computers (and teaching other people about them) is. Starting salary $13,000. Must be willing to move to NYC area immediately. Position begins Jan. 2. Send resume & letter to Justine Stillings, CDA, Inc., 1373 Broad St., Clifton, NJ 07011

Community Organizers Cesar Chavez and the United Farm Workers Union needs organizers in the Springfield and Boston areas to help win the current lettuce boycott. Will train. Internships and credit possible. Room and Board and $10.00 a week provided. Contact 545-2789 or 617-542-4548

LEGAL SERVICES

Attorney Jason R. Rosenthal General Practice Legal Representation for the Amherst, Mass community by apt. only days 584-4285 evenings 253-7617

LOST

Reward!! Notebook lost in Has 230 11/19 very important-red, course, section, my name all on cover. If found, please call 323-4912 or return to History Dept. Office in Herter Hall 6th floor

Lost: UMass Notebook plain. Contains info on Architecture. call Kathleen 586-5221 Reward

Lost 12/2 valuable Passport and checkbook under name of Judith Caunter. If found please call Rob 6-7596

Bible with brown leather cover lost before Thanksgiv by SW Munchies 6-1042 Eric Reward

$10 Reward Lost leather mittens with striped liners Jason 549-2663 545-2671 x222

FOR RENT

2 bedroom Belchertown no bus, utilities included 253-3081 5-7 P.M.

Cheap 1 bedrm in Nhampt Apt close to center and bus , available Jan 1 66.25+ (gas heat) call Patty 586-2769 keep trying

Couple seeks 2 bedrooms in house or apt. beginning January call 253-7961 Brenda

Females wanted for 2 bedrms in 3 bedrm twnhse (Southwood) call 256-0342

1 or 2 bedroom apartment near campus and bus. Starting Jan. 1 call 256-0329 (keep trying)

Room for Rent: Male Grad student, lots of room 584-0252

FOR SALE

Portrait Drawing Dennis Delap, 256-8732

Portraits Profile-$7, full face-$10, color-$20, pets in color-$15 Deborah Pompano 549-4634

Drumers: one pr. "14" Avedis Zildjian Hi-Hat Cymbals, perfect condition! $90.00 call Mike 546-7760

For Sale 25" Raleigh Competition 4 yr. old $1250 call Mark 546-7901

'77 Puch Moped Runs great! Cheap transportation, low maintainence 546-6353

Pioneer Cassette Deck $100., Sewing Machine $50.00, Phillips Turntable $35.00, Panasonic Tape Recorder $35.00 6-9303

2 United Airlines half fare coupons, best offer, Steve 545-2627

Student Ceramic Sale Dec. 7 8:30 to 6:30 Dec. 8 8:30 to 1:30 Munson Annex UMass

Olin Mark I Skis 160 cm, Salomon bindings—$125 or BO Ladies Nordica boots size 8—$50 or BO Great Condition! call 546-8453

4 145x13 Kleber Steel Radials mounted & balanced on Fiat rims, brand new—$100 665-7555

Hiking boots size 6, almost new. Best offer. call 256-0329 (keep trying)

"Rosewood & Silver" A very beautiful & soothing classical guitar & flute album. An excellent gift for the holidays! Only $5. Orders by phone 253-5195

1974 Vega Hatchback 4 speed, snows $250 467-7639

Classical Guitar Madeira by Guild. Excellent cond. w/case $125. 15" color TV set 2 yrs. old. $180 253-3012 (mornings best)

Cross Country Ski Outfit Lovett waxable 210 cm $65. 584-3351

Typewriter $15. 253-9455

New Finnish Ski Jacket medium-large, best offer 546-1015

Who ticket available Philadelphia Dec. 10, exchange for ride, negotiable 665-4889 after 10:30 P.M. Jamie

Grateful Dead tapes Box 121 Amherst

Classical Guitar excellent condition, new strings $50 or BO 546-4995

Pr. A-78-13 studded mounted snows BO 253-7564 John

1969 Rebel four new tires, good body & interior $250 or BO call Mike 256-6815

1972 Ford pinto runs great, 4 speed, must sell, best offer Jim 256-0158

FOUND

Woman's Gold Watch on Commonwealth about 3 weeks ago 546-7951

PERSONALS

Daytona Beach in March—Peter Pan World Travel Agents MC130223 are offering sensational sunshine and sand during your spring break of March 15-22. Don't get caught without a seat! Includes: 8 days, round trip bus and accommodations, only 1 block from the boardwalk. Double occupancy all for only $299! Please call S. Rayner at 256-0675 or J. Hyde at 1-773-3854 Deposit required immediately-call now

Photographers: UMass Photo Co-op recruitment meeting Thursday, Dec. 6th 7:00 SBA Room 101

Sporting Goods Co-op Christmas Sale This week and next Open M-F 10-3

Florida in January! Bicycle with UMass Bicycle Club, meeting Thursday Dec. 6 7:00 P.M. Bicycle Coop call Chris 253-9336

Is your bod sore? Get a massage! strictly for relaxation purposes amateur masseuses No Weirdos! by appointment only call 6-8175

Bahamas - Intersession $319 1 week all inclusive call today 6-8365

Attention: Political Science Assoc. meeting this Thursday - 7:00 - at Thompson 6th floor lounge. All members and interested students please attend.

Research papers/data needed concerning male canine behavior. Also on Shepard breed. Will pay. Call Donna eves 6-6403

Joanne, I gave you my hat at Brown X-mas Party. care to get together without shouting? Kevin 6-5856

Joani—Had a great one at semi, can the rest be as nice? Can things always go so well? Love Berg

Kathy Finnegan this is your clue to your gift and my identity. Love, S.S.

To the Nut with one glove! Too bad about the circumstances because you're O.K.

WS is in order love K

Terri—Happy St. Nick and B-day, it's a toos up between Joel and Zebulon

Merry Christmas Phil

Clint Eastwood in "High Plains Drifter" SUB tonight 7, 9, 11 $1.00

Ali V.—Hope your 20th is your happiest birthday yet. Party and enjoy! We all love ya!

This is yours Mal. Happy Birthday! Love Bill

Marylou Happy Birthday! Try to be good. Luv ya all the second floor Brown

BETSY JQA: Thank you! True friends forever Luv always PCB

Anyone for a Mazola party?

Goodtime Charlie—no more blues??

Happy Birthday Trac—Hey man, we heard hampster bites are fatal, so enjoy while you can! Love, The Girls

Steve, Sorry about your bed. Can we get together again? Harriet

Fly home to D.C. Pilot needs passengers, depart 12-23 return 12-26 Brian after 6 586-1263

Kennedy 2016 Do you like Pina Coladas?

Unification Theology paper lectures/discussions Jim 256-8719

Ski-House: Stowe Vt. all season $250 each John 253-3227

RIDERS WANTED

Wanted: Female rider to Florida for Jan split drive and expenses Cheryl 584-0252

RIDE WANTED

Need a ride to Florida??? We are heading South end of December. Call 546-6143

Ride needed to Colorado after X-mas for two 256-0468

ROOMMATE WANTED

4th Woman for apt in house. Short walk to UM and town 253-2730

1 or 2 female non-smokers for 1 bdrm in 2 bdrm apt Liz or Karen 256-6771

Male to share Brittany manor Apt. 256-0214

Responsible female to share quiet 3 bedroom apartment in Puffton Jan-Aug, own room $113 mo call Debby 549-6371

Female wanted to share furnished Amherst house. Own room. Utilities included. Call Sue 256-8271

One or two women for large room in Brandywine Apt. sterting Jan call 549-3809

To sublet female wanted to share room in Puffton Apt. Jan-June 78.75/month call 549-6158

Female student seeking own room in house or apartment for Spring near campus or bus route Debbie 256-8754

Male to share Southwood two bedroom apartment call nights 546-1478

Roommate needed to share 2 bdroom Puffton Village. Own bathrm, pool, tennis, 5 min to campus. Rent $110-$145 negotiable call Geoffrey 549-3616

Female to share room with another 256-6948

Female roommate (preferably student) to share three bedroom apt. nice location 120+ available Dec or Jan 549-0029

Fem Grad own rm in 2 rm apt, bus route 2532742 nights

Female for Brittany Manor apt. Rent 71.50/month call 253-2858

Available immediately: Bedroom in 3 bedroom house in Amherst ½ mile to UMass campus on bus route NO LEASE! $100 + utilities call 253-5324

Woman needed to share 2 bedroom No. Amherst apt. call 549-6635

Male or Female for own bedroom in Puffton 3 bdrm apt start Jan or Feb 1 call 549-4041 ask for Fish or Berg

Quiet nonsmoker wanted who likes pets. Own bdrm in apt with 2 women $85 per month, includes elect. Jan-Aug 253-7573

Wanted Woman nonsmoker Riverglade Apt. bus route, share room, $80.00+ call evenings 256-6639

Roommate wanted for own room in Puffton 80 month, prefer serious student 549-0880

Starting January first Townhouse Apts. own room, $118 per month plus utilities 549-3686 Marianne or Tammy

ROOM WANTED

Two roommates looking for own rooms in a house or apt. Please call 549-6152

Room in Apt or House for Feb. 1 must be on bus route Ann 253-5262

SECURITY DEPOSIT PROBLEMS?

Have any questions about your security deposit? Do you think monies were unfairly deducted for repairs or cleaning? Did you get 5% interest? Do you know where your money is being held? Call the Security Depcsit Task Force at UMass Legal Services 545-1995 or Off Campus Housing 545-0865

TO SUBLET

3 bedroom apt Presidential call 549-6617

One bedroom in Puffton Village call Al 549-1421

WANTED

Fast Immediate Cash for gold-school rings-diamonds-silver Jeff anytime 527-7078 586-0180

Double bed mattress Please call Susan 256-8713 leave message

Wanted: Carburator for 72 Toyota Celica, engine type 18 RC call Rob 256-6279

WANTED TO RENT

2 or 3 bedroom apt for Spring semester call 546-4902 or 546-6711

Two bedroom apartment wanted near UMass or on bus route. Call Sue 256-8271

Aluminum Foil by Steve Lafler

Nuke the Whale by Danny Guidera

Beasts by Rob Ranney

Norma B. by M.J. Galper

Doonesbury by Garry Trudeau

TODAY'S CROSSWORD PUZZLE

ACROSS
1 Conspires
6 Stile
11 Crow
14 Supple
15 Spear
16 Guido's high note
17 Amused
19 Huge
20 Foolish one
21 Inactive
22 Hanker
24 Sword
26 Warmer
27 Puts off
30 Alter
32 Mountainous
33 Enamel, e.g.
34 TV network
37 — and crafts
38 Ducted
39 Canyon mouth
40 Glue
41 Deals
42 Divide
43 Newfoundland town
45 Wigwams
46 Office workers: Informal
48 Stone: Suffix
49 Bingo kin
50 Futile
52 Beverages
56 Residue
57 One against boozing
60 Observe
61 Devoured
62 Numeric prefix
63 That girl
64 Scum
65 Man's name

DOWN
1 Freshman
2 U.K. flooring
3 German king
4 "— — of Saint Mary's"
5 Sun. speech
6 Plow sole
7 Scut
8 British princess
9 Firm
10 "Not worth a — —"
11 Moot
12 Quick
13 Bet
18 Binds
23 Shred
25 Layer
26 Workman
27 Nap
28 Beginner: Var.
29 Thoroughly
30 Gambol
31 Hurries
33 Heap
35 Cheese
36 Panthers
38 Stuffs
39 Petitioned
41 High-hatted
42 Rigid
44 Pismire
45 Dye
46 Cut
47 "We're off — — the Wizard"
48 Felines
50 Prohibit
51 Sweetsop
53 Burbot
54 This: Sp.
55 Excel
58 Jug handle
59 Gibbon

UNITED Feature Syndicate
Wednesday's Puzzle Solved

D	A	M	S		S	H	A	R	E		R	I	M	A
E	M	I	T		L	A	N	E	S		E	R	I	N
M	O	R	A	L	I	S	T	I	C		C	O	L	T
I	N	S	P	E	C	T		N	O	M	I	N	E	E
			L	A	K	E	S		R	A	P
S	E	R	E	N	E		E	S	T	R	E	A	T	S
C	L	O	D		S	E	M	I		E	S	T	O	P
R	U	G		S	T	R	I	D	E	S		T	W	I
I	D	E	A	L		I	T	E	R		R	A	I	N
P	E	R	V	E	R	S	E		A	L	E	R	T	S
			O	W	E		S	I	S	A	L
P	R	A	I	S	E	S		D	U	R	A	B	L	E
L	A	N	D		V	E	N	E	R	A	T	I	O	N
O	N	C	E		E	R	O	S	E		E	L	O	D
P	I	E	D		S	O	R	T	S		D	E	N	S

DC menu

LUNCH
Sausage Grinder
Broccoli & Cauliflower Casserole

BASICS LUNCH
Pineapple Yogurt Stuffed Pepper
Broccoli & Cauliflower Casserole

DINNER
Lasagna/Meat Sauce
Chopped Beefsteak Special

BASICS DINNER
Herbed Soybean Casserole
Cheese Lasagna/Tomato Sauce

Earthfoods

Quiche
Onion-miso soup
Green salad
Apple crunch cake

James H. McManus eating place
OPEN 24 HRS
FRI. & SAT.
6:30 am to 3:00 am
SUNDAY-THURSDAY
Campus Plaza—Hadley

MOVIE LISTINGS

Academy Of Music
Murder on the Orient Express 7:00 9:15
Hampshire 4
Fiddler on the Roof 5:30
Animal House 6:00 8:45
Starting Over 6:00 8:45
Apocalypse Now 5:30 8:30
Mt. Farms 4
Life of Brian 6:15 8:30
And Justice For All 6:00 8:15
"10" 6:00 8:15
Running 6:15 8:30
Holyoke 1-8
Muppet Movie 1:10 3:15 5:20 7:25 9:30
Stranger Calls 1:00 3:00 5:00 7:20 9:30
Onion Field 1:45 4:20 7:30 10:00
French Postcards 1:35 3:35 5:40 7:40 9:45
Skatetown U.S.A. 1:00 3:05 5:10 7:15 9:20
Young Frankenstein 3:15 7:40
Silverstreak 1:05 5:30 9:30
Arabian Adventure 2:30 4:40 7:00 9:05
Andrea 2:50 4:45 7:00 9:00
Pleasant St. Cinema
PeepingTom 6:00 8:00 10:00
Showcase 1-8
Animal House 2:00 7:00 9:30
Fiddler on the Roof 2:00 7:00 9:50
Fish. . .Pittsburg 2:00 7:15 9:40
"10" 2:00 7:00 9:30
Starting Over 2:00 7:05 9:15
Apocalypse Now 1:30 7:10 10:10
Luna 2:00 7:00 9:40
And Justice For All 2:00 7:00 9:25

Vast Ed Vadas
returns to the
TOC Restaurant
Fri. December 7
Sat. December 8 9:30
TOC sticker & valid ID
required to purchase alcohol

Project DEEP's Howley Hussey displays a t-shirt from the program's trip to Bimini, Bahamas. (Photo by John Butler)

Scuba diving courses offered

By LINDA REYER
Collegian Staff

If you are looking for something different to do this intersession and would truly like to find out if it is better in the Bahamas, Project DEEP may be just what your looking for.

Bimini in the Bahamas and Key Largo, Florida will host two Project DEEP courses this January. The trips are Sport Diving Courses offered by the General Physical Education Program for two credits. UMass students will visit Key Largo, January 3-10, and North Bimini, January 12-19.

The GPE diving courses feature basic and intermediate scuba instruction, diver rescue training, boat diving, and extensive diving experience. The courses are open to novices as well as experts. No previous diving experience is required.

There are still spaces available for the trips. So if you are interested in learning how to scuba dive or would just like more dive experience contact Bob Sparks, the Director of Project DEEP, at P.O. Box 415, Northampton, MA 01060, 586-3448.

ACADEMY of MUSIC Northampton
Only Area showing
Ends this Evening
at 7:00 and 9:15
"Movie magic! The most entertaining evening of the year!" — CBS-TV
AGATHA CHRISTIE'S "MURDER ON THE ORIENT EXPRESS"
AT THE GATES OF SMITH COLLEGE

NATIONAL LAMPOON SUCCESS ISSUE
NATIONAL LAMPOON
A highly touted look at the stuff that men and women sacrifice their homes, their hearts, and their humanity for.
"Dope Millionaire" — A billion dollars in a gym bag, an Uzi machine gun, and a hot tub filled and ready to go.
"Bitch Goddesses" — Meet Sue Ann, Goddess of Success, in the Back Seat of a Car.
"The Little Engine That Did" — A successful young choochoo train pays the price for a stackfull of toot.
"Closet at the Top" — The pressures of an assistant relief manager of one of America's most dynamic grocery stores.
"The Woman's Lindress for Success Book" — A delightful peek at the hard driving businesswoman from a number of interesting angles.

AMERICAN MULTI CINEMA
ADULTS $2.75 STUDENTS & SR. CITIZENS with AMC CARD $2.25 TWI-LITE SHOW $1.50 Special Engagements Excluded Twi-Lite Show - Limited to Seating
TIMES SHOWN FOR TODAY ONLY
HAMPSHIRE 4 — 584-7550 HAMP. MALL ON CAFE SQ. - RT. 9, HADLEY, MASS.
Apocalypse Now (5:30 @$1.50) 8:30 R
NATIONAL LAMPOON'S ANIMAL HOUSE (6:00 @ $1.50) 8:45 R
Dinner & Movie $5.00 Have dinner at the Pewter Pot Restaurant on Cafe Square in the Hampshire Mall and see one of the 8 movies listed here for only $5.00. Call for details.
STARTING OVER (6:00 @ $1.50)
FIDDLER ON THE ROOF (5:30 @ $1.50) 8:30* * no 8:30 show Weds G
MOUNTAIN FARMS 4 — 584-9153 MOUNTAIN FARMS MALL ROUTE 9-HADLEY, MASS.
A temptingly tasteful comedy "10" (6:00 @ $1.50) 8:15 R
AL PACINO AND JUSTICE FOR ALL (6:00 @ $1.50) 8:15 R
Honk if you love Brian. MONTY PYTHON'S LIFE OF BRIAN (6:15 @ $1.50) 8:30 R
MICHAEL DOUGLAS SUSAN ANSPACH RUNNING (6:15 @ $1.50) 8:30 PG

A ROCK'N'ROLL'EM HIGH COMEDY

A film by PROCTOR & BERGMAN
Of FIRESIGN THEATER
Music by BILLY PRESTON · THE TUBES
BADAZZ · BUDGIE · HEAD EAST · RICHARD THIESS
STARTS FRIDAY
584-9153 MOUNTAIN FARMS 4 ROUTE 9-HADLEY
PG

Crackers, Cheese, and a Drink at the TOC Happy Hour

MIKE'S Westview CAFE
Thursday Penny Night
Every Third drink 1c
9 P.M. to closing
This meal's for you
you've worked hard all week
FREE Smorgy every Friday
during Happy Hour 4-6 p.m.
Domestic Bottle Beer 75c
Old Milwaukee Pitcher $1.95
Trudy's back in the kitchen
Home-cooked lunches Mon.-Fri.

Live Entertainment with JIM KIMBALL
Thursday
Dec. 6 9-12
the Hungry U
NO COVER
50c DRAFT BEERS
549-5713
55 University Drive

•LIVE ENTERTAINMENT•

Pam Bricker & Reed Butler
originals - jazz - pop - blues
acoustic guitar
acoustic bass
hot vocals
high energy
FRIDAY AND
9:00-1:00
Dec. 7th & 8th
THE PUB
15 East Pleasant St.
AMHERST

HAHJEE'S PLACE
"Affordably Unique"
Recommended by NY Times for the second year in a row. Try us. You'll see why
Sun.-Thurs. 4:30-10:30 Fri.-Sat. 4:30-11:30

Wrestlers win

The matmen defeated Mass Maritime 26-17 last night at Mass Maritime. See Donna Sullivan's story in tomorrow's Collegian for details.

Sports notices

HANG-GLIDING: Club party this Fri. nite at Ron's apt. Call him for details. Also, very important meeting on Mon., Dec. 10. Last meeting of semester. Elections for new president and secretary. Please attend.

Hanukkah Greeting Cards.

Share in the tradition and beauty of this joyous season.
American Greetings
Creative excellence is an American tradition.
campus center/umass
the UNIVERSITY STORE

Custom-Made In Our Store Cake'n Ice Cream Cakes
Your choice of 31-derful flavors
BASKIN-ROBBINS ICE CREAM STORE 31
28 Main St. Amherst 253-9774
across from Town Hall
on the BN/BR bus routes

TONIGHT DEC. 6
UMass Photo Coop Recruitment Meeting
SBA 101 7 P.M.

The Great Pretenders visit the Bluewall

Friday, December 7
Saturday, December 8
9:30-12:30
$2.00 cover
TOC sticker & valid ID required to purchase alcohol

HOT-L WARREN
S. DEERFIELD, MASS.
665-8757

Thurs. Dec. 6	Bluegrass Jamboree with Andy May, Wynn Fay and many others

Tom Jackson, a local fiddler who performs with many of the bluegrass musicians in the valley, was in an automobile acident last week. To help him get back on his feet financially and lift his spirits we are holding a bluegrass jamboree for his benefit. This will be one of the best bluegrass get-togethers this year, please come in and lend your enthusiasm. Bluegrass pickers are welcome to come & play. Call or stop by for details.

Fri. Dec.7	Tex Overstreet & The Country Boys
Sat. Dec. 8	Pressboard with Diane & Roger Old Time String Band
Sun. Dec. 9	Cammy Kaynor contra & square dance
Mon. Dec. 10	Western Mass Dart Association Open Tournament 8 p.m. sharp
Tues. Dec. 11	Al Fuller MC on the open mike, folksingers & acoustic musicians welcome

Enjoy our Happy Hour 4-6 p.m. Daily
Domestic Beer & Bar Liquor 50c
Our Restaurant is OPEN!
Daily Luncheon Specials
Sunday Bruch Dec. 9
Buffet Style $3.95 Reservations only

Men and women skiers hit slopes to defend league titles

The UMass men's ski team, co-captained by Bob Grout (above) and Kevin Nolan, is seeking to defend its league title. (Collegian File Photo)

By MAUREEN SULLIVAN
Collegian Staff

Berkshire East in Charlemont, Mass., began making snow on its slopes yesterday. By this weekend, five collegiate ski teams—the men and women of Amherst College, Smith College, and the UMass men and women—will share Berkshire East as a tryout and practice center. By the end of intersession, these teams, along with several others, will have at least one league meet under their belts, as well as some non-league races. All teams' rosters will look trim, as cuts took place during the early rounds of team formation. These rosters will have their offerings of good skiers, good competitors on the slope.

But the UMass roster, both for men and for women, will be tough to beat.

Coach Bill MacConnell considers this year's squads as "very strong, with a good possibility to repeat in winning their respective league titles."

The men's team, led this year by co-captains Kevin Nolan and Bob Grout, have the experience and strength to defend their title of New England Intercollegiate Ski Conference League Champions. Only three members out of last year's 12-man roster have departed (among them John Allard, who represented UMass in the nationals last spring, and Scott Prindle, with several people from the 1978 squad returning to the fold (such as John Fenton). Returnees include Grout, Nolan, Brian Prindle, Chris Wakefield, Scott Broadhurst, Scott Billings, and Tony Rundart. Also trying out for this year's team are Pat Downes and Neil Feigal.

The men's Osbourne Division of the NEISC includes UMass, Amherst College, Boston College, Brown University, Northeastern, and Plymouth State. These teams race each other throughout the season.

Meanwhile, the women's team lost several members to graduation. Of the four returning (out of ten), three will not be with the team until early January. Team captain Barbara Reynard is currently at the University of California on an exchange program; Janet Gellman is studying at UOregon; Cari Nickerson suffered a broken leg over the Thanksgiving holidays and will be in a cast for six weeks.

"Some people may say that we're in a building year," said MacConnell, "but this isn't the case here. Based on our race profiles on our new people, those trying out with us, (the women's team) will have a very strong year."

Joining the three absentees and Cindy Allard on the slopes this weekend will be freshmen Sue Voll, Kim Loftus, Laury Valenti, and Liz Spears. All having extensive racing experience, either with racing programs at ski areas or at the high school level.

Defending their Women's Intercollegiate Ski Conference Championship title, the women also seek to keep a two-year-long unbeaten season alive.

The UMass women race in the WISC League along with Amehrst College, Smith College, and Boston College. Like the men, the women's teams compete with each other throughout the season.

"Beginning on December 19th, we're going to begin intensive training," said MacConnell, "after cuts are made either on the 8th or the 15th. 'Til the 19th, we'll be running short slaloms against the watch. After the 19th, we'll prepare for the TriState Races in late December (29, 30, 31) at Berkshire East and features high school racers from here, Connecticut, and Rhode Island. Our first league race is the Amherst Meets on the 19th and 20th of January at Berkshire East."

"Winning itself isn't important; it's trying hard to win. We're collectively trying hard to win; that'll be the most important goal this season."

Swimmen fall to Tufts; swimwomen down Holyoke

By SCOTT SOLOMON
Collegian Staff

The UMass men's swimming team dropped its second meet of the season Tuesday, as they were beaten by the Tufts University Jumbos, 72-41, in the home opener for the Minutemen. The loss lowered the UMass record to 0-2, while Tufts boosted its mark to 1-1.

Tufts jumped out to an early 7-0 lead, courtesy of a well-rounded performance in the 400-meter medley relay from Jim Montesi, Mark Feldstein, Bill Coassin, and David Bates. The four completed the event in 3:46. 4, 23 seconds ahead of the Minutemen team of John Muluaney, Howard Abrahmson, Ted Candiloro, and Mike Cerruti.

UMass' Tom Dundon earned a victory in the 200-yard freestyle event, with an impressive 1:48.9 mark, but Tufts took the second and third spots, keeping the Minutemen behind by seven, 16-9. It was the first of two Dundon victories in the individual competition, as he emerged the winner in the 100-yard freestyle with a time of 48.76.

In the one-meter diving competition, Dan Anthony again proved to be a standout, outdoing the Jumbos Walter Miller and Jim Meyers with a 228.4 total. Anthony received two scores of seven from the judges in the six rounds of competition. In the three-meter diving Anthony finished third with a score of 182.70, 10.55 points behind Meyers of Tufts.

In the freestyle relay, the final event of the meet, it was Dundon again, coming from behind in the fourth slot to defeat John Morgan. The UMass team completed the race in 3:23.2, three-tenths of a second in front of the Tufts squad.

Coach Russ Yarworth was pleased with the overall performance of his team, but feels that the distance swimmers still have some work to do. Dan Boucher, a favorite for UMass in the 1000-yard freestyle event, finished second behind Bill Eisenhower of Tufts. Boucher seemed unable to hold up through the grueling 40 lap race, and faltered near the midway point. "He just died," Yarworth said. Freshman Steve Samuel did an exceptional job for UMass, as he placed third in both the 50 and 100yard events, while contributing in the freestyle relay victory.

By LAURA FRANK
Collegian Staff

For an exciting and fun evening of swimming and diving on Tuesday night, Mt. Holyoke College was the place to be as the UMass women's swim team defeated Mt. Holyoke 75-65.

The Holyoke medley relay team of Southwick, Page, Rowley, and Clapp captured a first place and set a new pool record of 2:00.6, however, UMass proved to be victorious in many of the events that followed.

Jennifer Black swam to a first place finish in the 500 yd. freestyle, doing a time of 5:37.5 which is a new pool record. She was a triple-winner, capturing first places in the 50 and 100 yds. freestyle events also. Caroline Benjamin placed second in the 500 yd. freestyle doing a time of 5:38.0, which also broke the old record of 5:40.0. Jeanne Kelly finished third in the 100 and 200 yd. freestyle events.

In the 200 yd. individual medley, Leslie Johnson continued her winning streak, with Theresa Totin capturing second place. Gail Holland racked up two first place finishes in the 50 and 100 yd. backstroke events. Theresa Totin placed first and also set a new pool record of 34.2 in the 50 yd. breastroke. Nancee Shifflett placed second in the 100 yd. butterfly behind Rowley of Mt. Holyoke who set a new pool record of 1:04.3.

Denise Tetro dove to a first place finish in the required diving event, with Kathy Driscoll finishing second. The optional round of diving was a sweep of UMass with Kathy Driscoll in first, Denise Tetro second, and Jean Bushee third.

Nancy Collins placed third in the 100 yd. breastroke and Mt. Holyoke won the 200 yd. freestyle which was the last event of the meet.

There were many best time performances for many of the UMass swimmers who were out of scoring range. The team seemed to be psyched for the victory after coming off a tough loss to UNH over the weekend. The score of that meet was 79-52.

Next Saturday UMass will face a tough team from Boston University. B.U. is noted for their excellent swimming and diving program which includes a team comprised of many swimmers and divers on scholarship, something that UMass swimming does not offer.

Steve Zack

A whole new ball game

Could you do me a favor? Before you finalize your plans for this Saturday, would you please consider a trip to the Curry Hicks Cage around 2:00 or 7:30? For what you will see will be both surprising and entertaining.

What I am referring to is the Minutewomen and Minutemen basketball teams that are making their home debuts this Saturday against Vermont and Pitt respectively.

Basketball at UMass over the years has been somewhat of a school tradition. The winter sport at UMass, so to say. But what was lacking at last year's games, besides wins from the men's side, was the crowd.

Freshmen and sophomores may not fully understand what I am getting at, but it should be quite understandable to you academic veterans in the upper classes. Two years ago, you would have to arrive at the Cage before seven o'clock or suffer the consequences of sitting under the hoop and taking the chance of having 235 pound Len Kohlhaas land in your lap. Last year you could arrive at tipoff time and choose your seat; such are the effects of a losing season.

As for the Minutewomen, all they did was win and win and ... yet they played before crowds no bigger than 100 in number. It's somewhat pitiful. This year they are as good as last year if not better, and since fans always clammer for a winner, here you go so get out and support it.

The Minutemen are a slightly different case. They are thrusted with the responsibility of overcoming last year's disgraceful season. And while they may have opened up this year with two losses on the road, it's a team that will be competitive and, to say the least, exciting.

Not since the days of Alex Eldridge has UMass been blessed with a charismatic figure like Curtis Phauls, a transfer out of San Jacinto Junior College. Worth the price of admission alone, he is possibly the best athletic talent to grace this campus since Dr. J. In the first two games, he has averaged 25.5 points, but it is the electricity he generates throughout an arena that makes him special.

Phauls leads a group of young men that have something that last year's squad sadly lacked, a desire to succeed. This team realizes its disadvantages as far as depth and bulk goes, and to make up for what they don't have, they try harder at what they do possess.

Backing the 6'6" forward are returnees George Dennerlein (who at 6'6" should rank as the shortest back-up center in the east), Jay Stewart, Jeff Bierly, Bill Morrison, Marc Roberts, and Tom Witkos.

New faces in the crowd are junior college transfer David Teague, and freshman Tyus Nedd (broken wrist), Pedro de la Cruz (recovering from a hernia operation), Danny Wright, Joe Anderson, and Bob Thorne.

Against the Michigan Wolverines, UMass faced a team that might have been out of their class. Michigan, although unranked, is still a national threat possessing a track meet-like offense, that is, run, run, run. And to judge the Minutemen solely on their 112-64 defeat at Ann Arbor would be misleading.

At Centennial Hall on the University of Toledo campus (Toledo, about as exciting a city as watching caterpillars go through metamorphosis), the Minutemen battled the then nationally ranked Rockets and the referees for the greater part of the game before succumbing, 84-74. I try to make it a habit to avoid making remarks about the officiating in print, but no way in my mind could there be a legitimate reason for sending Toledo to the foul line nineteen times in the second half, and UMass never getting a single free throw attempt in the final twenty minutes.

So on Saturday, for something to do other than watching Frank Broyles mispronounce "Massachusetts," check out the Cage.

MASSACHUSETTS DAILY
VOLUME CIX, ISSUE 64
Friday, December 7, 1979
Collegian
1979, Massachusetts Daily Collegian
Student Newspaper of the University of Massachusetts/Amherst, Ma. 01003 (413)545-3500

KOFFLER: Anti-social views are the most serious problems I have faced as chancellor

By BRIAN O'CONNELL
Collegian Staff

In his strongest statement yet to the University community, Chancellor Henry Koffler, speaking yesterday at the Faculty Senate Meeting, condemned anti-Semitic, racist and sexist statements and publications on the part of "a small number of individuals" at UMass.

Koffler announced he will form a committee, composed of faculty members, to combat "derogatory attitudes" on campus.

Earlier this week, 35 members of the Jewish Faculty Interest Group met with Koffler to discuss their concern with on-campus anti-Semitism. The group, in a press release Monday, cited the "regular appearance of Anti-Semitic articles and editorials" in the Collegian and in Nummo News.

The group also said the articles contributed to a climate "in which Jewish students live in intimidation and fear."

Koffler called these anti-social attitudes "the most serious problems I have faced during my brief tenure as chancellor." He said he intended to "exercise his "moral authority" as chancelor to discourage "irresponsible and destructive statements" by members of the UMass community.

Koffler told the senate many students, faculty members and administrators expressed serious concern over "specific expressions" of anti-social attitudes. "A particular emphasis has been placed on anti-semitic statements and publications which were especially offensive because they were the types of utterances that fed the hatred of the Nazi movement," he said.

Koffler also said a "major drive" was in order at UMass to raise the level of "civility and respect among persons on this campus."

"Of course, I personally deplore anti-Semitism, together with all similarily misdirected prejudices and hatreds," Koffler said.

Koffler told faculty members his proposed committee will be expected to restore "civility and respect for other people's dignity."

In outlining the objectives of the committee, Koffler stressed four points upon which the committee will act.

-The Identification of incidents of racism, sexism, anti-Semitism, or other derogatory attitudes.

-The continuing assesment of the moral climate on the campus.

-The formulation of public statements to be endorsed by the University.

-The recommendation of appropriate actions to improve attitudes and enhance a "climate of decency" on campus.

"In doing so," said Koffler, "we must be mindful of the importance of preserving freedom of expression, and we will be constrained by the constitutional protections of freedom of speech and the press."

Their tubas seasonally decorated, members of the UMass Tubas entertained shoppers in Amherst with holiday music yesterday. The musicians include: (back row, l to r) Neal Stone, Bart Newland, Bob Rowe, Danny Mallin and Mary Ellen Bradford. (front row, l o r) Karen McManus, Tom Cremer, John Ewing and Sheila McFayden. (Staff photo by Steve Thomas)

SCERA survey aims uniform dorm heat

By PAUL BANKS
Collegian Staff

Many UMass students are uncomfortable in their dormitories due to both high and low room temperatures, according to Larry Kocot, of the Student Center For Educational Research and Advocacy.

Kocot, a political science major, cited cases where students on lower floors of Southwest high rises open their windows to combat excessive heat. Meanwhile, he said, it is possible for students on the upper floors to be cold at the same time.

The problem of heating, or lack of it, exists not only in Southwest, but also in Orchard Hill and Central, as students will testify, Kocot said.

The SCERA rents and fees committee would like to educate students on such matters as thermostat location in separate residences, he said. Hopefully, "money will not be sent out the window in the future, and everyone will be more comfortable," he added.

Kocot said a consensus must be reached by students as to the desired temperature on individual floors of dormitories. SCERA surveys are planned to be conducted next semester by floor, beginning either in Orchard Hill or Southwest.

Survey teams hope to have a consensus on each floor as to whether the temperature is too high, too low, or adequate. SCERA will then make recommendations to the physical plant, Kocot said.

He emphasized there is a need not only for student cooperation, but also for willing students to help conduct the surveys themselves.

Kocot said representatives of the physical plant, who were unavailable for comment last night, are cooperating with SCERA in researching and improving the heating problems on campus. Excessive heat is also a problem in many dining commons and classrooms, he said.

Officials receive library report, no public release for weeks

By GARY RANDELL
Collegian Staff

An oral presentation on the structural problems of the UMass library was presented to UMass officials Monday by the consulting firm of Simpson, Gunhertz and Heger. According to UMass spokesman Howard White, who said he was unable to comment on what transpired at the presentation, the final written report may not be available to the public for five weeks.

Frank O'Connell, vice president of Daniel O'Connell's Sons, the Holyoke contractor which built the library said reports from the engineers of the Simpson firm will be similar to those of Loomis and Loomis, of Windsor, Conn. Their report last semester was responsible for the closing of the library by Chancellor Henry Koffler.

The state attorney general's office will be investigating the Simpson report during the next month and pursue any litigation that they deem necessary, White said. Both representatives from the attorney general's office and the State Bureau of Building Construction attended Monday's presentation.

"The attorney general's office expressed interest in the library soon after the Loomis and Loomis report," said White. The Loomis report stated that an earthhquake or sonic boom could possibly "peel" the brick facade.

According to White, UMass officials will be taking an active part in the investigation to be conducted by the attorney general's office. But for the most part, the attorney general's office will be handling both the investigation and reports to the public, he said.

Paul Good, chief of the attorney general's Civil Bureau, said any litigation resulting from the report would be filed in Suffolk Superior Court.

Simpson, Gumertz and Heger, a consulting firm from Cambridge, was contracted in October to scrutinize the Loomis report and two subsequent reports by different engineering firms, which supported Loomis' conclusion.

In his report, Loomis warned bolts used to attach the facade, composed of five by 60 feet brick panels, are too weak. "I consider this situation extremely dangerous to life and property," he said.

The Simpson report will be different from previous reports according to Professor Terrence Burke. He said the firm is going into greater depth, studying the building as a whole and not just the facade.

While the final report is expected in three weeks, Good said, any law suits that may follow may take many "weeks and months."

Good cited the Tilson Farm Steam Plant as an example. The plant, which was to supply the campus with heat, never officialy opened due to faulty construction. The case has been in court for one year, he said. Before going to court, the attorney general's office spent several years investigating it.

"Right now, the square root is zip," he added. "We're really stilll in the investigative stages."

DIGEST

DEMOCRACY WALL BANNED — Picture taken early in 1979 shows Chinese reading posters critical of the Peking government at Democracy Wall, a brick barrier surrounding a Peking bus depot which became a public forum for dissent. The Peking city government announced yesterday it would ban posters from the wall as of Saturday, and curtail public expression of critical sentiment in the future. (AP Wirephoto)

Seabrook rate hike pushed

CONCORD, N.H. (AP) — The Public Utilities Commission insisted yesterday tht the financially troubled utility building the Seabrook nuclear power plant must back up its demands for an emergency rate hike with testimony from two Boston banks.

The PUC ordered Public Service Co. of New Hampchire to produce the company's 1978 tax returns and representatives of First National Bank and Shawmut, which negotiated PSC's proposed sale of part of the plant.

State receives federal aid

BOSTON (AP) — A program to help disadvantaged young people in Boston, Worcester and Springfield obtain jobs has been announced by Gov. Edward J. King and federal officials.

They announced yesterday that Massachusetts, one of five states chosen for the program, will receive a $266,000 grant from ACTION, the federal volunteer service agency, to provide people between 16 and 21 with job counseling and placement assistance.

Drilling opponents to court

BOSTON (AP) — Opponents of oil drilling on Georges Bank returned to a federal appeals court yesterday for the fourth time in two years, seeking once again to halt the sale of off-shore leases in the rich fishing grounds.

Attorneys for Massachusetts, Maine, and a regional conservation group went before the U.S. 1st Circuit Court of Apeals with another request for an injunction against the scheduled Dec. 18 auction of oil and gas exploration rights on 660,000 watery acres.

The Massachusetts Daily Collegian (USPS 333-220) is published daily Monday through Friday excluding January, June, July, and August, for $15 at 113 Campus Center, University of Massachusetts, Amherst, MA 01003. Second class postage paid at Amherst, Mass. Postmaster: Send address changes to Massachusetts Daily Collegian, 113 Campus Center, University of Massachusetts, Amherst, MA 01003.

Forum: U.S.-Iranian relations

By MARGARET FIORE
Collegian Staff

A peaceful crowd barely filled Mahar Auditorium last night at a forum to discuss the history and cultural basis of the crisis in Iran/U.S. relations.

The forum, sponsored by the Iranian American Friendship Committee of Amherst, included speakers from the Union of Iranian Students in Amherst and Iranian Moslem Students, a UMass organization. Speakers offering special information on the history of United States intervention in Iran, the religion of Islam, and the civil rights issue of deportation also participated.

Laura Kellogg, speaking for the IAFC, said the group hopes to educate American students on the crisis, and help them to decide how to deal with it.

"It is up to the American people to stand up and ask their government why they are harboring this Shah," said a member of the Union of Iranian Students who identified herself only as Nasran. "American students should protest the distortion of the facts given them by their government and the media."

Tony Crayton, director of the Office of Third World Affairs, said, "The U.S. knew through the CIA that the embassy takeover was imminent, and they did nothing about it. Carter was creating a crisis."

A student in the audience later asked why the American ambassador was not in the embassy at the time of the occupation. "The government has the embassy doors reinforced with steel earlier in the summer," Crayton said, "but there was no ambassador there from two months before the takeover."

UMass history professor Richard Minear spoke on the specific problems of the deportation procedures initiated by President Carter.

"Carter, our 'human rights president,' shows little concern when push comes to shove, for the rights of Iranian students," he said. "Civil rights apply to all residents in the U.S., not just citizens."

"Under Islam, all men are brothers," said a speaker who identified himself as Sahid. He explained the religion of Islam and the split between the religious leaders and the Shah.

"He claimed to be a mystic; he called himself Islam," Sahid said. "And he jailed and tortured progressive Moslem leaders, and killed men without trial. This is not Islam. This is a special brand of Islam, created by the Shah, Sadat, and others of their kind, and spoon fed to the Moslem people."

A student in the audience challenged Iranian speakers on the question of cooperation between the two countries, saying, "I agree that we should extradite the Shah. I agree that we can't allow the violation of Iranian students' rights in these deportation proceedings. But I can't agree that Iranians have the right to hold these people hostage. Can we still negotiate?"

"We do not support the holding of the hostages," said Nasran. Sahid added, "Extreme conditions bring extreme measures. But the Shah is a citizen of Iran, and should be punished in Iran for his crimes against other Iranian citizens."

A speaker invited from Washington, D.C. bu the Union of Iranian Students outlined the history of foreign influence in Iran (Britain, USSR, US) and explained that the Shah's regime was restored by a CIA coup in 1953.

"Eisenhower revealed the coup, which was headed by Theodore Roosevelt's grandson," Behzad told the audience. He went on to explain the continued economic and advisory relationship between the US and the Shah's regime.

"The Vietnam experience had taught the US government that getting involved in smaller countries and internal revolutions was not advisable," Behzad said.

Tony Crayton addresses an open forum on the Iranian crisis at Maher Auditorium last night.

Staff photo by John Fahey

Khomeini appeals for unity

By ALEXANDER HIGGINS
Associated Press

TEHRAN, Iran — Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini urgently appealed for national unity yesterday after two days of clashes between opponents and supporters of Iran's Islamic Constitution that was overwhelmingly approved by voters this week. He asked the nation to focus instead on the conflict with the United States.

At the same time, Foreign Minister Sadegh Ghotbzadeh said he and Khomeini agreed the U.N. Security Council resolution on the U.S.-Iran crisis was a "step forward" to negotiated settlement, the official Pars news agency reported. The crisis centers on demands that the ousted shah be sent to Iran in return for the release of 50 American hostages heid in the occupied U.S. Embassy since Nov. 4.

The revolutionary leader issued his unity call after meeting in the holy city of Qom with Ayatollah Mohammed Kazem Shariat-Madari, who has said the Islamic charter does not give adequate autonomy to Iran's minorities and vests too much power in Khomeini.

"Do not quarrel between yourselves and focus on the one and only enemy .... It is your religious duty and national responsibility to concentrate on the confrontation with the United States," Khomeini said in a nation-wide radio broadcast.

Collegian Countdown

6 Publishing days left in fall semester

the final day for placement of advertising, either display or classified is Thursday, December 13, 1979. The final Fall issue of the Massachusetts Daily Collegian will appear Monday, December 17, 1979.

Dastardly Dan's
35 E. PLEASANT ST
AMHERST
$2.25 60 OZ. PITCHERS
Sandwich, Chips & Beer For Just $2.25
ROAST BEEF TURKEY HAM & CHEESE

Human Development Project
H. D. P.

A new living arrangement beginning in the spring semester. Apply 12th floor Washington Tower by Dec. 9.

pumps are back!

Bolles Shoes
8 Main St., Amherst

Custom-Made In Our Store Cake'n Ice Cream Cakes
Your choice of 31-derful flavors
BASKIN-ROBBINS ICE CREAM STORE 31
28 Main St. Amherst 253-9774
across from Town Hall on the BN/BR bus routes

CALVIN ICE CREAM
HOME OF THE 35c ICE CREAM CONE
Milkshakes Sundaes
Half-Gallons
HOURS: MON-WED 12-5 THURS-SAT 12-10
CALVIN ICE CREAM SHOP
233 N. PLEASANT ST.
CARRIAGE SHOPS
549-6938

Lloyd Bristle (kneeling) and Glenn Demers officially put an end to the tennis season at the Boyden courts yesterday. (Staff photo by Peter Berry).

Pornography linked to women's fashions

By ANNE MERCIER
Collegian Staff

Connections between pornography, violence and contemporary advertising were illustrated and discussed in a "Violence Against Women in Media" program in Skinner Hall last night.

Jill Treggor and Denise Kendall, of SCERA's Women's Issues Team chaired the informal presentation-discussion-awareness meeting, sponsored by the Fashion Marketing Club at UMass.

Topics discussed included current fashion trends and advertising campaigns and their link to pornography and violence, subliminal advertising, definitions of pornography and violence, the similarity between women's posing in clothing advertising and women's posing in the so-called "men's magazines," and possible action awareness these issues could encourage.

Kendall equated new styles of clothing of slits and uneven hemlines with the idea of rags, specifically with the idea "of what a woman would look like after being beaten."

Laura Nelson also commented on styles, noting that high heel shoes and tight skirts make it difficult for women to walk, much

TURN TO PAGE 12

Attorney general seeks stronger, reorganized judiciary system

By ED LEVINE
Collegian Staff

The student judiciary system is looking to a brighter future under the leadership of Ann Bolger, last month appointed to the position of student Attorney General, who said she wants to reorganize and strengthen the system.

The student judiciary, an arm of the Student Government Association, is organized to handle differences within the student community. The student courts mediate in cases between individual students, between students and the administration, between students and student groups, and also advise the SGA and Undergraduate Student Senate as to the legality of rules and procedures, Bolger said.

The judiciary system has also worked on cases of discipline, such as shoplifting at the University Store, and Bolger said she is currently working with the directors of the resident hall system to involve the student judiciary in discipline campus-wide.

The judiciary system is organized under the office of the Attorney General and is comprised of 19 judges, who are appointed by each area government and the student senate, Bolger said. Students also serve as advocates in either representing students at trials or assisting with administration or research she said.

Bolger said she is currently recruiting advocates to work within the student judiciary system. "Anyone who is interested can become an advocate," she said. "People can become as much or as little involved as they want. There are all kinds of things people can do."

Bolger said she is currently working towards the establishment of a three credit training course for advocates. She said students would be trained in basic legal procedures, University policies, and the operation of the student judiciary as well as University discipline procedures.

"This will also give us a stronger base to advocate student rights," she said. "We'll train advocates as to student rights and how

TURN TO PAGE 11

Kramer v. Kramer: A must

By ROD CARVETH
Collegian Staff

It is fitting that Kramer vs. Kramer should open in December 1979--the last month of the last year of a decade in which film has re-evaluated the roles of men and women as well as the institutions of marriage and the family. Films such as Alice Doesn't Live Here Anymore, Annie Hall, An Unmarried Woman, Starting Over and The Seduction of Joe Tynan have explored the effects of a stronger, self-sufficient woman in male-female relationships. But this theme gets its strongest and most effective treatment in Kramer vs. Kramer.

The plot of Kramer is simple. An unhappy, unfulfilled wife walks out on her career-driven husband who is out of touch with both her needs and his son's. The twist is that Joanne Kramer (Meryl Streep of Joe Tynan and The Deer Hunter) not only walks out on husband Ted (Dustin Hoffman) but her son Billy (Justin Henry) as well.

Eighteen months later, after Ted has completely restructured his life in order to accommodate the raising of his son, Joanne returns to re-claim Billy, now that she has found both a career and her head in California. Finding no grounds on which to compromise, the two parents wage a custody battle for their six-year-old child.

Despite the courtroom conflict, the depth of the characterizations and the stunning performances hammer home a realization that there are no good guys or bad guys in custody battles just as no one really wins. Both Ted and Joanne are depicted as decent people and loving parents who are subject to the failings of ordinary mortals.

Streep pulls off a seemingly impossible task, in a performance that begins with her cast as a homewrecker and ends with the audience feeling sympathetic with her plight. And Hoffman matches Streep's brilliance in portraying a character forced to balance his priorities. One striking scene has Hoffman listing the pros and cons of seeking custody of Billy. His long list of cons is forgotten as he holds his son in his arms.

Howard Duff, as Ted's lawyer, and Jane Alexander, as the Kramers' divorced friend Margaret, give superb performances. The movie is further enhanced by Robert Benton's well-paced direction and Nestor Almendros' cinematography.

In Review

Much of the film's heart-tugging quality comes from Henry's performance as the Kramers' son. Starting off antagonistic toward one another, both father and son slowly come to terms with their situation and build a realistically close father-son relationship. Henry's acting style is fresh and natural and is devoid of the cute precociousness of other 70's child stars.

Kramer vs. Kramer could grab several Oscars next April with its vivid depiction of the problems of the American family in transition. It is a powerful film that should not be missed.

Opens Dec. 19 at Hampshire Mall Cinemas.

GREAT BAND HOOLIGAN
DRAFT BEER 40¢ w/ID
friscostyle dance-party
·friday, december 7th
·newman center
·8-12 pm $1.00
DOUBLE DARE YA
*COME AS YOU WILL

Atkins Greenhouse Special
Fri. Dec. 7 thru Thurs. Dec. 13
CHRISTMAS
HOLLY $1.69
POINSETTAS ARE BARGAIN PRICED THIS WEEK AT $1.49 FOR A 4" POT.
WE STILL HAVE ABOUT 100 CHRISTMAS CACTUS LEFT AT $1.69.
SEE OUR NEW EXPANDED GIFT SHOP SECTION WITH MINITURE STUFFED ANIMALS FOR TINY TOTS—IDEAL FOR CHRISTMAS STOCKING STUFFERS
Atkins Greenhouse & Gift Shop
Rt. 116 So. Amherst 256-6412

GREAT BAND HOOLIGAN
DRAFT BEER 40¢ w/ID
friscostyle dance-party
·friday, december 7th
·newman center
·8-12 pm $1.00
DOUBLE DARE YA
*COME AS YOU WILL

Black Affairs

IAFC holds discussion on Iran

In the past few days, the American news media has once again, in the best tradition of sensationalism and yellow journalism, been helping in the distortion of the facts about the American Embassy situation in Iran.

As a result anti-Iranian sentiments have been mobilized, and a very outrageous reaction towards the Iranians in the U.S. have justified.

The Iranian American Friendship Committee of Amherst was founded on the basis that an educated American public would reject the anti-Iranian hysteria that the media has perpetuated.

The IAFC which organized the November 28 picket line to support the civil rights and protest the harassment of Iranian students, has released the following statement:

"We perceive a distortion of information surrounding the history of, and current situation in, Iran. By omitting certain known facts and refusing to accept responsibility for the hostage situation, the Carter Administration and major U.S. news sources have sought to create war hysteria among the American people."

The IAFC last night held an educational forum at Mahar Auditorium. The purpose of the forum was to provide residents of the Pioneer Valley an opportunity to hear speakers and engage in discussion on the issues surrounding the current serious crisis which is threatening world peace.

According to Tony Crayton, director of Third World Affairs, if anyone is to be charged before the international courts it is the Carter administration for engaging in espionage against other countries.

"He has defrauded American people without their consent," he continued.

The threatened deportation of Iranian students together with racist attacks on these and other Middle Eastern students, is a way for Carter to heighten antagonisms between the American and other peoples who have no inherent interest in fighting one another.

Richard Minear, a professor in the History Department said, "The rights of the Iranian students in the U.S. are being abused and this carries the threat of the civil liberties of all Americans."

"The 15th Amendment rights apply to all people residing in the U.S. and discriminatory treatment of Iranian students constitutes discrimination against a national group."

"If we begin to react against minorities we are all in danger. Its strange that it is President Carter, the human rights president, who is showing so little concern over civil rights of Iranian students," he continued.

Laurie Kellogg, a representative of the IAFC said the U.S. should extradite the Shah and gain the safe release of the hostages.

Big corporate interests provoked this crisis and by protecting their rich client, the Shah, they are playing not only with the lives of the hostages, but also with world peace.

"The frustrations and antagonistic feelings should not be against the Iranian people but with those who have intervened with their ability to govern their own country," said Kellogg.

Members of Alpha Phi Fraternity, Micky Baugh (left), Darwin Davis (center) and Kevin Mahan (right). The Alphas will hold their first 'smoker' (an interest meeting) of the semester on Sunday, Dec. 9 at 7 p.m. Photo by Barron Roland.

Ex-Bolivian President predicts failure

By STEPHANIE S. COOKE
Associated Press

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. — Former Bolivian President Walter Guevara Arze said Thursday he doubts Lidia Gueiler's provisional government will last until the May elections, and that if it doesn't, elections won't be possible for another "two or three years."

"I hope she lasts until the elections next year," Guevara told The Associated Press after speaking at a Harvard University seminar. "I'm afraid she will not. Any time the army decides to get rid of her, they will do it."

Arze predicts she will not last until next year's election.

"They put her in a tank and rode her around town to show they are unified. For the time they are keeping a low profile. That's why they are playing with this lady in the presidency."

However, Guevara said the army's "low profile" was brought on by adverse reaction, both internally and externally, to the coup, and that the posture is only temporary.

Another coup before May would ruin chances for a democratic election for several years, he said, because political groups would be in disarray.

In the latest coup, Col. Alberto Natusch Busch ousted Guevara, who had been elected barely three months earlier as the first civilian president in ten years.

Natusch lasted about two weeks, during which a national strike paralyzed the country for a week and some 200 persons were killed in street fighting. He then agreed to step down to allow Ms. Gueiler, president of the Bolivian Congress, to assume the presidency for one year, after which elections would be held.

Guevara, now president of the Bolivian Senate and on a speaking tour of the U.S., said he hopes Ms. Gueiler is able to hold the government together until May.

"If she fails, the whole process will fail," he said.

He blamed his own downfall on a lack of sufficient time to "reeducate" the military about what he called its "perceived threat of communism" from inside the country.

Guevara says army officers, trained over the past two decades at American-controlled military schools, such as the Academy in Panama, traditionally have been taught that the enemy lies "within their own people."

"The perceived threat of communism is obsolete. The problem is how to stop the past and start the present. How to stop the past becomes an obsession with me."

Guevara remained vague about his own political plans, but did say that organizing his political allies could be "something I might have to do when I get back."

Guevara also said that many young cabinet officers he brought in during his brief tenure as president are "thinking of organizing something bigger, such as a front or coalition."

"Let me say at the risk of sounding ridiculous, that the true revolutionary, is guided by great feelings of love."

—Che

Final Concert of Duke Ellington Series

Presenting in concert, Beaver Harris, Don Pullen and the 360 Degree Music Experience. This is the final concert being put on by the Duke Ellington series this fall. It is perhaps the most formidable in that it will encompass the full spectrum of our past concerts.

Beaver Harris is on drums, Don Pullen on piano, Ken McIntyre on reeds, Ricky Ford on tenor, Hamiett Bluiett on baritone and Cameron Brown on bass. The 360 Degree Music Experience since its creation has made a policy of getting top musicians.

Beaver Harris, and Cameron Brown have done time in Archie Shepp's group as well as other combos. Harris has also helped Ken McIntyre (a professor at Smith College) with his annual presentations at the school. Ricky Ford out of Boston was the featured reedsman in the last Charles Mingus group and also performed here last spring with his own trio.

This group in general promises if nothing else to be the high light of the Duke Ellington Series. The performance starts at 8:00 p.m. at the Student Union Ballroom at the University of Massachusetts. A donation will be taken at the door, and this will take place on Friday, December 7, 1979.

Announcements

'Simpson Street'

The Third World Theatre Series presents its last play of the semester, "Simpson Street" on Monday, Dec. 10, 8 p.m. Bowker Auditorium. The play, performed by the Puerto Rican Traveling Theatre is a contemporary drama of Puerto Rican life in New York. It will be performed in English.

Lecture

Hampshire College Lectures: Friday, Dec. 7, 7:30 p.m. West Lecture Hall/FPH "Population Control in Third World Countries." Slide show and discussion by Suman Bohm—Committee to End Sterilization Abuse (CESA).

Workshop

There will be a work shop at 4 p.m. today FAC Room 44 with Beaver Harris and Don Pullen. All are welcomed. The workshop is free.

'Wine Songs'

ATTENTION! Before you attend the basketball game on Saturday make sure you come to Afrik-Am sponsored "Wine Songs." The reception will take place in Yvonne's restaurant and features paintings and drawings by Art Beatty and also a poetry reading by Fatisha. There will be free food and refreshments for all. Saturday, Dec. 8, 1979 5 p.m. New Africa House. Don't miss it!

Arts happenings

Even though finals time has arrived,students should take a break from studying this weekend to sample some of the many art events in the area—the holiday season makes the valley come alive.

"Flashback," a benefit film festival will run from 1 p.m. to 1 a.m. tomorrow at 49 Pearl St. in Northampton. "Flashback" is a sixties review of films, slides, live music and mime. Admission is $3.75 for adults and $1 for children under 12. Proceeds will go the Free Film program, a community group which organizes series of free, bi-lingual films for local residents; and to the Community Times, a local news magazine in the making. Some the films to be screened are the Beatles', A Hard Days Night; The T.A.M.I. Show, a film of the Santa Monica Civic Auditorium rock concert in 1965; Cream, a film of the group's farewell concert; Fillmore; and The Grateful Dead Short.

And tonight at 8, WFCR FM will broadcast live UMass groups performing works of composer Virgil Thomson. WFCR is 88.5 FM radio.

But this weekend mostly will be a potpourri of five-college dance and theatre. Following is a list of the productions and dates and times with phone numbers for ticket information.

Leonce and Lena—Dec. 6-9 and 13-15. Hampshire College. Adult fairy-tale and romantic satire. 549-4600, ext. 351.

The Visit—Dec. 7, 8, and 13-15 at 8 p.m. and Dec. 9 at 1:30 p.m. Rand Theater at UMass Fine Arts Center. Production by the University Ensemble Theater with student, faculty and professional cast. By contemporary German playwright Friedrich Duerrenmatt. Tragic comedy about the effects of greed on people seen when an elderly billionairess returns to her birthplace—an improvished village in Germany. 545-3511.

Dance Works by Three—Dec. 6, 7 and 8 at 8 p.m., Scott Dance Room at Smith College. Master of Fine Arts modern dance concert. 584-2700, ext. 848.

Featuring Shirts, Hats & Jackets with All Major Logos
SPORT SHACK
Red Sox
Patriots
Yankees
Cowboys
Hampshire Mall, Hadley, Mass.

T-SHIRTS
SPECIAL OFFER
10% Commission Available to anyone for a new order
Valley Silkscreen
Haydenville 268-7800

BAGEL DELI
Best in the Valley for:
•whole wheat pastries
•lox & eggs
•blintzes & potato pancakes
•fresh bagels
•omlettes
•frozen yogurt
28 Pleasant St. Northampton

THE AMHERST DELICATESSEN
BAGELS LOX KNISHES DELI SALADS CHEESE CAKE
SOUPS DELI SANDWICHES PASTRIES CHEESE PICKLES ASSORTED BEVERAGES
WE DON'T MAKE SANDWICHES... WE BUILD THEM
Amherst Carriage Shops 549-6314

$10.00 Precision Haircut, including shampoo and blow dry styling
GREAT EXPECTATIONS
Name Date
in the amount of $
Shop No. Shop Address
Mgr's Sig.
here's a gift that goes to someone's head
Hampshire Mall
Rt. 9 Hadley, Mass.
No appointment — ever

NEED A JOB NEXT SEMESTER?
The Mass Daily Collegian is looking to fill the following positions:
*Advertising Representatives (car required)
*Delivery Person (car required)
*Graphics People
(Assistant Manager, Proofreaders, Camera, Pasteup, Typesetters)
For further information, stop by the Collegian Office 113 Campus Center or call 545-3500
Please apply by 3 P.M. December 11

WISH SOMEONE A HAPPY HOLIDAY!
If there's someone on your list that's a little special, here's your chance to let them know it!

The COLLEGIAN will publish Holiday Messages in our December 14th issue.
Your message of 20 words or less will be printed in the COLLEGIAN for $1.00 if it is handwritten $.75 if it is typed.
Stop by the COLLEGIAN office now thru December 12
12½% of proceeds will be donated to the American Friends Committee for aid to Cambodian refugees.

•LIVE ENTERTAINMENT•

Pam Bricker & Reed Butler
originals-jazz-pop-blues
acoustic guitar
acoustic bass
hot vocals
high energy
FRIDAY AND SATURDAY
9:00-1:00
Dec. 7th & 8th
THE PUB
15 East Pleasant St.
AMHERST

Around campus

Disarmament talk at Smith Sunday

Everret Mendelsohn and Marta Daniels Sunday night will present a joint lecture on disarmament at 7:30 at Smith College. The lecture will be held at Grahm Hall in the College Fine Arts Center. Mendelsohn is a Harvard University science professor just returning from Austria, Germany and England, where he discussed plans for the deployment of new nuclear missles in NATO countries.

Daniels is an organizer of the Trident Conversion Campaign and a leader of the American Friends Service Committee Peace Education Division. Daniels visited the Soviet Union earlier this year.

Frat council hosts arm-wrestling contest

The UMass Interfraternity Council will host the UMass-Budweiser Arm-wrestling contest this Sunday in the Student Union Ballroom starting at one o'clock.

Three trophies will be awarded to each weight class consisting of 145 lbs. and under, 146-165 lbs., 166-185 lbs., 186-210 lbs. and 211 lbs. and over, in a double-elimination tournament.

There is a $3 entry fee for participants and a $1 fee for spectators.

Prof to present paper on peasants in Africa

Hampshire College Professor Frank Holmquist will present a paper entitled "Defending Peasant Political Space in Independent Africa," on Monday, Dec.10, at 7:30 p.m. at Amherst College. The presentation will be made in the Five-College Faculty Seminar in African Studies, at Alumni House.

Anthro class reports on UM-town relations

A UMass anthropology class which studied "Twon-Gown" relationships will report their findings to the community on Tuesday, Dec. 11 at the Jones Library from 5:30 to 7:30 p.m.

The study was part of "Fieldwork Methods," a course taught by Professor Jonnetta B. Cole. A letter from Cole to the Community states the class would like to use the information to improve town and University relations.

CAPTAINS COURAGEOUS

All shirts light blue /?

Send to:

Trickiquiddic Co.
P.O. Box 669
Nevada City, CA 95959

Enclosed is $_____ (U.S. funds only) for _____ shirts. Size S, M, L, XL (circle one) at $6.95 each + $1.00 postage and handling. (Calif. residents add 6% sales tax. Allow 3 weeks for delivery.)

Name: _____

Address: _____

FOR LOVERS

THE MOST INTIMATE BOOK OF POEMS EVER WRITTEN FOR LOVERS AND DREAMERS AND THOSE ALONE. IT'S AN IDEAL GIFT FOR YOURSELF AND THE ONE YOU LOVE: THEY WILL REMEMBER YOU ALWAYS. IN BLACK AND WHITE FOR THE TOUCH OF ELEGANCE.

For Your Copy:
Send $10.00
& Tax
VAN STEAD
303 FIFTH AVE.,
NEW YORK 10016

Valley Book Shop
used books in good condition
thousands of books in all subjects at low prices
Carriage Shops open
10-5:30 daily Fri. til 8
Sundays in Dec. 1-5

Holiday BOOK FAIR

Gnome Gnotebook 192 high quality lined pages, each with a gnome for your gnomish gnotes, gnews, diaries, journals, names and addresses, or just about anything. Handsomely bound in simulated blue denim with three-color stamping of two gnifty gnomes. only $2.49

Anything Book - Floral 160 high quality lined pages, delightfully and durably bound with a floral design and with a flower on each page. Perfect for recipes, sketches, photos, diary entries, etc. only $2.98

Anything Book - Blank High quality blank pages, durably bound. For a variety of uses!

Just a few of the dozens of books available!
on special tables
quantities limited

the holiday store
the UNIVERSITY STORE

SALE

Open Sundays & evenings til Xmas

the SHOE BiN
187 n. pleasant st., amherst

Positions Available

The Collegian has openings for the following positions for Spring semester:

- assistant managing editors
- copy editors
- lay-out technicians

see Julie Eagle in Rm 113 CC
also available

- editorial assistant

see Rob Burbank in Rm 113 CC
or call 545-3500

The Collegian is an equal opportunity employer

FOUR SEASONS

Budweiser 12 oz. btls. ..... case $7.49
Schmidts Beer 12 oz. btls. ..... case $5.69
Mr. Boston Peppermint Schnapps qts $4.99

Riunite Wines
Lambrusco, Rosado, Blanco
750 ml. $2.49

Wines/Liquors
rte.9, hadley, ma./584-8174
in front of the malls

SECRET SANTA

GREAT GIFTS - GREAT PRICES
Hundreds of 25c to $25 gifts

Tree Ornaments - Cards
Blouses - Shirts - Belts
Wallets - Posters - Mugs

Scarves - Boxes - Tins
Jewelry - Crystals - Prints

20% OFF
Tea Sets - Rugs
Bedspreads
through Dec. 6

THE MERCANTILE
AMHERST CARRIAGE SHOPS

Editorial/Opinion

Politics, the CIA—and death

Jack Gallagher

No one liked Jimmy Carter as President of the United States. They said he was weak. They said he didn't know what day it was. They said he would never get reelected, not in a million years.

But public opinion, like the wind, changes.

So now, Carter is where it's at. The US of A is behind the man from Plains, Ga.

Presumably, Carter has shown that there is strength in weakness in handling the Iranian crisis.

Carter hasn't show much strength in the public opinion polls since his 1976 presidential campaign blitz.

Therefore, the Ayatollah is Carter's re-election campaign manager.

But nothing is simple.

□

The Associated Press reported this week that a majority of Americans polled would like to see CIA activities in other countries be stepped up, in the hopes of avoiding Iran-type situations in the future.

If the CIA stepped up its foreign activities, however, the possibility of Iran-type situations would increase.

One of the major reasons the students of Tehran University are holding the hostages is, they believe the US Embassy was a spy station for America.

□

Ted Kennedy appears to be making a fool of himself of late, because he has denounced the deposed Shah of Iran for perpetrating one of the most repressive regimes in modern times.

Kennedy might be right in his assertions about the shah, but he delivered them at the wrong time.

He should know better than to speak out against the president in a time of crisis. He should know better than to speak out against the government, because he is "endangering the lives of the hostages."

Thus, freedom of speech is anti-government and pro-anarchistic.

□

Sad-but-true: that the Ayatollah cannot release the hostages; for if he does, the Iranian people sympathetic will have no outlet on which to vent their frustration.

The only solution, therefore, is to convince the shah to willfully return to Iran. The shah is dying, anyway.

□

Sad-but-true: that most people die for no reason at all.

Jack Gallagher is a Collegian columnist.

Fire Marshal urges caution

To the Editor

I was rather dismayed at the article written by the Collegian on Christmas fire safety precautions at the University. It seemed to emphasize the "hampering of Christmas spirit" and confiscation of live trees rather than informing the student body of the very real dangers of yuletide decorations.

How many people remember that ten women at Providence College dormitory were killed two years ago by a fire involving live Christmas trees and combustible decorations? Every year, hundreds of people die or are injured by fires involving Christmas decorations.

State law prohibits the use of combustible decorations in our buildings. However, fire retardant materials and labelled artificial trees can be utilized by the campus community. Any item whose combustibility is unknown can be submitted to our office in a 12 square inch strip for analysis.

All Heads of Residence and Department Heads have been issued a University Fire Safety Manual in which Christmas Fire Safety is discussed. I suggest anyone with questions relative to holiday decorations consult your Head of Residence, Department Head, or Office of Environmental Health and Safety at 5-2682.

Keith E. Hoyle
Fire Marshal

Letters

Pro-bomb editorial: 'Frightening, blind'

To the Editor:

A recent editorial by Bill Hallisey distressed me greatly because I've heard it from others. For this reason I choose to write in rebuttal. Four main problems exist in his argument along with interesting and frightening implications.

One, because Iran shares an extensive border with the Soviet Union, any use of nuclear weapons against the Khomeini regime would require swift Soviet response of an equally drastic and irrevocable nature.

Two, the fact that the U.S. and U.S.S.R. have invested hundreds of billions of dollars in nuclear weapons hangs like a dark cloud over the cloud over the future of our planet. True, the weapons were built to be used. This does not mean we should use them, it necessitates continued restraint.

Three, Mr. Hallisey's remarks concerning the desirability of using a nuclear device(s) in Iran belie his ignorance of the mechanism of such use. Nuclear weapons are built and set in motion by humans.

Four, his comments on the advantages of the use of neutron bombs have underlying implications. The existence of a bomb which destroys life yet leaves property intact shows the moral bankruptcy of the argument and the country which produced the bomb.

This country's disregard for human life and its interests in protecting capital investment are pointed out by the development of this bomb. Other demonstrations of this lack of regard for life include the fact that the CIA re-imposed the Shah's dictatorship on the late fifties along with training by the U.S. of SAVAK (the Shah's torturing secret police—insuring his remaining in control). This was in response to the popular government's moves to nationalize the oil interests. A note of special interest is that after the Shah's reimposition, the Standard Oil companies received 21% of the Iranian oil supply to the market. It is more than coincidental that Nelson Rockefeller (and his Chase Manhattan Bank) have significant interest in those companies. No wonder Nelson interceded on behalf of the Shah's admittance to the U.S. earlier this year. He would, no doubt, love to see Reza Pahlevi in power again.

Remarks such as Mr. Hallisey's are frightening in their blind disregard for Carter's true motives in refusing to extradite the Shah (the protection of American capital investment in Iran). Also no less disturbing is the disregard for the implications of the use of nuclear weapons in this age where we must strive to maintain a shaky nuclear balance while working toward total disarmament.

Tom O'Connor
Amherst

Greensboro 'terror'

To the Editor:

The racist scum of the Ku Klux Klan murdered four anti-Klan demonstrators and wounded ten others (two critically) in Greensboro, North Carolina on Saturday, November 3. As an integrated group of textile union organizers, community activists and anti-racist militants organized by the Workers Viewpoint Organization demonstrated peacefully, the KKK drove up, leapt out of their cars and unleashed a barrage of semi-automatic weapons fire on the crowd.

It is crystal clear that no union, black or leftist organizations can defend itself against a repeat of this wanton reactionary terror without the right to armed defense! Robert F. Williams set this example in Monroe, North Carolina during the civil rights movement. In contrast, the young black athlete shot in Boston and now paralyzed from the waist down is a victim of the stringent Massachusetts gun control laws which leave racist murderers unhindered while citizens are deprived of the democratic right to bear arms—leaving the victims helpless against cop and racist terror. No to gun control!

The Greensboro cops were apparently complicit in the Klan's attack. The racists in blue followed the KKK cars right to the demonstrations site—but were conspicuously absent when they opened fire. They appeared moments after the bloody assault and proceeded to arrest the victims of the attack! The cops have proven that they side with the Klan and the Nazis: their job is to defend the racist capitalist state—from gunning down the Black Panthers to the Jackson State killings. On the very day of the Greensboro massacre, no less than 300 cops protected a band of 50 of the fascist Klan filth—marching in Dallas for the first time in 60 years.

Civil libertarians like the ACLU and their fellow travelers on the left, the Socialist Workers Party, defend the democratic "rights" of fascists to organize. The Greensboro killings demonstrate that fascists like the Klan use such rights to only one end: reactionary murderous terror. Protected by the cops and abandoned by the racist mobilizations that defeated busing in Boston and Louisville, the fascists have stepped up their campaign of terror.

Steve Behrens

Readers find comics 'irritating, revolting'

To the Editor:

I always thought that comics were called "comics" because they were supposed to be comical... Y'know, for the past week or so, I have found myself continually irritated and revolted by the lack of humor (and taste) displayed in the "comic" strip Norma B., by M.J. Galper. I don't know whether M.J. is a man or woman, but in either case he/she should realize that an unwanted pregnancy is not a laughing matter.

Many lead to abortion, which is both physically and mentally devastating to a woman; or worse yet, to an unwanted marriage, which can only lead to bitterness and frustration on both sides.

In any case, joking about accidental pregnancy certainly isn't very funny, and therefore doesn't belong in the comics (or anywhere else, for that matter).

The insensitivity displayed by Norma B. towards a serious problem faced by many women astounds me. I simply find it hard to believe that anyone can find this type of thing amusing.

Sarah A. Matys
Michele Fandel

King may call special session to prevent MBTA shutdown

By THOMAS S. BROWN
Associated Press

BOSTON — Gov. Edward J. King is holding out the option of calling the Legislature into emergency session to prevent a shutdown of the Boston area's financially troubled mass transit system.

King yesterday told a news conference there might be "legislative action" if the Advisory Board of the Massachusetts Bay Transportation Authority refuses to approve a $15 million addition to MBTA's current budget.

The authority claims a transit strike could develop by the middle of the month if it does not get more funding and as a result fails to meet its payroll.

King reaffirmed the position he has taken for several months — that he will not permit "essential" public transportation in metropolitan Boston to be disrupted.

"Whatever action that takes will be taken," he said. "The cash dollars are there; the allocations are details.

"It may well be the advisory board will supply the money. There may well be some legislative action."

The Legislature is adjourned until January, and the governor would have to call a special session in order to get it to act on the issue. Legislative leaders have reason to fear such a session, since some members are likely to try to repeal the controversial pay raises they approved for themselves and executive officers just before adjournment.

If King resorts to a special session, it is possible he would do more than just seek extra money for the "T." He may also seek to abolish the Advisory Board altogether, removing a thorn from the side of his appointee, MBTA Chairman Robert L. Foster.

The advisory board, which represents the 79 cities and towns served by the system, has the power to veto or trim MBTA spending requests. In July it cut a Foster request for a $26.6 million supplementary budget to about $11 million and warned him it would frown upon any further requests for money.

However, Foster has come back to the board seeking another $15 million to carry the system through December.

It's Now or Never
sign up for the
SUGARBUSH SKI
&
PARTY WEEK
Jan. 20-25
$135 includes everything
sign up in the CC Concourse
Final Payments Due Immediately
UMASS SKI CLUB

The TOC BRAVELY Presents
Vast Ed Vadas
News. . .Blues. . .and Weather?
Friday December 7
Saturday December 8
9:30 - 12:30
No Cover
TOC sticker and valid ID required to purchase alcohol

SATURDAY DEC. 8TH IS DISCOUNT DAY!
STORES OPEN 9A.M. SHARP FOR THIS GREAT EVENT

SPECIALS FROM 9AM-10AM
*12.99 misses dressy poly-crepe blouses Reg. 32.00
*3.00 & 5.00 double slit petti's Reg. 6.00 and 10.00
*4.99 men's dress shirts Reg. 20.00
*9.99 men's corduroy slacks Reg. 20.00
*Not included in discount sale

10% Off entire stocks (including sale items) electrical appliances
bras • girdles robes • sleepwear loungewear • daywear bodywear gloves • jewelry slippers neckwear • handbags luggage
candy • cards
millinery

15% Off entire stocks (including sale items)
housewares • gifts
blankets • linens
domestics
junior dresses misses sportswear junior sportswear girls infants toddlers shoes
FREE CHRISTMAS GIFT WRAPPING WITH ANY PURCHASE OF 5.00 OR MORE
USE YOUR CONVENIENT DENBY'S CHARGE. VISA OR MASTERCHARGE

20% Off entire stocks (including sale items)
extra room sportswear ladies' coats • pantcoats storm coats • raincoats dresses • pantsuits
extra room dresses
men's coats • men's suits
men's sportswear dress shirts
furnishings & accessories men's slacks & jeans
young men's dept.
boys & students

DENBY'S
we can be your store
HAMPSHIRE MALL (HADLEY) & HOLYOKE MALL (INGLESIDE)

SALT delayed to next session of Congress

By MIKE SHANAHAN
Associated Press

WASHINGTON — Two of President Carter's most important legislative proposals — the SALT II treaty and the energy plan — will be delayed in Congress until next year, Senate leaders disclosed yesterday.

The postponements will mean congressional consideration during a presidential election year, historically a bad time for pushing controversial legislation through either the House or Senate.

Senate Majority Leader Robert C. Byrd had previously said he hoped to at least begin debate on the strategic arms limitation treaty with the Soviet Union by year's end.

There had even been earlier forecasts that the debate would begin in October with a final vote on ratification by early December.

But yesterday, Byrd noted the slow pace of Senate consideration of the "windfall profits" tax on the oil industry, and said: "I don't see how it (SALT II) could conceivably be brought up this year. Our time is running out."

Asked if the delay into the election year will jeopardize approval of the arms pact, which requires a two-thirds Senate vote, Byrd said, "If it goes over to January, I would see no harm in that."

SALE
Open Sundays & evenings til Xmas

the SHOE BIN
187 n. pleasant st., amherst

INFLATION-FIGHTER SPECIAL
ON KODACOLOR DEVELOPING AND PRINTING!

12 Exposure Develop & Print @ $2.49
20 Exposure Develop & Print @ $3.69
24 Exposure Develop & Print @ $3.99
36 Exposure Develop & Print @ $5.99
SNAP UP THE SAVINGS!
OFFER EXPIRES DECEMBER 31
UNION NEWS & SWEET SHOP
student union bldg.

UPC PRODUCTIONS & AEC/SCANN present
HOLLY NEAR
with J.T. Thomas & Susan Freundlich
Tuesday, December 11
8 P.M.
Fine Arts Center Concert Hall

Tickets: $4. adult $2. children
General Admission at: TIX, Union Records Unlimited, Handicapped Student Office, Womonfrye Books, Platterpus, Everywoman's Center
For Childcare info call 546-1248

The BlueWall Presents

The Great Pretenders
December 7 & 8
9:30 - 12:30
$2.00 Cover
TOC sticker & valid ID required to purchase alcohol

Kennedy says his campaign unhurt by remarks on the Shah

By DAVID ESPO
Associated Press

HARTSELLE, Ala. – Sen. Edward M. Kennedy said yesterday his presidential campaign has not been hurt by the criticism he has received for remarks about the deposed Shah of Iran, and said again he considers the controversy closed.

Asked by reporters whether he thinks he has been harmed politically by his castigation of Shah Mohammad Reza Pahlavi, or has had any second thoughts about what he said, Kennedy replied both times with one word, "No."

Kennedy, making a campaign stop in the South, also said the Carter administration should send Congress proposals to deal with a possible cutoff in oil supplies.

He declined to state a preference between gasoline rationing on the one hand and a stiff federal gasoline tax on the other, two options believed to be under consideration within the administration.

But Kennedy said the country needs to ensure "that any lessening of supplies will mean that the burden will be equitably and fairly distributed across the population and that there won't be a possibility for one group of people to effectively buy their way out of some form of a shortage."

The Massachusetts Democrat, challenging President Carter for the party's 1980 presidential nomination, made his comments in an airport interview at Huntsville, Ala., the first stop on a three-day campaign trip. His schedule included two and a half days in Iowa.

BUDWEISER®
KING OF BEERS
— U. MASS. —
BUDWEISER ARM WRESTLING TOURNAMENT
— December 9th —
Student Union Ballroom 1 O'CLOCK
— Featuring: Dan Mason —
Two Time World Super Heavyweight Champion
— Guy Lasorsa —
U.S. Light Heavyweight Champion
Sponsored by UMass Inter-Fraternity Council

To Serve Studying Students
the Campus Center will provide
food service in
THE HATCH CAFETERIA
in the evenings
Monday-Friday 5:00 pm-10:00 pm
On a Trial Basis

FOR CHRISTMAS
Rembrandt Soft Pastels
for your Artist

available in sets
and individual sticks
the UNIVERSITY STORE
the art store within a store
campus center/umass

The "Great American"
Gold & Silver
Purchase of 1979
Is HERE!!

World Gold and Silver Coins Purchased
Dealers Welcome! Estates & Collections Purchased
BUYING: Silver Dollars-$12.15 Sterling 12.10/oz.
.999 Silver - $15.05/oz.
Pie 1965 US Coin Silver - 10.50 x face value
Gold - 10 kt. - $2.88/gram 14 kt. - $5.16/gram
18 kt. - $6.64/gram
2½, 5, 10, and 20 Dollar Gold Prices
Need Money - Bring your old Class Rings, coins, jewelry, etc.
Top prices being Paid.
FRI, SAT, and SUN DEC 7, 8, 9 9-8 Daily
Student Conference Center Room 177
U of Mass, Amherst

★Att'y Gen.

CONT. FROM PAGE 3

to advocate them."

Bolger said some of the projects she wants to institute next semester involve the acceptance of the SGA constitution by the University and the improvement of the services provided by the judiciary. She said the UMass Board of Trustees do not recognize the validity of the SGA constitution, and added students will work next semester towards gaining recognition of the constitution.

Bolger also said she wants to increase the level of services provided by her office. "I want to try to keep the office open all day long," she said. "I want to set up a resource center where students can come to obtain legal information."

Students are needed to assist in all facets of the operation of the judiciary, she said. "We need people to help work for student rights, to assist with publicity, negotiating, academic policy formation, and many other areas."

A meeting of all students interested in working with the student judiciary will be held on Monday, December 10 at 7 p.m. in room 917 of the Campus Center.

Correction

In Joyce Munroe's article yesterday, The Common Womon Club of Northampton was incorrectly spelled The Common Women Club. The correct spelling is womon.

"Little Heels" SALE

the SHOE BIN
Open Sundays and evenings til Xmas
187 n. pleasant st., amherst

Funding for 1981

F.Y. 1981 SATF budget requests must be in the Senate Office no later than Dec. 14, 1979 at 5:00 PM. Late proposals will not be accepted.

First Choice For Christmas
For that very special person on the top of your list - choose the finest of writing instruments. In gold filled; sterling silver or solid 14 karat gold.

CROSS®
SINCE 1846
campus center/umass
the UNIVERSITY STORE

KEGS—BEER— STADIUM WINE—LIQUORS
— 253-5595 —
U. Mass. Amherst
LIQUORS
10 a.m. til 11 p.m.

SPECIALS
Molson Ale Golden Ale, Canadian Beer 12 oz. btls. ..... $9.90 case $2.75 six
Bud 12 oz. cans, bottles..... $7.49 case $2.10 six
Miller 12 oz. cans, bottles.... $7.49 case $2.10 six
Haffenreffer 12 oz. btls.. $5.90 case $1.60 six
Martini & Rosi Astispumane $6.49 750 ml

SPECIALS
Great Western Champagne Extra Dry, Pink, Cold Duck..... $4.99 750 ml
Amaretto di Saronna ..... $9.99 23 oz. $5.25 12 oz.
SS Pierce Vodka..... 1.75 liter $7.95
Southern Comfort... $7.95 qt. $6.59 fifth
Seagrams 7 $11.89 1.75 l $6.95 qt. $5.69 fifth
Seagrams VO..... $6.89 750 ml.

NOTICES

Sat.

DEC 8

Disco, sponsored by MacKimmie House and Third World Resource Center, $1.50 adm., 9:30 p.m.-close, Hatch.

Chancellor's Christmas Ball, 9 p.m.-1 a.m., Student Union Ballroom.

Kwanza Art Exhibit Opening and Kwanza Show—Art Beatty, sponsored by Afrik-Am, 8 p.m., Augusta Savage Memorial Gallery, New Africa House.

"Cafe Yerushalayim," 5-College Hillel social. Food, entertainment by David Koffman. 8 pm, Gamut Room (Center for the Performing Arts), Smith College. For more info, call Nancy, 584-2700, ext. 395.

Celebrate the Holiday Season tonight at 9:00 with the Alpha Delta Phi fraternity. Donations are $1.00 plus a toy...or...$2.00 without a toy. Proceeds will be given to the "toys for tots" and Globe Santa benefit drives.

FAMILY HOUSING
has openings in:
Lincoln Apts. Studios-$153.00/mo.
North Village apts. 1 bdrms-$210.00/mo
ALL UTILITIES INCLUDED
For information call:
Family Housing
103 Berkshire House 545-3115

Sun.

DEC 10

Mizmor Chorale. Learn Hebrew & English songs. 4 pm, SU 302.

Chug Ivri. Hebrew conversation in an informal group. 7 pm, SU 302.

THIRD WORLD WORSHIP SERVICE 3:30 pm (365 No. Pleasant, Amherst) at Wesley Methodist Church with Rev. Gilbert Caldwell, UCF Campus Chaplain and Gospel Choir.

Madrigal Dinners, $9.95 adm., 4 p.m., Campus Center Auditorium.

★ Fashions

CONT. FROM PAGE 3

less run and she thought of them as "victim clothes."

Suzanne, a Women's Studies student talked about the narrow line between what is sexy and what is sexist. Sexy can be strong, she said, but can also connote vulnerability-"openness and bareness is what has always bothered me in advertising."

The group focused on the Calvin Klein advertising campaign. Treggor said she saw a strong connection between what Calvin Klein is doing with children- portraying them as sexual and sensual and how the "kiddie porn" markets on 42nd street in New York are exploiting children.

"There are enough advertisers admitting to subliminal advertising that we have to start wondering if it's some kind of plot," Treggor said.

Kendall said she saw a lot of similarity in the objectifying portrayal of women in fashion ads and in magazines like Penthouse. "In one the woman will have clothes on, in the other she won't, but the message is the same- she is accessible."

Collegian Classifieds

To place a Collegian Classified
- Come to Collegian Office CC 113
- 8:45 to 3:45 Mon-Fri
- Classified deadline is 3:45 two days prior to publication day

Collegian Classified Rates
- 15c per word
- Student rate 10c per word
- Cash in advance
- 5 consecutive days 5 % discount
- Phone number FREE

AUDIO

Jensen: Brand new Triaxial Auto Stereo Speakers C9991 discount retail: $80.00; Price: $57.50. Call Rick at night 549-0571

Xmas Present Cheaply Lafayette 15W receiver, Lafayette speakers, BSR turntable call JW 549-0542 $150

AUTO FOR SALE

Fix your own car The student Auto Workshop has tools, space and friendly mechanics to help you maintain your automobile. Tues, Wed, Thurs 3-9 p.m. Sat 10-5 Lower Level CC Gargae 545-0673

68 Dodge Mail Truck needs brake work, converted to camper, best offer 256-0709

1971 VW Van runs well 950 or BO 253-2664

1968 Volvo 144 v. good cond., many new parts, minor elec. prob. $800/BO John 665-4395

1973 Toy. Corolla Wagon runs very well, w/snows $1250 call 665-2322

74 Duster immaculate, must be seen 365-7978

4 wheel drive '69 Jeep Comando in good condition $850 546-4334

Pinto Wagon 75 4 speeds, low milage, VGC 256-8465

ENTERTAINMENT

Soundsystem for Hire perfect for bands, discos, coffeehouses Rick 584-4105

Coffeehouse Newman Center Saturday 8 p.m. Free

FOR RENT

2 bedroom Belchertown no bus, utilities included 253-3081 5-7 P.M.

Cheap 1 bedrm in Nhampt Apt close to center and bus , available Jan 1 66.25+ (gas heat) call Patty 586-2769 keep trying

Couple seeks 2 bedrooms in house or apt. beginning January call 253-7961 Brenda

Females wanted for 2 bedrms in 3 bedrm twnhse (Southwood) call 256-0342

1 or 2 bedroom apartment near campus and bus. Starting Jan. 1 call 256-0329 (keep trying)

Room for Rent: Male Grad student, lots of room 584-0252

Studio-type apartment. Available Jan. 1 $175.00 includes all. One mile to Campus. Bus roite. Call 549-5957

One Bedroom in So. Amherst for female nonsmoker $80/mo 256-8358

FOR SALE

Portrait Drawing Dennis Delap, 256-8732

Portraits Profile-$7; full face-$10, color-$20, pets in color-$15 Deborah Pompano 549-4634

Drumers: one pr. "14" Avedis Zildjian Hi-Hat Cymbals, perfect condition! $90.00 call Mike 546-7760

For Sale 25" Raleigh Competition 4 yr. old $1250 call Mark 546-7901

77 Puch Moped Runs great! Cheap transportation, low maintainence 546-6353

Pioneer Cassette Deck $100., Sewing Machine $50.00, Phillips Turntable $35.00, Panasonic Tape Recorder $35.00 6-9303

1 United Airlines half fare coupons, best offer, Steve 545-2627

Student Ceramic Sale Dec. 7 8:30 to 6:30 Dec. 8 8:30 to 1:30 Munson Annex UMass

Olin Mark I Skis 160 cm, Salomon bindings—$125 or BO Ladies Nordica boots size 8—$50 or BO Great Condition! call 546-8453

4 145x13 Kleber Steel Radials mounted & balanced on Fiat rims, brand new—$100 665-7555

Hiking boots size 6, almost new. Best offer. call 256-0329 (keep trying)

"Rosewood & Silver" A very beautiful & soothing classical guitar & flute album. An excellent gift for the holidays! Only $5. Orders by phone 253-5195

1974 Vega Hatchback 4 speed, snows $250 467-7639

Classical Guitar Madeira by Guild. Excellent cond. w/case $125. 15" color TV set 2 yrs. old. $180 253-3012 (mornings best)

Typewriter $15. 253-9455

New Finnish Ski Jacket medium-large, best offer 546-1015

Who ticket available Philadelphia Dec. 10, exchange for ride, negotiable 665-4889 after 10:30 P.M. Jamie

Grateful Dead tapes Box 121 Amherst

Classical Guitar excellent condition, new strings $50 or BO 546-4995

Pr. A-78-13 studded mounted snows BO 253-7564 John

1969 Rebel four new tires, good body & interior $250 or BO call Mike 256-6815

1972 Ford pinto runs great, 4 speed, must sell, best offer Jim 256-0158

United half-fare coupon 253-3877

Great Xmas Present—Down vest never been worn. Size 11, Brown with leather shoulder and back $35 6-6989

Double Bed Mattress & Boxspring almost new, will deliver $75.00 584-4187

Snow Tires radials, excellent shape $40. 256-6632

LOST

Lost 12/2 valuable Passport and checkbook under name of Judith Caunter. If found please call Rob 6-7596

Bible with brown leather cover lost before Thanksgiv by SW Munchies 6-1042 Eric Reward

$10 Reward Lost leather mittens with striped liners Jason 549-2663 545-2671 x222

Lost Gold Watch Bulava Accutron, brown wristband, please return has sentimental value 546-7029

PERSONALS

Daytona Beach in March—Peter Pan World Travel Agents MC130223 are offering sensational sunshine and sand during your spring break of March 15-22. Don't get caught without a seat! Includes: 8 days, round trip bus and accommodations, only 1 block from the boardwalk. Double occupancy all for only $299! Please call S. Rayner at 256-0675 or J. Hyde at 1-773-3854 Deposit required immediately-call now

Sporting Goods Co-op Christmas Sale This week and next Open M-F 10-3

Florida in January! Bicycle with UMass Bicycle Club, meeting Thursday Dec. 6 7:00 P.M. Bicycle Coop call Chris 253-9336

Joanne, I gave you my hat at Brown X-mas Party. care to get together without shouting? Kevin 6-5856

Joani—Had a great one at semi, can the rest be as nice? Can things always go so well? Love Berg

Merry Christmas Phil

Anyone for a Mazola party?

Unification Theology paper lectures/discussions Jim 256-8719

Ski-House: Stowe Vt. all season $250 each John 253-3227

Harold: Don't forget you owe me. K.T.

Happy Birthday Hot Shit HJ

Eltona, Alan-baby, Happy Birthday, RF-JB1

J.M. bought his own E.P.T. kit Susy Sorority

Color & B&W Photographs of WHO Steve 545-2240 557-3002 545-3500

Sharon Evers we always knew you were a flashee but now you have become ½ assed. L.R.

Hey Darlene--XXXOOO Let's see if the same thing happens in the personals as did on your memo board! -Tish

Marilee: Have a great weekend! Remember I'll be watching you so keep smiling. Love your Secret Santa

Happy B-day Loretta I hope you have k.p.'s o.s. and p.h.'s! Love Terese

Do you like Cosmic Wimpout? Then your chance to play is this Friday at 7:30 P.M. in Hampden Student Center in Southwest. Entrance fee is only one dollar come and play, eat, and listen to some good tunes yea!!! Prizes also

Maureen, Why are level 2's operating out of 6? -A Level 6

Randy, I love you. Your Baby

Trudy—the 28th isn't that far away. Where's my airplane ticket? Happy Birthday—Rich

Coffeehouse Newman Center Saturday night 8 P.M. Free

Saturday Night Live music 'n' munchies at Newman Center. A coffeehouse 8-12 P.M. Tomorrow

Dearest Desperad, Do I leave little to the imagination? You will in your little blue underalls! I can handle it, Pokey

S.P. Who'd think; set up 9 months ago and still making waves. . .Will you still drop a check for me? Get psyched for tonight, we'll have fun. I still love you. Honey

Rae-Gabrielle Happy Friday! Love Secret Santa

J.A.S. from Cedar Lane to Main St. Amherst "maybe we should go into politics?" Thanks D.A.M.

RIDERS WANTED

Wanted: Female rider to Florida for Jan split drive and expenses Cheryl 584-0252

RIDE WANTED

Need a ride to Florida??? We are heading South end of December. Call 546-6143

ROOMMATE WANTED

4th Woman for apt in house. Short walk to UM and town 253-2730

1 or 2 female non-smokers for 1 bdrm in 2 bdrm apt Liz or Karen 256-6771

Male to share Brittany manor Apt. 256-0214

Responsible female to share quiet 3 bedroom apartment in Puffton Jan-Aug, own room $113 mo call Debby 549-6371

Female wanted to share furnished Amherst house. Own room. Utilities included. Call Sue 256-8271

To sublet female wanted to share room in Puffton Apt. Jan-June 78.75/month call 549-6158

Female student seeking own room in house or apartment for Spring near campus or bus route Debbie 256-8754

Male to share Southwood two bedroom apartment call nights 546-1478

Roommate needed to share 2 bdroom Puffton Village. Own bathrm, pool, tennis, 5 min to campus. Rent $110-$145 negotiable call Geoffrey 549-3616

Female to share room with another 256-6948

Female roommate (preferably student) to share three bedroom apt. nice location 120+ available Dec or Jan 549-0029

Fem Grad own rm in 2 rm apt, bus route 2532742 nights

Female for Brittany Manor apt. Rent 71.50/month call 253-2858

Available immediately: Bedroom in 3 bedroom house in Amherst ½ mile to UMass campus on bus route NO LEASE! $100 + utilities call 253-5864

Woman needed to share 2 bedroom No. Amherst apt. call 549-6635

Male or Female for own bedroom in Puffton 3 bdrm apt start Jan or Feb 1 call 549-4041 ask for Fish or Berg

Quiet nonsmoker wanted who likes pets. Own bdrm in apt with 2 women $85 per month, includes elect. Jan-Aug 253-7573

Wanted Woman nonsmoker Riverglade Apt. bus route, share room, $80.00+ call evenings 256-6639

Roommate wanted for own room in Puffton 80 month, prefer serious student 549-0880

Starting January first Townhouse Apts. own room, $118 per month plus utilities 549-3686 Marianne or Tammy

Female wanted to share Southwood Apt. Jan 1 call 256-6670

Female wanted to share large room in Squire Village starting Jan 665-7923

Housemate wanted S. Amherst 256-8695

1 or 2 women for 4th bedroom in Sunderland Apt. call 665-4197

ROOM WANTED

Two roommates looking for own rooms in a house or apt. Please call 549-6152

Room in Apt or House for Feb. 1 must be on bus route Ann 253-5262

2 people looking to share apartment starting Jan. pref. Sunderland 546-8176 546-8181

We're looking for a 2 bedroom apt to sublet starting Jan preferably Sunderland 546-8181 546-8176

SECURITY DEPOSIT PROBLEMS?

Have any questions about your security deposit? Do you think monies were unfairly deducted for repairs or cleaning? Did you get 5% interest? Do you know where your money is being held? Call the Security Deposit Task Force at UMass Legal Services 545-1995 or Off Campus Housing 545-0865

TO SUBLET

3 bedroom apt Presidential call 549-6617

One bedroom in Puffton Village call Al 549-1421

WANTED

Fast Immediate Cash for gold-school rings-diamonds-silver Jeff anytime 527-7078 586-0180

Double bed mattress Please call Susan 256-8713 leave message

Wanted: Carburator for 72 Toyota Celica, engine type 18 RC call Rob 256-6279

WANTED TO RENT

2 or 3 uedroom apt for Spring semester call 546-4902 or 546-6711

Two bedroom apartment wanted near UMass or on bus route. Call Sue 256-8271

Wanted 2 bedroom apt. bonus$$ please call 546-4096, 546-4093, 546-4904 Will take over lease starting in Jan. Desparate

Looking to sublet one bedroom apt in or near Amherst beginning Jan 1. Call 253-2265 evenings

Aluminum Foil by Steve Lafler

Nuke the Whale by Danny Guidera

Beasts by Rob Ranney

Norma B. by M.J. Galper

Doonesbury by Garry Trudeau

TODAY'S CROSSWORD PUZZLE

ACROSS
1 Actual
5 Scoop
10 Eject
14 She: Fr.
15 — Jones
16 Scarlett's home
17 Facts
18 Watch part
20 Unethical
22 Antelope
23 Lave
24 Provoke
26 Heel
27 Train
30 Licenses
34 Pass
35 Menu
36 Wrath
37 Kind of job
38 Redound
40 Loam
41 June words
42 Sanction
43 Girl's name
45 Kind of dog
47 Actor Peter —
48 Arts: Latin
49 Swagger
50 Foundation
53 Inlet
54 Papal hat
58 Ultimately
61 Hence
62 Raced
63 Room: Fr.
64 Lily
65 Thunder-struck
66 Chasm
67 Trial

DOWN
1 Maroons
2 Israeli king
3 Can. prov.
4 "A — — cinch"
5 Uncle —
6 Tease
7 Straighten: Var.
8 Celtic goddess
9 Being
10 Pace
11 Agony
12 Sea eagles
13 Stipend
19 Blab
21 — and yangs
25 Asks
26 Explorer
Jacques —
27 Illuminated again
28 Dodge
29 Drum
30 Soft shoe
31 Tantalus' daughter
32 Attempter
33 Vends
35 Suet
39 Grain spike
40 Most briny
42 Foremost
44 Ghetto
46 Showered
47 Puts off
49 Asinine
50 Greek letter
51 Declare
52 Dried
53 Austrian river
55 Corner
56 Incites
57 Radix
59 Can.'s neighbor
60 Aye

UNITED Feature Syndicate
Thursday's Puzzle Solved

DC menu

LUNCH
Grilled Cheese Sandwich
Meatloaf/Mushroom Sauce

BASICS LUNCH
Vegetable Sheperds Pie
Grilled Cheese Sandwich/Wheat

DINNER
Roast Turkey/Dressing, Gravy, Cranberry Sauce
Baked Fish/Crumb Sauce

BASICS DINNER
Spinach Wheat Croquettes
Baked Fish/Crumb Sauce

Earthfoods

Pizza
Cole slaw
Cream of celery soup
Poppy seed cake

MOVIE LISTINGS

Academy Of Music
La cage Aux Folles
7:00 9:15
Hampshire 4
Fiddler on the Roof
5:30 8:30
Animal House
6:00 8:45
Starting Over
6:00 8:45
Apocalypse Now
5:30 8:30
Mt. Farms 4
J-Men Forever
5:15 7:00 9:00 11:00
And Justice For All
6:00 8:15

"10"
6:00 8:15
La cage Aux Folles
5:15 7:45 9:55
Holyoke 1-8
Muppet Movie
1:10 3:15 5:20 7:25 9:30
Stranger Calls
1:00 3:00 5:00 7:20 9:30
Onion Field
1:45 4:20 7:30 10:00
French Postcards
1:35 3:35 5:40 7:40 9:45
Skatetown U.S.A.
1:00 3:05 5:10 7:15 9:20

Love and Bullets
2:40 4:50 7:00 9:10
Saturday Night Fever
1:00 5:25 9:45
Grease
3:10 7:30
Last Tango
1:55 4:30 7:00 9:35
Pleasant St. Cinema
PeepingTom
6:00 8:00 10:00
Showcase 1-8
Animal House
2:00 7:20 9:45

Fiddler on the Roof
2:00 7:15 1 0:10
Fish. . .Pittsburg
2:00 7:15 9:30 11:45
"10"
2:00 7:00 9:30 11:55
Starting Over
2:00 7:15 9:30 11:45
Apocalypse Now
1:30 7:10 10:10
Star Trek
2:00 7:00 9:45 12:15
And Justice For All
2:00 7:3 9:4

Sports notices

ICE HOCKEY—Teams now forming for spring intramural hockey program. Information, roster forms, and health forms are availale at the Intramural Office, 215 Boyden. Deadline for team rosters: Dec. 17, 1979.

NAIADS—The Naiads synchronized swim team will be performing on December 10 at 6:00 in the NOPE Pool. Admission is free and you are advised to dress lightly.

WMUA ---tryouts for the basketball announcing positions. All interested report to WMUA Saturday at 1:30.

Women runners open against BU

By JAMES GRAHAM
Collegian Staff

A young but experienced women's track team will travel to Boston University this Saturday to open their indoor season. Much of the team's experience and strength will come in the distance events from Minutewomen who competed on this year's New England Championship cross-country team.

Top competitors in the distance races will be sophomores Judy McCrone, Cathy Petrick, and Tricia Moores, junior Linda Welzel and senior tri-captain 'Dill' Wilson. Other captains include seniors Caroline Shea and Barb Callanan. Both Callanan and Wilson will be graduating this semester and will not compete during the second half of the season.

An experienced middle distance team includes Cyndi Martin, Caroline Gardner and Robyn Dally. Martin, who ran a 2:12 half-mile last year, said, "We've got a really good attitude and we should do real well at BU and during the season."

Running the quarter-mile will be tri-captain Caroline Shea, Diane Sealey and Sally Anderson. "We will have a strong distance team, but we'll have to rely on other people to do well too. We'll win against BU just because we have so many people out for the team," Shea said.

Competing in the sprints and field events will be a young talented group including Micki Callahan, Gretch Tarky, Jackie Budrow and Angie Cowette.

Stoneware by Bob Woo
AT
skera
A CRAFT SHOP & GALLERY
rt.9 • hadley center • 586-4563
Christmas Hours: M-F 10-9 Sat & Sun 10-6

The Amherst Music House & Guitar Workshop
Amherst Carriage Shops 549-1728
SAVE 40%
OFF RETAIL PRICE ON
NEW GIBSON, GUILD
OVATION, YAMAHA, GUITARS
with this coupon

WATCH THE SUN GO DOWN AT THE
T.O.C.
HAPPY HOUR

150
THORNES
A MARKETPLACE
THORNES' boutiques have a dazzling variety of gifts
for the holiday season
Dorian, the magician coins, cards and the classics
11-3 p.m. December 8
Fine Shops
Restaurants
The Art Department
galleries
150 Main St., Northampton.
Holiday Hours
Sunday 12-5
From Dec. 2
Every night
'til 9
except Sat.
From Dec. 10

A ROCK'N'ROLL'EM
HIGH COMEDY

A film by PROCTOR & BERGMAN
Of FIRESIGN THEATER
Music by BILLY PRESTON · THE TUBES
BADAZZ · BUDGIE · HEAD EAST · RICHARD THIESS
MOUNTAIN FARMS 4 584-9153 MOUNTAIN FARMS MALL ROUTE 9—HADLEY, MASS.
Friday & Saturday at (5:15 @ 1.50) 7:00 9:00 11:00
Sunday thru Thursday at (6:15 @ 1.50) 8:30
Matinees Sat. & Sun. at 2:00
PG

Matmen pin wrestlers of Mass. Maritime

By DONNA SULLIVAN
Collegian Staff

Disco lights and an immensely rowdy crowd did nothing for the wrestlers from the Massachusetts Maritime Academy Wednesday as they fell victim to the mighty UMass matmen on their home turf 26-17. They entered and warmed up with a strobe light blinking and "We are the Champions" blaring, but when the last match was through, they could hardly make that claim.

Once again, the matmen started out and finished up with big wins. 118 pound Rich Schiarizzi dominated his bout from the first whistle chalking up five points for a 20-8 superior decision over Dan Perry. "I'm getting my moves together and wrestling a lot better," said Schiarizzi.

126 pound Gordon Wrin and 134 pound Doug Johnson hung tough but fell to their Mass. Maritime opponents Rich Deveaney and Dicky Abbott.

A very geared up Greg MacDonald gave the full house crowd quite a show. The 142 pound wrestler took an early lead, got quite a bit behind in scoring, then got down to business outwrestling Gary Bennett 12-7.

In a close bout, Kevin Murphy exhibited consistency and stamina, the kind typical of this 150 pound wrestler, to come out on top of Steve McLarney 5-1. Murphy went to Mass. Maritime with a newly acquired Coast Guard Tournament championship under his belt.

158 pound freshman Dave Devoy battled fellow freshman Chris Losordo with the overall score tied 11-11. Devoy brought the Matmen out on top with a 3 point win.

UMass' 167 pound wrestler Aaron Moynahan lost in a close bout to Chris Scyocurka.

With a mere 18 seconds left in the match and down 2-3, 177 pound Dave Guselli escaped the hold of big Shawn Byrnes to tie the score at 3-3. Because of an extra minute of riding time though, Byrnes was given a point and the win to give Mass. Maritime a 14-11 lead.

190 pound Bill McQuade strapped on his head gear and was ready to go. Exhibiting a type of finesse mixed with sheer brute strength that comes from his extensive wrestling experience, McQuade, with less than a half minute left in the match, pinned Bill Hoefer to bring UMass to a 20-17 lead.

If anyone blinked their eyes, they missed the final match of the evening. Less than a minute and a half into the bout, John Allen pinned Mark Wertheimer to nail down a UMass win. "I wrestled him before and pinned him," Allen said of Wertheimer, "so I expected to pin him again."

"The match appeared to be a lot closer than Coach Amato and I thought it would be," Coach Dave Foxen said. "We can always count on our last two wrestlers (McQuade and Allen) to come through with big wins," he said.

The UMass Junior Varsity wrestling squad had quite an evening at Mass. Maritime; winning four matches, tying one and losing none.

126 pound Brian O'Boyle stayed on top throughout the bout for a 9-4 victory over Tom McElhinnev.

150 pound freshman Steve O'Keefe was too quick and skilled for Mass. Maritime's Rich Hobson. O'Keefe won on an 18-4 superior decision.

In the 167 pound class Bill Valencia tied Bill Wellock, and 177 pound Jack Boyd wrestled tough for a 3-1 win over Rich Felicetta.

Dave McEntee finished up a successful JV exhibition pinning Dan Fauvell one minute and 23 seconds into the match.

The varsity squad travels to Morgan State today for a weekend invitational tournament.

IM volleyball action

By DONNA SULLIVAN
Collegian Staff

Beta Kappa Phi, Maroon, the Phyzzees, the Fools, Iowa Tech, the Indians, Motherloads, the Brown Bombers, and the Brittany Bombers all advanced to the intramural volleyball playoffs with wins in last night's action.

The Fools with five men present battled the four man team—Gunners. The Gunners took the first of a three game series 15-10, then fell in the second and third, 16-14, 15-9.

Dan Berman, Steve Wark, Jeff Swartz, Jeff Deckel and Steve Alpert played for the Fools against Dave Charrett, Tom Dougherty, John McMullen and Joe Dolan.

According to referee John Rigopoulos, despite the double handicap, the competition was great. "All the games went down to the wire, it was a good match," he said.

The Collegian Clan was defeated in two games by the Phyzzees who took second place in the Capitol league and advanced to Monday's playoff action.

Beta Kappa Phi played hard for a 15-9, 15-7 win over Delta Chi to take the Fraternity League.

The teams will be part of a single elimination volleyball tourney starting Monday and finishing up with the finals on Thursday.

ACADEMY of MUSIC Northampton
Now showing on screen Evenings
at 7:00 and 9:15
"A zany comedy of brilliant wit."
—Boston Globe

LA CAGE AUX FOLLES
(Birds of a Feather)
R
AT THE GATES OF SMITH COLLEGE

The Hungry-U

We also feature
Vegetarian
Specialties
549-5713
55 University Dr.

SNOW TIRES SAVE ½
Firestone Retreads have the same width, depth, design and rubber as new tires —only at ½ the cost.
FREE replacement if they EVER fail for ANY reason.
Regular $15.00 up
Radials $19.50 up
exchange plus tax
LEON'S TIRES
291 FEDERAL STREET
(next to McDonald's)
GREENFIELD, 773-8315

IMPORTS LTD.
Specilaizing in Foreign Car
Repairs working also with exotics
251 Russell St.
Rte. 9
Hadley, MA
584-6927

The Blue Wall HAPPY HOUR
Presents:
STEVE SPELMAN
3:30 - 6:30
Wednesday & Friday
TOC Sticker & Valid ID required to purchase alcohol

AMERICAN MULTI CINEMA
TIMES SHOWN FOR TODAY ONLY
ADULTS $2.75 STUDENTS & SR. CITIZENS WITH AMC CARD $2.25 TWI-LITE SHOW $1.50
SPECIAL ENGAGEMENTS EXCLUDED TWI-LITE SHOW—LIMITED TO SEATING
HAMPSHIRE 4 584-7550 HAMPSHIRE MALL ON CAFE SQ. RT. 9—HADLEY, MASS.

FRANCIS FORD COPPOLA'S
Apocalypse Now
Fri & Sat (4:30 @ $1.50) 7:45-10:30
Sun-Thu (5:30 9 $1.50) 8:30
Matinees Sat. Sun. 1:30
R

BURT REYNOLDS
JILL CLAYBURGH
Starting Over
Fri & Sat (5:00 @ $1.50) 7:30-9:45
Sun-Thu (6:00 @ $1.50) 8:45
Matinees Sat. sun. 2:00
R

a tradition returns...
Fiddler on the Roof
Fri & Sat (4:30 @ $1.50)7:45-10:30 Sun-Thu (5:30 @ $1.50) 8:30 Matinees Sat. Sun. 1:30
G
THE ROCKY HORROR PICTURE SHOW
Fridays & Saturdays
12:00 Midnight
All Seats $2.50
R
Guess Who's Back?
NATIONAL LAMPOON'S
ANIMAL HOUSE
Fri & Sat (5:00 @ $1.50) 7:30-9:45 Sun-Thu (6:00 @ $1.50) 8:45 Matinees Sat. Sun. 2:00
R
MOUNTAIN FARMS 4 584-9153 MOUNTAIN FARMS MALL ROUTE 9—HADLEY, MASS.

A comedy for adults who can count.
"10"
Fri & Sat (5:00 @ $1.50) 7:30-9:55
Sun-Thu (6:00 @ $1.50) 8:15
Matinees Sat. Sun. 2:15
R
J-MEN FOREVER!
A film by PROCTOR & BERGMAN
Music by BILLY PRESTON · THE TUBES
Fri & Sat (5:15 @ $1.50) 7, 9, 11
Sun-Thu (6:15 @ $1.50) 8:30
Matinees Sat Sun 2:00
PG
AL PACINO
AND JUSTICE FOR ALL
Fri & Sat (5:00 @ $1.50) 7:30-9:55 Sun-Thu (6:00 @ $1.50) 8:15 Matinees Sat. Sun. 2:00
R
Childrens Show
"GALLANT BESS"
All Seats $1.50
Sat-Sun 2:00
G
LA CAGE AUX FOLLES
Fri & Sat (5:15 @ $1.50) 7:45-9:55 Sun-Thu (6:15 9 $1.50) 8:30
R

Spirit Haus
Liquor Store
The Area's Largest Selection of
Imported & American Wines
New Tremendous Selection of Imported Half Bottles

Bud 12 oz. cans.....7.59/case
Falstaff 12 oz. cans.....5.75/case
Krakus 12 oz. NR.....2.49
"33" Extra Dry (6.5) alcohol 11 oz. NR.....2.25/3 pack
O'Keefe 12 oz. NR.....2.69
Heineken 12 oz. NR.....3.69

Popov Vodka 80 proof.....4.99/qt.
Coronet VSQ Brandy.....6.25/fifth
Highland Piper Scotch.....12.49/1.75 liter
Canadian Mist Whiskey.....6.95/qt.
Stolichnaya Vodka 80 proof.....8.95/fifth

WINE SELECTION
Selected Galo Varietals.....2.25/750 ml.
Barberini, red, white, rose.....1.69
Almanden Burgundy and Chablis.....6.49/3 liters
Francois Monopole French Sparkling Wine..4.89/750 ml.

10% Case Discount Available on Wine
Many Other In Store Specials
Ice, Kegs & Soda Available
338 College St (Rt 9) 253-5384
Amherst open till 11:00
not responsible for typo errors

Gymnast Frank Cohen displays his talent in the floor exercise. The gymmen face Army this weekend at West Point. (Collegian File Photo).

Gymnasts face Army Cadets at West Pt.

By BOB MITCHELL
Collegian Staff

With their first victory under their belt, the UMass men's gymnastics team travels to West Point Academy in Island Falls, New York tomorrow, to face the Army Cadets in a dual meet.

Coach Roy Johnson is confident that if his squad can come out of the floor exercise competition with a lead, stay within three points on pommel horse, within a point on rings, and match them on the long horse vault, UMass will win. "We can pick up our points on the bar competition; we're easily six points better in both bar events."

Despite losing to Army last season by a score of 202-191, the Minutemen squad is a confident one coming off a week of great practices and will be a very tough competitor for the Cadets to contend with.

In their first meet, the Minutemen scored a total of 233.24, compared to Army's first meet, in which they played Long Island University and scored a total of 244. UMass with its strong floor team, led by Dave Buegler, is favored to win the event. Army, according to past statistics, however, should take the pommel horse and still-rings competition. The vaulting and horizontal bar competition figure to be the closest events of the afternoon, with the Minutemen getting the slight edge on the parallel bars.

"It's going to a close meet, but I think we can win it; they've lost a lot of guys to graduation, we've lost just a few," said Johnson.

Home debuts:

Hoopmen host Pitt Panthers

By DAVE BRADLEY
Collegian Staff

The men's basketball team will be looking for its first win of the season tomorrow night when it makes its debut in Curry Hicks Cage against the University of Pittsburgh at 7:30.

The Panthers come to town with a 2-0 record, having beaten Bucknell University 83-65 in its season opener and Robert Morris College (a Division One school in Pittsburgh) 77-50.

UMass (0-2) got busted in its first game against Michigan, 112-64, then played Toledo University tight last Monday to an 84-74 loss. (Note: Toledo beat Michigan 67-64 last Wednesday.)

It will be the first Eastern Athletic Association (EAA) conference game for both teams this season.

Pittsburgh, coming off an 18-11 '78-'79 season which included two wins over the Minutemen and a berth in the Eastern Eight conference finals, has four of its starters from last year back for this season. Sammy Ellis, a 6'7" junior forward is averaging 22.5 points and seven rebounds a game this season, and 6'5" swingman Carlton Neverson has scored 31 points in two outings. Sam Clancy, described in the Eastern Eight press guide as, "...one of the nation's best power forwards," pulled down 19 rebounds against Robert Morris to go along with his 13 ppg scoring average. The 6'6" junior averaged 15.4 ppg and 12.5 rebounds last year.

The Panther backcourt finds returning starter Dave Olinger teaming up with 6'3" sophomore Dwayne Wallace.

Pittsburgh center Ed Scheuermann will not make the trip here due to a sprained knee incurred just before the season started.

Probable UMass starters include Jay Stewart at center, forwards Dan Wright and Curtis Phauls, and guards Tom Witkos and Bill Morrison.

Phauls has been the shining star for the Minutemen thus far, scoring 30 points against Michigan and 21 against Toledo. Coach Ray Wilson, although certainly not disappointed with Phauls' performance, said he is not completely satisfied either.

"I'm not entirely pleased with his performance in the first two games," the coach said, "because I know he can play better."

The first-year coach also said he was not unhappy with the teams ragged start, noting that the team has worked hard.

"All we can do is play hard and play together, and whatever the outcome happens to be, so be it. We aren't gonna dominate many of the teams we play."

UMass had a 5-22 record last year under Jack Leaman, 0-10 in the Eastern Eight. The last time UMass won an Eastern Eight game was in February, 1978 against Pittsburgh, 71-68.

Pittsburgh coach Tim Grgurich said he recognized the abilities of Stewart and Witkos, and his scout was "very much impressed" with Phauls' play at Toledo. "We're expecting a real battle," he said of Saturday's game.

Minutewomen take on Cats

By DANNY GUIDERA
Collegian Staff

The women's basketball team will have their hands full this week as they will play three games in the space of four days, beginning with the Minutewomen's home opener against the University of Vermont tomorrow afternoon at 2:00 at the Curry Hicks Cage.

"They're a young team," said Minutewomen coach Mary Ann Ozdarski, who watched the Catamounts scrimage last Saturday. The Cats, who play a zone defense according to Ozdarski, were throttled 82-39 by the University of New Hampshire in their season opener.

The Minutewomen are undefeated after one game by virtue of a 83-69 downing of Harvard a week and a half ago at Cambridge.

Center Julie Ready, who hit for 31 points in the Harvard game said, "I think they (Vermont) will be tough. They'll be out to get us from last year." Last season the Minutewomen beat the Cats 61-51 at Burlington with the help of 31 points from guard Sue Peters.

Ozdarski concurred, "We're going to have to play good basketball because they'll be trying to get us back from last year's win."

The Catamounts, who were 3-10 last season, are led by 5'10" forward Robin Doyle and 5'7" guard Linda Johnson, both juniors.

"They're not a big team," said Ozdarski of the Cats, who have no one on their roster over the six foot mark. However, Ozdarski noted that the Cats could make up for the height differential in quickness.

"We should handle them," said Ready.

Monday night the Minutewomen will face off against Texas A & M in the first meeting between the two schools in women's basketball. Ozdarski said she arranged the game when she heard that A & M would be playing in the area to give her squad a taste of competition outside of the East.

Texas A & M played in Springfield last night. Previously, the Aggie Lady's (no kidding!) record stood at 3-1, with their most recent victory coming over Lamar University 84-68.

Coach Cherri Rapp's Southwest Conference squad is led by Lori Foreman (15.2 points per game) and Peggy Pope (averaging 14 points on the season.)

Game time is 7:00 at the Cage.

Tuesday night the Minutewomen go back on the road when they travel to Kingston to meet the University of Rhode Island. The Rams, who met Boston College last night, were 3-1 going into the game, having posted wins over Bentley, the University of the District of Columbia, and Brown.

Keys to the Ram attack are forward Naomi Graves (17.5 points per game, 7.5 rebounds) and Kim Dick (16.5 and 10.8) who, although only sophomores, hold five URI offensive records between them. Both made Region I and New England all star teams last season, according to URI Sports Information Director Jim Norman. Norman described the Rams as "generally a young team." The Ram roster includes only one senior, and she is not starter.

George O'Brien

Why can't the Patriots win?

I had so much fun last week trying to tell everyone what was wrong with the Minutemen, that this week I decided to tell you all what ails everybody's favorite mystery team, the New England Patriots.

Perhaps the best way to analyze the Patriots would be to compare them to a team that is their direct opposite, the Philadelphia Eagles. The Patriots are a talent-laden team that cannot quite get a handle on how to win the big ones. The Eagles, on the other hand, are a team with only a few real stars and a host of mediocre players, that has already clinched a spot in the playoffs and is my pick to represent the NFC in the Super Bowl in Pasadena.

First, the Patriots: Why can't this team of superstars win? Could it be the fact that they cannot win on natural turf? Is it the many injuries to key players that plagued them this year? Might it be that their quarterback is not of championship caliber and cannot drive his team when the money is on? Or could it be, as many people have suggested, that this is not a team of superstars but a team of average players that are continually mistaken for quality athletes?

I believe that all of the above factors help explain why the Patriots have failed, but I don't believe they get at the heart of why this team continuously comes up short.

On the talent aspect, I believe the Pats are not overrated. Outside of Dallas and Pittsburgh, they have the best personnel in the NFL. The defense leads the league in sacks and is number one against the run. The secondary might just be the best in the league. On offense, the Patriots have an excellent running attack, a fine offensive line (despite the loss of Leon Gray) and a receiving corp that boasts the best tight end in football and two wide receivers that rank first and second in the league in yards per reception.

The quarterback, Mr. Grogan is a fine runner, an excellent play caller and a better passer than people want to give him credit for. In the four games after he was benched in Detroit, Grogan threw the ball about as well as it can be thrown.

The problem with all of the above mentioned players is that they forget how good they are when they get in crucial situations. When the big games come along, Morgan drops a bomb, Ivory fumbles deep in enemy territory, the other guys pass for 350 yards and Grogan goes 8 for 20 with four interceptions (the Miami game was a big exception).

In the Bills game, everyone watching on TV knew the Pats were doomed when the game went into overtime. I can't help thinking the Patriots themselves thought they were destined to lose. Against Miami, I got the feeling the Pats

Why do these players choke whenever they get in big game situations? I think it has to do with the team wanting to win and developing a feeling that it can win.

though they simply could not win the game. A defeatist, pessimistic attitude like this does more to explain an 8-6 record than all the injuries, poor officiating, and other excuses the team relies on these days to explain away the losses to Baltimore, Buffalo and Greenbay.

On the other side of the coin are the Philadelphia Eagles. Here we have a team that is convinced it can win, and it does.

The Eagles have some talent, but nothing much when you compare them to the Pats. Ron Jawarski is a good QB, but he's all they've got. The receiving corp is solid, with Harold Carmichael catching every pass in sight. On defense, the Eagles have never had the talent the Patriots have, but they play a scrappy, hard-nose type of defense that enables them to win even without the services of linebacker Bill Bergy.

What makes the Eagles work is a sense of unity between the players and a feeling that they can win any game that they are in. The team gets 120 percent from everyone, from Dick Vermeil on down to the trainer, and it is this type of effort that produces wins over the Steelers and Cowboys. (The Eagles are the only thus far to beat both teams.)

Maybe, just maybe, while the Patriots are home watching the playoffs on T.V. they will take in the Eagles game(s) and figure out just what it is that keeps them from being a winner.

MASSACHUSETTS DAILY Monday, December 10, 1979 VOLUME CIX, ISSUE 65

Collegian

1979, Massachusetts Daily Collegian

Student Newspaper of the University of Massachusetts/Amherst, Ma. 01003 (413)545-3500

Housing market turns hostile face to students

By GABRIEL FRAYNE
Collegian Staff

If you're looking for off-campus housing next semester, consider these facts: None of the rental agencies in the Amherst area report any apartments available, rents are averaging about $300 per month for a two-bedroom apartment, and are expected to increase soon, agency fees may be as much as $50, and the price of heating oil is almost double that of last winter.

In a survey of apartment complexes, Cedarwood, Cliffside, Presidential, Colonial, Lantern Court, and Brittany Manor all reported that there are no openings at the moment. And where student housing is available, overcrowding is now a serious problem, according to David Heflich of the Springfield-based Housing Allowance Program. Nor does the long-range prospect for student housing appear to be particularly good.

Joanne Levenson of the UMass Off-Campus Housing Office reported that the demand for on-campus housing has risen considerably on account of these conditions.

A sharp increase in the Five College student population during the past few years has made housing a major political concern in the Amherst-Northampton area. Not only is overcrowding a problem, but, claims Heflich, it has created an "exploitative attitude" on the part of Amherst property owners, who tend to view the revenues from student housing as a means of keeping their own taxes down.

Rent-control referenda were defeated in the town of Amherst in both 1977 and 1978.

Levenson explained that the high rate of transience among student tenants often makes dealing with landlords an exercise for the robust. "A lot of people are terrified of landlords," she said, noting that landlords are known to use a variety of ploys to intimidate students.

One frequent landlord practice, she said, is allowing more than the legal limit of tenants to move in to a dwelling, and then threatening them with eviction if they complain too loudly. She suggested that "tenants should get more aggressive about their needs. It's a consumer issue."

Two of the most common problems student tenants face in dealing with landlords are rents and maintenance. "Rents can be increased almost at will, given the parameters of the lease," Heflich said, even though state law requires landlords to give tenants thirty days written notification of a rent hike when renewing a lease. Moreover, in the event that a tenant calls in the Board of Health for a suspected violation, the landlord cannot increase that tenant's rent for at least three months.

But these laws are often unknown to tenants. Commented Wentworth: "I would doubt that there are any leases in Amherst that don't have illegalities."

Although the tight housing market often creates a severe financial strain for student tenants, housing subsidies are even tighter, Heflich said. The Housing Allowance Program runs a number of subsidy programs, he said, but "there's a list a mile long." And subsidies are gnerally reserved for family groups.

What can student tenants do to protect themselves in the Amherst housing crunch? "Organize!" is Wentworth's advice. "I think students could really benefit from having a UMass tenant union," Levenson added.

The Amherst Board of Health is sponsoring a series of meetings in which landlords and tenants can get together to acquaint themselves with state health regulations pertaining to housing. Schedules of the meetings are available in the Off-Campus Housing Office.

Faces ...

What's all the grimacing here about? Is it some kind of repression being foisted on UMass students? Maybe a bit of torture? Far from it. See page 6.

Professors seek to oust union

A group of UMass faculty members are attempting to collect some 500 faculty signatures by January in order to hold a union "decertification" election.

The group, which is acting on the behalf of the Faculty Freedom Task Force, is seeking the removal of the Massachusetts Society of Professors as a bargaining agent for the faculty.

According to UMass sociology professor Lewis Kilian, a member of the Task Force, letters and petition cards for a new election on union representation have been sent to all faculty members. Killian has said that if 30 percent of the faculty or librarians in the bargaining union sign the cards and they are presented to the state Labor Relations Board in January, an election must be conducted to determine whether the unit still wants representation in collective bargaining by the MSP.

The MSP's three-year contract expires June 30, 1980, and negotiations between the union and the administration are scheduled to begin in the spring.

Killian said UMass faculty members and administrators are evaluated at least once every three years. He said an election would ensure review of the MSP's past performance and future programs.

The task force has particularly criticized a contract provision calling for all non-union members of the bargaining unit to pay an agency fee (equivalent to union dues). According to the present MSP contract, individuals unwilling to part with dues money are allowed "conscientious objector" status, which calls for an equal donation to a student scholarship fund. The agency fee is $168.

Certain faculty members, including former chancellor and provost Oswald Tippo, refused to apply to the waiver committee for C.O. status. Their names were sent last spring to UMass President David Knapp's office with the notation that the University could dismiss them from their jobs. The list contains eight names, but no action has been taken against them.

UMass faculty union president Jules Chametzky said last week that the fee in question is payment for services rendered.

The penalty for refusing payment of either the agency fee or the equivalent amount is possible termination, according to the MSP contract, which was ratified by 91 percent of the UMass faculty.

Agreement on the first faculty-administration contract came in December of 1978, after a long, protracted -- and often times bitter -- negotiation process.

The issue of union dues and agency fees played a part in that struggle. At various times, agitated members of the MSP briefly occupied the offices of then Chancellor Randolph W. Bromery, withheld grades from the administration for processing, and staged many campus demonstrations.

The administration, however, was accused of bargaining in bad faith, "stonewalling" the faculty and trying to create a "slush fund" as part of the the contract settlement.

Students also tried to have a voice in the contract, but their efforts proved relatively unsuccessful. They sought student input in faculty decisions.

Coming tomorrow

Beginning tomorrow the Collegian will publish a five-part series on the problem buildings at UMass. The series will include an in-depth look at the history of the UMass main library, a story on the UMass Building Authority in relation to the Campus Center Complex and excess funds the UMBA has that could be used for building repairs. Also included will be a profile on the Holyoke firm O'Connell Sons, which built most of the buildings at UMass from 1968 to 1973, and reports on the Bureau of Building Construction which oversees the library and the Ward Commission, a blue ribbon panel appointed by former Governor Michael Dukakis to investigate corruption in awarding state building contracts.

These stories have been compiled by a special team of Collegian reporters including Richard Nagle, Joseph Gannon, Gary Randall, Kelly Doolan and news editors Fran Basche and Robert Stein.

UMass buildings

What's going wrong

A FIVE PART SERIES

DIGEST

Archbishop Fulton J. Sheen, one of the American Roman Catholic Church's best-known figures through his television ministry, died Sunday night in New York City at the age of 84. Sheen is shown here in a 1979 photo.

N.Y. rail strike threatens crisis

NEW YORK(AP)— Hotels were booked solid yesterday and gasoline stations had their longest lines since the summer gas crunch as New York City girded for the first workday since the nation's largest commuter railway was struck.

Officials urged the 180,000 daily riders of the strikebound Long Island Rail Road not to drive into Manhattan, which has giant traffic jams even on normal days. Extra buses and subways were put into service. The railroad, which serves New York City's eastern suburbs on Long Island and is the largest of three commuter rail lines into the city with 500 miles of track, was struck just after midnight Saturday in a pay dispute.

Cambodia rejects U.S. aid

SINGAPORE (AP) — Two giant U.S. Air Force cargo planes ferrying UNICEF relief supplies for Cambodia have been diverted to Singapore because Cambodia refused them permission to land in Phnom Penh, a U.S. Embassy spokesman said yesterday.

The two C-5A Galaxy transports had flown from the United States and picked up cranes mounted on trucks in Tokyo before heading for Phnom Penh. One of them was diverted to Singapore Saturday and the other yesterday, the spokesman said.

There was no word on why they were refused permission to land in Cambodia.

Sadat-Begin summit delayed

JERUSALEM(AP)— Prime Minister Menachem Begin and Egyptian President Anwar Sadat will meet Jan. 7 in Aswan, Egypt, six days later than originally planned, it was announced yesterday.

The postponement of the three-day summit, which had been set to begin New Year's Day, was announced in a joint statement issued in Egypt and Israel.

A Foreign Ministry spokesman said the meeting, the ninth Sadat-Begin summit since Sadat's 1977 visit to Jerusalem, was delayed because of a lack of hotel accommodations in Aswan at New Year's.

Somoza regime faces public trial

MANAGUA, Nicaragua(AP)— Some 7,000 accused war criminals and collaborators of the Somoza regime face a lengthy series of public trials that could start this week, diplomatic sources here say.

The star defendant will be the ousted President Anastasio Somoza himself, though his trial on genocide charges will be conducted in absentia. He is living in exile in Paraguay.

Rebel Turks in Iran set back trial date for U.S. hostages

By MAUREEN JOHNSON
Associated Press

TEHRAN, Iran — Iran backed down yesterday from its threats to set a quick trial date for the American Embassy hostages — apparently preferring to leave the United States in suspense while Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini tries to clamp down on rebellious minorities threatening his power.

U.N. Secretary-General Kurt Waldheim, meanwhile, dispatched a special intermediary to Tehran to pursue U.N. efforts to resolve the crisis.

Iranian Foreign Minister Sadegh Ghotbzadeh, who Friday pledged to make a statement within 48 hours on a trial date for the 50 Americans held at the embassy, said yesterday, "At present we are not going to set any time limits on arriving at any new decisions about the hostages."

And in an interview with NBC-TV's "Meet the Press," he said it might take 10 days for him to establish an international panel that he said Saturday would be set up to help investigate the hostages.

Iran has threatened to try some of the hostages as spies unless the United States extradites the deposed shah, something the Carter administration refuses to do so.

The Iranian regime's domestic troubles deepened yesterday.

In rebellious Azerbaijan, Khomeini supporters in the provincial capital of Tabriz wrested the radio and television station from anti-Khomeini ethnic Turks who took it over last week. But later yesterday, tens of thousands of dissident Turks stormed the station, a bloody gun battle broke out, and the rebels regained control of it.

Hospital sources said six persons were wounded.

The Turkish-speaking minority, loyal to Iran's second-ranking ayatollah, Mohammed Kazem Shariat-Madari, had taken over the Tabriz governor's mansion, airport and radio-TV station to protest the new Islamic constitution that makes Khomeini supreme Iranian ruler for life and denies them the self-rule they were expecting.

Yesterday's fighting was the worst of the four-day uprising in Tabriz. Besides the radio station, the pro-Khomeini forces also retook, then lost control of the governor's mansion. By nightfall the ShariatMadari followers seemed to have the upper hand.

The Azerbaijani rebellion — and similar unrest in Iran's other ethnic-minority regions — is regarded by most observers as the strongest threat to Khomeini since he took power last February after the revolution that ousted Shah Mohammad Reza Pahlavi.

Khomeini, in a broadcast statement on the Turkish minority troubles, said, "These acts are committed by plotters who receive their orders from America and elsewhere."

It was the third straight day Khomeini had sought to focus national attention on the U.S. crisis while internal dissent blew up.

Rhodesia bombs bases in Zambia, Mozambique

By JOHN EDLIN
Associated Press

SALISBURY, Zimbabwe Rhodesia — Zimbabwe Rhodesian warplanes, striking as negotiators in the London wrangle over a cease-fire in the war here, pounded guerrilla staging areas in neighboring Zambia and Mozambique yesterday, the military command reported.

The jets bombed and strafed black nationalist guerrilla havens just across the Zambezi River border in Zambia at dawn, an initial communique said. A later statement said jets had attacked more guerrilla bases inside Zambia on a second raid and struck a guerrilla target inside Mozambique.

The Patriotic Front guerrilla alliance uses the neighboring black-ruled states as base areas in its 7-year-old war against the Salisbury government.

There was no immediate word from either Zambia or Mozambique on casualties in the raids.

The military command of the bi-racial Zimbabwe Rhodesian government gave few details, saying only that the attacked bases in Zambia housed "large numbers of terrorists" and that the target in Mozambique was "a major terrorist base."

It said all aircraft returned to base safely after the attacks. Unconfirmed reports said Zimbabwe Rhodesian ground troops also took part in the Mozambique raid.

Yesterday's air strikes were the sixth, seventh and eighth crossborder raids into Zambia and Mozambique since the London peace conference began 13 weeks ago.

The raids may cast another shadow over hopes for early conclusion of a Zimbabwe Rhodesian peace agreement.

John F. Kennedy Jr. signs autographs for young campaign workers in Biddeford, Maine this weekend, starting his first campaign swing on behalf of his uncle, Sen. Edward Kennedy. The late president's son and daughter Caroline, who campaigned this weekend in Vermont, both stayed away from political issues. (AP Laserphotos)

The Massachusetts Daily Collegian (USPS 333-220) is published daily Monday through Friday excluding January, June, July, and August, for $15 at 113 Campus Center, University of Massachusetts, Amherst, MA 01003. Second class postage paid at Amherst, Mass. Postmaster: Send address changes to Massachusetts Daily Collegian, 113 Campus Center, University of Massachusetts, Amherst, MA 01003.

Considering a Graduate Career ?
Come to Boston !

Boston University
Graduate School

The Graduate School of Arts and Sciences at Boston University offers a rich selection of advanced programs of study leading to the M.A. and Ph.D. degrees. Located in the Boston/Cambridge environment, Boston University offers its students a unique blend of scholarly, cultural and social opportunities.

Financial assistance includes teaching fellowships, graduate scholarships, graduate and research assistantships, and work-study awards.

For program information and application materials contact:
Admissions Coordinator
Graduate School (Arts and Sciences)
Boston University
705 Commonwealth Avenue
Boston, MA 02215

Boston University admits students regardless of their race, color, national origin, religion, sex, age, handicap, and veteran status to all of its programs and activities. A copy of the University's complete policy on discrimination is printed in the University catalogue and may be obtained from the Affirmative Action Officer, 19 Deerfield Street, Boston, MA 02215 (617-353-4478).

Degree Programs

Afro-American Studies
American and New England Studies
Anthropology
Archaeological Studies
Art History
Astronomy
Biochemistry
Biology
Chemistry
Classical Studies
Creative Writing
Economics
English
Geography
Geology
History
Interdisciplinary Studies
Language Behavior
Mathematics
Medical Sciences
(Anatomy, Biochemistry, Microbiology, Pathology, Pharmacology, Physiology)
Modern Languages (French, Spanish)
Music
Philosophy
Physics
Political Science
Preservation Studies
Psychology
Sociology
Theological & Religious Studies

Arts

Bachelor of Fine Arts candidates Steve Lafler (left) and Bill Riley will be presenting an exhibition of their work this week at the Student Union Gallery. The showing will open tonight at 8 and the public is invited. (Staff photo by Wayne Rosenberg)

Crackdown:

Vendor kicked out of Campus Center for rule violations

By ELIZABETH McGOWEN
Collegian Staff

December 14 will be the last day UMass student Jason Cooper will be selling his "Zoo Mass" tee-shirts this semester on the Campus Center concourse because of his violation of the Board of Governor's Vendor Table Space Policy.

Curtiss Wohlers, the board's Operations Chairman, said that three weeks ago Cooper, in sharing table space and the $5 daily fee with another vendor, violated the policy established by the board. The policy states that each vendor is assigned one table and is responsible for paying a full fee. Dave O'Malley, Communications Chairperson of the Board, said the vendors are given the "privilege" of selling their handcrafted goods on the concourse. "It is not a right," he said.

Harris said he reached his decision Thursday, after consulting the Ombudsman's Office, the Campus Center staff, and a special ad-hoc committee formed by Art Warren, Director of Auxiliary Services. The committee included five randomly selected members, most recommended by Dean of Students William Field. The two staff members, two undergraduates, and one graduate student discussed Cooper's case for three hours on the Friday prior to the decision and made a recommendation to Harris.

Harris proceeded to suspend Cooper's vendor privileges for thirty-five days, five this semester and 30 next semester.

Cooper said he thought the Board was looking for a way to get him out of the Campus Center because of mounting tension between them. He said he did not feel he was violating any policy and that the decision by Harris was "inappropriate." The tee shirt sales are a major source of his income, he said, especially during the Christmas season, and help pay his semester bill. When asked if he would take the case to court instead of settling with Harris' decision, he replied, "I know I could win, but I don't have the money to take such a case to court."

Exiled women's group charts progress

By DEBBIE WALLACE
Collegian Staff

At an Amherst fundraiser Friday night which honored Kitty Dukakis, Western Massachusetts women met to discuss legislation being developed by the Women's Commission in Exile.

The commission was formed after Governor Edward King fired his 40-member Commission on the Status of Women last April, after their report criticized his welfare budget and supported state-funded abortions for the poor.

Continuing their efforts Saturday, the commission held a conference at Springfield Technical Community College, entitled, "Economic Survival — Women In the Connecticut Valley."

Dukakis, a member of the Massachusetts

TURN TO PAGE 4

How did Seta Rampersad die?

A year later — questions remain unanswered

Editor's Note: The following is the first installment of a five-part series examining the death of Seta T. Rampersad, a 20-year-old UMass student whose death last year spurred community concern when an inquest concluded no criminal negligence was involved.

This series was complied by Betty Ciolek, Lee Goodwin, Darlene Lorkiewick, Serena Richard and Robert E. Stein.

Seta Rampersad- Case 1:

Her parents are still angry, her friends are still confused, and more than one year after the death of UMass student Seta T. Rampersad, how she died remains an unanswered question.

It has been more than one year since an inquest into Rampersad's death concluded no criminal negligence was involved. Yet women's groups and members of the campus Third World Community have maintained efforts to reopen the case.

The Trinidad native, a 20-year-old continuing-education student at the University was found dead on Sept. 13, 1978. Police termed the death of the 4'8", 86 lb. woman "suspicious."

Following the inquest, Sonny Rampersad said of his daughter's case, "If it was a white girl there would be more concern and because it is a black girl there is no further concern."

Concern of a different kind is being voiced by Robert Czelusiak is suing the Greenfield Recorder for printing a letter sent by the UMass Third World Women's Task Force to Hampshire County Attorney Thomas Simons. The letter named Czelusiak and several other persons as having attended a party with Rampersad prior to her death.

The task force and an offshoot of that group, the Amherst-based Committee Against Repression, are working on behalf of Rampersad to retain a lawyer from the National Association Of Black Lawyers to file a civil suit re-opening the case said Sumam Bohm, a task force member.

The task force charged the investigation was incomplete and said, "The most damaging evidence against the closing of the Rampersad case is the number of inconsistencies in the testimony of the three primary witnesses."

Witnesses to the case were Carol Newton, Brian Pitzer and Demetrious E. Konstanlopulos. All said they were with Rampersad in the Motel 6 hotel room where she died. In testimony, the three said they did not call for medical assistance during the 12 hours Rampersad was sick.State Police Lt. George Powers reportedly headed the investigation, but was never called to testify.

When asked about Rampersad's death recently, he shifted in his chair, bit down on his cigar and said, "Even though the circumstances are unusual, no cause of death was shown. Sometimes people just die, you know?"

On the night before Rampersad died, Sept. 12, she accepted a ride from Konstanlopulos after finishing her waitressing job at the Captain's Table at 1 a.m. He had twice given her a ride to her Echo Hill apartment in Amherst in the two or three months since he had met her. He still did not know her last name, according to his testimony.

Pitzer and Newton, acquaintances who had not formerly dated, met Rampersad for the first time the night of Sept. 12. After 1 a.m., the two couples drove to the Castaway Lounge in Whately, which was owned by Konstanlopulos, also known as Jimmy the Greek and Jim Costos. Pitzer and Konstanlopulos had had no contact in the year

TURN TO PAGE 4

SNOW TIRES SAVE ½
Firestone Retreads have the same width, depth, design and rubber as new tires —only at ½ the cost.
FREE replacement if they EVER fail for ANY reason.
Regular $15.00 up
Radials $19.50 up
exchange plus tax
LEON'S TIRES
291 FEDERAL STREET
(next to McDonald's)
GREENFIELD, 773-8315

IMPORTS LTD.
Specilaizing in Foreign Car Repairs
working also with exotics
251 Russell St.
Rte. 9
Hadley, MA
584-6927

★ Women

CONT. FROM PAGE 3

Fine Arts Council and a supporter of the commission, said, "Despite concerted effort across the board to hire minorities and women during the past ten years, women have not gotten as far as people would like to think." Dukakis brought attention to the small ratio of women professors. At UMass, women professors comprise about 15 percent of the faculty; the percentage at most colleges.

Margaret Merry, former Chairwoman of the Governor's Commission on the Status of Women and current Chairwoman of the Women's Commission in Exile, said there were "four areas of disagreement between the commission and Governor King." The commission had identified the importance of funding for families with dependent children, the need for programs for displaced homemakers, child welfare legislation, and medicaid funding for abortion, clearly opposed by King since his election campaign.

Merry said under previous governors, welfare recipients were given a six percent inflation increase, which King's budget has ignored.

The commission suggested to King an escalating fee scale for child day care, another point of disagreement. Merry said day care would help those women who want to get off welfare, and not just those who can already afford child day care. "You should be able to put your children in day care even if you can't afford it."

After the commission was fired, unsolicited contributions from friends of the commission filtered in almost immediately, enabling them to work out of an office in Quincy. "We continue to work on issues like we had done before," Merry said. And while the new commission does not have legislative power, Merry said, "We have very close ties with the women's caucus in the legislature," a committee nearly all women representatives and senators join.

Now working out of a Boston office with a part-time director, the 30-member commission is focusing on economic issues as they affect women in the present state of inflation, recession and unemployment.

"We are keeping a close watch on affirmative action in the state; and will focus on issues which have a direct economic impact on women," Merry said.

The conference discussion groups centered around issues of job creation and re-entry, organizing in the workplace, money and law. Participating speakers represented UMass Everywoman's Center, 12 to 1 clerical workers from UMass, Boston Safe Deposit and Trust, the Sprinfield Chapter of the National Organization of Women, and the Mass. Women's Political Caucus.

★ Rampersad

CONT. FROM PAGE 3

preceding that evening, according to the inquest testimony.

After several drinks at the Castaway Lounge, they "left and went to have a party at Motel 6 in South Deerfield," according to inquest testimony. They arrived at the motel around 2:30 a.m.

According to the inquest testimony, there was alcohol, marijuana, and cocaine in the room that night. It is unknown whether all four ingested the drugs. Later in the evening, both couples went to bed, testimony said.

During the night Rampersad had three or four "attacks" which, according to testimony, resembled epileptic seizures. Her father and medical records state she had no history of epileptic seizures.

"As far as we know she was healthy," Rampersad's mother said.

Individual testimonies differed on the order and occurance of the events that followed.

Bernard Whalen Jr. Assistant District Attorney said last week, "If you sat through any Hampshire County criminal trial you would be surprised at the conflict in testimony. People have different perceptions and memories. If two people get on the stand and give the same times and the same story, then I worry."

Tomorrow the Collegian will present some of the inconsistencies in the inquest testimony found by groups seeking to reopen the case.

SPC PRODUCTIONS and the Blue Wall present

James Montgomery

with Trapper

Friday, December 14
Blue Wall - 9:30 p.m.
$3 in advance at TIX
$4 at the door

Five College students welcome
Non-students must be 18 yrs.

...a new life style

Personal Growth...Professional Development

AN AIR FORCE PHYSICIAN....
thru medical scholarships

All tuition and fees plus $400 per month through our Health Professions Scholarship Program.

AN AIR FORCE NURSE....
.....We offer more

An Internship Program to provide excellent transition from beginning practitioner to fully qualified professional nurse.

AN AIR FORCE OFFICER....
The junior executive

Immediate management responsibilities in over 50 career fields, including Science & Engineering.

Advanced education and training throughout your career.

Call (203) 432-2384
or write to:
3516th OFFICER RECRUITMENT DIRECTOR
122 WEST MAIN ST. MILFORD, CT 06460

NAME
ADDRESS
CITY
STATE ZIP
PHONE
THE BEST TIME TO CALL ME IS
PHYSICIAN NURSING OFFICER

AIR FORCE
A great way of life.

Paid Positions Available

The Collegian has openings for the following positions for Spring semester:

* assistant managing editors
* copy editors
* lay-out technicians
see Julie Eagle

* editorial assistant
see Rob Burbank

*assistant news editors
see Jack Gallagher

Apply by December 14
Room 113 Campus Center
or call 545-3500

The Collegian is an equal opportunity employer

WISH SOMEONE A HAPPY HOLIDAY!
If there's someone on your list
that's a little special,
here's your chance to let them know it!

The COLLEGIAN will publish Holiday Messages in our December 14th issue.

Your message of 20 words or less will be printed in the COLLEGIAN for $1.00 if it is handwritten $.75 if it is typed.

Stop by the COLLEGIAN office now thru December 12

12½% of proceeds will be donated to the American Friends Committee for aid to Cambodian refugees.

STOCK UP NOW & AVOID THE RUSH

SPECIALS EFFECTIVE: MON.-SAT. DEC. 10-15

ARMOUR ★ 5 STAR VERIBEST PORK
BLADELESS EXTRA LEAN

PORK SALE

RIB HALF ROAST LB $1.09
LOIN HALF ROAST LB $1.29
CENTER CUT CHOPS LB $1.49

FULLY COOKED JANEKS POLISH KIELBASA LB $1.89
ARMOUR STAR BACON LB $1.33
U.S.D.A. CHOICE BEEF ROUND TIP STEAK LB $2.39
U.S.D.A. CHOICE BEEF ROUND CUBE STEAK LB $2.29
LEAN GROUND BEEF 5 LB PKG $8.25 LB $1.69

WITH COUPON & $7.50 PURCHASE OR MORE EXCLUDING CIGARETTES LU-92
SOFTWEVE BATHROOM TISSUE 2 ROLL PKG FREE
VALID THRU DEC 15 LIMIT ONE PER FAMILY Louis FINE FOODS

WITH COUPON & $7.50 PURCHASE OR MORE EXCLUDING CIGARETTES LU-93
BATH SIZE 5 OZ BAR DIAL SOAP 5¢ OFF LABEL 29¢
VALID THRU DEC 15 LIMIT ONE PER FAMLIY Louis FINE FOODS

WITH COUPON & $7.50 PURCHASE OR MORE EXCLUDING CIGARETTES LU-94
10¢ OFF LABEL LIQUID WISK DETERGENT 32 OZ 99¢
VALID THRU DEC 15 LIMIT ONE PER FAMILY Louis FINE FOODS

WITH COUPON & $7.50 PURCHASE OR MORE EXCLUDING CIGARETTES LU-95
DAIRY BUTTERMILK OR COUNTRY STYLE PILLSBURY BISQUITS 8 OZ FREE
VALID THRU DEC 15 LIMIT ONE PER FAMILY Louis FINE FOODS

WITH COUPON & $7.50 PURCHASE OR MORE EXCLUDING CIGARETTES LU-96
ROYAL GELATIN DESSERT 3 OZ FREE
VALID THRU DEC 15 LIMIT ONE PER FAMILY Louis FINE FOODS

REGULAR OR DIET PEPSI-COLA 32 OZ BTL 39¢
PENN DUTCH 16 OZ FINE•MEDIUM•WIDE NOODLES 69¢

ALL PURPOSE GOLD MEDAL FLOUR 5 LB BAG 79¢
WISHBONE 16 OZ BTL ITALIAN DRESSING 89¢

Crown Point by ANCHOR HOCKING
This Week's Special 39¢ Iced Tea
SPECIAL SAVINGS EACH WEEK ON FEATURED ITEMS

$4 VALUABLE COUPON WORTH $4.00 $4
TOWARD THE PURCHASE OF THIS WEEK'S FEATURED ITEM
SET OF 4 SOUP DISHES
Our Reg. Discount Price $17.99
Coupon Savings 4.00
Your Price (with coupon) $13.99
In the pattern of your choice
COUPON GOOD THRU
DEC 15, 1979
ALSO AVAILABLE IN FOUR (4) SERVING PATTERN
$4 $4

EXTRA ABSORBANT DISPOSABLE PAMPERS DIAPERS 60 CT $6.99

SUNLIGHT SUNFLOWER OIL 32 OZ $1.59

Louis FINE FOODS
N. PLEASANT ST., AMHERST, MASS

Old fashioned arm wrasslin'

Dan Mason, left, two-time World Super Heavyweight Arm Wrestling Champion, takes an easy win during yesterday's arm wrestling tournament in the Student Union Ballroom. At right, Mike Mason and Nick Fontaine struggle it out. The tournament was co-sponsored by Budweiser and the UMass Interfraternity Council. (Staff photos by Howard Labitt)

J. AUSTIN
JEWELER

christmas
&
chanukah gifts that last
a lifetime

open evenings
til
dec. 24th

31 So. Pleasant St.
Amherst
253-3986

Christmas Store Hours: Hampshire Mall(Hadley), Holyoke Mall (Ingleside) Mon.-Sat. 10 A.M.-10 P.M. All Stores Open Sundays 12-5 P.M.

'360 Degrees' cooks up Black Classical banquet

By BILL SUNDSTROM
Collegian Staff

Review

The beauty of a group like "The 360 Degrees Music Experience" is its ability to create sound that hovers at the brink of total chaos without ever plunging into the depths of mere noise.

The group of talented musicians, which performed in the Student Union Ballroom Friday night, served up a varied banquet of modern Black Classical sounds, but most of the time they played at a bristling energy level. The resulting tension left the audience gaping as seven powerful instrumentalists improvised in a simultaneous frenzy of sound.

Most of the members of 360 Degrees are or were familiar side-musicians for such giants of modern jazz as Archie Shepp and Charles Mingus. Brought together about ten years ago, they have been playing on their own and with featured big names. Most of these musicians, however, are quite good enough to make their own names.

The concert opened with drummer and co-leader Beaver Harris' gripping piece "Nigrocaucamongus." The only musicians on stage were bassist Cameron Brown and steel drummer Francis Haynes, playing a mesmerizing duet with the eery overtones only a steel drum can produce.

Haynes' work on that traditional Caribbean instrument was one of the surprises of the evening. Earlier in the day Harris related the story of how the group obtained Haynes in New York City: "I found him in front of Macy's; people would walk by and throw money in his hat," Harris said.

The remainder of the group came on individually; Harris using mallets to create a whirring, muffled sound on his drum set; tenor saxophonist Ricky Ford with one of several furious high-energy solos; multi-instrumentalist Ken McIntyre on oboe; baritone player Hamiet Bluiett; and pianist and co-leader Don Pullen. Pullen and Haynes subsequently played a long and delightful duet of rippling sheets of sound.

The band grooved right into "Well-kept Secret," a faster number with no noticeable time signature--just the pulsing beat of Harris' drum. The piece included a fiery duet of improvisation between Bluiett and Ford, each attempting to out-screech the other.

Next came a rather lack-luster Pullen solo performance of Mingus' "Duke Ellington's Sound of Love," a beautiful piece that Pullen has performed much better in the past.

A brief intermission was followed by an up-tempo composition that featured a collective improvisation by Ford, Bluiett and McIntyre, who played alto. With all three going at it, the group became a growling animal, until the number drew to a sudden halt.

Bluiett's "Full, Deep and Mellow" came

TURN TO PAGE 12

The Hair Shack & Ye Curling Iron present a
Hair Cutting Event
to benefit Muscular Dystrophy

Wed. December 12 10 a.m. to 4 p.m.
Southwest Hampden Dining Commons

Come with pre-washed hair—have it wet, cut, styled and blown dry all for a $7.00 donation!
No appointment necessary.
Sponsored by Alpha Chi Omega

FOR LOVERS
THE MOST INTIMATE BOOK OF POEMS EVER WRITTEN FOR LOVERS AND DREAMERS AND THOSE ALONE. IT'S AN IDEAL GIFT FOR YOURSELF AND THE ONE YOU LOVE; THEY WILL REMEMBER YOU ALWAYS. IN BLACK AND WHITE FOR THE TOUCH OF ELEGANCE.
For Your Copy:
Send $10.00
& Tax
VAN STEAD
303 FIFTH AVE.,
NEW YORK 10016

Ask anybody who has seen it
THE COMEDY REVUE
NOW YOU SEE IT,
WISH YOU'D SEEN IT
LAST SEMESTER
Bowker Aud. 8 P.M. $1.50
Tuesday, Dec. 11 and Wed., Dec. 12
Tickets at door and 9-4 today at Bowker

Christmas Store Hours: Hampshire Mall(Hadley), Holyoke Mall (Ingleside) Mon.-Sat. 10 A.M.-10 P.M. All Stores Open Sundays 12-5 P.M.

Editorial/Opinion

Letters

IRAN...

Column bombs

To the Editor

I was confused, shocked and appalled by my reading of the Editorial/Opinion by Bill Hallisey entitled Hate? in the Collegian of December 6. Throughout my reading of the article I was constantly asking myself, "Is he serious?"

I encouraged several other students to read the article and they couldn't tell if the author was trying to be sarcastic or not. If he was, he did a poor job of demonstrating that fact! If not -- look out world! If we did bomb Iran, how long do you think it would take for the Soviet Union to get involved? This action could only lead to WW III!! For this reason I say that it is true that "a strategically placed neutron bomb could kill just as many Iranians without threatening the lives of any U.S. military personnel." But only temporarily!

This brings to mind a letter in the Collegian of November 30 entitled, "Human life at stake: 'Send shah back'," by Steven M. Hamm. That person wanted another near-sighted action to be taken like Bill Hallisey. If the shah was indeed sent back we would begin to lose face and as Bill Hallisey said, "Once other anti-American countries see how easy it is to get away with terrorism they'll be tempted to try it themselves." Now here is another person that sees little further than his own nose!

It scares me to think that these writers will soon possibly be the leaders of tomorrow. They sound almost like the Hitler regime reborn! When considering such global influencing matters as this, much more has to be considered than just the effect on a country as Iran.

Gary R. Zahorsky

Closer look at US

To the Editor:

This country that we live in survives and develops through taking the life force from that which surrounds it. Our homeland has infected and abused the world in ways unseen to our eyes. What we have given out, however, is now coming back to us.

Within America, such trends in the system are disguised in uniforms of liberty and equality of opportunity and are often justified by a notion that the "best" must necessarily be the most powerful. Such outfits which hide the true nature of our system are themselves supplied through the exploitation of Third World nations. American racism is a tool by which we are able to continue this exploitation.

The American Dream of affluence and riches cannot be attained by all individuals. Yet the survival of the American way is dependent upon this dream... history has taught us this much. As soon as people come to believe that ours is a society in which the wealth of a few requires that the majority of the population be kept in poverty, the foundations of the system are called into question. Who will choose to work in a job they don't enjoy only to enhance the riches of someone else who is already better off? The American system, which desire both wealth and stability, has found a temporary solution to this problem through extending itself into the Third World. Here exploitation is justified by racism and is hidden from sight. Here America uses more violent means in forcing people to yield nourishment to a fat yet always hungry system, while it causes them to starve in the process. America does not wait for the consent of Third World people before it enters into their lives and incorporates them into its movements. It knows that such consent would never be granted.

The international crisis which we are now facing is said to have its roots in the puzzling hostility which the people of Libya, Iran, Pakistan and other Third World countries hold for the American system. Our media presents us with photographs of violent mobs with angry faces and caption them with phrases such as: "America under Attack." However, little attention is being given to the deeper roots of this critical situation.

It is true that we are encountering a serious crisis. It is a crisis caused by those Americans whose voracious appetite for riches and power causes them to be unwilling to recognize and respect true human needs.

Nora Chorover

Hallisey responds

To the Editor

In response to Tom O'Connor's response to my Dec. 6 column:

Mr. O'Connor, I'm pleased with your keen insight into the insane nature of the Iranian dilemna, and particularly into the insanity of my modest proposal. But who is more blind, the person who can see only through the polished lenses of straight forwardness, or the person who sees clearly through the speckled lenses of sarcasm?

Bill Hallisey
Amherst, MA

Toys for Tots

Objectionable 'toon

To the Editor:

It is not a nice thing to do publicly, but Mike Galper's boldly ingenious portrayal of the topics of unwanted pregnancy and abortion merits criticism.

Mike, since the offensiveness of the comic strip results inadvertantly, as its humor emerges desperately, there is a reason to suspect that you have good intentions. And I agree with your reasoning that there are subjects, like pregnancy, in need of greater exposure and that the particular characteristics of the comic strip medium might be appropriate.

But it remains your responsibility, as a writer and a cartoonist, to recognize the limitations of your medium and concede the difficulty of presenting humorously topics of what can be devastating events in the lives of others.

Eric H. Janszen

P.S. Also, since it is unlikely that pregnancy is in your experience, perhaps you should leave the explanation of its subtler aspects to those with a greater likelihood of personal knowledge.

Exchange hostages...

To the Editor:

The article of Dec. 3 on exchanging persons between nations by H.A.J. Ibn Saud contains a number of inaccuracies and half-truths. I cannot comment on them all. However, before we return to the mood of the crusades we ought to recognize that there have been occasions when seizures of foreigners have resulted in the return of persons seized without any exchange being involved. For example, when the arrest of Professor Barghoorn by the Soviets led to a protest by President Kennedy the USSR immediately returned him. (And Barghoorn was charged with being a spy.)

Introducing exchanges of hostages as a regular procedure is only going to lead to a world worse than the one we live in now. Let us leave medievalism behind.

Karl Ryavac
Professor of Political Science

Library question

To the Editor

The Campus Wide Team of SCERA has been monitoring the situation of the Library since its closing in September.

We would like to take this opportunity to ask the Administration to publically answer a question concerning the present situation of the Library. Prior to the Library's closing in September the legal occupancy limit was 4,240. Richard Talbot, Director of the Library doubts if more than 2,500 persons have ever been in the building at once.

On Oct. 2, 1979 state Building Inspector Dominic J. DiBarco issued a certificate of inspection allowing a total occupancy limit of 3,130 persons. Please, tell us why two months later the Library Tower remains closed or should we say 'open on a limited basis' to only 500 students?

It seems to us that 'we' could do better?

We feel that the implications of this information warrant an answer to the entire University community.

Campus Wide Team -- SCERA
Joe Cohen
Al Wallace
Suzanne Gardinier
Chip Nealy
Larry Kocut
Lauren Lee

Letters Policy

Due to space limitations, letters to the editor should be written as brief as is humanly possible. They should be TYPED at 67 characters across and triple spaced.

Fiscal restraint: Crabs and lobsters

Dear Gov. King:

In response to your letter to Collegian Managing Editor, Christopher H. Schmitt, entitled "King to UMass, Money's Tight," printed in the November 26 edition of the Collegian, I would like to cite an inconsistency in its content.

You stated in your second paragraph, that higher education must adjust to a period of fiscal restraint like the other sectors of the economy. Surely one sector that has certainly not adhered to this policy is the expense account of your own administration and the spending policies of yourself.

May I at this time inform the uninformed thatGov. King is currently under investigation by a Senate Committee for misappropriation of funds. The figures are as follows: Since July 1 $117,676 of a $200,000 expense account is gone, giving a balance of $85,000 for the remaining fiscal year. Another account for extraordinary expenses of $80,000 has been virtually exhausted leaving a balance of little over $1,000. If one were to delve into these accounts and itemize each allocation, one would find such extravagances as 35 lobster and crab dinners totaling $4,525, or ten baseball bats totaling $240. One need only to recall the Massport scandals to be assured that such extravagance and the investigations and allegations that follow have been part of Gov. King's career for some time now.

Gov. King, I suggest to get the respect the Governorship deserves, and to command the respect of this university and the Commonwealth in general, than perhaps it would be advisable to cut such extravagance out of your lifestyle, then perhaps then we will accept your higher education cutbacks as being necessary and legitimate.

You have not been to the University of Massachusetts during your term as Governor, and therefore you are only familiar with our problems indirectly. Perhaps you would be advised to direct your need to cut back and restrain, to areas you are more familiar with, such as lobster and crabs to go. "Do as I say, not as I do" policies are not looked upon with favor here.

Charles F. Field
Cliffside Apartments

Flies have rights

To the Editor:

In regard to those disgruntled students who wrote in complaining of an alleged fly found in their orange juice (12/5, Collegian*) and subsequently demanded to know how Food Services has the balls to raise fees, I would like to ask them one thing. Where do you think the fly came from?*

Flies don't grow on trees you know!

Rather they thrive on shit, which brings us to your point. But granted, the D.C. does produce a large quantity of this (shit) you still deny the fly's right to exist and die where it may.

Aduk E. Bean
UMass Experimental Farm

Everywoman's Center:

To the Editor:

In light of the ongoing verbal, physical, and sexual assault of women on this campus, we feel compelled to write this letter. The end of the semester brings with it exam tensions and the usual end-of-semester and holiday celebrations. The increased alcohol and drug consumption during these times is often accompanied by an increase in violence and especially violence to women.

We would like to remind women, in the advent of an assault, of the following recourses:

1. Counseling and support services at Everywoman's Center. Everywoman's Center has Counselor-Advocates available on a 24-hour basis to provide personal support and legal and medical advocacy to victims of sexual assault and other violence. To contact a Counselor-Advocate, call 545-0800 (Everywoman's Center) between the hours of 9 a.m. and 7 p.m. Monday through Friday, or 549-2671 (Univ. Health Services) at all other times.

2. Medical treatment at Univ. Health Services. We encourage those who have been assaulted to go to Health Services for a medical examination. Medical records and treatment are held in the strictest confidence. Their number is 549-2671.

3. Anonymous reporting to Public Safety. It is possible to file an anonymous description of the attack and assailant without prosecuting the case. This information can inform Public Safety as to the dimension of the problem and aid in apprehension, as in the case of multiple offenses by the same person. To arrange for this, call Public Safety at 545-2677.

4. Filing a formal complaint. Reporting and prosecuting rapists and harassers prevents them from repeated attacks. You can talk to Public Safety about your assault and the possibility of pressing charges without any obligation to do so. To do this, call K-COPS.

We are a group working on preventive education around issues of violence and women in the community and offer this letter in hope that victims of violence will receive the support that they need.

The Educator-Advocates Against Violence Against Women
Everywoman's Center

On Trustees & Young

To: Mr. George Beatty
Vice Chanc. for Administration and Finance
University of Massachusetts
Amherst, Massachusetts

Dear Mr. Beatty

It is my request that you refer the enclosed letter to the University of Massachusetts Board of Trustees for the Dec. 5 vote on the issue of the nomination of Andrew Young as a recipient of a University of Massachusetts honorary degree. It is regretful that I was unable to reach you by phone before today's outgoing mail. I sincerely hope that you are able to honor my request. It seemed that you were the most logical point-of-contact person with whom I should communicate.

I am a teacher-educator with an orientation toward a postive citizenship attitude at all levels...local, state, national, and international. As a world citizen, if this nomination of Andrew Young as a recipient of a UMass honorary degree were to be achieved, I would be ashamed to try to explain this action to my friends from foreign countries, as well to myself and my American friends. Particularly, foreign citizens closely watch over American policies and decisions, and it is my hope that the Board of Trustees will view this issue from the view of its impact upon citizens at all levels.

Sincerely,
Jean Hazelton Crocker
Class of 52

Kennedy worker upset

Michael Tufariello

To all Kennedy campaign members: As of Sun. Dec. 2 I have quit, in protest, my position as head of campus communications and tables. Protest not against the workers but against the hierarchy, of which I was a member. Soon you'll be receiving a newsletter listing all the officers elected by default in my opinion, during the draft Kennedy period. Default, in the sense that 25 people at the meeting only 15 were eligible to be elected according to RSO rules.

I was not eligible as I am a graduate student. Thus the nominations and elections were based on friendship and unknown characteristics. Note that the group still does not have an RSO constitution existing only by the "grace of the SGA President." Of the five officers picked only two are still active, the president and the treasurer. Protesting the lack of communication between officers and non-officers and 50 percent drop in membership I took on the job of communications head and new member recruitment. Through the hard work of myself, coworker and a few dedicated people the group grew to 600 strong. This strength came from the increasing number of hard workers, not from the help of any elected officers of which none were willing to spend even one hour behind the tables when the group was so small that workers had to spend up to eight hours recruiting new members. For some reason the President wouldn't even bother to reserve tables for the future thus no tables for the last month.

To the original workers and past help ask yourselves these questions: Did you have a voice in the picking of officers? Did you ever work with any officers at the tables when membership was so small we worked double and triple shifts? Did you ever receive information on future activities from these officers? Or have you ever received any contact from the officers? To the 600 strong: Do you now notice the officers and Johnny-come-lateties who refused to help when we were small in number are now riding the wave of your work right into Boston headquarters? I do!

It was suggested to me that this is what politics are all about, and as a political science major I can agree that's what it was in the past. But I thought we backed Kennedy to change the ways of the past.

Are we working for a new president or are you working for the so-called officers of the Kennedy organization? I'm working for Ted thus I can no longer condone the motives of the officer and choose to resign my office in protest.

Think, who benefits from your work?

Michael Tufariello is a Collegian guest columnist

DVP becoming fossilized

by Jim Moran

It is a shameful condition that we are in when our University is shut off from the rest of the world on account of fiscal constraints. It is sadder yet when those in a position to change that condition opt not to for sake of political beliefs.

The Distinguished Vistitors Program (DVP) of UMass, since its inception in 1959, has been committed to presenting forums for diverse thought, education and entertainment. Now, due to an economy of limited expenditures and inflationary costs, the program is in danger of at least providing far less than its past offerings, if not total elimination.

In the past, the DVP has presented such personalities as Jack Anderson, Art Buchwald, Hubert Humphrey, Margaret Mead and Carl Yastremski, among others. It has sponsored debates. It has stimulated discussion. Never has the program shown more value as when it becomes the focal point of controversy surrounding the issue of freedom of expression. UMass students can look to past forums, as the ones involving speakers such as Daniel Ellsberg, the Students for a Democratic Society, and more recently, the program featuring Jane Fonda and Tom Hayden, for examples of free-speech significance.

The DVP receives an annual budget of $26,000. Out of that allocation, nearly $10,000 goes to Martin Luther King and Women's Weeks. This leaves only $16,000 for the remainder of the year's costs. While this figure sounds impressive, the picture becomes bleak when one looks at actual expenditures. One thousand and two hundred dollars a year goes to advertising, $500 for food for guest speakers, $600 necessary for telephone calls to arrange programs, $100 for supplies and an additional $600 for printing. This adds up to a depletion of approximately $3,000 from the remaining balance, which leaves $13,000 a year for program costs. The average cost of a DVP presentation is now $2,000-3,000.

While honorariums vary from speaker to speaker, the best speakers require the most money, excluding benefit appearances. The Jane Fonda-Tom Hayden appearances cost $6,300, of which $4,500 went to the lecturers, $350 for sound and lighting, $1,000 for security, $300 for custodial work, $300 for advertising, $50 for tickets and $100 for miscellaneous. The actual net savings was $4,000 because the Student Senate allowed a $1 admission fee to be charged to students.

This semester, such financially demanding speakers as Barbara Walters, Moyshe Dayan, Jerry Rubin and Norman Mailer were turned down because of the lack of funds. Next semester, plans are underway to invite such prominent persons as Bill Lee, Edward Kennedy and Andrew Young. But if the program is forced to rely upon the monies provided for in its current Senate bylaws, it is probable that these speakers will also be turned down.

There is a remedy, however. The Student Senate could vote to allow the DVP to charge appropriate admission fees to events requiring excessive expenditures. This is done by amending the existing section of the DVP's bylaws governing finances. Such a proposal is coming before the Student Senate at this week's Wednesday night meeting. It would be helpful if all those students who support the continuance of a diverse and informative visiting lecturer's program to contact their respective Student Senators to urge approval of the amendment.

If the Senate refuses the amendment and the Distinguished Visitor's Program continues on its current path, then soon an amendment will be offerred to its bylaws changing this organization's name to the Extinguished Visitors Program -- appropriate for a group that must "put out" all its opportunities.

Jim Moran is a Collegian columnist

MSP, Trustees agreement

OPEN LETTER TO THE STUDENTS OF THE UNIVERSITY:

The Agreement between the Massachusetts Society of Professors/Faculty Staff Union and the University of Massachusetts Board of Trustees contains the following provision:

Those bargaining unit members who, because of bona fide religious convictions or bona fide moral and conscientious objections, choose not to become members of the Union or pay a service fee in lieu thereof, must submit a dollar amount equivilent to the service fee to a campus student scholarship trust fund. Awards from said fund shall be made in accordance with student financial aid guidelines and shall be based on the recommendations of a committee composed of one student, one administrator and one unit member to be appointed by their respective constituencies.

To qualify for a waiver of the service fee, a unit member shall make application to the Union and the Union shall render a decision on the unit member's request for said waiver.

The members of the contractually-amended committee are:
Paul Mankin, MSP
Gerald Scanlon, Financial Aid Office
David Aron, Student Government Assoc.

The Committee agreed on the following criteria for distribution of the Scholarship Fund:

All awards shall be made by the Financial Aid Office on the basis of computed financial need determined in accordance with the standard procedures and policies of the Financial Aid Office with the added provisions that:
1) the amount of the fund available for any academic year shall be allocated in the proportion of 2/3 undergradutes and 1/3 to graduate students;
2) eligible recipients shall: a- be full time students enrolled in a degree program; and b-have attained a cumulative average of 3.0 or equivilent;
3) all awards shall be in the amount of $300 per academic year.

Monies collected for fiscal year 1978-79 totalled $4,546.26, including $80.26 in interest. These monies are incorporated in the General Fund File and need not be applied for specifically.

MSP is pleased that the faculty and librarians of the University supported the Union in its conclusion of this provision in the Agreement. In addition, we appreciate the conscientious payment of monies to the Scholarship Fund by most of the faculty and librarians granted Waiver status. MSP hopes to maintain this provision in the contract, but it can do so only with the full cooperation of those granted the Waiver Status.

Jules Chametzky
President, MSP

BOARD OF DIRECTORS
CAROL ROSENBERG, Editor-in-Chief; CHRISTOPHER H. SCHMITT, Managing Editor; LAURA P. BASSETT, Business Manager; FRAN T. BASCHE, News Editor; STEPHEN B. KLEIN, Executive Editor; LISA M.CAPONE, Women's Editor; MARCIA HOSPEDALES, Black Affairs Editor; AMIRA I. RAHMAN, Photo Editor; DEBRA ROTH, Arts Editor; MARK A. MARCHAND and STEVEN S. ZACK, Sports Editor, MARY B. KINNEAVY, Graphics Manager.

ASSOCIATE EDITORS
Julie Eagle, Pamela Lindmark, Carolyn Mooney, Beth Segers, Gayle Young, Associate Managing Editors; Sean Harvey, Robert E. Stein, Associate News Editors; Jack Gallagher, Associate Executive Editor; Debbie Wallace, Associate Women's Editor; Karen Thomas, Associate Black Affairs Editor; Paul Price, Associate Photo Editor; Ken Sands, Associate Magazine/Fine Arts Editor; Linda Reyer, Associate Sports Editor; Suzette Courtmanche, Associate Graphics Manager.

BUSINESS DEPARTMENT
Ken GrandPre, Advertising Manager; Joan Daly, Frederic Keillor, Assistant Advertising Managers; Dan Peterson, Circulation Manager; Howard Bass, Finance Manager.

The Collegian is the student newspaper of the University of Massachusetts. The staff is responsible for its conten. and no faculty member or administrators read it for accuracy or approval prior to publication.

Unsigned editorials represent the view of this naper. They do not necessarily reflect the views of the faculty, administration, or student body as a whole. Unsigned editorials, columns, reviews, cartoons, and letters represent the personal view of the authors.

The Collegian is a member of the Associated Press. Publication of their material does not constitute endorsement.

The Collegian strives to print only advertising which is truthful and complete, but final responsibility for all advertisers lie with the individual advertisers.

Bad script infects 'Good Doctor'

By EILEEN M. FOLEY
Collegian Staff

Review

If there is a moral to be derived from Neil Simon's play "The Good Doctor," it is that you can't make borscht with rubber beets.

Simon has billed the work, presented by Mt. Holyoke last weekend and running again this weekend, as an adaptation of stories by Anton Chekhov. But the only discernable links between these ten unrelated vignettes and Chekhov's fiction are the '-kov's and '-vich's which Simon has appended to his characters' surnames. The title is equally irrelevant: the only discernable "doctor" in the play is the surgeon in the third vignette, who is distinguished solely by his absence.

The play is framed by the comments of the writer, acted by Paul Wildman, who opens the play with an account of himself (clever), his room (leaky), and his work (mediocre). His bantering manner and the generally spirited performances by the rest of the cast keep the production afloat despite the leaky script.

Calvin Maclean is especially good as the snivelling shrub worker in "the sneeze," as the confident if excruciatingly inept medical student in "Surgery," and as the unwitting husband in "The Seduction." But he was less convincing as the elderly navy man in "A Quiet War."

Perhaps the most inspired vignette is "The Drowned Man" in which Dan Steininger plays an over-priced professional drowner who unwittingly gives the writer his money's worth. Steininger is also very good in the markedly different role of a callow youth who gets a night in a brothel from his father for his nineteenth birthday in "The Arrangement."

By the time Simon got around to writing "A Defenseless Creature," he had obviously run out of threadbare borscht jokes, but Jeri Lynn Cohen adds a lot of kitschey wit to this at-best silly skit about a gout-ridden banker and a distraught, vegetable flinging customer.

In this, as in most of the other skits, good delivery and broad physical comedy allows the production to work reasonably well despite the script. The single exception is "Too Late for Happiness," an inexcusably maudlin duet between a lady and a gentleman in the proverbial autumn of life who warble odiously over whether or not to take tea, for a seemingly interminable length of time. Absolutely nothing could have saved this one.

James Montgomery to rock the Blue Wall

By ED LEVINE
Collegian Staff

The Union Program Council will present Boston-based rock and roll artist James Montgomery this Friday at the Blue Wall in the Campus Center.

Montgomery began his career in his native Detroit at the

TURN TO PAGE 12

To Serve Studying Students
the Campus Center will provide
food service in
THE HATCH CAFETERIA
in the evenings
Monday-Friday 5:00 pm-10:00 pm
On a Trial Basis

at the art store within a store

ALL FRAMES AT DISCOUNT PRICES

campus center/umass
the UNIVERSITY STORE

Mount Snow
VERMONT
51 trails, 13 lifts . . . 3 separate mountain faces
Saturdays R.T.
UMass Adults $25.00 Children $19.75
South Hadley and Northampton Adults $26.00 Children $20.25

STRATTON MT.
Snowmaking systems operating from base to summit
Sundays R.T.
UMass Adults $25.00 Children $19.75
South Hadley and Northampton Adults $26.00 Children $20.25

Rates include round trip transportation (ticket must be purchased in advance) via luxury Peter Pan motorcoach with departures from the Campus Center Circle at the University of Mass. at 7:25 A.M. from South Hadley Town Common at 6:30 A.M. and from the John M. Green Hall, Smith College at 6:50 A.M. and discount on lift ticket when purchased at terminal.

University of Mass.
Campus Center Hotel Lobby
Amherst, Massachusetts
545-2006 or 549-6000

Mt. Holyoke College
Cannon's Pharmacy
25 College Street
South Hadley, Massachusetts
533-7115

Smith College
Peter Pan Bus Terminal
Old South Street
Northampton, Massachusetts
586-1030

Peter Pan Bus Lines, Inc.

sound economy

We're back, and just in time for your Holiday Shopping with an all new selection of your favorite records at your favorite prices.

3.99 Ramones Leave Home
3.99 Joan Armatrading Show Some Emotion
3.99 Dave Mason Very Best of
3.99 (2 lp) Nils Lofgrin Night After Night

3.99 Crosby-Nash Very Best of
3.99 Todd Rundgren Another Live Utopia
3.99 George Benson In Flight
(2 lp) 3.99 Moody Blues Caught Live + 5

3.49 Pablo Cruise Worlds Away
3.49 Marshall Tucker Band Greatest Hits
2.99 NRBQ at Yankee Stadium
2.99 Kinks Sleepwalker

Also featuring: Jessie Colin-Young, Sealevel, Harry Chapin, Jefferson Airplane, Rita Coolidge, Garcia, Kingfish, Tull, and many more of your favorites.

DON'T MISS OUT the UNIVERSITY STORE

Christmas Gift Wrap Sale!

Flat Fold Paper (2 square feet)	99¢
26 Inch Jumbo Roll (26 inch wide x 96 feet long)	99¢
30 Inch Jumbo Roll (30 inch wide x 96 feet long)	$1.79
36 Inch Jumbo Roll (36 inch wide x 25 feet long)	99¢

5 weeks to go!
Each place setting piece will be featured once during the next 5 weeks. Last chance to complete your set!
Classic Stoneware HAND PAINTED
THIS WEEK'S FEATURE
Dinner Plate 49¢
With each $3 food purchase

self service deli Values!
Sun Glory Sliced Bacon 1lb. pkg Sliced $1.09
Child Mild Franks 1lb pkg $1.39
Buddig Meats Assorted, 2oz pkg All varieties 49¢
Cold Cuts Stop & Shop or Cooper package 59¢
Bologna, Olive, Italian Pickle Loaf
Oscar Mayer Wieners lb. $1.39

corner deli Sliced to order!
Available in stores featuring a corner deli
Stop & Shop Bologna German Brand $1.49 lb
Sharp Cheddar Minimum weight 2oz pkg $2.59
Cole Slaw Stop & Shop 55¢
Cooked Ham Boiled & Genoa Stop & Shop $3.79
Smoked Virginia Ham or Honey Cured Ham
Morrison & Schiff Frozen Cafe Cakes 2.39

our kitchen Try our chickens!
Countryfine Herbs n' Butter Cooked Chicken or Home Style $1.09 lb
Potato Salad Reg. or Dill & Onion 1 quart package 59
Macaroni Salad Countryfine recipe 59

seafood Catch these specials.
Fresh Cod Fillets Bake, broil or fry, serve with lemon & butter. $1.99 lb
Fresh Flounder Fillets $2.49
Fish Nics Stop & Shop Crisp, flaky & tender $1.09
Fish Cakes Stop & Shop Uncooked potato recipe 89¢

frozen meats For easy meals.
Weaver Chicken To Go Cooked 3½lb. pkg. $4.99
Veal Steaks Machine Tenderized Breaded & Cooked $1.69

bakery Our breads are great!
Stop & Shop Sliced Variety Bread Sale! Buttertop 22oz. 100% Whole Wheat or Oatmeal 16oz 2 loaves $1
Corn Muffins Stop & Shop Fresh 9pkg pkg. 99¢
Date Nut Bread Stop & Shop Countryfine Banana Tea or Cranberry Bread 89¢

health & beauty aids
Tylenol Tablets or Extra Strength btl. of 50 bottle of 100 $1.59 ea
Pepto Bismol 8 ounce bottle $1.19

Stop & Shop Coupon C M29 With this coupon and a $7.50 purchase
79¢ 1 PLY 400 SHEET COTTONELLE TISSUE Bathroom pkg. of 4
Good Mon., Dec. 10-Sat. Dec. 15. Limit one per customer.
Grocery 287

Stop & Shop Coupon C M28 With this coupon and a $7.50 purchase
99¢ Stop & Shop HALF GALLON ICE CREAM Assorted Flavors
Good Mon., Dec. 10-Sat. Dec. 15. Limit one per customer.
Frozen 286

Stop & Shop Coupon C M27 With this coupon and a $7.50 purchase
79¢ Stop & Shop ORANGE JUICE From Concentrate 64oz carton
Good Mon., Dec. 10-Sat. Dec. 15. Limit one per customer.
Dairy 285

Stop & Shop Coupon C M26 With this coupon and a $7.50 purchase
49¢ 6½ ounce can STAR-KIST TUNA Chunk Light in Oil
Good Mon., Dec. 10-Sat. Dec. 15. Limit one per customer.
Grocery 284

Stop & Shop SUPERMARKETS
DOUBLE COUPONS
Double Manufacturer's Coupons—See Store for Details
IN HADLEY - AMHERST STORE

Special Buys for Great Eating!
"White Gem" Chicken & Other Brands Whole 2½-3lbs. 39¢ lb
Fresh wholesome chickens are one of your most versatile and economical meat values! Try yours!
Cut Up or Split Chicken "White Gem" 2½-3lbs. 43¢ lb
Perdue Chicken Whole 2½-3lbs. 49¢ lb
Save on Frank's famous Maryland chicken
Perdue Cut Up or Split Chicken 2½-3lbs. 53¢ lb
Chicken Leg Quarters "White Gem" With Back 45¢ lb
Perdue Leg Quarters Chicken 55¢
Breast Quarters "White Gem" Chicken With Wing 49¢
Perdue Chicken Breast Quarters with Wing 59¢ lb
USDA CHOICE Bottom Round Roast Beef Round "Great Beef" $1.79 lb
Beef Bottom Round Steak For Swiss Steak $1.99
Rump Roast Beef Round "Great Beef" USDA Choice $1.99
Beef Eye Round Roast "Great Beef" USDA Choice $2.49
Beef Patty Mix Approx. 3 pound Chub $1.19
Countryfine Breakfast Sausage Countryfine 2-2½lb. pkg. $1.29 lb
Italian Sausage $1.39 Countryfine Hot or Sweet 2-2½lb. pkg.

produce
Pick fresh savings all week, every week!
Golden Yellow Bananas 4 lbs for $1
Idaho 5 pound bag U.S. No. 1 Potatoes 89¢
Idaho potatoes are best for baking.
Large Imported Pineapples Naturally sweet treat. Low in sodium 99¢ ea.
Long Lasting Poinsettia Plant 6 inch Pot Min. 4 bracts $4.99 ea.
Yellow Onions Tangy, low in calories 15¢ lb.

Progresso Beans Cannellini, Red Kidney, or Chick Pea, 20 oz. can	2/89¢	Stewed Tomatoes Stop & Shop 16oz. can	2/79¢
Pillsbury Pie Crust or Betty Crocker 11oz. pkg	3/$1	Pillsbury Flour All purpose 5lb. bag	79¢
Sun Glory Tomatoes 29oz. can	2/89¢	Nestle Four Pack Souptime Chicken Noodle, Mushroom, Cream of Chicken, 1.4oz. pkg	55¢
Progresso Soup Tomato, Lentil or Minestrone, 20 oz. can	2/89¢	Puritan 100% Vegetable Oil 32 ounce bottle	$1.39
Peanut Butter Creamy or Chunky Stop & Shop 18oz. jar	79¢	Grape Jelly Stop & Shop 2lb. jar	79¢
Diet Delight 16 oz. can Peaches or Pears	2/$1	Strawberry Preserves Stop & Shop 18oz. jar	79¢
Ritz Crackers 12 ounce package	85¢	Tabby Cat Food Assorted varieties 6½oz. can	4/$1
Dog Food Stop & Shop All Varieties Chunk 14 oz. Can	3/85¢	Friskies Cat Food All varieties 15 ounce can	3/89¢ frozen foods Quick meal makers for busy holiday shoppers.

Downey Flake Waffles 12 ounce pkg	65¢	Snow Crop Orange Juice 12 ounce can	79¢
Lenders Bagels Plain, Onion or Egg 12oz. pkg	2/89¢	Taste O'Sea Cod Fillet 16 ounce pkg	$1.69
Crinkle Cut Potatoes Save 20¢ Stop & Shop 5lb. bag	$1.69	Shoestring Potatoes Save 20¢ Stop & Shop 20oz. bag	2/$1
Stop & Shop Taters Save 20¢ 32 ounce pkg	79¢	Banquet Pot Pies Beef, Chicken or Turkey 8oz. pkg	3/$1
BirdsEye Cool Whip 8oz. container	69¢	French Fries Reg. or Crinkle Cut Stop & Shop 32oz. pkg	Save 20¢ 79¢
Pet Pie Shells Deep Dish 12oz. pkg. of 2	69¢	Sara Lee Rings Almond, Maple Raspberry or Blueberry 9½oz. pkg	99¢ dairy You'll find all the quality brands in our dairy cases!

Sour Cream Stop & Shop 16oz. pkg	59¢	Cottage Cheese Light n' Lively or Seafest 16oz. cup	79¢
Swiss Cheese Sun Glory Sliced 16oz. pkg	$2.29	Land O'Lakes Margarine 1lb. pkg. qtr. ¾ sticks	2/$1
Homestyle Biscuits 8oz. pkg or Buttermilk Stop & Shop	6/$1	Temp-tee Whipped Cream Cheese 12oz. cup	$1.29
Natural Yogurt Assorted Varieties Stop & Shop 8oz. cup	3/89¢	Cream Cheese Philadelphia Whipped Plain or Onion 8oz. cup	89¢
Fount Wip Real Whipped Cream 6.5oz. container	79¢	Pillsbury Cookies Choc. Chip or Oatmeal 16 oz. or Sugar 18 oz. pkg.	99¢

Prices effective Mon., Dec. 10-Sat., Dec. 15. In fairness to all our customers, we reserve the right to limit sales to three pack-ages of any item except where otherwise noted. Items offered for sale not available in Liquor Stores or to other retail dealers or wholesalers. Copyright 1979 by Stop & Shop Supermarkets. All rights reserved. Not responsible for typographical errors.

HADLEY-AMHERST Route 9 at the Hadley-Amherst Line. 8a.m.-10p.m., Mon.-Sat. We redeem your Federal Food Stamps.

Positions Available

The Collegian has openings for the following positions for Spring semester:

- assistant managing editors
- copy editors
- lay-out technicians

see Julie Eagle in Rm 113 CC
also available

- editorial assistant

see Rob Burbank in Rm 113 CC
or call 545-3500

The Collegian is an equal opportunity employer

Got something on your mind? Why not let 25,000 other people know by writing a letter to the Collegian?

★ Montgomery

CONT. FROM PAGE 10

age of 15, when he joined the Milk River Sheiks. After a short stint playing harmonica with the band, Montgomery formed his own band, The Miller Montgomery Band.

Montgomery came to the Boston area in 1967 when he enrolled as an English major at Boston University. Two years later he joined a popular Boston group, the Colwell-Winfield Band, and within a year left to form the James Montgomery Band.

UPC and the Blue Wall have also announced a change in admission policy for this and future shows. Five-College students of any age may attend, but all non-students must be at least 18 years of age to enter the Blue Wall. Those wishing to purchase alcohol must possesss proof of age and a current Top of the Campus sticker.

Also appearing Friday night will be Trapper, another popular band from the Boston area. The show is scheduled to begin at 9:30 p.m. Tickets will cost $3 in advance at TIX in the Student Union, and $4 at the door.

★ Jazz

CONT. FROM PAGE 7

next featuring a marvelous solo by the baritone player that was played mostly, though not entirely, in the manner suggested by the title.

The last piece was in many respects the best, a plodding, bluesy number in which McIntyre's oboe wove like a snake-charmer's over the tenor and baritone saxophones. The sympathy achieved between Ford and Bluiett during this piece was awesome; musicians are really communicating when an extended improvisation includes many moments of harmoney and funky rhythms.

Ford's subsequent solo on tenor was filled with the melodic lyricism jazz fans associate with the name of Sonny Rollins. Ford has been called the next big name on tenor, and after Friday night one could understand why. On the fast numbers he fumed and sputtered, creating sounds that one would have thought impossible on the instrument.

Thus ended the final concert in the Duke Ellington series this semester. There was little to leave the listener dissatisfied, although a better performance could have been given by McIntyre, who never made his presence known, and for better amplification on the piano, which sounded tinny all night.

Collegian Classifieds

To place a Collegian Classified
- Come to Collegian Office CC 113
- 8:45 to 3:45 Mon-Fri
- Classified deadline is 3:45 two days prior to publication day

Collegian Classified Rates
- 15c per word
- Student rate 10c per word
- Cash in advance
- 5 consecutive days 5 % discount
- Phone number FREE

AUDIO

Xmas Present Cheaply Lafayette 15W receiver, Lafayette speakers, BSR turntable call JW 549-0542 $150

AUTO FOR SALE

Fix your own car The student Auto Workshop has tools, space and friendly mechanics to help you maintain your automobile. Tues, Wed, Thurs 3-9 p.m. Sat 10-5 Lower Level CC Gargae 545-0673

1971 VW Van runs well 950 or BO 253-2664

1968 Volvo 144 v. good cond., many new parts, minor elec. prob. $800/BO John 665-4395

74 Duster immaculate, must be seen 665-7978

Pinto Wagon 75 4 speeds, low milage, VGC 256-8465

ENTERTAINMENT

Coffeehouse Newman Center Saturday 8 p.m. Free

FOR RENT

1 or 2 bedroom apartment near campus and bus. Starting Jan. 1 call 256-0329 (keep trying)

Studio-type apartment. Available Jan. 1 $175.00 includes all. One mile to Campus. Bus roite. Call 549-5957

One Bedroom in So. Amherst for female nonsmoker $80/mo 256-8358

1 bedroom apartment $205 includes util. call early morn. or eve. 665-2961

Room for rent $105 Jan in Amherst house 256-6997/549-6818

FOR SALE

Portrait Drawing Dennis Delap, 256-8732

Portraits Profile-$7, full face-$10, color-$20, pets in color-$15 Deborah Pompano 549-4634

Olin Mark I Skis 160 cm, Salomon bindings—$125 or BO Ladies Nordica boots size 8—$50 or BO Great Condition! call 546-8453

Hiking boots size 6, almost new. Best offer. call 256-0329 (keep trying)

Classical Guitar Madeira by Guild. Excellent cond. w/case $125. 15" color TV set 2 yrs. old. $180 253-3012 (mornings best)

Typewriter $15. 253-9455

Grateful Dead tapes Box 121 Amherst

Classical Guitar excellent condition, new strings $50 or BO 546-4995

Pr. A-78-13 studded mounted snows BO 253-7564 John

1969 Rebel four new tires, good body & interior $250 or BO call Mike 256-6815

1972 Ford pinto runs great, 4 speed, must sell, best offer Jim 256-0158

Double Bed Mattress & Boxspring almost new, will deliver $75.00 584-4187

Snow Tires radials, 155-13, excellent shape $40. 256-6632

Hanson Exhibition II: size 4 shell (sizes 9-11) call Paul 253-2754, $50.00

Classical Guitar Yamaha, 2 yrs. old $100 549-6755

Tennis Rackets new Arthur Ashe comp 1 strung 40.00 used Yonex 7500 strung 35.00 call Andy 546-8863

FOUND

Found Wallet call Lisa 665-4947

HELP WANTED

Wanted: Disgusted Graduate Student who wants to get out of academia. Fast-growing minicomputer company looking for a technical software support/customer service person. Experience not necessary; fascination with learning about computers (and teaching other people about them) is. Starting salary $13,000. Must be willing to move to NYC area immediately. Position begins Jan. 2. Send resume & letter to Justine Stillings, CDA, Inc., 1373 Broad St., Clifton, NJ 07011

Men! Women! Jobs! Cruiseships! Sailing expeditions! No experience. Summer, career. Good pay! Europe! South pacific, bahamas, World! Send $4.95 for Application/Info/Jobs to Cruiseworld 161 Box 60129, Sacramento, CA 95860

Jobs! Lake Tahoe California! Little exp. Fantastic tips! Pay! $1600-$3800 summer. Thousands needed. Casino's, Restuarants, Ranches, Cruisers, Rafting, etc. Send $4.95 for Application/Info/Referrals. Lakeworld Box 60129, Sacto, CA 95960

Local fraternity needs experienced cook for Spring semester. Excellent pay. Call Warren or Rick Penn 545-2150

Community Organizers Springfield and Boston Areas. For the United Farmworker Union. Further information 545-2789 or 617-542-4548

Wintersession job childcare, lt. housewk, 3 afts wk during Jan 253-7840 eves

LOST

Bible with brown leather cover lost before Thanksgiv by SW Munchies 6-1042 Eric Reward

Lost Gold Watch Bulava Accutron, brown wristband, please return has sentimental value 546-7029

Lost TI50 Calculator sentimental value (gift) Reward Call Sandy 546-5853

Lost Blue Nylon Day Pack in FAC 430 on 12/5 Please return has art supplies & all notes for semester Reward call Greg 6-4945

PERSONALS

Unification Theology paper lectures/discussions Jim 256-8719

Ski-House: Stowe Vt. all season $250 each John 253-3227

J.M. bought his own E.P.T. kit Susy Sorority

Sharon Evers we always knew you were a flashee but now you have become ½ assed. L.R.

Love Dana Weinburg Fan Club

Scott Cunningham—Love your secret admirer

Camelot on Campus: Meet Sheila Kennedy today at 7 P.M. 1002 Campus Center All Welcome

Dean Field. Thanks your great!!—KG

Patti better known as Dee Dee! How does it feel to be 20! Sorry I missed you on Friday but I got ya today! Love ya, you know who!

Food for thought. . . Soylent Green. . .Sci Fi Classic See what it's all about! Wed. dec. 12 at mahar 7, 9, & 11

Charisnatic Bible Study and Prayer Tuesday December 11th Campus center 903 at 8 p.m. All Students Welcome

Hey you guys, Mike, Rene, Arnie, Carol P., Trish, Bill, Joe, Glen, Lisa, Mel, Sandy, Megs, Caroline, Susie, Mary, Lauren, Marcy, Julie, Judy, Jim, Sandy, Andy, Jay, Carol S., Carolyn and everyone else who cared. Thanks, Ken. P.S. BABRA loves you!

3W Dickinson Donna and Jan: No co-ed bathroom in Campus Center. Have men get your clue cause you can't enter.—Secret Santas

J.A.C. OFS. D.T.—Thanks for a great time. Remember friends are forever, especially this one. . .Love Mr. J.W.R.

BZ—Smella my boobiesa!

R2 and D2 thats me and you, Love me2

Lucra Productions presents Christmas at the QR Disco Wednesday December 12 at 8 p.m. tickets 2.50 in advance 3.00 at the door 18 and 19 year olds invited. Tickets sold at Berkshire and Hampshire DC's December 11 and 12 4:30 to 6:30

Yes I like Pina Coladas Let's plan our escape—2016 JFK

Mare now do you read the personals? You're a great friend and we're gonna miisu Remember the good times. Best wishes Love Kathy & Antoinette

To the cute runner on the track team Thanks for the compliment

KA Here's 14U Merry Christmas! AMF

Sue—How's Psychology? Love Queer One

Miles the Rat—Please bite me! Love Pal

Sporting Goods Co-op: Christmas Sale last week open M-F 10-3

ROOMMATE WANTED

4th Woman for apt in house. Short walk to UM and town 253-2730

Female wanted to share furnished Amherst house. Own room. Utilities included. Call Sue 256-8271

To sublet female wanted to share room in Puffton Apt. Jan-June 78.75/month call 549-6158

Female student seeking own room in house or apartment for Spring near campus or bus route Debbie 256-8754

Female to share room with another 256-6948

Fem Grad own rm in 2 rm apt, bus route 2532742 nights

Female for Brittany Manor apt. Rent 71.50/month call 253-2858

Woman needed to share 2 bedroom No. Amherst apt. call 549-6635

Male or Female for own bedroom in Puffton 3 bdrm apt start Jan or Feb 1 call 549-4041 ask for Fish or Berg

Quiet nonsmoker wanted who likes pets. Own bdrm in apt with 2 women $85 per month, includes elect. Jan-Aug 253-7573

Wanted Woman nonsmoker Riverglade Apt. bus route, share room, $80.00 + call evenings 256-6639

Starting January first Townhouse Apts. own room, $118 per month plus utilities 549-3686 Marianne or Tammy

Female wanted to share Southwood Apt. Jan 1 call 256-6670

Female wanted to share large room in Squire Village starting Jan 665-7923

Housemate wanted S. Amherst 256-8695

1 or 2 women for 4th bedroom in Sunderland Apt. call 665-4197

Room for Intersession $125 Brittany Manor, non-smoker 253-3833

Female wanted for Belchertown household bus route, cheap, details 546-8442, 546-8434 nights

Available immediately: Bedroom in 3 bedroom house in Amherst, ½ mile from UMass on bus route, no lease, $100 mos. + util. call 253-5864

ROOM WANTED

Two roommates looking for own rooms in a house or apt. Please call 549-6152

2 people looking to share apartment starting Jan. pref. Sunderland 546-8176 546-8181

We're looking for a 2 bedroom apt to sublet starting Jan preferably Sunderland 546-8181 546-8176

Looking for a 2 or 3 bedroom apt to sublet for the Spring sem. Please call Jim 6-5511 or Bill 6-5503

SECURITY DEPOSIT PROBLEMS?

Have any questions about your security deposit? Do you think monies were unfairly deducted for repairs or cleaning? Did you get 5% interest? Do you know where your money is being held? Call the Security Deposit Task Force at UMass Legal Services 545-1995 or Off Campus Housing 545-0865

TO SUBLET

One bedroom in Puffton Village call Al 549-1421

Jan sublet room in apt. N. Amh. on bus rt. $80+ non-smoker call 549-1540

Soroity needs boarders Spring semester 545-0527 Sarah

One bedroom in Southwood for january call 253-2017

WANTED

Fast Immediate Cash for gold-school rings-diamonds-silver Jeff anytime 527-7078 586-0180

Double bed mattress Please call Susan 256-8713 leave message

Wanted: Carburator for 72 Toyota Celica, engine type 18 RC call Rob 256-6279

WANTED TO RENT

2 or 3 bedroom apt for Spring semester call 546-4902 or 546-6711

Two bedroom apartment wanted near UMass or on bus route. Call Sue 256-8271

Wanted 2 bedroom apt. bonus$$ please call 546-4096, 546-4093, 546-4904 Will take over lease starting in Jan. Desparate

Looking to sublet one bedroom apt in or near Amherst beginning Jan 1. Call 253-2265 evenings

Desperatly need 3 bdrm apt for Spring sem. on bus route, Christine and Hannah 546-5223 Pat 546-8003

Aluminum Foil by Steve Lafler

Nuke the Whale by Danny Guidera

Beasts by Rob Ranney

Norma B. by M.J. Galper

Doonesbury by Garry Trudeau

TODAY'S CROSSWORD PUZZLE

ACROSS
1 Simps
6 Frolic
10 Circuits
14 Asian nation
15 Thought
16 Flat plinth
17 Chore
18 Can. artist Emily —
19 Comparative
20 Use up
22 "The Bartered Bride" composer
24 Become violent
26 English county
27 Time teller
30 Big —
31 Obey
32 Muscle impairment
37 Before
38 Credible: Obs.
40 Keelbird
41 Worms, flies, etc.: 2 words
43 Haze
44 Mien
45 Takes back
48 Blood fluid
51 Tarnish
52 Crosspieces
54 Swapping
58 Italian family
59 Printing abbr.
61 Timbrel
62 Dutch measure
63 Facet
64 Tamarisk
65 Ms. Trueheart
66 Walked
67 Tacky

DOWN
1 State treasure
2 Aware
3 Norse god
4 — oil
5 Planet
6 Asiatic tree
7 Harem room
8 Seas: Fr.
9 Cheese
10 Sweepstake
11 Nirvana attainer
12 Hand tool
13 Detecting apparatus
21 Mire
23 Rejoice
25 Dealers
27 Cook
28 Air: Comb. form
29 Shelters
33 Located anew
34 Levantine ketch
35 Univ. or hosp.
36 Poses
38 Realm
39 Country lover
42 Hurries
43 Order
46 Pitch
47 Lariats
48 Fold
49 Fabric
50 Stakes
53 Mix
55 Inclined to: Suffix
56 Nixed
57 — Cup: CFL trophy
60 Bustle

UNITED Feature Syndicate
Friday's Puzzle Solved

DC menu

LUNCH
B.L.T.
American Chop Suey

BASICS LUNCH
Garden Chili
Cheese, Lettuce & Tomato/Wheat Bread

DINNER
Roast Pork/Gravy, Applesauce
Swedish Meatballs

BASICS DINNER
Tofu Nut Loaf/Mushroom Sauce
Fish in Batter/Tartar Sauce

Custom-Made In Our Store Cake'n Ice Cream Cakes

Your choice of 31-derful flavors

BASKIN-ROBBINS ICE CREAM STORE 31

28 Main St. Amherst 253-9774
across from Town Hall
on the BN/BR bus routes

MOVIE LISTINGS

Academy Of Music
La cage Aux Folles 7:00 9:15

Hampshire 4
Fiddler on the Roof 5:30 8:30
Animal House 6:00 8:45
Starting Over 6:00 8:45
Apocalypse Now 5:30 8:30

Mt. Farms 4
J-Men Forever 5:15 7:00 9:00
And Justice For All 6:00 8:15
"10" 6:00 8:15
La cage Aux Folles 5:15 7:45 9:55

Holyoke 1-8
Muppet Movie 1:10 3:15 5:20 7:25 9:30
Stranger Calls 1:00 3:00 5:00 7:20 9:30
Onion Field 1:45 4:20 7:30 10:00
French Postcards 1:35 3:35 5:40 7:40 9:45
Skatetown U.S.A. 1:00 3:05 5:10 7:15 9:20
Love and Bullets 2:40 4:50 7:00 9:10
Saturday Night Fever 1:00 5:25 9:45
Grease 3:10 7:30
Last Tango 1:55 4:30 7:00 9:35

Pleasant St. Cinema
PeepingTom 6:00 8:00 10:00

Showcase 1-8
Animal House 2:00 7:20 9:45
Fiddler on the Roof 2:00 7:15 10:10
Fish. . .Pittsburg 2:00 7:15 9:30
"10" 2:00 7:00 9:30
Starting Over 2:00 7:00 9:15
Apocalypse Now 1:30 7:10 10:10
Star Trek 2:00 7:00 9:45
And Justice For All 2:00 7:30 9:40

Swimwomen fall to BU

By LAURA FRANK
Collegian Staff

The Boston University women's swim team is considered to be the "New York Yankees" of swimming. They're the best team money can buy, but UMass women swimmers were tough and took the 89-42 loss in a positive manner.

Diver Kathy Driscoll placed first in both the required and optional rounds of diving. Driscoll set a New England record in the requireds with a score of 174.45. Jean Bushee place third in the requireds. Leslie Johnson set a record of 2:00.6 in the 200 yard freestyle, which is an AIAW National Championship qualifying time.

In the 500 yard freestyle, Nancee Shifflett swam 5:36.45, which gave her second place in that event.

The other UMass record that was broken was by the 800 yard freestyle relay team of Jennifer Black, Judy Miller, Nancee Shiffletts, and Leslie Johnson. The new record is 8:18.2, which shatters the old record by seven seconds.

In the 400 yard individual medley, Jennifer Black captured a second place. She also finished second in the 100 yard backstroke. Nancy Collins and Heidi Boyack gave UMass a two-three finish in the 100 yard breastroke. Collins also placed second in the 200 yard breastroke. Leslie Johnson and Gail Holland also finished two-three in the 200 yard backstroke. In the 100 and 200 yard butterfly events, Coach-swimmer Celia Walsh captured third place finishes.

BU runs over trackwomen

By JIM GRAHAM
Collegian Staff

In their first meet of the season, the UMass women's indoor track team lost to Boston University, 69-39, in Boston on Saturday.

Freshman shotputter Diane Boczanowski and long jumper Jackie Budrow led UMass in the field events and were the only Minutewomen to win their individual events. Boczanowski threw the shot 31'13" for a personal record and Budrow jumped 16'¼" to take first with sophomore Micki Callahan taking third. Julie, Horgan placed third in the high jump with a jump of 4'8".

BU's Elumolu, an Olympian from Nigeria, finished first in both the 55 meters and the 55 meter hurdles. UMass freshman Angie Caouette, running her first race ever, placed a close second to the Olympian and Micki Callahan took second in the hurdles.

The depth of the Minutewomen came through in both the middle distance and distance events. Diane Sealey picked up a second place in the 400 meters in 59.9 and Cyndi Martin and Caroline Gardner placed second and third in the 800 meters.

SHOWCASE CINEMAS
BARGAIN MATINEE DAILY
FIRST SHOW $2.00 TEL. 733-5131
RT. 5 RIVERDALE RD. WEST SPRINGFIELD

STAR TREK THE MOTION PICTURE
2:00 7:10 9:45 G
The Human Adventure Is Just Beginning.

Apocalypse Now
1:30 7:10 10:10 R

Starting Over
2:00 7:00 9:15 R

Guess Who's Back?
NATIONAL LAMPOON'S ANIMAL HOUSE
2:00 7:15 9:50 R

A temptingly tasteful comedy for adults who can count.
Hilarious —N.Y.TIMES
"10"
2:00 7:15 9:40 R

Fiddler on the Roof
2:00 7:00 9:50

AL PACINO
AND JUSTICE FOR ALL
2:00 7:20 9:50 R

"THE FISH THAT SAVED PITTSBURGH"
PG 2:15 7:30 9:50

$2 off
The New York Times Best Sellers

the University Store will give you $2.00 off the jacket price of any hardbound book appearing on that week's New York Times Best Seller list -- fiction and general. A list of the eligible books will be posted next to the Best Seller section in the store. If we do not have the book you want, we will order it for you under our regular special order policies and still give you the discounted price. (Special sales void this offer.)

* two great gift-giving examples *
-Aunt Erma's Cope Book by Erma Bombeck
regularly $8.95 ONLY $6.95
-Cruel Shoes by Steve Martin
regularly $6.95 ONLY $4.95

"the bookstore"

campus center/umass
the UNIVERSITY STORE

Valley Book Shop
used books in good condition
thousands of books in all subjects at low prices
Carriage Shops open
10-5:30 daily Fri. til 8
Sundays in Dec. 1-5

•Navy
•Burgundy
•Brown
•Beige

Open Sundays & evenings til Xmas
the SHOE BIN
187 n. pleasant st., amherst

HPC PRODUCTIONS & AEC/SCANN present
HOLLY NEAR
with J.T. Thomas & Susan Freundlich
Tuesday, December 11
8 P.M.
Fine Arts Center Concert Hall
Tickets: $4. adult $2. children
General Admission at: TIX, Union Records Unlimited, Handicapped Student Office, Womonfrye Books, Platterpus, Everywoman's Center
For Childcare info call 546-1248

AMC AMERICAN MULTI CINEMA
ADULTS $2.75 STUDENTS & SR. CITIZENS with AMC CARD $2.25 TWI-LITE SHOW $1.50 -Special Engagements Excluded Twi-Lite Show - Limited to Seating
TIMES SHOWN FOR TODAY ONLY

HAMPSHIRE 4 — 584-7550 HAMP. MALL ON CAFE SQ.—RT. 9, HADLEY, MASS.
Apocalypse Now R (5:30 @ $1.50) 8:30
NATIONAL LAMPOON'S ANIMAL HOUSE R (6:00 @ $1.50) 8:45
Dinner & Movie $5. Have dinner at the Pewter Pot Restaurant on cafe Square in the Hampshire Mall and see one of these 8 movies for only $5.00 Call for details.
STARTING OVER R (6:00 @ $1.50) 8:45
FIDDLER ON THE ROOF G (5:30 @ $1.50) 8:30

MOUNTAIN FARMS 4 — 584-9153 MOUNTAIN FARMS MALL ROUTE 9—HADLEY, MASS.
A temptingly tasteful comedy "10" R (6:00 @ $1.50) 8:15
AL PACINO AND JUSTICE FOR ALL R (6:00 @ $1.50) 8:15
LA CAGE AUX FOLLES R (6:15 @ $1.50) 8:30
J-MEN FOREVER PG (6:15 @ $1.50) 8:30

Sports notices

INTRAMURALS---all those interested in officiating intramural ice hockey next semester, sign up in the Intramural Office, 215 Boyden. Also, teams are now forming for spring intramural hockey program. Information, roster forms, and health forms are available at the IM Office. Deadline for team rosters is Dec. 17, 1979.

NAIADS--The Naiads synchronized swim team will be performing on December 10 at 6:00 in NOPE Pool. Admission is free and you are advised to dress lightly.

Dan Guidera, Mark Marchand, Steve Zack, George O'Brien. Four good ways to keep abreast of campus and pro sports.

Rhynedance leads Army over gymmen

By BOB MITCHELL
Collegian Staff

WEST POINT, N.Y. —Army's George Rhynedance scored a 9.65 in vaulting and a 9.40 on the horizontal bar in leading the Cadets past the UMass men's gymnastics team, 240.20-220.65, here Saturday.

The Minutemen's hopes were dampened before the meet even got underway. All around Frank Cohen injured his heel doing horizontal bar dismounts in the warm-ups and was unable to compete. "Without Cohen's depth as a sixth score on every event, we had all of our scores counting, allowing us no margin for error," said coach Roy Johnson.

UMass won just one event on the afternoon, that being floor exercise. Dave Buegler and Steve Craig led the team in that event, scoring a slim 9.35 and a 9.05 respectively, to give the Minutemen a slim 40.80-39.55 win, and their only lead of the meet. From there on it was all Army, as the Cadets swept the remaining five events to take the meet.

Army easily won the pommel horse and still rings competition by scores of 34.90-28.20 and 42.75-34.05. The only highlight for UMass from these two events was Bob Donahue's 7.55 performance on the horse.

The UMass gymnasts kept close to Army in the last three weeks, but just couldn't compare to Rhynedance's fine performances. In vaulting Craig scored a 9.10, Buegler an 88.90, and Hugh O'Neall added an 8.65, but it wasn't enough as Army won their third straight event 45.15-43.85.

On the parallel bars Donahue scored an 8.55 and Ron Silberstein a 7.55, but UMass lost it's fourth event, this time by a slim 36.55-35.55 margin. On the horizontal bar, Army, behind the performance of Rhynedance, won by just over three points to close out the meet. O'Neall had a fine 8.65 on the bar for UMass.

SECRET SANTA
Great Gifts - Great Prices
Stocking Stuffers
Hundreds of 25c to $10 items
CARDS
Daily 10 am-6 pm
Sunday 12-5 pm
THE MERCANTILE
AMHERST CARRIAGE SHOPS

WEDNESDAY NITE COUPON
DECEMBER 12 5 p.m.-9 p.m. ONLY
$5.00 off the following items with this coupon
☐ $5.00 OFF - RACQUETBALL RACKETS $5.00 off any racket in stock. Featuring Slazenger and Leach.
☐ $5.00 OFF — ELECTRIX CLAMP-ON-LAMP regularly 18.95
☐ $5.00 OFF - JOGGING SUIT regularly 19.95 a special selection in a variety of colors and sizes.
Remember! You can redeem the coupon on Wednesday night, Dec. 12 between 5 pm - 9 pm only.
campus center/umass
the UNIVERSITY STORE

University & Office Supplies
Christmas Cards
Giftwrap Games & Toys
A.J. Hastings Inc.
newsdealer & stationer
45 S. Pleasant St., Amherst

Taste the pride of Canada.
Molson.

Take our words for it, MOLSON Ale is:
Hearty. Pure. Clear.
Refreshing. Special.
Pour it with pride.

Brewed and bottled in Canada, brought to you by Martlet Importing Co., Inc., Great Neck, New York

Featuring Shirts, Hats & Jackets with All Major Logos
SPORT SHACK
Red Sox
Patriots
Yankees
Cowboys
Hampshire Mall, Hadley, Mass.

BAGEL DELI
Best in the Valley for:
•whole wheat pastries
•lox & eggs
•blintzes & potato pancakes
•fresh bagels
•omlettes
•frozen yogurt
28 Pleasant St. Northampton

GIVE-A-BOOK CERTIFICATE
a totally new nationwide idea for giving books
select a thoughtful greeting card you can personalize purchase and enclose a "give-a-book" certificate in the amount of your choice
"give-a-book" certificate redeemable at any participating book store
let them choose their own perfect gift
the UNIVERSITY STORE
campus center/umass

Bench-clearing brawl erupts in final minutes; cagers lose, 63-45

By DAVE BRADLEY
Collegian Staff

The men's basketball team Saturday night reaffirmed the old adage that one good performance does not a season make.

Coming off a close loss to nationally ranked Toledo and feeling, as guard Tom Witkos put it, like "we were on cloud nine," the Minutemen's euphoria was abruptly ended by the Pittsburgh Panthers, 63-45, in a game which saw UMass commit 35 turnovers, and both benches empty for a brawl near the end of the contest.

UMass coaches and team members concurred that the loss, the team's third, was mostly due to a breakdown in team discipline, players abandoning the planned offense and trying to win it individually.

"At Toledo (ranked 19th nationally at the time), we played much harder and we played together with a lot more discipline," coach Ray Wilson said after the game. "We went out of our offense (Saturday) which got us in a great deal of trouble and magnified some of our weaknesses."

Co-captain and starting guard Bill Morrison, sidelined Saturday because of a recent flare-up of an ankle injury incurred last season, also noted the breakdown in discipline, both offensively and defensively. "We didn't play together," he said.

Witkos, who led all players with 38 minutes on the floor, said he didn't think UMass was "ready for them mentally. We're up and down," he said. "To play a team we've gotta be intense."

Looking at the final statistics, there are a few numbers that stand out as much as the 35 UMass turnovers. Forward Curtis Phauls, the 6'6" junior who broke out for 51 points in the first two games, was handcuffed for a total of eight points Saturday, shooting two for 13 from the floor and four for five from the free throw line. Phauls also accounted for 10 turnovers.

Phauls was ejected from the game with 5:17 left to play for his involvement in the brawl. Tempers apparently boiled over between Phauls and Ellis, resulting in a quick scuffle which brought both benches onto the floor, as well as some fans and cheerleaders. Both coaches tried to restrain their respective teams, and several police officers came out to restore order. Phauls had no comment after the game.

Wilson said he didn't see how the incident started, "but I knew that in the first three or four minutes (of the game) it was physical. When something like this happens it's usually been building."

The game opened with UMass scoring on a lefty hook by 6'8" center Jay Stewart seven feet from the hoop in the middle of the lane. Pittsburgh answered quickly with a three-pointer by 6'7" forward Sammie Ellis. Pittsburgh then went up 5-2 with less than three minutes played, and 9-2 before four minutes had elapsed. At the first quarter mark UMass was down 19-10.

With UMass' full-court defense unable to maintain any kind of pressure and the offense having trouble with the Panther's three-quarter court zone press, the Minutemen fell behind 34-18 with two minutes remaining in the half. Freshman center Pedro de la Cruz came off the bench for UMass at the 51 second mark and promptly hit a shot from the left of the free stripe. He followed that up at the other end with a crowd-pleasing block of a Pittsburgh three-footer.

At the half the score was UMass 22, Pittsburgh 36.

If the game was not lost by UMass in the first half, there was no question who the winner would be after the initial stages of the second. The Minutemen failed to score a single point in the first seven and a half minutes of the stanza while the Panthers increased their lead to 48-22. Phauls finally scored on a pop from the left of the lane off a feed from reserve guard Marc Roberts to make the score 48-24 with 12:22 remaining. Pittsburgh ran the lead up to 27 at the 6:16 point.

Pittsburgh's Ellis led all scorers with 16, with 6'6" forward Sam Clancy (also at the crux of the brawl but not ejected) netting 12 and 6'5" swingman Carlton Neverson matching that tally.

Freshman forward Dan Wright led UMass scorers with 10, eight coming in the second half. Witkos followed with nine (six in the first half), and Phauls and Stewart both had eight. Phauls collectd the most rebounds with eight.

The estimated crowd of 3,000 Minuteman fans had little to cheer about throughout the game but did appreciate Witkos' full-court drive which broke the Panther press for a lay-up to make the score 19-8. The crowd also noted a nice block by Wright in the first half which stopped a Pittsburgh player three feet from the hoop. Guard David Teague's slam dunk off a steal when the game was about over also had the crowd buzzing.

But coach Wilson could not find anything good about this game. "I'm not happy with the way anyone played," he said. Despite the winless record, however, Wilson said he does not plan to make any rash changes in the Minutemen style of play. For now the team will, "Go back to practice tomorrow and just keep on going."

UMass travels to New Jersey for a game against Rutgers University on Tuesday, coming back to the Cage Thursday night at 7:30 for a game against Bentley College.

Minutemen forward Danny Wright (50) watches as Pitt's tower of strength, Sam Clancy, rises to the occasion and rejects Wright's shot. (Staff photo by Jim Mahoney)

Minutewomen center Julie Ready had things all her way Saturday as she scored twenty points and ripped down eighteen rebounds in the hoopwomen's tromp over Vermont, 79-42. (Staff photo by Jim Mahoney)

Collegian Sports

Minutewomen toy with hapless Vermont, 79-42

By DANNY GUIDERA
Collegian Staff

The women's basketball team continued its winning ways last Saturday as it took advantage of a sharp offense and stingy defense to down the University of Vermont 79-42 in the Minutewomen's season home opener.

The victory was its second in two games.

Minutewomen guard Sue Peters led all scorers with 24 points, hitting for twelve in a seven minute stretch during the first half to establish and increase the UMass lead. Julie Ready played a solid game at center, sweeping the boards for 18 rebounds while netting 20 points.

Coach Mary Ann Ozdarski of the Minutewomen praised the team's defensive play as being "much improved" and "more organized." The Minutewomen stole the ball from the Catamounts 10 times during the game, forcing 17 turnovers in all. The Minutewomen played a physical game on both ends of the court, outrebounding the smaller Vermont team 58-25.

Freshman Val DePaolo continued to impress as she turned in 13 points coming off the bench, nine in the first half. DePaolo also collected 10 rebounds and five steals.

The game was a see-saw battle early in the first half with lead changing hands four times before the Minutewomen finally took control. With six minutes gone in the game Ready hit from underneath the hoop to put the Minutewomen on top for good 12-11. Peters scored to make it 14-11 and the Minutewomen never looked back.

Vermont was never in the game after their early flurry. The Minutewomen defense denied the Catamounts any way back in as they held them to ten points for the rest of the quarter, shutting them out for a five minute period. The Minutewomen led 42-21 at the end of the first half.

The Minutewomen picked up right where they left off in the second half. Ginger Legere, who scored ten points; hit two four shots almost immediately from the line as the half began to put the Minutewomen up 44-21. Legere collared 7 rebounds in the game.

At 7:09 of the half Peters laid the ball in to put UMass up 75-35, the biggest lead of the game.

Sherry Collins and Tricia Corcoran both played an agressive ball game. Collins finished the game with eight points and 2 steals, Corcoran had four.

As UMass put distance between themselves and Vermont, Ozdarski got a chance to look at newcomers Judith Kelliher, Sue Carey, Martha Ready and Tara Heinzmann. The four pulled down a total of 15 rebounds between them.

Tonight at 7:00 the Minutewomen going for their third win in a row take on the Lady Aggies of Texas A & M at the Curry Hicks Cage.

NUMMO

WE DID NOT KNOW WHO WE ARE.
SEARCHING FOR TRUTH....
WE SPOKE IN WISHES FOR HIS PRESENCE
AND WERE HELD SPELL BOUND IN HIS LIGHT.

WE ARE WHAT WE TRYING TO BE

carl yates

volume 8 issue 12 10 december 1979

Black Studies Weekend In Boston

By Phyllis Winfield

The New England Regional Conference of Black Studies Student Committee held a Black Studies weekend at Boston State College. The conference offered various workshops, each geared to a specific aspect of Black Studies programs in academic institutions.

The workshop entitled Leadership and Development in Black Organizations focused primarily on the institution of the black church and its contribution to the Afro-American community. A film was shown: it noted the history of the church, the largest black institution influencing black America. Blacks began forming their own churches in the late 1800's; thus refusing to allow themselves to be subjected to the discriminatory practices which pervaded white church organizations-i.e. allowing blacks to sit in backrow pews only.

The film also noted that contemporary black churches are totally autonomous; thus, allowing blacks to clearly express themselves. Black churches are today, havens in which Afro-Americans can express their social frustrations. They also serve as a vital means of exposing black talent-some of our greatest musicians got their start in the church where the audience was a kind of extended family expressing communal appreciation for black talent.

Professor Hubert Walters of Boston State College followed the film presentation by saying: "I am gratified to see that interest on the part of black students in the black church has increased. Some black youths are discouraged with the church as it, basically, is a conservative institution-it moved very slowly. However, it remains a vital organization: its function is a supportive one in the black community; it has fulfilled a productive role in the history of the Afro-American community."

Dr. Johnnella Butler, of Smith College, followed Professor Walter's remarks by saying: "The importance of understanding the spiritually of the black church must not be ignored. We must not be impatient with the formal organization of this institution when it does not appear to move as quickly as we would like. The cultural essence of black people is shown by the interdependence of our physical and spiritual reality."

Dr. Butler also stressed the need for a curricula methodology and a dsepartmental structure that is embedded in the black cultural experience, and which would make allowance for the analyses of the role of a spiritual definition of the world view of Afro-Americans. Butler:"The Church is also politically important, for that is where black people are; and that is where our fullest expression as a people manifest itself."

Another workshop, Black Studies and its Relations to National Black Liberation, emphasized the interdependence of Black Studies and black self-realization.

According to Professor Chris Netat, of Boston State College,:"Both address the total liberation of a people's that is, both strive for the liberation of a people's minds and consciousness. On the religious level the effort for black self-realization can be referred to as a type of black theology. Black churches and religious groups have consistently been in the forefront of the guest for national black liberation. In response to his critics who maintained that black national realization was untimely, Dr. Martin Luther King, Jr. replied: 'these are revolutionary times.' All over the globe men are revolting against old systems of exploitation, and out of the wombs of a frail world new systems of justice and equality are being born.

Professor Nteta:"On the academic level, this effort an national black liberation in America manifests itself in the form of black studies. Education and liberation go hand in hand. Education is not just a matter of mastering the three R's: certain values, attitudes and assumptions are inherently pervasive within any given educational system. An education can either liberate by raising ones sense of self-awareness, or it can become an oppressive enforcement of certain Anglo-Saxon conformist doctrines.

Unfortunately, black studies has failed in its responsibility. It has been co-opted, or rather, white America has co-opted it: it is in actuality the view of black history and culture as seen by white America; black studies has become education as miseducation in order to prepare our people for a future that entails black self-reliance. America trains certain blacks to personify the ideally Europeanized black. Blacks are being used: certain blacks will be employed by multi-national corporations that make their billions in oppressing. Third World nations. The people involved in black community usually are not those chosen to teach black studies. Those teaching are the Europeanized segment of the Afro-American community. Just being black does not necessarily qualify one to teach black studies; one must have historical experienced the consequences of ones blackness; one must also be able to efficiently relate that given experience. Many black studies teachers do not have a firsthand relationship with the black community: their world is one spent in the pursuit of economic gain.

"It is like everyone jumping onto a train-i.e., the train that they believe takes you to place ensuring economic gain-just because everyone else is trying to board that train. You do not jump onto a train just because everyone else does: We have to stop and redefine ourselves: the price of boarding that train-i.e., the loss of ones own self-realization and the control of one's own being may not be worth an unassured, and as yet, an unrealized promise. As Malcolm X said, 'Once we can control our own communities now, then perhaps we will be able to control our own country, our own nations, and govern ourselves and in some way have control over our destiny."

Johnnella Butler

Photo by Jacqui Anderson

NUMMO is the magic power of the spoken and written word. With each word translated there escapes vapor. Vapor is a form of water. Water is necessary for the existance of all life forces on earth.

The Black News Service strongly believes that our newspaper will speak the truths of the protractive struggle of black people. Only through the truth can we, as a people develop a clear and precise knowledge of the world and its perplexities. When we receive knowledge, it is our duty to use it and share it with you, our fellow brothers and sisters.

It is through this exchange of written information which you, the people transfer the spoken word into power. Then together we will surely become the controllers of our creative life forces, our destiny.

"I am, because we are; and since we are, therefore I am."

NUMMO NOT ANTI-SEMITIC

There have been several references made accusing Nummo News of being an anti Semitic publication. This not only was in the Collegian as a result of the claims by the newly formed Jewish Faculty Interest Group, but also in the local and state papers and T.V. news. It claims these anti–Semitic articles and editorials regularly appear in the Collegian and Nummo News. Nummo News is only in the Collegian for distribution purposes and Collegian editorials have no relation to Nummo at all. That note is always in the Nummo News when Nummo appears.

On the issue of anti –Semitism the Nummo News staff has never allowed anti–Semitic articles in it, although it is constantly assailed as having done so.

The controversy started over a guest editorial that appeared in Nummo News November 20th 1978 by Northeastern University student, Tony Van Der Meer. The statement in question was that: "It was a credit to you that my mother and other mothers had to work downtown in some rich jew'shouse, scrubbing their floors and cleaning their shitty babies diapers." The "you" was referring not to Jews but to the white power structure here.

It is a historical fact that run–down, over–crowded conditions forced many a Black mother to work in rich suburban homes. Many suburbs encircling Black areas were predominantly Jewish. This is not a stereo–type it is a social reality. The Irish, Polish, Italian and W.A.S.P. suburbs wouldn't hire, for the most part, Blacks to clean garbage. The Jewish suburban communities were the only ones, generally, who would hire Black women, and the rate of pay for domestic work was equal to slave wages. Even today domestics are predominantly non white, non–unionized, un–insured and under–paid. In Roxbury, where Mr. Van Der Meer and myself come from this was the rule, not the exception. It is a mirror reflection of urban cities across the country.

However that is not what was at issue in the Collegian. Two days after Van Der Meer's article appeared Steven Feldman of the Student Senate responded. He said, in a letter to the editor that Nummo News should "redeem their integrity and apologize for contenancing the rampant anti–Semitism that regularly disgraces the pages of Nummo News." He further stated that "it is sad that Nummo News is predicated on spitting venom at the Jews, simply because such demagoguery may be discharged with impunity." On what basis is his response justified. What articles demonstrate that Nummo News is on a "crusade predicated on spitting venom at the Jew" I have collected every edition of Nummo News since September of 1977, and nothing that can be construed as anti–Semitic exists regularly or individually, amounting to a crusade against Jews. I consider such a claim to be a paranoid delusion based on an inability to accept non–Jews mentioning Jews in any context. The only articles that even mentions Jews indirectly, only refer to Israel and its oppression of Palestinians and their insensitive and inhumane covenant with apartheid in South Africa.

Here is what I feel is at issue. Out of all the editions of Nummo News only nine articles made reference to Jews. In reality there were no references to Jews, only to Zionist policies. October 17th 1977 there was an article concerning "Israel and South Africa's scheming." It outlined the support for racist South Africa that was one of the few nations to have an open agreement of support for Nazi Germany. It told how Israel promised to supply South Africa with new weapons and nuclear technology in exchange for uranium. This was not anti–Semitism, it is fact.

The New York Times February 10th, 1978 reported on the agreements in an article entitled "Israeli Tours South Africa as Arms Trade Furor Grows." The article reported that Israel's finance minister, Simcha Ehrlic toured South Africa to expand Israel's controversial trade there. It was controversial because it was in violation of the arms embargo. The International Institute for Strategic Studies reported that the military balance for 1976–77 shows that "South Africa's primary suppliers of arms were France and Israel." Other foregign reports quoted, state that Isreal delivered three Reshef-class, longer range naval vessels equipped with Isreal's Gabriel sea to sea missles. They cost $18 million a piece and three more are on order.

"The Economist" published that Israeli engineers developed a sensitive surveillance system with "sophisticated electronic detection equipment along South Africa's borders."

Israel's response to all this was that "Israel must be pragmatic because of its vulnerable economic situation, and cannot afford to rebuff overtures from any nation."

The Collegian itself reported a U.P.I. release concerning "Nuclear arsenal created by Israel's thefts of uranium." The article reported that the Israeli Intelligence Service set up four highjacking operations in 1968 netting 200 to 400 pounds of bomb grade uranium.

The next Nummo News report came November 7th, 1977, in which it printed "Palestine, the Arab Perspective." It reported the talk given by Halem Hussaini, November 2, to explain the hardly heard views of the Arabs in regards to the creation of the state of Israel.

The third came February 1st, 1978, it was a reprint from the Guardian on "Palestinians Exiled in Squalid Camps." It outlined the almost never heard of conditions of the two million people Israeli soldiers forced out of Palestine.

The fourth was an April 3rd, 1978, 4 inch by 5 inch inset by the Committee for the Defense of Lebanese and Palestinian People. It reported on the cluster bombing of Arab Palestinian and non Palestinian populations in the Rashideyeh refugee camp by Tyre, Lebanon. Israel claimed that it was a Palestinian commando camp. The commandos had left earlier having noted the imminent invasion. One hundred and sixty thousand people were made homeless, if refugee camps can be called homes. This occured on March 20th of 1978. The use of cluster bombs were confirmed by the State Department. It was in violation of a 1952 agreement between Israel and the U.S. that banned its use against civilian targets.

On April 3, 1979 Triumph of agression on the cluster bombing of Lebanese towns with Palestinian civilians refuges.

May 14, 1979, Nkruma Olinga– "The mass media has gotten out of control. The media victimized poor Jews as well because Jews do not control the total output of the mass media, even the New York Times." Sept 21, 1979 James Lewis – "Black–Jewish Rift a very Serious Problem" the basic issues over the rift, the long standing relationship between Blacks and Jews the attack on affirmative action, desegregation, and wondering over how much influence Jews have over the ruling class on matters relating to Israel. Also Steve Klein writes an apology for unwarrented attack on the credibility of Third World Students i.e, Black Affairs

Sept 24, Ethiopia's Black Jews–on their impending doom, isolation, and repression.

Nov 5, Anti People– the spying and surveillance of American Jews by Israeli Government. Taleb Bizri. He's a Zionist an anti–Zionist article that labels the "Masters of the Media pamplet as anti–Jewish and likens it to saying all Germans are to blame for Nazi crimes.

To criticize Israel to these critics is anti–Semitic and herein lies the problem. They consider a criticism of Zionism as anti–Jewish. However millions of Jews don't condone or accept the form of Zionism that established the state of Israel.

The "Jewish Guardian" makes this quite clear in its letter to Kurt Waldheim, signed by Neturei Karta of Brooklyn, November7, 1975. November 14, 1975. November 14, 1975 Elmer Berger, President of American Jewish Alternatives to Zionism Inc. noted the false accusation with more than adequate documentation. He was joined by Lessing Rosenwald, Morris Cohen, Judah Magnes and Albert Einstein (see "Decadence of Judaism In OUR Times"). and the American Council for Judaism. Zionism is a political ideology of a segment of the Jewish population.

They totally disregarded the Peace Now movement in Israel, which is made up entirely of Israeli citizens, many of who are former army officers. They were all decorated for bravery and recieved Israel's highest awards. On May 12th, 1978 they opposed Begin and Dyan referring to them as the "highest form of Terrorist." A month before they lined the streets of Tel–Aviv to petition the government to make peace and presented 50,000 signatures. They are of course ignored.

The claims of anti –Semitism against Nummo News is entirely unfounded and amounts to libelous, unsubstanciated accusations. It has never been the policy of Nummo News to print any anti–Semitic articles or editorials. Those claiming to be concerned about human rights' might take the aforementioned facts into consideration. They are also welcomed to secure and appointment at the Office of Third World Affairs to review every issue of Nummo to check the validity of this claim.

Tony Crayton

What Is a Semite?

The recent allegations of anti Semitism lodge against Nummo News and the Collegian by the Jewish Faculty Intrest Group, have prompted Nummo to rebutt these allegations. We feel that these allegations are unfounded and incorrect.

The criticism of Nummo being anti Semitic is devoid of a basic fact. Jewish people are not the only Semitic peoples of the world, as explained in the definition above. As that definition states, Arabs are also Semitic. We have not been labelled as anti Semitic by Saudi Arabians, Syrians, Lebanese, Palestinians, or other Semitic by these people? Because we are not anti Semitic. It is only the small number of Jewish faculty and students who attempt to give us this label. If any criticism is to directed to us or the writers of the articles by this group, it should be that we are anti Judaism. However this criticism is also unfair in view of the fact that we have not criticized Jewish people as a whole. The articles that have appeared in the paper this semester have been critical of Zionism not Judaism. This distinction has been made by our staff. We realize that not all Jews are Zionist, just like not all whites are members of the Ku Klux Klan, or Democrats.

We feel that there is an attempt by certain members of the Jewish community to equate Zionism with Judaism and thus criticism against Zionism is also criticism against all Jewish people. This attempt to equate Zionism with Judaism is a hedious cover to promote one group's political ideals as those of an entire group of people. This should not be the case.

We hope in the future that the Jewish Faculty Intrest Group will not accuse Nummo of being anti Semitic, when we are not, and will further investigate, the proper use of this term.

NUMMO NEWS

SEMITE/ n:

A MEMBER OF A GROUP OF PEOPLES (AS THE JEWS OR ARABS) OF SOUTHWESTERN ASIA

THE MERRIAM-WEBSTER DICTIONARY

FORD CHARGED WITH DISCRIMINATION

Saying that Ford Motor Company of South Africa still practices some of the racially discriminatory policies it has pledged to abolish, African workers have called for the U.S. parent company to investigate their complaints.

In Port Elizabeth, where Ford's $250 million manufacturing facities are located, 700 African employees were fired after refusing over labor practices and race relations.

At the same time, workers at the nearby General Tire plant went on strike to demand that the company recognize the United Auto, Rubber and Allied Workers Union, the black union which represents Ford's African workers. General Tire refused and fired 625 strikers. (The South African company was founded by the Akron, Ohio-based corporation with the same name, but the U.S. parent sold its 27 percent stake in September.)

The new wave of labor protests have not been limited to American-related firms. Monis and Fattis, a South African bakery giant, recently rehired 50 black workers after an eight-month consumer boycott initiated by the black Food and Canning Workers Union and supported by black Shop keepers in many parts of the country.

A Dutch subsidiary, Dura Construction, also agreed to workers' demands after unions in Holland supported the South Africans' cause.

The dispute at Ford was prompted by the resignation in October of Thozamile Botha, a supervisor at one Ford plant who is also head of Ford management said Botha was asked to quit because of absence from his job; his fellow workers charged that the action was taken because of Botha's political activism.

For many observers, the incident is proof that politics and labor relations in South Africa are closely interwoven. "Black workers' political frustrations will be vented on the factory floor until their political aspirations are satisfied," says a Chamber of Commerce official Brian Matthews.

But the workers have specific grievances against Ford. They say the company still reserves the best jobs for whites, does not pay the various races equally, and does not promote good race relations in the plants.

After the initial protest, and reportedly because of pressure from corporate headquarters in Detroit, Ford agreed to take Botha back. Then, the company agreed to pay the black workers for the three days of work they missed while on strike.

That angered white workers, who said they had worked those days for their regular pay. One white foreman was quoted saying that blacks had abused and dirtied the plant's integrated snack facilities. The blacks demanded an apology. When they struck again, Ford gave them a deadline, then dismissed them for not returning to work.

ZAMBIA BLAMES BRITAIN FOR RAIDS

With a Rhodesian blockade starving his country, Zambian President Kaunda has harsh words for Britain.

Rhodesian attacks on neighboring Zambia have further pulverized that landlocked country's transport system, leading Zambian President Kenneth Kaunda to declare a state of war and full mobilization on November 20. The mobilization will more than double the Zambian army of some 12,000, but it is unlikely to offer an effective counter to the well-equipped and experienced Rhodesian troops.

Following the October destruction of rail and road bridges on the northern route to Tanzania, the latest series of raids, beginning in mid-November, has destroyed twelve more bridges along vital supply and communications arteries which link Zambia's capital to outlying provinces and neighboring countries. Practically the only land connection still open is the railroad south through Rhodesia, and since early November Zimbabwe-Rhodesian authorities have barred the shipment of Zambia's staple food, maize, along that route from South Africa. (Other imports, and exports of copper, are apparently still permitted.)

President Kaunda and the other leaders of 'front-line states' who support the Patriotic Front guerrillas have played an important role in facilitating negotiations among the British, the Salisbury government and the Patriotic Front, and some observers have seen the latest attacks as an effort to force the Patriotc Front to withdraw, leaving the way open for an agreement between Britain and Salisbury alone. But the momentum of the talks in London, now in their fourth month, is probably too great for even such an escalation to derail them. Having reached agreement on a constitution and transitional arrangements, all parties are under pressure to conclude the details of cease-fire negotiations.

The scale of destruction, however-one diplomat commented simply that Zambia "had been raped"-has increased bitterness and suspicion directed not only at the government of Zimbabwe-Rhodesia but also at Britain. President Kaunda has repeatedly denounced Britain for complicity in the attacks, while his Foreign Minister Wilson Chakulya termed the former colonial power "a spineless hyena with no political morals when it comes to supporting the white race." When the British High Commissioner in Zambia replied to Kaunda saying Britain would take no responsibility for damage inflicted by the Salibury regime, thousands of youths gathered on two successive days to attack the High Commission building with stones and chants slogans.

The Zambian government, which has maintained close ties with Britain since independence in 1964, has been progressively disillusioned by evidence that the British themselves have been among the leading violators of United Nations-imposed sanctions against the regime in Salisbury, which unilaterally declared independence under white-minority rule in 1965. Zambia is currently claiming $3.25 billion in damages from Western oil companies, including the state-owned British Petroleum, for legally supplying oil to Rhodesia since 1965. And now fresh reports surfacing in Britain, and evidence being gathered for the United Nations Security Council Committee on Sanctions, indicates a long history of close cooperation on military matters between the Rhodesian government and several British agencies.

Articles appearing in the British People's News Service and the Leveller, for example, spelled out a number of personal ties betwen British and Rhodesian Special Air Service (SAS) units. The Rhodesian SAS, which has carried out a number of raids on Zambia and Mozambique, is said to include significant numbers of former British officers and continues recruitment in Britain.

Most damaging, however, are the charges soon to be presented at the United Nations, that one of the "main channels" for violation of the arms embargo on Rhodesia has been a network of companies centered in Bristow Helicopters and Airwork Services Ltd., subsidiaries of British and Commonwealth Shipping of London, which have extensive international interests and close ties with the United Kingdom Ministry of Defense. These companies, it is alleged, have played a major role in raising Rhodesia's combat aircraft capacity from 44 aircraft in 1975 to 262 at persent, as well as providing training and maintenance services for both the Rhodesian and South African air forces.

The Airwork group dates from the establishment of a flying school in 1928, later banching out into aircraft maintenance, civil air transport (largely on government contracts), and eventually troop transport and other services for the British Ministry of Defense and other governments. The ties are so close, one investigator concludes, that the Airwork companies "have in effect been a branch of the Ministry of Defense," and "a miniature defense department."

Among the specific allegations, said to be but a small part of the total picture:

•Airwork, through associated companies Rhodesia United Air Carriers and Airwork Service Lid, of Salisbury, as well as Technical Support Services of Johnnesburg, has recruited skilled maintenance personnel for the Rhodesian Air Force, and operates facilities at the Air Force Flying Training School at Dunnottar in the Transvaal.

•Airwork plays a major role in the operations of the British-backed Oman Air Force, where the ruling Sultan has carried on a longstanding war against leftist guerrillas. In the autumn of 1978, according to New African magazine, Rhodesian officers attended a helicopter training course in Oman, probably without the knowledge of the Amani government, and almost certainly with the participation of Airwork personnel.

•On October 24 Airwork affiliate Bristow Helicopters placed an order through the U.S.-based Airwork Division of Purex for five CH-47 helicopters placed from the U.S. firm Boeing. The Chinooks have a capacity for 44 troops or heavy military cargo. Although published reports say the helicopters will be used in North Sea oil operations, investigators maintain that the aircraft are scheduled to be transfered to Rhodesia after Airwork Division takes delivery of them. A subsidiary of Purex since 1968, Airwork Division has close ties with the international Airwork group and operates a trading and maintenance business in Milvill, New Jersey. If sanctions are lifted by the time of the transaction, this deal would not be illegal.

In light of such charges, as well as veiled South African threats to intervene should "chaos" threaten Rhodesian via a Patriotic Front victory, both the guerrillas and the front-line states are fearful that a cease-fire breakdown could be the opportunity for an all-out assault on regrouped and more vulnerable guerrilla units. The Front, however, has few alternatives to getting the maximum guarantees possible and then taking that chance.

LESOTHO LEFTISTS FLEE TO SOUTH AFRICA In an ironic twist of history, members of the Basotho Congress Party (BCP) on the run from Lesotho police have been seeking refuge in South Africa. One white farmer reported that uniformed police "hunted like dogs" the 19 BCP members he had temporarily sheltered.

In 1970, South Africa backed Prime Minister Leabua Jonathan, who held onto power even though his party apparently lost the election to the BCP. Now, the south African authorities are allowing the refugees to stay and officials have said they may set up a camp to house them.

The Lestho government has denied reports of killings and has accused South Africa of aiding BCP infiltration. The BCP, whose leadership has been exiled since an unsuccessful uprising in 1974, has been blamed by the government for a recent series of bombings and sabotage attempts.

Lestho remains ecnomically dependent on South Africa, but Jonathan has ruffled his powerful neighbor in recent years by adding Lesotho's voice to anti-apartheid declarations in international forums.

New Moroccan military unit set to chase Polisario even into Algeria and Mauritania

For the first time since the Saharan war started in 1975, morocco has established a military unit that will chase Polisario guerrillas into Algeria. The unit consists of 7,000 men and is supported by tanks and armoured cars.

The move by Morocco, known as Operation Uhud, is an attempt to curtail Polisario's freedom of movement and to eventually reoccupy garrisons previously taken by Polisario.

